CORONA DEMOCRATS ALIVE.

The democrats of precinct No. 13 met at Corona last Saturday and organized a democratic club. W. T. Crabtree was elected president and J. L. Tipton secretary. The club began its existence with about fifty members, and expects to increase this number to one hundred before the campaign is over. The name chosen is the "Larrazolo Democratic Club of Corona." Speeches were made by local democrats, and great interest and enthusiasm were manifested. Precinct No. 13 will have quite a large vote in November, the increase being due to the immigration from the states. Most of the new comers are from Texas and Oklahoma, and there is little question as to what they will do on election day.

MASONIC MEETING.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Masonic brethren of Carrizozo and vicinity was held at the law office of Barber & Gierke on Wednesday evening, for the purpose of discussing the advisability of organizing a lodge at this point. White Oaks, Oscura and other neighboring towns were well represented. After a thorough discussion of details it was decided to proceed at once with organization and fifteen of those present signified their intention of becoming members of the new Carrizozo lodge. The prospects of the new lodge are bright, and from assurances received the membership will soon increase to 30 or 40 members.

A GOOD PROPOSITION.

Leroy Lamay and Joe Cochran, of Nogal, have been at work for several weeks on their mining claim, located in the mountain seven miles south of Carrizozo. It is, as far as developed, a free-milling proposition, and the indications are said to be exceptionally good, and becoming better with depth. About two years ago while doing the annual work on this claim, they uncovered a small pocket, and in a few hours panned from the gravel about two ounces of coarse gold. Since that time they have uncovered several rich spots, which yielded large pannings. The character of the ore, or deposit, is talc or decomposed porphyry, and is low grade, running four to six dollars to the ton, but the ground being studded with rich spots would mean a much higher average. It is what is known as a blanket formation, easy to work, and, with suitable machinery, the cost of treating the ore, would not exceed $1.50 a ton, which would net the owners a fortune in a very short time. This promising prospect is located on the side of the mountain south of Carrizozo, and within eye-shot of the town. That mountain would stand prospecting, and some tenderfoot is liable to jog along there some day and discover the mother lode. Luck seems to favor the green prospector anyway.

THEY WENT IN A SPECIAL.

Judge Mann and a party of boomers passed through Carrizozo Saturday night, en route from Alamogordo to Santa Fe, in a special car. They were joined here by the Lincoln delegation. It was a lively crowd, and if Judge Mann had had a few more such crowds he would have stormed the republican convention at Santa Fe and captured the nomination for delegate to congress. Unfortunately for the Judge, and perhaps for the territory, the fates decreed otherwise, and they returned as they went—in the special car.

Play Ball!

The Fort Stanton and Carrizozo ball teams will meet, as announced in last week's News, with a slight variation as to the dates. Two games have been arranged, as follows: the first on the Capitan diamond tomorrow afternoon, and the second at Fort Stanton the next morning, Sunday, as soon as it can be pulled off. The Carrizozo boys will drive to Capitan Saturday morning, and expect to return Sunday evening. The Stanton team will come to Carrizozo next week, possibly, and play two games on the Carrizozo diamond. These should be good games and worth going to see.

William M. Lane Killed.

A telegram was received from Santa Rosa Wednesday night, stating that William M. Lane had been killed near there that day by an explosion of dynamite. Mr. Lane was engaged in drilling a well for an oil company, and is supposed to have been "shooting" the well when the fatal accident occurred. The deceased formerly resided in this county, coming here many years ago, but the past three or four years he had been sinking wells up and down the line for the railroad company, and just recently began drilling for oil near Santa Rosa. He is survived by a wife and two children, who live here, and two brothers, Allen and Johnnie Lane, at White Oaks. Other relatives, until a few years ago residents of White Oaks, now live in California.

England's Task in India.

Rightly to appreciate the nature of England's task we must first free our minds from the common impression that India is like China, for instance, one great nationality, declares James M. Hubbard in the Atlantic. It is a continent rather than a country, larger than all Europe with the exception of Russia, and having all the continental varieties of surface and climate from the perpetual snows of the Himalayas to the tropical plains of Madras. Of the diversities of the inhabitants one may form some conception from the fact that the traveler from Bombay to Calcutta passes in a thousand miles through a region inhabited by peoples differing more in race, religion and habits of life than he sees in going twice the distance from Constantinople to London. The Indians are divided into 14 distinct races, speaking 147 different languages and dialects, and are separated as much by creeds and customs as by mountain ranges, vast forests, trackless deserts and great rivers. Some idea of the extent of what may be termed their political divisions may be gained from the fact that in addition to the 259 districts or units of administration in the provinces under the direct control of the English there are 680 native or feudatory states under their own rulers, varying in extent from a few square miles to a territory larger than Great Britain. While on the 5,700 miles of frontier separating Indian from Afghanistan and Central Asia live hundreds of wild tribes given to hereditary rapine.

