School Notes.

The game Thursday afternoon of last week between the Mexicans and the town boys ended in a score of five to nothing, in favor of the Mexicans.

The players for the Mexicans were Alberto, 2nd base; Apolonia short stop; Lalo 1st base; Mando 3rd base; Darie catcher; Juan pitcher; Aristeo 1st field; Jim, cen. field; Jose 1st field.

In the first inning Apolonia, Lalo, and Mando all succeeded in securing.

In the 3rd inning Jim and Jose, each, made runs.

Alberto, Darie and Juan were players from Roswell. This pitcher and catcher are needed by many to be the best battery in the Pecos Valley, and they showed up well in this game, but the pitcher did not seem to get down to do his best at any time during the game.

The infield for the Mexicans only made one error to be spoken of during the game, made by the short stop. He later recovered the ball and threw his man out at first.

Only one ball was knocked into the outfield and it was to center field by Stewart which was easily handled by the fielder.

The players for Carlsbad were, Lucas catcher; Roney pitcher; Womack 1st base; Cassidy 2nd base; Bird, short stop; Sowards, center field; Dishman, 1st field.

The town boys got a very poor team to play against such a good team, which is manifested by the score at the end of the game.

The last two runs resulted in a fumble on the part of the second baseman. It is much in evidence that this team cannot hope to play any team successfully at this time as they have no regular practice. The High School boys hope to have a team this year that will beat any team in town. Last year they beat the town team two out of three games. The High School certainly could get up a good team if it could have such a leader as Mr. Lucas to work up enough interest to coach the team.

The score:
Mexicans: 3 2 2 0 0 0 0 0 5
Carlsbad: 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
Umpires: Rule and Robb.

Miss Kernodle being sick Monday Mrs. Allen took her place. All the children were gone during their teachers absence; they all like Mrs. Allen.

The seventh and eighth grades took an examination in history Sunday morning.

The grammar school's new clock is a good one. It has the days marked on the face and strikes every hour and at the halves, that's two advantages ours has over the High school school clock, and then it's a new one.

All the cattle men of the T. X. range have sold their cattle and will ship them on the 5th of May.

Miss Hattie Fanning recovered from her illness and went to town today. Some of the school boys got out a little early Thursday to go and help the town team win the game from the Mexicans, but did very little good, the school boys will have a team that can beat any high school in the Pecos Valley by the time school is out.

The women of the Home Mission Society are going to have a fancy work sale on Saturday March 3rd in addition to their monthly market. The proceeds of this sale go for Home Mission Work.

Prof. Griffin announced that no student could come to his office. Some of the High School students have been visiting Professor's office too often lately and now he has forbid any student to enter.

A party of Carlsbad people went on a picnic Sunday, March 21st. They drove out of town a piece and had a lunch and returned at a late hour. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. McLenathan, Tom McLenathan, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts and their children.

School took up at 9:45 on Monday, March 22nd and as a consequence, a large number of students were tardy and had to remain down stairs as Professor Griffin forbade any tardy pupil to enter the auditorium after school commenced.

Prof. Griffin, Monday, announced that the students would have to discontinue having their opening exercises in the auditorium if they could not begin their days work by 10 minutes after 9 o'clock. So far it has taken over half an hour after time to begin for grammar school students to get to their building.

At the High school meeting on Friday morning, March 19th, Mr. Ed Mudgett was elected High school representative to represent the High school in the dedicatory exercises on April 23. Misses Ruby and Julia Dunaway gave a party Saturday evening, March 20th and quite a large party of girls and boys were there. Upon being elected High School representative, Ed M. wishes to announce that he will discontinue writing news until April 23rd; he desires to represent the high school as it should be represented if it is in his power to do so. He also wishes to thank the students for electing him. It is known that he will have to work very hard to prepare his talk, and that if he attempted to write news, they would probably both be failures. So he simply wishes luck to both the other reporters and resigns.

Huling and Oscar Usery were very busy Wednesday evening, March 17th cleaning out irrigation ditches on their place in La Huerta.

Charley Ward of the 9th grade, went to the ranch of Mr. Ezell on Tuesday, March 16 to break branches. He will be back in a few days.

Junior Klauder, on Monday, March 15 gave a party at his home in honor of his 7th birthday and quite a party of little girls and boys were there. After an hour or two of play the following refreshments were served in ice cream, cake and oranges.

Each of the children received a souvenir, the boys getting a spinning top and each girl receiving a doll.

The following girls were present: J. D. Merchant, Billy Merchant, J. B. Carr, Hugh Dannelley, Edward Purdy, Everett Grantham, Clarence Horne, William Reed, Sam Morrison, Geo. Finlay, Arthur Breeding, Frank Lucas, John R. Joyce, Phil Noah, F. E. Little, Virgil Griffin, Frank Smith, Henry McKee, Helen Wright, Isabel Smith, Marie Antoinette Reed, Elizabeth Pur-

Miss Kernodle was elected critic with Allen Stewart as sergeant-at-arms.

The Lake Arthur team are Forwards, Lally Tucker and Etta Hains; centers, Marie Rogers and Lucy Evans; guards, Missie Hirt and Lucile Couper.

The ball was in the Lake Arthur field most of the time, but nevertheless the Carlsbad girls won by a large score. At the end of the first half the score stood 4 to 1 in favor of Carlsbad. Lake Arthur making most of their scores by free throws. Of our girls Eva Bass, Lucia Rule, and Lucy Baird, played a remarkable game—Eva Bass especially.

It is thought that the meeting of the Irving Society held March 19th will be the last one on account of the students preparing for the commencement exercises.

The Old High School Stairs.

Listen to the merry chatter of the children as they patter, Up the High school stairs; Forbidden here of yore.

Do you hear their merry chatter, As gleefully they scatter, Over the rooms; To be denied them nevermore.

What delight they take in frumping Round the rooms and sometimes (stamping) Just to show possession They're enjoying now.

Soon 'twill be another story Older it will grow and hoary, And reluctantly they'll climb Those stairs I throw.

Youngsters, while you can then (glory) You will find another story, Isn't always what it seems To infant minds.

But advancing in life's pathway, You will find life's problems bath (a way) Of advancing all along The stairs we climb.

Then, my children, be contented With the simpler sums presented, Nor be in haste to solve The harder ones up stairs.

They will all come in due season, Then you'll understand my reason For advising against your haste To climb those stairs.

WE wish to announce that we have opened

The first number on the program was a piano duet by Misses Fay Gee and Ruby Dunaway. It was a very pretty piece and brought down the house. Miss Henderson's pupils gave us a song and did well. Estelle Clark then recited an expressive piece and did also. Miss Frons Leck. Next came a vocal solo by Percy Farke which was very amusing and was also rendered.

