CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, MAY 28, 1909.

NUMBER 16

A GOOD BALL GAME.

What was probably the best contest, smoothest and most interesting game of base ball ever played in Lincoln County took place last Sunday, between the Fort Stanton and Carrizozo teams. The grounds were in first class order and were policed by a local officer, armed with a billie, whom somebody called Moriarty, and who saw that nobody entered the enclosure except the players or privileged parties connected with the game. The Carrizozo boys, although tired from a 30 mile drive through the mountain, were full of ginger, and after shaking some of the sand out of their hair, and partaking of the substantial dinner provided, repaired to the grounds to try conclusions with the famous "Coughers." A grand stand gave shade and comfort to the couple of hundred fans who looked on, and players and visitors alike were royally treated by the Fort Stantons. Over confidence—a bad fault in either man or team—and estimating their oponents too cheaply, was the cause of Fort Stanton scoring in the first inning. After that the Carrizozo boys played cautiously but failed to score until the fifth inning when the score was 2 to 1 in their favor. In the seventh inning the score was 2 to 2, with honors even. But in the eighth inning a couple of costly errors gave the game to Stanton. It was a beautiful contest, almost faultlessly played, and was characterized throughout by the best of order and good feeling. Robertson, for Carrizozo, struck out 13 men, and LeClaire for Fort Stanton struck out 8. W. M. Ferguson umpired the game, and his decision were taken without a kick from either side.

TO REPEAL THE SWEZEY BILL.

Senator Beveridge has introduced a bill to appeal the Swezey bill, an act of the 38th legislative assembly of New Mexico. The text of his bill is as follows: Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled. That said law of the Territory of New Mexico, as aforesaid, be, and the same is hereby, disapproved and declared null and of no effect.

A SOUND INVESTMENT.

People call at this office very often enquiring about houses for rent. We always refer them to the parties who deal in that business, but they invariably say they had seen them, but the houses were unsuitable. Now, a splendid opportunity lays invitingly open at this time in Carrizozo to anyone who will invest a little capital in a row or two of four or five room cottages, suitable for small families. We believe we are safe in guaranteeing that ten, twenty or even thirty such houses, which could be built at a cost not exceeding $1200 each, including the ground, would find ready and waiting occupants the moment they would be completed. The rentals realized from them would certainly pay very handsomely on the capital invested. Capital seeking investment would do well to investigate Carrizozo, the future county seat of Lincoln county. Its prospects, from a mining, agricultural and industrial point of view, are the best in the whole great southwest. Besides, the law of demand fixes the price, and the demand for real estate in Carrizozo will be greater next month than it is this month, and in a year or two hence you, who may have an eye on something now, will find it has passed beyond your reach. Do it now.

TO REDISTRICT TERRITORIAL COURTS.

Santa Fe, N.M. May 26—Chief Justice William J. Mills has called a special session of the territorial supreme court for June 11 to redistrict the territory and assign the judges. There is a sharp fight for headquarters of the new seventh district between Socorro and Raton. Torrance county will probably be annexed to the Santa Fe district and Curry county to the Alamogordo district. Judge Mechem may be assigned to Socorro and Judge Cooley to Alamogordo.

CARD OF THANKS.

The Rev. Father J. H. Girma, through the kindness of this paper wishes to thank the business people and citizens of Carrizozo, for their generous contributions to the fund for the repairing of the Catholic church.

Fresh lot of Ferry's Seeds and Onion Sets.—Carrizozo Trad. Co.

FISH FOR WATSON LAKE.

The Southwestern has stocked the Watson lake near Nogal with fish, and it is probable that in a few years this body of water will furnish pleasure to such knights of the rod as may be fortunate enough to have the privilege of fishing in it. There are 99 fine black bass which have been put in the lake, all healthy and growing. They were received from the government last winter, and as the water in the lake was in need of cleaning, they were placed in a tank at the shops here and kept until a short time ago, when they were placed in the water.

CAPITAN NEWS.

A dense smoke was seen from Capitan and vicinity Wednesday in the direction of lower Ruidoso supposed to be from a forest fire.

Mr. J. W. Coleman and Mrs. Coleman, of Angus, were in town during the week. Mr. Coleman was a member of the famous "Colorado First" volunteers that saved the day at Glorieta, the "Waterloo" of the Texas troops under General Sibley, in 1862.

