Belen Will Celebrate

One of the most enthusiastic citizens' meeting was held at the Commercial Club parlors on Wednesday night, June 3, to decide on the celebration of Independence Day. An executive committee was appointed that met the following Friday night in the First National Bank parlors. It was decided to hold a celebration on the Fourth of July that will surpass everything that has yet been attempted in Belen.

Among the different features and festivities that will mark the celebration, we know that there will be an automobile parade, games, patriotic music, horse speeding and a ball game.

The meeting was an exceedingly cordial one, everyone enthusiastic about the coming festivity, and so amid the greatest order there were appointed the different committees in the following order:

Finance—L. C. Becker, chairman; Pete Kremer, B. Jacobson, Geo. Hoffmann, M. C. Spicer, D. Garcia, Froilan Chavez, Fred Raff, Leon Mandell, Ramon Baca y Chavez.

Wool Sales of Pecos Valley Will Be Large

Kansas City, Mo., June 9.—S. P. Henry, of Artesia, N. M., who marketed here a few days ago 200 head of yearlings, his second large shipment this month, predicts that the wool sales of the valley will be large this season. "Wool buyers are showing up already and by the time all the wool is collected there, sales will be made," Mr. Henry said. "The clip was good, and the market is going to be satisfactory."

Mr. Henry has 58,000 pounds of wool for sale. At a conservative estimate this will bring him $9,000. Mr. Henry also reports a lamb crop of about 80 per cent, which is a good record.

Pacific Volcano Violent

Redding, Cal., June 9.—Eruptions from Mount Lassen since midnight have been the most violent that yet have occurred.

The summit of the peak, which yesterday showed bright white, was again blackened today by the volcanic ashes poured forth over night.

Appearances indicate that the volume of ash and scoriae from the latest outbreak is far greater than the first output, which covered an area of 100 acres to a depth of a quarter of an inch and has been estimated to weigh ten thousand tons.

The column of ascending steam from the crater was more plainly visible from this distance than at any time since the series of disturbances began. It would be seen as far as the mountain itself was distinguishable. At no time, however, has there been any authenticated report of flames or lava.

Atmospheric conditions for observation are best in the afternoon.

Mount Lassen was steaming again today.

Clouds of steam could be seen issuing from the mountain's crater for many miles around.

Forest supervisor Rushing says the crater is from six to seven times as large as when the mountain first became active. The forest department scouts the stories of flames issuing from the mountain.

Rich Ore Found in Mogollons

Silver City, June 9.—Gold has been found on the backbone of the rugged and lofty Mogollon range at a height of 10,000 feet, on the summit of an almost inaccessible ridge, by Jack and Floyd Alexander and the strike is said to be a rich one. It is 60 miles north of here.

An option was taken on the property this week by Theo. W. Carter, the well known mining engineer. Mr. Carter made a thorough examination of the property and was so well satisfied with the results that a deal was made on the spot.

While temporarily lost in the Mogollon mountains, endeavoring to make his way out of a deep canyon one brother came across a striking looking outcropping, ten feet wide on the very backbone of the ridge. The outcropping was so unusual and its location so inaccessible that it had never been discovered. He took samples and had them assayed. The results were very gratifying and the brothers have been working on the property all spring, digging prospect holes on the ledge. The ledge is exceedingly well defined and the ore is of the same general character as that found in the famous Mogollon mining district.

Horsethief Escapes Again

Horsethief Freeman, who was chased across two counties in New Mexico and finally caught near Cuba, Sandoval county, some weeks ago, by the Truby brothers, has demonstrated that he is one of the slipperiest bad men in the country. He made his getaway near Cuba shortly after being captured and didn't stop going until he reached Los Angeles. There he got money from his grandfather and made his way to his former home at Delmore, Wash. The authorities had been notified and at once arrested him there. On his first night in jail Freeman broke out and no trace of his present whereabouts has been found.

Together with a man named Collier, Freeman stole two horses from Wood & Morgan, at Durango, Colo., and three from the Truby ranch south of that place.

Roosevelt Has Fine Time in Spain

Madrid, June 9.—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria were the hosts of former President Roosevelt today at a luncheon at their summer palace at La Granja, forty miles from Madrid.

Colonel Roosevelt and his party which included Ambassador Willard, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Kermit Roosevelt and his fiancée, Miss Belle Willard, and Captain Norton E. Wood, military attaché, proceeded to the palace in automobiles. There were many titled persons at the luncheon. On his return the colonel declared in his characteristic manner that he had had a bully time. The Spanish king and the former president are old acquaintances, having met for the first time at the funeral of King Edward VII, in London, and the colonel is an admirer of King Alfonso's domestic ways. During the three hours they were together they found much time for a discussion of Spanish history, of which the colonel has been a close student.