Charles Dannelley gave us the best jokes we have had this year. Miss King's room then rendered a fine song. They did well well for any boys they are. Frank Selinger recited a humorous piece. Next Miss Mona Heard gave us a very fine piano solo.

Miss Cecil Segner and Ethel Swick and then rendered a vocal duet. They are both good singers and all enjoyed their song. They were immediately encored by the house.

The piano duet by Misses Lelietta Cartwright and Carrie Dye was very good and shows practice.

A whistling and vocal duet by George Finlay and Eva Allen was about the best number on the program. They did exceedingly well.

The little play by Aline Grantham, Camille Grantham, Josephine Dannelley and Ed Mudgett was a well acted drama and showed a great deal of practice.

Miss Anna Klauder recited an expressive piece which was appreciated. A vocal solo by Miss Vera Hines was next and was simply fine.

Leslie Lee Daugherty and Viola Allen gave us a piano duet which was very good.

Miss Edith Hartshorn rendered us a very expressive piece and was encored.

The orchestra by Bessie Lee Daugherty, Joe Owen, Douglas Groves, Fred Pendleton and Eugene Roberts was good and all present appreciated their music. They were encored and rendered an even better piece than before. After the critic's report, which was made by Prof. Griffin on account of the absence of Mrs. Wood, Prof. Griffin asked Mr. Grantham to give the students an address. He gave a helpful instructive address.

The Carlsbad Current

Carlsbad, N. M. Friday MAR. 26, 1909

Carlsbad Current established November 15, 1880. New Mexican then established May 12, 1907. The two papers consolidated October 11, 1907.

Carlsbad Printing Co., Publishers
Wm. H. Mullane, Pres.

The Official Paper of Eddy County.

Published every Friday and entered as second class matter at the Carlsbad, N. M. post office.

From a couple of drummers who came down from Artesia yesterday it was learned that D. L. Newkirk, the editor of the Republican organ of that place was hanged in effigy Tuesday night. A figure containing a placard, "Dam Liar Newkirk" on one side, and "$2,500 New County" was hung on the other side and allowed to hang for a day, so all could see to what an extent the dislike and odium of a large contingent of the Artesia people had reached. Wednesday morning the figure, clothes and all was let down and a disgusted anti-Newkirk man immediately touched a match to it and was consumed amid yells, beating of tom-toms and a general war dance that savored more of the antics of a bunch of Comanches than the mild and temperate doings of the residents of a prohibition town in the West. Newkirk by his anxiety to land one of the offices in the new county which all the so-called politicians of Artesia believed assured, it is alleged, had defeated the measure by his presence in Santa Fe, while nothing could be farther from the real facts, for at no time did the little bunch of so-called politicians consisting of Whelan, Hamilton, Christopher and Enfield ever have a slightest of a chance to carry a measure. When the members of the legislature found the true state of affairs, that all the people of this county were against division, except a little mob in Artesia, the good sense of the whole legislature almost to a man rebelled against the idea, even the Sol Luna carried the bill in his pocket and did his level best to handle the members for the absurd monstrosity, that would make a county a hundred or more miles long and only thirty miles wide and at the same time cause people to go from six miles north of the present county seat to a little boom town 30 miles away. The unjust, preposterous and absurd measure would be turned down by any man of ordinary common sense and it is the height of indignity, ingratitude and jealousy to saddle the people of Eddy county with the friends of Eddy county and her people the only real trouble they experienced in defeating the boom measure which was hatched for the purposes of selling town lots and booming real estate around Artesia. Says Mr. Brice: "It was no trouble to defeat the bill as soon as it was made clear to the members that it would inconvenience many people and accommodate none, except those of Artesia, and the fact that there were no other portions of the county asking for division on the proposed lines did more than any other cause to defeat the measure." When Mr. Brice was asked who caused the most anxiety for the friends of Eddy county and her people, he said: "Newkirk!"

Newkirk is the last man on earth that the Current owes any favors. In fact, if there ever was a man who deserved a roast by the Current, it is this same Newkirk; but, it is no more than right to give the devil his due, and only a sense of right prompts this paper to set him right in the eyes of the general public.

St. Patrick, that long deceased son of Old Ireland, had another birthday, Wednesday. — Springs Stockman.

Saints are not canonized for being born, but instead, the anniversary of their death, which was often that of the martyr is kept sacred to their memory. Neither are these days intended for jollification, but instead, should be kept about as memorial day is supposed to be observed by the Grand Army of the Republic and others who observe it properly.

Very little opposition has developed to the sewer bonds, but the friends of the measure should not attend the stock meet at Roswell and let a few moss backs beat the bonds. Any who do not favor the bonds are enemies of progress and would sacrifice their friends and families lives to cause the town to take a back set. If fevers and sickness are to be averted in future this town must have sewers, besides the convenience for cleanliness is more than worth five or ten dollars per annum to any family and that is the most the sewers can cost any ordinary free-holder.

Some of those people who are wedded to the theory of a so-called protective tariff should talk the matter over with Major Johnson, who was here a few weeks ago. The major invested some capital down in Mexico with his sons in a boot and shoe manufacturing industry which was well protected by a high tariff. They employed cheap Mexican labor and manufactured shoes at a less cost for leather and labor than the United States manufacturer could produce the same goods, then sold the goods at a higher price than they could be bought for in this country. The major has been a life long democrat and always denounced the tariff as robbery of the poor. He now says it is fine when you are on the inside where you can do the robbing for his sons and all others interested in the manufacturing business in Mexico are becoming wealthy while the people are not any better paid than before. A high tariff is a good thing for the rich, but very hard on the poor.

B. M. Mitchell who has been absent from the county for nearly a year at Santa Fe, was pardoned by Governor Curry last Saturday and arrived in Carlsbad, Monday. B. M. it will be remembered, was sent to the "pen" for two and a half years, being sentenced April 1, 1908 for larceny of sheep. It was always a very mixed question whether, for years, being sentenced by Judge Pope, April 1, 1908, for larceny of sheep. It was a very mixed up affair, the sheep having been found among those in his care, but were being herded by a Mexican and Mitchell's brother, Leander, was in charge while B. M. was away. It was generally laid at the door of his brother, but B. M. pleaded guilty and took the punishment. Before the trials and law incident to the affair B. M. was worth about $20,000, but the tangle he got mixed up in broke him and he comes home now to make a new start in life with all the vim and energy characteristic of the true western man and it is few that will not wish him all kinds of success in his determination to again build up a name and fortune in this great land of opportunity. He will endeavor to again work up in the sheep business, but says that he can "punch" cattle or do anything that comes his way.

Mr. J. B. Corn is in correspondence with a bunch of democrats in Arkansas and Missouri who contemplates coming to this county. If there is anything that Eddy county needs it is a few real enthusiastic democrats, men who will not go to sleep and allow a little bunch of Republicans to prevent the voters from turning out just because the county ticket has no opposition and thus assist in the defeat of the delegate to congress.

