Student Heads Decry Parking, Red Tape

Debbie Barnhart

ASUNM officials met informally in the SUB Wednesday to discuss some prevalent problems, such as the shortage of campus parking and the overabundance of bureaucratic red tape.

ASUNM President Mario Ortiz said nothing is being done to make more parking space available to students.

"The administration is hoping that in the long run people will leave their cars at home and the campus will be closed to traffic," Ortiz said. "Until then, they want more students to park on the North Campus."

Student Volunteers Help Raise $7000

Fifty-five UNM student volunteers gave their time Feb. 2 through Feb. 5 to handle the phones during the first UNM Alumni Phonothon and raised nearly $7,000 in pledges.

The Phonothon, sponsored by the UNM Foundation, Inc., was held to raise alumni support and awareness of UNM's Presidential Scholarship Program.

The 55 volunteers placed some 2,000 calls to alumni across the state of New Mexico.

"The Phonothon would not have been the success it was nor would it

Ortiz said he thinks the faculty should park on the North Campus since they park in the morning and leave their cars while students come and go all day long.

ASUNM Senator Robert Lynch said he thinks bureaucratic red tape is a major problem on campus.

Lynch cited the financial aid distribution policy as an example.

"Students qualify for loans but don't get any money until after school starts. If they live on campus, they can't pay their housing fees on time, so they can't take advantage of the early discount rate," he said.

Students on financial aid also encounter problems when they go to pick up their checks, Lynch said.

Because of a lack of communication between the cashier's office and the financial aid office, he said, they may be forced to walk back and forth between Scholes Hall and Mesa Vista getting the required forms and signatures.

He suggested a hotline be set up to tell students what they will need before they go to pick up their checks.

ASUNM officers also said they were concerned with the lack of student involvement in campus government.

"Students have to tell us what they want. The responsibility is theirs as much as it is ours," ASUNM Senator Bill Littlefield said.

"Half the people on campus don't even know there is a senate," ASUNM senator Bob Matteucci said.

He suggested raising the senate's visibility by holding a meeting outside on the mall some afternoon.

ASUNM Vice President Peter Pierotti said that most students are not apathetic, they're just not interested.

"Most students don't care what happens here. They have jobs and kids. School is not the biggest part of their lives."

Reagan Hopes Budget Will Balance by 1983

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- President Reagan, encountering few problems as he makes final decisions on his budget cuts, said Thursday night he still hopes the budget can be balanced by 1983 but "we're sure to get it by '84."

Reagan made the comment after his Council of Economics Advisers chairman, Murray Weidenbaum, said it would probably will take until 1984 to balance the budget.

White House press secretary Jim Brady said earlier of the Weidenbaum statement, "That's Murray's personal view."

Weidenbaum briefed reporters on his "audit" of the U.S. economy, and predicted the budget cuts will be even-handed and across the board.

Brady also told reporters Reagan is encountering few problems in the final round of meetings to discuss his budget decisions. The president has found none of his Cabinet members strongly resisting his proposed budget cuts.

During the campaign, Reagan said the budget could be balanced by 1982. He since revised that estimate to 1983 because "the economic inheritance (is) much worse than we thought it would be," Brady said.

Reagan also had lunch with the leaders of 20 Hispanic organizations, and told them he soon will announce the appointments of five Latinos to sub-Cabinet positions.

The Hispanics, who last month sent the president a strongly worded letter complaining they were being ignored, told reporters they "felt better" after Thursday's talk.

And it was announced that Reagan will meet again with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo April 27-28 in San Diego and Tijuana, Mexico. The two met in January in Juarez before Reagan's inauguration.

Charities Given $4 Million Of Interest on DOE Penalty

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Paul Bloom, the Energy Department's former special counsel, gave $4 million of public money to charities on Jan. 19, the day he left office with the rest of the Carter team, the agency said Thursday.

An agency aide said Reagan administration officials first learned of Bloom's generosity last Monday. Telegrams were immediately sent to the beneficiaries asking them not to spend the money until the agency could review the legality of Bloom's move, she said.

"The review seems to indicate the disbursement was unauthorized," she said. "That doesn't mean it's illegal."

The charities were later asked to return the funds, pending a review of what should be done about them, said Robert Liming, a spokesman for Energy Secretary James Edwards.

