Where is IPE going?

Barriers In IPE in UNM

- Accreditation islands
- How do we account for IPE experiences
- Siloed
- Cultural differences with programs
- Schedules
- Lack of common goals within programs
- Buy-in from students
- Number of students
- Little interaction between students in different programs
- Physical barriers (being separated)

- Different admission times
- Finding facilitators for IPE
- Lack of experienced faculty
- Stigmas and preconceptions about professions
- Different levels of learners
- Roles we each play (between different programs)
- Lack of authenticity in the curriculum
- Not always a priority
- Time consuming for learners
- Variable quality of the IPE experience
- Identifying potential collaborators

Stages of IPE Competency Development for Students

Introduction (Early training)	Immersion (Mid training)	Competence (End of training)
Communicate one's own roles and responsibilities to patients, families and other professionals	Communicate with other team members to clarify each member's responsibility in executing components of the treatment plan	Use the full scope of knowledge, skills and abilities of health professionals to provide care that is safe, effective, cost efficient, timely and equitable.
