COURTS GIRL BY USE OF WIRELESS

YOUNG WOOLER BARRED FROM HOUSE CIRCUMVENTS IRATE
PAPA AND WINS BRIDE.

THRILLING JERSEY ROMANCE

Calls of "Sweet" and "Dear" Are Intercepted by Former Suitor Who
"Butts" In, But to No Avail.

Trenton, N. J.—The old saying, "Love will find a way," was demonstrated as true by announcement of the engagement of Miss Lillian Vincent of Morrisville, Pa., and Charles G. Clay, who resides near Yardley, Pa.

An angry father, with a shotgun, guarding his home from a sweetheart, the bringing into play of a wireless apparatus as a means of communication between sweethearts, and the attempt of a jilted suitor to interfere with the love wireless messages all figured in a romance which led up to this engagement.

A year ago Clay met Miss Vincent at "Harvest Home," and for a time afterward called at the Vincent home. He had once worked in a large city, and this fact barred him from close friendship with George Vincent, the young woman's father, who is a farmer and does not trust "city chaps."

Clay was ordered to cease his calls, but his friendship had ripened into a deeper affection. His love was returned. For a time secret meetings were held near the Vincent home, but the father soon learned of these and brought his shotgun into play. With the weapon he stood guard over the premises, threatening to shoot Clay if he found him about the farm.

Communication between the sweet hearts for a time thereafter was by means of notes carried by friends. Clay was once an electrician and telegraph operator. He had become deeply interested in the wireless system. He instructed his sweetheart how to arrange a wireless apparatus above the garret in her home, the batteries, coil and other apparatus being taken to her by farm boys, who told her father they were bringing material from a dressmaker.

Miss Vincent carried out the instructions and soon had the apparatus in place. Clay installed an apparatus at his home and love messages were soon being flashed by wireless.

The only person taken into the confidence of the couple was George Butterworth, a friend of Clay, who had previously been a suitor for Miss Vincent's hand. The entire system was explained by Clay to his chum.

Butterworth arranged a wireless station at his home, which is about half way between that of Clay and Miss Vincent. "Sweet" was Clay's call for Miss Vincent and the young woman's call for her sweetheart was "Dear."

As the station established by Butterworth was in direct zone with that of Clay and the young woman, he could call either. One morning when Miss Vincent answered to the call of "Sweet," she was shocked when she found that Butterworth was in communication. She at first thought he was operating from Clay's home, but he immediately explained why he had rigged up the station. He was ardently making love when Clay went to the instrument to talk to his sweetheart. He also experienced a shock when he found there was a strange station within the wireless zone.

Although indignant, Clay did not interrupt the communication, but set out for Butterworth's home. What took place between the two has never been made known. A few weeks later Butterworth enlisted in the navy.

The wireless love messages were flashed for some time before Mr. Vincent became aware of them. He is now learning the international wireless code from Clay, and believes he will be able to master it by the middle of July, when his daughter is to become a bride.

"Why you can make love better by wireless than you can when talking directly to your sweetheart," is all Clay has to say.

NEVER DONE.

Slimkins—I hope you didn't mind my putting that little matter of $5 in the hands of the bill collector yesterday?

Podger—Not at all; I borrowed a dollar from him.

SORE EYES CURED.

Eye-Balls and Lids Became Terribly Inflamed—Was Unable to Go About—All Other Treatments Failed, But

Cuticura Proved Successful.

"About two years ago my eyes got in such a condition that I was unable to go about. They were terribly inflamed, both the balls and lids. I tried home remedies without relief. Then I decided to go to our family physician, but he didn't help them. Then I tried two more of our most prominent physicians, but my eyes grew continually worse. At this time a friend of mine advised me to try Cuticura Ointment, and after using it about one week my eyes were considerably improved, and in two weeks they were almost well. They have never given me any trouble since and I am now sixty-five years old. I shall always praise Cuticura. G. B. Halsey, Mouth of Wilson, Va., Apr. 4, 1908." Potter Drug & Chem. ### Youngster's Fellow Feeling.

A small boy, about five years old, was taken to an entertainment by his mother the other evening. It was 10:30 o'clock when they reached home and the little fellow was very tired and sleepy. He undressed quickly and hopped into bed. "George," said his mother sternly, "I'm surprised at you." "Why, mamma?" he asked. "You didn't say your prayers. Get right out of that bed and say them." "Aw mamma," came from the tired youngster, "what's the use of wakin' the Lord up at this time of night to hear me pray?"

Flies.