Sharing Bloom's $4 million gift were the National Conference of Catholic Charities, the National Council of Churches, the Council of Jewish Federations and the Salvation Army. Bloom's office instructed the groups that the money was to be used to help the poor with fuel bills.

The money was accrued interest on a $100 million overcharging settlement Bloom's office reached with Standard Oil of Indiana (Amoco) in February 1980. The agency's Office of Hearings and Appeals is supposed to determine how the $100 million will be disbursed and various energy consumer groups have been lobbying to share in it.

"Apparently there is no record or indication here that Paul Bloom discussed this with Secretary (Charles) Duncan," the department aide said. "Apparently the department, outside Bloom's office, wasn't aware of this until recently."

"I can assure you, this is not going to be the policy of DOE under his administration," Liming said.

Students Make First Trip To Latin Studies Meeting

Maureen Fresquez

Members of the Student Organization for Latin American Studies will represent UNM for the first time at the Rocky Mountain Council on Latin American Studies meeting, Feb. 12-14, in Las Cruces, N.M.

Seven graduate students from SOLAS will present research papers on Mexican and Latin American topics at the 29th annual conference.

Students, administrators and professors from UNM and the Rocky Mountain State Region will attend the three-day conference at the Holiday Inn.

Current themes and concerns in Latin America and the U.S. Policy towards Latin America will be discussed by the UNM graduate students.

Karen Braken, co-chairman of SOLAS said, "The purpose of the conference is to give scholars the opportunity to see what work is being done in Latin American countries."

Members of the U.S. Department of State are also scheduled to attend the meeting. Arlen Wilson will speak on Contemporary Developments in Central American Politics and Robert Pastorino will discuss Trade, Fishing and other Issues.

The Latin American conference is sponsored by the Center for Latin American Studies at New Mexico State University.

Murdoch Ready To Buy The Times of London

LONDON -- Australian media magnate Rupert Murdoch said Thursday he has reached necessary union agreements to allow him to buy the Times of London, but that 563 jobs will have to be sacrificed to save the prestigious newspaper.

Murdoch, owner of newspapers, magazines and television stations in Australia, Britain and the United States, said he expected to sew up the deal to purchase the Times, the Sunday Times and three supplements from the Canada-based Thomson Organization Friday.

Last month, Murdoch reached provisional agreement with Thomson to buy the 195-year-old Times, and its sister publications, which have lost about $180 million in 13 years.

The final acquisition was conditional on the unions agreeing to staff layoffs, use of computer technology, a temporary pay freeze and transfer of the supplement printing outside London.

Murdoch, who has been accused of editorial interference in some of his other publications, also issued a public guarantee that there will be full editorial independence when he takes over and hirings and firings will be left in the hands of the editors.

"There will be some further legal and other technicalities but we expect full completion of (the purchase) within 24 hours," said Murdoch.

Testing of Bio-Synthetic Insulin Undertaken in Six U.S. Cities

DETROIT -- The first nationwide test of "biosynthetic" insulin, hailed by doctors as a major advance in the treatment of diabetes, is getting under way at hospitals and clinics in six states, it was announced Thursday.

Volunteer patients began receiving the first injections of insulin this week in Detroit, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Seattle, Trenton, N.J., and Wichita, Kan.

Doctors expect about 200 or more patients to volunteer in the six cities. Patients must be referred to the program by a doctor.

Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital currently has just two volunteer patients in its program, but is aiming for 50.

The testing program also is under way at the Mason Clinic in Seattle and the Diabetes Education Center in Minneapolis.

The nationwide testing program follows a pilot project last December in which five diabetics received the insulin -- with no apparent ill effects -- at the Kansas Regional Diabetic Center, part of the University of Kansas School of Medicine.

Biosynthetic insulin -- manufactured by Eli Lilly and Co. of Indianapolis through genetic engineering -- is chemically similar to the hormone produced by the human pancreas to regulate blood sugar.

Doctors said it would offer a cheap and abundant substitute for animal insulin now used by some two million American diabetics and eliminate dangerous allergic reactions in some of those patients.

"Obviously, we'd like to have a cure, but until we do we want the best possible treatment," said Dr. Dorothy Kahkonen, supervisor of the program at Henry Ford Hospital. "This will be a quantum leap."

