CARRIZOZO NEWS.

A Journal Devoted to the Interests of Lincoln County.

VOLUME 9.

CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, NOVEMBER 20, 1908.

NUMBER 38

POPULATION INCREASING.

The question is often asked, "What is the population of Carrizozo?" and few questions could be asked that would bring forth a greater variety of answers. Two years ago the total vote cast in this precinct was 49; and as proof that the population is rapidly increasing, the vote cast at the late election is a fair index. The number registered was 385, and the number of ballots cast was 260. Counting three persons in the family to each vote—a moderate estimate—would make the population 1155. Few towns in New Mexico, or elsewhere for that matter, can show a larger increase in population than Carrizozo, which goes to prove that the tide of immigration has set in this direction. Other towns in this county have increased in population also, and we will venture to say that the increase during the next two years will double. There is a good reason for this prediction. Lincoln county has never been advertised, has never been boomed, although it possesses more natural resources and affords more opportunities for the investment of capital than many counties that might be mentioned. We have free schools, free water and free land—as fine as can be found in the territory—to offer to those who choose to take up a homestead. Carrizozo being favorably situated, and a division point on the railroad, is the natural distributing point for north, south, east and west, and is bound to become, sooner or later, the chief town in a large section of country, and develop into city proportions. From our acquaintance of different counties in the territory during the past fifteen years, we would say that Lincoln county is the peer of any, and ahead of most counties, and Carrizozo one of the best towns in the lot. Why? Because in this county there are coal, gold, silver, copper and lead mines; an abundance of timber for fuel and fencing; large areas of fine grazing lands, and much land that is devoted to agriculture, a part of which is in a high state of cultivation and yielding fair returns to the husbandman. The future of this section is, therefore, bright, and we have unlimited faith in its development and advancement.

THANKSGIVING.

The grand old American feast of Thanksgiving, to which rich and poor alike look forward with feelings of happiness, will have come and gone before another issue of the NEWS reaches its readers. It is therefore in order to say a few words relative to the custom. In the old world, at about this season, is held in rural communities what is called a "Harvest Home," at which eating, drinking and merry-making are indulged in. There is no particular date set for the event, as here, and it differs in different portions of the country, but it is generally held about the time the harvest is over and the crops have been garnered. As a rule, there is but one or two held in each district, but the young and old for miles around are welcome to participate in the feast and frolic. An entertainment follows, with step dancing, where

"The dancing pair, that simply sought renown,
By holding out to tire each other down."

The custom was introduced in this country by the Pilgrim Fathers, and became a strictly American feast, held annually to offer thanks to the "God of Plenty" for a bountiful harvest. It may be that fortune might have dealt more leniently with some of us during the past year, but when we consider for a moment, it might have dealt harder, and there are few of us who have not had some cause to be thankful to the "Great Giver" at this season. Here in New Mexico we have cause to be thankful for many things, among which was our safe transit through the financial and business depression of the past year, and the bountiful crops which the earth has yielded. Capital and immigration is headed this way; new railroads and irrigation schemes are being promulgated; business is improving, and statehood seems to be almost within grasping distance. Some of us, of course, have prospered more than others; and those of us who have, should not forget the less fortunate and needy, but loosen our purse strings and give to the poor so that all may have something to be thankful for at this season.

The Carrizozo Eating House will serve Thanksgiving Dinner from 5:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. Price 50 cents.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S FIRE.

A fire occurred in Carrizozo Friday night, consuming two buildings on El Paso avenue. One of the buildings was owned by George Roslington, and had only a short time before been vacated by R. H. Rhea, the tailor. The adjoining building was owned by Miss Hortensia Payne, of Clarksburg, West Virginia. This latter building was one of the oldest buildings in the town, and was badly out of repair. It was untenanted, except by hoboos, and attempts had been made to exclude them; but somehow they effected an entrance, and the fire is supposed to have started from their occupancy—a stray match or a carelessly dropped cigarette. Neither building was insured.

SCARLET FEVER.

Scarlet fever broke out here last week, in consequence of which the schools have been closed and a number of houses quarantined, among which is that of the county superintendent of schools, a member of whose family is infected. The fever germs are supposed to have been carried from Lincoln by some of those who visited the county seat during and prior to the late election. It is believed, however, that the contagion will not spread further than the houses already infected, which are under quarantine, and that the disease will soon be stamped out. The doctors say it is of a very mild form, and they anticipate no fatal results.

AN OLD-TIME COW-PUNCHER DEAD.

Harry Patton, an old-time cow-puncher, died of pneumonia last Monday at Roswell. He was generally known throughout this and adjoining counties for more than twenty years, most of which time was spent as an employe of the Block Cattle Co., near Capitan.

About one year ago, while driving a loaded wagon from Capitan to the Block ranch, he slipped off, the wagon passing over his arm above the elbow, splintering it in a half-dozen places. The doctors who attended him decided that amputation was the only hope, but the patient objected, saying that a "useless arm was a little better than an empty sleeve." The doctors were persuaded, and bandaged up the arm of Mr. Patton; and, singular to say, it became almost as strong as the uninjured one.

On another occasion, at Lincoln, many years ago, he had his feet frozen. The surgeon, who treated him, decided that in order to save the foot, he would have to separate himself from six of his toes. Patton refused to be placed under the influence of an anesthetic during the procedure of an amputation of his toes, but made a compromise with the operating surgeons that he be given two drinks of whisky before the performance of the operation, and one drink after each toe was amputated. It was the only thing to be done, and the surgeons agreed, and Harry stood the operation without wincing.

Harry Patton was a man of a very happy disposition, about 50 years of age, and was generally liked by those who knew him. His former home was in Nixon, Texas.

DEATH OF JUDGE A. B. FALL'S BROTHER.

A telegram received at El Paso Tuesday announced the death, at San Antonio, Texas, of Philip Fall, a brother of the Hon. Judge A. B. Fall of Three Rivers, Otero county, the sad event occurring the previous evening. The deceased had been living in Old Mexico, but suffering from a nervous breakdown, was taken to El Paso, and placed in hospital, and later taken to San Antonio, with the hope that a lower altitude might prove beneficial, but he lived only a few days after arriving there. He was about 38 years old and had lived in El Paso for a long time.

