UNM News Minute #275 – Aug. 3, 2005

1. UNM HOSPITAL has been named one of the most-wired hospitals and health systems in the U.S. for the second consecutive year and three years total. The accolade is based on a national hospital survey that measures the use of information technology (IT) to accomplish key goals, including safety and quality, customer service, business processes, workforce and public health and safety, according to the American Hospital Association.
