TAKES PROMPT ACTION

Governor Curry's Annual Report to Secretary of Interior Soon Out.

Superintendent of Insurance Jacobo Chaves today revoked the authority of the Bankers Reserve Life Company of Omaha, Neb., to do business in New Mexico and did it in the following forcible letter which needs no further explanation:

Mr. B. H. Robinson, President Bankers Reserve Life Co., Omaha, Neb.

Dear Sir—The time granted to your company to show cause why its authority to transact business in this Territory should not be revoked, upon charges preferred by this department expires this day, R. L. Robinson, vice president of the company has replied in person and this is to advise you that we find the following:

First. That the company has offered through its agents, special inducements in the sale of life insurance.

Second. That the company's attention had been called to these matters by policy holders and that no cognizance of same has been properly taken.

Third. That when the company's attention had been brought by this department the president telegraphed the superintendent of insurance for him or his deputy to come to a city, for a conference, far remote from the office of this department which telegram severely reflects upon the character and honesty of the superintendent of insurance and the integrity of this department.

This is to further advise you that your certificate of authority to transact business in New Mexico is hereby revoked.

Yours very truly,
JACOBO CHAVES,
Superintendent of Insurance,
Notary Public Appointed.

Condition of President John M. Woodward of Merchants Bank is Serious.

Louisville, Nov. 12.—The condition of John K. Woodward, president of the Merchants' National bank of New Albany, and James Tucker, the negro chauffeur, who were shot yesterday by Thomas Jefferson Hall, the boy bandit, when he attempted to rob the bank, is serious this morning. The negro is not expected to live. The boy's father says he is not insane. "He is just mean."

Ball's father added that his son was addicted to the dime novel habit, and read them constantly.

SIX INCHES SNOW AT DENVER

TELEGRAPH INTERRUPTED

Railroads Thus Far Have Experienced No Serious Inconvenience.

FIRST LOVE IS ONLY LASTING LOVE.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 12.—"You can't get around it—the first love is the only lasting one," explained William E. Huson at his home, 2188 California street, when he was asked this morning how it happened that he had remarried his divorced wife, Emma H. Huson, yesterday, just two years after they had been divorced in Billings, Mont.

When found Huson was in his shirt sleeves washing dishes, and his wife cried, "See I have him busy already." Huson looked at her sheepishly and began whirling the dish cloth meditatively. "Well, I am willing to go it for you, since I find that I can't get along without you."

Just like two real Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Huson fondle and caress each other, and they say that they are going to follow the advice of Judge Gavin, who married them yesterday, to the effect that whenever either one of them starts to quarrel the other should walk away.

Mr. and Mrs. Huson lived together the first time for eleven years before they came under the impression that they could no longer live together. That was two years ago yesterday.

To celebrate their parting in the most hefting style, they decided to give the married life another trial and making the same preparations as they did when they were first married thirteen years ago, they wended their way to the court house where Judge Gavin united them in marriage for the second time.

Mrs. Huson was busily engaged in unpacking her trunks that have been stored away ever since the divorce. At various times she would come across things that would remind her of her former marriage days. In spite of there being a third party present, both of them commented upon it and Huson finally said, "Gee! I am glad we did it over again." Mrs. Huson just smiled and hit her husband a playful whack on the cheek.

ILLINOIS DISGRACED BY BRUTAL DOUBLE LYNCHING

Scenes of Savagery Enacted Last Night in the Streets of Cairo—Negro and White Man Guilty of Fiendish Crimes the Victims—Militia Hurried to Section Known as Egypt.

Cairo, Ill., Nov. 12.—After a night made hideous by the lynching of Will James, the negro charged with the murder of Miss Annie Pelley, and Henry Selzner, a white man, charged with the murder of his wife, Cairo is comparatively quiet this morning.

Company K, of the state militia of Cairo, is in charge of the city, and although a mob of 1,500 people is still congregated along the levee, and the saloons are open, no further serious trouble is anticipated. At least five more companies of militia arrived here during the morning, and Governor Deneen who is hurrying to Springfield from Chicago, said over the long distance telephone that more will be ordered to Cairo if needed. Arthur Alexander, the negro implicated in the assault and murder of Miss Pelley by the confession of the lynched negro James, was safely lodged in jail this morning after a night spent with the officers, dressed in officers' clothes fleeing from the furious mob. The mob soon learned that Alexander is in jail and could easily have taken him out and lynched him, but the blood lust seemed to disappear with the coming of dawn, and no attempt was made to get him. What the authorities most fear is that the prejudices aroused by last night's lynchings may result in a repetition of race riots and the destruction of property that characterized the work of the mobs at Springfield, Illinois, and for this reason the troops are being rushed to Cairo to be kept there till all danger of trouble is past.

Mayor Parsons said today that he did not think any officials will be blamed for the lynchings. He said the majority of citizens of Cairo deplored the lynchings, but believed the results to be salutary. "There has not been an official execution in Cairo in ten to fifteen years," he said, "and yet the city has had its share of murders. Juries have failed to convict in homicide cases or have convicted only for minor degrees. In fact murder in Cairo has, I regret to say, been tolerably safe."

Negro Confessed.
James, the negro lynched, was captured at Belknap last night by a mob which compelled the engineer of a locomotive to take its members up the road to a place where it was believed the sheriff had the negro hiding. He refused to make a statement until the rope was around his neck here in Cairo. Then he said: "I killed her, but Alexander took the lead."

Women Pulled the Rope.

The crowd pressed forward and the rope which had been thrown over the steel arch at Eighth and Commercial streets, and which was in the hands of women, screeched and the body jerked a few feet from the ground. The rope broke and the choking negro came tumbling down. The mob by this time was so impatient that its members fell on the negro and riddled him with bullets. The body was dragged more than a mile through the streets to the spot where the crime was committed and burned.

Young Woman Starts Fire.

Before the fire started, which was done by a young woman, the negro's head was cut off and placed on a pole, which was stuck in the ground. The heart was taken out, cut up in small pieces and passed among the men as souvenirs. Pieces of the rope which were soaked in the negro's blood were also handed about. This morning nothing was left of the negro but a pile of bones, but large crowds of women are visiting the spot.

White Man Strung Up.

The lynching of Henry Salzner, a white man for the brutal murder of his wife on August 5th last, was a rebuke to delayed justice. The people asked immediate trial and ever since the case was postponed dissatisfaction has been universal. Salzner killed his wife with an axe. The mob battered down the steel doors of the jail after lynching James, and dragged him into the street. A crowd of women in the mob, loudly called for his execution.

Begged Piteously for Life.

He begged piteously for his life, but was greeted with jeers and blows and a moment later was jerked up and left hanging. The assault and murder of Miss Pelley was one of the most brutal in a long list of murders in this vicinity. It occurred last week. She made a terrible fight for life, as was evidenced by marks of the struggle extending two blocks.