BRICE AND STEWART

Home from Santa Fe and are Welcomed by a Grateful People.

HOW BATTLE WAS WON

Sheriff Stewart Given Much Credit.

A large number of the friends of Hon. Chas. R. Brice were at the depot Tuesday evening to welcome him and his good wife, and congratulate them on his record in the legislature, especially the defeat of the bill from Artesia to divide this county. The evening was the most blustery and uncomfortable of the season but the town turned out in force just the same. After shaking hands for about ten minutes Mr. and Mrs. Brice were taken in a closed carriage to their home. The next day Mr. Brice was confined to his bed from sheer exhaustion incident to the strenuous strain of nearly two months in the legislature. He came down to his office Thursday and was interviewed by the Current on the general work of the legislature, saying first: "It would be a calamity to this territory to lose Governor Curry just at this particular time; he is certainly the most conscientious and just man possible to find in the territory or possibly to the whole United States when the position of governor of this territory is concerned. He vetoed every obnoxious measure that came through the legislature and was impossible to handle in any way, having no enemies to punish or friends to reward when it came to law for the people. His veto of the jury law that contemplated a system that would choose 150 in small counties and 200 in large counties, so that the names of jurors would be known months in advance so as to give an opportunity for jury fixing; after it had passed both houses was his best veto. Then his veto of the bill to remove the county seat from Hillsboro to Cutter, a boom town with only one house, was timely and just; but the measures that he killed at once were the greatest credit to Curry, he would discover a bill in process of construction and quietly inform the makers that he would not sign it and that they had better get a two-thirds majority at first for there was no hopes of the measure otherwise. In this way, the time of the members was conserved and much more work done than would have otherwise been accomplished. Among those of the members whom I hold in high regard are several good honest Republicans, such as Robert Colfax, Stackhouse of Socorro, Sweezy of San Miguel, Tipton of Otero, and Judge Baker of Guadalupe, than whom no more square and honorable man ever lived. Contrary to the usual opinion scarcely any member of the legislature could be considered purchasable. In explaining and making my position clear on the fight against county division was ably assisted by sheriff Stewart and my wife, to whom I can give the lion's share of the credit for its defeat. As I did not agree to favor county division and have no personal feeling against those who did, I am confident the people of Artesia cannot feel aggrieved at my course. The course of Mr. Mullins all through the whole session was that of an honest hard worker. He was generally found on the right side of every measure and gave able assistance in defeating the county division scheme.

Mr. Brice Got There.

Representative C. R. Brice, from the lower Pecos Valley, last night, or rather this morning, concluded a most successful career as legislator, with a brilliant piece of strategy that reminded of the famous final sprint of Delegate W. H. Andrews in Congress, that won for Albuquerque a public building after everyone else had abandoned hope. It was after midnight that representative Brice discovered that while all the other educational institutions had secured substantial advances over two years ago in the general appropriation bill; the New Mexico Military Institute had been left at the same figure. To think and to get into action meant only a moment for Brice, and it was only a few minutes before he had drafted the last bill of the session, House Bill No. 300, appropriating $3,400 additional for the Roswell school. The bill was written so rapidly, that the reading clerk of the Council could not decipher it and representative Brice, after he had put his bill through the house, was given the usual privilege of explaining the measure to the Council in regular session assembled and did it so forcefully that the bill passed unanimously. President Spicers remarking as he voted, that he voted for Brice rather than for the measure. In a twinkling of an eye, the bill was signed by the officers of the house and was before Gov. Curry in his office. If the state of New Mexico ever is democratic, the democratic bosses will have a hard time to keep Mr. Brice out of the United States Senate. — New Mexican, Feb. 19.

The two biggest men developed by the last legislature were Representative C. J. Roberts of Colfax county and Representative C. R. Brice of Eddy county. Roberts was the Republican leader, while Brice represented Democrats. The latter's politics did not interfere with his good work it seems, it is stated that Brice secured the passage and enactment of more laws than any other one member in the legislature. While not eloquent, Brice made up for his deficiency in actual work. So good were most of his measures that they were readily supported by the Republican majority.

Roswell Register-Tribune, Mch. 23rd.

A remarkable feature of the dying moments of the legislature was the introduction of a bill by C. R. Brice of Carlsbad at almost the striking of the time for final adjournment. The bill was for an appropriation for the military institute at Roswell, a matter that had been overlooked before, and strange to say the measure was passed at once in the house, rushed to the council and passed at once in the house, rushed to the council and passed there also, adding more fame to the career of Brice, who though a democrat, succeeded in gaining unusual distinction, by having more bills of his passed and signed by the governor than any other law-maker in the territory. His record was indeed a strenuous one. Another member of the house who attracted great attention by brainy work was C. J. Roberts of Roton. — El Paso Times.

It is an irony of legislative fate that most of the bills passed thus far and signed by Governor Curry are measures introduced by representative C. R. Brice, an uncompromising lower Pecos Valley Democrat. Nothing demonstrates more clearly that the 38th legislative assembly was a non-partisan body in sentiment and that party politics had very little influence on its deliberations although the same cannot be said altogether of personal ambitions or certain interests that formed an alliance that stood like a stone wall against attacks from the outside. — New Mexican, Mch. 18.

John Bigelow, the American minister to France in 1861-4, who is nearly ninety years old, pays an annual visit to France.

Sir Alan Johnstone, the British minister to Denmark, it is reported, will succeed Sir Henry Howard as minister to the Netherlands. Sir Henry will reach the age limit Oct. 1 and will then retire.

Julian Harris, son of Joel Chandler Harris and the "little boy" of the folk stories, succeeds his father as editor of Uncle Remus' Magazine, retaining also his original position as general manager.

Clyde Fitch has introduced a new idea to the motoring class. It is naming the car, which it is to be hoped, will safely carry the owner on his way. Mr. Fitch calls one of his automobiles Pauline and another Lizzie.

George Benjamin, a linotype operator, earned the title of champion potato eater of the Naugatuck valley, in Waterbury, Conn., when in a contest with Thomas Burke, a watchmaker, he devoured twenty-five large tubers to Burke's twenty-three.

Nos. 21 and 22 in point of service in the senate are Tallafiero of Florida and Dolliver of Iowa. As Tallafiero pronounces his name "Tolliver," Senator Dolliver is considering the advisability of gaining distinction by spelling his name "Dallaferro."

Philip Willey of Merced, N. H., has a tame woodchuck. He captured the little fellow last spring and brought it up with a nursing bottle. The creature is as tame as a pet dog, following members of the family about the premises and eating food from their hands.

The veteran composer Carl Reinecke, who celebrated the eighty-fourth anniversary of his birth recently, appeared as a pianist sixty-five years ago, and from 1860 to 1865 was conductor of the Gewandhaus concerts in Leipzig. He was a friend of Mendelssohn and of Schumann.