Eli Lilly and Genentech Inc. developed biosynthetic insulin through a recombinant DNA technique in which researchers splice a synthetic insulin-producing gene into a common bacterium called E. Coli.

The bacteria take on the new genetic instructions and quickly replicate to manufacture insulin similar to that in humans, doctors said.

The doses currently are more expensive than the 50 cents it costs for the commercial insulin most diabetics use daily, but Dr. Kahkonen said that will change with volume.

"This is one of the most exciting things to happen in the field," she said.

Eli Lilly is building two plants to manufacture the insulin, one in Indianapolis and the other in the United Kingdom.

TVA Reactor Springs Leak

SODDY-DAISY, Tenn. -- An operator error was blamed Thursday for a nuclear plant accident that triggered a site emergency and sent 100,000 gallons of radioactive water raining down on 13 unsuspecting workers.

The mishap, which authorities said had a danger potential of about "one-half on a scale of 10," happened Wednesday night in the reactor room at the Tennessee Valley authority's Sequoyah plant in East Tennessee.

TVA officials said an assistant operator accidentally opened a valve, diverting the radioactive water to a sprinkler system in the reactor containment building of the $2 billion plant.

Plant spokesman Steve Goldman said the operator was supposed to open just two valves, but opened three instead. "He had the procedures right in front of him. We don't know why he opened the third valve. We are sitting down with him to thrash this thing out," Goldman said.

TVA officials said Thursday the reactor coolant water was only slightly radioactive and did not injure the workers. The men stripped off their clothes, showered to remove the contamination and were given complete checks by TVA doctors.

Goldman said the workers received a radiation dose of about one to five millirems.

International Applications Due In Soon

Robert Sanchez

The deadline to apply for the International Student Exchange Program (ISEP) is March 16, but students should allow at least three weeks to fill out all applications appropriately, said Clark Colahan, associate director of International Programs and Services.

ISEP was organized in January, 1979, by Georgetown University in Washington, D.C.

UNM became affiliated with the program and beginning next fall is eligible to exchange students at UNM with students at foreign universities.

Colahan said that the program is unique because of its cost savings to the student.

A student pays his home-college tuition, room and board, then must provide his own transportation to the foreign university.

For example, if a student from UNM wished to attend a university in Europe, the UNM student would pay his own tuition, room and board as if he were going to go to UNM. The foreign student would do the same, so upon arrival at the respective colleges, all necessary expenses are taken care of.

Colahan said that another advantage to the program is that the student who goes to a foreign university does not need to exchange with a foreign student directly. In other words, there must be a balance between outgoing and ingoing students at UNM but not necessarily from all foreign universities.

Colahan said that there are three major steps in applying for ISEP.

First, the student is told all information he might need to know about the foreign colleges available. The student must have a command of the language used at the foreign university.

Second, the student must decide on the courses he intends to take at the foreign university. International Programs and Services have catalogues of classes from all universities involved with ISEP.

Finally, the student must fill out all the application forms, including letters of reference.

Countries involved with ISEP include Australia, the British Isles, countries throughout Europe, Latin America, Middle East and Africa.

The International Program will provide further information about ISEP and other international programs Feb. 24 and 25. A double-decker bus like those used in England will be between Mitchell and Ortega Halls on these days with representatives of the programs providing information.

For example, other international programs are a summer session in Spain and Mexico, and exchange program like ISEP with Brazil, Guadalajara and Japan, a summer session for art and photography in Italy and French and German summer school in Taos.

Institutions Sacrificing Students

Recent trends in the economics of education demand that we ask a fundamental question about the purpose of higher education -- who is it for?

Overburdened financial aid programs are being reduced in volume and accessibility to students. Tuition and fee schedules are increasing. Faculty research programs are receiving more and more attention and money. Universities are emphasizing public relations more than ever before.

Educational institutions appear to be fighting for their very lives, devising increasingly creative justifications for their existence. But the people who administer them, up to and including state legislatures and Congress, seem to have forgotten the original raison d'être of universities -- the students who attend them.

Educational institutions are, in effect, trying to save the forest by sacrificing the trees. This strategy will not work.

Students are bargained with admonitions to accept the reality that they will probably have to make some sacrifices in obtaining a formal education. When assistance that they have become dependent upon is withdrawn, students are told that they will simply have to find another means of support. These kinds of comments are made so frequently they have become clichés, as superfluous as offering swimming lessons to fish.

