Brickbats Never Made a Bouquet

How many times, Mr. and Mrs. Reader, have you said a kind word to the editor? How often have you stopped him on the street to commend him for an editorial or dropped him a note giving him your support in some fight he was making for the public good?

An editor doesn't seek any words of thanks. Probably if you did stop him and showered some kind words in his ear he would be as embarrassed as a 10-year-old schoolboy speaking his first piece. But at any rate it will sound good to him when he has time to think it over.

Instead of words of praise, here is what you generally hear:

"Why, that paper isn't worth half the price. It never has any news in it and what it does have is mostly all wrong."

Yet when that person wants to advertise a cake sale or a dance he or she sends the items to this same newspaper.

Then you hear that the editor is a crank, that he is biased and doesn't present news fairly, that he doesn't know how to run a paper, and so on and so on.

You have all heard these remarks or similar ones, but are they fair?

An editor, in the first place, is only a human being. He is dealing with human beings and it's sound logic that you can't please all the people all the time. At some time or another he has to print some news that is going to offend someone and make an enemy. The editor can't help that. People who get into trouble never think about the newspaper until they want their names kept out. Then they get mad at the editor because he prints the news.

It is true that an editor makes mistakes, and no one regrets more than he slips of the type, but, again, he is human, and so is every man and woman who works for him.

Did you ever stop to think how many characters there are in a column of type? Well, there are thousands, and that means there are thousands of opportunities to make errors. And newspapers are generally printed amid great rush and confusion. A big story breaks. The facts must be learned and put into type. The mail must be caught. Everything is rush, rush, rush. And yet if a few types get tangled up the paper is criticized.

Take it right home to yourself. Can you sit down and write a letter—even a short one—without sometimes getting a word wrongly placed or misspelled? Be honest, be charitable and overlook a few mistakes when you see them in your home town paper.

No man tries harder to avoid mistakes than the editor. It's common sense that he would much prefer to have a perfect paper and avoid mistakes.

The editor is a pretty good human being. He is always ready to back any movement for the uplift of his community. If you want to start anything right in your home town and get it across to the people you go right up to the editor's door and ask him to help you out. And he never refuses if it is for a good cause. The editor does more and gives away more real dollars in free space than any merchant in town.

You can always count on your editor. In fact, you do count upon him. And what would this town be without him and his newspaper? Have you ever thought of that? What would the world be like without newspapers? It would be like going back to the dark ages. Business couldn't function, and everything would be tied up in knots if it weren't for the newspapers. They spread the ray of light that shows the way to progress. Just think if you had to travel all around town to get the news of your neighbor, your village board, about crops and the market. Well, you couldn't do it. Yet the editor does this for you—he is the connecting link between you and the great news centers of the world and the news of your home town. This news he gathers faithfully and as accurately as is humanly possible, puts it on white paper and it is delivered to your home every morning or evening, or every week, as the case may be, for a penny or two a copy. That penny or two often doesn't pay the cost of white paper. A newspaper is the biggest bargain that is offered to the public today, and it has been so for years.

The next time you meet the editor—well, just remember he is a human being just like you are and that the Golden Rule works both ways.

A Brief Biography Of

Stephen B. Davis, Jr.
Republican Nominee for United States Senator.

Judge Stephen B. Davis was born Nov. 18, 1874 in Middletown, Conn. He received his college education at Wesleyan university graduating in 1896 and at the law school of Yale university where he was graduated in 1897. Coming to Las Vegas, N. M. in 1898, Judge Davis began his career as a lawyer in the office of Capt. L. C. Felt, a pioneer lawyer of San Miguel county, becoming associated in the following year with Charles A. Spiess. In 1901 he was appointed city attorney of Las Vegas, his first public office. He was appointed district attorney of the 4th territorial judicial district in 1903 and was re-appointed to that position in 1905 by Governor Otero and again in 1907 by Governor Hagerman. In 1908 he resigned as a district attorney to become assistant United States attorney, a position he held until January 1912 when he was appointed United States attorney for New Mexico. He resigned from this position a year later, following the change in the national administration.

Judge Davis was elected a member of the constitutional convention from San Miguel county and served upon a number of the more important committees.

In collaboration with Governor Mechem, he made the compilation of the laws of New Mexico, now in use, known as the code of 1915.

