Discussing the question of "foreign capital and our money market," the New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle says:

The fact is that capital is abundant in London, and the continental markets also, notwithstanding the Vienna panic, the rise of the gold speculative values throughout Germany,

Judging from present appearances we may now fairly calculate on a much larger proportion of that capital flowing hither during the next six months than was at all probable before the close of the Geneva Convention. It is not without reason that the public attach so much importance to this prospective influx of foreign capital, for it is really the most important preventative or remedy for some of the formidable monetary evils that trouble us, and it will help us to avoid some of the perils which we too thickly the rugged path we are traveling toward specie payments.

WHO SHALL REPRESENT US.

Is a pertinent question, and one that must be answered at the polls in a few months. The question of how much representation we shall be allowed has been answered by our illustrious Michigander, Marsh Giddings. The representatives in the last legislature from southern New Mexico, did not get down and worship the golden calf, so he got up and bellowed a bull at our section. Arousing himself from his mild embeccility, he put himself into a passion of meanest partzanship, and struck us a blow as foul as it was cowardly. In the last legislature, the three counties of Doña Ana, Grant, and Lincoln, had one senator, and four representatives. Wishing to cripple us in the next legislature, he, by proclamation as unjust as unwarrantable, cut our representation down to one senator and two representatives for the three counties, and this too in the face of the fact, that these three counties were receiving nearly all the immigration in the territory. The territory within the last two years has attracted the attention of the business men of the world, and more through the rich discoveries in these counties, than from all other causes combined. There is more energy and enterprise in these three counties than in all the balance of the territory, and because the last election showed them all strongly democratic this would be a betrayal, in small clothes, indicated a despicable meanness in the exercise of a power which a shadow of law gave him to our detriment and injustice. This one question should make the vote this fall a unit to redress our wrongs. Give us men who will pledge themselves to commence with the opening of the session and work unceasingly for a reapportionment of the representation of the different counties. Let us show this miserable apology for a Governor, that we know our rights and dare claim them. If there is a politician of Southern New Mexico, so base as to apologize for the action of Governor Giddings, or uphold him in this respect, let him be singled out and made to feel the odium of public scorn.

Prospecting for Copper in the Francisco Mountains.

Indians Collect Toll From The Hardy Miners.

About two weeks since Mr. Henry Lesinsky and Wm. Grant started on a trip to the Francisco Mountains, to examine the copper mines. They have returned and give us some information in regard to their trip. They started from Silver City with a light wagon, loaded with the necessities of the trip and drove that as far as the country would allow. Then packing some burros they rode to Goulding's camp. Lesinsky, Grant, Metcalf and Abraham then left for a mine about eight miles distant. At the foot of the mountain in which the lead is situated, they found the ruins of an old furnace and house. In this they camped at night and seeing no traces of Indians, left their burros, blankets and provisions the next morning and climbed the mountain about two miles to the mine. After a pretty thorough examination of an immense deposit of copper ore nearly pure, they descended to camp with the sharpest kind of an appetite for supper, but a sickening sight met their gaze upon their arrival. The canned meat and fruits had been cut open and their contents emptied upon the ground. Their plates had been doubled up, the blankets, knives, flour, &c., had been nicely packed upon the burros, and all driven off by five Apache brethren in the direction of Cachi's Camp.

Tired, hungry, and despondent the party laid down under a tree, and sheltered themselves from the cold mountain air with a steady blast of hot displeasure, while Grant, who can beat Weston any day, started off to Goulding's camp for rations with which he arrived next morning. The Indians had too long a start to make a successful pursuit and the party concluded to adopt Grant's peace policy and returned home minus about two hundred dollars worth of effects.

Goulding employs at his camp about a dozen Mexicans, and has about ten tons of copper out. The rough nature of the country makes it necessary to pack this on burros about fifteen miles before it can be loaded into wagons. The deposits of copper are simply immense, and no description can convey an adequate idea of the extent of these mines. But in the present dangerous condition of that portion of the country, it is almost impossible to get men to remain there. Was this danger done away with thousands of men could find profitable employment at good wages, and trains from this country would be loaded on their trips to the railroad with cargoes of copper.