The Santa Fe New Mexican has decided to discontinue the publication of its daily issue, on account of lack of financial support. The Weekly Review will take its place.

REAL WOMAN MINER

CALIFORNIA GIRL IS WORKING CLAIM IN NEVADA.

Miss Laura White of San Francisco Gives Up Society for Life of Prospector—Has Been Eminently Successful.

Reno, Nev.—This state can boast of having a real woman miner, not a mere prospector, but a handsome young woman, who actively engages in working every day in bringing the rich gold-bearing ore to the surface.

It is not often that a beautiful girl will give up gay society in the city to undertake the hardships of a mining camp in the dreary sage brush desert, and seek for the hidden ledges of golden ore. There are girls who are born with the belief that they are destined to accomplish in life more than to spend the time in mere social pleasure and in becoming belles of fashion. Miss Laura Marguerite White of San Francisco is one of them.

This young woman—only 22 years of age—was very recently lured by the "call of the desert," and left the gay whirl of social life for that of the prospector and miner in the wide gold fields of Nevada. And she has been eminently successful.

Just about 12 months ago Wilmot White, a brother of the darling girl, and Richard Cole, his partner, went down to Nevada to seek the precious metal. Finally the young fellows drifted into the Funeral range, on the eastern border of the famous Death Valley, prospected for a time and located a number of claims.

Young White often wrote to his sister, telling her of the desert life and of the lonely solitude of the mining camp. These letters wrought on both the sympathies and imagination of the young woman, and she finally determined to join him. She reached Reno all right, and, with little delay, made her way finally into the dreary Funeral mountains, performing the journey across the sage brush and sandy wastes on muleback and on foot. On reaching her brother's camp he was surprised and overjoyed at seeing her.

Miss White donned the rough clothes of a woman prospector, and tramped for several weeks over the rugged hills, and at last discovered a rich cropping. She located several claims, and then called on her brother to help her work them. On one of these claims a rich vein was discovered. It required depth to work it to good advantage. Cole was busy with the other properties, but White assisted his sister, and, together they are working the claim, which, later, turned out to be very rich.

When considerable depth was reached on the ledge, White worked at the bottom of the shaft while his sister toiled at the windlass. She soon found the skirts of her prospecting suit too restricting, so she adopted the regulation clothes of the miner.

Now, Miss White has so adapted herself to her rude surroundings, that day after day she toils steadily at her task hoisting the ore, partaking heartily of the plain rough miners' food, and sleeping in a little canvas tent. This seems all the more singular as she is a young woman of exceptional beauty and refinement.

Though tall and slender, Miss Laura is possessed of remarkable endurance. Toiling at the windlass steadily, clad in her rough man's mining clothes, a wealth of wavy brown hair half hidden under a Mexican sombrero, her blue eyes sparkling as each glittering load is hoisted to the surface, she looks the embodiment of perfect health and happiness.

LED THE FRENCH FORCES.

Tablet of Count de Rochambeau Unveiled at Newport, R. I.

Newport, R. I.—Incidents of Newport in the days of the struggle for independence are recalled by a tablet in memory of Count de Rochambeau, who commanded the French allies, which has been placed on the house there which was his headquarters. The memorial was made by Pierre Feltu, a sculptor of this city. It was recently dedicated through the joint efforts of the Sons of the Revolution, the Society of the Cincinnati and the Alliance Francaise.

The design consists of a medallion portrait of the general in bronze, beneath which is a tablet cast in the same piece which bears the inscription:

Headquarters of
General Count de Rochambeau,
Commanding the French Allies.

The general is represented at the age of 58 years, when he was in Newport in 1780-1781. The likeness is the result of much research and study on the part of the sculptor, who was guided principally by an engraving of the general preserved in an official document which he had the opportunity of sketching in the National library in Paris. Count de Rochambeau's face, with its firm chin and strong features, impresses the observer with his soldierly qualities. The uniform is that of a French general of the period.

Beneath the medallion is a garland composed of laurel and of oak. The corners of the tablet are marked with fleur de lis, while the border is ornamented with stars.

Household Reform.

The reform that applies itself to the household must not be partial. It must correct the whole system of our social living. It must come with plain living and high thinking; it must break up caste, and put domestic service on another foundation. It must come in connection with a true acceptance by each man of his vocation, not chosen by his parents or friends, but by his genius, with earnestness and love.—Emerson.

WAY TO IRON SHIRT The

General Demand

HINTS FOR WIFE WHO DOES HUSBAND'S LINEN.

Proper Precautions at the Beginning Will Save Time and the Garment Will Also Last a Great Deal Longer.

In order that a shirt may be successfully ironed it is necessary to starch and fold it properly.

As to the starch used there are two kinds, the raw and the boiled. The latter, as a rule, gives the more satisfaction, though not a few laundresses prefer the raw starch method for collars, cuffs and shirt bosoms.

The amateur, however, will do well to experiment first with the boiled liquid.

To make it mix together take two tablespoonfuls of dry starch and about half a teacupful of cold water until it is of the consistency of cream. Then add a little more than one-half pint of boiling water if the starch is needed for shirt bosoms or collars. More water is required if such articles as skirts or petticoats are to be starched.

Starch must be quite hot for collars and shirts, warm for the average white garments and almost cold for colored goods.

In order to prevent sticking to the irons, a little borax, a small bit of tallow candle or a tiny lump of lard may be added when mixing.

In starching a shirt have it quite dry, then turn on the right side and gather the parts to be stiffened in the hand and dip in cold water, then put into the hot starch, rubbing it well into the shirt. Then clap the stiffened portions between the hands.

Remove with a rag any superfluous bits of starch and fold, taking care to keep all the starched parts together, otherwise the sleeves or body of the shirt may become too stiff.

The shirt is laid front uppermost, the cuffs are straightened and laid on the bosom part, then the collar is folded downward also on the front and the fronts are doubled one over the other. Fold the shirt again in front, turn up from the bottom for a few inches and roll tightly, beginning at the top.

