NEW LAW INSURES PROTECTION TO GAME

All Hunters Must Take Out Licenses Under the Recently Enacted State Law. Important Changes Made.

WILL MAKE NEW MEXICO A SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE

Hereafter it will be absolutely necessary for those who hunt rabbits, as well as for those who hunt animals on which bounties are paid, to take out hunting licenses to save themselves from prosecution under the game and fish law of the state.

The necessity is created by House Bill No. 202, one of the last of the measures signed by Governor McDonald, which amends many of the sections of the old law, among them Section 12, which provides that "no person shall at any time shoot, hunt or take in any manner any game which is by law protected in this state without first having in his possession a hunting license." The new law makes this section read as follows:

"Section 12. No person shall at any time shoot, hunt or take in any manner any wild animals or birds or game fish as herein defined in this state without first having in his or her possession a hunting license as hereinafter provided for the year in which such shooting, fishing or hunting is done. The presence of any person in any open field, prairie or forest, whether enclosed or not, with traps, gun or other weapon for hunting, without having in possession a proper hunting license as herein provided, shall be prima facie evidence of the violation of this section."

The provision of the new law is sweeping, and leaves no possible loophole through which any person who hunts any class of animals can escape. All must hereafter pay a license fee to the state.

The new law makes important changes in the seasons for hunting protected game as follows:

Deer with horns.—North of the 35th parallel of north latitude, from October 16 to November 5; south of the 35th parallel, from October 25 to November 25. Heretofore the season has been from October 1 to November 15. As heretofore, only one deer can be killed by any one person during any one season.

The 35th parallel passes through the counties of McKinley, Valencia, Bernalillo, Torrance, Guadalupe and Quay.

Wild Turkey.—North of the 35th parallel, from November 1 to December 31; south of the 35th, from October 25 to November 25. The season heretofore has been from November 1 to January 15. The number in the possession of a hunter is reduced from four to three.

Grouse.—From September 16 to November 25, instead of from September 1 to Nov. 15. Only five instead of six can be legally in the possession of the hunter.

Quail.—From October 25 to December 31, instead of from Nov.

1 to January 31. The number that a hunter can have in his or her possession is reduced from 30 to 20.

Doves.—From August 16 to September 30, instead of from July 1 to Sept. 30. The number of doves is also reduced from 30 to 20.

No change is made in the duck season, the period extending, as heretofore, from Sept. 1 to March 31. However, the number in possession of the hunter at any one time will hereafter be limited to 20 instead of 30.

The tasseled-eared gray squirrel is placed in the list of protected by the new law, and June 1 to November 30 is designated as the open season.

Although fish licenses for residents are established by the new law, trout fishing is expected from its provisions, and consequently few of the residents of the state will find it necessary to take out the new license. The fishing season is made from June 1 to November 25, instead of from May 15 to October 15, and the amount of trout to be taken by a fisherman in any one day is limited to ten pounds.

The following are the license fees to be paid under the provisions of the new law:

Combination big game, bird and fish license, residents, $2; same license for non-residents and for resident aliens, $30; for non-resident aliens, $55.

Big game, resident, $1; bird, resident, $1; general big game and bird resident, $1.50; non-resident, $25; resident alien, $25; non-resident alien $50.

Guide license, $1; storage permit, $1; permit to transport deer, $2; permit to ship fish, $1; permit to retain wild animals in captivity, $1; transportation permit, 25 cents; duplicate licenses, certificates or permits, $1.

Fishing license, resident $1; non-resident, $5.

WE PUT HIM DOWN

"Here is a year's subscription, put me on your list. I have never been a subscriber to the Outlook, but I like the manner in which you are conducting the paper and I want to have my name entered on your list." These were the words of a prominent Lincoln county ranchman this week as he unsolicited, handed us the price of a year's subscription as above mentioned. We are doing our best toward giving the people of Lincoln County a good paper and we are pleased to know that our efforts are being appreciated by some at least.

RECEIVES SAD NEWS

E. R. Kelley has received word from Alvarado, Texas, announcing the death of his aged mother, Mrs. M. E. Kelley, which occurred Thursday evening at 5 o'clock. She was nearing her 78th birthday and as she had been seriously ill for some time, the end was not unexpected. Mr. Kelley has the sympathy of the entire community in his loss.

M. B. Foreman, who has been in El Paso and Deming for the past two weeks visiting with relatives has returned home.

OUTLOOK FOR STOCK INDUSTRY IS FINE

Reports From all Over the State Say that Range is in Splendid Condition. Plenty of Early Grass Assured

GOVERNOR'S QUARANTINE ENDORSED BY CATTLEMEN

Reports from stock growers in all sections of New Mexico and the statements of local owners and dealers in cattle agree unanimously that conditions on the New Mexico range were never better than those now existing and that the prospects before owners of cattle are brighter even than was the case this time a year ago when the stockmen of this state first began to take active notice that they were running head-first into an area of prosperity.

The cattlemen have before them a spring and summer with plenty of grass assured, and only a very severe drouth can stop the condition which now seems certain. The oldest cattlemen, those who have watched New Mexico seasons for many years, until they are as reliable as the almanac, assert that this is one of the three great years of abundant grass and moisture. Last year was one of the three and therefore there is one more year of good pickings before the prophets look for a change. Three years of high prices and good grass are calculated to make the average range cattleman rather indifferent as to whether school keeps thereafter or not.

The distant menace of disease, and the rigid quarantine now in effect are the only disturbing elements in an otherwise rosy situation, and the cattlemen look for both of these unfavorable features to disappear completely before very long. The cattlemen agree perfectly as to the necessity for Governor McDonald's quarantine and endorse his action.

A cattleman who referred to the probable results of the demand for American cattle at the end of the war for re-stocking purposes, declares it is one influence likely to send cattle prices higher. He pointed to half a million head of cattle reported to have been driven out of Austrian territory by the Russians and slaughtered or scattered to the four winds as one instance of a country where re-stocking on an enormous scale probably will be necessary at the close of the conflict.

Stockmen generally seem to see in the war a sure thing for elevating American prices, no matter which way the hostile cat may jump.

CAR LOAD OF WAGONS

The Carrizozo Trading Company last week received a car load of the famous "Columbus" brand wagons which they will carry in stock in the future. This is the Trading Co's first attempt at handling a line of wagons but is experiencing no difficulty in disposing of them.

ELECTRIC EQUIPMENT

The Outlook is now better prepared to serve the public than it has ever been at any time in the past. The place has been electrically lighted and a motor installed which enables us to give the public better and more prompt service than heretofore. The generous patronage we have received from the local merchants and the people of the county in general since buying the Outlook enables us to maintain the high standard we have set and encourages us to strive for better things in the work of giving our subscribers, here and elsewhere the best possible paper we are able to issue.

HOTEL BURGLARIZED

As a result of a visit to the Grandview hotel on Tuesday night of a "Weary Willie" Lee Morse son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Morse is a new coat and a $45.00 watch shy. The bold intruder entered the hotel about 2 o'clock making his appearance and also his disappearance, through the front door, while the proprietor of the hotel was having sweet dreams only a few feet distance from where "Willie" got the goods. But however, "Willie" proved himself to be very unselfish and thoughtful of other people's needs as well as his own, as he in exchange for the new coat and $45.00 watch left his own coat for young Morse, which was a coat of many colors.