No Hurry.

The minister of a certain parish in Scotland was walking one misty night through a street in the village when he fell into a deep hole. There was no ladder by which he could make his escape, and he began to shout for help.

A laborer passing heard his cries and, looking down, asked who he was. The minister told him, whereupon the laborer remarked: "Well, well, ye needn't kick up sic a noise. Ye'll no be needed afore Sawbath, an' this is only Wednesday night."

Promising Start.

A young curate was once asked to take a class of girls of about fifteen or sixteen which had formerly been conducted by a lady.

He consented, but insisted upon being properly introduced to the pupils. Accordingly the superintendent took him to the girls for this purpose and, addressing them, said:

"Young ladies, I wish to introduce to you the Rev. Mr. Clump, who will in future be your teacher. I would like you to tell him what your former teacher did, so that he can go on in the same way."

Immediately a demure young miss of sixteen rose and said:

"The first thing teacher did was to kiss us all round."

JACOB J. SMITH

ROOSEVELT OFF FOR GREAT HUNT

EX-PRESIDENT SAILS AWAY TO DARK CONTINENT

TO BE IN AFRICA A YEAR

Then He Will Travel and Speak in Europe—Three Skilled Naturalists and His Son Kermit Accompany Him.

New York—Theodore Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States, sailed out of New York harbor Tuesday on the steamer Hamburg of the Hamburg American line on the way to his much heralded hunting trip in British East Africa.

The distinguished traveler occupies the "imperial suite" on the upper promenade deck, which was used by the German emperor in the winter of 1905-06.

On the dock was a large assemblage of Mr. Roosevelt's friends, who had gathered to bid him God-speed, and who cheered him as he stood at the rail of the steamer waving his hand and smiling with delight. Beside him stood the three men selected from hundreds of applicants to accompany him and assist him in collecting the specimens of African fauna which he hopes to send back for the enrichment of the Smithsonian institution. These fortunate individuals were Maj. Edgar A. Mearns, J. Loring Allen and Edmund Heller. They comprise the Smithsonian's expedition. The fifth member of the little party, and not to be considered of least importance, was the ex-president's second son, Kermit, who will be the official photographer of the expedition and, next to his father, the chief hunter.

To Mombasa Via Naples.

Mr. Roosevelt will go via Gibraltar to Naples, where he will board a steamer of the German East African line for Kilindini harbor, the port of Mombasa. At the latter place the party will be joined by R. J. Cunningham, an Englishman of long experience in Africa, who has been engaged as general manager and guide. The party will spend a short time in Mombasa and then proceed by train on the Uganda railway to Nairobi, headquarters of the administration of British East Africa Protectorate, a city of 12,344 inhabitants of whom 379 are Europeans.

On MacMillan's Ranch. William Northrup MacMillan, formerly of St. Louis, owns a large estate near Nairobi and his big luxurious farmhouse will be headquarters for about six months while the hunters and scientists make trips of varying length in all directions. It is in this section that Mr. Roosevelt hopes to obtain most of his specimens, for it abounds with animals of all kinds. The smaller mammals will be trapped.

The supplies of the party are packed in tin-lined boxes. These boxes when they have been emptied will be used as packing cases for the various specimens. Major valuable natural history specimens have been acquired by him and other hunters. It has been found from experience in other expeditions, and it is to guard against this that the tin-lined boxes are being taken along.

Caring for Specimens. When the specimens have been prepared they will be carefully packed in the boxes and shipped to Nairobi, where they will be forwarded to the United States. One of the greater difficulties will always be with Mr. Roosevelt, and as soon as any big game is shot he him it will be skinned and prepared on the spot.

Mr. Roosevelt will be greatly disappointed if he fails to kill several specimens of the white rhinoceros.

Cat Fosters Rabbits. At Wyndbrook, Weymouth, England, a tame rabbit had six young ones. The mother was killed accidentally. The house cat has since fostered and nursed them, and a fortnight later as if they were her own kittens.

Misappropriation. For it would have been better that man should have been born dumb, say, void of all reason, rather than that he should employ the gifts of Providence to the destruction of his neighbor.—Quintilian.

The Bachelor Tax in Bulgaria. Bulgaria's tax of two dollars a year on bachelors can make no practical difference. Any man who would marry in order to save that sum is too poor a financier to be worth while as a husband.

Fish Convey Germs. Experiments made in Germany prove that the germs of cholera or typhoid may endanger not only those who live below stream, but also those above the polluted point, as fish carry the germs upstream.

This animal is the same as the square-mouthed rhinoceros and is the nearest living ally to the type of the extinct Tichorhine or woolly rhinoceros which lived in England at the close of the Glacial period.

Journey Across Uganda.

Leaving Nairobi in October, the party will proceed by the Uganda railway to Port Florence, on the shores of Lake Victoria Nyanza, where a short stop will be made, then a steamer will be taken to Entebbe, 150 miles away. There a caravan will be formed and the journey across Uganda to the Nile will be begun. It is expected that the White Nile will be reached about the first of the year 1910. Lake Albert Nyanza will be touched at Kibira.

In a general way the course of the Nile will be followed to Khartoum and thence to Khartoum. At this city Mr. Roosevelt and Kermit will be joined by Mrs. Roosevelt and they will continue down the Nile slowly to Cairo, visiting many points of interest on the way.

To Speak in European Capitals.

Plans for the remainder of the ex-president's two years' tour have not been decided upon definitely, but the time will be spent in Europe, and several matters of importance have been announced. He will visit Berlin at the speech Germany in his address before the students of the University of Berlin, French in his lecture at the Sorbonne, and English in delivering the Balfour lecture at Oxford.

Pays His Own Expenses.

Mr. Roosevelt will defray the expenses of himself and his son on the African trip, but those of the scientists and the cost of preparing the specimens and shipping them to America will be paid out of a fund secured for the purpose by the Smithsonian institution.

One of the objects of Mr. Roosevelt in taking this trip is for the purpose of collecting material for writing several books regarding his experiences. During last summer he contracted with Charles Scribner's Sons of New York, giving that firm all the rights for the serial and book-form publication of whatever he might write on his visit to Africa. It is said that the contract price agreed upon is $1 per word, but this never has been verified.

No Slaughter of Animals.

Even if the British colonial government should offer to throw open to Mr. Roosevelt and his companions the African game preserves under its control, the ex-president will refuse to take advantage of this opportunity. Like other true sportsmen he believes that the utmost protection should be given to wild animals in reservations.

ROUTE OF THE 'ROOSEVELT PARTY' IN AFRICA.

invitation of Rudolph Winton and while there will deliver an address upon the one-hundredth anniversary of the founding of the University of Berlin.