Another instance of refusal to serve a man wearing the uniform of the United States navy has come to light, this time in a Philadelphia restaurant. The occurrence of such episodes is not only much to be deplored, but is puzzling, says the Philadelphia Ledger. One is impelled to ask for what reason the wearer of a uniform, indicating his connection with an honorable service, is subject to slight and insult? The right of the keeper of a public house to exclude from his premises any disorderly person is not questioned. His right to exclude the well-behaved sailor or marine should be questioned sharply. The physical and moral requirements of candidates for the navy are so high that the successful applicants make up a superior body of citizens. The manner in which they conduct themselves was shown in the cruise of the Atlantic fleet.

Most of the recent news about Venezuela has not been pleasant reading. Here is an exception. La Guaira, a Venezuelan town, was stricken with bubonic plague. Short-sighted "business interests" required that the news be suppressed. The board of health drew up a document declaring the sanitary condition of the town to be perfect, and asked the foreign consuls to sign it. The American consul had backbone enough to refuse to lie. A Venezuelan physician who reported cases of the plague was put in jail for so doing. But thanks to him and the American, the truth could not be suppressed, and the town was quarantined by the Venezuelan government.

In Brooklyn a court has solemnly enjoined two goats from eating a fruit tree. And this is where the majesty of the law is going to find itself on the horns of a dilemma.

A WORRISOME WEED.

It is an Annual Plant, But Hard to Get Rid Of.

The common name is chickweed. The botanical name is Alaine media in Briton, and Brown's Illustrated Flora; but in Gray's Manual it is Stellaria media. It is a pernicious weed, but so often neglected and omitted from lists of troublesome weeds, probably because of its small size and inability to prove very destructive to larger cultivated plants. It is an annual plant, and in theory annual plants can be exterminated in one season by preventing them from producing a crop of seeds by which to perpetuate themselves.

In the case of this plant, however, the theory is not easily applied, says Country Gentleman, because of the peculiar characters of the pest. It is very hardy, rapid in its development, tenacious of life, persistent, and quite unobtrusive and harmless in appearance. Late or autumnal seedlings live through the winter, and in regions of mild, open winters they begin to flower and mature seeds even in February or March, before we are likely to think they need attention. The sample sent has a few dry, empty seed vessels on it. Others are yet green and unopened. There are also flowers and unopened buds, so that seed production may yet continue a long time in plants of the same age as this sample. Indeed, seed production may continue till freezing weather stops it in November or December. If the plants are dug up or plowed out and left on the ground they are likely to renew their growth unless they are put in piles and destroyed, or unless a prolonged period of dry, hot weather should deprive them of life.

Plowing infested fields in fall and seeding with rye or winter wheat may help keep it in check, or plowing early in spring and planting with some crop which shall receive frequent and thorough cultivation will not only destroy the young seedlings that may spring up, but will check seed production in the older plants. Spraying with a solution of sulphate of iron or copperas, one and one-half to two pounds to a gallon of water, has been used with success in subduing this weed. It should be applied in dry, clear weather.

HELPFUL HINTS.

He helps the Lord who helps the land.

If you take our advice you will not try to seed grass with millet.

A western city proposes a fine of $10 for every chicken allowed to run at large. What a paradise for garden lovers!

CARING FOR FRUITS.

Annual Waste in Orchards Should Be Prevented.

Very great is the annual loss in the waste of fruits. It is a common thing for farmers to say when we try to sell them a bill of trees: "The ground is covered with apples now." "I had bushels of cherries that were never picked." "My plums rotted on the trees by thousands."

It is here that the waste is manifested; and waste is the cause of most of our poverty. "Waste not, want not," is a fine old maxim.

It is not always the sign of a good farmer to be too busy with corn and wheat and hogs to take care of the apples, writes Walter S. Smith in Indiana Farmer. Lee McDaniel of my own neighborhood boasted that he had never had a visitation of hog cholera on his farm. He raked up the fallen apples every morning and wheeled them out to the hogs. This was done as long as they dropped off prematurely. After they matured, many that fell off were good for use in some other way; then he assorted them and gave his hogs only the bad ones.

This plan worked a double advantage. First, it regulated the natural processes of digestion and assimilation in the swine. Second, it transported millions of insect eggs away from their field of mischief, and reduced the amount of damage. Then it kept the ground clear, so that when the better class of apples began to fall they were more easily attended to. Of course, judgment is required to know when the fruit will do to pick; and when it will do, picking should begin, thus to put an end to the falling of the fruit.

If there is a good cushion of grass for the apples to fall on, many of them fall without bruising, and are fully equal to picked apples.

WAGON END BOARD.

How It Can Be Easily Made in Two Sections.