God bless the man who first invented screens, and God pity the man who is too indolent or indifferent to place them between his family and the spreaders of deadly disease. There is absolutely no excuse for the man or woman whose place of habitation swarms with flies and whines with the voices of mosquitoes. They can be kept out, and 25 cents spent in keeping them out is equivalent to keeping out a doctor who would cost $25, or possibly to keeping out a much less welcome visitor.

Forestalled.

"Well, Mrs. Dennis, what are you going to give Pat for Christmas this year?" inquired the recipient of Mrs. Dennis' regular washday visits, one day at the beginning of the festive season.

"Deed thin, ma'am, I don't know," replied Mrs. Dennis, raising herself from the washbasin and setting her dripping arms akimbo. "I did be thinkin' I'd give him a pair of pants, but, Lord bless ye, ma'am, only last night didn't he come home wid a pair on."—Success Magazine.

A Rich Error.

"Printers' errors are always funny," said Gen. P. P. Parker of the Arizona G. A. R., "and I'll never forget one that was made over a Memorial day sermon some years ago in Phoenix. 'The Monday morning report of this sermon began: 'The Rev. Dr. John Blank greased the pulpit on the occasion'—and so on. 'Graced,' of course, is what was meant."

WON'T MIX

Bad Food and Good Health Won't Mix.

The human stomach stands much abuse but it won't return good health if you give it bad food. If you feed right you will feed right, for proper food and a good mind is the sure road to health.

"A year ago I became much alarmed about my health for I began to suffer after each meal no matter how little I ate," says a Denver woman.

"I lost my appetite and the very thought of food grew distasteful, with the result that I was not nourished and got weak and thin.

"My home cares were very heavy, for besides a large family of my own I have also to look out for my aged mother. There was no one to shoulder my household burdens, and come what might, I must bear them, and this thought nearly drove me frantic when I realized that my health was breaking down.

"I read an article in the paper about some one with trouble just like mine being cured on Grape-Nuts food and acting on this suggestion I gave Grape-Nuts a trial. The first dish of this delicious food proved that I had struck the right thing.

"My uncomfortable feelings in stomach and brain disappeared as if by magic and in an incredibly short space of time I was myself again. Since then I have gained 12 pounds in weight through a summer of hard work and realize I am a very different woman, all due to the splendid food, Grape-Nuts."

"There's a Reason." Trial will prove. Read the famous Little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

WOMEN SUFFER NEEDLESSLY

Many Mysterious Aches and Pains Are Easily Cured.

Backache, pain through the hips, dizzy spells, headaches, nervousness, bloating, etc., are troubles that commonly come from sick kidneys. Don't mistake the cause—

Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands of women afflicted in this way—by curing the kidneys. Mrs. C. R. Foreman, 113 S. Eighth St., Canon City, Colo., says:

"Three years I suffered with rheumatism, dropsy and kidney complaint, and became utterly helpless. I found relief after using two or three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and kept on until cured. Doan's Kidney Pills have been a blessing to me." Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

ACCENT ON THE "PUB."

Teacher—Now, Jimmy Green, can you tell me what an octopus is? Jimmy Green—Yes, sir, it's an eight-sided cat.

Laundry work at home would be much more satisfactory if the right Starch were used. In order to get the desired stiffness, it is usually necessary to use so much starch that the beauty and fineness of the fabric is hidden behind a paste of varying thickness, which not only destroys the appearance, but also affects the wearing quality of the goods. This trouble can be entirely overcome by using Defiance Starch, as it can be applied much more thinly because of its greater strength than other makes.

Great Improvement.

The patient told the doctor all his symptoms. At the end of the recital the medical man looked severe.

"My dear sir," he said, "you must gradually give up whisky and soda."

Some months later he met the patient and inquired whether the advice had been followed.

"To the letter," replied the patient, beaming. "Why, I've already given up soda completely!"

"That's all right; I'm the fellow she's engaged to."

Starch, like everything else, is being constantly improved, the patent Starches put on the market 25 years ago are very different and inferior to those of the present day. In the latest discovery—Defiance Starch—all injurious chemicals are omitted, while the addition of another ingredient, invented by us, gives to the Starch a strength and smoothness never approached by other brands.

EATING EGGS by the BILLION

By WILLARD W. GARRISON

UNCLE SAM is the heaviest egg eater in the world. In fact, so fond is the old U. S. A. of the hen product that another century may see the deposition of the bald-headed eagle and the crowning of another feathered monarch.

These United States eat 154,000,000 eggs each day—1,980,000,000 a week—4,520,000,000 a month—54,160,000,000 a year.

Every man, woman and child in the country consumes a little over an egg and a half each day. If you, personally dislike eggs for food there is some one else in some part of America who puts three away as a foundation for his or her breakfast coffee.

