About the Authors

HANK JENKINS-SMITH, Coordinating Editor

Mr. Jenkins-Smith is currently Director of the UNM Institute for Public Policy, and is on the faculty of the UNM Political Science Department. He was formerly a policy analyst for the U.S. Department of Energy, and an assistant professor at Southern Methodist University. Mr. Jenkins-Smith received his B.A. from Linfield College, and his Ph.D. from the University of Rochester.

MICHAEL NAEVE

Mr. Naeve was appointed by President Reagan to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for a term expiring October 20, 1989. Previously he held the posts of Vice President of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, and was Manager, Federal Public Affairs, for Aminoil USA. Mr. Naeve holds a B.S. in mechanical engineering from the University of Texas, a M.A. in public affairs from the LBJ School of Public Affairs, and a J.D. from George Washington University.

ANDREA K. WALDMAN

Ms. Waldman currently works for the U.S. Department of Energy's Office of International Affairs in the area of international gas issues. She has also worked in DOE's Office of Oil and Gas Policy, and was actively involved in producing analysis supporting the comprehensive natural gas decontrol legislation proposed by the Reagan Administration in April 1986, as well as the analysis supporting FERC Order 451. Ms. Waldman holds a B.A. from Bowdoin College, and an M.P.P. degree from Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government.

JOAN T. ELLIS

Ms. Ellis is the staff attorney for telecommunications for the New Mexico State Corporation Commission, and a former member of the New Mexico Public Service Commission. Prior to holding that position, she worked in a variety of government and private industry positions. Ms. Ellis holds a B.A. degree in biology from the College of Mount St. Joseph, and a J.D. from the UNM Law School.

RICHARD O. BAISH

Mr. Baish is currently Vice-President and Associate General Counsel for El Paso Natural Gas Company, with responsibility for Federal and State regulatory compliance—including supply, sales, transportation, exchange, and commercial litigation. Mr. Baish holds a B.A. degree in government from the University of Texas, and a J.D. from the University of Texas Law School.

ZAN JAMES

Mr. James is Vice-President of Marketing for the Natural Gas Company of New Mexico. He was formerly Vice-President of Rates and Regulatory Affairs with United Gas Pipeline. Mr. James holds a B.B.A. in accounting from the University of Georgia, a M.B.A. from the University of Texas at Austin, and degrees in Program Management Development and Corporation Planning and Control from the Harvard Business School.

MICHAEL B. CAMPBELL

Mr. Campbell, a partner in the Santa Fe law firm of Campbell and Black, is currently involved in litigation with both intrastate and interstate pipeline companies concerning the interpretation of natural gas purchase contracts. The firm of Campbell and Black limits its practice to representing major and independent natural gas producers in both regulatory and judicial forums.

ALVIN BACA

Mr. Baca is Executive Director of the Independent Petroleum Association of New Mexico. He is also Chairman of the Balance of State Private Industry Council, a member of the Regulatory Committee of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, and former Assistant to the Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors to the University of New Mexico. Mr. Baca holds a B.S. degree from the University of Tulsa.

JON WELLINGHOFF

Mr. Wellinghoff was appointed Consumer Advocate of the state of Nevada in 1981. His duties consist of representing ratepayers of Nevada's utilities before the Nevada Public Service Commission and federal agencies. Prior to his present position, he served as Staff Attorney in charge of solar energy programs for the Federal Trade Commission; Staff Counsel, Consumer Subcommittee, U.S. Senate Commerce Committee; and Administrative Assistant, Public Service Commission of Nevada. Mr. Wellinghoff holds a B.S. degree in mathematics from the University of Nevada at Reno, a M.A. degree in math from Howard University, and a J.D. from the Antioch School of Law.

SUEDEEN KELLY

Ms. Kelly is currently on the faculty of the UNM Law School, and is a former Chairman of the New Mexico Public Service Commission. Ms. Kelly has also held positions with the New Mexico Attorney General's Office and the Natural Resources Defense Council. She earned a B.A. in chemistry from the University of Rochester, and a J.D. from Cornell Law School.
