UNM News Minute # 406 – July 23, 2007

1. TIMOTHY MOY, an associate professor of History at the University of New Mexico, drowned yesterday in an accident while trying to save his son in the surf at Kailua, Hawaii. He was attending a professional conference on the island of Oahu. Moy was a UNM Presidential Teaching Fellow, which is the highest teaching honor the University bestows. He had taught at UNM since 1993 and specialized in teaching the history of science and technology.