Easter week, the biggest egg occasion of the year round, sees the consumption of about two billion eggs—violet, pink, crimson, purple, yellow and some green. That the egg will displace all others as the national food tidbit is the prognosis of those who care their livings by raising chickens. Chicago, alone, with less than two million population, Easter week last, put away 60,000,000 eggs. So greedy was the Windy city about this article of diet that lots of other portions of the United States which receive the allotment of hen fruit from the market at the city by the lake had to go eggless Easter.

Jim Patten's wheat corner will be a mere bagatelle alongside of the movement of the man who can corner eggs. Small egg corners are frequent, however. Cold storage men often lay aside several millions in a semi-frozen state and hold them for nine months or so, dumping them on the market when the price is in the clouds.

But the cold storage egg is inferior because the fresh egg advocate argues the chicken has a chance to grow a little before the yellow inside freezes, thus storing up nasal evidence against the purity of the product.

For the housewife in the big city there is an everyday opportunity to effect a coup, for when she can find a producer who sells "eggs laid fresh today," she considers herself a model of wifely devotion. But as there is no smell on the outside of the shell, there are often lots of angry glances from the male partner in the household, which are born of the unborn chick.

The length of time that an egg will keep fresh is governed by the care which is taken in its preservation. They are packed in ice as a rule, and if packed soon enough after being laid, the chicken life is properly killed and thus the angry eye-to-eye message is eliminated.

Suitable to the occasion is the aged tale of the man with the flowing mustache and the time-marked egg. He had it for breakfast—the egg—and being a city man rode down to his place of business in conventional manner, taking no notice of the fact that while the seat beside him remained vacant there were half a dozen commuters standing nearby.

As he alighted at his destination a sniff likened to the odor of an egg of evil intentions pierced his nasal sense. During the walk to his office he noticed that the smell was everywhere. It was in the street, in the rotunda of the office building, in the elevator, in the hall on the nineteenth floor, and he was startled beyond measure to find that on entering his office he smelled egg there, too.

Stepping to the desk of the head bookkeeper, he asked him if he smelt an unhealthy odor. "Why, no," replied the knight of the day ledger, casting a glance at the yellow streak clear across the boss' mustache. His stenographer being too polite to remark on the yellow streak, edged to the inward side of her chair when he bent toward her in dictating a letter.

He made the rounds of the office employees, asking whether they smelt egg, but all being too polite to tell him he had overlooked an important point, declared they smelt no egg. The odor stayed with him.

In desperation he fled to his private office, muttering as he slammed the door: "My heavens, the whole world smells, and no one knows it but me."

But that is only a minor point in the adoption of a new national food by Uncle Sam. With each year the production of the hens of the country is becoming smaller in proportion to the demand for eggs. As a consequence the experts declare that each succeeding year will see the price soar beyond expectations. The last months of winter and the first of early spring are the hardest for the egg eaters, for then the cost soars, there are less of the precious morsels and those which appear are often holdovers from the year previous, but even those bring prices ranging from 50 to 40 cents a dozen.

The time is remembered by many when the best eggs brought 12 cents a dozen in retail stores, and the wholesale price was below that. So steep has the conventional cost become that thousands of farmers are yearly devoting their land to the raising of fowls.

The industry has already become a mighty factor in national life and within two decades if the country continues to eat eggs at the present rate of increase, the business of growing eggs may outweigh that of cattle and grain.

In the large cities, Chicago, for instance, the high price of meat compelled the poorer classes to adopt the egg as a means of obtaining nourishment. The increased demand of course boosted the price, but still the middle and upper classes cling to the fowl product, foul or fair.

In the great marts of trade the egg industry is perhaps the most interesting of all. One great cold storage warehouse in Chicago during the last egg famine, unloaded on the market close to 6,000,000, and every one was sold to the local retail merchants. The eggs were said to have been in cold storage for nine months, pending an increase in price sufficient to yield the speculators a considerable profit. They estimated the proceeds after all expenses had been met, at four cents on the dozen—$20,000 on the lot.

Other great egg corners have been manipulated and the profits doubtless have been even greater, but they seldom come to the public ear because of the shekels which are raked in from the enterprise.

In the egg corner mentioned above, scores of men worked day and night for two days getting the product out of cold storage to place them on the market while the price held up.

The workmen were where they could be called at once, and the minute the word came over the telephone to get the great crates out of the cold storage warehouse, the tollers were set to work. Two days later every egg had been sold, the money collected and more than half of them eaten by the consumer.

It was a great coup and only one of the many. Other enterprises of like nature where the proceeds have ranged into large figures, have been told, but the details seldom became public property. This, by reason of the fact that the egg "corner" is today a rather undeveloped science.

