Join us for a presentation with photographer and journalist Joseph Sorrentino as he shares his recent findings from field research in Mexico. It’s estimated that 400,000 people flee the extreme violence of the Northern Triangle countries of Guatemala, Honduras and El Salvador each year, passing through Mexico on their way to the U.S. This journey can only be described as horrific. The presentation will cover three projects Sorrentino did in Mexico in 2012, 2015 and 2016. Photographs and refugees’ own words will show what the journey is like and how U.S. pressure on Mexico has worsened conditions for refugees.