From Germany he will go to France and deliver an address at the Sorbonne. It has not been learned how long Mr. Roosevelt intends to stay in France. Mr. Roosevelt will go to England, where a number of great scientific universities will be expected to honor him. He has accepted an invitation to deliver the Balfour lecture at Oxford university, and to all probability the honorary degree of D. Sc., which Oxford has bestowed on General Winton, will be conferred on Mr. Roosevelt.

The versatility of Mr. Roosevelt will be shown by the fact that he will and that he will be able to do them should he be given an opportunity under any circumstances, unless possibly when he is in the middle of a hunting trip.

Moreover, for a time it appears as if he is not the person who will be the most successful in his trip. Mr. Roosevelt has a good deal to do in the Redoubt institution two adult specimens, one of each sex, and a specimen of that species of animals he meets with on the dark continent. Having said the above, it will be his duty to the damage of the Balfour lecture.

In selecting the other scientists to accompany Mr. Roosevelt, Secretary Winton of the Balfour institution can choose some of the best naturalists in the country. The chief, Maj. Mearns, is a retired officer of the first rank corps of the army.

Ships' Sixth Sense. It is a common possibility of the sixth sense, which in effect enables ships with the "sixth sense" that fish are supposed to possess—the ability to sense in the deep sea the fact that land is near.

CARUSO'S RIVAL FOUND IN PARIS.

Trabaldini's Pupil Is Like Famous Tenor in Name, Voice and Presence.

Paris.—In the belief of his teacher, who is one of the four great masters of singing in Paris, a new Caruso has been found. He is only 21 years old, but already is an Apollo, and gives promise of some day rivaling the great Italian tenor in achievements as well as in vocal achievement.

The young tenor looks like Caruso, and still more strangely, there is a resemblance in name, too. The boy's name is Caruso—Federico Caruso. He is an Spaniard, having from San Sebastian where from the time he was 17 he came to the Orpheum, a noted theatrical society. There he attracted the attention of Maurice de Hirsch, a noted tenor of the Paris Opera, who sent the young singer to Paris. Trabaldini, the noted teacher in Paris who taught in the voice of Enrico Caruso, Geraldine Farrer, and other famous artists, is now Caruso's teacher.

Federico Caruso has been studying under Trabaldini for a little more than a year, displaying all his father's hopes, and has just been accepted by the opera house, a remarkable distinction for a singer, or young. He will make his debut in a few weeks, and soon as he has mastered French as well as his own, then in Italian. He will make his first appearance in "Romeo et Juliette" at the Paris Opera. In Italian Caruso sings all the repertoire of Trabaldini and Caruso. He has a powerful voice, melodious and reaching up to high D.

He has made no public appearances in Paris, but has sung at the club and at some of the most influential members of Paris society.

HOUSE OF CHRISTMAS TREES.

Odd Retreat of an Irishman on Barren Sand Flat in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo.—It is safe to say that no one else in Kansas City has treasured the remains of Christmas longer than has Dennis Doolan, who lives on a barren flat at the northern extremity of the city of Topeka. Not that Dennis is a man particularly full of sentiment. He is not, a case of Irish sentimentality. The sentiment of the year, which Dennis has built his new home, and given orders that no shanties should be allowed on the flat. That kept him out, but it wasn't at all fair to Dennis, who is a regular employee of the street department and keeps half a dozen blooded dogs to prove his respectability.

After New Year's day loads of discarded Christmas trees began to litter the bank of the river. Dennis saw in those an opportunity. He gathered some of the best preserved of them for a protection from the wind. The superintendent couldn't object to the windbreak, for it was almost monumental. On the lee side of the wind break Dennis planted some boards on end. The superintendent didn't object to these, either. Then Dennis nailed some horizontal boards over the top of the perpendiculars. They appeared to make a roof. When a stove pipe was sunk through this roof, the eye could almost be deceived into believing that this collection of boards and Christmas trees really was a shanty. But it wasn't, for when the superintendent saw the place he grinned and spoke no word of remonstrance. That is the complete history of the house that Dennis built which every day has the air of Christmas.

"It's gr-r-real," says Dennis.

Huge Mexican Lemons.

It is not considered a joke to be "handed a lemon" in some parts of Mexico, where this fruit grows to enormous size. To carry one of these monster lemons is no small task. They frequently grow to a size much larger than a man's head. The large lemons do not bear shipment as well as those of the smaller variety, but are in much demand in the localities where they are grown. They are full of juice, and one has been known to afford enough acid for a whole barrel of lemonade.—New York Tribune.

Realism.

A commission was entrusted to a painter in an Italian town to paint the image of a saint on the refectory wall of the convent there.

The price stipulated was very low, but it was agreed that the painter should have his meals provided at the expense of the convent until the work should be finished. But the only food supplied to the poor artist was bread, onions and water.

The day for unveiling the fresco arrived. The friars stood around the artist, and the curtain was removed. It was no doubt an excellent piece of work, but the saint had his back turned toward the spectators.

"What does this mean?" indignantly demanded the prior.

"Padre," explained the artist, "I was compelled to paint the picture as you see it, for the saint could not bear the smell of onions."—Harper's Weekly.

"Here."

There is in Katherine M. Abbott's book, "Old Paths and Legends of the New England Border," a little story which illustrates the importance of accurate statement. In Saybrook, Conn., in the days of cottage prayer meetings 100 years ago a lady directed her servant to go to each neighbor and say that "Mrs. Bowles will have the prayer meeting here tonight."

The servant carried out her instructions to the letter, "Mrs. Bowles says the prayer meeting will be here tonight."

Accordingly each lady arranged her chairs, put on her best gown, made ready for the coming of the parson and stayed at home.

THE DECAY OF A PEOPLE.

This the true sign of ruin to a race—It undertakes no search and day by day Drowns in camp or with the laggard's pace Walks sentry over possessions that decay. Dearth with sensible waste to fleet away. For the first secret of continued power Is the continued conquest—all our sway Hath surely in the uses of the hour. If that we waste in vain walled towns and lofty towers! —William Gilmore Simms.

Boyesen's Story of His Boy.

The late Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen once told this story of his little son, Hjalmar H. Boyesen 2d: The boy had been taken over Brooklyn bridge for the first time and had piled his father with questions about the big structure all the way over, all the way back and all the way home. Upon their return the professor, worn out with the fusillade to which he had been subjected, retired to his study, but just as he sank into his easy chair his son appeared and, apropos of nothing, queried, "Say, papa, didn't you say that God lived up above the clouds?" The father wearily answered, "Why, yes, I guess so." "Well, papa, if we were up above the clouds we'd come through, wouldn't we?" The man vouchsafed a brief, "I suppose so." "Well, papa, why?" At that point the professor's patience gave out and he said: "There, son, don't ask it. Go to your mother." The child reiterated, but just as he lifted his hand to the doorknob he turned and said, "Say, papa, don't you know a great deal more about the Brooklyn bridge than you do about God?"