But the monarchs of other branches of the producing world have come to look upon movements of that sort as one of the money makers of the days to come.

Early this month when eggs (cases returned), were bringing only 19 cents a dozen, wholesale, the lover of them felt fairly jubilant and barnyard prognosticators predict that this jubilant feeling shall prevail for the rest of the summer.

Extra quality eggs were then selling at 23 cents a dozen, while ordinary "firsts" brought 19 cents and "seconds" one cent more a dozen, "prime firsts" selling at 21 cents.

So, with the away of the strawberry the price of eggs dropped off, and before August, it is said, the cost may go lower.

With the private producers, who sell only limited quantities of eggs, 40 cents a dozen is not an unheard of figure for what are known as "eggs laid fresh to-day." Of course, the right to that title must be undisputed, and often when eggs are sold, backed by a reputation for freshness, higher prices are paid for them by the epicures.

However, frauds in eggs are as frequent as swindles in other industries, and fastidious persons, who hate cold storage eggs worse than they do paying fancy prices, are often taken in by the "farmer" who rides into the city on the Interurban, buys up a large cargo of eggs in the open market, rents a wagon, the muddier the better, and proceeds to distribute cold storage eggs for the product he claims is "laid fresh to-day."

A certain informed bachelor, one of those the Gateway succeeded in getting on the list during leap year, tells of one of the boys who after attending a farewell bachelor supper meandered home in a muddled state late one Saturday night, or rather Sunday morning, and, getting as far as the entrance of his rooming house, he sat down on the stone steps, his hat fell off on his knees and with head bowed down he slumbered peacefully. He awoke about nine o'clock and found 24 cents in his hat. Charitably inclined early churchgoers had mistaken him for a beggar and dropped their pennies into his upturned hat.—Bremen (Ga.) Gateway.

KING EDWARD'S HEIR

Prince of Wales Taking Keener Interest in Public Affairs.

Points to Own Example—Intimates That He Was Kept Too Much in Background During Queen Victoria's Reign.

New York.—The increased public activity of the prince of Wales in recent months has been very evident to anyone who follows the English press. With this increased activity there has come an increase, or perhaps a more correct word would be a growth of popularity, which probably pleases no one more than the king.

A writer whose knowledge of things is second to none says that he has the highest authority for declaring that this marked advance in public importance of the prince of Wales is entirely due to the king. The latter recently told the prince of Wales that though he himself had had to fulfill much public duty during the life of Queen Victoria, yet he had been kept aloof from political and diplomatic influence, and it was not until his accession that he could show himself to the empire in his true light. He does not want this to occur with his son.

At all times the king has shown himself a most affectionate father, always desirous of having his children with him. There can be no doubt that not so long ago the prince of Wales showed symptoms of that depression which has grievously oppressed his two elder sisters. The king saw that he needed rousing. At the same time Sir James Reid has tried to induce the king to shift some of the burdens of his position onto other shoulders. "To be Europe's international minister is sufficient task for any man getting on for 70," were his words.

The king then sent for the princess of Wales, in whose judgment he has great confidence, and after a long talk with her, he told the prince of Wales that he must henceforth be more in the public eye. This is the true story of the evolution of the prince in the past few months.

Like his father, the prince is not a good speaker; but he can say what he wishes to say, and, if he speaks tersely, it is always to the point, while he is an exceptionally able man of business. So far as can be judged, the prince's sympathies are not so wide as those of the king, but his interests are multifarious.

At the present time he is a practical expert on airships, and of course his naval knowledge is profound. Probably no one knows as much about hospital management as he does, and his recent speech about the Brussels exhibition won marked notice not only in this country but on the continent.

The prince has been somewhat troubled by dyspepsia, and for the present is not drinking at all with his food, and only has one whisky after each meal. He has also restricted the number of his cigars, which had been growing excessive. By inclination his tastes are sedentary, except that he is fond of shooting, but almost daily he rides for an hour.

The prince of Wales is going to pay one of his rare visits to his duchy, the estates of which are steadily increasing in value. The Duchy of Cornwall comprises some 13,000 acres in Cornwall, nearly 50,000 in Devon and 5,000 in Somerset. In addition to the rentals from these properties there are various mineral and other dues payable to the duke.

The charter which made the duchy estates the perpetual property of the heir apparent to the English throne was passed in the reign of Edward III., and his son, the Black Prince, held his court at Beaulieu castle, now a mass of picturesque ruins. When Queen Victoria ascended the throne the duchy income was about £12,000. At the date of the marriage of Edward VII. in 1863 the amount had increased to £20,000, and last year the prince of Wales received over £20,000. The estates are well managed and the duchy authorities are considered among the best landlords in the west of England.

