Utah State Shakes off Lobos In First Half to Win 103-72

Grant Makes 28 To Break Record

By LEONARD KNIGHT

Utah State's Grant was the first to make 28 three-pointers in a game, as the Aggies defeated New Mexico 103-72 Thursday night. Grant, who had 32 points, broke the record of 21 three-pointers set by Kansas State's Danny Manning in 1985. The Aggies shot 14-21 on threes and Grant converted 10 of his 13 attempts from beyond the arc. Utah State shot 30-65 from the field, including 14-36 on three-pointers.

Utah Grabs Lead in Loop Swimming

Utah University competed at the NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships, where they took the lead in the Skivington relay on Thursday. The team will have chances to earn tickets to the winter championships.

Student Affairs

The Student Affairs Committee will meet on Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Senate to discuss the Student Senate meeting on Thursday. The meeting will feature discussions of the student government's plans and initiatives.

Teachers Receive 'A' Averages Here

Two out-of-town high school students will be commended for their performance in the Utah Department of Education's test for the first time. The students, who are from the state's lowest-performing districts, will be honored for their academic achievements.

Music Program Set Tuesdays on KNME

"After five years," the program continues, "the students of KNME have been working to bring quality entertainment to the public. The program is set to air from 4 to 5 p.m. on Tuesdays. The program will feature a range of musical genres, including classical, jazz, and contemporary music.

COOL KROSSWORD

No. 6

ACROSS

1. A word for "cold" or "cool." (10)
2. The capital of the state of Oregon. (6)
3. A slang word for "cold." (5)
4. A word for "cold" or "cool." (6)
5. A word for "cold" or "cool." (9)
6. The capital of the state of Oregon. (6)
7. A word for "cold" or "cool." (5)
8. A word for "cold" or "cool." (6)
9. The capital of the state of Oregon. (6)
10. A word for "cold" or "cool." (9)

DOWN

1. A word for "cold" or "cool." (10)
2. The capital of the state of Oregon. (6)
3. A word for "cold" or "cool." (5)
4. A word for "cold" or "cool." (6)
5. The capital of the state of Oregon. (6)
6. A word for "cold" or "cool." (5)
7. A word for "cold" or "cool." (6)
8. The capital of the state of Oregon. (6)
9. A word for "cold" or "cool." (9)
10. The capital of the state of Oregon. (6)

Sousse on Spicy Almond Shave Soap. Find your base shave and feel good for as long as you wash. A good Nettles. You know you're at your best when you're off your shave with Soap 1000.
The Partisan View

By BERN MCDONALD

Why is it that the American South continues to vote overwhelmingly Republican in national elections? Is it simply a result of the Democratic Party's own failings? Or is it rooted in a deeper sense of identity and values? In the face of this persistent divide, it's worth considering the role that Southern identity plays in shaping political behavior.

In the context of the current political climate, it's clear that Southern voters are more likely to support policies that promote rugged individualism, a strong work ethic, and a limited role for government. This is reflected in their support for candidates who champion conservative values and are opposed to government intervention in the economy or the affairs of states.

On the other hand, the Democratic Party has historically been associated with the interests of the working class and the poor. This has fueled a sense of political alienation among Southern voters, leading them to feel like their voices are not heard in Washington. As a result, they are more likely to support candidates who promise to represent their interests and to work to improve their communities.

As we look to the future, it's essential to understand that the political landscape of the South is not static. There are trends towards more urbanization and economic diversification, which could have implications for the political allegiances of Southern voters.

In conclusion, while the American South continues to vote Republican, it's important to recognize the underlying reasons for this allegiance. By understanding the role of Southern identity in shaping political behavior, we can better appreciate the complexity of the political landscape and work towards more equitable representation.

Gort

Gort has arrived! Hope you like him. He gets even better on maturation in his puberty period. He will be featured in the LOBO on Fridays, but since he didn't arrive last Friday, his first appearance is today.

Big School

Twenty-five UNM students demonstrated in front of the local Woolworth store to show their sympathy for the Southern Negro's plight in that part of the country. According to the reports, the preceding twenty-five were the butt of much local criticism. Some people said they assaulted nothing. Others said they made themselves ridiculous.

We don't think, this is the whole picture. Testimony of this can be found in the letters column of the LOBO. More evidence of support for the action can be found in some of the compliments the people participating in the protest personally received. Also some of the sentiments expressed to us verbatim who mentioned it casually.

There is more to the efforts made by Saturday's students than just to make the people who said they didn't have to be on the demonstration. It was an effort to bring the situation to the attention of the administration.

One official at the demonstration was reported to have called the student "amazing new people." There were some who allegedly teased some of them by asking if they had ever worked before.

You can be sure that the student who put his job in a good day's work. All the criticisms they received is certainly justified. But they can be satisfied that their work was not for monetary payment, but for the cause of a just cause.

People have said that Gort can get away with anything because that student who participated in public criticism. They say that only the big schools such as Harvard can do something of this nature and still retain respect. We wonder if this is not one of the ways they become "Gort." Southern students are often reported for performing all kinds of acts, even by the status quo, but because they think in terms of ideas which sound so wonderful when stated in the presence of his and her advantage. Gort can never accomplish their kind of dignity if it prefers only to deal with trivial personal problems.

The LOBO salutes all who were on the picket line for noble purposes.

Letter to the Editor

In response to the editorial "Snoopy" in the April 20 issue of the LOBO, I would like to add a few thoughts to the discussion. The editorial raised some important points about the character and actions of Snoopy, but there are additional aspects that can shed light on this beloved comic strip character.

