UNM News Minute #689 – September 13, 2010

LOBOALERTS IS REPLACING TextMe as UNM's emergency text notification system. This is one piece of a multi-faceted warning system which also includes sirens, e-mail messaging and web page updates. All active University affiliates should login to <http://loboalerts.unm.edu> using their UNM NetID and password. Here users can review and change their data and ensure they receive any alerts. The entire campus notification system will be tested Tuesday, Sept. 14 at 11:02 am.

PETER NABOKOV, Department of World Arts and Cultures at the University of California, Los Angeles, presents, "Dwellings at the Source – Native American Architecture," Monday, Sept. 13 from 5:30 – 6:45 p.m. in George Pearl Hall auditorium. A reception and booksigning precede the event from 4:45 – 5:30 p.m. Nabokov is the author of "Where the Lightning Strikes: The Lives of American Indian Sacred Places," and "Native American Architecture," among others. <http://news.unm.edu/?p=4043>

UNM LIBRARIES RECENTLY acquired the ASARO Collection (Asamblea de Artistas Revolucionarios de Oaxaca) with curated images from the collection by student Mikey De la Rosa to complement fellow student and photographer Michael Wolff's photo narrative "Sonidos de la Frontera." De la Rosa and Wolff will host an exhibition honoring the spirit of Mexican independence featuring their work on Wednesday, Sept. 15 at 5:30 p.m. Admission is free and the public is welcome. A Mexican potluck will be available. <http://news.unm.edu/?p=3687>

THE UNM STUDY ABROAD Fair takes place Thursday, Sept. 16 in the Student Union Building (SUB) lower level atrium from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The event features UNM-sponsored international exchange and intensive language programs, as well as faculty-led programs. <http://news.unm.edu/?p=3859>

THE COALITION FOR Immigration, Race & Social Justice wants the University of New Mexico to start the semester right at the Back2School Summit on Saturday, Sept. 18, 9 a.m. - 2 p.m. Summit organizers aim to encourage dialogue around immigration issues and help students and families develop tools they can bring back to schools and communities. <http://news.unm.edu/?p=3658>

THE UNIVERSITY OF NEW MEXICO will celebrate its 86th annual homecoming, Sept. 28 - Oct. 2, when leisure suits and platform shoes return with the theme, 'Lobo Fever.' The festivities begin Tuesday, Sept. 28 with the annual Campus Decorating Contest. This year, participants have the opportunity to decorate their office lobby, office door or design a record album that best represents their department.
