

University of New Mexico

UNM Digital Repository

Events & News

VIVA Connects

4-27-2018

CDT Trail Days

University of New Mexico Prevention Research Center

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/prc-viva-en>

Recommended Citation

University of New Mexico Prevention Research Center. "CDT Trail Days." (2018).
<https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/prc-viva-en/51>

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the VIVA Connects at UNM Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Events & News by an authorized administrator of UNM Digital Repository. For more information, please contact disc@unm.edu.

CDT Trail Days

April 27, 2018 at 9:00 am

Save the date! Continental Divide Trail (CDT) Days 2018 will be held April 27-29 in Silver City. Join us to explore the Continental Divide, its unique communities and cultures, and the wonderful, wacky world of long-distance hiking. Trail Days is a weekend of festivity that brings together CDT hikers and outdoor enthusiasts in near the southern start of the CDT. Attendees might be kicking off their thru-hike, selling their gear, or representing a community along the trail. It's a chance to learn, celebrate, educate, and meet people from all walks of life.

This year's festival features seminars and presentations during the day on both Friday and Saturday, a gear raffle and happy hour Friday evening, a gear expo Saturday afternoon, a keynote speaker Saturday evening, and a community hike on Sunday.

EVENT LOCATION

Silver City, NM