Harvey Lacey and Ward Leslie, of Texas Park, rthle a march on their friends Friday and went to Lincoln where they were married. The happy brides are sisters and daughters of Mr. Slack, who came to this country from Oklahoma last year. The wedding party passed through Capitan enroute home from Lincoln, and while their actions aroused suspicions, your correspondent did not learn the facts until a later date. May their joys be many and their troubles little ones.

The kind of weather that is being delivered this month is something fierce; dry, cold and windy—conditions that are alleged to prevail in Himalaya Plateau regions. Possibly the Duke of the Abruzzi may be responsible for it trying to get revenge on the Elkins family by punishing New Mexico, the former home of "Steve."

We still have a full line of Jack Rabbit Corduroy pants that we are still selling at reduced prices, also a line of SINCERITY SUITS at actual cost. The Carrizozo Trading Co.

Try Winfield for your next grocery order.

A DOUBLE HEADER.

To-morrow afternoon (Saturday) the Alamogordo base ball team will play the local team a return match. They will leave the next morning for Fort Stanton to fill an engagement at that place. On their return here, Monday, they will play a second game. The Carrizozo line up for to-morrow's game is as follows: Dingwall, c; Robertson p; Peterson 1b; Taylor 2b; Gunn 3b; Hall ss; Laughrey rf; Jones cf; Guthrie lf; Steele, sub. A good, close game is anticipated.

An epidemic of base ball seems to have struck this county. The Carrizozo kids will play the Capitan kids Sunday at Capitan.

YOU CAN'T TURN YOUR BACK

On the fact that our clothes have an untarnished reputation for wearing quality. That means a lot more than style alone. You see the latter with your own eyes; but the workmanship is inside, and you must trust to the dealer or the maker's honesty for what you get. Quality and low prices meet on common ground here.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

NAGEL'S FIRST ASSISTANT

Ormsby McHarg, who has been appointed assistant secretary of commerce and labor, is a native of North Dakota and has been in close touch with affairs at Washington for several years. His selection was personal with Secretary Nagel, who was anxious to find a man who had the business and legal ability to run the department of commerce and labor in Mr. Nagel's absence.

Mr. McHarg was graduated from the law school of the University of Michigan in 1896, and returned to North Dakota to practice his profession. In 1899 he went to Washington and entered George Washington university, taking several degrees. Later he became an instructor of law at George Washington.

About two years ago Mr. McHarg was engaged as a special attorney by the department of justice and assigned to the prosecution of land fraud cases in New Mexico. Later he represented the department in litigation connected with Indian affairs in Oklahoma. While thus engaged he was selected by Frank H. Hitchcock, then in charge of William H. Taft's campaign for the presidential nomination, to prepare the cases of contesting delegations for presentation to the Republican national committee, and the committee on credentials at the Chicago convention.

The manner in which Mr. McHarg handled these cases attracted to him the attention of the party leaders, who recognized his ability at once. After the convention he was actively engaged in campaign matters under Mr. Hitchcock.

GOT NEAR TO SOUTH POLE

Lieut. Ernest H. Shackleton, the young British naval officer, whose south pole seeking expedition came within 111 miles of reaching that much-sought spot, smashed a lot of precedents in pole-hunting when he made his dash. In the first place, he made a good share of the journey by automobile and the last desperate dash for the pole he made with hardy little ponies rather than with dogs. The ponies were killed and eaten one by one as necessity demanded. The food supplies carried by the expedition contained very few vegetables and an unusual proportion of meats. The latter have been found superior to keep up the strength of the men, while the vegetables soon become worthless as food in the Antarctic regions.

Lieut. Shackleton has a reputation as an explorer earned by a varied line of experience in that pleasant if somewhat frost-bitten pursuit.

One of the members of the expedition in recounting the story of the journey, said that when they started on the trip to the magnetic pole the weather was so hot they had to pull their two sledges in singlets. There was half a ton of provisions on each sledge. After a comparatively easy 250-mile journey along the sea ice they had an almost hopeless climb to the inland plateau. They carried their lives in their hands, fighting their way inch by inch and suffered great privations on the return journey.

The members of Lieut. Shackleton's party state that when they were compelled to turn back their bodily strength was diminishing so rapidly that their temperatures went down to far below normal, in some cases reaching 93 degrees, and in others considerably lower than that.