To City Water Customers:

We are now pumping over 60,000 gallons of water daily that is used for sprinkling alone.

We would once more state that the domestic rate ($1.90 for a six-room house) does not pay for any water for lawn sprinkling.

Persons wishing to sprinkle must have the ground measured and get a permit to do so. If you sprinkle once or one hundred times, THIS MEANS YOU.

If any fail to comply with our rules in this regard, we will either charge them for the full size of their lot less the buildings thereon, or set a meter on their service and collect for the water, or discontinue the service, for this Company is entitled to fair returns on the investment which amounts to over $49,000.00.

Persons wishing to sprinkle their lawns this season will kindly notify our office at once by phone or otherwise.

Unless other arrangements are made, the yearly charge will be divided into six installments, one payable each month beginning April 1st.

We would also call your attention to Town Ordinance No. 72, Sec. 13, which prohibits sprinkling at night or without a nozzle on the hose. This is necessary for your fire protection.

Our rates are reasonable everything considered, 3 cents per 100 gallons by meter or 30 cents per 100 square feet per year flat rate.

Previous to 1907, the people of this town paid $30.00 per year for water for domestic service alone. At present $30.00 will pay for domestic service for a six-room house and also for sprinkling 2,400 square feet of lawn for a year.

The service will be better this year than ever before, for we are going to keep an inspector on duty day and night if necessary, to prevent waste and theft of water.

Thanking you in advance for your co-operation in this matter, we are

A Lesson in Language.

"An Irish lawyer," said a Texas judge, "was examining a Mexican. The questions, after a deal of bullying, ran like this:

"Understand, sor, that ye are to go on and state to the court what ye know about this case in yer own language."

"You want me to repeat the story in my own language?" asked the witness.

"O' do, sor. That's what O' said."

"Then the Mexican smiled and began:

"Ete mujer venia a mia casa."

"The lawyer brought his fist down on the table with a bang.

"Are ye tryin' to make fools of us all?" he roared. "What's that ye're saying anyhow?"

"I am speaking my own language, as you told me to do," said the witness.

"O' didn't mane for ye to spake yer own language when I said for ye to spake your own language. Can't ye spake as I'm spakin' to you?"

"I can try, sir," said the Mexican. And, with another smile, he began:

"Well, thin, yer honor, this goshoon come to my house, and sez he to my old woman, says he, 'I want to spake w'd ye,' says he."

"What do ye mane, sor, by spakin' in that way?" roared the lawyer.

"Shure," replied the witness, "ye axed me to spake in the language ye use yerself, and shure I'm affther thryin' to oblige ye."

Bridge Built in Forty Minutes.

An unusual feat in pontoon bridge building has been accomplished by a company, a hundred strong, drawn from four cavalry regiments of the Berlin garrison. Arrived at a point where the Spree is very wide, the gendarmen, assisted by a dozen pioneers, constructed in forty minutes a bridge of steel boats and planks 108 feet long and ten feet broad. A squadron of cuirassier guards was the first to try it, riding twice across. Then a loaded baggage wagon weighing fifty hundredweight, drawn by six horses, traversed the bridge repeatedly.

Choate's Ready Retort.

George Ticknor, the historian of Spanish literature, was once called as a witness in a case in which Rufus Choate was engaged and, being seated by the eminent counselor, was attracted by the notes which he had made of the evidence. After eyeing them with interest he remarked that the writing reminded him of two autograph letters in his possession—one of Manuel the Great of Portugal, dated 1512, and the other of Gonzalvo de Cordova, the great captain, written a few years earlier. (Any one who has glanced over these remarkable specimens of chirography will marvel that it was possible to make out a syllable of such illegible scribbles.)

"These letters," Mr. Ticknor assured Mr. Choate, "were written 350 years ago, and they strongly resemble your notes of the present trial."

Choate instantly replied: "Remarkable men, no doubt. They seem to have been much in advance of their time."

Kindness

Kindness is contagious. The spirit of harmony trickles down by a thousand secret channels into the inmost recesses of the household life. It is hard to be angry in the presence of imperturbable good nature. It is well nigh impossible to be morose in the face of a cheerful and generous helpfulness.—Henry Van Dyke.

Identified at Last.

Glen Miller, once a United States marshal in Utah, was sitting in his office at Salt Lake City one day when a well-dressed and intelligent looking man entered and addressed him. "I was confident that I knew the man," said Glen in reciting the circumstances, "but I was not able to place him. As we conversed pleasantly it gradually became impressed upon me that he was an old Kansas acquaintance, perhaps some one I had known at the university, but he spoke so cordially and with so much an assumption of his knowing me and my knowing him that I did not have the nerve to ask him who he was. He told me—finally I invited him to my home for dinner, but all the time I was taxing my mind to learn his identity and watching for a chance when he would give me a clue."

"By the way," he said at last, "when did you come out? Coming from the States, of course, I got out last night. You see, that cut off nine months for good behavior."

"Then it looks over on. My guest was Peter Brown, a celebrated mail robber, whom I had taken to the penitentiary just three years before."

Coming from a Drop.

Gunner: "What is the trouble, old man? You look as if you were all in."

Guy: "I am. There is such a racket on the floor just beneath me I am on the verge of nervous prostration."

Gunner: "On the floor beneath you? Why, the landlord said you could hear a pin drop."

Guy: "Yes, and I've heard a thousand of them drop. It's a bowling alley.—Kansas City Independent.

His Enthusiasm Was Contagious.

Whitefield, whose dramatic appeals to his listeners were always a noteworthy part of his sermons, once preached to a body of seamen in New York. In the course of his sermon he introduced the following words:

"Well, my boys, we have a clear sky and are making fine headway over a smooth sea before a light breeze, and we shall soon lose sight of land. But what means this sudden lowering of the heavens and that dark cloud rising from the western horizon? Hark! Don't you hear the distant thunder? Don't you see those flashings of lightning? There is a storm gathering! Every man to his duty! How the waves rise and dash against the ship! The air is dark! The tempest rages! Our masts are gone! The ship is on her beam ends! What next?"

The hands of every sailor were gripping the pews in front of them, and a wild excitement was in their eyes. And when the preacher reached the climax of his dramatic speech they sprang to their feet in a body and shouted, "Take to the longboat!"

Poor Roads Bad For Smokers.

"It's hard to run out of 'tobacco' during wet times," complained a farmer, "being headed off from the source of supply by impassable roads and with nothing to do but to brood over the situation."

Conscientious.

An English official in Newar, India, decided to plant a line of peepul trees in the avenue of shops, that the traders might be sheltered from the blazing sun. But, to the agent's amazement, when his intention became known the shopkeepers set up a tremendous objection to it. On no account, they said, would they have the peepul trees on their avenue. If the trees were planted there every merchant would move.