Upon the resignation of Judge C. J. Roberts in the latter part of 1921, Governor Mechem appointed Judge Davis to fill the vacancy upon the state supreme court from which position he recently resigned, to become a candidate for the senate.

Judge Davis was made the New Mexico member of the commission changed with adjustment of the contested water rights of the La Plata river between this state and Colorado, a work now nearing completion. Shortly after he was named to represent this state as a member of the commission for distribution of the water rights of the Colorado river, the interest of this state being in its rights to the water of the San Juan and tributary rivers in San Juan county, and involving waters sufficient to irrigate nearly a million acres of land in that county. This commission is expected to hold its final session under the chairmanship of Herbert Hoover secretary of commerce, in Santa Fe on November 9th.

In addition to his successful experience as a lawyer in courts of which he has won a recognized position in his profession, Judge Davis has had a wide experience in business, having been interested in a number of important enterprises in San Miguel and other northern New Mexico counties. His private business interests include livestock and banking at the present time.

Judge Davis was married at Las Vegas, June 4, 1903 to Miss Mary La Rue, daughter of a New Mexico pioneer, Capt. J. A. La Rue, who came to New Mexico in 1855. Judge Davis is a member of the Congregational church which he joined in early life at Middletown, Conn.

"I gave them a little talk about how fine a city New York was before prohibition, and that pleased them. Then I made the head water take all their names and addresses and just looked wise. When I left they all thanked me, as if they were going to get a check in the next mail."

"And why did you take their names and addresses," John was asked.

"I wanted them to have something to remember me by, something they could frame and keep and not spend as they would a tip. This morning I mailed them all a post card of the Woolworth building."

Ex-German Kaiser Will Marry Widow After October

London, Englin, Sept. 5.—The former German kaiser's intended bride is the princess Hermine of Reuss, 34 year old widow, according to a report quoted by the Daily Mail's Berlin correspondent.

The engagement, he adds, will not be announced until after the anniversary of the late kaiser's birthday, October 22.

Princess Hermine of Reuss is the widow of prince Jean, of Schonau-Carolath, who died in April, 1922. She was born December 17, 1887, and is the mother of five children, the eldest of whom is 14. She owns a large estate at Saarbor, Silesia.

Agricultural College Issues Circular On Stock Poisoning Plants

A new circular on the Principal Stock Poisoning Plants of New Mexico has just issued by the Agricultural College. This circular describes all the principle plants of New Mexico which are known to contain poisonous properties, and gives illustrations of most of them. It also gives the effect that the plants have on animals, and points out methods of treating the poisoned stock.

In conclusion it is stated, however, that very little should be expected from medicinal remedies in reducing losses from poisonous plants. If poisoning is immediately detected and medicine is available it may be the means of saving the animal, but under range conditions it is often too late for medicine when the poisoning cases have been discovered. It is better to rely on prevention by eradicating the plants in question, and keep stock away from the poisonous plants when they are likely to eat them. In most cases animals will not eat poisonous plants by choice but are driven to do so by hunger.

Stockmen should become familiar with the poisonous plants and not allow their stock to roam at will where these plants prevail especially when grass is short and they are hungry. A copy of the circular on Poisonous plants can be had from any of the county agricultural agent in the state, or by writing to the County Agent, Reserve N. Mex.

Smallest Store in World Closed Because Owner Gains Five Pounds

New York, Because the 100 pound proprietor of the smallest store in the world has gained five pounds, the place has been closed for alterations. He is Milton Lubin, and his jewelry store in Seventh avenue near 42d street is one of the freaks of Times Square.

A watch case was removed to counteract Lubin's gain in weight but that did not suffice, and the walls are now being scraped. The shop has a six foot frontage, but the inside is a triangle. After window space is deducted the interior measures five feet by three and a half. The rent is $6000 a year, the business $250,000.

Lubin's one employe is H. Stetson, who keeps slender by dieting to hold his job. They keep different hours, as it is impossible for two to work there.

Two workmen can get in at once in making repairs, but when one wants to turn around, the other has to step outside.

In proportion to its space, the store pays the highest rent in the world. It is so small the counter is a mahogany apron on rollers.

There is room toward the ceiling and it is utilized for the hat and coat of the man on duty, which he hoists on a pulley. The place is so small that formerly the $70,000 stock was carried daily to and from a safe deposit vault. Now it is kept in a small safe built under the window.