To make a breaking end board as shown in the accompanying illustration, use a board the width and length of an endgate and with a compass saw cut as shown by the curved line at A, B and C are hinges which are placed on the inside of the board so that the gate opens outward. D and E are the usual cleats fastened across the ends to strengthen them. F is a piece of one-eighth by three-fourths-inch strap iron attached with screws so the tail piece can be opened only one way. G is put through a hole bored at H from the inside and fastened with screws, while I and J screw on the outer end. It is not necessary to remove the tail screw entirely to open the gate, says the Prairie Farmer. To loosen it turn the button sideways and the gate will open.

A Gambling Cure.

Some years ago there was an extraordinary outbreak of gambling in Russian Manchuria. Men spent all their days playing games of chance and work was utterly neglected. The authorities tried fines and imprisonment in vain. At last they made a new decree, and the next batch of gamblers were sentenced to wear iron rings riveted round their necks. The result was splendid. Gambling ceased as if by magic.

NOT EVE'S FAULT THAT TIME.

Childish Realism Instilled Into Story of Garden of Eden.

Realism rules the nursery. A certain Philadelphia matron, who had taken pains to inculcate Biblical stories as well as ethical truths in her three children, heard, the other day, long drawn howls of rage and grief filtering down from the playroom. Up two flights she hurried, to find on the floor Jack and Ethel, voices uplifted. Thomas, aged nine, sat perched upon the table, his mouth full and his eyes guilty.

"Whatever is the matter?" asked mamma.

"Be-o-o!" came from Ethel; "we were playing Garden of Eden. Be-o-o!" "But what is there to cry about?"

Then Jack, with furious finger pointing at Tom, ejaculated through his tears: "God's eat the apple!"—Bohemian Magazine.

DIFFERENT NOW

Athlete Finds Better Training Food.

It was formerly the belief that to become strong, athletes must eat plenty of meat.

This is all out of date now, and many trainers feed athletes on the well-known food, Grape-Nuts, made of wheat and barley, and cut the meat down to a small portion once a day.

"Three years ago," writes a Michigan man, "having become interested in athletics, I found I would have to stop eating pastry and some other kinds of food."

"I got some Grape-Nuts, and was soon eating the food at every meal, for I found that when I went on the track, I felt more lively and active."

"Later, I began also to drink Postum in place of coffee, and the way I gained muscle and strength on this diet was certainly great. On the day of a field meet in June I weighed 124 lbs. On the opening of the football season in Sept., I weighed 140. I attribute my fine condition and good work to the discontinuation of improper food and coffee, and the using of Grape-Nuts and Postum, my principal diet during training season being Grape-Nuts."

"Before I used Grape-Nuts I never felt right in the morning—always kind of 'out of sorts' with my stomach. But now when I rise I feel good, and after a breakfast largely of Grape-Nuts with cream, and a cup of Postum, I feel like a new man." "There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

NEW SECRETARY OF WAR

Gen. Luke E. Wright, who has succeeded William H. Taft as secretary of war, was until quite recently a Democrat. He got his military title in active service, when he was attorney-general of the state of Tennessee for eight years. He clinched his right to the appellation later, when he became governor-general of the Philippines. In that place, also, he succeeded Mr. Taft, the latter having been called home to Washington to follow Secretary Root in the cabinet.

Gen. Wright is much the Roosevelt style of man—outspoken, fearless, energetic and given to doing things. He comes of a family that has long been identified with the important history of Tennessee, in church, state and military affairs. His father was chief justice of that state, and the son naturally leaned toward the same profession. He served as a private in the confederate army, and returning to his own state settled down in the practice of law. He has been associated with some of the leading lawyers of the south.

In 1900 he was appointed a member of the Philippine commission by President McKinley. Three years later he was made president of the commission, and only laid down that work when he was made civil governor of the islands in 1904. His promotion to governor-general came close on the heels of that appointment. Two years later he resigned and was made minister to Japan, being this country's first ambassador to the land of the cherry-blossom. He resigned in 1907. Since that time he has been practicing law in Memphis and giving attention to his newspaper interests, being part owner of the Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

SEEKS SENATORIAL TOGA

George B. Cox, "boss" of Cincinnati, who has made his rule in political affairs within his jurisdiction as absolute as that of Tammany in New York, is within view, it is said, of the fulfillment of his life's ambition. In other words, he is preparing to become a candidate for United States senator to succeed Joseph Benson Foraker, and with every reasonable prospect of success.

In the Cincinnati neighborhood Cox is hated by the reformers in the political field, feared by the opposition, courted by the personally ambitious and respected by the practical politicians who know a clever boss when they see one. He has made senators, governors, legislators, mayors and aldermen for years with great ease, yet he has never been able to secure an elective office for himself better than that of alderman.

