

6-20-1891

Albuquerque Weekly Citizen, 06-20-1891

T. Hughes

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/abq_citizen_news

Recommended Citation

Hughes, T.. "Albuquerque Weekly Citizen, 06-20-1891." (1891). https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/abq_citizen_news/19

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the New Mexico Historical Newspapers at UNM Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Albuquerque Citizen, 1891-1906 by an authorized administrator of UNM Digital Repository. For more information, please contact disc@unm.edu.

Albuquerque Weekly Citizen.

NUMBER 26

SUTHERLAND, WATFILL.

WANTED

The degree of public attention that has been directed to this part of the country by the advertising that has been done by the Commercial club in all parts of the United States, has laid the foundation for large accessions to our population, and the time has already come when it is necessary for us to give some attention to the matter of finding suitable locations for the people who are now looking in this direction for the purpose of making their homes here. The club is now in receipt of numbers of letters, from people in every part of the United States, all desiring to come here and go into business, but they want to know first whether good openings and locations are to hand. The following "wants" are new on the list at the club room, and any of our readers who can give any information on any of the subjects mentioned below will confer a favor, and probably do something to benefit the country, by communicating with the "Press Department" of the club.

Wanted—Eight hundred acres of land, in one body, subject to irrigation, within ten miles of Albuquerque, for the location of a colony.

A well improved farm not more than five miles from town, with not less than a hundred acres.

To know whether contracts can be made with reliable parties for fruits and vegetables enough to keep a canning factory of moderate capacity in operation during the season.

A sheep ranch, with five to ten thousand animals, not more than seventy miles from Albuquerque by rail, or forty

A grant with good title, containing fifteen to thirty thousand acres, with good grass and water, suitable for a cattle ranch. Must not be more than seventy-five miles from Albuquerque.

To know whether "Yuccaigre root" can be gathered here in quantities for shipping, and what the cost will be delivered in Albuquerque.

Inquiries upon the foregoing subjects and many others of a similar character, are now on file at the club rooms, and there are being received every day. It is to the interest of every citizen of Albion to do what he can toward furnishing the information desired, and

A CANNING FACTORY.
The attention of parties with capital, who are looking for a chance to invest in an enterprise that will be of great service to the community, is directed to the following proposition:

an enterprise that will be at once safe and profitable, is directed to the fact that an establishment for canning fruits and vegetables, at Albuquerque, would find a good business and a big demand at good prices, all ready and waiting for it.

It is a fact now pretty generally known throughout the country that there is no better fruit growing district in the United States than the Rio Grande valley, and it is equally as good for vegetables of all kinds as for fruits. And in the second place, it is also a well known fact that there is no where on the continent a better or more reliable demand for earned goods of every description than that which comes from the mining camps, the cattle camps and the sheep camps of New Mexico—and putting this and that together it will not take any business man long to demonstrate the fact that where the product is and the demand is, there is also the place for the factory.

What business or sense is there in bringing to Albuquerque train loads (as we do every year) of canned vegetables from New England, canned fruits from Delaware and California, and bottled pickles and sauces from Great Britain, when we can raise more and better stuff from our own soil and can it ourselves at

The natural conditions which exist in New Mexico furnish an absolute guarantee that at least two-thirds of the people of the territory not counting those in the towns must almost be non-pro-

farmers, in an agricultural sense—that is, the hedges and ranges will always give employment to two-thirds of our suburban population, and these as well as the dwellers in the towns must be fed by the comparatively small fraction who the comparatively small fraction who cultivate the soil. This insures us for all time a good home market for all the surplus products of the soil we are ever likely to have, and being thus provided with a good home market at our doors, and insured against dangerous competi-

It is safe to say that there is no section of the United States to-day in which there is as great a quantity of canned goods consumed in proportion to the population as in New Mexico, and certainly no point at which a canning fac-

"My father, at about the age of fifty years, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor, the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."

F. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