Lubin once wanted to employ a certain clever salesman. He couldn't because the man weighed 200 pounds. Only one customer can get in at a time.

Ranges Within a Radius Of 25 Miles Of Silver City In Good Condition.

Much good rain has fallen in the mountains and plain within a radius of 25 miles of Silver City and the grass is abundant. Cattle are fat, but apparently with few on the ranges. Grass is not good in most of the forest area, but it is not at all discouraging and should more rains fall in the near future there is every reason for the cattle man to feel greatly encouraged.

American Gets Even With Europe; His Tips Unique and Astonishing

New York Sept. 5.—With battered pocketbook and the conviction that New York is the only place where a man's money is safe, John J. Hanley, well known throughout the place he formerly conducted on the west side in the upper Nineties before the Volstead act, has returned home from Europe.

"Every American is robbed over there," he said. I noticed that each time I went to a hotel they made me sign a slip which asked my nationality. When I wrote "American" every one seemed delighted; then they told me the hotel rate.

"So a friend of mine from Salt Lake city and I thought we would find out how to beat the game. He went in and registered as an Englishman and was charged $2.35 for a room; then I went up registered as an American, and they charged me $10.50 for the same kind of a room. That gave the game away. When you are in England be an Englishman, and in France be a Frenchman, The Americans pay the expenses John didn't mind tipping people occasionally, but he objected to the continental custom which brings every employe in a hotel to the front when a prosperous looking New Yorker tries to get out. And this is how he faced the problem.

"They all started to form in line when I paid my bill," he said. "The chef was there a couple of window washers, all the waiters and sons of their friends, who had been invited to be in at the death—My death. I asked if every one in the house was there. The janitor and a few was missing, so I sent somebody after them until the line was completed."

Colorado Wins Important Decision.

Durango—By the decision of the U. S. Land Office at Durango, the state's title to section 16, township 35 north, range 10 west, is confirmed, which includes all and the coal deposits which may be in this section of state school land, and is one of the most important decisions rendered in recent years as affecting the title to our school sections.

This case has been in controversy for the past two years. A decision was rendered in favor of the state two years ago by the officials of the land office at Durango, and confirmed by the commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington. Later, on appeal, the decision of the local land office at Durango and the commissioner of the General Land Office was reversed by the secretary of the Interior. A protest was filed by the State Board of Land Commissioners with the Interior Department, asking that the case be remanded back to the land office at Durango for further hearing, which request was granted, and during October, 1921, the case was tried again at Durango. Evidence of an overwhelming nature was presented by the State Board of Land Commissioners at that time, resulting in a decision in favor of the state.

This decision will undoubtedly be appealed to the secretary of the Interior, but the facts in the case are so favorable to the contention of the state as to its ownership of this section that there seems to be but little question that the secretary of the Interior will confirm the decision of the local land office.

May Fly Across Ocean in Glider.

Berlin.—The recent success of German student aviators in motorless aviation at Gersfeld has given rise to widespread gratification and scientists already are discussing the likelihood of such aircraft crossing the Atlantic. Observers of the past week's experiments assert that if the Versalles treaty had not limited the size of German aerial motors this scientific development in aviation would not have occurred so soon. They find further significance in the fact that the new sail planes utilize vertical winds, which are foes to the present motor fliers. Captain Keller, who is in charge of the aerial service at Staaken, and Professor Wegener, a flying expert, advances the theory that this type of craft could fly to New York, closely trailing an ocean liner, on the same principle as gulls utilize the up-going currents above the troughs left by steamships.

School Teacher in Jail Plot.

Leavenworth, Kan.—Mildred Ward, 25, formerly a school teacher at Fairbury, Neb., is in the Leavenworth county jail charged with plotting the escape of prisoners and smuggling a revolver into the Kansas state penitentiary at Lansing, a suburb. Four prisoners are alleged to have been in the plot, and all are now in solitary confinement, according to announcement by the warden.

Candidates Against Prohibition.

Helena, Mont.—Candidates' attitudes on prohibition and on Governor Joseph M. Dixon's taxation policies figured largely in the campaign in Montana's primary election. Several candidates for nomination for members of Congress as well as aspirants to lower offices, declared themselves in favor of modification of the Volstead act to permit sale of beer and light wines. Against these candidates, the Montana Anti-Saloon League has waged a vigorous campaign.