Starting in life as a poor lad, a newsboy, a bootblack, a saloonkeeper, Cox has become a rich man without losing any of his democratic instincts or manners. He is as approachable, as regardless of fashion or social standing, as he was in his days of poverty. He is an autocrat now, sought by governors and United States senators, but never seeking them. He has a few ideas, too, concerning political affairs which one would never expect to find in a real political boss. For instance, he believes in a non-partisan police force for Cincinnati. He believes in never making a promise which he does not expect to fulfill. He believes in saying nothing rather than telling an untruth. He believes in according absolutely fair treatment to even his most bitter enemy and in an open fight.

For a number of years George B. has secretly cherished the ambition to go to Washington as a senator from Ohio.

FRIEND OF CLEVELAND

E. Cornelius Benedict, who is the head of a successful banking house in New York, although his home is in Greenwich, Conn., has several claims to the interest of the readers of newspapers and students of events. One is that he was perhaps the closest personal friend and most intimate confidant of the late ex-President Grover Cleveland, although he never held a public office and could not be induced to accept one.

He was one of the little group of intimates whom the late executive gathered about him at various times during the last quarter century of his life, and whose affections he held, even while he was being attacked and abused in the partisan newspapers and from the radical stump. The late Joseph Jefferson was another member of the little company, and his sweet, lovable character seemed to form a fitting complement to the dogged, driving force of the other. Then there were Daniel Manning, who was his private secretary, and later a member of the cabinet, Wilson S. Bissell, who was made postmaster general. But of the lot probably the two dearest associates of the former president in his rest or play hours, when he loved to turn his back upon all the harrowing affairs of state and take to nature's dooryard with his fishing rod or gun, were these two—Benedict and Jefferson.

Both were ardent fishermen and Mr. Benedict is in addition an enthusiastic yachtsman. He frequently took the former president out in his boat, and on other occasions the pair would go for a day's fishing, the one man putting behind him all thought of the worries and responsibilities of place and power, while the other forgot for the time being the jingling of the guinea and the low rumble of the ascending interest.

A Sure Remedy.

A young man who experienced much trouble in managing a head of hair which manifested an unpleasant inclination to stand on end, wrote to a weekly paper for a plan by which his troubles would be at least lessened.

He was given the following recipe: "One part molasses, three parts beeswax, four parts india rubber, four parts glue, 12 raw eggs; boil on a slow fire for two hours and 15 minutes, and while cooling stir in enough cod liver oil to make the mixture slab and good. Apply hot, and while gradually cooling pass a lawn mower back and forth over the head."

We didn't take it.

TWO CURES OF ECZEMA

Baby Had Severe Attack—Grandfather Suffered Torments with It—Owe Recovery to Cuticura.

"In 1884 my grandson, a babe, had an attack of eczema, and after trying the doctors to the extent of heavy bills and an increase of the disease and suffering, I recommended Cuticura and in a few weeks the child was well. He is to-day a strong man and absolutely free from the disease. A few years ago I contracted eczema, and became an intense sufferer. A whole winter passed without once having on shoes, nearly from the knees to the toes being covered with virulent sores. I tried many doctors to no purpose. Then I procured the Cuticura Remedies and found immediate improvement and final cure. M. W. LaRue, 845 Seventh St., Louisville, Ky., Apr. 23 and May 14, '07."

The Expensive Part.

"Does it cost much to live in the city?" asked the old lady from the small village.

"O, no," replied her city nephew, "it doesn't cost any more to live in the city than it does in the country, but it costs three times as much to keep up appearances."—Chicago News.

ANDREWS TAKES IT.

Just one ballot—that was sufficient—and on the 18th, at Santa Fe, W. H. Andrews was declared the republican nominee for delegate to congress from the territory of New Mexico. The vote stood, Andrews 116; Spiess 44, and Mann 20. This was six more votes than was accredited to Andrews last week.

At times the convention was as warm as a Dutch oven, while at others it was as cold as Greenland. When the name of Andrews was placed before the convention the delegates from southern and northeastern New Mexico were seen to shiver, and an order went forth immediately for overcoats. The delegates from the aforesaid sections of the territory sat with chattering teeth, but never batted an eye.
The thermometer was way below
the freezing point, and the gallery had to use wraps.

The convention warmed in spots when the names of Spiess and Mann were placed before the delegates, and a movement in the gallery indicated a shedding of wraps. But the ice melted and coats were doffed as Thomas Benton Catron arose and announced that he wished to second the nomination of Spiess, and proceeded to deliver a warm message to a waiting world. Mr. Catron took the vote of 1906 for his text, and a vivisection took place that caused beads of perspiration to ooze from the foreheads of the Andrews supporters. It had visibly warmed. He referred to the record of Andrews in Pennsylvania, with little endeavor to veil his meaning, and asked if it was necessary to refer to him as great and glorious in order to conceal his identity. Mr. Catron threw a few more bombshells into the Andrews ranks, and closed by saying that he "didn't mean to say anything unpleasant about anyone," which was certainly a corker.