"LIVE" AND DEAD ONES

The merchant who does not advertise usually has nothing worth while for you to buy. The man who advertises does not have to put his goods back in the ware room and bring them out during the different seasons of the year to unsuspecting customers. We once knew a merchant who had kept goods so long he had to order some new boxes in which to keep them. Patronize the merchant who has enough confidence in his business to advertise it. Read the advertisements that are appearing in the Outlook.

EXCELLENT PROGRAM

Those who attended the orchestra Friday evening were the recipients of a real musical banquet. Every number was meritorious and received a generous share of applause, but the numbers rendered by the newly organized Carrizozo Orchestra were especially appreciated each member carrying out his part with much credit to the organization. A full house gave added inspiration and a neat sum must have been realized tho the admission price was comparatively small.

BUYS TAILOR SHOP

R. E. Piersall purchased this week from Carlisle & O'Bannon the cleaning, pressing and tailoring establishment located in the old postoffice building. This place which was established some two years ago has enjoyed a good patronage from the general public and will no doubt continue to do so under the new management. Mr. Piersall is experienced in this line, having been engaged in the same business at El Paso.

NEW FARMERS ERROR BY "HOME" METHODS

New Community is Likely to be Much Different than the Newcomer is Accustomed to in the East

CLIMATIC DATA IS OFTEN OF VALUE TO THE NEWCOMER

The man who takes up a farm business in a community with which he is not familiar is likely to fall into error on matters seemingly very simple to the residents of the region. The new man often follows the planting dates of the region from which he came, and thus the crops may be injured by early or late frosts or other climatic conditions especially prevalent in the region.

In southern New England such a case was observed the past year. A farmer new to the region, not realizing the shortness of the growing season, had planted his corn too late to mature properly, with the result that but fifteen bushels were husked from nine acres and a large part of his fodder was lost by heating. This individual is there to make the farm a paying proposition and as fast as possible is correcting his errors.

Accurate climatic data is often of great value to a farmer starting out in a strange neighborhood. Tables showing the dates of the last killing frosts in the spring and the first in the fall, together with rainfall by months and total rainfall for the region, are usually available from the United States weather bureau at Washington, D. C. These should be consulted before deciding on the crop practices for the new locality. It would be still better to obtain such information before deciding upon a locality in which to purchase a farm.

Another mistake which is often made is through the endeavor to bring the type of farming of the old region to the new location, where, in the majority of cases, not only different conditions of soil and topography prevail, but new problems relative to transportation and market demands are met. These new conditions determine the profitability or unprofitableness of the type for the region. The general type for soils of the neighborhood should be studied and compared with the soils of the individual farm and crops planted which are best adapted to soil and topography of the farm as shown by the general farm practice of the neighborhood. As a general rule it is the safest practice for any farmer starting out in a new location to grow largely the same crops and keep the same breed of livestock as his neighbors, unless there is an especially good reason for following another practice. As one grows familiar with the region, experience may suggest improved methods.

The interior of the Grandview hotel was this week treated to a new coat of paint giving it a clean and neat appearance.

SYNOPSIS.

Joseph Hayward, an ensign in the United States army, on his way to Fort Hamilton, meets Simon Girty, a renegade whose name has been connected with all manner of atrocities, also headed for Fort Hamilton, with a message from the British general, Hamilton. Hayward sends Girty to the fort. At General Hamilton's headquarters Hayward meets Rene D'Auray, who professes to recognize him, although he has no recollection of ever having seen her before. Hayward volunteers to carry a message to a British unit, where Hamilton is stationed. The northwest Indian tribes are ready for war and are only held back by the refusal of the friendly Wyandots to join. The latter are demanding the return of Wabash-tah, a religious teacher, whom they believe to be a prisoner. Hayward's mission is to assure the Wyandots that the man is not held by the soldiers. Rene asks Hayward to let her accompany him. She tells him that she is a quarter-blood Wyandot and a missionary among the Indians. She has been in search of her father, who she believes she has seen at Fort Hamilton. Hayward refuses her request and starts for the north accompanied by a scout named Brady and a private soldier. They come on the trail of a war party and to escape from the Indians take shelter in a hut on an island. Hayward finds a murdered man in the hut. It proves to be Rene D'Auray, a former French officer who is called by the Wyandots "white chief." Rene appears and Hayward is puzzled by her insistence that they have met before. Rene recognizes the murdered man as her father, who was known among the Indians as Wabash-tah. Brady reports a band of marauding Indians in the vicinity and with them Simon Girty. Brady's evidence convinces the girl that there is a British officer by the name of Hayward, who resembles the American. They find escape from the island cut off. Reconnoitering around the cabin at night Hayward discovers a white man in a British uniform and leaves him for dead after a desperate fight. The Indians capture the cabin and Hayward is wounded in a struggle in which Hayward is wounded. Rene saves Hayward from death at the hands of the savages and conceals him in the cellar of the cabin. Hayward discovers a hidden breast weapon in the cellar. They engage in a fierce fight which ends when the negro accidentally hits his brains out against the low roof of the cellar.

CHAPTER XV—Continued.

I saw him now clearly, and he must have got his first fair glimpse of me, for he stared at my face in startled surprise that, for the moment, held him dumb. It was like looking at my own reflection in a glass—the eyes, the hair, the nose, the contour of the face, the massive figure, all alike the counterpart of my own. I would not have believed, except for the witness of my own eyes, that such similarity was possible. Even though fortified with sudden impression that this was the man for whom mademoiselle had mistaken me, the actual resemblance was so startling, as to leave me voiceless. We would have paused for each other anywhere, and yet as I stared at him, meeting his eyes fairly, I perceived a difference, faint, elusive, yet noticeable enough—his skin showed marks of disfigurement; there was a peculiar insolent sneer to his mouth, and he must be older than I by five years. My mind seemed to grip all this in a flash, before his voice broke the silence.

"Odds life, man! and what's this?" he roared. "Some play acting, or a dream? Never before did I know I was born a twin. Who are you?"

The look on his face, as if he half suspected he saw a ghost, made me smile.

"My name is Hayward—Joseph Hayward."

He gasped for breath, his eyes fairly protruding, as he staggered to his feet.

"What! Say that again?"

I had full control of myself now, rather enjoying his consternation.

"I am Joseph Hayward," I answered with grave deliberation. "An ensign in the United States army, and a native of Maryland."

"Well, I be hanged! Say, do you know that's my name also? Is this some shabby joke?"

There was a gleam of anger in his eyes, a threat. I bowed on my side and looked him in the face.

"I was better prepared for this meeting than you," I said, "for I happen to know who you are. It's an odd thing, our resemblance, and the similarity of names, but I was told about you some time ago."

"By whom?"

"Mademoiselle D'Auray."

"Who? I never met—oh, her!" with a quick laugh, "you mean the Wyandot missionary?"

"I mean the daughter of Captain D'Auray," I returned with some sternness. "The man the Indians call 'Wabash-tah.' She mistook me for you."

"And was not very nice about it! I imagine—the little vixen will scarce give me a word."

"Possibly with reason."

"She told you so? She might be in better business than advertising my delinquencies among enemies. The girl has just enough white blood in her to make her act the fool."

