1. THE UNM WATER RESOURCES PROGRAM and nine other universities across five continents team up in the Universities Partnership for Transboundary Waters initiative. The long term goal of the partnership is to bring the capabilities of some leading institutions of higher education to bear on water issues and conflicts throughout the world. <http://www.unm.edu/news/Releases/May31consortium.htm>

2. EVAPORATION AND TRANSPIRATION rates in the Middle Rio Grande Bosque are the focus of an investigation by UNM biology and civil engineering researchers. The aim is to offer solutions to conserve water better by creating restoration projects along the river. <http://www.unm.edu/news/06-03-02/riogrande.htm>

3. A NEW RESEARCH MISCONDUCT POLICY has been created to ensure the credibility and objectivity of research activities. The policy applies to all individuals who may be involved with a research project in the UNM academic community. <http://www.unm.edu/news/06-03-02/policy.htm>

4. EXPLORE SOUTHWESTERN HISTORY, culture, art, architecture, plants and animals will be explored during UNM's Summer Walking Tours. Hodgin Hall, UNM Museum of Southwestern Biology, Maxwell Museum, Architecture and Public Art will be the focus of tours sponsored by the Communications and Marketing Department. <http://www.unm.edu/news/06-03-02/tours.htm>

UNM News Minute highlights items of interest to the campus community.