Emigration For Southern New Mexico.

By Mr. Cohen we learn that the party of emigrants from Chicago for Silver City, were at Santa Fe enroute. The party, many of whom are ladies, are the most comfortably provided for of any party that has ever crossed the plains—Having fine carriages and horses, and have in fact made a pleasure trip of the whole journey. Another large party are a short distance behind them, and still another party were just about to leave Pueblo. Silver City, Grant County, and in fact all the southern portion of the territory will feel the beneficial influence of this new arrival and we sincerely hope that the new comers will find happiness and prosperity in their new homes.

SILVER CITY.

Mr. Lesinsky informs us that he was down in the "Two Ricks" mine to the depth of one hundred and fifty feet, and at this depth lies an immense body of the richest ore yet found in the mine. In fact the owners are sacking it up for shipment rather than work it in their own mill with the facilities they have for extracting the metal.

The Shelby mill from which so much was expected is idle from want of success in saving the metal. The miners are very much discouraged over the failure, and say this mill has struck two severe blows at the prosperity of the place. One when it first came and Maxwell refused to put it up, and this when a failure occurs in saving the silver. The tailings from Willison's ore which was worked at this mill assays sixty dollars to the ton. Another miner had thirty tons of ore worked at another mill which produced ninety dollars per ton and fifteen tons from the same pile of ore worked by the Shelby mill produced nearly nothing. The Wisconsin mill is doing well but only working the ore of its owners. The Holland mill will soon be sold under mortgage. Col. Pope is hard at work putting up his mill. The Chicago Company are erecting their buildings and furnaces for smelting. Trade is overdone and times are dull, yet every day's development more clearly proves the richness and extent of the mines.

TAKING A BATH.

Last week the coach for Silver City took up T. B. Catron Esq., U. S. District Attorney; Ira M. Bond, clerk of the court; C. P. Clever and others. The river being high and no ferry running, it was decided by the conductor to carry the passengers over on the horses. So the conductor, driver, and Catron mounted for the swim when Bond, who clung to the protecting care of the representative of the best government the world ever saw, sprang up behind Catron. The horse thinking he had the law on his side and a seize facias on his back, walked out into deep water, and just as Bond was making a mental entry in the court record, and Catron was arriving at a conclusion in the Tularosa water-rights case, both gentlemen found themselves afloat, while the horse was engaged in irrigating them with Rio Grande water. Bond floated off like a cork and landed on some drift wood, while Catron engaged in some aquatic exercises with the horse in which he came off second best. All safely landed however, and the coach finally hauled across with Clever in it, whose natural aversion to water straight prevented him from placing himself in a position where there was danger of soaking from an element so congenial.

The killing of Wadworth by his own son in New York, has caused an intense excitement. The father had become so brutal in his treatment of his wife and family that they parted and his wife procured a divorce. His letters threatening her life and the lives of their children was the cause of his oldest son, 19 years of age meeting his father to induce him to cease his persecution of his mother. In this interview he shot his father.

The Denver News complains of innumerable swarms of grasshoppers in Colorado, and cautions citizens against sending off any more wheat from the territory, as it will all be needed for home consumption. Southern New Mexico has never yet been a sufferer from these pests.

McEnery has issued an address to the people of Louisiana, advising them to tacitly submit to the Kellogg government, as Grant is determined to uphold him with all the federal power.

The Vox Populi, government organ of Mexico, calls McKenzies' raid an aggression upon a nation too weak to resist—And it looks very much as if they were correct. We have not a shadow of doubt that if application had been made, leave would have been granted by the Mexican authorities. It was a put up job no doubt to complicate matters between the two governments.

We have received a specimen of the coal recently discovered near El Paso, Texas.

The Sentinel corrects the information that we had received, or rather gives another version of the race between the Armijo mare and Ned Hanger, and says the race was run on the square.

The New Mexican says they are having fine rains at Santa Fe.

Minna Life says that recently a Mexican smelted 43 ounces of silver from 22 pounds of rock. Ore from the Providencia.