"We may differ about that. Anyhow I advise you to hold your tongue. What I am interested in learning now is—who killed her father?"

He started back, bracing himself against the wall.

"Her father! D'Auray? Is he dead then?"

He was not acting; the surprise was real; the expression of his eyes convinced me.

"You had no connection with the murder?"

"I! Good Lord, no! I know nothing, man—not even how I came to be here. I woke up just now, lying in this corner with my face to the wall, every bone in my body aching. When I finally managed to roll over, I got glimpse of you there at the entrance, and sang out. I don't even feel certain who I am, let alone what I may have been up to."

"But surely you recall something."

"I insisted."

"Well," puzzled, "not much. See here, I'm willing enough to tell you all I know. Let's sit down; my head spins around like a top."

CHAPTER XVI.

I Hold a Prisoner.

He dropped back against the wall, but much of my old strength had returned, and I remained standing, leaning on my rifle. The man continued to stare up at me as if half doubting his own eyesight.

"Well," I said at last, growing tired of his silence. "You have my story—or, at least, a good part of it—and now it would seem the proper time for me to hear yours. Once we understand each other we will know better how to proceed."

He pressed his hands against his head in an endeavor to think.

"I was in there, unconscious and alone."

"No, not alone; there was a yellow-faced negro with you—a French mongrel, if I know the breed. He's there yet—dead; and I want to know the story."

"Oh, ay! I begin to get the straight of this at last," and his face brightened. "Not that it is altogether clear, but you furnish a clue; perhaps if we put the ends together we may make a tale. A French negro, hey! That would likely be the Kaskaskia half-breed, a treacherous whistledog. But how ever did he come to be here? Ay! I have it! The fellow must have trailed me from the council at Sandusky, suspecting I sought D'Auray; there was hate between them."

"Then it is likely he killed the man."

"No doubt of it, if he really be killed. Listen to what I know; in truth it is not much other than rumor; D'Auray had the fellow lashed by Wyandot squaws for some dirty trick, and Picard—that's his name—swore vengeance. Saint Denis! That was a year ago, and Picard has ever since been in his own country. 'T was the coming of war that brought him back. I thought I saw him at Sandusky as we held council there, but his presence was nothing to me."

"He had no quarrel with you, then?"

"No; I saw him whipped; he was like a shivering cur. Listen, and I'll tell all I know. I am not proud of my job, understand, but out here in the wilderness, we work under a double set of orders—one open and above board, the other secret. 'T is poor work for a soldier, but there's no help for it, except to resign, and then someone else would turn the trick. You know the game we play—our countries at peace, this land formally surrendered to our Americans, and yet there comes to us—to Hamilton—private instructions to retard settlement, and retain our military posts. Lord knows what the ministry means, what they hope to gain by delay; we are only pawns in the game being played, yet what England says, we do. Yet how? There is only one weapon left to our hands—the savages. We cannot fight you openly, much as we might prefer, but if we can keep the Indian tribes hostile, we can hold back your settlements to the Ohio, until England can act openly. You know all this?"

"Yes," I acknowledged. "The policy is clear enough."

"And it was easily enough carried out," he went on, "but for the Wyandots. We were hand in glove with the tribes, and they hated the Americans. Our emissaries were in all their villages, and made the chiefs presents and promises. Raising parties of young warriors swept through the forests clear to the Ohio, doing much damage and driving the whites to their forts. But we needed open war, the alliance of all the tribes, and we were blocked in this—the Wyandots refused. I was sent there, and when I failed, Hamilton went himself, but with no better success. You know the reason?"

I shook my head, afraid to interrupt for fear he might remember how convicting such a confession was, and refuse to continue. But apparently the man failed to conceive the depravity of his acts.

"The influence of D'Auray—ay! and that daughter of his, Saint Denis, but I believe she was the worst of the two. I actually made love to the witch hoping thus to win her over to our side, I might have married her—who knows?" shrugging his shoulders, "but she certainly wouldn't listen to anything else. Lord, the wench was proud as Lucifer; ay! and laughed in my face, and mocked me, until even Hamilton had to grin, when I told him the story. 'T was then I made up my mind to win in spite of her."

"To win her, you mean?"

"No, no! There was but one way of doing that, and it chances I possess a dislike for Indian blood. I mean the Wyandots to our scheme. 'T was Hamilton's plan, that I suggest to her a visit to the Wabash tribes, for she was ready for any sacrifice to spread her faith among the redskins. Ay! and by good luck the scheme worked."

"That then was what took her south?" I asked, deeply interested.

"Yes; I fixed up a fine story, and the priest gave her his blessing. Oh, it was safe enough; no Indian would dare lay hand on her in evil."

"The rest is short enough, but the girl's actions puzzle me. Once we were rid of her, the father had to be attended to. 'T was no easy task, for D'Auray was a chief, and quick to quarrel. 'T is small odds now how the trick was played, but I knew of this cabin, and once here I held him prisoner, while Hamilton used his disappearance as a whip to drive the Wyandots to war."

"He spread the rumor then that D'Auray was captured or killed by Americans, knowing what had occurred?"

"Partly that," with a chuckle. "He knew not where the man was, only that I had him safe."

"And by means of this lie you deliberately plotted to ravage the frontier with Indian outrage," I exclaimed indignantly.

"Nay, not so fast friend," his eyes hardening with anger. "'T was war; we but obeyed the orders that came from England; made use of the weapons at hand."

"I care nothing for the excuse. There was no war, and it was murder. Don't call me friend! I am no friend of yours. Though you may be of my own blood, of my own name, the act was murder—foul, treacherous murder. Yes! I wish I had left you to rot there in that hole."

He was on his feet, his face flaming with passion, but filling forward, my rifle.

"Ay! I mean it, Joseph Hayward, if that be your name," I went on, coldly enough now. "And I would say the same to Hamilton if he were here. Stand where you are, or I will kill you as I would a mad cur. Only a fiend would boast of such an act of treachery. Now go on, and tell me the rest. I want no lie, but the truth—how did D'Auray meet his death?"

He stood glaring at me over the rifle barrel, his hands gripping in desire, yet knowing well that any hostile movement meant death.

"Hanged if I'll tell you!"

"Then you die where you are, you dog," and I meant it. "You have said enough already to condemn you. I believe you killed D'Auray."

"I did not," he burst forth. "I did not even know he was dead. I am not afraid of you, or your threats, but I will tell you what occurred here. I'm ready enough, as you will discover yet, to answer for whatever I do, but I am not going to bear the blame for the dastard act of another. I was friendly enough with D'Auray, even if I did seek to trick him in this matter. There was no intent to take his life."

"Well, then, go on!"

"I held him prisoner here," he said suddenly, "although there was no violence or threat. The man did not even realize he was under guard, yet I saw to it that he retained no arms, and was never out of my sight. 'T was my orders to hold him quiet until I had message from Hamilton. He suspected nothing, and there was no trouble; not so much as a word of controversy between us. Once a day I made circuit of the island to assure myself we were alone. Occasionally he went with me, but the last time I left him in the cabin asleep. It was dusk when I returned; I had seen nothing suspicious, and was careless. I remember approaching the rear door, without thought of danger. I must have passed the opening of the cave here, when suddenly I was struck down from behind. I saw nothing, heard nothing of my assailant. When I returned to consciousness I was lying here. That is all."