Had this party been two days later in reaching the Nimrod it would have been frozen in for another season. They declare that any future explorer attempting to reach the pole must be provided with much larger supplies of food, because there is no doubt that the south pole is situated on a high plateau and that the coldest and stormiest weather in the world prevails there, there being 70 degrees of frost under the very mildest conditions.

EX-ROUGH RIDER'S WAY

Governor George Curry, former rough rider, friend of ex-President Roosevelt and by the latter made first governor of the island of Samar and later promoted to the governorship of the territory of New Mexico, does not agree with his benefactor in the matter of treating unfriendly editors. Whereas Mr. Roosevelt painstakingly bombarded the recreant men of the blue pencil with interviews, written statements, bitter letters and libel suits, his New Mexican protégé follows the much simpler and equally satisfactory method of getting the bad editor into his office and beating him up.

Editor A. J. Loomis, of the Santa Fe Eagle, published the fact that Gov. Curry and his delegation of official statehood workers at Washington had been instructed by the president to return home and not pay their expenses out of the territorial money appropriated for the Washington campaign. The indignant governor telephoned to the editor when he reached home and read the newspaper. Responding to the telephonic summons, Editor Loomis went to the capitol, met the angry executive and was punched. It is more prompt than the Roosevelt way, less trouble and probably productive of more results.

The trouble created considerable comment and resulted in Gov. Curry tendering his resignation to President Taft, but the latter requested him to retain his post.

NO NEED TO TAKE CHANCES

There is a Sure Way of Knowing Good Paint Material.

There is really no need whatever for any property owner to take chances in the selection of his paint materials. It doesn't cost a cent to learn how to be on the safe side. Certainly every property owner has enough at stake to find this out.

A complete painting guide, known as Houseowner's Painting Outfit No. 49, can be had free by writing National Lead Company, 1902 Trinity Building, New York. This company is the largest maker of pure white lead in the world. Its Dutch Boy Painter trademark is famous as a guarantee of purity and quality. The outfit includes a book of color schemes, for either interior or exterior painting, a book of specifications, and a simple little instrument, with directions for testing the purity of paint materials.

TOTAL LOSS OF HAIR

Seemed Imminent—Scalp Was Very Scaly and Hair Came Out by Handfuls—Scalp Now Clear and

New Hair Grown by Cuticura.

"About two years ago I was troubled with my head being scaly. Shortly after that I had an attack of typhoid fever and I was out of the hospital possibly two months when I first noticed the loss of hair, my scalp being still scaly. I started to use dandruff cures to no effect whatever. I had actually lost hope of saving any hair at all. I could brush it off my coat by the handful. I was afraid to comb it. But after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and nearly a box of Cuticura Ointment, the change was surprising. My scalp is now clear and healthy as could be and my hair thicker than ever, whereas I had my mind made up to be bald. W. F. Steese, 5812 Broad St., Pittsburg, Penn., May 7 and 21, 1908."

Her Womanly Curiosity.

"I have put aside enough money," said the bachelor of 52, "to make it sure that I shall be decently buried without expense to the public."

"Why," asked the maiden who was verging on 35, "do you think you ought to have decent burial?"

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

DAINTY SANDWICHES

FORM AN INVALUABLE HELP TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

Solve Many Problems That Arise to Plague the Busy Woman—Suggestions That May Be New to Readers.

The housewife who learns the art of making dainty sandwiches is always well fortified against the problem of what to have for an informal tea, a little supper in her own dining room after the theater, or variety in her child's lunch basket.

The bread used in making sandwiches should be close-grained and not too fresh. The kind that is baked in round tins is good, and for cheese and fish sandwiches rye and graham bread is mostly used.

All the crusts should be cut from the bread with a sharp knife, fresh butter used which has been melted, and one should avoid having the sandwiches soggy.

Made of Fish—Pieces of fried halibut or any firm unsalted fish may be made into delicious sandwiches. Shred the fish, season and mix thoroughly with mayonnaise dressing. Spread on toasted rye bread, garnish with a bit of watercress and serve.

An Indian Sandwich—Cut the white meat of a cooked chicken in small pieces. Take the same quantity of boiled ham and four freshened anchovies and mince. Mix two cups of veloute sauce with one dessertspoonful of curry powder thinned with a little water. Stir over the fire until it becomes a thick sauce. Add the chicken and the ham and the juice of half a lemon. Cut slices of bread and fry them in butter until a light brown. Spread on the mixture and cover the sandwiches, serving while hot.