Others talked in a like strain, practically confessing defeat if Andrews was given the nomination, but the talks had no force, the die was cast, and Andrews received the nomination, with votes to spare. It was a big convention, but the first republican convention held in New Mexico wherein more than one-third of the delegates attending acknowledged that the man who got the nomination could not be elected.

Now, that Andrews has been nominated by the machine, the people are getting their coats off to overwhelm him at the polls and demolish the machine. The people have been awaiting this chance of downing the man whose election two years ago was accomplished by fraud. So long as we have machine-made delegates so long will New Mexico remain a territory.

Some idea of what hard times meant to the wage earners is afforded by the statistics of the savings banks of New York state.
The number of accounts closed exceeded the number opened by 18,792. The depositors drew out $66,000,000 more than they deposited. The number of open accounts is 2,719,596, and we doubt if this army of depositors can be imposed upon with the old republican "gag" that the ascendency of their party means prosperity.

The republican papers of the territory—and they are many—that opposed the nomination of W. H. Andrews for delegate to congress, and that accused him of almost everything short of horse-stealing, will have a hard time wiggling into line and persuading their readers that the salvation of New Mexico depends on their casting their ballots for the Pennsylvanian. Most of the people know Andrews, and, besides, they are beginning to think for themselves.

"It is because I believe that a vote for the Democratic ticket would be a vote in favor of a return to sanity, to a moral way of looking at matters, national and international, because I see some hope of dealing effective blows at all forms of special privilege from that party and little, if any, from the other, that I shall accept my party's platform and candidates and cast my vote for Mr.
Bryan. And, as I opposed him frankly and openly before, so now I shall support him with equal frankness and sincerity."
Thomas M. Osborne, New York
State Public Service Commissioner.

take notice and be governed accordingly.

INFANT DIES.

The eight months' old infant of F. M. Johnson, died at Capitan Tuesday, and was brought to Carrizozo Wednesday, and buried beside its mother. The mother of the infant died here about a month after a lingering illness, and Mrs. John H. Skinner has been caring for the little fellow since. Mrs. Skinner was visiting her parents at Capitan, when death cut short the life of the baby. It was a sad blow to its foster-mother who had learned to love the child as her own.

A GOOD OMEN.

We are a little late this week on account of an ornithologic study this morning as we were closing the forms and preparing to go to press, which we are still unable to solve. A species of the family Fringillidae, flew into the office this morning, and after a successful chase, in which the entire force took part, the feathered beauty was captured without bloodshed, and is now safely tied by the left hind leg to a chair post. It may be a linnet, a siskin, a goldfinch or a bullfinch, but it certainly is a second cousin to the cordulius canaria. He leaves the impression, however, that he is tongue-tied, for nary a note has it twittered.

A Mexican friend dropped in later, and solved the question of its species. He said it was what his people call a canaria mexicana, and was considered a good omen at all times, especially previous to election, as it meant a democratic victory in November.

JOHNSON NOMINATED.

Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota was renominated for governor by the democratic state convention Thursday. Following the mention of his name the convention stampeded for Johnson, and a wild demonstration ensued. The governor stated: I have made up my mind to lay aside all personal considerations and listen to the call of the party. I will accept the nomination when it is formally tendered me. I desire to state also and to make it emphatic that if the committee had called on me before the nominating speech I would have positively declined to be a candidate.

JAMES S. SHERMAN

SIDELIGHTS ON NOMINEE FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

Is Very Popular in His Home City of Utica, N. Y.—Fond of National Game and an Inveterate Reader of Fiction.

Utica, N. Y.—"Jim" Sherman, the Republican candidate for vice-president, is very popular here. So is his family. He has several brothers and one of them, Richard W., finished a second term as mayor of Utica last January. The mayor is a Democrat. So is the whole Sherman family excepting Jim. He, too, used to be a Democrat, but in 1876, shortly after serving as a Democratic delegate in the state convention, he became a Republican. Ten years later his new party sent him to congress and he has been there ever since, except for the two years 1891-93, having been one of the many who were swamped in the Democratic tidal wave of 1890.

Mr. Sherman came most widely in national repute when in 1906 he was chairman of the Republican congressional committee in charge of the campaign. It was in that campaign that he earned the sobriquet "Send Your Dollar Jim," or "Dollar Jim," as the solicitor and recipient of dollar contributions, suggested by President Roosevelt when so much was being said in criticism of great campaign contributions by corporations.

Sherman had the fight of his career in that same campaign to retain his own seat, for there was strong opposition organized in his district. Samuel Gompers personally campaigned against him. Also opposing him were the anti-organizations Republicans, the Democrats, united laborites and independence leaguers, besides the candidates of lesser parties, and the campaign was active. Sherman's plurality two years earlier had been 5,765. Sherman won the election by 4,270.