"'T would be Picard who struck you?"

"Beyond doubt, and then, thinking me dead, dragged me into this hole. Yet how came we both in there?"

"We can only guess at the rest. My theory would be that the negro was interrupted by our arrival at the cabin. He discovered the entrance to the tunnel, and dragged you into it, thinking to escape himself. To make sure who we were he crept into the cabin, and recovered your jacket—you left it there, didn't you?"

"Ay! It was a warm night."

"The fellow must have seen something that frightened him, that drove him into hiding. Later I stood there in the cave mouth, looking about. Perhaps it was then he crawled into the tunnel, and replaced the door. Ah, I have it—he did that later when he recognized the voice of mademoiselle."

"Of who? Mademoiselle?"

"Mademoiselle D'Auray; she joined me as I stood there. Her presence would account for his fear."

He leaned forward, as if endeavoring to decipher my face.

"Are you telling me truth?" he asked hoarsely. "Is that girl here? What could have brought her to this place? What does she suspect? What does she know?"

"That I cannot tell, except that she believes you killed her father; the discovery of your coat convinced her of that. As to how she came here—she traveled with Girty from Fort Hamilton, seeking to reach the Wyandots in advance of me. She came to the cabin alone, hoping to find her father, but instead found us in possession, and D'Auray's dead body. It was she who thrust me into the tunnel and saved my life."

"And, now, man, where is she?"

"With those Indians who attacked us, and burned the cabin—she may be a prisoner."

He laughed uneasily, shifting his position.

"No fear of that. She is a wonder worker with these savages; they are afraid of her; they think her cross will work miracles. Saint Denis! I would rather have her with me than all the chiefs."

"Could she save a man from the torture, the stake?"

"She has done it; ay! I saw it done, and it took some courage. But she might fall with these renegades. Who is the man?"

"Brady; the scout who accompanied me."

"I know of the fellow; she would have small chance of saving him." He paused, then asked suddenly: "What about me? Am I a prisoner, or free to go? Do you absolve me of murder?"

"Of killing D'Auray—yes. But your hands are bloody enough without that crime."

"Then I may go my way?"

"To more treachery? To those Indians to report my presence here?"

"No, I swear."

"I accept no pledge from you. You say 't is already war on the border; then I will act accordingly. We will wait here until she comes."

"Shief Not Mademoiselle D'Auray."

"Yes," I answered tersely. "Mademoiselle D'Auray."

CHAPTER XVII.

An Effort to Save Brady.

The night had closed down without, but the remnants of fire still eating away the dry logs of the cabin, yielded a red tinge to the interior of the cellar. It was a spectral, eerie light, brightening as some breeze fanned the flames, and then as suddenly lapsing into dimness. Yet sufficient glow found way down the entrance to enable me to see my prisoner, and observe his movements.

A descending figure blotted out the red glare of the entrance. We both stared upward unable to decide who the visitor might be; I could perceive merely a dim, indistinct outline. The shadow of a figure descended quietly, yet with evident confidence that the dark cellar was deserted. I attempted to step back, so as not to be between the two, but something rattled under my foot, sounding loud in the silence. The intruder stopped instantly, drawing a quick breath of surprise.

"Who is here? Answer!" There was the sharp click of a gun lock; the words were French, the voice unmistakable.

"Hayward, mademoiselle."

She laughed in sudden relief.

"Peste! You startled me! How came you out here, monsieur?"

"The smoke of the burning cabin drove me out; else I should have suffocated. I burst open the door."

"Burst it open!" incredulously. "Then it was not barred? Some one had entered from this end?"

"So I discovered, mademoiselle; one of them is here with me—an old acquaintance of yours."

"Of mine?"

"Ay! Step out into the cave so the light can find entrance; now, do you know the man?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Bit of First Aid.

In cases of shock and collapse it may be advisable in certain cases where collapse is imminent to administer a little stimulant in the shape of brandy and water, but it has to be noted that the use of alcohol under such circumstances must be carefully carried out, inasmuch as in certain cases (as in apoplexy, for example) the administration of alcohol is calculated to prove highly injurious.

Explanation.

"A babe," says a writer, "is a mother's anchor." This, then, probably explains why the maternal parent of Moses consigned him to the water.

WHAT $10 DID FOR THIS WOMAN

The Price She Paid for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Which Brought Good Health.

Danville, Va. — "I have only spent ten dollars on your medicine and I feel so much better than I did when the doctor was treating me. I don't suffer any bearing down pains at all now and I sleep well. I cannot say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills as they have done so much for me. I am enjoying good health now and owe it all to your remedies. I take pleasure in telling my friends and neighbors about them."—Mrs. MATTIE HALEY, 501 Colquhoun Street, Danville, Va.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

In Style, Except for the Shine.

"I read in the fashion notes that short-waisted coats would be in style this season," commented Mrs. Pozzole to her sister, "so your last year's suit will be in vogue."

"Yes," rejoined her sister, "but it did not say anything about the new series having a very noticeable and brilliant gloss on them, did it? I'm afraid I can't qualify with that shine on my skirt."

Between Seasons.

"I enjoy this time of year."

"Why so?"

"The family fuss about Christmas expenditures is over and it's too early to begin to quarrel about next summer's vacation."—Kansas City Journal.

Uric Acid in Your Food

Even dogs can eat too much meat. Certainly, many people "dig their graves with their teeth." Few get enough exercise to justify a meat diet, for meat brings uric acid. The kidneys try hard to get rid of that poison, but often a backache, or some other slight symptom will show that the kidneys need help. The time-tried remedy, then, is Doan's Kidney Pills.

A Colorado Case

F. N. Conrad, 1415

1415 14th St., Boulder, Colo., says: "I had attacks of kidney trouble for five years. Often the pain in my back was so severe I could hardly get around. I heard so much about Doan's Kidney Pills that I finally tried them and they cured me on all right. Since then I have lived in perfect health and they have saved me from a lot of trouble."

MEN MUST WORK

The Outlook's attention has been attracted lately by many of the larger employers of the country, both firms and corporations, who are waging an unjustifiable war on old or elderly men. Many refuse to employ a man under any circumstances after he is 35 years of age and a still greater number put their men out of employment at the age of 70—some on pension and some not. It is very bad public policy to adopt any rule which prevents an employe from earning whatever he can no matter what may be his age. It is the double essence of cruelty to excommunicate a man from the work which he has followed all his life just because the greater part of his life has gone. It is not always a question of the need of the money. Every right minded man wishes to be as useful as he can as long as he can and he wishes to "stay with his mates" until death does the parting. The government sets the bad example of cutting its army and navy men off at 63, regardless of their real working value, and then the government goes further and forces out many men not yet of the age to retire just to make promotion faster for the men below. This is a rotten practice which should end immediately and for all time. All must have occupation or go mad or bad or both.