GOOD CROP AT VALLECITOS

Experiment in Wheat Growing at Tres Piedras by Former Ranger a Success.

H. Roberts, mechanical engineer, has returned to Santa Fe from the mining camp of Tusas, Rio Arriba county, where he installed a pump, hoist and cage in the 200 foot shaft of the Tusas Peak Gold Mining and Copper Company on which Colonel Randall of Santa Fe county, is pushing development work with the result that very good-looking copper ore, carrying some gold, is being taken out. Mr. Roberts says that work is also being done on the Sardinia by Robert Pherson. He reports the sadness that Mrs. Pherson died at Tusas. The remains have been taken to Denver for interment.

Work on the placers at Hopewell has been suspended for the winter, but Mr. Roberts and associates have interested themselves in the development of several placer claims near Hopewell.

Mr. Roberts reports good crops in that part of Rio Arriba county. Former Ranger Charles H. Berry has had good success in growing wheat at Tres Piedras, although he planted the crop late. Vallecitos had a good crop of potatoes. Michael Sullivan garnered a fine crop of hay. Edward Camp shipped 800 head of cattle and Tomas Gonzales 2,000 head of sheep. Mr. Roberts is convinced that Rio Arriba county is on the eve of considerable development.

SECRETARY NAGEL REVERSES CAMPBELL.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor, in discussing today the functions of the naturalization division of his department, took a position opposite from that embodied in a recent ruling of Chief Campbell of that division on the naturalization of Syrians. Mr. Nagel declared that the function of the naturalization division was to present facts and not to attempt to enforce any particular interpretation of the law.

Mr. Nagel said there was no reason for any action on the part of the department antagonistic to any race of immigrants. Court decisions have been rendered in states as far apart as California, Louisiana and Rhode Island favorable to the Syrians.

POWER SITES WITHDRAWN

Secretary of the Interior Ballinger Issues Order Affecting New Mexico.

LEGISLATION BY CONGRESS

Until Then Public Land Included Will not Be Subject to Entry.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Secretary Ballinger today issued an order for the conservation of water power rights on public lands, withdrawing more than 8,000 acres located in Montana, Idaho, Colorado, Washington, Wyoming and New Mexico. The land now being in the public domain will probably be affected by legislation to be enacted by the next Congress, but until Congress decides just what is to be done with the land and the terms upon which it is to be utilized, the secretary will keep a tight hold. The land withdrawn includes 3,584 acres on the Gunnison river, and tributaries in Colorado and the Rio Grande tributaries in New Mexico, and 712 acres along the Green river and tributaries in Wyoming.

Wants Pinchot to Resign.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Secretary of the Interior Ballinger called on President Taft this afternoon and was closeted with him for sometime. Secretary Dickinson and Secretary Nagel were also present. It was reported that Secretary Ballinger had formally asked the President to remove Gifford Pinchot as chief of the forest service.

SAVING LIVES OF CHILDREN

Conference for Prevention of Infant Mortality at New Haven.

WORK OF THE INSTITUTIONS

Homes for Mothers and Babies in Large Cities Are Advocated.

New Haven, Nov. 12.—Let us establish homes for mothers and their children, where both can receive proper care." This was the plea made by various speakers at today's session of the conference for prevention of infant mortality. The session was devoted to a discussion of institutional prevention of death among babies.

Homes for Mothers and Babies.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 12.—The institutional care of babies who are in normal health, and the unnecessary separation of mother and child were strongly condemned at the Conference on Prevention of Infant Mortality this morning by Homer Folks, of New York, the secretary of the New York Charities Aid Association, and the chairman of the session on institutional prevention.

The placing-out system for mothers and children together, and the hospital care for babies too ill to receive proper attention at home were advocated instead. It is essential, however, he declared, that the babies' hospital be associated with an agency for returning the babies to family care after a short period of hospital life, as for some reason not yet wholly clear few babies withstand long-continued residence, even in a hospital of the highest excellence.

In his introductory address Mr. Folks referred to the fact that institutions for children have been of two classes—those established primarily to give the baby a home, and these established for the hospital care of sick babies. "The first class of institutions, while receiving motherless infants and babies whose mothers are physically unable to care for them," he said, "have always received the largest proportion of their inmates from the illegitimate classes and one of the primary considerations has been the supposed protection of the unfortunate mother and of her relatives. It is a matter of common knowledge that among this class of institutions the mortality has always tended to be very high. One of the most striking instances is that of the St. Petersburg Foundling Hospital, founded in 1770. During the first eighteen years of its existence it received 28,436 babies. During the same period of years 24,272 of these babies, or about 85 per cent perished in the institution.

"It is commonly supposed that with a better knowledge of infant feeding and a more humane management of

WHISKEY BOTTLE PRECIPITATES ROW

Attempt to Make Bar Room Out of Waiting Room

HOTEL PORTER LAID COLD

Agent Lutz and His Assistant Take Part in a Short But Lively Battle.

Last evening at about six-thirty the passengers at the Santa Fe depot were treated to a rather unusual but thoroughly spirited sight. The spectacle was nothing more nor less than a fist encounter between Felix Sandoval the day porter at the Palace hotel, and Agent H. S. Lutz and his assistant George Dixon of the Santa Fe. The row had its inception in an incident that took place in the waiting room of the station. Luis Archuleta, a citizen of Albuquerque, who intended leaving for the Duke City on the evening train, was in possession of a good sized bottle of fire water, a large portion of which he had previously consumed. Being in a happy frame of mind he proceeded to treat his friends and various parties around the depot were invited in to have a taste. The bottle was passing around freely and considerable noise was being made, when Agent Lutz appeared on the scene and grabbed the bottle from the hands of Archuleta and threw it out into the street. He then ordered Archuleta to leave the waiting room and go on the outside. This Archuleta did but Sandoval, the porter of the Palace hotel, who had come to the depot to look after passengers, who intended coming to the Palace hotel, took it upon himself to resent the manner in which Archuleta was being treated. Accompanying Archuleta he led him to the ladies waiting room but finding the door locked commenced trying to kick it in. At this Lutz again appeared but Sandoval turned upon him and cursed him roundly and used other vile and obnoxious language. Becoming enraged Lutz set sail and pitched into him and soon had him on the ground using him as a pounding board. Lutz was pulled away but Sandoval insisted upon fighting. George Dixon, an employee at the depot appeared at this time, and without losing a moment he planted a mighty left swing on the point of Sandoval's chin. The wallon did its duty for the hotel porter dropped like a log and was still in the land of dreams when some of his friends carried him away. Archuleta who had become beastly drunk, had gone back to the waiting room during the fight and later was found on the floor sound asleep. But before retiring he had succeeded in giving the waiting room the appearance of a pig pen. The city police were called and the man was taken to the jail. Sandoval was not arrested but as a result of his spiffication he lost his job as porter at the Palace hotel.