Uncommon Sense . . . By JOHN BLAKE

HARD WORK

IT is easy to sit and watch others work. But we know of no employer who will pay you wages for doing it, unless you know how to do the work yourself, and are working hard at the job of supervising it. It is easy to travel about the world on steamships and parlor cars, very pleasant and profitable to the man with an inquiring mind. But that is a vacation occupation, and unless you have earned the money to do it by hard work, you will get little out of it. It is easiest of all to feel sorry for yourself, and to think that you haven't had a fair chance in life, and that you would have been a big success if you hadn't met with so much injustice and bad treatment. But that will get you only unhappiness, which is the least desirable thing in all the world. There are many things in life that are well worth doing, but none of them are easy. The first-class fiction writer takes delight in his job, but he also works at it, harder than any man who is not

SCHOOL DAYS

Yet people are doing it right along, and you seldom hear of any of them killing themselves in the effort. If you have made up your mind to do something unusual or to be somebody of importance, learn how to work twice as hard as you ever did before. That is only a first step. The second is to think hard. If you can do both, and keep them up long enough, you may land, but remember you will have a lot of competition. Even hard work finds plenty of men to believe in and practice it, and most of them get what they are after. (© by John Blake.)

sum agreed upon before the work was undertaken. Part of the money had been paid, but he said he didn't understand why the rest still was unpaid. "Why," exploded Mrs. Handler, "do I not pay the doctor the $30? I'll tell you why," she told the jury. "You see," began Mrs. Handler, fishing a set of false teeth out of her handbag. "You see those false teeth. Why should I carry them in my handbag instead of in my mouth? I'll tell you. Just as soon as I put the teeth in my mouth, I can't talk a word. When I start to talk the teeth begin to wiggle. "I go to Dr. Wolfson and I say: 'Doctor, I can't wear these teeth. When I begin to talk the teeth begin to wiggle.' The doctor said: 'So? You should hold them down with your tongue so they won't wiggle.' But how can a person hold the teeth down with the tongue and talk at the same time? I ask you, gentlemen, how can it be done?"

Cow and Calf Go on Wild Spree Together

Danville, Va.—How a cow and a calf which had drunk a mixture of water and moonshine liquor invaded the dining-room of Herbert Dillard, son of Judge Peter Dillard of Rocky Mount, is contained in advices reaching here from that point. Law enforcement officers poured out into the street gutter 500 gallons of liquor seized in a raid. Liquor and water together ran down the street past a lawn where the cow and calf were grazing. Both animals drank and, according to onlookers, quickly showed the effects by unusual antics, especially the calf, which became playful. The cow charged a tree with lowered horns, then, followed by the calf, entered the porch of the Dillard home, plunging through a screen door into the dining-room. Seeing itself reflected in a mirror the cow charged it, destroying a piece of furniture which contained crockery, nearly all of which was broken. The cow and calf were driven out of the room and were later seen lying down under the shade of some trees not far away.

FAINTS AT MEETING "DEAD" HUSBAND

Dramatic Scene When Woman, Remarried, Meets Man Supposed Killed in War.

Stanton, Mass.—Mrs. Mary Etta Cleary Leonard-Chartier, thirty-six and pretty, supposed war widow, bride of two months, was strolling along the street on the arm of Victor F. Charter of Jewett, Conn., her new husband, when she suddenly stood rigid in her tracks. Then with a glad cry of "my husband," she broke from Charter's arm, rushed up on Edgar Nelson Leonard, discharged soldier, showered him with kisses, then fell in a faint at his feet.

This dramatic denouement of a wartime marital mixup will have its sequel here when Mrs. Leonard-Chartier will appear in First District court on the arm of husband No. 1 to answer to a charge of bigamy brought by husband No. 2.

Since the moment she came upon her first husband, with whom she lived happily for 12 years before she tearfully saw him off for France, she has refused to see Victor Charter and has taken up her residence in the home of Leonard's mother. Charter says his supposed wife told him frankly that she loved Leonard best and would live with him. He visited the District court clerk and swore to a warrant, which was served on Mrs. Leonard-Chartier.