TAYLOR PRAISES BURSUM

"I believe that Holm O. Bursum of Socorro, is one of the greatest men in the state," said ex-county treasurer, John E. Taylor recently. "He was slandered so much during the last campaign that many of us democrats, who did not know him then as we do now, thought that he was the rascal that he was pictured and there is no doubt in my mind but that the mud-slinging campaign resulted in his defeat. I am a loyal democrat, but I now fully realize that it was a great mistake when the people of New Mexico elected Governor McDonald instead of Bursum. There is no comparison between the ability of the two men. Bursum possesses all the qualities of a statesman and I consider him one of the broadest minded men in New Mexico today. His new tax commission bill, which I have just read, appears fair in all respects and does not bear the trade marks of political jobbery. If Bursum was a candidate for Governor today, I am certain that he would be elected by from four to six thousand majority. McDonaldism will result in losing it for the democrats by that margin at the next general election and I do not profess to be a political prophet either. What has been revealed of his connection with the First State Bank of Las Cruces is enough for me and the rest of the democrats." —Clovis News.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, was engineer in an electric light plant in Detroit. Charley Murphy, the Tammany Hall leader, was a bar tender in New York City. Thomas H. Ince, the motion picture magnate, was a comic opera comedian, glad to get $50 a week. Charlie Weegham, owner of the Chicago Federal baseball team and a string of restaurants, was a waiter in a quick lunch room. And so it goes. The list could be strung out to a column's length. Therefore when you hear a boy or young man complain that he has no chance, take him by the arm and tell him a few things. There never was a time in the world's history when there were more opportunities for a young man to push to the front. There never was a time when a little intelligence and determination would provide a man with a competence in a few years. This is particularly true in the farming business—for farming is a business. The young man of today who will take hold of a farm with the idea of making it the best farm in the county and who will work intelligently for ten years, with that idea always before him, will not have to work for the remainder of his life.

COL. BUSHNELL GOES TO INSPECT FT. STANTON

The first step toward the early consolidation of the government sanatoriums for the treatment of tubercular soldiers, sailors, marines and civilians was taken the past week when Col. George E. Bushnell, commandant at Fort Bayard and one of the most notable figures in the United States army medical corps, went to Fort Stanton, Lincoln County, where one of the principal naval sanatoriums is located, to make an official inspection, as a preliminary step to its consolidation with the army institution near Silver City.

Closely following Colonel Bushnell's visit to Fort Stanton, will be that of First Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Franklin D. Roosevelt, to Silver City and Fort Bayard in April, Mr. Roosevelt coming here to make a personal investigation and to confer with Colonel Bushnell.

Silver City people are greatly interested in the enlargement of Fort Bayard as a public health service hospital and resort, since it will undeniably mean the recognition of this climate as the finest in the world for those suffering from tuberculosis.—Silver City Independent.

A GREAT ACCOMPLISHMENT

A copy of the Deming Headlight bearing date of March 26th, has reached our desk, in which ten full pages of advertising is carried by one firm. This is an accomplishment so extraordinary for a weekly newspaper that the Headlight should feel greatly flattered to know that this has never been accomplished by a similar publication in this, or perhaps any other state. So far as we know there is not a New Mexico daily that can boast of this distinction. The placing of such an advertisement proves that the Headlight and H. Nordhaus Sons & Company the firm running this mammoth advertisement are like the town in which they are located, "live wires."

WHITE OAKS

Wm. McHenry, postoffice inspector for the Denver division was here Monday helping our postmaster break in a new man for the New Mexico circuit. Bob says they put him through a pretty lively tussle but he thinks they got him so he will work in single harness all right.

Geo P. Blair, of Los Angeles, Calif., an old mining man and capitalist made a look over of the resources of the country here during the past week. Mr. Blair is president of the Imperial Valley Improvement Co. and a close friend of John Kieth—so close in fact no one could pump any information out of either of them concerning their operations when Blair was chief promoter and John was town marshal in that low-down valley.

B. H. Dye, former operator of the Lady Godiva, Rita and other mines at this place, came in from Joplin, Mo., a few days ago and will again grub into the bowels of mother earth for a grub stake, and he will just about find it too if his theory and luck holds out.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bell lately arrived here from Chatfield, Texas, and are snugly domiciled in the Gallacher residence. Mrs. Bell was formerly Miss Clara Kelt and spent many of her girlhood years in White Oaks, subsisting on mountain scenery, azote and other wholesome grub. These young people were accompanied by Mrs. C. O. Berrington whose husband came over a month ago hunting employment and soon became one of the Wild Cat's lucky dinner pail bunch.

Mrs. Watson entertained quite a number of the ladies at her home last Thursday afternoon in a social and substantial way. It is rumored there are several other affairs of this kind now in the incubator, but whether the result will be suffragett, a safety first or a clean up organization, is yet in doubt.

Miss Nina Taylor has been quite ill during the past week but is now on the mend it is thought. Her sister, Mildred, who was attending school at Carrizozo has taken her place looking out of the postoffice window.

Wayne VanSchoyck has just returned from a business trip to El Paso and while there, like everyone else went over the sandy Rio Grande to see where the Johnson Willard fight didn't take place.

The last day of March has laid it over April Fool day by pulling off a regular winter snow storm.

Joe Swain and about the whole combined family have been entertaining a combined attack of the measles. Joe says he brought 'em up in his grip from the El Paso Cattleman's convention and they must have got loose on the range.

A. L. Gaylord has been employed to overhaul the old stamp mill at the American mine and prepare it for work. Many of the foundation timbers are so badly decayed that

KING ROAD DRAG IS FAVORED

Hundreds of Farmers of Colorado Have Pledged Themselves to Make Use of Implement.

State Highway Commissioner T. J. Ehrhart of Colorado has announced that the state will pay half the cost of split-log drags to all counties which will furnish these drags free to farmers and others pledging themselves to use them on their roads. This action followed the strong impression made on the highway commission by the D. Ward King method of road building, as demonstrated at the King road rallies held recently at Castle Rock, Littleton, Golden, Denver, Brighton, Loveland, Greeley, Fort Morgan, Fort Collins and Cheyenne. Governor Ammons was a regular attendant at the meetings and enthusiastically indorses the system.

Hundreds of farmers have already pledged themselves to use the drags, and as a result it is predicted that ruts, bumps and mudholes in the roads in this section of the state will soon be things of the past, just as this Missouri farmer's method transformed the dirt roads of Iowa and a dozen other states at practically no expense.

The following is King's condensed formula for building and maintaining a perfect road with the split-log drag:

"Build a King drag according to instructions. After the first rain, while the dirt is still moist but not sticky, hitch the team to the drag so that the drag will follow the team at an angle of about 45 degrees. Drive with one horse on each side of the wheel track to your neighbor's front gate toward town and come home over the other wheel track, smoothing the road and moving a small amount of earth toward the middle.

"After the next rain or wet spell go again. Repeat this after each storm until the surface touched by the drag is smooth and is slightly higher in the center than at the sides.

"Plow a shallow furrow (please notice the word 'shallow') just outside the dragged portion of the road, turning the furrow into the dragged portion. Spread this furrow (notice the word 'spread') over the road toward the center with the drag. When you finish the roadway will be about two feet wider and the middle will be a little higher.

"After the next rain or storm plow again and drag again, adding two feet more to the width and building the road still a little higher in the center. Only plow one furrow between rains. When the road becomes wide enough, quit plowing. Never drag except when the soil is moist.

"This formula is guaranteed to produce results."

A government bulletin giving instructions for making and using the King drag may be obtained by anyone desiring to use it on his roads by addressing the agricultural department at Washington.