But matriculation is not a vow of asceticism and has never been intended to be such a commitment. This may change in the very near future, however, if university attendance is restricted to the more prosperous classes of society as it once was. Never in the history of the world has more knowledge been so readily available to so many people, but as those at the top of the ivory tower struggle ever harder to retain their positions of prestige and authority, those who would challenge that tenacious grip must learn to expect to be treated as so much chaff. That is, students will be expected to accept their role as a necessary evil in higher education which must be tolerated so to preserve the institution.

Today's ravishing conservatism threatens the very foundation of higher education, but its institutions persist in overlooking their greatest strength, their students, and even discouraging the support that would be so readily given when needed. Students can only hope that such vanity is not the institutions' own undoing.

Letters

Ortiz Denies Charge of Marquez 'Ouster'

Editor:

This job never ceases to amaze me. Never a dull moment thanks to people like Mr. Phil Hernandez and Ms. Marquez. I think now I understand how President Carter felt everytime his brother Billy opened his mouth and the press would pick it up.

This will be the fourth consecutive year that I will be involved in the ASUNM budget. My freshman year as a student member of the B.I.B. (Budget Inquiry Board), my sophomore year as a senator on the Finance Committee, my junior year as President, and again this year as President.

Mr. Hernandez is correct in his description of the B.I.B.'s role according to ASUNM Law, or Hernandez's law as he puts it. A law that needs changing as do many of these laws that Hernandez wrote. Since I have been here the B.I.B. has never functioned according to his law. Until last year the B.I.B. was useless, and virtually non-existent.

What I have done is combine the efforts of the B.I.B. and the President's Office, giving both the badly needed strength and authority in the two years before I became President. The ASUNM Senate completely disregarded the President and the B.I.B.'s recommendation if any. The Senate would then have what seemed like a free for all, the strong shall survive type, meeting wasting over 12 hours to draw up a budget with no plan. Last year about 95 percent of what we submitted to the Senate was passed in one-half hour with approval of 95 percent of all concerned. Needless to say, Phil Hernandez and Vicky Marquez were in the unhappy 5 percent.

Now about this open meeting business, the B.I.B. will have two days of open meetings on March 3 and

4th. The exact time and place will be advertised. What I am doing now is meeting with the members informally in my office to give them all the data and charts they will need, as well as to plan the open meetings. We are organizing ourselves before we go to the public. We did this last year and it worked fine.

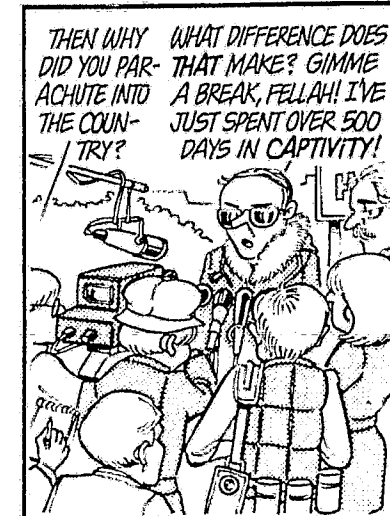

When Ms. Marquez came into my office the other day, I informed her of this. I informed her that we were not going to discuss groups or their request at that time, I also informed her that we would see to it that she hear of our open meetings. I also in front of five witnesses, plus my secretary who overheard, invited her to stay if she pleased. She chose to leave. I in no way "ousted" her from my office. The rest of her letter is equally untrue and misleading, which doesn't say much for Phil's letter since he is relying on Vicky's letter as fact.

Finally in case some of you still don't understand what is really going on here, maybe this will clear it up. The ASUNM Presidential election has burst its bubble and the candidates are hard at work. So prepare yourselves for heaps more of Spring Election rhetoric. The LOBO editorial page is just one of the battle grounds.

As for myself, I will not seek a third term, I am graduating on schedule with my class, and none to soon for I am lately growing a bit impatient with some of these professional students' Mickey Mouse antics. Phil, if you would concentrate more on your education and less in trying to pull victory out of defeat, (from two years ago,) you could have probably graduated last year. No hard feelings.

Ills and Pills

By Charles Vandiver
and Harry Wagner

Throughout history drugs have been the subject of numerous writings and witticisms. This past week the authors of Ills and Pills dug up some old quotations that refer to drugs and poisons. The source of the quotations was Familiar Medical Quotations, edited by Maurice B. Strauss. The following quotes do not necessarily represent the viewpoints of the authors of this column.