Of Nuts and Cheese—Use the meats of English walnuts, pecans and almonds. Cut into fine pieces and mix with a cream cheese. Spread the paste on toasted crackers and serve with olives.

Made of Peanuts—Peanuts mixed with mayonnaise dressing are popular, and chopped olives and small crisp cucumber pickles seasoned with capers and mixed with mayonnaise are also good.

Dates and figs chopped very fine and mixed with lemon juice may be spread on thin slices of bread and sprinkled with finely chopped nuts. An odd mixture for sandwiches is Oriental preserved ginger softened with a little cream. All kinds of candied fruits may also be used for filling.

A Kitchen Adjunct.

A useful article for the kitchen is a small microscope. Show the cook how to use it. She will be horrified if once shown dates, prunes or figs that are germ-infested that she will take special pains in washing them.

The microscope is also useful to examine cereals, cornmeal, buckwheat and other things, which unless kept airtight, may be unpleasantly infected.

If part of every order that comes in from the grocer is carefully examined so that if not in good condition it may be returned at once, the loss will be his and not the buyer's.

Squash Biscuit.

One and one-half cups sifted squash, one-half cup sugar, one yeast cake, one cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, four tablespoons butter, five cups flour. Scald the milk, pour it over the squash, add the butter, sugar and salt and when lukewarm, the yeast cake soaked in one-half cup lukewarm water. Stir into the flour, knead well, let raise until light, form into biscuit and rise very light. Bake in good hot oven.

DO YOU KNOW ANY SKIN SUFFERERS?

If You Have a Friend Afflicted with Eczema, Tell the Druggist About It.

If you have a friend suffering from eczema, tell him about D. D. D. Many eczema sufferers have tried so many useless remedies and spent so much money with doctors that they practically despair. If they only knew of the simplest home cure for eczema! It is nothing more than oil of wintergreen compound (as mixed in D. D. D. Prescription).

Used with glycerine, thymol and other healing ingredients in liquid form, this simple remedy penetrates the pores of the skin, numbing and killing the eczema germs while building up the healthy tissue.

Ask your druggists for D. D. D. Prescription.

First Aid.

The fiancé of a Louisville girl has been spending the winter in Florida in connection with his father's business interests in that quarter.

"Marie," said the girl to a friend the other day, "Walter has just sent me the dearest little alligator from Florida!"

"Dear me!" rejoined Marie, with affected enthusiasm. "And how shall you keep him?"

"I'm not quite certain," was the reply, "but I've put him in Florida water till I can hear further from Walter."

He Came Back Hard.

"That boy," said the Billville farmer, "beats my time! Just now, when I quoted Scripture to him he came back at me hard!"

"You don't say?"

"Shore. I told him to git a hoe an' foller the furrow. 'Thar's gold in the land,' I said, and what do you reckon he made answer?"

"You tell it."

"'Father,' he says, 'I don't keer fer the gold o' this here world; I've laid up treasure in heaven!'"—Atlanta Constitution.

ASKING SMALL FAVOR.

"Papa, mamma says that if you're too lazy to do anything else, will you please sit near the clothes closet and blow the smoke in, so as to kill the moths!"

SICK DOCTOR

Proper Food Put Him Right.

The food experience of a physician in his own case when worn and weak from sickness and when needing nourishment the worst way is valuable:

"An attack of grip, so severe it came near making an end of me, left my stomach in such condition I could not retain any ordinary food. I knew of course that I must have food nourishment or I could never recover.

"I began to take four tablespoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and cream three times a day and for 2 weeks this was almost my only food; it tasted so delicious that I enjoyed it immensely and my stomach handled it perfectly from the first mouthful. It was so nourishing I was quickly built back to normal health and strength.

"Grape-Nuts is of great value as food to sustain life during serious attacks in which the stomach is so deranged it cannot digest and assimilate other foods.

"I am convinced that were Grape-Nuts more widely used by physicians, it would save many lives that are otherwise lost from lack of nourishment."

Absolutely the most perfect food in the world. Trial of Grape-Nuts 10 days proves. "There's a Reason."

Look in pkg. for the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

A new ball grounds and athletic park is about to be opened up for the pleasure of the townspeople who may wish to attend the sports that will be held there from time to time. This will certainly come in handy on the 4th of July, as the people will not be assessed forty per cent of their spending money for the privilege of standing on the shady side of a wire fence.