MAINTENANCE IS ESSENTIAL

Large Portion of Money Expended for Improvements is Wasted—Road Building an Art.

Logan W. Page, chief of the office of public roads of the department of agriculture, is bending every energy to impress upon the people of the country that maintenance and effective repair are of equal importance with the actual improvement of bad roads. Investment of money in new roads does not become real economy until provision is made for keeping these new roads in condition after they are built. If a new road is built and then allowed to fall into disrepair, much of the original investment is simply wasted.

Southern Road Well Cared For.

Quite frequently the office of public roads, when called upon for assistance by the various states, points out that road building is an art based on a science, and that trained men and experienced men are necessary to secure the best results from the expenditure of road funds.

Statisticians have figured out that although the average expenditure on the improvement of roads exceeds $1,000,000 a day, a large portion of it is wasted because of the failure to build the right type of road to meet local requirements or the failure to provide for the continued maintenance of the improvement.

Behold—An Advertisement!

I came into being as the unspoken language came; slowly, gradually, and to meet an urgent need. I have been worked for evil, but mostly I have worked for good. I can still be worked for evil, but each day it grows more difficult to do.

I am at once a tool and a living force. If you use me wisely, I am a tool in your employ. If you misuse me, my double edge will injure or destroy you. If you do not use me I am a force that works ever against your accomplishment of the aims and purposes that animate your business.

I speak a thousand tongues and have a million voices. I am the ambassador of civilization, the handmaiden of science, and the father of invention. I have peopled the prairie, and with my aid commerce has laid twin trails of gleaming steel in a gridiron across the continent, and stretched a network of copper into the far corners of the globe.

I am the friend of humanity—for I have filled the commoner's life with a hundred comforts denied the king of yesterday. I have brought clean food, healthful warmth, music, convenience and comfort into a hundred million homes.

I laugh at tariffs and remake laws.

I have scaled the walls of the farmers' isolation and linked him to the world of outer interests. I build great factories and people them with happy men and women who love the labor I create. I have made merchant princes out of corner shopkeepers, and piled the wealth of a Monte Cristo into the laps of those who know my power.

I am a bridge that cancels distance and brings the whole world to your doors, ready and eager to buy your wares. I find new markets and gather the goods of the world into a handful of printed pages.

I am either the friend or the foe of Competition—so he who finds me first is both lucky and wise.

Where it cost cents to hire me yesterday, it costs quarters today and will cost dollars tomorrow. But whosoever uses me had best have sense, for I repay ignorance with loss and wisdom with the wealth of a Croesus.

I spell service, economy, abundance and opportunity, for I am the one and only universal alphabet. I live in every spoken word and printed line—in every thought that moves man to action and every deed that displays character.

ARRESTS DRUNK, IS SENTENCED HIMSELFConstable Loses His Prisoner and Is Given Eleven Days to Think It Over.

Columbus, Ind. — Henry (Scatter) O'Brien, a constable attached to the court of W. W. Stader, justice of the peace of this city, was given time for reflection in the county jail, where he was sent for eleven days by Mayor Volland, acting judge of the city court.

O'Brien tried to arrest Pleasant Pruitt of Edinburg for intoxication and got into trouble on the same charge himself. Pruitt was inclined to admit that the charge was true, and officer and prisoner started to the jail together. O'Brien was drunk himself and fell down before the jail was reached.

"Looky here," said Pruitt, who was holding O'Brien up, "you're liable to drag me down in the mud and get me all dirty. I'm goin' to take you back here and let you sit down."

So Pruitt took charge of the constable and returned him to the waiting room of the Indianapolis, Columbus and Southern Traction company. There O'Brien went to sleep and his prisoner boarded a car for Edinburg. Two policemen came along and found O'Brien sleeping. They placed him in jail. In the city court he pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication and Mayor Volland fined him $1 and costs. In default of payment he went to jail for eleven days.

as It Falls.

San Jose, Cal. — Sydney Farrington, a wealthy rancher, was knocked "cold" by a duck which he shot in South Bay, according to a story vouched for by other members of the Huntington club, of which Farrington is a member.

Farrington took a shot at a pair of high-flying birds. With the first barrel he killed duck No. 1. He turned quickly to bang away at duck No. 2, and as he ran his eye along the gun barrel No. 1 fell squarely on the back of his neck. Farrington was "out" for several seconds.

He was none the worse for the experience.

FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR SICK CHILD

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Adv.

Helping Reform.

He—Miss Prettyface, I have been converted, and I want to make restitution of any wrong I have done. I stole some kisses from you, and I would like to give them back.

She—Well, Mr. Smith, of course I don't want to put any obstacle in the way of your doing what you think is right.

Making It Plain.

"You are putting the cart before the horse."

"I don't understand what you mean by this figure of speech."

"Well, I'll frame it differently. You are putting the toucan before the wind shield."

Can't Even Be Brought.

"Do you subscribe to the old story that the criminal always returns to the scene of the crime?"

"Not always," replied the sure enough detective. "Sometimes the extradition papers won't hold."

Frank.

"Oh, how do you pronounce—" "It's the war news you're reading, you needn't go any further. I don't know."

A Handicap.

She—This house advertises a continual supply of hot water.

He—Not for me! I'd be always in it.

Its Advantage.

"Real estate investment is making way."

"Naturally, it's gaining ground."

MAY BE COFFEE

That Causes all the Trouble

When the house is afire, it's about the same as when disease begins to show. It's no time to talk but time to act—delay is dangerous—remove the cause of the trouble at once.

"For a number of years," wrote a Kansas lady, "I felt sure that coffee was hurting me, and yet I was so fond of it, I could not give it up. At last I got so bad that I made up my mind I must either quit the use of coffee or die."

Everything I ate distressed me, and I suffered severely most of the time with palpitation of the heart. I frequently woke up in the night with the feeling that I was almost gone—my heart seemed so smothered and weak in its action. My breath grew short and the least exertion set me panting. I slept but little and suffered from rheumatism.

"Two years ago I stopped using the coffee and began to use Postum and from the very first I began to improve. It worked a miracle! Now I can eat anything and digest it without trouble. I sleep like a baby, and my heart beats strong and regularly. My breathing has become steady and normal, and my rheumatism has left me."

"I feel like another person, and it is all due to quitting coffee and using Postum, for I haven't used any medicine and none would have done any good as long as I kept drugging with coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled, 1 lb. and 25 packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 50c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious, and cost per cup about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

CEDAR RUST DISEASE

Trouble is Very Abundant in Some Eastern Sections.

Orchards in Vicinity of Cedar Thickets Usually Suffer More Severely Than Those Which Are Situated Some Distance Away.

The cedar rust of apples is more or less widespread in the eastern and central portions of the United States. It is reported from New Hampshire to North Carolina on the Atlantic seaboard and westward as far as Iowa and Nebraska. The disease is not found except in regions where both apples and red cedar grow. The red cedar is very abundant in some parts of the eastern states, and in those sections there is a great deal more of the disease than in any other portion. The principal reason for this lies in the fact, that, along with the abundance of cedar trees, the large commercial apple orchards contain many varieties which are particularly susceptible to the disease. Orchards in the vicinity of cedar thickets have usually suffered more severely than those which are situated at some distance. The injury is more marked if the orchard is on the leeward side of the cedar thickets, where the spores of the disease may be continually borne in by prevailing winds, but all orchards of susceptible varieties of apples suffer more or less from the cedar rust. Two years ago, the financial loss to apple growers in the state of Virginia alone was estimated to be upwards of one-half million dollars, and this did not take into account the loss due to weakness of the trees and to impairing the vitality of the fruit buds for the following year, which would surely diminish each succeeding crop.