Hon. R. B. Roosevelt was a member to whom congress voted back pay. Said member of congress didn't want it, but would donate it to the department of education. The department of education board met and resolved that they wanted no such money.

If it takes Grant six months to whip Capt. Jack, how long will it take to annex the northern states of Mexico.

The Oregon frontiersmen took a nice little job out of the hands of the military by killing a lot of the Modoc braves after capture.

It is said by letter from Rome that Pope Pius died on the tenth of May, and that on account of the church difficulties the Cardinals placed a Benedictine priest named Minati, who strikingly resembled the pope, in the position to counterfeit pope Pius, whom he well represents.

One of Grant's collectors of customs in the south can neither read nor write, and now examinations are to be made, and for this purpose the country is to be districted and examiners appointed.

San Francisco is to have two Fourth of July celebrations.

The Denver News comes to us with a new heading. A long plain in the foreground awaiting the coming of settlers, back of that a range of mountains extending from the isthmus to the Arctic; peering above this range, Weekly Rocky Mountain News rises as it written with the finger of fate.

The Osage Indians say they are in mourning and must have some scalps, to alleviate their grief—Give them a peace commissioner or half a dozen.

A large deputation of Sioux Indians have been over to Fort Gary to ask the Governor for a reservation. By all means let the British have all the Indians.

An enterprising man in Ohio, has offered a thousand dollars a day for Captain Jack for sixty days. That's more than the government can make out of him—Sell him and give the money to the survivors of those he has killed in Oregon.

Another letter just received from our Stanton correspondent, confirms the good news in his first.

LOCAL.

The weather is somewhat warm. During the week the thermometer has ranged from 94 to a 100 during the day, but the nights have been delightfully cool.

All of ye who wish to fling the Star Spangled Banner to the western breeze, go and buy one at Reynolds & Griggs, Mesilla.

Mr. W. V. B. Wadwell of Craig, came down on last coach to spend a week in the Mesilla Valley. A warm welcome is extended to so genial and pleasant a friend.

Mr. Tucker of the New Mexican has returned from his trip to Silver City, and went down to El Paso on Thursday. Hope he will have a good time and enjoy the El Paso wine, as well as obtain lots of new subscribers.

Now is the time to lay in your supply of fire works, for the Fourth of July—Reynolds & Griggs have gobs of 'em.

The other morning we were standing in the postoffice when a Mexican brought in a letter to mail, it was directed to Santa Clara and no where else. The P. M. asked where that was, the writer said it was Santa Clara and that was all he knew about it. P. M. informed the writer that he could not tell where to send it. You put it in the mail said the Mexican and it will go all right.

Ladies should not be without one of those walking sticks parasols to be found only at Reynolds & Griggs, Mesilla.

The business of our postoffice is very rapidly increasing under the careful and prompt management of Dr. Heintzelman. We hear on every hand complimentary expressions in regard to the conduct of the office. Col. Dawley made an excellent selection when he solicited the Doctor to take the office, and we are confident the business will constantly increase.

A novelty at Reynolds & Griggs Mesilla—What is it?—says ladies wear them behind. — says they go before, ladies buy one a piece and solve the mystery.

Mr. I. N. Cohen of Silver City, returned on the coach this week from New York, bringing with him his wife. Cohen has shown his usual energy and enterprise, and his good fortune has attended him in his matrimonial affairs. His many friends will welcome himself and lady at Silver City and we wish them much joy and happiness.

CHARMING.—A veritable organ artist grinder has dropped down among us all of a sudden. Every one is entranced and run out of doors to see where the baile is. It is proposed to get up a collection and hire the institution to go out and stay with Calchise. If that don't tame him he is a Modoc.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

To the Hon. Warren Bristol, Judge presiding at the June term 1873, of the District Court, Third Judicial District, County of Doña Ana:

The Grand Jury begs leave to submit the following report:

They have discharged the duties devolving upon them according to the best of their ability and understanding, keeping in view the instructions in your Honor's charges. We have found and presented true bills of indictment in cases of violations of law, where the facts warrant it. We have examined the books and accounts kept by the Probate clerk with the Sheriff and constables and we find, both territorial and county funds properly collected, and that said officers have paid into the different treasuries the funds by them collected in pursuance of law.