Coffee:
Hungarian Proverb
"Good coffee should be black like the devil, hot like hell, and sweet like a kiss."

Poisons:
Ralph Waldo Emerson (1803-1882)
"The poisons are our principle medicines, which kill the disease and save the life."

Edna St. Vincent Millay (1892-1950)
"I know some poison I could drink
I've often thought I'd taste it;
But Mother bought it for the sink,
And drinking it would waste it."

Drugs in general:
Aldous Huxley (1894-1963)
"Ah, the paradise that awaits us in 1984! . . . For every ill a pill. Tranquilizers to overcome angst (sic), pep pills to wake us up, life pills to ensure blissful sterility. I will lift up mine eyes unto the pills whence cometh my help."

Frederick W. Hanley (1917-)
"Give me a button of wild peyote
To munch in my den at night,
That I may set my id adrift
In the country of queer delight."

So ho! it's off to the land of dreams
With never a stop or stay,
Where psychiatrists meet with fairy queens
To sing a roundelay.

Give me a flagon of mescaline
To wash o'er my mundane mind,
That I may feel like a schizophrenic
Of the catatonic kind.

So hey! let in the visions of light
To banish banality,
Then will I surely catch a sight
Of the Real Reality.

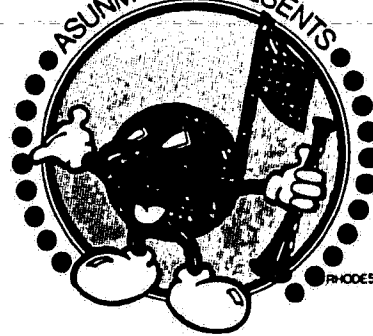

Give me a chalice of lysergic
To quaff when day is done,
That I may get a perceptual kick
From my diencephalon.

So ho! let all resistance down
For a transcendental glance
Past the superego's frosty frown
At the cosmic underpants.

Give me a pinch of psilocybin
To sprinkle in my beer,
That my psychopathic next-of-kin
May not seem quite so queer.

So hey! it's off for the visions bizarre,
Past the ego boundary,
For a snort at the psychedelic bar
Of the new psychiatry.

The UNM campus observatory will be open to the public, weather permitting, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday.

The observatory's 15-inch telescope will be focused on the moon. The 10-inch telescope will view the Orion nebula, and the 5-inch telescope will view the Pleiades open cluster.

A slide show is also scheduled during the evening. Admission to the observatory is free. Children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult.

The observatory is situated two blocks north of Lomas on Yale.

Medical Reviews Set

The reviews for the Medical College Admission Test (MCAT) and the Dental Admission Test (DAT) will begin the week of Feb. 23, not March 23 as reported earlier.

The test dates are April 4 for the MCAT and March 28 for the DAT.

For more information call 277-6565 or stop by Room 24-D in the SUB Basement.

Valentine Dance Scheduled

There will be a Valentine's Sweetheart Dance Friday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Old Casa Area of the SUB (upstairs).

The dance is sponsored by the UNM Ballroom Dance Club, and the admission is free.

Featured is a Valentine game with a prize for King and Queen of Hearts.

There are spaces still open for Country Western II Workshops, which meets on Monday evenings from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the North Ballroom. For more information call 277-5574 or talk to an officer of the Club when it meets Fridays.

Restoring Books Topic of Lecture

The Binding of Books: An Act of Stewardship is the title of a lecture on the art of book binding Feb. 18 by Courtney Sheehan, one of 12 bookbinding masters in the country.

The lecture, to be held in the Anderson Room in the west wing of Zimmerman Library at 7:30 p.m., will focus on the ethics, terms and tools of book restoration and binding, said Jerry Wise, coordinator of Friends of the Library.

Wise said that Sheehan, who has 20 years experience in restoring books in the same style they were originally bound, will discuss what he does and why.

"This is an art; no spiral binding is done," Wise said.

The lecture is the fourth in a series of five sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

Another lecture entitled The Book in New Mexico: A Dying Breed or a Sleeping Giant? is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. March 11 in the Anderson Room.

