Special UNM News Minute – September 22, 2006

1. UNM REGENT RAYMOND SANCHEZ and presidential search committee chair has announced a 22-member advisory committee for the University of New Mexico presidential search.

“After hearing from our many constituency groups – which involved talking to over one hundred and fifty individuals including faculty, staff, students and community members – we identified dozens of people passionately interested in dedicating their time and effort to serve on this committee,” said Sanchez.

2. THE UNIVERSITY OF NEW MEXICO'S Office for Policy, Security and Technology presents a symposium, “The Reliable Replacement Warhead Program and the Future of the U.S. Nuclear Weapons Complex,” on Friday, Sept. 29, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. in the UNM Student Union Building Santa Ana rooms A and B. This event is a collaborative effort by OPST, a joint venture of UNM and Sandia National Laboratories, and Women in International Security, a national organization based at Georgetown University.