That the affairs of the county have been economically administered and while it appears that county expenses for some time past have been quite large on account of the large number of prisoners confined in the jail. Still the finances of the county are in a satisfactory condition, and warrants on the county treasury are at par.

The county jail is clean, but in need of repair. The prisoners are well cared for and say they are properly fed.

It has fallen to our lot to investigate an affair between the United States troops of Fort Stanton and the citizens of the town of Tularosa, in the county in which one of the citizens was killed, by the soldiers who were acting under orders of Captain McKibben, commanding officer at Fort Stanton. We have examined a great number of witnesses with a view of indicting the proper parties for the murder of the citizen, and while the grand jury are in doubt as to the party responsible and properly indictable under the law, the evidence shows conclusively that the conduct of Captain McKibben commanding at Fort Stanton in his interference with the people of Tularosa, was wholly unwarranted, not to say outrageous. It is with the deepest regret that the grand jury make the statements reflecting upon a U. S. military officer. It would have been a much more agreeable task for them to have praised, than to have censured this officer. If the facts would warrant it, but they do not.

The people of the town of Tularosa and the people of the Cañon above the town were having some disagreement about the water of the cañon, about which a law suit is pending in the courts. The Justice of the Peace of the precinct was in the exercise of his office, and the people of Tularosa recognizing this authority and obeying his orders, and whether right or wrong it was not within the province of any military officer in the world to constitute himself as Judge, as it appears that Captain McKibben did. Without any pretext except an application of a private individual or the more flimsy authority of a U. S. commissioner in Lincoln county, whose powers and duties generally are more limited than are those of a Notary Public, he, Captain McKibben, sent an armed force in the vicinity of Tularosa, and set at naught the authority of the Justice of the Peace of the precinct. A conflict ensued in which the citizen was killed as before stated. Captain McKibben then appeared in person with a large number of troops, and a piece of artillery, and went to the town of Tularosa. He threatened certain peaceable citizens of the town, including a catholic priest and threatened them with hanging if they should interfere any further &c., &c. Such are the facts. The grand jury complain and earnestly protest against the unwarrantable and tyrannical conduct aforesaid and that there may be no repetition of such unwarrantable acts against the rights, lives and liberties of the people of Doña Ana county, we respectfully ask your Honor to take such measures as shall seem just and proper in the premise.

Having fully discharged the duty devolving upon us, we respectfully ask that we may be discharged.

FRUIT GROWING IN COLORADO

(From the Rocky Mountain News)
Monthly Meeting of the Denver Farmer's Club—Interesting Reports and Discussion on Tree and Fruit Culture.

This body met at its room, City National bank building, yesterday afternoon.

Reports on fruits and ornamental trees formed the first regular business in order.

The president, Dr. J. H. Morrison, reported his trees and bushes as follows:

Apples, pears, plums, grapes, strawberries, currants all alive; cherries, half dead; blackberries and raspberries, all dead. The soft maples had the ends of their limbs killed. The native evergreens are all alive, while all the imported are dead. Of other shrubbery, the snow-balls, lilacs, roses and mountain ash all are alive. All that were covered with straw survived, while in many instances those left uncovered perished.