Several enterprising property owners in this end of town have been talking about chipping in and having a sidewalk laid from the livery barn on the south to the Exchange Bank on the north, or even a block further. This, we believe, would be a good move. The cost, individually, would be small, and the benefit great, besides being a boon to the residents and others who do business along that street.

He next asked a funny elf
Who was on two legs walking—
How man will learn to know himself?
And of himself be talking?

The deadly aim of Colonel R. and son Kermit (at short range) continues to astonish the natives of the Dark Continent. Last week the Colonel killed a rhino, and Kermit landed a hyena. But the latest and most notable exploit of the Colonel is the capture alive of a pithecanthropus alalus, an animal known to the natives as a bwana gink, or, in plain United States, as a "little man." According to the censored dispatches that emanate from the interior of Mombasa, the queer little fellow was flushed in the jungle by one of the army of native stalkers, who was on the point of pinking it when it gave the "high sign," which the royal hunter answered by a wave of the "big stick," and riding up, with a dexterous reach, snatched the strange creature up and placed it before him on the saddle. It is a rare species of ape, and is said to somewhat resemble its captor about the mouth, who is rearing it on giraffe's milk and a feeding bottle, and to whom it is becoming attached. The creature is said to be very intelligent, and is quickly "catching on" to the lingo of the Colonel. If Darwin had been living today the question of the origin of species would be solved, but Theodore, of course would claim the credit.

WOMAN AND THE HOME.

Nothing so helps a woman through the long weary days of work as the knowledge that what she does is appreciated by those she loves and those by for whom she toils. Think of this, husbands and fathers, and remember that a kind word is always in season. If on some morning the coffee is a shade too brown to suit your taste, do not scold about it; and on every other morning when it is delicious say so. Try this way and you will find your coffee and every thing else, to your taste much oftener; and besides, you will give the one you ought to love best the sweetest consciousness that they are doing the work well, and giving satisfaction to the one, of all others, they most desire to please—thus inspiring them with renewed energy to strive for the merited reward of appreciative words. And so shall an atmosphere of peace and sweet home happiness come to pervade the whole house, born and nurtured into beautiful, fragrant blossoming by your own kind words and deeds. Let us all remember, too, that the higher and happier our home life, the more wisely and better we may hope to do the work that lies awaiting us beyond it. A pleasant place to "come home to" is the greatest energizer a man can have. Then let us strive with an earnest and constant purpose to make and keep the home cheerful, inviting and pleasant. P. C. BAIRD.

Eat What

You want of the food you need
Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it.

Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly.

When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

TO CONNECT MARS.

The Lone Star State has made history in the past, and now intends to contribute a chapter or two to science by opening "gab-fest" between the planet Mars, and this old world of ours. Robt. W. Wood, the famous astronomer, has agreed to establish his Mars observatory at Stamford, Texas, and the people of Stamford have agreed to raise at least $10,000 to aid the scientist in his attempt to communicate with the people of Mars. Wood proposes to build a reflector a hundred feet in diameter. This instrument, it is claimed, will bring the great planet within in a few miles of the earth, so it can be plainly seen. The inhabitants of Mars are said to be more advanced in science than we are, and according to astronomers, have been trying for years to communicate with us. Perhaps Professor Marconi might be induced to establish a wireless telegraph station at Stamford, in connection with the observatory, and in the meantime the Wright Bros., may have perfected the Jules Verne idea of sailing a flying ship up the milky way, and thus bring us in touch with the Martians. It looks a little doubtful, and yet nothing is impossible in this advanced age of science.

GET FISH.

Persons desiring fish for stocking streams or private waters in any part of the territory will make application direct to Hon. Geo. M. Bowers, Commissioner, Bureau of Fisheries, Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., who will furnish them with paper blanks. Applicants will be notified in advance of the arrival of the government fish car. Recipients are expected to be at the train with barrels filled with fresh water to receive their consignment.

IS TRAFFIC GENERAL

J. C. STUBBS HARRIMAN'S RIGHT HAND MAN.

Type of Persons Who Build Up Great
Railroads—A Freight Clerk
When Huntington Found Him Years Ago.

New York.—A man with sharp, piercing eyes and a face smooth shaven and heavily lined sat listening to the efforts made by the attorneys for the government at a recent hearing to show that the combination of railroads formed by E. H. Harriman was illegal and should be dissolved under the Sherman act.