Leave for a couple of hours, and meantime see that the irons are very hot and quite clean. Then lay the shirt on the table or bosom board and go over all the starched parts with a clean, white rag, wrung out of cold water.

Next apply the hot iron, going backward and forward until the material is quite dry and shows a gloss.

There are polishing irons with square heel and straight edges that come for this purpose, although when experience is gained it is possible to finish a shirt with a gloss by using only the ordinary irons.

If blisters appear on the bosom, etc., press them out by ironing over a clean, damp rag placed directly on the spot.

In ironing cuffs and collars they should be laid on a table wrong side up and a hot iron passed over the surface. Then they must be turned and treated the same way on the other side. After this the pressure may be as firm and as hard as one pleases provided the iron is not too hot. The rest of the shirt is ironed as other rough dry garments would be.

Curry Sauce.

Chop one onion and fry it in butter with a sprig of thyme and three or four sliced mushrooms.

When the onions are browned add one teaspoonful of curry powder, fry the whole for a minute or two and add one tablespoonful of thin drawn butter.

Simmer for ten minutes by the side of the fire, skim and pass through a fine strainer, and it is ready to serve with the eggs.

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

DEEP CRACKS FROM ECZEMA

Could Lay Slate-Pencil in One—Hands in Dreadful State—Permanent Cure in Cuticura.

"I had eczema on my hands for about seven years and during that time I had used several so-called remedies, together with physicians' and druggists' prescriptions. The disease was so bad on my hands that I could lay a slate-pencil in one of the cracks and a rule placed across the hand would not touch the pencil. I kept using remedy after remedy, and while some gave partial relief, none relieved as much as did the first box of Cuticura Ointment. I made a purchase of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and my hands were perfectly cured after two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap were used. W. H. Dean, Newark, Del., Mar. 28, 1907."

Contrast in Wills.

If, as is stated, the will of the late duke of Devonshire contains nearly 18,000 words, it is certainly entitled to rank high among long-winded testaments.

Probably the shortest will on record was that of a Streatham gentleman, proved a few years ago, which consisted of the words: "All for mother, C. T."—Westminster Gazette.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

NEW CHIEF OF G. A. R.

Col. Henry M. Nevius, newly elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, won his victory at the Toledo encampment over two strong antagonists, former Gov. Van Sant of Minnesota and L. T. Dickson of Illinois. Nevius received almost twice as many votes as both the others.

Col. Nevius served in the civil war with a Michigan command. He was studying law with the late Gen. Russell A. Alger when the word of Sumter's fall stirred the country into immediate action. The young law student promptly offered himself to the first recruiting officer he could find and went to the front with the command that was known as the Lincoln cavalry. This later became a part of the famous old Seventh cavalry, and young Nevius rose from the ranks to a commission. He was later transferred to the Twenty-fifth New York cavalry by re-enlistment, and there he rose steadily until he retired from active service with the rank of colonel. This was not, however, until his retirement was compelled by his wounds and after he had lost an arm in front of Fort Stevens, when the union army was engaged with Gen. Early's fighting command.

Since the war Col. Nevius, now a resident of Red Bank, N. J., has been active in business and political life, and has been often honored by veteran comrades. Twice he has been chosen as department commander of the New Jersey G. A. R. He has served as a judge with credit and has been president of the New Jersey state senate.

PUT "LID" ON ATLANTIC CITY

Gov. John Franklin Fort, of New Jersey, apparently has cinched his claim to half a page or so in history by providing Atlantic City with the first "Sunday lid" it has ever known. Heretofore the board-walk town has been the widest open place on this continent, aside from Cripple Creek. Its 150 saloons, its gambling houses and disorderly resorts, numbering a hundred or more each, have cheerfully torn down the calendar and thrown away the front door keys at the beginning of the season, to operate unmolested day and night so long as the summer visitors from all parts of the country desired to buck the tiger or chase away their internal drought.

The Pennsylvania railroad is one of the most powerful influences in that seaside city, and it wanted the Sunday laws ignored, because that condition helped make the resort popular. So the officials, city and county, frankly defied the governor who asked that the state laws be heeded. Grand juries met, went through the motions of considering the matter and adjourned without returning any indictments against the saloonkeepers or other law breakers. The governor protested, the mayor and the prosecuting attorney chuckled jovially, and everything was jolly.

But Gov. Fort is not made of the sort of material that surrenders early. He made preparations to dump the state's soldiers into the town on the beach, and proclaim martial law. He was ready to take away the authority of the city and county officials, and make the town close up at the point of the bayonet.

So the Royal Arch Saloonkeepers' order voted to close the 140 saloons they control on Sunday. They asked Mayor Stoy to co-operate with them to close the other saloons and resorts, and he agreed to do so.

Gov. Fort had won his fight, and the lid will be on in Atlantic City for a time, at least.

NEW NOVEL IS DENOUNCED

Arthur J. Eddy, lawyer and society man of Chicago, has brought about his ears a miniature tempest of denunciation and disapproval. It is all because, not content with permitting his fancy for creative literature to confine itself to such thrilling bits as "The Law of Contracts" and similar gems, he must needs take a plunge into fiction. And he must select the problem novel, so-called, and write down in there the alleged fads and frailties of the men and women of his own set—the exclusive division of Chicago society.

Mr. Eddy in his new book, "Ganton & Co.," deals with packers, labor unions, grafters and society. He presents the characters as genuine types drawn from the life of Chicago. And every class represented is boiling over with in-ignation. Society, as depicted in the book, goes out to its swell country clubs, plays golf, drinks too much liquor and indulges in wild bacchanalian revels. Rich packers bring about great strikes to cripple competitors, not caring if suffering and want to thousands result. Labor leaders grow fat and rich off the bribe money they collect from employers for their treachery to their fellow unionists. Railroad, city and state assessing officials, men and women in various walks of life, are depicted as dishonest, or hypocritical, or shallow, or all three.

Eddy is a gift from Michigan to the dual world of law and literature, for he was born at Flint 49 years ago. He is a Harvard man and a lawyer of considerable reputation.

AVOID RISK IN BUYING PAINT.