When the rain keeps Mr. Sherman indoors he can usually be found engrossed in a piece of fiction. He is an inveterate fiction reader. Not that he has neglected the classics, but he prefers something lighter for his recreation hours. Once when Reed was speaker of the house he telegraphed that he would go to Sherman's home in New York to discuss a matter with him, and asked him to have a certain report ready.

When the speaker arrived at the Sherman home he found the congressman poring over a book, deeply interested in it.

"Ah, looking up data on our matter?" commented Mr. Reed.

"Yes," replied Sherman. "Just wait a minute; I want to see if the heroine really weds this fellow or not. I'm interested."

A story is told of Mr. Sherman that he was in his committee room at Washington one evening dictating a report to his stenographer while two pages were carrying on a discussion as to the relative batting ability of Lajoie and the late Delehanty. Mr. Sherman apparently was engrossed in the reports and figures in front of him, and baseball scores and averages seemed the furthest from his mind.

"Lajoie batted .402 last year," said one of the pages, "and Delehanty has not hit more'n a double this year. He's battin' about .200, if that much."

"He batted .316 up to yesterday, sonny," came the sudden interruption from Congressman Sherman, "and he leads the league in extra base hits. And you've got the Lajoie dope wrong. He batted .406." And then he resumed his dictation.

Mrs. James S. Sherman is a woman of attractive address, who is in no sense a social butterfly and who has in Washington confined her social efforts and attentions to the congressional set and such matters as are required of a representative's wife. Her health is not such as to permit a strenuous social campaign.

RARE LIBRARY OF BURNS.

Government Botanist Has Buildd to Glory of Scotch Poet.

Washington.—There is one man in Washington to whom every congressman must apply, and to whom nearly every congressman does apply, for his allotment of palms, ferns and other potted plants, for it should be known that congressmen in getting what they can, rarely overlook the trifle of these potted greens. Truth is, they do not always seek this botanic perquisite for their own or their family's use. It sometimes goes to an insistent, persuasive or useful constituent.

This man whom every congressman hunts up, or hunts down, once or oftener every session, is a Scotchman with a fine burr, and the superintendent of the national botanic garden. His name is William R. Smith. Besides knowing much about plant life he is a worshiper of the poet, Robert Burns, and owns what is said to be the best and most extensive collection of the works of the Scotch poet in all the world.

Mr. Smith owns 600 different editions of the poems of Burns. The majority of these are published in English. In addition to the Burns editions the Smith library contains 5,000 books relating to Burns, including 27 biographical works. The walls of the gardener's house are covered with more than 200 pictures of Burns, no two alike.

HADN'T WALKED ALL THE WAY.

Prisoner at Least Had Change While Crossing River.

"Down in Alabama," said John D. Fearhake, "there's a deputy marshal who doesn't let any such trifles as extradition laws stop him. Term of court was about to begin at one time, and a gentleman who was out on bail was reported to be enjoying himself over in Georgia. Deputy Jim went after him. Next day he telegraphed the judge: 'I have persuaded him to come.' A few days later he rode into town on a mule, leading his prisoner, tied up snugly with a clothes line. The prisoner looked as if he had seen hard service.

"Why, for heaven's sake, Jim," said the judge, "you didn't make him walk all the way from Georgia, did you?"

"No, sir," said Jim.

"I hoped not," said the judge.

"No," said Jim, "part of the way I drug him, and when we come to the Tallapoosa river, he swum."—Woman's Home Journal.

A Mere Fad.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was talking to a member of the famous Bible class about economy.

"But economy, like everything else, may be carried to extremes—may be made a mere fad of," said Mr. Rockefeller.

"There is a farmer out near Cleveland who makes a fad of economy. Every time he drives into town he carries a hen with him tied to the seat of his buggy.

"A friend rode with him one day and found out the use of the hen. When, at noon, the farmer lunched under a tree he gave his mare a feed from a nosebag. The hen, set on the ground, ate all that the horse spilled from the bag, and thus there was no waste."

AFRICA'S STRONGLURE

DIG GAME THERE TEMPTS PROWESS OF ROOSEVELT THE HUNTER.

A BIG KILL

It seems to be generally accepted as a definite plan of President Roosevelt that with the close of his term of office next March he will go to Africa to try his sportsman's skill upon the big game of the Dark continent. Having conquered all the known varieties of wild animals in America, our strenuous president would search out the biggest game to be found in the world, and try his luck with lions, tigers, elephants, rhinoceroses, etc. Time was when Sir George Gore came to the Rocky mountains to get the "ultimate thriller" in the way of a hunting expedition. Now our western country has lost all its prestige, with its stupid bobcats and inoffensive coyotes, since it is conceded that the most wary hunter is he who can shoot a prairie dog without knocking it over into its own impregnable hole in the ground. A prairie dog is such a trophy as once the ferocious grizzly was thought to be. And, besides, the president has exhausted all the possibilities of his own hunting grounds.