In the Law. The client—How much will your opinion be worth in this case? The lawyer—I'm too modest to say. But I can tell you what I'm going to charge for it.—Cleveland Leader.

LEWIS' "SINGLE BINDER."

A hand-made cigar fresh from the table, wrapped in foil, thus keeping fresh until smoked. A fresh cigar made of good tobacco is the ideal smoke. The old, well cured tobacco used are so rich in quality that many who formerly smoked 10c cigars now smoke Lewis' Single Binder Straight 5c. Lewis' Single Binder costs the dealer some more than other 5c cigars, but the higher price enables this factory to use extra quality tobacco. There are many imitations; don't be fooled. There is no substitute! Tell the dealer you want a Lewis "Single Binder."

Sees Extinction of Tuberculosis. Dr. William Osler says: "Whether tuberculosis will be finally eradicated is even an open question. It is a foe that is very deeply entrenched in the human race. Very hard it will be to eradicate completely, but when we think of what has been done in one generation, how the mortality in many places has been reduced more than 50 per cent.—indeed, in some places 100 per cent.—it is a battle of hope, and so long as we are fighting with hope, the victory is in sight."

Sunburnt Eyelids. Who does not know the misery of sunburnt eyelids—that crinkly and burning condition of the skin? Isn't it worth a great deal to know that Dr. Mitchell's Eye Salve applied to them upon retiring will effect a complete cure before morning. On sale everywhere. Price 25 cents or by mail, Hall & Ruckel, New York City.

A Reflection. "To my annoyance," she said, "I found he had a lock of my hair. How he got it I can't imagine." The older girl smiled oddly. "When you were out of the room, perhaps?" she hazarded.

Buying a Spring Suit

By FRED C. KELLY.

Stokes dropped into a tailoring shop to look over their new spring things. The tailor began to throw the suits over his knee in his most engaging manner, and Stokes, with a stogie of Pennsylvania manufacture tilted out of his mouth at a sassy angle, looked on critically.

"Who'n thunder ever buys such suits as that one?" inquired Stokes amusedly, as he caught sight of a big green plaid over an ice creamy colored effect.

"Oh, you'd be surprised at the number of that kind we sell," replied the tailor apologetically. "You see, we've got to have something for everybody's taste. You, for instance, like the plainer things. Mebby the next man will want something striking. We can take care of either one of you. Fact is, though, that's a pretty swell suit when you come right down to it." He picked it up and laid it across his thigh, the way a tailor will.

"Gee, I'd think a man would have to choke down a whole lot of self-respect before he could come out on the public thoroughfare lighted up in a thing like that," observed Stokes.

"How much is that serge piece? So much as that? I guess I've got pretty fair taste, eh? Always pick on a high-priced one. Somehow anything cheap never looks good to me. I guess I

"He Said He Wanted Something Conservative."

It must be one of the highest-priced pieces you've got.

"Honestly I don't know whether to pick out the gray one or the blue one. Don't suppose it would make much difference. I always buy one or the other, anyhow. Lots of times my friends will think I'm wearing a last year's suit when I've got one on just out of the shop, and that I had to dig up a good wad for. How's that? Yes, ha! ha! They'd know it was new all right enough, if I ever came out in one like that green plaid. Do you know if it wasn't that I've always been such a decent self-respecting citizen, I'd be tempted to buy an atrocious like that some day. Huh? Good people buy 'em sometimes, do they? Well, I don't know. Mebby I'll have the nerve to try one of those loud ones some time. How much more is that than this gray stripe here? That's only $10 more. It surely would cause a lot of talk among my friends, though, if I'd come hiking down the avenue with that on. Beg pardon? Doesn't look near so loud when it's made up, eh?

"Say, actually, I have a notion to have you make that one up for me—just for the fun of the thing. Think it'll be becoming? Well, suppose you go ahead and put it together and I'll see what people say about me. You've got my measure, haven't you? All right. Strong. I'll drop in some day next week for the try on."

"That fellow's a pretty slick salesman," muttered Stokes to himself after he got out in the street. "Who'd have thought anybody could have talked me into buying an outfit like that?"

and millionaires only, would have to fetch $900 each, anyway.

"Good Lord!" stuttered Edgar. "Unstrap the trunk and let's begin!"

"We'll try No. 12, just as soon as I work out my anti-nux vomica powder," promptly agreed Irad, his eyes beaming.

"What's that got to do with it?" whispered Edgar, rising stiffly.