You take a good deal of risk if you buy white lead without having absolute assurance as to its purity and quality. You know white lead is often adulterated, often misrepresented. But there's no need at all to take any chances. The "Dutch Boy Painter" trade mark of the National Lead Company, the largest makers of genuine white lead, on a package of White Lead, is a positive guarantee of purity and quality. It's as dependable as the Dollar Sign. If you'll write the National Lead Company, Woodbridge Bldg., New York City, they will send you a simple and certain outfit for testing white lead, and a valuable book on paint, free.

SHE GOT HER MAN—HAPPY.

Indian Woman Not Likely to Be Left Far Behind in Life's Battle.

Writing of the famous Dean Kaye of Topeka, in Suburban Life, Paul A. Lovewell, says:

"Dean Kaye has had interesting experiences during his sojourns in the wilderness. Once an Indian woman came to his cabin.

"'You marry?' she asked.

"'Yes,' said the dean, 'I can marry folks. Have you got a man?'

"Again the woman grunted, and departed. About sundown she returned, dragging with her an apparently abashed and reluctant brave.

"'Got him,' she remarked, laconically, producing her marriage license. The man knew no English, but the woman prompted him when it became necessary for him to give his assent to the dean's questions. When it was over the squaw paid the minister his fee and led her husband away in triumph."

AFRAID TO EAT.

Girl Starving on Ill-Selected Food.

"Several years ago I was actually starving," writes a Me. girl, "yet dared not eat for fear of the consequences.

"I had suffered from indigestion from overwork, irregular meals and improper food, until at last my stomach became so weak I could eat scarcely any food without great distress.

"Many kinds of food were tried, all with the same discouraging effects. I steadily lost health and strength until I was but a wreck of my former self.

"Having heard of Grape-Nuts and its great merits, I purchased a package, but with little hope that it would help me—I was so discouraged.

"I found it not only appetizing but that I could eat it as I liked and that it satisfied the craving for food without causing distress, and if I may use the expression, 'it filled the bill.'

"For months Grape-Nuts was my principal article of diet. I felt from the very first that I had found the right way to health and happiness, and my anticipations were fully realized.

"With its continued use I regained my usual health and strength. To-day I am well and can eat anything I like, yet Grape-Nuts food forms a part of my bill of fare." "There's a Reason."

Timely Advice.

When, not long ago, Mark Twain revisited Elmira, whose citizens still claim him as one of them, he was invited to address the inmates of the State reformatory. Seeking to illustrate a point in his talk, he drew a handsome gold watch from his pocket, and said:

"For instance, take my watch—"
He got no further. Many of the inmates had been placed in the institution for taking watches, and the humor of the illustration seemed to strike every listening convict. Gleeful shouts of recognition and approval went up on all sides, and the speaker hesitated and realized that, temporarily, at least, he had lost.

She Got One Hundred.

Marjorie, aged nine, had not been having very satisfactory reports from school. Her father finally said: "Marjorie, for the first hundred you get I'll give you a dollar." Time went on and the reward could not be claimed. One day the child was taken violently ill. Her mother sent for the doctor. When he had gone, Marjorie said: "Mama, am I very ill?"

"No, dear; your temperature is a little over 100, but the doctor thinks you will be all right in a day or so."

Smiles broke through Marjorie's tears.

"Now, mama, I can have my dollar. Papa said he would give it to me if I could get a hundred in anything."

Very Tempting.

A man was brought before a justice of the peace charged with the offense of kissing a young woman "by force and violence, and against her will."

The young lady, who was very handsome, gave her testimony in a modest and straightforward manner, after which his honor gave the following decision:

"The court in this case sympathizes with the defendant, and will therefore discharge him without fine, imprisonment or reprimand, because the court, while this case has been in progress, has been obliged to hold on to both arms of his chair to keep from kissing the complainant himself."

TEXANS AND OKLAHOMANS.

The Santa Fe New Mexican, which was never credited with any great love for anything, except self, is the author of the following beautiful tribute to Texans and Oklahomans, given to the world three days after election. We gladly reproduce it for the benefit of the Texans and Oklahomans, who, at the last general election, in this section, aided Andrews and the New Mexican crowd.

It is a gem, not of the "purest ray serene," however, but a gem that Texans and Oklahomans will do well to preserve for future reference. Here it is:

"The vote at the recent election for delegate in this territory proved conclusively that a very large majority of the settlers who came to New Mexico during 1907 and 1908, and they number several thousands, are democrats pure and simple, and would vote for a yellow dog were he on the democratic ticket and carried the label, 'I am a blatherskite, a Bryan and tax dodger Larrazolo democrat,' even were the dog in reality a socialist or a Hearst Independent, or a mugwump or an anarchist.

"It makes a great deal of difference in politics, in business and in social conditions where a man is brought up, and that is about the same with many men in human life. When they are Texans or Oklahomans you can not do much with them. When they come from the northern states they are more amenable to good sense and fair politics. If the immigration coming in during the next year shall hail more from the northwestern and central states there will be more republican votes. New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and other northern and middle states have proven in this election that they know how to vote for the good of the people and the prosperity and power of the Union, while in nine out of ten in the southern states the people allowed themselves to be foolish enough to vote for that great moonshiner, Bryan, and in New Mexico for that great tax dodger, Larrazolo.

"However, this is not unexpected. It takes many people to make this world, and in New Mexico there are many of them who are Bryan democrats and believe in Larrazolo, the tax dodger, and hence the good-sized vote which they polled last Tuesday; but it is all over now, and as the results are after all gratifying for the republicans and the best for the territory, the people will abide by them, and the New Mexican violates no confidence in saying that there will be no revolution like the one that happened in France in 1789, and in which several royal heads were cut off and thousands of notables and aristocrats gillotined, for the simple reason that the people of New Mexico are not French; that it is not 1789, that there are no real kings and aristocrats here, although tax-dodger Larrazolo claims to be of royal Spanish descent, and, furthermore, that the people of this territory, 99 out of 100, never heard of a guillotine and do not know what it is. Being unacquainted with its use, they do not care for it. When it comes to a six-shooter or a Winchester—that is where they are at home. But they do not care to use them on their political enemies. They would rather stab and assassinate them, that is those on the tax-dodging Larrazolo side, with libels and slanders in their yellow sheets, with falsehoods, and prevarications in their speeches. If talk would have killed in the recent campaign all the republicans of New Mexico would have been dead during the first week of it, as Larrazolo, the tax dodger and enemy of the public schools, would have killed them by his venomous assaults, libels, lies and slanders within that time, as he and his supporters hurled so much of that truck at the offending republicans.