For instance, it is often pointed out that Snoopy's use of fantasy and imagination to cope with his own insecurities and fears. This is a common theme in many comic strips, where the characters use their imaginations to deal with their problems. In the case of Snoopy, his flights of fancy provide a way for him to escape his own limitations and challenges.

Furthermore, Snoopy's character is often seen as a symbol of hope and optimism. Despite the obstacles he faces, he remains determined to make the best of his situation and continue pursuing his goals. This is a lesson that can be applied to our own lives, encouraging us to remain positive and hopeful even in the face of adversity.

Overall, Snoopy's character is a reminder of the power of imagination and the importance of maintaining a positive mindset in the face of difficult circumstances. While the editorial touched on some of these themes, there is much more to be explored in the character of Snoopy and his impact on readers.

Sincerely,

Name

The New Mexico State University's men's basketball team has been doing quite well in recent games. In their last game against the University of Arizona, they managed to secure a 76-68 victory, with a strong performance from their star player, John Smith. The team is now looking forward to their upcoming game against the University of Texas, where they hope to maintain their winning streak.

The game against Arizona was a tough one, but the team managed to pull through with a combination of strong defense and offensive plays. John Smith was the standout player, scoring 30 points and grabbing 10 rebounds. The team's coach, Coach Smith, praised his team for their hard work and dedication, and said that they are looking forward to the next game with the same level of intensity.

The team is currently ranked 15th in the nation and is looking to solidify their position in the conference standings. They have a tough road ahead, but the team is confident in their ability to perform well in their upcoming games. They are working hard to improve their skills and strategy, and are looking forward to the next challenge.

In conclusion, the New Mexico State University men's basketball team is off to a strong start this season. They are working hard to improve their skills and strategy, and are looking forward to the next challenge. Fans are excited about the team's performance, and are looking forward to their upcoming games.
University of Utah Takes Swim Title
United Press International

Worried about the opening session of the National Science Foundation's annual meeting in Washington, D.C., officials have urged the attendees to participate actively. The meeting, which is held annually to discuss major issues facing the scientific community, provides a platform for sharing ideas, collaborating on projects, and networking with peers.

Patronize LOBO Advertisers

...staffed by graduates of virtually every engineering school in the United States...

TUXEDO RENTAL
MISTER FORMAL
MISTER FORMAL bias formal ware and accessories
3201 Central SE
Phone 731-4079

Show to Be Judged

By Art Instructor
Paula Wright, instructor at the University of New Mexico, will judge the show "Art in the Park." The event is open to all disciplines and aims to celebrate the creativity and visual arts within the community.

L'ACCENT EST FRANÇAIS... when you fly the AIR FRANCE way!
Aglion of what's what at a cocktail hour?
A good glass of wine, a tasty hors d'oeuvre?
The DIFFERENCE is where there's more of it, with a touch of style, better price.
HOW? WHERE? WHEN?

Adams State Wins In Matmen's Final

NOVA News

The Adams State College wrestling team capped a successful season by winning the NAIA National Championship on March 10 at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque. The team, coached by Tim Thompson, earned the title by defeating defending champions Montana State University.

Read the full report on page 2.

University of Utah Takes Swim Title

The University of Utah swimming team won the NCAA Championship meet on March 12 at the University of Texas in Austin, Texas. The team, led by head coach John O'Neill, won a total of 18 titles, including the team championship. The victory marked the 10th title for the University of Utah in the last 11 years.

Read the full report on page 3.

Edwin J. Friedman is attending a special advisory committee meeting on March 15 at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque. The meeting is focused on the development of a new academic program.

Read the full report on page 4.

Demos Slate Talks By Two Candidates

The Demos Party's state convention is scheduled for March 18 at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque. Two candidates, John Y. Martinez, former attorney general, and Michael D. Todd, will be discussing their platforms and strategies for the upcoming election.

Read the full report on page 5.

Race Begins for Campus Offices

Lenzini Unopposed For Top AP Post; Primary Is Slated

The University of New Mexico's Department of Student Affairs has announced the results of the primary for the top AP post. Frank J. Reynolds, the current dean of student affairs, is running unopposed for the position.

Read the full report on page 6.

Full State is Given By USP; McGuire Eying Presidency

The full state of the University of New Mexico for the upcoming presidential election was given to McGuire by the USP on March 15. The USP endorsed McGuire for the position.

Read the full report on page 7.

Editorial Changes Proposed by Board

The University of New Mexico's Board of Regents has proposed changes to the editorial policy of the student newspaper. The changes include a focus on local news, increased coverage of student affairs, and a more unbiased approach to reporting.

Read the full report on page 8.

Vigilantes to Hold 'Walk' for Charity

The university's Vigilantes organization will hold a 'Walk' for Charity on March 16 to raise funds for a local charity. The event will be held near the campus and will include a 5K run and a 10K walk.

Read the full report on page 9.

Movie 'Desire' Stars Deitch and Cooper

"Desire," starring Deitch and Cooper, will be screened at the university's Student Union on March 17. The screening is part of the university's film series, which focuses on a variety of themes and genres.

Read the full report on page 10.

Inspector General to Begin Six Performance Run Tonight

The Inspector General, a play written by Joe Cozzi, will begin its six-performance run tonight at the university's Performing Arts Center. The play is a comedy about a university administrator who is called to investigate a student cheating scandal.

Read the full report on page 11.

Four NM Students Awarded Woodrow Wilson Fellowships

Four New Mexico students have been awarded Woodrow Wilson Fellowships for their academic excellence. The fellowships, which cover tuition, fees, and living expenses, are awarded to students who have demonstrated exceptional academic performance.

Read the full report on page 12.