Unless something not now anticipated transpires on his political or personal horizon, President Roosevelt will set sail the first of April next for the north coast of Africa, thence to make a trip of something over 4,000 miles, partly by boat, partly by the Cape to Cairo railroad, the rest of the way on foot, on horseback and any other way possible. It is his intention to take his son Kermit with him, and he may also be accompanied by several famous hunters; but it is distinctly understood that there are to be no newspaper men and no camera fiends. If anything now unforeseen should arise to prevent the consummation of this plan next April, it will be carried out at a later date. The president has his heart set on hunting big game in central Africa, and nothing but the unlooked-for failure of his great vitality will ultimately deter him from gratifying this ambition.

It is asserted that he will go to Somaliland. A glance at the map is rather disconcerting when one attempts to satisfy his mind as to the exact location of Mr. Roosevelt's outing. There is so much territory that is occupied by Somali tribes under one protectorate or another, that a year and a half seems all too short to hunt all over this land. Later information has it that the hunt will be in Uganda.

In the era of Greek power it was universally believed that the Nile was without any visible source, that it had rushed inland and hidden its head in the earth when Phaethon, that impetuous son of Apollo, precipitated the sun down into the desert of Sahara. Now it is known, in a vague sort of way, that Father Nile has as many heads as an hydra, although they are even yet pretty successfully hidden. It is to the vicinity of these enormous lakes that the president will go in order to put himself on record among the mighty Nimrods of history. It is generally conceded among hunters that a man has really not hunted at all until he has tried his hand in Africa, and it is the consensus of opinion among African hunters that the cream of the sport is to be had in Uganda.

The first of the journey, after landing at Cairo, will be made by boat and rail as far as Khartoum, in the heart of the Egyptian Sudan. From that point south the Nile is a thoroughly navigable stream with regularly scheduled boats that make the run of 1,200 miles to Albert N'yanza on the northern border of Uganda. At the southern end of this lake is the mouth of the Semliki river, which is the outlet for Albert Edward N'yanza, a shallow, brackish lake which lies almost wholly below the equator. Around this sheet of water, with the Ruwenzori mountains on one side and the marshes on the other, the sportsman finds the incarnation of his wildest dream of an earthly "happy hunting ground." There is connection by river between Albert N'yanza and Victoria N'yanza, but the journey can not be made by boat because of the numerous rapids and the stupendous Murchison falls in the Somerset Nils.

Practically none of the equipment for the expedition will be taken from America, since they "do these things better" in Egypt, where they are accustomed to fitting out caravans for the wilderness. Experienced guides will be waiting at Cairo when the Mediterranean steamer arrives, and everything necessary for the next part of the journey will be prepared. At each point of especial interest or danger there will be native guides, prepared with the kind of paraphernalia necessary for the country to be invaded. Two American stenographers will form a part of the outfit, and to these the president will dictate his impressions and experiences while they are fresh in his mind. The "stenos" will be required to transcribe their notes—before they get cold—while the prospective author of the world's greatest book of travel and the chase is out gathering more impressions and having other experiences, to be dictated when the day's sport is over. Of course, Mr. Roosevelt will write a book. That goes without saying. He is far too wise a man to let such valuable material for "copy" go to waste, and yet he is not making this trip for the distinct purpose of gathering material for magazine articles. It is also not true, as has been asserted in the opposition press, that he is going for the purpose of securing genuine lion skins to be used as rugs on the floors of Sagamore Hill, since he was unable to make the pure food law cover the adulteration of lion hides. Indeed, his purpose is exactly as he gave expression to it when the trip was first contemplated. He is going to Africa to get away from civilization, to recover from seven years of desperately hard work and get his nerves into condition for the remainder of his life work. Mr. Roosevelt has no notion of putting up to the American people the question: "What shall we do with our ex-presidents?" He will settle that little matter of one ex-president's future for himself, in his own way and without advice or assistance from anybody. What his ultimate plans are he is not telling. They must involve something strenuous, since he deems it necessary to hunt lions in order to get into training!

Kind Word for Man.

How men are abused! And most of them are good fellows. Think of the dozens of men you know who work and slave for their families, and of the few you know who really have bad habits. The Globe lately paid a compliment to the men, and the editor was almost knocked off his feet to-day when he received a letter from one of the most prominent women in Kansas praising the tribute. Very few women really admire their husbands. And there is an explanation: A man is the head of the house, and, if he fails, his wife fails. She can not always understand why her husband isn't a rich man; it is so easy for a wife to imagine that her husband might do better. It is also easy for children to imagine that their father might do better, and "do" more for them. Therefore, a man has few admirers. We hear a great deal about the prosperous country in which we live, but all the same it is difficult for a man to make and save a dollar. So many men are after the same dollar you are after.—Atchison Globe.