"However, as windy lies, verbal slanders and yellow sheet newspaper fakes do not kill in sunny New Mexico, the republicans of the territory are mostly alive and well and eating three meals a day, when they can get them, which latter Larrazolo's tax dodgers would prevent if they could. But as this is a free country and every man is guaranteed three meals under the constitution of the United States, (Must be a late amendment.—Ed.) and as republicans have a habit of fighting with great strength, nerve and courage for their three meals a day and for offices, the Larrazolo tax dodging contingent is in the hottest of soup, while the republicans are luxuriating and enjoying the flesh pots of office."

IT IS HEWITT.

As forecasted in last week's News, we are now able to announce the election of John Y. Hewitt, of White Oaks, as a member of the council for the Eleventh district, composed of Otero, Lincoln and Torrance. Mr. Hewitt has a slight lead of his republican opponent, Henry Lutz, of Lincoln, in each of the three counties.

Mr. Hewitt's majorities are:
Otero county..... 88
Lincoln county..... 43
Torrance county.... 72

WRECK AT SALINAS.

A freight wreck occurred near Salinas, about thirty miles south, yesterday at 10:30 a.m., in which six cars left the track and dumped lemons and oranges along the right of way. The train was going at the rate of 25 or 30 miles an hour, and the swinging train caused the trucks to climb the rails. No one was hurt, but the line was blocked for about six hours. T. S. Anderson was the conductor in charge.

MURDEROUS ENEMIES.

Last week's Associated Press dispatches recorded one murder and one attempted murder, both of the attacks being upon men of national and semi-national prominence.

The death of ex-United Senator "Ned" W. Carmack, in a street duel in the city of Nashville, Tenn., was a most deplorable national calamity. Carmack's reputation as a debater and parliamentarian, either in the upper or lower house of the American congress, has never been equaled since the days of such men as Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, John C. Calhoun and numerous others of that day. Even the warm days of the republican split between James G. Blaine, President Garfield, Roscoe Conkling and "Me-Too" Platt were insignificant compared with Ned Carmack's driving arguments and gentlemanly sarcasm. The president of the United States felt keenly the bitter denunciation and sarcastic sting of the "Red Headed White Rose" United Senator from Tennessee.

Ex-Senator Carmack was a democrat and a friend of his people. He was never found wanting, and the country is the better for it's once having a son in the name of Edward W. Carmack.

The attempted assassination of Francis J. Heney, chief prosecuting attorney in the San Francisco grafting cases, by an ex-convict, was another calamity which has had its effect throughout the country.

Francis J. Heney has been in the public eye as a fearless prosecutor for a number of years. One of his greatest successes was in securing the conviction of U. S. Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, together with a congressman and stenographer, on a charge of land frauds in the sheep-raising section of that state. The congressman and stenographer were sentenced, but Senator Mitchell escaped worldly punishment by swallowing his false teeth, which were the means of transporting his heart-beats across the divide.

Since Mr. Heney's prosecution of the Oregon land frauds he has spent his time almost continuously in the city of San Francisco, prosecuting the graft and corruption which had developed under the fostering care of Abe Reuf and his cohorts, and to be stricken down at a time he was about to bring the grafting trials to a climax was most disastrous, not only to the city of San Francisco, but to the larger municipalities of the whole country. We are more than glad to learn, from the latest press reports, that there is a possibility of Mr. Heney's complete recovery.

SYMBOL OF SWASTIKA

RESEARCH SHOWS THAT IT IS OF VAST ANTIQUITY.

Commonly Accepted as the Sign of Good Luck—Traces Found in Records of Every Known Race.

Washington.—The Swastika is the oldest known symbol, having its origin in the cross and the circle. As far back in the night of time as we are able to trace the records of man's life on the globe by the sculptured remains of temples and pillars we find the cross and circle, painted on ancient pottery, brodered on sacred vestments, sculptured on ruined monuments and figuring in the religious mysteries of all races.

To form an estimate of the age of the Swastika we must look back, archaeologists tell us, to the period of time when the pole star was in Cygnus, 17,000 B. C., apparently that of the first conception of the zodiacal year.

While the Swastika is held in common acceptance to be a lucky and auspicious object, meaning to thousands simply good luck, it is interesting to trace the origin of the belief and find why for ages upon ages it has been so held by races widely divergent in place and time.

It may be safely asserted that investigation of the records of every known race has revealed traces of the Swastika. It has been found on the pottery of the mound builders in Mississippi, showing identity of design with symbols from India, in what is called the Swastika—sitting position of the Hindus—and those of the Mayas and Aztecs, while in the remains of the prehistoric race of lake dwellers in Switzerland the Sistras is identified with the staff of jingling bells held in the hand of a statue of Buddha in India on whose base is a row of Swastikas.

It appears on the foreheads of gods in temples and on the walls of the cave temples in India, and also on Brahmin mountains. It is placed on the breast of the dead in Thibet, and ornaments the petticoats of the women of that country. It is shown in the ruins of Algeria and on the bronze ingots of aborigines in Ashantee. In our own America numberless ruins give testimony to the antiquity of this symbol.

In 1901 Dr. Herson, a German savant, discovered the ruins of an Aztec temple in which he reports "constantly finding the Swastika in its primeval, in its derived and in its highly advanced forms," in his opinion positively identifying them with an age prior to that of Enoch.

Although greatly obscured since the days of the "Divine Dynasties," yet we owe to the Egyptians the preservation of many of these symbols and the recovery of many of the truths so veiled. Each of the many discoveries of archaeologists in Egypt at the present time is proving a rich treasure to those who hold the astral key of interpretation.

These spiritual truths became in course of time materialized and, losing sight of the real mysteries, the symbols became objects of worship. Hence in this day we see this grandest of all cosmic symbols degraded in popular estimation to a charm or amulet worn to bring "good luck."