The agent sent for a leading banniah, or shopkeeper, and said to him:

"Why, my friend, this objection to the peepul trees? The avenue is horribly hot and sunny. The trees would improve it tremendously."

"Sir," replied the banniah, "the peepul tree is a sacred tree. No true believer would dare to lie or swear falsely in its shade. How, then, with a row of peepuls on the avenue, could we merchants any longer carry on business there?"

A Dark Outlook.

When a minister, marrying a negro couple, started to ask the woman, "Do you take this man for better or for worse?" the woman started the clergyman by blurting out: "No, judge, I want him just as he is. If he gets any better he'll die, and if he gets any worse I'll kill him myself."

What He Ought to Get.

A popular London millionaire made his vast fortune by his business ability. Thinking that, as he had been so successful in trade and finance, he must also succeed in literature, he did as others have done—wrote a book of travels. Having a proper pride in his own work, he expected to receive a fairly good price from his publisher therefor.

To his intense disgust, instead of offering him a comfortable check for the copyright the publisher demanded that he should pay him for the risk of issuing the book. It was clear to him that this was an attempt to take advantage of his position as a rich man without experience in literature. He happened to be on friendly terms with a well-known journalist, and the happy thought occurred to him to send the manuscript to the great litterateur and critic with a businesslike inquiry, "What do you think I should get for this?"

The journalist was equal to the occasion. After reading the manuscript he returned it with the laconic answer written across the top sheet, "Five years."

Conscience.

Conscience enables us not merely to learn the right by experiment and induction, but intuitively and in advance of experiment. So in addition to the experimental way whereby we learn justice from the facts of human history we have a transcendental way and learn it from the facts of human nature and from immediate consciousness.—Theodore Parker.

Beyond All Music.

At one of the Yorkshire Inns, relates a Liverpool contemporary, there is a pianist who can improvise accompaniments to any song that any singer wishes to sing. He cannot read a note of music, yet, in the local vernacular, he "can play out." Recently, however, he met with an unexpected check. A man hummed over an air, but the pianist failed to get the key. "Let's try it again," he said. And they tried it again. Still it was of no use. A third trial brought no better result. Then the pianist turned to the singer in anger and said: "Sitha, aw've tried this on t' black 'uns and aw've tried this on t' black and white 'uns mixed. It's no use. This singin' between t' cracks!"

An Eleventh Hour Man.

Being an Instance of a Democrat Meeting with Success in a Republican Assembly

When Speaker Miera of the House of the 38th Legislative assembly was almost ready to declare final adjournment, a member of the House was observed to take in hand a pencil and hastily write something on a piece of paper. In another instant he was upon his feet asking recognition by the chair. Recognition being obtained, Representative Charles R. Brice proceeded to introduce a measure providing $3,400 additional appropriation for the Military Institute at Roswell, a matter that had been overlooked when additional appropriations were made for other territorial institutions. The bill passed quickly, went to the Council, where it was likewise immediately passed and shortly afterwards was signed by the Governor. It was an eleventh hour act, but it added additional fame to the record already achieved by the gentleman from Eddy county. Remarkable, as it may seem, Brice, though a democrat, succeeded in having more measures passed and signed by the governor than any other member in the legislature. Only one of his measures failed to become law, and that was an act providing for an assessment of property to pay for the sprinkling of streets. Perhaps, even this measure would have passed, had it not been for the fact that it had been brought up just after the jury bill which Brice had fought bitterly. In spite of this and other differences with the members of the house, the practical keenness and great ability of the statesman from southeastern New Mexico was quickly recognized and these qualifications, together with the firm stand he took against the insurgent movement started shortly after the opening session, probably accounts for seemingly unlimited success with which he met. As a member of the steering committee of the house, he and Hon. C. J. Roberts of Colfax, practically took the lead, working in absolute harmony, though each was of different political faith. As Brice himself puts it, he considered Roberts to be a man of the very highest intelligence and integrity, standing only for such legislation as would be a forward step in the interest of the people. Mr. Brice believes that his greatest victory was the successful burying of the Artesia county bill, which he brought from start to finish, night and day, and with all his strength and might. When the final session came to a close, Representative Baker on behalf of the entire House who appreciated the great fight Brice had made, presented him after a touching speech, with what he termed the "Embalmed Artesia County Bill." That bill is now in the hands of Mrs. Brice who treasures it as a most sacred relic. That Mr. Brice faithfully represented his constituency was testified to by the numerous measures he had put through in the interest of his district. Though eminently successful, he was seriously disappointed at the failure of the bill revising and publishing all territorial laws. The failure to enact a local option law was also to him a displeasure. - Santa Fe New Mexican

Grand Master, Chester D. Stevens, of Raton, visited Eddy Lodge A. F. & A. M. Wednesday night, being down in this valley to see his son who is ill at the Military Academy in Roswell but who is improving at present. The grand master was accompanied by Col. Baker of Roswell who acted as master of transportation and seen to it that the grand master visited five lodges in 48 hours which he thinks cannot be done in any other portion of the territory. This was done by taking advantage of the trains and using auto when necessary, visiting Hagerman, Lake Arthur, Hope, Artesia, and Carlsbad. His visit here was purely social for Eddy Lodge is the model for this jurisdiction.

The destruction of the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Ezell, south of town is another demonstration of our coal oil inspection law that never inspects, but only adds a few cents to the price of every gallon of oil which in the aggregate makes thousands of dollars, annually, for the coal oil inspector. The coal oil sold in Carlsbad is actually dangerous and almost suicidal to use. No amount of complaint from the people of New Mexico has been sufficient to even cause the legislature to even notice the matter by a bill to repeal the inspection law or compel the Standard Oil Co., to sell a safe product.

Curry Will Remain

On Urgent Request of President Taft He Withdrew Resignation.

Santa Fe, N. M., Meh. 22. - Governor Curry to-day telegraphed his resignation to President Taft. He stated that although he had contemplated this action for several months past, the immediate cause of his resignation was the refusal of Secretary of the Interior, Ballinger, to grant him leave of absence as he wanted to go to Washington to talk with the President and Secretary of the Interior on matters of great importance to New Mexico, not connected with statehood but that Secretary Ballinger answered saying he should take up the business by letter.

Santa Fe, N. M., Meh. 23. - Gov. Curry, who yesterday wired his resignation to President Taft, today, withdrew it at the urgent request of the chief executive, who, in a lengthy telegram to the New Mexico executive, assured him that he has the hearty support of the national administration in all of his official acts.

President Taft stated further that he is in no way responsible for the reports sent out from Washington to the effect that Curry, with other "Rough Riders" would have to "walk the plank." He requested Governor Curry to please reconsider his position of yesterday, which he termed hasty and uncalled for, and urged that he continue to serve as the territorial executive.