New York as a Jewish City.

It is said that the New York Jewish community is now the largest in history or tradition. It represents ten per cent. of the entire Jewish population of the world. It is larger than the aggregate Jewish populations of the eastern largest centers, Vienna, Budapest, Berlin, Vilna, Amsterdam, Lemberg and London. It is ten times larger than the entire Jewish population of France; it is 20 times larger than the entire Jewish population of Italy; it is 25 times larger than the population of Jerusalem, and 15 times larger than the entire Jewish population of Syria and Palestine.

Limit Never Reached.

A fool always finds one still more foolish to admire him.—Boileau.

A Real Artist.

Oscar Hammerstein, at a dinner in New York, said that he imputed his great success to the fact that in his opera house he put art ahead of money-making.

"I like to think," said Mr. Hammerstein, "that in some small degree I share the artistic feeling of the great Handel."

"Handel, when the curtain would rise upon a nearly empty house, would say soothingly to his associates:

"Ach, never mind; the music will sound all the better."

A Difference in Yards.

John and Pat were two friendly workmen who were constantly tilting, each one trying to outwit the other. "Are you good at measurement?" asked John.

"I am that," said Pat quickly.

"Then, could you tell me how many shirts I could get out of a yard?" asked John.

"Sure," said Pat; "that depends on whose yard you got into."—Human Life.

A Matter of Wonder.

"Tomorrow," announced five-year-old Sidney proudly to his kindergarten teacher, "is my birthday."

"Why," returned she, "it is mine, too."

The boy's face clouded with perplexity, and, after a brief silence, he exclaimed, "How did you get so much bigger'n me?"—Human Life.

Too Much for the Old Man.

"Good morning," said the artist, politely, "that's a perfect cow of yours down there in the field. I'd like to paint her if you don't mind."

"By Heck!" exclaimed Farmer Korn-top, "I reckon ye won't. Git outer hyar! I'm tired o' you 'Perkins Purple Pills' fellers."—Philadelphia Press.

The value of agricultural machines and implements annually imported by Siberia amounts to about 10,000,000 rubles ($5,150,000.) The imported articles are chiefly supplied by German and American manufacturers, being far superior to those made in Russia.

From Parsons to Lincoln.

Parsons, Friday, August 14.
The mountains are having more than their share of rain; the grass is luxuriant and the range is in fine condition.

Miss Carrington and her guest, Miss Coonce, of St. Louis, are visiting the family of Mr. J. M. Rice, yesterday and today.

The Eagle Mining company has nearly completed all new buildings and repairs, and were to have started the mill up the first of the coming week.

J. B. Burrell, formerly at Carrizozo but now manager of P. G. Peters' store at Angus, reports splendid business conditions in Angus and surrounding country.

Mr. and Mrs. Gelder and some other officers of the company and their wives are expected to arrive in Carrizozo Thursday (yesterday), and will spend a few weeks at Parsons.

Lincoln, August 17.

A. H. Hudspeth is over here on business for two or three days.

Manuel Aragon is in Santa Fe on business, and is expected home next Thursday.

The complaint in Lincoln is too much rain, which makes it very bad for the hay crop.

Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Luna have the sympathy of the entire community over the loss of three of their children the last two weeks, the last one dying yesterday (Sunday). The fourth and only remaining child is also very sick at the home of Mrs. Paxton, in Lincoln. Mrs. Luna was on the Ruidoso with her children, and while there the children contracted the scarlet fever. All the children died here in Lincoln, and the citizens here are very much worried for fear of the scarlet fever spreading.

THE REPUBLICAN LEGISLATIVE NOMINEES.

The republicans, in convention at Santa Fe, nominated Henry Lutz of Lincoln for councilman from this, the eleventh councilmanic district. The eleventh district is composed of the counties of Otero, Lincoln and Torrance. This district elected a republican two years ago, but it is now believed to be more equally divided politically, with, possibly, a slight advantage favoring the democrats. Mr. Lutz, however, is a very strong man, and it will require active work on the part of the democrats to defeat him.

The eighteenth legislative district, comprising the counties of Lincoln and Chaves, has for a republican candidate J. C. Hamilton of Roswell. The eighteenth is heavily democratic, and should have no difficulty in electing a good democrat from this district to the legislature.

The republicans in the nineteenth legislative district, which includes four counties, viz.: Lincoln, Chaves, Eddy and Roosevelt, have named E. C. Cook of Lake-wood. The nineteenth is much stronger democratic than the eighteenth; therefore there can be no question as to the election of a democrat to represent it in the next legislature.

To the Public.

Some person or persons, who are evidently as devoid of truth as they are of principle, seem to have circulated the report in Carrizozo that I am using alum in the manufacture of the bread that I am offering to the public, and I hereby offer to let anyone make a chemical test of my bread, and pay the expense of such test if alum is found to be used in its manufacture.