ABIDING FAITH IN THE COURTS

Hopes for Re-Incarnation of the Magna Charta and Constitution of United States.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—"Either we have the right of free speech and free press or we have not, and we want the court to say so. Whether we go to jail I do not know." Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor thus expressed himself today in telling the Federation convention the status of the contempt proceedings under which he, Vice President Mitchell and Secretary Morrison have been sentenced to jail. "I have an abiding faith in the justice of our courts," he added, "and I can only express the hope that a higher court of our land will immortalize itself by a reincarnation of the Magna Charta and the Constitution of the United States."

THE DAILY ROUND UP.

RESIGNATION.

(By Bliss Carman.)
When I am only fit to go to bed,
Or hobble out to sit within the sun,
Ring down the curtain, say the play
is done,
And the last petals of the poppy shed!
I do not want to live when I am old,
I have no use for things I cannot love;
And when the day that I am talking of (Which God forbend!) is come, it will be cold,
But if there is another place than this,
Where all the men will greet me as
"Old Man,"
And all the women wrap me in a smile,
Where money is more useless than a kiss,
And good wine is not put beneath the ban,
I will go there and stay a little while.

GET BUSY AND BOOST THE FAIR CITY OF SANTA FE.

Get busy and boost for Santa Fe our own home town,
Don't stand on the corner and run
our fair city down,
Don't cuss the officials and say the town's dead,
That is only what the foolish sorehead
has said,
But boost our fair city and push it ahead,
And let the knocker knock until he is dead.

Get busy and boost, make Santa Fe
the best place,
Don't stand around with a long drawn face,
Don't knock on those who are strong
in faith,
Get yourself together and boost the place,
Boost like a good fellow, never say fail,
Let the knocker knock until he gets stale.

Get busy and boost for Santa Fe's own rights,
Don't join the knockers in their petty fights,
But stand up like a man and fight for justice and rights,
For the city will be blessed by the fruits of such stalwart knights,
Who will strive to make the city a shining light,
So let the knocker knock until he is put to flight.

Boost for Santa Fe our home-town,
help win the fight,
Boost all the time with all your force
and might,
Build up our city a shining light,
Turn on the knockers and put them
to flight,
They'll bump their heads as they drop out of sight,
For the knocker will knock and you can't put him right.

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Santa Fe readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

Pasquale Yanni, College street, Santa Fe, N. M., says: "In 1902 I gave a public testimonial in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills to the effect that they had cured me of a pain in my back, caused by disordered kidneys. My work obliges me to sit down a good deal and this weakened my kidneys, causing much backache. While at work I suffered more intensely than at any other time and I was very anxious to find a remedy that would relieve me. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at Stripling, Burrows & Co.'s drug store and to my delight, they soon fixed me up in good shape. During the past seven years I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine."

WAS MAKING THE ROUND OF SALOONS.

That is the Kind of Alibi That Florencio Pfeiffer Sets Up as Defense Against the Crime.

Albuquerque, N. M., November 12. One of the strongest links in the chain of evidence in the case of the Territory versus Florencio Pfeiffer, on trial in the district court, charged with assault upon Mrs. Goldie Majorbanks, was forged yesterday afternoon when Procopio Nuanes, arrested for complicity in the crime testified that he and Pfeiffer were both guilty as charged. Nuanes corroborated in almost every detail the testimony of Mrs. Majorbanks and her husband regarding the affair. The testimony given by Nuanes yesterday was undoubtedly the strongest evidence presented for the prosecution during the trial. With his mind at ease as the result of his action in pleading guilty Wednesday to all the indictments returned against him by the grand jury, charging complicity in the assault, Nuanes proceeded, under the direction of District Attorney Klock, to give a detailed story of what happened from the time he first met Pfeiffer some time after 7:30 in the evening, until they parted shortly before midnight at the Alamo saloon on South First street.

The testimony given by Nuanes dovetailed almost exactly with that of other witnesses for the Territory, notably that of Mr. and Mrs. Majorbanks. Nuanes did not attempt to shield himself from blame, but intimated at various points in his story that Pfeiffer was the leading spirit in the affair, had suggested it to him and taken the prominent part all the way through.

After the Territory had announced the completion of its case, the work of presenting the defense was commenced by John A. White, attorney for Pfeiffer. Efforts were made through the testimony of several witnesses to prove an alibi for Pfeiffer. Pfeiffer was placed on the stand in his own defense and swore that he was not at Alamo on the night of June 24, and that he had never seen Mrs. Majorbanks or her husband until 5 o'clock on June 25, when he saw them at the city police station. Led by the questions of Attorney White, Pfeiffer gave a detailed account of his movements from the morning of June 24 until midnight of that same day. Pfeiffer declared he spent the morning at home and in the afternoon had driven his mother and another lady to Alameda, where he remained until 6 o'clock, returning to Albuquerque between 6:30 and 7. It was after 7 when he finished his supper. After that he fixed his buggy and then went to town, where he visited several saloons on North Third street, meeting George Harris, colored, and Procopio Nuanes. Between 8:30 and 9 o'clock the three men, according to Pfeiffer's testimony, went to the Crystal theater on Gold avenue, saw the show and then visited other saloons, separating for the night some time before midnight.

Pfeiffer was questioned by his counsel regarding his past life. The prisoner stated that he had been convicted for assault upon the person of another man in 1904 and that he had served eight months in the Santa Fe penitentiary as the result of the conviction.

Pfeiffer's mother testified regarding his movements on the day and evening of June 24, a woman named Anastacia Garcia testified that she saw him about 8 o'clock in the business section of the city; Felipe Trujillo, a deputy sheriff, living at San Jose, testified that on the evening of June 24, George Rossman, a witness for the Territory, stated to him that the two men whom he saw leading Mrs. Majorbanks away, looked to him like Americans.

W. P. Willets, at present awaiting sentence for larceny, was brought from the county jail and placed on the stand as a witness for the defense in order to testify regarding a certain letter, written by Willets for Procopio Nuanes, to Attorney White, declaring that he, Nuanes, had made a statement or written confession in the presence of District Attorney Klock which was not true. Willet's testimony, however, was less damaging than it might have been, because of the fact that Nuanes, during his turn on the witness stand testified that he had written the letter at the request and solicitation of Pfeiffer, who told him that they could both get out of the trouble if he wrote the communication.

On cross examination Willets admitted that he had pleaded guilty in court Monday to stealing a team of horses from J. E. Bell, that he had embezzled $125 from W. S. Love, and that he had signed the name of "Jack" Bishop, to bills of sale.