From the illustration some idea of the formation of the Swastika and its relation to the zodiac is seen, the outer rim being the "wheel" of Ezekiel, and the four beasts forming the arms of the cross, named in the Bible as the bull (Taurus), the lion (Leo), the eagle (Scorpio, anciently symbolized as an eagle), and the man (Aquarius). These "beasts" correspond to the four elements, so called, of earth, air, fire and water, which are the foundations of the manifested universe.

Cabalistically the Swastika corresponds to the number ten. Ten has always been esteemed the number of the Deity. The number one expresses "the universe visible," and the cipher at its right hand "the infinite vast," which we cannot conceive. The Rosicrucians referred the highest and most abstract ideas of number to the ten emanations of the Deity, for in them they recognized "the key to all things."

FORMER WATER BOY RUNS ROAD

Patrick H. Houlahan Promoted to General Manager of Alton.

Chicago.—Patrick Henry Houlahan, general superintendent of the Chicago & Alton and the Toledo, St. Louis & Western railroads since January 1, 1908, has assumed the duties of his recent promotion—general manager of two great combined railway systems, with headquarters in this city.

From a water boy and track hand in 1870, to one of the country's most prominent railroad men in 1908, has been the experience of Mr. Houlahan, and each step he has taken in his upward climb has shown him to be the possessor of those qualities of pluck and energy which are the essentials of really forceful men.

Mr. Houlahan was born March 13, 1855, at Ottawa, Ill., and at the age of 12 years entered the railway mail service. In 1870 he was a water boy and track hand on the Ottawa, Oswego & Fox River Valley road. Later he was employed on the same road in various positions from track hand up to baggage man and station agent. In 1875 to 1880 he was brakeman and conductor on the Chicago & Alton, and in 1881 was promoted to assistant trainmaster of the St. Louis division.

On July 1, 1884, he was appointed trainmaster of the St. Louis division of the Burlington system; May to November, 1886, master of transportation, Missouri and Kansas division, St. Louis, Arkansas & Texas railway. From November, 1886, to April, 1890, trainmaster, and April, 1890, to May, 1891, assistant superintendent; May, 1891, to June, 1892, superintendent west division; June, 1892, to December, 1904, superintendent, Hannibal & St. Joseph railroad.

From December, 1904, to date, Mr. Houlahan has been general superintendent of the Toledo, St. Louis & Western, and from January 1, 1890, also general superintendent of the Chicago & Alton Railroad Company.

Small Per Cent. of Exports.

Of an annual output of manufactures valued at $15,000,000,000, we export only about five per cent., and if from this amount we deduct such nearly crude manufactures as copper, petroleum and its products, iron and steel in bars, pigs and rails, we have an export of the more highly finished products of only about three per cent. of our total manufactures.

SAVED FROM MATERNAL WRATH.

Boys' Fervent Prayer Was Answered in the Nick of Time.

A suburbanite is fond of telling this story of his five-year-old son Bobby. Being of an inquiring turn of mind the youngster one day managed to turn on both faucets in the bathtub to see what would happen. It chanced that the stopper was in place, and the tub rapidly filled up, to the great delight of Bobby. Finally, however, the tub became so full that it threatened to overflow on to the floor, and Bobby, having a proper respect for the maternal slipper, became frightened and tried vainly to turn off the water. Being unable to, for some reason, he gazed tearfully at the ever-rising flood, and then, mindful both of his religious training and the occasional visits of the plumber, he plunged down on his knees, and his elder sister, who happened to be passing at the moment, heard him exclaim, fervently:

"O, Lord, please stop this water running! And, O, Lord, if you can't do it, please send somebody that can!"

His prayer was answered, for his sister rose to the occasion and turned off the water and temporarily saved Bobby from the much-feared slipper.

Had Been Attended To.

An Italian went up to the civil service commissioners' rooms in the federal building the other day to be examined for a laborer's position. He answered most of the questions correctly. Finally they asked him if he had ever been naturalized. He seemed a bit puzzled, but at last his face lighted up.

DROPPED COFFEE

Doctor Gains 20 Pounds on Postum.

A physician of Wash., D. C., says of his coffee experience:

"For years I suffered with periodical headaches which grew more frequent until they became almost constant. So severe were they that sometimes I was almost frantic. I was sallow, constipated, irritable, sleepless; my memory was poor, I trembled and my thoughts were often confused.

"My wife, in her wisdom, believed coffee was responsible for these ills and urged me to drop it. I tried many times to do so, but was its slave.

"Finally Wife bought a package of Postum, and persuaded me to try it, but she made it same as ordinary coffee and I was disgusted with the taste. (I make this emphatic because I fear many others have had the same experience.) She was distressed at her failure and we carefully read the directions, made it right, boiled it full 15 minutes after boiling commenced, and with good cream and sugar, I liked it—it invigorated and seemed to nourish me.

"This was about a year ago. Now I have no headaches, am not sallow, sleeplessness and irritability are gone, my brain clear and my head steady. I have gained 20 lbs. and feel I am a new man.

"I do not hesitate to give Postum due credit. Of course dropping coffee was the main thing, but I had dropped it before, using chocolate, cocoa and other things to no purpose.

"Postum not only seemed to act as an invigorant, but as an article of nourishment, giving me the needed phosphates and albumens. This is no imaginary tale. It can be substantiated by my wife and her sister, who both changed to Postum and are hearty women of about 70.

"I write this for the information and encouragement of others, and with a feeling of gratitude to the inventor of Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Wheels.

He was a great inventor.

"The thing I am working at now," he began, stroking his thin beard with a thinner hand, "will be a boon to every family and will startle the whole world. In fact, it will put the alarm clock trust out of business. The idea is simply specially prepared tablets that help you to get up in the morning. For instance, if you want to arise at 5, you take five tablets; if you want to get up at 6, take six tablets, and so on."

"But how will it affect the alarm clock trust?"

"Why these tablets will cause a ringing in the ears at exactly the hour desired—"

But the little crowd could wait to hear no more and hurriedly disbanded.

EAST END TROUBLE.