At different times the testimony had to do with the peach crop of California, the apples of Washington, the mineral products of Arizona and the alfalfa grown on the plains of Kansas, but no matter what the crop was or where it was grown this man seemed to know more about it than the lawyers or witnesses. This was because he was the railroad traffic director of one of the biggest railroad systems of the country.

J. C. Stubbs is the traffic director of the Harriman lines. He is perhaps the best example in this country of what the railroad traffic man has become, because with the lines acquired by Mr. Harriman, Mr. Stubbs now controls absolutely the traffic moving over 27,000 miles of rail and boat lines, a far greater mileage than it has ever before fallen to any one traffic man to control.

It is the business of a traffic man of a railroad to know not only all there is to know about a railroad itself, how steep its grades are, how many cars can be handled by any of its locomotives and other things about its operation, but he must also know what crops are grown along its lines, what crops might grow and what industries can be fostered in the territory which his system covers. In short, he must know about as much as the census bureau and the department of agriculture combined. It would be a poor traffic man, for instance, who couldn't tell offhand just about how many peaches were produced in a state through which his road passed, but when you are traffic director of a system covering with all its lines more than half of the country this becomes a pretty big job.

The traffic man of the big railroad generally ranks next to the president. Sometimes he is the president, for traffic experts have had the ability recognized by promotion to such places in many instances, as for example, President Ripley of the Santa Fe. In the case of the Harriman lines the president is not the practical traffic man. Among railroad men Mr. Stubbs is frequently spoken of as the traffic brains of Mr. Harriman, and to him have been credited many of the latter's moves.

Stubbs started in when a young man as clerk in the freight office at Oakland. That was back in the '70s, when Collis P. Huntington was building up his railroad system. When he found out how much Stubbs could file away in his head he began to promote him rapidly until he finally became the traffic director of the Southern Pacific, and as such the man who made the rates for the Pacific coast and its two important outlets.

The headquarters of Mr. Harriman's traffic director are in Chicago. From there he gives his orders, which are executed on the boat lines on the Atlantic coast as well as on the rail lines across the western plains, and all the time Mr. Stubbs is watching what the other trans-continental carriers are doing, particularly those dominated by the genius further north, J. J. Hill.

PUZZLE FOR TRAFFIC MEN.

Basket So Large That a Car Which Will Hold It Has Not Yet Been Found.

San Francisco.—The traffic officials of the Northwestern Pacific are much perplexed over a basket that they have been requested to receive for shipment from Ukiah to Brooklyn, N. Y. It is said to be the largest basket in the world and this must be true, for there is some doubt whether it will pass through the tunnels of the Sierra.

The basket is of Indian manufacture and was designed as a storehouse for grain. It is shaped like the usual bushel measure, is mounted on poles to make it inaccessible to rodents and has a huge basketwork cover. It is wider than the door of an ordinary box car, yet it could not be shipped on a flat car, as it would be liable to destruction from the sparks of a locomotive.

The contrivance was purchased from the Indians by Dr. J. W. Hudson of Ukiah and by him sold to the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Science to be installed in its museum. The doctor paid only $25 for the basket, but it is likely to be worth a fortune before it reaches the Atlantic coast.

Taking it for granted that the basket can be moved at all by rail the tariff officials are searching the classification sheets to determine under what rate the shipment would move. Some claim the basket is merely a basket, while others contend that it should move under the classification that includes "parts of grain elevators." Traffic Manager Geary is of the opinion that the thing is a corn crib and should be so billed. In any event, it is too large to get in any ordinary box car and must, therefore, take a minimum weight of 5,000 pounds, although it weighs only 200 pounds.

Big Indian Basket Which is to Be

AFTER SUFFERING TEN YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MARLTON, N.J.—I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me new life. I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, inflammation, ulceration, indigestion, nervousness, and could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or died, when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so I began to take it, and am well again and relieved of all my suffering."—Mrs. GEORGE JORDY, Box 40, Marlton, N.J.

The Wheel of Fortune

BY CLINTON DANGERFIELD

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

The alarmed echoes caught up the crack of Carshalton's rifle, flinging the sound from rock to rock in the ravine below. A second shot followed the first so quickly that they might have been deemed one, but the effect was twofold, for with the first John Rexford reeled in his saddle, with the second his startled horse came crashing to the ground.