At 5 o'clock an adjournment was taken until 9:30 this morning, at which time Pfeiffer will be turned over to the Territory for cross-examination. It is expected that two hours of this morning's session will be devoted to the work of introducing rebuttal. Closing arguments by counsel will require some three hours and it is not likely that the case will go to the jury before 3 or 4 o'clock this afternoon.

STRENGTHENING BONDS BETWEEN WESTERN REPUBLICS.

Fourth of Series of Great Conference to Take Place at Buenos Aires in Argentine Republic.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The fourth of a series of great conferences that are steadily strengthening the bonds between the republics of the western hemisphere is to be held in Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic, between the 15th and 20th of next July, and already the Argentine government, which is to be the host in this case, has been doing much to prepare for the meeting. The date originally fixed for the fourth international conference of American states was May 20th, 1910, but the fact that a great exposition was to be held in the same capital in that month, which might overshadow the importance of the international conference, led to the postponement of the latter. Moreover the month of July, being in the middle of the Argentine winter, is certain to make the visit to Buenos Aires more agreeable to the delegates from the north.

The governing board of the Bureau of American Republics already has dispatched to every South and Central American capital a tentative program of the subjects to be considered by the conference and the various foreign offices have been at work upon this with the purpose of submitting objections or suggesting amendments. Much progress has been made and it is hoped that it soon will be possible to promulgate the final program, which according to present indications will not vary considerably from that prepared by the board of governors.

The three preceding conferences have moved along the lines of least resistance; that is to say, the delegates have adopted as basic principles such propositions as have secured the easy adhesion of the great majority but no effort was made to coerce the minority of the states into acceptance of rules which, at first presentation, were obnoxious to them. Instead, when these were of real importance, they were thoroughly debated and then remanded for further consideration at the next conference. In this way the conferences have been made educational, and experience has shown that a sound proposition is almost certain to secure adhesion. So it happens that the tentative program includes some subjects that already have figured in the debates of the preceding conferences. Thus, for instance, will again come up the subject of compulsory arbitration. While the Hague conference accepted this in principle it declined to recommend a general treaty of arbitration, though strongly urging to the states represented the making of special treaties among themselves to carry out the idea. The United States already has done this with eleven of the other American republics, and the subject will come before the fourth conference and receive further encouragement.

ment at the beginning of the proceedings, when each delegation will be required to report what action has been taken by their respective governments to carry out the wish of the third conference.

Another project broached at a preceding meeting which will be again threshed out will be the establishment of steam navigation lines connecting the principal ports of the American countries, on the basis of a uniform system of contract.

The Bureau of American Republics is to be strengthened and continued for another ten year term of life at the least and it is hoped that the commission of international jurists will be able to report something in the nature of a code of international law that will be adopted for the government of the American Republics in their diplomatic relations. If this report is satisfactory the fourth conference will embody in a treaty this basic code, which is expected to have the happiest results in the settlement of any disturbing questions that may arise in the future between the republics.

The Pan-American railway; postal rates and parcel posts; a uniform system of collection of census and commercial statistics and consular methods; supervision of food supply; the protection of the public health and the regulation of rates of international exchange are other matters left by preceding conferences for the consideration of that which is to meet at Buenos Aires.

Now and up-to-date subjects are wireless telegraphy and aerial navigation, for it has begun to be realized by the governing board that there soon will be need of regulations for the government of these new modes of communication and travel. An effort also will be made to arrive at some sound basis of regulation of foreign immigration and naturalization and to define real neutrality in time of war.

The prospects for a successful conference are bright in the opinion of the officials of the Bureau of American Republics. One cloud that threatened was the breach of relations between Argentina and Bolivia. But it is believed that even if the efforts now making to re-establish these relations should prove abortive yet as the host, Argentina on this occasion would regard herself as the representative of all the American republics and waiving all personal considerations, gracefully extend to Bolivia the invitation which would secure the attendance of her delegates at the conference.

DARK HORSE GETS

NORTH DAKOTA SENATORSHIP. Bismark, N. D., Nov. 12.—Fountain L. Thompson of Cando, N. D., was appointed United States Senator by Governor Burke to fill out the unexpired term of Senator M. H. Johnson, who died three weeks ago.

The appointment of Mr. Thompson, Democrat, was somewhat a surprise, as he was a dark horse in the race. The announcement was made after a long conference, in which the leading Democrats of the state participated. Mr. Thompson is a close personal friend of Governor Burke, and it is said that his appointment was decided upon after it was seen that the Democratic leaders were hopelessly divided as to a choice for Senator.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

ROBINSON INVENTS A NEW GAME

Will Robinson has a good deal of fun in the last number of the Roswell Register-Tribune over the story sent out by a zealous Roswell correspondent that he had been offered the governorship of New Mexico. He sets forth what he would do if he really were governor, and thus devises a game at which every one of the 350,000 inhabitants of the territory can play. Governor Curry will assure every participant that the game is more fun than the real thing. There are six things that Robinson would do, and he says:

"We propose that local option shall be among the first enactments of the legislature.

"We propose to get in behind the codification and rearrangement of the territorial laws.

"We propose to have created at once if not sooner a territorial railroad and warehouse commission.

"We intend to give almost all of the jobs to residents of the Pecos valley.

"We will give careful hearing to the words of all of the prominent politicians of the territory—and then do as we think right.

"We are going after the tax dodgers."

The platform is simple and isn't even new for the last legislative assembly was called upon to do the first three things and failed miserably in that respect; the fourth, Governor Hagerman tried to do already in his time; the fifth Governor Curry has followed and the sixth has been the subject of more or less effort on the part of all Republican governors.

Robinson therefore would not be revolutionary nor would he inaugurate a reign of terror, although in glancing over the list of appointees he proposes there is apparent a wholesale slaughter of innocents and the basket would be full of heads. He proposes Louis O. Fullen for attorney general, which is not a new proposition for Fullen had been mentioned for the job previously and would make a good one. He would retain Territorial Secretary Nathan Jaffa, Land Commissioner R. P. Ertvin and Territorial Engineer V. L. Sullivan, but otherwise, new material, Republican and Democrat, male and female would get a show.

It's a great game, an instructive game, a game at which every citizen should try his hand even if only to learn eventually of the many blunders which time would prove he would have made had he followed his own inclination in the first place.

The decision of the French minister of justice to adopt for criminal trials in France the procedure in vogue in Anglo-Saxon countries seems wise to those who have followed the ludicrous proceedings in the Steinhilf murder trial. However, in one particular, the French procedure seems to be preferable, and that is the fact that it generally assures a swift trial; that under it the delays which permit a criminal case to be dragged along for ten years in the courts, are unlikely to be tolerated. In civil procedure, too, the French method has its advantages in permitting the introduction of hearsay and opinion evidence. Too often, by skillful questioning and by cutting off complete explanatory answers to questions, witnesses testify to the truth of something that they themselves do not believe, which is reducing the evidence in such instance to an absurdity, if not a monstrous wrong. Under the French procedure the witness is permitted to tell what his belief and opinion really are and thus much light is thrown upon the bits of testimony elicited from him by the attorneys.