Issues Facing Blacks Topic of UNM Panel

Charlotte Balcumb

Three prominent black Albuquerqueans expressed their views over federal budget cuts in social services, the rising popularity of the Klu Klux Klan and a dependence on the welfare system for black Americans in the 1980's in the SUB Tuesday night during a current issues symposium.

Attorneys Ray Hamilton and Robert Harding and the president of the local chapter of the National Council of Negro Women, Vera Cushman, were on the symposium panel.

Ray Hamilton, an Afro-American Studies instructor, replaced Rev. Elwood McDowell, who had been scheduled to appear.

Hamilton spoke about the possible effects President Reagan's economic policies will have on the next four years.

Hamilton said policies that cut social programs while allowing inflation to increase are not designed to hurt black people; nevertheless, poor, urban black families who live near the poverty level will be the people who will bear the brunt of Reagan's economics.

To counteract the loss of federal aid, Hamilton suggested increased community involvement through United Community Fund, food drives and voter registration.

Cushman said that black women tend to address the problems of racism but do not act on women's issues. As a result legislation is often passed that ignores the problems of black women, she continued.

Harding, an Afro-American Studies lecturer, spoke on the growing political right wing in the black community today.

He said that too many federal aid programs have bred generations of blacks who are dependent on welfare.

He added that such programs are "smoke-screens" that placate blacks but actually destroy their incentive and competition.

The symposium is the first in a week of events to commemorate Black History Week at UNM, Feb. 8 through Feb. 14.

TEAM UP WITH FLUOR AND DOUBLE YOUR CAREER POTENTIAL!

In many ways, college prepares you to think independently. That's a great quality for an engineer to have. But just as important is the ability to work effectively on a team. We've found that the results of team work are much, much greater than the sum of the parts. That's why Fluor, one of the country's largest and leading engineering and construction firms, is organized totally around the team concept.

As a new engineer you'll be assigned to a project that matches your abilities and interests. You'll stay with the project from start to finish, all the while developing new skills and polishing your ability to contribute as a task force member. We think the approach makes you more capable of independent creativity, not less. At the same time you're in the perfect position to learn from more experienced professionals who come from many disciplines. For the new graduate in particular, that is a productive place to be.

So if you're thinking about your potential in the job market, why not think about doubling it? Let us tell you more about the Fluor team and about the great salary, full benefits and advancement potential that make us a top Fortune 500 company. We will be interviewing on campus Wednesday, February 18, 1981 for the following disciplines:

Mechanical Engineering
Electrical Engineering
Civil Engineering
Chemical Engineering

Albuquerque Opera To Present Comical Interpretation of Drama

Rossini's opera, Cinderella, will be presented by the Albuquerque Opera at Popejoy Hall on Friday and Sunday, Feb. 13 and 15.

Rossini has taken the far funnier European version of the Cinderella story and given it breathtaking ensembles and arias. Albuquerque Opera has added some very innovative staging, which includes a miniature stagecoach with horses to take Cinderella to the castle.

Rossini's Cinderella is much more of an adult comic opera than the story most people associate with the fairy tale. Instead of a wicked step-mother, we have a snobbish father (Arthur Barrett) who drinks too much and can't keep up his crumbling mansion.

Instead of a fairy godmother, we have a magician (Patrick Robinson) who is also the prince's tutor; and instead of a traditional Prince who only loves a beautiful woman at a ball, we have a very human type who changes places with his valet (Gene Ives) so that he can find a loving, honest wife.

Janice Felty, Cinderella, has a very rare coloratura mezzo voice which is perfect for Rossini's music. Janice has been living in Santa Fe for the past five years. She is a veteran of the San Francisco, Santa Fe and Arizona operas.

David Adams, tenor, sings The Prince. David sang the role of Don Ottavio in AOT's Don Giovanni in 1978 while obtaining his Masters of Music degree at UNM. He has done leading roles in Austria, Italy, and Germany while in Europe on a Fulbright grant. He now teaches music at the University of Cincinnati-Conservatory of Music.

Other cast members include Nina Hobbs and Kathleen Clawson as the step-sisters, Clorinda and Tibbe. James Bratcher is musical director-conductor, and Justin Tate-Opal is the stage director.