A complaint was made yesterday against a bunch of inmates of a resort in the east end, charging them with vagrancy. Arrests were made of the denizens of the "red light" district yesterday, and they were haled into court. Counsel was secured, and a plea of not guilty entered. Bond was given for their appearance, and the trial set for tomorrow, when the matter will be threshed out. The result will be watched with interest.

LOVE FREES EXILE

SAMUEL LEFF'S THRILLING ESCAPE FROM RUSSIA.

Fugitive Arrives Safe in New York City, Thanks to Effort of Brave Woman Who Planned Daring Flight.

New York.—"The cunning and vigilance of the Russian soldiers who guard the prisoners in the Siberian mines may be 14-karat, but they couldn't outwit the shrewdness of a little woman who aided me to escape imprisonment there—a little woman who is now my wife and will join me here."

Samuel Leff, 24 years old, now stopping on East One Hundred and Third street, thus started the story of his thrilling escape to a reporter.

"I was a student of chemistry and engineering in a college at Barastow," he said. "Nearly all the students there had witnessed outrages committed by the czar's Cossacks. Jewish women and children were shot down in the street. There was no thought of liberty or even of common humanity among those soldiers, and many of us harbored resentment against them."

"One day, when the soldiers had aimed their guns at a group of women and children, I sprang forward and begged in God's name that no shots be fired. I was promptly arrested and thrown into a dirty hole which the officials genially called a 'cell.'"

"Then I was sent to Siberia. That was in 1906."

"Miss Mary Rittinger was accustomed to bring food to the political prisoners, of whom I was one. Mary and I fell in love. The guards did not know this. Mary was too shrewd for them. She hatched out a plot with a student friend of mine, also a prisoner, whereby one night we stealthily got over the wall of the prison and got some distance away."

"We were caught—that student friend and myself—and my friend was shot by the guards. I was taken back to prison and tortured. I will not attempt to describe how those soldiers treated me. Just look at me. I guess that'll be enough evidence."

The scars and emaciated appearance of the man seemed to bear out his statement.

"Mary and I were married just after my first unsuccessful attempt to gain liberty. We were married quietly. She also was arrested, and luckily sent to the same part of Siberia where the Russians sent me."

"One day we were sent to pick wood in a forest. We had horses to carry the wood. When the guards were not on the alert we rode away on the animals and finally arrived at a town 300 miles distant, where we had friends."

"On that awful trip, through snow, slush, water and mud, we nearly starved. My wife and I had to go without food. We reached Minsk, where we met revolutionists who heard our story and cared for us. Then my wife and I separated, she taking a different route, but bound for New York, where I also have friends. My wife reached Austria, I learned, after an exciting rush across from Minsk."

"On the boat which bore me to this country there were two Russian spies. I knew them. They knew me. But I also knew that under the American flag I was safe—and here I am."

Turtles Hatch in Mails.

Norristown, Pa.—A friend of young Wilbur Langley, son of the pastor of the Oak Street Methodist church, wrote from the south that he might expect some turtle eggs in the near future. When the boy opened a package bearing a "Dixie" post mark he was startled to find that the eggs had hatched and there were two kicking little turtles.

WHEN YOU GET RICH.

Only Then Are You Appreciated for Your True Worth.

Upton Sinclair, the novelist, was talking about wealth at Lake Placid.

"It is pleasant to be rich," he said. "Nobody can deny that. Many of the pleasures of wealth, though, are false and mistaken ones."

"When I was making my living by the composition of blood and thunder tales for boys—and I could turn out my 8,000 words a day—I knew a pale, bent, ink-stained old chap who wrote love stories."

"His stories did not pay; he was very poor; but an aunt died, and suddenly the old fellow found himself a millionaire."

"He saw me one afternoon on Broadway. He stopped his red car and we chatted about old times."

"And is it pleasant to be rich?" I asked.

"Yes, it is," he answered, as he lighted a Vuelto Abajon and handed me another. "And do you know what is the pleasantest thing about it? You have an opportunity to make real friends, friends who can understand you. You get at last to know people capable of esteeming you for your own qualities alone. You find, sir, that you are at last appreciated."

A Doctor's Disadvantage.

"In one way," said a collector, "it is easier to get money from a doctor than anybody else who is slow pay. It is more difficult for him to swear that he hasn't been able to make any collections himself since the first of the year. A doctor's reception room is open to all possible patients. A collector with a grain of ingenuity can find a way to worm out of the men on the waiting list information as to the terms of payment. After an interview with three or four persons who have paid spot cash for treatment and who have told the collector they paid, it takes a mighty nerve on the part of the doctor to insist that he hasn't a dollar to his name."

ONE KIDNEY GONE

But Cured After Doctors Said There Was No Hope.

Sylvanus O. Verrill, Milford, Me., says: "Five years ago a bad injury paralyzed me and affected my kidneys. My back hurt me terribly, and the urine was badly discolored. Doctors said my right kidney was practically dead. They said I could never walk again. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. One box made me stronger and freer from pain. I kept on using them and in three months was able to get out on crutches, and the kidneys were acting better. I improved rapidly, discarded the crutches and to the wonder of my friends was soon completely cured."

Fixity of Purpose.

The man who succeeds above his fellows is the one who, early in life, clearly discerns his object, and toward that object habitually directs his powers. Even genius itself is but fine observation strengthened by fixity of purpose. Every man who observes vigilantly and resolves steadfastly grows unconsciously into genius.—Bulwer-Lytton.

World's Palaces of Art

MOST SPLENDID MUSEUMS FOR NEW YORK CITY

HOW THE MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY WILL APPEAR WHEN COMPLETED

COMPLETED BROOKLYN INSTITUTE MUSEUM

When the three great museums of the Greater New York are completed in the years to come there will be given to the country and the world groups of art palaces the like of which the world has never before seen. They will represent an expenditure of $50,000,000 exclusive of the priceless collections which will find shelter within the spacious walls of the institutions. The Metropolitan Museum of Art will be the largest building devoted to art in the world; the completed museum of natural history will overshadow the British museum, and the Brooklyn Institute museum is planned along the same magnificent lines. In the case of the last named the eastern wing, recently finished, completes an entire front of the structure, including the corner towers. In the case of the Natural History museum the great outer wall has finally turned the southwestern corner and is being carried some distance northward. The new wing is the first of the great side walls of the building.