Something to Think About By F. A. WALKER

IN SLUMBERLAND

ONLY a relatively small number of the 1,700,000,000 inhabitants of this world are really mentally awake, capable of finding their way through the labyrinthical professional and business avenues to a place of secure independence. When the long shadows cross their paths and they discover to their dismay that the western sky is darkening, they rub their sleepy eyes and ruefully regret the years they have misspent in groping from pillar to post without worthy accomplishment. They were in slumberland when the church bells rang of a Sunday morning; they were in slumberland when in the brilliantly illuminated ballrooms they danced to luring music with fair partners till the east was rosy, and another day came gleaming over the gorgeous hilltops and smiled benignly on pale faces and broken promises. They wasted drifting days which drifted into wasted years. Again and again they rubbed their melancholy eyes and saw in their last supine effort to reclaim themselves that they were on the hazy borderland of old age, with forty or fifty years behind them. Some there were, even at that late hour in life who managed to turn about, pull themselves together and snatch themselves from precarious positions, but the numbers were small, for their strokes were light and their old habits were strong and hard to break. They lacked the staying power and the flexibility of youth. So has waged the world and so it will ever wage until the crack of doom. If you wish to pick success, plant your orchard while in the full vigor of life so that you may gather the fruit and enjoy it while your senses of appreciation are still keen and your faculties yet alert. Make friends, but do your own digging, your own pruning and your own watering. If your friends scoff at your industry, dig all the harder, think harder and keep at your work in heat and cold. Seek the counsel of those who came here before you, your father and mother, for they know where your feet are likely to slip and your judgment is liable to err. Do these things without turning either to the right or the left and nothing save death can stop you in the ultimate realization of your fondest dreams, and the fine achievements of which you are capable.

ROMANCE OF WORDS "PECUNIARY"

IF, AFTER being promised a "pecuniary reward" for the performance of a certain service, a person were to receive a sheep, he would probably feel that he had been deceived or that the one who had made the promise had gone back on his word. But, in its primary meaning, "pecuniary" means "relating to sheep," being taken verbatim from the Latin pecunia which, in turn, is derived from pecus, sheep. The transformation grew out of the custom of the Romans of measuring a man's wealth by the number of sheep which grazed over his pastures. A "man of many sheep" was the equivalent of a wealthy citizen, for sheep were valuable not only for their wool but also as an article of diet. Gradually, the root-word pecus was lengthened to pecunia, the equivalent of "money" or "worldly possessions," and its pastoral origin was almost completely obscured when transplanted into English. Should a restaurant, therefore, advertise a "pecuniary stew" it would not necessarily mean that dollar bills and gold pieces appear in the dish, but it would merely be an etymologically allowable synonym for the old standby, "mutton stew."

Railroads Speeding Up Traffic; Believe Car Shortage Will Not Hold Up Revival Of Business

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (By The Associated Press) Development in the coal and railroad situation and anticipations of the nature of the fall trade have occupied the center of the business stage during the past week.

Car-loading figures indicate that soft coal production is rapidly returning to normal, or incomplete figures suggest that the total output for the week will run over 9,000,000 tons, or perhaps close to 10,000,000 tons. This rate compares favorably with normal weekly averages.

Reports on the general movement of railroad traffic show that recent rates, which approximate the best of the year, are being maintained. Total loadings for the week ended August 19, the latest for which figures are available, are 159,000 cars, which represents an increase of 6639 over the preceding week, and 41,072 over the same week a year ago.

Car Shortage Likely. It is still too early to measure the effect of the growing soft coal movement, but it is felt that a resumption of anthracite mining added to the crop carrying burden, will impose a severe strain on transportation system. It is thought a car shortage is inevitable. The consensus seems to be however, that the shortage will not be so serious as to retard vitally the revival in business. It is also doubted whether it will cause a general rise in commodity prices.

Agricultural prospects remain markedly little charged. The department of agriculture September 1 cotton report cut the estimated yield from 11,499,000 bales to 10,565,000 bales. Cotton prices are little charged.

Wheat futures continue to fluctuate slightly above the dollar level, at Chicago, and these prices are taken to indicate conservative purchasing of general merchandise on the part of the farmers.

While the federal reserve ratio the past week showed a slight recession, it is felt that this circumstance is explained, in part, at least, by the approach of the September 4 holiday. No sharp change in monetary conditions is expected.