"The food at present brings the colored eggs all right, but it's usually fatal to a hen, unless she has a strong constitution," gently explained Irad, backing away. "But the anti-nux—"

"Then you can't feed it to 'em now?" choked Edgar.

"Not without doing desperate injury," sighed Irad. "But—"

"But you can leave that dod rotting trunk strapped till Thursday," cried Edgar, kicking up little clouds of dust as he led the horse back to the barn.

Adventures in Discontentment

By STRICKLAND W. GILLILAN.

I came here eight years ago as the ostensible renter of this farm. I now, alas, own it. This came about through the trickiness of the former owner, who showed me the lease and, at the last moment, substituted a deed for it. Next day when I discovered the swindle I hunted the owner, but he had gone. Yet by borrowing a little each year and writing magazine articles on agriculture (of which I am sufficiently ignorant to do so) I have managed to keep the taxes paid.

My leaving the city is largely, I still believe, due to my boss's eccentricity. His ideas of work did not in any degree coincide with mine, try as I might to make him see the error of his ways. He held an old-fashioned notion that an employee should arrive at work about beginning time, work steadily through till luncheon, then return and work till closing time. He even held to the extreme and absurd theory that when business was rushing the employees should exert themselves to accomplish more work in a given time than they ordinarily produced.

At length, one morning when I had grown especially sick of the hurry all about me and was filled with a vague uneasiness, I might catch this spirit of endless rush and vulgar pandering to what the world calls Success, my boss came to see me, and said:

"The quantity and quality of your work of late have been very disappointing. We have another man to take your place. Go, get your time." His remarks were so unbearably offensive to me, and so full of downright insolence and assumption of inequality between us, that then and there I determined to quit working under this man. My determination was unalterable. Though I didn't know what I should do for a livelihood, I rolled down my sleeves, got my pay-check and left. No man can talk that way to me and remain my employer.

About this time, when the pussy willows were mewing softly in the parks, I was taken with fever of the kind called "spring." It was a violent case. I could not move without great effort, and the more sassafras tea I drank the worse I felt. An inordinate desire to play marbles came over me, and I knew, then, what the malady was. The disinclination to work grew on me, so that the mere thought of toll between meals nauseated me. I scarcely knew what I should have done had it not been for the nourishment I took in large quantities three times a day, at my mother's (father still had his job). So fortunately I too sympathetic and tender hearted for my own good, I know, and to see any member of my family go through the ravages of disease such as are now wasting your young life is more than I can bear. It hurts me to see you so palpably too strong to work. So I have bought you a ticket on the train. Notice, I beg of you, that it is not of that breed of ticket known as "round-trip." Go, my son, and heaven send you better health and a smaller appetite, or a desire to rustle."

Father's will has ratcheted it, so it can run in but one direction. I took his ticket, left his blessing on deposit, and went away. Father saw me off.

That is how I came to alight on the abandoned farm which was near the railroad station where my ticket justified my alighting from the train.

In three or four years I may save up enough to buy a return ticket back to town.

3. What does the soldier sometimes wish for?
4. What age is required on the high seas?
5. What age are we forbidden to worship?
6. What age is neither more nor less?
7. What is the age people get "stuck on"?
8. What is the age of profanity?
9. At what age will women ride safely?
10. What age is necessary for a clergyman?
11. What is the age of communication?
12. What age is most important to travelers?
13. What is the most popular age for charity?
14. What age is shared by the doctor and the thief?
15. What age do we all wish for?
16. What age is most enjoyed at the morning meal?
17. What is the most indigestible age?
18. What age belongs to most travelers?
19. What age signifies the farmer?
20. What age indicates the rich farmer?
21. What age is unfrayed and smoothest?
22. What age do milliners delight in?
23. What age do a number of people enjoy in common?

A Croquet Luncheon.

Along with other old-fashioned things the time-honored game of croquet has been revived. These suggestions are for a luncheon to follow a match.

The table should be a long one to carry out the scheme with best effect, and if a miniature set of croquet can be purchased it will also simplify matters. Eight small wickets will be needed and they are to be arranged on the table just as on the ground. The cage or crossed arches should be quite tall, as they will form the centerpiece. Any handy man (or woman) can make these wickets with blocks of wood and wire. Wind the wickets first with green crepe paper, then with fine picture wire or florist's wire. Cover them with sweet peas or any other flower that may be preferred, but the sweetpeas are especially pretty when the delicate pink white and lavender are combined. Each wicket may have a ribbon bow on top. The tiny croquet mallets are laid at each place with name cards tied to the handle. For bonbons have hard candy balls flavored with fruit juice; the confectioner will make them in all the delicate shades. The croquet stakes, ribbon-bound, should be at the head and foot and the successful players have these seats.