The Fifth avenue facade of the Metropolitan museum is being carried this year nearly a block northward from the main entrance. The new wing is particularly interesting, since it is the first wall to be built besides the entrance, on the outer line of the building. The museum will ultimately inclose the great hollow rectangle, whose longest dimensions will parallel Fifth avenue. The main buildings of the museum to-day, those in red brick, will in time be completely inclosed. The outer walls will be of a light gray stone. The cost of this building when completed, it is estimated, will be $22,000,000. Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke said recently that he believed the great museum would be completed in ten years, when it will certainly be the chief architectural feature of the city. Some idea of the proportions of this building may be had from the statement that the present Fifth avenue facade, nearly two blocks in length, is less than one-fourth the length of the completed eastern front.

trance. The same alignment is maintained. It is two floors in height, with a basement. One of the features of the new addition is a spacious lecture hall opening from this wing into the inner courtyard. The need of such a hall has been felt for years. The walls of the new wing on the inner courts are of white brick, and the greater part of the roof is of grass. The interior is designed with the same effect of lofty spaciousness so characteristic of the older halls of the museum.

The management of the museum has long been embarrassed for room, and the new wing will be quickly taken up. The second floor, according to the present plans, will be devoted to Robert Fulton and Hendrick Hudson and their times. The display of these collections will have a peculiar timeliness in view of the approaching Hudson anniversary. It is probable that the Henschel collection, the property of Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, will also be allotted space in this wing. Although the new wing, as seen from the street, appears to be practically complete, it is not expected that it will be regularly thrown open to the public for some months.

The Natural History museum will be carried a step nearer completion this year by the opening of the south wing of the west facade and by a new approach to the central power house and tower. The museum, it is perhaps not generally realized, will ultimately considerably exceed in size the British museum. It is now nearly 20 years since the first hall was built, one of the interior wings, which is now almost completely hidden. Since then the entire south facade has been completed, an avenue block in length.

The new wing carries the line of the corner tower on the west nearly a city block northwest, thus giving the first suggestion of the appearance of the west front as it will ultimately appear. The great building will some day occupy the entire space facing Central park, measuring three city blocks in length and one avenue block in width. A great central tower will

Despite the apparently endless corridors of the present structure the museum is badly cramped for room. There are tons of valuable material, gathered at great expense, which it is impossible to display. Space in the wing with its five broad floors is, however, already heavily mortgaged. With many exhibits demanding space, it has been decided to devote the new wing to the new Congo and Philippine collections. The Congo exhibit, recently obtained in Belgium, of unusual popular as well as scientific interest, is especially timely. It is believed it will make a very strong popular appeal and will amply justify the space devoted to it.

The second wing, which is available for exhibition purposes this year, leads from the central power house directly westward. While smaller than the south wing on the street side, it is nevertheless an important addition to the museum. This wing will be given over to various fish exhibits. It will soon be thrown open to the public. These wings together make the most important addition to the museum in some six years.

As in the case of its neighbor, the Metropolitan museum, the new wing stands practically complete so far as its outer appearance is concerned. The brown stone used in its construction is of course somewhat lighter in tone than in the older parts of the building, but a few years of exposure will correct this.

The new addition to the Brooklyn Institute museum has already doubled the capacity of the building. The work here has been completed some months in advance of the similar additions to the other city museums. The completion of this wing has done more for the general appearance of the building than have the additions to the other museums. An entire facade of the Brooklyn museum now stands completed where before a single wing appeared somewhat isolated and detached.

The new wing has so far cost $2,400,000, and it stands to-day less than one-fourth complete. The central staircase and approach to the east wing cost alone nearly $90,000. It is in some respects the most beautiful architectural feature in the city.

Man with a Boil Couldn't Listen to Political Talk.

They were waiting on a corner for the street car when the man with the folded newspaper turned to the man with the eye glasses and queried:

"Well, how do you like the Denver nomination?"

"Um!" was the response.

"Going to be a strong candidate, don't you think?"

"Um!"

"And I shouldn't be in the least surprised to see him elected."

"Um!"

"In fact, I find lots of people who think it's time for a change. Perhaps you think that way yourself?"

"Um!"

"At any rate, it's going to be a hot campaign from now on, and, of course, every lover of his country will be interested."

"Um!"

"As to Roosevelt, sir—as to Roosevelt, while I have no particular fault to find with him—"

"Are you speaking to me, sir?" asked the "Um!" man, as he suddenly woke up.

"Speaking to you! Why, I've been talking to you for the last half hour."

"About what?"

"About the Denver nominations."

"Oh—politics! I've got a boil on my leg as big as a teacup, a lawsuit coming off this afternoon, and my wife packed up this morning and left the house. Talk to me in a soothing way or shut up!"

Repartee.

"My! how tanned you are."

HELPFUL ADVICE

You won't tell your family doctor the whole story about your private illness—you are too modest. You need not be afraid to tell Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., the things you could not explain to the doctor. Your letter will be held in the strictest confidence. From her vast correspondence with sick women during the past thirty years she may have gained the very knowledge that will help your case. Such letters as the following, from grateful women, establish beyond a doubt the power of

to conquer all female diseases.

Mrs. Norman R. Barndt, of Allentown, Pa., writes:

"Ever since I was sixteen years of age I had suffered from an organic derangement and female weakness; in consequence I had dreadful headaches and was extremely nervous. My physician said I must go through an operation to get well. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I took it and wrote you for advice, following your directions carefully, and thanks to you I am today a well woman, and I am telling all my friends of my experience."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

Microscopic Writing.

A remarkable machine made by a lately deceased member of the Royal Microscopical society for writing with a diamond seems to have been broken up by its inventor. A specimen of its works is the Lord's prayer of 227 letters, written in the 1,237,000 of a square inch, which is at the rate of 53,880,000 letters or 15 complete Bibles, to a single square inch. To decipher the writing it is necessary to use a 1-12-inch objective, which is the high power lens physicians employ for studying the most minute bacteria.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