The cedar trees in the vicinity of apple orchards develop, during the winter and early spring, a large number of corky galls, which are commonly spoken of as cedar apples. These galls contain the winter spores and slowly mature during the warm days of late winter and early spring. When the weather becomes warm enough and there is abundant moisture present, the cedar apples thrust out many gelatinous tendrils. So long as the gelatinous material is damp the spores do not escape to any extent, but, if bright, sunny days with brisk winds follow, the watery tendrils are dried and the spores are blown away from the cedar apples. The wind, of course, blows these spores where it lists, but only those which are carried to apple trees find conditions which are suited to their germination and future development.

How far these spores may be car-

THE PERIODS OF GESTATION

Approximate Figures Given for Common Farm Animals—Considerable Variation is Likely.

So many inquiries have been received relative to the period of gestation for common farm animals that we give the following brief statement of the approximate periods: Mares, 11 months; cows, 285 days; sheep, 5 months; goats, 5 months; sows, 4 months; dogs, 63 days; cats, 59 days; rabbits, 30 days; squirrels, 28 days; rats, 24 days; turkeys, incubation, 26 to 28 days; guinea-fow, 25 to 26 days; geese, 27 to 28 days; ducks, 24 to 26 days; hens, 15 to 24 days; canary birds, 13 to 14 days.

It must be remembered that the above figures are only approximate and that considerable variation will be experienced. For example, a record of 764 cows showed a shortest period of 220 days and a longest period of 313 days, with an average of 285 days.

A record of 25 sows showed extremes of 109 and 123 days while a record has never been definitely determined. Our observations and studies go to show, however, that if an orchard is one-half mile from the cedar, the amount of rust infection is usually not great enough to be a serious injury to the orchard. Any cedar trees which are cut after March first should be burned, since they retain the ability to cause infection for two months.

RAISE BIG TOULOUSE GEES

Fowls Can Be Fed Almost Entirely on Grass—Not Subject to Disease Like Chickens.

We raise the large Toulouse geese and find them very profitable. They can be raised almost entirely on grass and are not subject to disease, like chickens. They commence to lay about the middle of February and will lay from twelve to fifteen eggs before wanting to set. They will lay three clutches of eggs if they are broken up when they want to set. One gander should be kept for every three or four geese and if they have access to a pond of water in the spring, almost every egg will be fertile. The sooner the eggs are set after they are laid the better they will hatch. We set the eggs under hens giving seven eggs to each hen. If the weather is very dry we moisten the eggs with lukewarm water about the middle of the hatch and again a day or two before they are due to hatch. We nearly always have good luck hatching the eggs, says a writer in an exchange.

We give the goslings their first feed and water when they are forty-eight hours old. The water should be kept before them all the time in something that they can drink out of easily, but can't get into. We keep green feed such as lettuce, mustard or tender grass before them all the time, and give them bread moistened with milk, hot cheese or wet corn meal, three times a day until they are three weeks old. After this we give them a good feed of wet corn meal every night and morning and all the green feed they will eat until they are about seven weeks old. Then they are turned out in the pasture or in a rape patch and do not receive any more grain until fall. The goslings do not need a pond of water to swim in.

TRADE MUST BE CATERED TO

Appearance Has Much to Do With Sale of Dressed Poultry—Advertiser All of Your Products.

When shipping dressed poultry to market, all the whims and fancies of the trade must be catered to. Appearance has much to do with the sale. A neatly dressed, plump carcass, free from pin feathers, at once attracts the attention of the buyer.

It is a good idea to tag each carcass, and on this tag advertise the name and address of the farm that produced the carcass. It will lead people to call for your goods.

Yellow skin and flesh do not necessarily denote quality of flesh, but the market calls for such, and it is up to the poultryer to produce it. A full breast, broad back and plump body gives the ideal appearance.

ord of another ten sows showed periods varying from 181 to 116 days. The age, breed, condition, care and feed of animals affect the length of their period of gestation.

TESTING SEED BY INCUBATOR

Tray Made of Light Wood, Filled With Sand, Will Prove Efficacious—Keep Temperature Right.

While not in use for hatching, the incubator may be used for testing seed by making a false tray of light wood which is filled with sand. The seed should be placed in the sand, covered and kept moist. Keep the temperature up to, or above 85 degrees, and the seed will germinate in a short time.

Even when it is in use for hatching, seeds may be tested by placing them between damp cloths in a plate, setting the plate under the egg tray in what is known as the "chick nursery."

Plants thus germinated in sand may be transplanted to the hot bed, not only testing the seed for vitality, but utilizing those so tested.

EASY WAY TO FILTER WATER

Simple and Comparatively Without Cost—Excellent Lamp for the Sick-room—Towel Brackets.

It often happens that pump water is filled with sand or gritty substance, and one must wait until it has settled before it is fit to use. If this is the case, an easy way to filter it is to take a rather fine sponge, just large enough to fit into the spout of the pump. Attach a wire to the sponge, so that when it is pushed up in the spout it can easily be removed. When the water runs through this sponge it will come out clear, for the sand will be collected by the sponge. Be sure not to get the sponge too large, or it will stop the flow of water. Take the sponge out at least twice a week and clean it thoroughly.

A small lamp can be made for the sickroom by taking a bottle such as medicine comes in and attaching to it by a wire a short piece of brass or copper tubing one-eighth of an inch in diameter. A thick piece of cotton cord makes the wick, and the chimney is simply a tumbler with the bottom cut out. These lamps are safe and will burn without odor. Lard oil will be found a good substitute for kerosene and will be less apt to smoke.

Very serviceable brackets for a towel roller can be made by using ordinary wire hooks, as shown in the illustration. The roller is made of wood—a broom handle will do—and two nails with the heads knocked off are inserted in the ends. These are put through the opening in the ends of the hooks, so that the roller can revolve easily. When it is necessary to change towels, spring the hooks apart and slip out the roller.

Hints for Good Cooks.

Salad dressing can be made of almost anything, but the best imitation of the genuine can be manufactured by taking two teaspoonfuls of gasoline, a pint of ammonia, three tablespoonfuls of cod liver oil and a jigger of axle grease.

There is always one way sure to tell when an egg is bad. Boil it soft and then open it with a common case knife or a spoon. If it is bad you will not be left long in doubt.

Original Meat Recipe.

Cut beef, either cooked or uncooked, into inch cubes. Put in porcelain covered saucepan. Dredge thick with flour. To two and a half cups of beef add eight cloves and half can of tomatoes. If not enough liquid to more than cover add water. Set on back of stove, cover and let simmer three or four hours. Sometimes I add sliced potatoes one-half hour before serving. Should be very tender, dark red with no trace of tomato and very rich.

Fresh Fish Balls.

One pint cold boiled fish free from skin and bone and minced fine, one pint hot mashed potatoes, one tablespoonful butter, half cupful hot milk, one egg well beaten, pepper, salt and a little parsley (if you like parsley). Mix thoroughly and let cool. When cold make into balls, dip into a beaten egg, roll in bread crumbs and fry in hot lard. This makes about twenty-two cakes.