The president, however, did not grant Gov. Curry's request to be permitted to visit Washington to discuss territorial business which request was refused Sunday by Secretary of the Interior Ballinger and was responsible for Curry's resignation.

He advised, as did Secretary Ballinger, that Gov. Curry state in a letter his reasons for wishing to visit the national capital, and pursuant to this request, Gov. Curry will write at length to the president. He expects that leave of absence will be granted and that he will go to Washington within two weeks.

Telegrams and letters pouring in here to-day indicate that the people of New Mexico want Curry to remain as governor of New Mexico. The announcement yesterday that he had resigned created a sensation and many telegraph and telephone messages came to the governor from all parts of the territory, protesting at his action. The people demanded that he reconsider and that he remain in office. These demands, followed by the request of President Taft that the governor remain in office, had their effect today, and early this morning the governor wired to Mr. Taft that he would withdraw his resignation and would continue in office.

When this became known the messages of congratulations began to come in and the governor's office was crowded all day with people who called to pay their respects, to congratulate him for the firm and determined stand he took yesterday, and to express pleasure at the announcement that he would continue in office.

When seen by a representative of the Citizen at his office this morning, Gov. Curry stated that while he may have acted hastily he did not believe that he could have consistently acted otherwise. He said that inasmuch as President Taft had asked him to continue as Governor, he was in honor bound to do so.

Just how long he would remain in office he did not say, but judging from the sentiment expressed in messages received here yesterday and today, he will remain as governor a long time if the people of New Mexico have anything to say about it.

The nervous strain of yesterday was almost too much for the governor and he today was almost down, sick. He remained in his office, however, receiving his visitors and transacting official business. - Albuquerque Citizen.

Corn, who is now located at Carlsbad, New Mexico, and who has quit railroading and gone into the real estate business and he says that is the finest country on earth. John is one of the best known railroad men in Arkansas, having been conductor on the Iron Mountain railroad for a number of years and he numbers his friends by the score. He is an extensive advertiser and on his bills he gives the following description of the life: "John Barley Corn from Arkansas - born in Tennessee - fetched up in Kentucky - water-bound in Arkansas - Now selling land where the sun shines at Carlsbad, New Mexico." His many friends wish him success.

The above was clipped from the Benton Democrat, of Saline county, Ark., and it is all easy to believe except that Mr. Corn numbers his friends by the score. If that is the only way he can number them in Arkansas, it was high time to make his "get away" he numbers them here already by the bushel, and then some; so it was fortunate that he came to New Mexico.

DIVORCEES BARRED BY MRS. TAFT

Believes They Should Be Ostracized Socially Bishop Matz Pronounces Against the Evil.

Washington, D. C. Feb. 10. Mrs. Taft's strong prejudice against divorce, will cause interesting social complications before she has been in the White House many months. She said, just after Mr. Taft's nomination, that she believed there should be a general divorce law and that the way divorced people were accepted, socially, was shocking.

"It used to be a disgrace to be divorced," she said, "and the time was when no one knew divorced people. Now one finds them among one's own personal friends, and it is, indeed, a deplorable condition that should be remedied."

So supposed is she to divorce that she believes it better for married people to live unhappily together than to bring legal proceedings and separate.

Bishop, N. C. Matz, of Denver, in his annual Lenten pastoral letter, devoted 2,000 words to a statement of his position on the divorce evil, in which he declared emphatically that the Catholic Church absolutely does not recognize divorce.

THREE PRIZES FOR STOCK MEN OF CARLSBAD

Pecos Valley Sheep and Lamba Make a Hit at Ft. Worth Fat Stock Show; Irrigation Season Now Open.

Abilene, Tex. Journal.

Carlsbad, N. M. Feb. 18. —The Carlsbad project usually brings back a prize or two whenever it enters anything in agricultural or stock exhibits. F. E. Bryant sent a carload of lambs to the fat stock show at Ft. Worth, Texas, and also a load of sheep to give the Ft. Worth market a trial, without any expectation of making any show in the sheep house, but he comes out with the first prize for the best yearling wether; second in the carload exhibit of lambs, and third for the best ewe. Mr. Bryant is very well pleased over the result, and the Carlsbad project has reason to be proud and gratified over the recognition given its products at this Ft. Worth stock show.

IRRIGATION SEASON OPEN.
The regular irrigation season for the Carlsbad project for 1909 is open. There is general activity on the farms throughout the entire project, irrigating ditches, of which there are several thousand acres, old alfalfa for the purpose of giving it a thorough drenching, or renovating to start the crop off right, watering land that will be planted in alfalfa this spring, etc. Of the many new settlers who are already on the ground, the majority are preparing to plant some alfalfa this spring. Tree planting is still in progress. Trees are arriving by express and freight every day, and a clearing set out as rapidly as received.

The winter has been absolutely dry, only a trace of snow falling last week, but the Carlsbad project has its large reservoirs full of water and looks forward to a prosperous season whether it rains or no. There is enough water stored to carry the project practically through the season without any special rise in the river.

FOR SALE: Residence property north of M. E. Church, which contains seventy-five fruit trees bearing one-third acre alfalfa, fine large strawberry bed, bearing heavily, fine blue-grass lawn, grape arbor also bearing, good house, stable, city water and all conveniences, said to be the best improved town home in Eddy county for fruit and alfalfa. ### A BIG FIRE AT TEXICO

Special to the Roswell Record.

Texico, N. M., Feb. 23. —The explosion of a lamp that had been turned low in the room of Miss Butler caused a disastrous fire in the business section of this city at 1:15 this morning. The First National Bank building and four other places of business were destroyed, with a total loss of about $15,000., and with a total insurance of about $7,000. All of the buildings that were burned were frame and all were one-story except the banking house.

Miss Butler and her brother, who is an official of the bank, have rooms in the second story of the bank building. Miss Butler was in her room when the lamp exploded, and had a narrow escape from injury, but got out of the room without being burnt. The interior of the building was a mass of flames before any person could be aroused and Texico's means of combatting fire, limited to a bucket brigade, had little chance in such a conflagration as the frame structures afforded. The bank building was rapidly consumed, with all the fixtures, furniture, etc., and the flames then began to spread to the next house. The vault saved the books, papers, and funds of the bank.

Garner Brothers' general mercantile store, Greene's fruit store, the office of the land commissioner, H. R. Putman, and a real estate office were burned in the order mentioned, practically everything being lost except a few articles that were saved from the places that last caught fire. Adjoining the real estate office was a cement stone building and although the front of the building was damaged, its walls checked the flames and prevented further destruction. The fire swept area covers half a block, to the alley.

Texico has had more than its share of fires lately. On Feb. 11 two business houses and a residence went up in smoke and another big fire visited the town earlier in the winter.