Mr. J. Y. Dillon made the following report in relation to his trees and bushes: Of the black and golden cap raspberries, though suffering some damage during the past winter, there still remain a sufficient number to warrant a good crop. The Philadelphia and Clark Red were nearly all killed. Most of the blackberries were killed except the Dorchester and small lot of the Lawton, which were planted close to a high fence. The latter are in a fair condition and will give some fruit. The other varieties of blackberries cultivated were the Mammoth, Kittatinna and Wilson early. The strawberries were badly damaged, except where they were protected by mulching. About half the plants were lost. Currants and gooseberries are doing well, all being full of fruit. Grapes of all kinds were more or less injured, yet most of the varieties are setting fruit. The varieties in cultivation are principally the Catawba, Clinton, Isabella, Concord, Hartford, Prolific, Delaware, Ives, Seedling and the White Concord. Those most injured were the Catawba, Isabella and the Creveling. The peach trees were nearly all killed. The apple trees are nearly all in good condition. The older trees are setting some fruit. The pear trees show a good healthy growth of wood, but started too early to have fruit, though most all of them bloomed. As to cherries, the Richmond, the common and the English Morello are doing well and are setting fruit. The quinces were all killed. Most of the locust trees were killed to the body; and, in some cases, entirely. The soft maple had some of the ends of their limbs killed. No real injury, however resulted. The ash-leaf maple is in good condition. Elms, in some cases, are killed close to the ground. Walnut from the seed appears to be all right. The small chestnut seedlings were mostly killed. The four-year old trees, however, did very well. The silver poplar, mountain ash, and a few other varieties are doing well.

Judge Bennett said that nearly all his elm trees had been killed above ground, but were now spreading out from below. Mr. W. N. Byers said he noticed that some plum trees which have been out about four years, as well as some apple trees that were out two or three years, were killed. A crab apple tree, bearing two years, was killed. It was due mainly to sun scorching. Some alanthus trees, elms, maple, willow and mountain ash were killed. On the grounds to which he alluded, about twenty five per cent. of the trees were dead. Referring to some sections of the east through which he recently passed, he said that a great many osage hedges and fruit trees had been damaged and killed. This was particularly the case in northern Missouri and Iowa. The locust seemed to resist the harshness of the winter. The maple do not seem to have suffered. Some of the people in those states give their preference to the Lombardy poplar as a wind break, while others are partial to the willow.

Judge Bennett did not think that the trees of this section were much injured by cold weather, but through the extreme dryness of the climate. In some instances, trees have been found to be literally dried up.

Dr. Morrison thought that the succors should be promptly cut off so that a great deal of life and sap may be thrown into the bodies of the trees.

A motion was carried that each of the members make a written report relative to fruit culture for the consideration of the club at its next meeting. These papers will then be referred to a committee who will digest them and then report as to the best varieties of trees for this section of country.

Reports were made regarding fruit trees in adjoining counties, showing that while some varieties flourish others perish.

Some fruit raisers were reported as opposed to late irrigation. A resolution was passed requesting J. W. Cook, of Arvada, who was formerly an extensive fruit grower in California, to give his views at length, in writing relative to the best mode of growing and protecting fruit trees.

After some further interchange of views the club adjourned Saturday, July 5, at which time not only will interesting papers be presented and read, but a fine display of fruits and flowers, grown in the vicinity of this city will be made for the benefit of all who may attend.

San Francisco, June 6.—A dispatch from Boyle's camp, Tule Lake, on the 3rd instant, says: No new operations have taken place since the surrender of Captain Jack. The surrender resulted because Jack could not hold out any longer. An opinion prevails among the Modocs that General Davis will shoot Jack, Boston Charley and Schonchin without waiting for any suggestions from the civil authorities. The Bulletin's correspondent talked to Boston Charley, who said that the majority of the captives will be prepared to die like men. Jack cares for nothing, and will not speak to any person, Boston Charley says there are 12 Modocs still at large. Col. Green's command is hunting for them. A dispatch from the same point, on the 4th instant, says that General Davis, at Applegate's house, came over to Boyle's camp on that day. Black Jim is one of the missing Modocs. He is the rascal who held Canby while Jack shot him. Hooka Jim and Steamboat Frank are hunting the missing warriors and squaws.

The Modoc prisoners have all been taken over to Taylor's camp. Jack is chained with Schonchin. Boston Charley and One Eyed Mose, Sam was manacled by himself. Jack feels very uneasy about his shackles. He says he is not afraid to die, and has no intention of running away. He declines answering all questions regarding his fight. He says he is thirty-six years of age. He, however, dwells at great length upon his grievances. All of the captured Indians seemed to think it harsh that they are ironed. Jack and some of his cohorts tried to file their irons off and escape, but strict guard will prevent them from getting away.

