Corporation Publicity

Railway Age-Gazette: Since the inception of the railroad, the problem of providing adequate public relations has been a major concern. The railway industry has worked hard to create a positive image and ensure the public's trust in the railway system. The newspaper has reported on various railway events, including construction projects, improvements, and safety measures. The public relations efforts have helped to maintain a positive relationship between the railway industry and the public.

Cimarron, the Apple Country of the Southwest

Following is a communication from M. M. Chase, of Cimarron, which should convince proof that the Cimarron country is the apple region of the southwest. Mr. Chase is now gathering a thirty to forty car load 1910 crop:

New Mexico Bureau of Immigration, Albuquerque.

General.

The results of fruit growing in Colfax, county out of an experience of nearly forty years, and demonstrated beyond any question that this is as good a fruit country as any of the famous fruit growing districts of Colorado or the northwest, and that it has some advantage over both of them. The late frost in the fruit is in blossom, are not unusual occurrences of a long duration as in Colorado, thus lessening the cost of spraying and decreasing the per centage of failures. These insects and parasites which make fruit growing an uncertain and expensive in many localities do not exist here and the spray, spraying has not been necessary.

Our apples are of exceptionally fine flavor and have splendid keeping qualities, the apples particularly are well colored, thin skinned, crisp and juicy. The crops are as certain as is any locality where fruit of the highest quality is grown. In most of the orchards of the county there are some but few cases from any cause, and in my orchard but one failure in thirty three years. The trees grow very rapidly under irrigation in this rich soil and come into bearing early. The older trees have remarkably smooth, clean bark and continue to produce abundant fruit of highest quality.

Climate, climatic conditions and soil all seem perfectly adapted to fruit growing. Do not understand me as saying that perfect crops can be grown without labor and attention. The orchard land should be thoroughly plowed and irrigated at proper intervals. The trees should be pruned at the right time and in the right way. After the fruit is gathered the ground should be given thorough plowing leaving it open. It should be irrigated and fall for the winter. By this means the ground will lessen to a greater depth the fertilizing the early budding of the tree. The life of an apple tree in this locality depends largely upon the management of growing tools. Let the orchardist properly prune his trees, removing each year the old branches which have done their work and allowing new shoots to take their place and it will prolong the productive life to the trees for years.

Cimarron, in the county of 1866, and started fruit growing in a small way on my present ranch three miles north of Cimarron, in 1872, when I set out a small orchard of apples, pears, peaches and plums. I was succeeded by my son in 1887. I had an orchard of 60 acres. The orchard began bearing in 1876-78, and I have had but one complete failure of an orchard, that time to date. In 1907 I had a complete failure of apples.

Yours very truly,

M. M. Chase, Cimarron, N. M.

Dry farming, the official Teachings in various states, has been the subject of much attention and study. It is now clear that the methods of dry farming can be successfully applied to the irrigated lands of the Southwest. The use of this method of agriculture has resulted in a marked increase in the production of crops. The following article is a summary of the principal results obtained in the dry farming experiments conducted in New Mexico.

In conclusion, it can be said that dry farming is a promising and practical method of agriculture. Its success depends on careful planning and execution. The results obtained in the experiments conducted in New Mexico are encouraging and show that dry farming can be successfully applied to the irrigated lands of the Southwest.

Dist. Attorney Remley Explains Himself

In conversation with Mr. Remley on this issue relative to the可爱的provision in the Range, he said the following:

"I have been asked by many people just what the meaning of the article which appeared in the Range Range relative to the machines and Sunday closing. It appears to me that my statement is as follows: that there can be one operation placed upon the public domain, that the public domain is the property of the State, and that the State shall have the right to control the use of the public domain, and that the State shall have the right to control the use of the public domain."