It is pleasing to note that the Santa Fe system continues to advertise the city of Santa Fe and that it is more disposed to acknowledge the name and fame of Santa Fe as a business getter.

As a general thing the men that are in local charge of railroad business want to do the square thing by the people; and as a rule the people want to do the square thing by the railroads.

But the trouble is that too often railroad affairs are not controlled by the men that are in close touch with the people, but by officials who are out of sympathy with local feelings and ignorant of local conditions. Thus gradually there grows up a sentiment of distrust and too often of enmity, and agitators and demagogues find it easy to use such conditions to their own advantage.

There is more than one reason why the Santa Fe and the other railroad systems centering here should strive to do the fair thing by the Capital City of the Territory of New Mexico.

THE REPRIEVE OF SANTOS ORTIZ

There may be some criticism of Governor Curry for extending for another sixty days the reprieve of Santos Ortiz, who had been sentenced to hang on October 15, but the great mass of citizenship will agree with him that the poor man condemned for crime should be given equal opportunity to have his case reviewed by the higher tribunals as the well-to-do man; that the degree of crime has nothing to do with such opportunity and that there should be no distinction in that respect between the so-called Anglo-Saxon and the so-called Mexican. Two men were condemned to hang at the same time at Silver City. One, because he had the means, the friends, the knowledge, appealed immediately to the supreme court and thus secured a stay until after that court would reach his case which might not be for a year, and the other because he was poor, had no friends who knew how to proceed, was to have been hanged to the gallows on October 15 of this year. Governor Curry may not be long on principles of law, but he has an innate sense of justice, and he was not going to repeat the error of Governor Hagerman who refused a second reprieve that poor Jack Conley asked to enable him to secure a review of his case, and was hanged under the most brutal circumstances at Taos. It is because capital punishment may inflict irretrievable and monstrous injustice that so many people oppose it and when ever it is imposed, the convicted man, no matter how apparent his guilt, how brutal his crime, should be given an opportunity to have his case reviewed by a court removed from the influences which naturally sway any jury summoned in the county in which the crime was committed.

IMAGINATION HELPS TO BUILD A CITY.

"What builds a city?" asks the Kansas City Star. It answers its own question with the one word, "Imagination," and quoted Napoleon who said: "Nothing but imagination. Imagination rules the world!" Without the imagination of the men who really built Kansas City, there would be only a village where the Kansas flows into the Missouri. The Star says that imagination is as big and palpable an asset for a city as is a city hall, a railroad, a union depot or an assessment roll. And that is the best answer to those pessimists who laugh at the imagination that sees a modern, sanitary, well-governed, wealthy, populous city where Santa Fe now stands; who disprove with long rows of figures the feasibility of building and conducting a paying tourist hotel of high class in Santa Fe; who sneer at the things that have been done for the city by those who have imagination and belittle the beginnings of such big things as the School of Archaeology, and the fuss that is made over Santa Fe's manifold attractions. The city without imagination is as dead as the man who wants to have an iron clad bond guaranteeing profit before he will support a movement for public improvement or for the public good. The commonwealth has just as much use for that sort of a town as the town has for that sort of a man.

The meeting of the territorial central committee of the Democratic party at Phoenix, has started something among the Democrats in Arizona. It wasn't exactly what the fellows who were howling for a meeting of the committee at an off season had looked for. All they had wanted to do is to awaken some interest to galvanize the corpse of Democracy, to harmonize the yawning differences, but instead they started a rumour within the committee between the Bryanites and the conservatives. The radicals want to deliver the party, bound hand and foot to Bryan, the conservatives of course, oppose tooth and nail any such proposition. Instead of the harmony, therefore, which the meeting of the committee was to create, it has merely shown how far apart the individuals and factions really are and how bitter the strife within the party ranks. Now the fellows that had hollered for a committee meeting wish they hadn't.

The Great Southwest has moved from Denver to Kansas City and appears a better magazine for it, but the New Mexican is sorry, for Denver is nearer to New Mexico than Kansas City, and Denver should be the home of some great magazine, representative of the spirit of the Rocky mountains. At Kansas City, the field of the Great Southwest broadens out but for that very reason it will appeal less to the people of this immediate section.

A REIGN OF TERROR.

A sense of uneasiness must possess law abiding people when they read of one bank robbery after another committed in broad day light in large towns, of burglars escaping with their loot, of bank officials seeking to protect their property being murdered in cold blood while bank customers stand by helplessly and the assassin makes his escape. The crime at New Albany, Ind., yesterday, was especially revolting. New Albany is a large bustling city; the bank attacked by a burglar single-handed was crowded with customers and half a dozen employees were busy in the banking room, and yet, the one individual with two revolvers in his hands cowed them all, killed the cashier, shot the president and in leaving shot in the back a chauffeur who refused him the service of an automobile standing in front of the bank. The same day, a bank in Texas was robbed of $30,000 in cash and the robbers made good their escape with their loot. There seems to be no remedy except the remote one of prohibiting, or at least restricting the sale of small fire arms, a policy which would be opposed by the manufacturers and dealers in such arms. But there is really no necessity of any one but a law officer carrying a revolver or of any one but a soldier or a hunter possessing a gun. In foreign countries, every weapon of that kind is registered and can not be carried by any one who does not possess a certificate, nor dare one be sold to any one without a permit. While this does not prevent crime altogether and murders do occur, yet the supervision thus maintained generally leads to the quick detection of those who use fire arms to commit crime.

In Denver where the assessment rate is much higher than it is at Santa Fe, the tax levy for 1909 is 14.5 mills for municipal purposes. The regular tax levy of Santa Fe is limited by law to 10 mills.

Yet it would take more than the lower assessment and lower tax rate to induce the people of Denver to move to Santa Fe. The point is that Denver tax payers get their money's worth; Santa Fe tax payers do too, but are unwilling to tax themselves as do those of Denver for those things that make life in Denver attractive, healthful and desirable to so large a multitude. However, the comparison should disprove the howl of those who grouse continually about the taxes they must pay, when in reality had they the same amount of property in another territory or state of the Union they would have to pay two to three times as much in dollars and cents each year in order to square their tax bill.

The Democratic organ at Albuquerque believes in the old maxim that to him who has shall be given. It complains that the school funds derived from the leasing of territorial school lands are distributed among the counties according to the school census and not according to the assessment returns; it wants the rich counties to get more of the money than the poor counties, although one of the objects of the territorial school fund is to assist the poorer school districts. It would deprive the poor rural school districts which have no assessable wealth in order that the money might be given to the districts which have plenty of rich rich men and plenty of taxable wealth. It is a queer doctrine but characteristically Democratic.