The Friday night performance will be at 8:15 p.m. and the Sunday performance a matinee at 2:15 p.m. Tickets are available at the Popejoy Box Office, 277-3121, and all Ticketmaster outlets. Prices range from $6 to $14. Students 14 and under, and accompanied by a parent may purchase a ticket for half-price. All students with valid ID's will be admitted for $3 to both performances, but for that, there is limited seating, and it is on a first come, first served basis.

Balloon Finally Gets Off Ground

LUXOR, Egypt (UPI) -- Two American balloonists lifted off into the warm skies over Egypt Thursday to start a daring 20,000-mile, around-the-world flight, and fair winds appeared to be carrying them away from Iran, which refused overflight clearance.

Reports early Friday had them over the Saudi Arabian peninsula, well south of the Iran-Iraq war zone.

Maxie Anderson, first balloonist to cross both the Atlantic and North America, and Donald Ida climbed into a red, white and blue gondola decked out with a good-luck ristra from Anderson's home of Albuquerque, N.M., for what they hoped would be "the longest, fastest and highest balloon flight ever."

Anderson and Ida hope to circle the globe in eight to 10 days in the silver helium balloon named for the French writer Jules Verne, who wrote "Around the World in 80 Days."

The balloon will fly in the jet stream at altitudes of 25,000 to 30,000 feet and speeds up to 150 mph. Anderson and Ida hope to complete the 20,000-mile flight non-stop, although they may be forced to make some landings, and they will be on oxygen throughout the flight.

Anderson, 46, a mining executive, and Ida, 47, a tree nursery owner from Boulder, Colo., kissed their wives goodbye and were handed a U.S. flag by American Ambassador Alfred Atherton before gently lifting off at Luxor, ancient city of the Pharaohs.

"God's speed," Atherton told the pair, who made thumbs-up signs to reporters and photographers as they climbed aboard the unpresurized gondola.

The balloonists want at all costs to avoid air space over Iran, whose refusal of overflight clearance last weekend delayed take-off for four days.

Anderson said he received a weather report from Weather Services Corp. of Bedford, Mass., that indicated it was more likely the motorless balloon would drift south of Iran after crossing the Red Sea and Saudi Arabia.

Later, Jim Mitchell, spokesman for Weather Services, which is tracking the balloon's flight, said the craft was crossing the Saudi peninsula in a southeasterly direction. Their current flight path would take them well to the south of the Iran-Iraq war zone, he said.

Asked what the Iranians might do if they spotted the pear-shaped balloon, Anderson said before departure, "They will probably shoot us down."

The Stars and Stripes flew alongside the flags of Egypt, the United Nations, New Mexico and Colorado from the hermetically sealed, 14-by-10-foot gondola, made of steel tubing covered with aluminum honeycomb foil, as the plastic balloon, filled with 200,000 cubic feet of helium, lifted from the tarmac.

The balloon is projected to float over Pakistan, India, Burma and possibly China before reaching the Pacific. It should then drift to Alaska, Canada and the continental United States before crossing the Atlantic to land somewhere in the Eastern Mediterranean.

Team Opens '81 Season

With perhaps its best team in recent years, UNM will open its 1981 baseball season this weekend with a four-game series at Texas Tech.

The two teams play a Friday afternoon twinbill and then finish the set with single games on Saturday and Sunday.

The Lobos have just returned from an exhibition series as part of a cultural exchange in Chihuahua, Mexico. Cappelli was extremely pleased with his club's showing in winning all three games on the trip - the first two by shutouts.

Righthander Kell Higgins, a sophomore who finished last season with a 6-1 record and 3.58 ERA, has been tabbed as the opening day starter for the Lobos. He'll team up with rookie lefthander George Danton who will work Friday's nightcap.

Righthander Mark Beeson will pitch on Saturday and Mow Camilli on Sunday.

Dolensky Basket Aids Win

Dave Sahd

Alan Dolensky scored off of a missed shot by Phil Smith with five seconds left on the clock to boost the Lobo basketball team to a 57-56 win over highly touted Wyoming at the Pit last night.

"We were working for a good shot," said Dolensky. "I was there and my shot went in. It was an easy lay-up." Dolensky scored eight points on the night, with his only field goal coming on his game winning shot.

Point guard Smith scored 15 points and Kenny Page had 16. Although Page did not match his season scoring average, he held Cowboy Charles Bradley to just 17 points before fouling out with five minutes left in the game.

"Bradley is going to be a first round draft choice," said coach Gary Colson. Page said he was "psyched on defense. I knew I had to stop Bradley."