The bursting of a rotten girth saved Rexford from being crushed to death, the horse rolling clear of him in its last struggles. As it was, his case was bad enough for his right leg was broken and over him stood Carshalton, seller of all property unsalable things, who was just now about to close a deal on his well-salted "Lady Lu" silver mine which would make him some fifty thousand dollars richer, and the purchaser so much the poorer for the rest of his life.

To be sure, Col. Wayne, the would-be buyer, had sent Rexford to give an expert opinion on the mine. And just here had arisen a serious difference of opinion between Rexford and Carshalton.

Experience had so far justified Carshalton in the belief that experts were of two kinds; either they were fools who knew nothing about the customary mine ruses, and therefore were easily handled, or else they were wise men who, on the receipt of a due consideration, saw everything through rose-colored glasses. Rexford had disconcerted him by belonging to neither class, and had outraged Carshalton by his outspoken remarks concerning the worthlessness of the "Lady Lu" and by contemptuously refusing the heavy bribe delicately offered him.

The victor now coolly proceeded to help himself to the fallen man's papers, especially a written message of warning which Rexford expected to send by wire the instant he reached the foot of the mountain. By a little work this message could be altered to satisfactory wording, and yet appear to be written in Rexford's hand all the way through, this copy being held for proof later.

Rexford, despite his agony, drew his revolver on the vultured-faced sharper approaching him, but a snap was the only result. Carshalton laughed.

"Didn't reckon I'd leave your pistol in fix to spoil the whole thing, did you?" he asked. "Come now—quiet with your hands. You can't stop me. All this is your own fault, anyway, you blamed fool!"

Without more ado he went whistling down the steep mountain road to his horse, fastened 50 yards below. Once mounted, he made all speed possible, though the ground was villainously rocky, set with sharp limestone fragments.

For a few seconds Rexford lay still, in exceeding bitterness of soul. Ordinarily the matter would have been bad enough, but to stand well in Col. Wayne's eyes was more than life to Rexford, since the colonel's pretty daughter idolized her father, and the best passport to her favor was the good will of the father and daughter one. Now both father and daughter would despise him, for on the strength of the telegram he knew Carshalton would send at once, in the expert's own name, the deal would be closed and the colonel practically ruined.

He looked around him in frantic desperation. To the right lay his dead horse, to the left the fragments of an old ox-wagon abandoned by some disgusted bark hauler, who had in vain endeavored to use the discarded mountain road.

The wreckage seemed significant of how little hope he might have of passers-by. Rexford groaned aloud, his wound reminding him that he might die there, so far as Carshalton's mercy went.

He shouted at the top of his voice, again and again, but only the echoes or the shrill cry of frightened woodpeckers answered him. His head dropped on his arms; he abandoned himself to despair for what seemed a century.

Then suddenly the stillness of the mountain woods was broken. Plaintive, sweet, tuned to a monotone, came the voice of a woman.

The melody, dropping like honey of strange sweetness from her lips, was only a wild camp-meeting hymn, but Ellen McArthur's thoughts were not on the church. Wrapped in a maiden dream of her own, not less potentially glamorous for its primeval qualities, she came on swift, bare feet around the corner, and found herself shocked from her visions of love to a comprehension of tragedy.

"Was that you a-hollerin'?" she cried in quick repentance. "I never leaved there wuz anybody in trouble—jest thought 'twas one o' them valley hunters yellin' to his mates. The digits air allers gettin' losted. What's the matter?"

"My leg is broken," said Rexford feverishly. "Look here, girl, there's a man gone ahead of me. He wants to send a message by wire at the station below. Mine must get in first. Take it there before him, and you shall have $500 of your own."

Her eyes flashed fire, not with lust of the money, but with the thought of how easily it would solve the problem of extreme poverty which had so delayed her wedding.

"That feller who's 'tryin' to git his in fust," she returned rapidly, "was he in er gray suit, carryin' er rifle, ridin' a bay?"

"Yes, yes!"

"Too late," said the girl bitterly. "I seed him from the p'int up yonder 15 minutes ago. He'd git thar afore me best I could do!" Then a rich color flooded her face—she laughed out, mellowly, triumphantly. "No, he won't, neither! I'll head him off yet! Quick stranger, gimme your piece er writing."

"I must write it first," gasped Rexford. "But how are you—"

"Don't waste no time talkin'—do it!"

Fired, in spite of his disbelief, with new hope, Rexford, in painful haste, managed to scribble his warning on the back of a torn envelope in pencil.