Horse-Radish Vinegar.

Pour two pints of boiling cider over one and one-half cupfuls of freshly grated horse-radish; add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one of salt and let stand one week. Strain, bottle and keep to serve with meat or fish, to flavor salads or to use as a dressing for, cross, kale, etc.

Flannel Dish Cloths.

Try using white outing flannel for dish cloths. They are very durable, also softer for glass and fine china. A 14-inch square is a good size.

Lamb Chops in Jellyed Mayonnaise.

Have some chops trimmed and the bone cut close to the meat, saute them in butter with a little chopped parsley, celery, onion and green pepper, and press until cold. Dip them in jellyed mayonnaise, garnish them with pimientos, truffles and cooked green peas that have been an hour in marinade.

For Tar Stains.

Tar stains may be removed from cotton fabrics by covering the spots with butter and allowing it to remain for a few hours before washing.

Better cookies, cake and biscuits, too. All as light, fluffy, tender and delicious as mother used to bake. And just as wholesome. For pure Baking Powder than Calumet cannot be had at any price. Ask your grocer.

"CASCARETS" ACT ON LIVER, BOWELS

No sick headache, biliousness, bad taste or constipation
by morning.

Get a 10-cent box.

Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passage every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause any inconvenience, and cost only 10 cents a box from your store. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipation. Adv.

The cheap swell in the railway compartment was airing his superiority, to the unutterable disgust of his fellow travelers.

"You know," he remarked, "I don't often ride third class. One meets such frightfully common people."

One of his victims groaned.

"I generally travel by motor," continued his "bragship," "but my chauffeur is laid up at present, wretched fellow."

Thus he puffed on the agony.

"All tickets ready?" shouted the collector, and our hero handed up his with an air of condescension.

"Sorry, sir," said the porter, with a grin, "but this is your uncle's, I presume."

Amid the jeers of the other passengers, Mr. Boastful changed compartments with alacrity, taking his pawn-ticket with him.—London Titbits.

IF BACK HURTS CLEAN KIDNEYS WITH SALTS

Drink Lots of Water and Stop Eating
Meat for a While if the Bladder
Bothers You.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poisons, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach aches, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Adv.

El Presidente Wilson envió el nombre de Samuel J. Barris al Senado de los Estados Unidos por confirmación a título de sheriff de los Estados Unidos en el distrito de Colorado.

El funeral de William P. Rice, que fué matado en un accidente en la planta de la Arizona Copper Company, en Clifton, Ariz., tuvo efecto en la sala de logia de Garay N. 492, B. P. O. E.

La Señora Lewis Hinkle, un miembro de una de las antiguas familias del condado de Sagunche, murió en su casa en Sagunche después de una enfermedad que duró varios meses.

Tendrá efecto una parada de motor por los parques de montes de Denver bajo los auspicios de los miembros del Motor Club de Denver y otros propietarios de automóviles el 7 de Marzo.

Hace poco treinta y cinco parientes y amigos se reunieron en la casa de George Clark cerca de Midway para celebrar el quincuagésimo aniversario de bodas de sus padres, el Señor y la Señora L. Clark.

Zel Wheeler de Erie está padeciendo de la fractura de una costilla, de la rotación de un hombro y de muchas contusiones del cuerpo, resultando lo todo de un accidente en que un vagón de leña se volcó en él.

James Adamson, el hijo de tres años del Señor y de la Señora Quincy Adamson, de Denver, se cayó en una cuba de agua hirviendo jugando en la casa, y fué escaldado en varias partes con más ó menos gravedad.

Se expidieron catorce dobles furgones de cargadores gordos de las tres poblaciones de Ramah, Matibon y Rosolia.

Sam De John, un huelguista arrestado en conexión con los asesinatos de mina de La Veta, fué testigo para la prosecución en Pueblo. En su historia sobre el banco de testigos De John declaró que era uno del partido que atacó a la gente del automóvil, matando a uno de ellos. El acusado á cinco de los defensores.

Los hombres de minas regresando de Leadville declaran que el progreso hecho en ese campamento en los últimos meses ha sido casi tan importante, sino tan aparatoso, como en los grandes establecimientos de Cripple Creek y prometen un año de gran prosperidad, particularmente si se mantienen los precios actuales del zinc. Enormes cantidades de mineral se están descubriendo constantemente, y aunque la mayor parte son de un grado bajo tratándose de metales preciosos, es de gran valor considerando los precios para metales más comunes y la escasez en que se están produciendo.

ENDS DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" cures sick, sour stomachs in five minutes
—Time It!

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.—Adv.

Bill—Did you ever try to stand on an egg?

Jim—Oh, yes.

"And what did you learn?"

"That the inside of the egg was stronger than the outside."

Sprains, Bruises Stiff Muscles

Sloan's Liniment will save hours of suffering. For bruise or sprain it gives instant relief. It arrests inflammation and thus prevents more serious troubles developing. No need to rub it in—it acts at once, instantly relieving the pain, however severe it may be.

Here's Proof

Charles Johnson, P. O. Box 102, Lawrence, Kansas, N. Y., writes: "I sprained my ankle and dislocated my left hip by falling out of a third story window six months ago. I went on crutches for four months, then I started to use some of your Liniment, according to your directions, and I must say that it is helping me wonderfully. I threw my crutches away. Only used two bottles of your Liniment and now I am walking quite well with one cane. I never will be without Sloan's Liniment."

SUBSCRIBERS NOTICE

Since taking charge of the Outlook we have mailed out several hundred dollars worth of statements to those who were indebted $1.50 or more, and those whose subscription had expired we mailed statements to them for the advance subscription now due. Some have remitted, but the majority have remained as silent as the seven spirits. We kindly ask every one indebted to us to send in their remittance at once. It seems a little unfair for us to pay interest to keep our business going when we have due us in amounts from $1.50 up, enough to pay all we owe. In fact we cannot understand why a subscription to a newspaper should be the last obligation considered, when most of those indebted are able to pay promptly. A payment now will be appreciated.

FOR SCHOOL DIRECTOR

After having been earnestly solicited by a number of friends and voters of this district, A. J. Rolland has consented to announce as a candidate for member of the school board. Mr. Rolland has every qualification for this position and if elected will, no doubt, serve to the best of his ability for the best interests of the school. There are two members to elect at this time and Mr. Rolland is the third man to announce, Frank English and Julian Taylor having announced last week.

NOTICE

To Whom It May Concern: In view of the fact that numerous complaints have been made to this office concerning the throwing of trash, filth and other refuse in and around the Town of Carrizozo, and for the benefit of the general public, I take this occasion to call attention to the provisions of Chapter 10 of the Laws of 1912, which provides in substance that it shall be unlawful for any person to place or deposit any filth, litter, refuse, carcass or other matter or thing, on along or near any road or high way so that the same is or may become offensive or nauseous to persons being or traveling over, through or upon said road or highway, or near to any inhabited building so that the same is or may become offensive to persons in or about said building or the premises adjacent thereto, and any one found to be guilty of so doing shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of from $5.00 to $50.00, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding sixty days, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court. Any person violating this act will be promptly prosecuted.