A dispatch from Washington announces that President Taft has decided not to make or announce any important federal appointments until after New Year and when Congress has gotten down to real work. Even the place on the supreme bench made vacant by the death of Judge Peckham, and the appointment of minister to China which has been waiting some time, will not be made until early next year. This means that New Mexico will be on the anxious seat for at least two months longer and in the meanwhile the political forecaster will be kept exceedingly busy.

To his great sorrow, President Taft has gained several pounds on his 13,000 mile trip, and is now devising ways and means of getting rid of it by strenuous exercise in golf. He should invite territorial statehood committees to visit him as well as the friends of candidates for various federal offices in the territories, during the next few months. He would have as much fun and lose as much flesh as he would playing golf from morn to eve.

Canada is ambitious to possess a fleet. Canada is well secured from attack except on part of the United States. A fleet for Canada therefore can mean but one of two things: Either Canada fears that some day Uncle Sam may want to attack it, or it is dreaming of the day when it might be called upon to wage warfare upon Uncle Sam. Fleets are costly playthings and for nations like Canada may even prove dangerous.

Whatever the provocation for the double lynching at Cairo, Illinois, last night, no such scenes of savagery have been witnessed in New Mexico since Geronimo and his Apaches have been put out of business. Still, there are people in Illinois and from Illinois, who are of the opinion that New Mexico is too crude to be admitted to the same privileges of statehood that Illinois has enjoyed for so many years.

Which are You Paying For?

The Big Load or the Little Load.

If you have an ordinary heater you are buying the big load of soft coal where the small load would be sufficient fuel to produce the same amount of heat in the

WILSON HEATER.

The celebrated Hot Blast Down-Draft in the Wilson produces perfect combustion and the burnable fumes which escape in other heaters are consumed in the Wilson, so that every shovelful of coal in the Wilson Heater will produce 40 per cent more heat than the same amount of coal in other heaters.

No one likes to waste money—why throw away 40 per cent on every dollar you spend for fuel.

INTIMATES THAT PRESIDENT TAFT IS HENPECKED.

United States is Governed by a Woman Says Marie Corelli in Brilliant Tribute.

London, Nov. 12.—In one of the most remarkable eulogies of American women an English woman ever delivered, Marie Corelli, who was the guest of honor at the annual luncheon of American women in London, held at the Hotel Cecil last night, in response to the toast of her health, said:

"American women in London, are a recognized force in our English social life. There is hardly any society function of importance that it is not graced and enlivened by the presence of some brilliant American women."

"Our golden youth, whose gold some times is apt to be rather scarce, are always ready to fall prostrate at the feet of every American heiress, but we must occasionally give them credit for falling victims first to the charm of the American woman's personality, without her dollars, for her charm is always there."

Arise Like Venus.

"The American women are not quite like other women. The same emotions move her as moved Mother Eve, but differently. She is absolutely original; she is not the daughter of an ancient kingdom, rich in history, literature and tradition, which felt the hand of the Roman conqueror before the Christian era. She has arisen, as it were, suddenly, miraculously, like Venus from the foam of the sea. She is the offspring of a land of liberty, a young country teeming with ideas."

"I have never come across a dull American woman. Some witty person said: 'Dullness is the only unpardonable crime.' It is a crime of which the American woman never is guilty. She sparkles, scintillates like a diamond. Where many women of other nations are like jewels in their way they forget to shine."

Greater Than Suffrage.

"I quite believe that President Taft's recent confession that his wife rules him is testimony of this clever man to his wife's ability and discernment. Surely this is a greater triumph for American women than if they would gain suffrage. It proves that Mrs. Taft and not Mr. Taft is the ruler of the greatest republic in the world."

"Courtesy to women is the special vogue with a great many American men. They have a way of making things pleasant for women all around. There was but one woman on the Mayflower and she was the darling of the Pilgrims. They tried their best to be sweet and kind to her, therefore, all the descendants of those Pilgrims have been chivalrous ever since."

S.S.S. RIDES THE SYSTEM OF CATARRH

Catarrh comes as a result of impurities and morbid matter in the circulation, and is a disease that only attacks mucous membrane. The entire inner portion of the body is lined with a delicate skin or covering of soft, sensitive flesh. Thousands of tiny blood vessels are interlaced throughout this mucous surface, and it is through these that the inner membrane receives its nourishment and is kept in healthful condition. When, however, the blood becomes infected with catarrhal impurities the tissues become diseased and Catarrh gets a foothold in the system. The early stages of Catarrh are characterized by such symptoms as a tight, stuffy feeling in the head, watery eyes, buzzing noises in the ears, with partial deafness and often difficult breathing and chronic hoarseness. These are merely symptoms, and while sprays, inhalations and other local treatment may temporarily relieve them, Catarrh cannot be cured until the blood is purified of the exciting cause. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impure catarrhal matter. It goes down into the circulation and attacks the disease at its head, and removes every particle of the catarrhal impurity. Then the mucous linings are all supplied with fresh, pure blood, and allowed to heal, instead of being kept in a constant state of irritation by the catarrhal matter. Special book on Catarrh and any medical advice free.

THE FORUM.

No part of our history is more neglected and hence less understood than that of the glorious Privateers, who in both of our wars with England, rendered such magnificent service to the republic. When we remember that Great Britain at that time, claimed to be the mistress of the ocean, and enforced that claim with the most unscrupulous tyranny—utterly regardless of the rights of the other maritime powers, who were unable to defend themselves, some idea may be formed of the tremendous task that lay before America when she attempted to dispute the haughty assumptions of the British enemy. Two of the British claims were "The Right of Search," and "Once a Subject Always a Subject;" under the former British sailors boarded vessels of all nations (like pirates) regardless of the protests of their captains, captured and carried away any of the crews they pleased; especially if they were on American ships, insisting that they were British subjects and as such could not abjure their allegiance and become citizens of any other nation. I may say, here, that an uncle of mine was forcibly dragged out of an American ship, forced into the British navy, and served against his will for five years before he had an opportunity to escape. It must not be supposed that these captures were exclusively of adopted citizens, as thousands of native born citizens were also treated in the same outrageous manner. Here is what Spears says, in his "History of our Navy," on the subject:

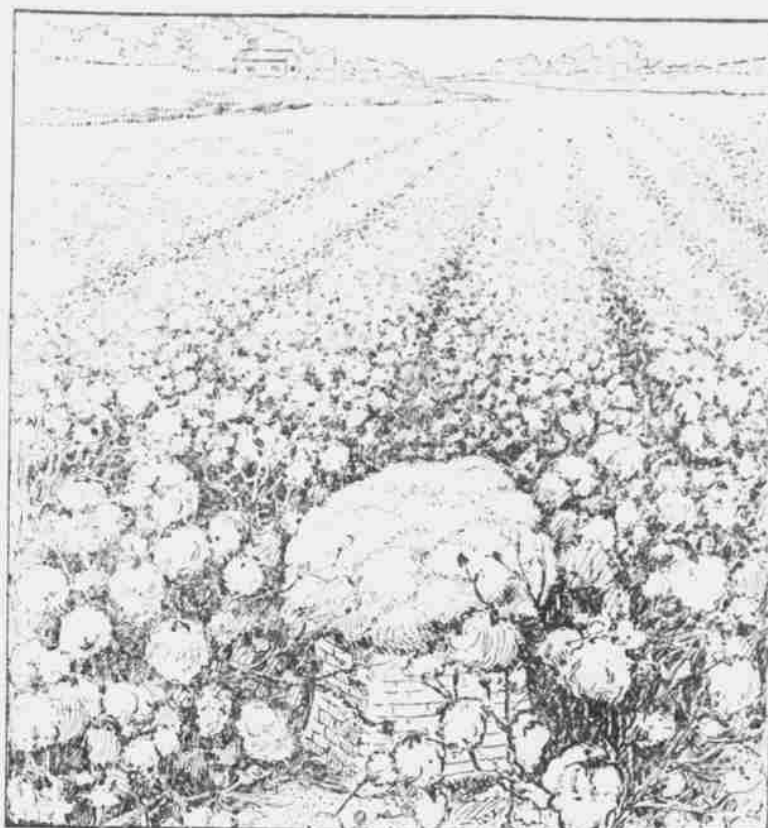

"The results of these brutal press-gang assaults upon American seamen—seem as seems the patience of the American people—almost incredible." After giving certain facts the British figures on the matter, he continues, "And what is the moderate conclusion drawn from these facts? It is that more than 20,000 free American men were forced into the service of the British navy by these press-gangs. Their fate, save in a few cases, is unrecorded, but we know that some met the perils of the deep and were lost. Many were sent to the fever coasts of Africa, and there died. Some were flogged to death at the order of officers who laughed at their tortures."

Now, how were these foul, barbarous infamies to be redressed? When the revolution began, the colonists had no navy at all, and had no means of building one. But American ingenuity came to the rescue in this way. Where the new-born republic found itself almost helpless, private individuals began to arm their own vessels and under commissions, called letters of marque, issued by the government, made war on the trade ships of the enemy. Macanlay in his "History of American Privateers," says:

"A few general statements will show that in both wars with England our Privateers were a most important if not predominating feature of our early sea power. In our first struggle the government war vessels—built, purchased or hired—numbered 47, or, including the flotilla on Lake Champlain, 64 vessels of all kinds, carrying a total of 1242 guns and swivels. This force captured 196 vessels. Of the Privateers there were 792, carrying more than 13,000 guns and swivels. These captured or destroyed about 600 British vessels. In the War of 1812, the regular navy of the United States on the ocean numbered only 23 vessels, carrying in all 556 guns. This force captured 254 of the enemy's craft. In the same period we had 517 Privateers, aggregating 2,893 guns, which took no fewer than 1,300 prizes. Looking at it from a financial point of view, we find that the money value of the prizes and cargoes taken by the government cruisers during the revolution was less than $6,000,000, and for the Privateers about $18,000,000. In the second war with England we find the money value of government prizes was $6,600,000, while that of the Privateers was $39,000,000. Taking the entire maritime forces of the United States—both navy and Privateers—into consideration, we find that about 800 vessels were captured from the British in the war for independence, valued at $23,880,000, while the prisoners could not have been short of 16,000; and in the second war with England the value of the prizes was $15,600,000 while there were no less than 30,000 prisoners. Against these figures we have some 22,000 prisoners taken by our land forces during the revolution, and about 6,000 in the War of 1812. To the American people, who for generations have been taught that our independence was achieved almost entirely by the efforts of our land forces, and that the War of 1812 was brought to a creditable close principally by the operations of our armies, these statements of the comparative value and amount of work done on land and sea will prove a matter of surprise."

By this time the quondam "Missress of the Seas," recognized that she had lost that title forever, and that her despised American antagonist was now to assume the title she had lost. Now let us see what the Britishers have to say on the matter. Macanlay continues:

"A careful review of British newspapers, periodicals, speeches in parliament, and public addresses for the periods covered by these two wars will show that our land forces, in the estimation of the British, played a very insignificant part, while our sea forces were constantly in their minds when 'the American war' was under discuss-

The Swine or the Flower?

Oh me! I saw a huge and loathsome sty,
Wherein a drove of wallowing swine were barred,
Whose banquet shocked the nostril and the eye;
Then spoke a voice, "Behold the source of LARD!"

I fled, and saw a field that seemed at first
One glistening mass of roses pure and white,
With dewy buds 'mid dark green foliage nursed;
And as I lingered o'er the lovely sight,
The summer breeze that cooled that Southern scene,
Whispered, "Behold the source of COTTOLENE!"

"Nature's Gift from the Sunny South"

COTTOLENE is a pure and wholesome frying and shortening medium, made from refined cottonseed oil. There is not an ounce of hog fat in it to make food unwholesome, greasy and indigestible. As evidence of its superiority, COTTOLENE received Grand Prize (highest possible award) at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

tion; and Gold Medals (also representing highest awards in each class) at the Charleston Exposition, the Paris Exposition, and the Chicago World's Fair. In fact, in every case where COTTOLENE has been exhibited in competition with other cooking fats, it has invariably been granted the highest award.

sion. When England determined to coerce the refractory Americans, she little thought that she was inviting danger to her own doors. Her idea of an American war was somewhat expensive transportation of German mercenaries across the Atlantic, where the dispute would be settled in a wilderness, far removed from any possible chance of interference with British interests in other parts of the world. The British merchant looked forward to the war with no small degree of complacency; for, in spite of the provisions of the navigation acts, which were designed especially to protect him from colonial competition, he keenly felt American rivalry for the carrying trade of the world. It would cost several million pounds annually to send Hessians to America, but this would be more than offset by the British merchant securing the colonist's share of commerce. This was the view generally taken by Englishmen before hostilities began. But had they anticipated that American cruisers and privateers would cross the ocean and throw their costs into continual alarm; that their shipping, even in their own harbors, would be in danger; that it would be unsafe for peers of the realm to remain at their country seats; that British commerce would be almost annihilated; that 16,000 seamen and 800 vessels would be taken from them—they would have entered upon a coercive policy with far greater hesitancy. Without her ships and sailors England would be reduced to one of the least of the European powers, and while she could afford to lose a few thousand Hessians, the loss of her maritime ascendancy touched her to the quick. It was this attack on England's commerce that struck the mortal blows to British supremacy in America—not Saratoga and Yorktown.