That finished, he found the girl supporting one of the substantial old wheels of the ox-wagon. She had snatched a long, faded ribbon from her hair, letting down the tumbled masses of black, and now she bound the message firmly to the hub of the wheel and then dictated another to the astounded Rexford:

"Mister Agent, send this soon's you clap eyes on it, er don't you never show yourself near Ellen."

She tied this command securely to Rexford's message, observing sagely that he would understand, meaning the operator.

"But surely," cried Rexford, "you are not so mad as to think you can roll that wheel down the side, blocked as it is by a thousand obstacles?"

"Mad?" said the girl. "I don't git mad very often, stranger."

She vanished behind a huge rock, which on the lower side partially cut off the view of the valley.

Tormented beyond words by an agony of mind worse than that of his body, Rexford actually rose. He was near the boulder. By clinging to its rough surface he managed to attain the other side.

Then he understood her idea. Fifty feet below them began an almost perpendicular tie-chute, or slide, once used for sending white-oak ties to the railroad below. It ran sheer to the track. As far as Rexford could see nothing stood in the way.

The girl having struggled to a good starting point, now stood poised the great wheel. Her long hair blew backward in the wind, her wide eyes were fixed eagerly on the course.

At last, after what seemed to Rexford an age, she loosed it. It bounded wildly forward, while she, glancing upward to her companion, clapped her hands joyously.

"It's gwine!" she cried. "It's gwine! It'll go plum to the very kyar-track, plum into Seth's door! Thar it goes—thar! Thar!"

In anguished suspense, Rexford clung to the boulder, while his companion called out the progress his eyes were too dim to follow.

"See how small it's gittin'—no bigger than mammy's ole platter! You'll hatter go pretty fast, mister man down thar, if you git in fust. Hard work ketchin' up with a woman an' a wheel! Thar, clip! hit's on the track. Hooray! Seth's seed hit—he's on ther kyar-line hisself. I'd know that red shirt of his in a thousan'. He's bendin' over hit!"

She turned and climbed back toward Rexford, tossing the wind-tangled hair from her forehead with satisfaction as she talked. "Don't ye fret, stranger, hit's all right. I reckon I might ez well tell ye—Seth will do anything fer me. He's to be my man. I don't allers run ez wild-lookin' ez you ketched me, fer I had jest slipped down here ter peep at ther office from that big rock. You bet he'll send it. You warn't foolin' me 'bout that money—was you?"

This query was not answered until later, when she met full assurance of her prize. Rexford had fainted.

Below, the astounded agent had barely secured and promptly dispatched the message so cavalierly hurled at him (he happened to be lounging on the platform as the impromptu wheel struck the track) when a horseman galloped up and swung in to the narrow office.

"Send that message, instantly!" he said imperatively, flinging a piece of paper on the table. "Mark it 'rush.'"

The operator read it slowly aloud, to make sure he had deciphered it correctly, then as he sat down he said dryly, with the freedom of the provincial:

"Sort of a contrary-minded feller! Air you his agent?"

Carshalton nodded. "Why?"

"Oh, nothin'; only I jest sent one from him to the same party sayin' the Lady Lu' wuz the biggest swindle out."

Carshalton went purple.

"You lie! He could not, I left him—that is, I know I got here first."

"I ain't disputin' that," returned the agent coolly, his shrewd mind suddenly grasping an inkling of the truth. "He ain't been here, but his message has. Thar's the copy of you un don't believe me."

Carshalton snatched up the shakily scrawled message. "How did it get here?" he asked, burning with suppressed rage.

"How'd it come? It—say, do you want me to send this er not?"

"Damn you—no! How did this come?"

"By the partic'lar post," said the operator, grinning. "See that ole wheel out thar? Smartes' woman in the state sent it down the tie-chute! Come like greased lightning, just afore you turned up, and—say, stranger, but you can swear!"

True Sympathy.

"You are charged with stealing three pairs of trousers," said the judge. "What have you to say for yourself?"

HARDSHIPS OF ARMY LIFE.

The experience of David W. Martin, a retired merchant of Bolivar, Mo., is just like thousands of others. Mr. Martin says: "I think I have had kidney disease ever since the war. During an engagement my horse fell on me, straining my back and injuring the kidneys. I have been told I had a floating kidney. I had intense pain in the back, headaches and dizzy spells, and the action of the bladder very irregular. About three years ago I tried Doan's Kidney Pills and inside of a comparatively short time was entirely rid of kidney trouble."