The Lobos only shot 41 percent from the field, but good foul shooting and a tenacious defense kept them in the game. "Nobody was hitting," said Colson, "but our defense kept us in it." Colson was much more active on the sidelines last night than Lobo fans are used to. However, neither the Lobo coach or the Wyoming coach were called for technical fouls.

The crowd of 15,803 inspired the Lobo defense and vehemently protested unfavorable calls by the officials. "The crowd was magic," said Smith who played most of the second half with four fouls.

"I don't think we could have won this game on the road with the officiating. The crowd really helped." The magic of the Pit may have inspired the Lobos on defense, but key plays by Dolensky and dazzling ball handling by Smith down the stretch indicated that Colson's squad went into last night's game ready to play.

Earlier this season the Lobos lost to Wyoming by 37 points. All five Lobo starters had at least four fouls. Page and Tony Persley fouled out of the game.

12 rebounds. The 6'10" center countered a Cowboy line-up that held a tremendous height advantage under the boards.

The Cowboys were also taller at the guard positions, but Smith and Page held the Wyoming dribblers to 20 points while combining on offense to score 31 points.

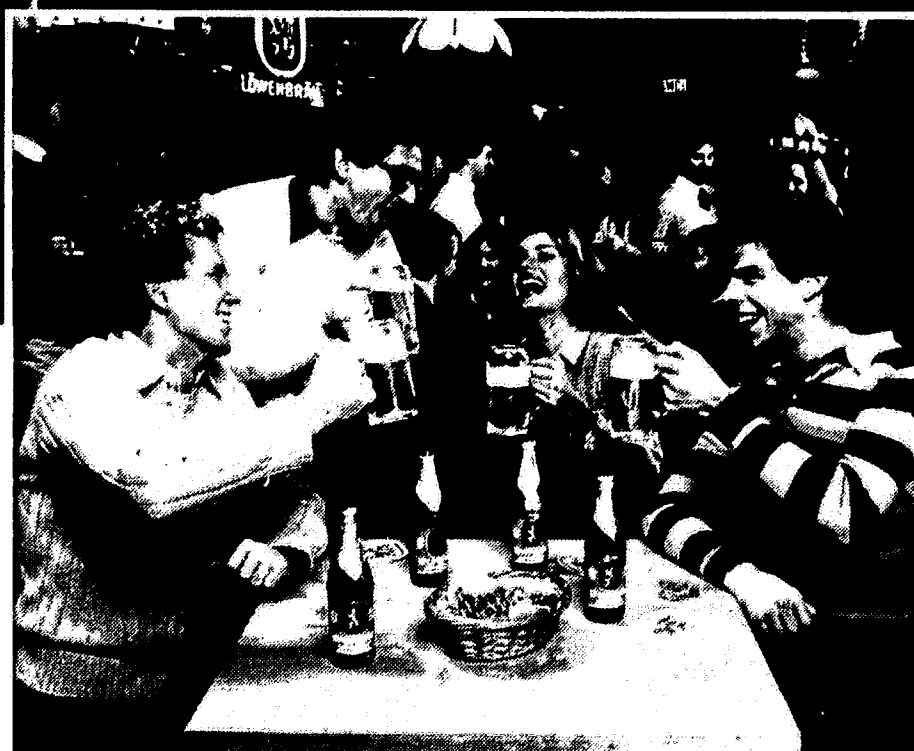

Colorado State visits the Pit tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. Colson said that his team should not take the Rams lightly, noting that his team has not been able to "get up for back-to-back games".

"It's a big game coming up Saturday," said Smith. "This was a big win for us." If the Lobos win tomorrow night their record will rise to 10-10 overall and 5-6 in the WAC.

Student tickets for Saturday's game may be picked up at the Pit ticket office today and Saturday afternoon.

Friends sometimes question your taste in movies.
But they'll see them with you anyway.

It sounded fantastic in the newspaper. But only to you. Still, you had to see it, and with a little arm-twisting your friends agreed to see it too.

You've already heard a barrage of jokes about your taste in movies since the curtain came down. And, knowing your friends, it'll go on for weeks.

So, to make it up to them, and show them your taste isn't bad in everything, you do something a little special. Tonight, let it be Löwenbräu.

Löwenbräu. Here's to good friends.