Here let me say that my good father (God rest his dear soul) told me when I was a boy that he remembered the time when the English merchant fleets used to assemble off the southwest coast of Ireland, and wait until two or three hundred had arrived, then a convoy of war ships came to escort them across the ocean. But as it took many miles of space to allow the ships to pursue their voyage, and as some of them sailed faster than others, it was impossible for the warships to do more than guard the outmost flanks of the fleet, hence they were many miles from some parts of it. Then a cloud of smoke during the day or a column of fire at night gave notice that the Kankee Privateers were at work—then the heavy heeled Britishers would sail in the direction of the fire or cloud, and by the time they arrived there they would often see other clouds of fires near where they had left. And so it went until fear of capture or destruction by the Yankees was a more terrible danger than all the storms and tempests of the ocean. But to resume, Macanlay continues:

"So great was the alarm occasioned by the American maritime forces that Silas Dean, writing to the marine committee in 1777 (and that was only a couple of years after the Revolutionary war began) said: 'It effectually alarmed England, prevented the great fair at Chester, occasioned insurance to rise, and even deterred the English merchants from shipping goods in English ships at any rate of insurance. So that in a few weeks forty French ships were loaded in London on freight—an instance never heard of before. Not only did the British merchants ask for the protection of warships for their merchantmen on distant voyages, but they even demanded escorts for linen ships from Ireland to England, a distance of 40 or less miles. In no former war,' said a contemporary English newspaper, 'not even in any of the wars with France or Spain, were the linen vessels from Ireland to England escorted by warships.' The following letter, written from Jamaica in 1777 by an Englishman, shows what havoc was wrought on British commerce by our Privateers:

"Within one week, upward of 14 of our ships have been carried into Martinique by American Privateers." Another Englishman writing from Grenada in the same year, says: "Everything continues exceedingly dear, and we are happy if we can get anything for money, by reason of the quantity of vessels taken by the Americans. A fleet of vessels came from Ireland a few days ago. From 60 that left Ireland not above 25 arrived in this and the neighboring islands; the others, it is thought, being all taken by American Privateers. God knows, if this war continues much longer we shall all die with hunger. There was a ship from Africa, with a cargo worth $100,000 taken by an American Privateer, a brig mounting 14 cannons. Toward the close of the war of 1812, English newspapers were full of articles recounting the vast amount of damage that had been inflicted on British commerce by American Privateers. The master of one English vessel, who had been captured three times by Privateers and as many times recaptured, reported that he had seen no less than ten Yankee Privateers in his voyage. In June, 1813, flour in Great Britain was $58 per barrel, beef $38, pork $36 and lumber $72 a thousand feet." But I must stop for I could fill an entire New Mexican with just such statements, showing what was done by the invincible Privateers—in some future number I will show how it was done.

Your friend,
A. L. MORRISON.

Bryan Will Be in Santa Fe on Monday—Rev. Claude E. Lucas of Saint John's Methodist Episcopal church, received a telegram today from Col. William J. Bryan at Lincoln, Neb., that he would lecture in Santa Fe on Monday evening of next week if arrangements are made. The subject of his lecture will probably be "The Prince of Peace."

Hello, What is This?—The weather bureau again ventures to predict rain or snow and colder weather, this time for tonight and tomorrow, thus breaking the spell of beautiful weather that has prevailed since early in September.

The wind last night attained a velocity of 28 miles per hour from the southeast. The minimum temperature last night was 39 degrees and the maximum yesterday 51 degrees. The relative humidity at six o'clock p. m. was 30 per cent.

Land Fraud Trials at Las Vegas—In federal court at Las Vegas indictments for conspiracy to defraud the United States in the making of public land entries were returned against George Snell, deputy sheriff of Union county and three others prominent in Union county. In the case of the United States vs. A. C. Voorhees and Henry Wilson of Raton, charged with conspiracy to defraud in making coal land entries, a demurrer was denied by defendants. The case against Walter H. Weatherby for irregularities in making coal land entries was dismissed as was the conspiracy case against L. J. Meyer charged with tampering with Santa Fe locomotives.

STEINHEIL CASE NEARING CONCLUSION. Paris, Nov. 12.—The concluding arguments in the Steinheil murder case were heard today. The prisoner, deathly pale, walked unaided to her seat, but her step was mechanical and her arms hung limply at her side. Many women were present today in the gloomy, stifling court room.

FIRST REHEARSAL IS MORE THAN ENCOURAGING.

Local Talent Displays Remarkable and Spirited Interest in the Production of Princess Bonnie.

Last night the first rehearsal for the production of Princess Bonnie was called under the supervision of Mrs. R. L. Baca. The meeting was held at the residence of Simon Nusbaum on Washington avenue and the attendance was even greater than expected. Everybody displayed the greatest possible amount of interest and their enthusiasm was not held back in the slightest measure. A portion of the musical score was rehearsed and the gratifying fact was disclosed that Mrs. Baca has gotten together the best chorus ever gathered in Santa Fe for an amateur production. The voices are all good and strong and promise to be a revelation to the audiences that attend the performances. The hard work has already started and from now on frequent rehearsals will be held and everything possible will be done to insure the absolute success of the undertaking. The interest being manifested by those taking part is in fact a guarantee that success will be achieved. The next rehearsal will be held on next Monday night at seven thirty at the Nusbaum residence.

SAVING LIVES OF CHILDREN.

Institutions infant mortality in such places has been reduced to something more like the normal rate in the community as a whole. While considerable improvement has been secured, the fact is that the mortality in all institutions designed as homes for infants is still excessively high, and in some instances is almost as high as in the unfortunate instance above referred to. Without citing particular instances, I do not hesitate to say that the results of a rather careful study recently carried on (to which I am glad to say, the institutions have carefully lent every assistance) shows that in the very best of such institutions, and under the most favorable circumstances, not more than 50 per cent of the children admitted for permanent care survive, while in other cases the percentage still runs much higher.

"The reason for this has become clear. It is not that the infants are neglected or uncared for; it is not that the institutions are not humanely administered; it is the fact that the infant is deprived of its natural food. Artificial feeding is what kills babies in infant homes. The New York City Health Department, in its poster is suad last spring in its campaign to prevent infant mortality, says 'a bottle-fed babies die to one that is breast fed.' The conclusion is unescapable that the deliberate separation of a nursing infant from its mother in the vain hope of saving some one's good name, or, rather, to save his feelings, is to deliberately incur a most serious responsibility, and is to become an accessory to a process which in 50 per cent or more cases results in the child's death.