A Golf Luncheon.

A miniature links was the decorative scheme, in the center of the table, golf bags and sticks were the personal souvenirs at each place and the guests came directly from a morning game, so were hungry for the plain but appetizing menu. The male serving had her cap adorned with the colors of the club to which all belonged, and candy was made in round balls, leech bouillon was served first, followed by cold tongue and jellied chicken, hot rolls, shoe-string potatoes, asparagus salad, barley doe and cheese. Chocolate ice cream was served in ball molds, and the cakes were sponge drops rolled in grated coconut.

QUICK WIT OF KNOX

Two Stories About the New Secretary of State.

Instances Where "Retort Courteous" Came to Very Good Purpose—How He Disarmed the Brilliant Lawyer, Thomas Marshall.

Washington.—Among those who know Secretary of State Knox his "retort courtois" is one of the real treats of his companionship.

While he was in the senate and that body was proceeding with unusual deliberation in the matter of increasing the pay of army and navy officers, one of the latter, who is noted for his valor and his profanity, met Mr. Knox on Pennsylvania avenue in company with others on the way from the capitol. As he approached he blurted out:

"Senator, why in h— don't you fellows in the senate hurry up that army bill?"

"Because if we did you might stop swearing, and the shock would be fatal," shot back Knox without a quiver in his voice or a falter in his footsteps, while the general, recovering himself, said to his companion: "Well, I'll be d—, if that wasn't a h— of a hot shot from a 65-inch gun." But he never asked Knox a pointed question again.

There are members of the Allegheny county bar who distinctly remember a famous case in which the present secretary of state, when fresh at the bar, was pitted against the famous Thomas M. Marshall, who was accustomed with a few expressions of withering sarcasm to wipe out all there was remaining of his adversary when he followed a young man's argument before a jury.

Knox had made a powerful impression on the jury, and as he was nearing the conclusion he overheard Marshall, who was accustomed to "whisper audibly" across the counsel table, say: "I'll dispose of that young cub in my first ten sentences."

Knox heard it. He knew the power of Marshall's invectives and he knew the case was a desperate one, but he knew that above all the old man had a big heart. And something like this was Knox's windup:

"Gentlemen of the jury, my duty is now about done and yours about beginning. I have left with you the last message and the final plea of my client. My effort may have been feeble in comparison with what may fall from the eloquent lips of my distinguished adversary. He may in the heat of controversy say many withering and cruel things, not only of my cause but of my argument, but say what he will, gentlemen, no cruel accent that can fall from his lips can ever obliterate the memory of the many kindly words and generous deeds with which, when I first came to this bar, the kindly-hearted, brilliant advocate, Thomas M. Marshall, brightened my pathway."

The change was instantaneous. Marshall was disarmed. Inveective in that atmosphere would have been as the fumes from a soap factory in a garden of roses.

Instead of tearing Knox to pieces Marshall spent the first 15 minutes telling the jury what a fine character Knox had been as a student and as a budding lawyer, and how proud he had always been of him. Before he reached the strong points of his case Marshall had convinced the jury that Knox was "all right," an impression he was unable later on to change, for the jury rendered a verdict that made the young man happy and his client somewhat wealthier than before.

World's Largest Building. The Crystal palace, London, England, accommodates more people than any other building in the world. It will hold 180,000 persons.

"You Place a Teaspoonful in Their Basin of Water."

I vum! I wonder if I remembered to put the powder in my trunk as I promised Cousin Freeman I would? I do believe I left it—no, I remember now. It's in there. And he sighed in deep relief.

Edgar slowly approached the veranda. Hens were dear to his soul. "Dyed food," he murmured, resting a heavy boot on the old trunk. "What has Freeman got to do with that?"

"What if there was only one egg in the world of a Alice blue color," retorted Irad, "what wouldn't an egg collector give? Say I had eggs in 18 shades of wisteria—that's a color, you know; or in elephant's breath? Worth their weight in gold, eh? I should say so. I figure that a red, white and blue egg with stars—if not duplicated, mind you—is worth $5,000 to this patriotic government alone. Then get out some in the Lilies of France, the Thistle of Scotland, the Shamrock—"

"Quit it, or explain," gasped Edgar, fanning his dazed brow.

"Consider for a second the market value of Fourth of July eggs, green eggs for St. Patrick's day, eggs to match a fussy woman's gown, hotels advertising: 'Our women guests served with eggs to match complexion,' enthusiastically prattled Irad. "Take an egg in royal purple with salmon trimmings, laid princess, and well—I mean Freeman and me—will it sell $5 apiece for 'em?"