A dispatch from Boyle's camp at midnight, on June 4, says that Hooka Jim and Steamboat Frank made a successful scout yesterday, with the co-operation of the Oregon volunteers. They trailed three warriors and five squaws to the timber mountain. They then captured Black Jim, who had recently shot several settlers. This Indian is regarded with especial hatred by the Oregonians, as he is one of the worst murderers of the tribe. The Warm Spring Indians held a war dance this evening, which was witnessed by a large audience of officers and men.

A dispatch from Boyle's camp, dated the 5th, says: Late yesterday afternoon a detail of men belonging to the artillery arrived in camp from the timber mountains near the peninsula, with twenty juniper logs, clean and straight. Many marveled as to what the timbers were for. The secret is out this morning. General Davis intended to erect a scaffold and execute one dozen of the worst murderers in the tribe, at sunset to-morrow. He feels that there is no need of delay as there is no doubt of the guilt of the chosen victims. Justice demands a speedy and certain action. Even at this time he is writing out a statement of their offences which will be read to the condemned Modocs.

A still later dispatch says that General Davis after having completed all arrangements for the execution of the Modocs received an order from Washington to hold the prisoners. This stopped the contemplated work. The feeling in camp is one of profound disgust at the result. One of the Oregon volunteers, just arrived at camp, says that his troops have captured five warriors, four squaws and five children.

INDIAN OUTRAGES

The Osages on the War Path.

A special to the Topeka Commonwealth, dated Wichita, June 4, says:

Intelligence has just been received that the Osages attacked Cox's herd en route for Montana, south of Caldwell, while it was in charge of three men, killing and scalping them, and stampeding the herd. The remainder of the men connected with the herd were in search of lost cattle when the attack was made. I have been unable to get the names of the parties butchered.

Last Saturday, while Messrs. Chambers, Earle and Traylor were out hunting for strayed cattle on the new Ellsworth trail, and while watering their horses at a branch in a ravine, they were suddenly attacked by fifteen Osages of the Black Dog band. Mr. Edwin Chambers was killed, the ball entering his back just above the kidneys.

Mr. Earle turned and fired upon the Indians, killing one.

Traylor and Earle made a narrow escape, owing to fleet horses. The Indians scalped Chambers, after which they placed a rifle to the crown of his head and sent a ball crashing through his brain. This was done within thirty miles of the camp of Company C, U. S. cavalry. Mr. Chambers was formerly of St. Louis and his mother resides there now. The Indians, after committing these outrages, made a forced march and got out of reach of his friends, who pursued but were unable to overtake them, and were compelled to return and look after their cattle.

A Louisville lawyer lately met with a mishap. His wife wanted waste paper for the manufacture of certain article of her dress, which may or may not be properly called a bustle. Newspaper being scarce in that house, Mrs. Attorney seized upon certain important legal documents which she found in her husband's office, and with them constructed the desired appendage. The case in which these papers were to be used came on for trial, but in consequence of Madam's little theft they couldn't try it. An inquiry was instituted in short, there was a row about it; and the ingenious culprit confessed, restored the depositions, and so forth, and we suppose took such a lecture on grand larceny from her husband as she never before had in her life.

At the Office of the BORDERER

PROSPECTUS

THE BORDERER

The usual length of time allotted by the public to test the permanency of a new paper has been safely and securely passed by THE BORDERER, and the enterprise stands today as one of the fixed local institutions of New Mexico.

In an isolated position, far away from the business and commercial centers, almost wholly unknown, where local terms of circulation, it was months to reach us with material for our weekly issue, we have succeeded in building up a paper which has already impregnated its influence upon our own section and the Territory at large.

It has been our aim, as it will ever be, to maintain our interest in every measure calculated to Insure the Prosperity of the Territory

In its Agricultural, Mineral, and Pastoral wealth to build Schools, and under a higher and purer sense of moral and social principle.

To Southern New Mexico

We are under double obligations, which we shall always endeavor to perform—to place her past and inexhaustible resources, her genial climate and the prospective wealth before the world for its consideration.

