NOTE FROM THE DEAN

Welcome, everyone!

Since joining Anderson last Spring, I've become more and more impressed with the hard work and the many resulting achievements of Anderson students, faculty, and staff. I can sum up those observations in one phrase: Anderson Works.

Anderson students work hard in classes, clubs, sports, and jobs. Anderson faculty work hard to determine and deliver the knowledge and skills that students need, and faculty work hard to create new knowledge through research. Staff work hard to ensure that we all have the tools and processes we need for success.

With all of this work to accomplish, we must make sure that our methods are efficient and effective. If you come across any aspect of Anderson that could work better, please give us your ideas for improvement. We'll soon have a Web mechanism to gather your input, but in the meantime send me a note.

[Wohlert@mgt.unm.edu]

I want us all to be able to say that "Anderson Works!"

Submitted by John Benavidez

A team of MBA students from Anderson competed in the Cadillac National Case Study Competition May 23. Judged by a panel of Cadillac executives and members of Cadillac's marketing agency, Modernista, the UNM team placed second behind Virginia Commonwealth University. It was the third consecutive year a UNM team has participated in the competition held each year in Detroit.

The Anderson MBA team included students Heba Almasri, Kristina Knight, Dimitri Pavlakos, and Grant Price (pictured right). Anderson Lecturer John Benavidez mentored the team. Other students from Benavidez's class also attended the event. The project was conducted as part of Benavidez's Marketing Communications Management class.

FAST INFO

Have a question? Ask it at <http://fastinfo.unm.edu> and we'll try our best to answer it here.

Question: I want to enroll in a management class that's closed, so can I yellow card in?

Answer: Anderson has a specific process for yellow cards:

1. Request a yellow card at the Advisement Center, fill in the appropriate information and leave it at the front desk.
2. Within 24 hours, a BBA advisor will review the card to make sure you have completed the proper prerequisites for the course. If you have, the card will be stamped on the back.
3. Come back to pick up the card and take it to the instructor of the closed class. The instructor will check to make sure the back has been stamped and will sign it if there is room for you in the course.
4. Take the stamped, signed card to UNM Records and Registration at the Student Services Center and they will enroll you in the course.

Please be aware that Finance course instructors will not sign yellow cards, so the Advisement Center will not stamp yellow cards for enrollment in courses from this area, including MGT 326. Yellow carding for other MGMT courses is at the discretion of the instructor. You may want to contact the instructor prior to the beginning of the semester to see if he/she will sign a yellow card.

The Anderson Bulletin is published on Monday's. Deadline for inclusion is Wednesday at noon; send complete information to news@mgt.unm.edu or submit online at <http://www.mgt.unm.edu/bulletin/submitContent.asp>.