"By Judas! I like that," passionately cried Edgar. "So that's why you are so keen to get shut of me and snoot over to Freeman's, eh? Well, I guess not."

"I promised—" weakly began Irad. "Promised nothing," intruded Edgar, yanking the trunk to the door. "You stay here till Thursday and we'll have some pancakes with maple

LOCAL NEWS.

Richard Smith was in Monday afternoon for the ranch.

PLAIN ICE FACTS:

Does the ice you are getting shatter into long pencil like fragments when you try to chip off a piece?

Do you know that such ice has lost a large percentage of its cooling properties?

Our product is in your refrigerator within an hour or two after being taken from the freezing tank, and has no opportunity to deteriorate.

You get the maximum utility of the ice and at the same price as the other kind.

Horse Dentist.

Many good horses feel and water three times a day and still wonder why their horse looks bad.
A few of the symptoms are: Weak, apathetic, to cold, retching, holding the head sideways while eating, collecting while driving, all are symptoms of bad teeth. - EXAMINATION FREE

ROSWELL AND CARLSBAD TO HAVE INTERURBAN.

(Special correspondence to Morning Journal.)

Carlsbad, N. M., June 20. - An interurban electric line from Carlsbad to Roswell which will connect all Pecos Valley points finally with a fast electric service is a scheme of one of the large interurban traction companies of Ohio. The concern has had an agent in the Pecos Valley who it is said has reported favorably on the feasibility of the proposed line and the project is under serious consideration. The company, it is understood, will want substantial subsidies from every town to be touched by the system. Considerable interest has developed in the plan which if carried out, would undoubtedly be one of the greatest aids to development in the history of the valley.

Athletics.

Carlsbad plays Lakewood on the latter's ground Sunday and as these are the two fastest teams in the Valley, a great game is expected.

The fastest crowd of horse-hide maulers that this part of the territory can produce will go to Pecos City, Texas, for three exhibition games July 5th and 7th. A large crowd of rooters are expected to accompany them.

Craddock Rule is developing into a fast and heady first baseman and if the star, Ezell, is not in the H. S. next year Rule will undoubtedly take care of the initial sack.

Carlsbad Smothers Lakewood;
8 to 4.

Carlsbad defeated Lakewood in a game filled with sensational plays and little batting. Lakewood used two pitchers. Higginbotham put up the frail excuse that he was sick and retired in favor of Wilder, in the third who allowed only three scattered singles. In the first inning Easley reached first, when Brainard muffed his fly in left and later scored on three successive pass balls. Higginbotham opened Carlsbad half of the first inning by passing Rarey. Rutherford then came to bat and with a deliberate swing drove a fly to the fence which Nichols dropped and Rarey scored. Strang then singled sharply to center and Rutherford scored, but for some reason the run was not counted.
Strang and Johns scored on hits to left and center. Carlsbad added one more run in the second, one in the third, two in the fifth and one in the sixth which proved too big a lead for Lakewood to overcome, although scored one run in the third, one in the fourth and one in the ninth.
Brilliant catches in the outfield by Brainard and Stewart and fast infield work by Strang, Rarey, Cunningham featured the game. Rarey was the star slugger of the day; out of 5 times at bat he got a one-pass and four safe hits, one of them was such a scorcher that it went through three Lakewood men and Rarey scored on the throw in. A severe rainstorm preceeded the game and the field was in very bad condition.

Carlsbad 3-1-0-2-0-0-1-8
Lakewood 1-0-1-1-0-0-0-4

Stolen bases: Strang 2, Brainard, Rarey 2; Easley two base hit, Rarey. Left on bases, Carlsbad 10, Lakewood 6. Struck out by Higginbotham 1; by Wilder 7;
by Johns 8; bases off Higginbotham 2; Wilder 0; by Johns 0; hit by pitcher, Johns 2, Wilder 1.
Time of game one hour and twenty five minutes. Umpire, Allen;

The University of New Mexico, as once more got a president.
There were several applications for the position and last week the regents appointed Dr. E. Mc-Queen Gray, of Carlsbad. The doctor has had a great deal of educational experience and has been connected with the university as a professor. It is to be hoped he can equal his predecessor in the work of building up the institution. - Lordsburg Liberal.

A Wreck

is the only description for the man or woman who is crippled with rheumatism. Just a few rheumatic twinges may be the forerunner of a severe attack—stop the trouble at the start with Ballard's Snow Liniment. Cures the rheumatism and pain. Price 25c, 50c, and $1. Sold by Eddy Drug Co.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so gives HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this nonalcoholic medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.