In politics, THE BORDERER will always maintain and defend the

PRINCIPLES OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

ELECTED ORGAN OF THE DEMOCRACY OF NEW MEXICO.

It presents its claim to the party and asks a general support of these bonds. We shall strive to make THE BORDERER a medium of communication between the citizens of all portions of the Territory and with this view earnestly from our friends in every county. The necessity and influence of a well established and well conducted paper upon the prosperity and progress of the country has become with our people a question that admits of no doubt, and we ask of our fellow citizens that previous support that will enable us to place THE BORDERER on a footing of permanent prosperity, and make it the

Leading Paper of the Territory

We solicit from our friends in the different counties an effort to increase our circulation by the free nation of clubs feeling confident that a slight contribution upon their part will soon give us the largest subscription list of any paper in New Mexico.

Beauty of old People.

Men and women make their own beauty or their own ugliness. Lord Lytton speaks in one of his novels of a man "who was uglier than he had any business to be," and if he could but read it every human being carries his life on his face, and is good looking or the reverse as that life has been good or evil.

On our features the fine chisel of thought and emotion are eternally at work. Beauty is not the monopoly of blooming young men and of white and pink maidens. There is a slow growing beauty that only comes to perfection in old age. Grace belongs to no period of life, and the goodness improves the longer it exists. We have seen sweeter smiles from a lip of seventy than upon a lip of seventeen. There is the beauty of youth and the beauty of holiness—a beauty much more seldom met, and more frequently found in the armchair by the fire with grandchildren around his knee than in the ballroom or promenade. His hand and side, who have fought the world wide by side, who have made a common stock of joy and sorrow, and aged together, and not infrequently found curiosity alike in personal appearance, and in path and tone of voice—just as twin pebbles on the beach exposed to the same tidal influence, are each other's second self. He has gained a feminine something which brings his manhood into full relief. She has gained a masculine which acts like a foil to her womanhood.—Long's Magazine.

OATMEAL, BONE AND MUSCLE.—Liebig has shown that oatmeal is almost as nutritious as the very best English beef, and that it is richer than wheaten bread in the elements that go to form bone and muscle. Professor Forbes, of Edinburgh, during some 20 years, measured the breadth and height, and also tested the strength of both the arms and loins of the students in the University—a very numerous class, and of various nationalities drawn to Edinburgh by the fame of his teaching. He found that, in height, breadth of chest and shoulders, and strength of arms and loins, the Belgians were at the bottom of the list; a little above them the French; very much above them the English; and highest of all, the Scotch and Scotch Irish, from Lister, who, like the natives of Scotland, are fed, in their early years, with at least one meal a day of good milk and good oatmeal porridge. Speaking of oatmeal an exchange remarks that a very good drink is made by putting about two spoonfuls of the meal into a tumbler of water. The Western hunters and trappers consider it the best of drinks, it is at once nourishing, invigorating and satisfying.

HEALTHFULNESS OF LEMONS.—When people feel the need of an acid, if they would let vinegar alone, and use lemons or apples, they would feel just as well satisfied and receive no injury. A suggestion may not come amiss as to a good plan, when lemons are cheap in the market. A person should then purchase several dozen at once and prepare them for use in warm, weak days of the Spring and Summer, when acid, especially citric or malic, or the acid of lemons, are so grateful and useful. Press your hand on a lemon and roll it back and forth briskly on the table to make it squeeze more easily; then press the juice into a bowl or tumbler, never into a tin; strain out all the seeds, as they give a bad taste. Remove all the pulp from the peels, and boil in water—a pint to a dozen peels, to extract the acid. A few minutes boiling is enough; then strain the water with the juice of the lemons; put a pound of white sugar to a pint of the juice, boil ten minutes, bottle it, and your lemonade is ready. Put a tablespoonful or two of this lemon syrup in a glass of water and you have a cooling beautiful drink.

THE VIENNA EXPOSITION.—VIENNA, June 5.—The American department of the Exposition was opened this morning, and steam applied to the machinery. The novelties surpass those from other countries.

A young lady recently, on being requested to sing "The Maid's Prayer," immediately favored the audience with "Mother, may I go out to swim?"