Belen Victor Again

By the one-sided score of 13 to 1 Belen on Sunday afternoon defeated the team from San Antonio in a game which was replete with spectacular plays in every department of play.

Gutierrez was on the mound for Belen and was master of the game at every stage. At no time was he in any danger, and the manner in which he was supported by his teammates placed the result beyond doubt at an early period.

Luna started the game for San Antonio, but lasted only three innings, during which a total of ten runs were scored on him. He gave way to Montoya, who finished the game and did good work, but by this time Belen had piled up such a big score that the tide of defeat could not be stemmed.

A windstorm which swept over the field while the game was in progress made the work of the fielders difficult and interfered to some extent with the enjoyment of the expectators.

The score—
San Antonio - 000 100 000—1
Belen - - - 307 003 00x—13
Batteries: Luna, Montoya and McIntire; Gutierrez and Gilbert.

New Mexico Also in Need of Harvest Hands

Clovis, June 9.—While the farmers of the middle west are boarding harvest hands for weeks ahead in order to have them ready for cutting the tremendous crop of grain now maturing, New Mexico also needs a few. It is estimated that between 5,000 and 8,000 acres of wheat will soon be ready for cutting in Curry county and several hundred harvest hands could find employment in this section in the summer and fall.

Luna and Hubbell Flocks

Magdalena, June 8.—Millions of dollars are going to be made in sheep and wool in Socorro county this year. The Luna and Frank Hubbell wool clips amount to more than a million pounds each and 90 to 95 per cent of the lambs are being saved.

Frank Hubbell will have some 50,000 lambs. The Montosa Sheep company, Jas. Davis manager, will turn out some 30,000 or more lambs and about $22,500 worth of wool. The Fullertons, Jose M. Jaramillo & Son of Burley, Morley and Datil and a dozen others will sell from 10,000 to a half million pounds of wool, and a large proportion of lambs. Wool will average seven pounds per head with a price around 15 cents.

Congratulations, Jake! Mrs. Brito, who has been staying at Las Vegas for some time, will join her husband here about the last of the month.

Ovation to Carranza at Saltillo

Saltillo, Coahuila, Mex., June 7 (Via El Paso, Tex., June 9).—General Carranza was given a tremendous ovation upon his arrival here tonight. The constitutionalist commander was dined by Gen. Pablo Gonzales, commander of the eastern military zone, who arrived before Carranza from Monterey, which he captured.

The reply to the latest communication to General Carranza from the South American mediators is being thoroughly discussed by the general and his advisers. What the purport of the reply will be has not been indicated at General Carranza's headquarters, but there is strong feeling among constitutionalist leaders that the plan of Guadalupe will be adhered to rigidly.

At Madero's Old Home.

At San Pedro de las Colinas, where Carranza stopped on his way here, a ceremony of unusual significance occurred. Flowers and palm branches covered the ground which not two months ago was strewn with shells and dead bodies. When Carranza stepped from his car at the spot where General Velasco's federalists made a last desperate stand against General Villa, he was given an enthusiastic reception. Thousands gathered at the station and drowned out the music of the band with their cheers, as girls with great armfuls of flowers strewed them in the general's path.

Carranza Speaks Briefly.

The crowd followed to the municipal palace in a densely packed throng. General Carranza appeared on the balcony of the palace and spoke a few words of eulogy of President Madero. San Pedro was Madero's home and every mention of the martyred president was received with vivas and wild cheers. General Carranza said that when he first came to San Pedro three years ago he had little thought that he ever would occupy the position he now holds. He said he came to sound out the people to discover if they would respond to a movement for reform. General Carranza declared that the blood of Madero and Suarez and others had not been shed in vain and that the movement of which they were leaders now was about to be crowned with success in spite of almost insurmountable difficulties.

We are glad to communicate to our readers that the Commercial Club of this town had a meeting some time last week, in order to select the respective committees to bring about the next celebration of the Fourth of July. In our last number we advocated the necessity to get together and make timely preparations for the great event, but seems that the Commercial Club stole a march on us, and had their meeting just the same day our paper was issued.

Anyway, our editorial has served its purpose. The business men and citizens in general are most enthusiastic in regard to the celebration, and we are glad to hear about it, even if we were a little late. All that is needed now is to stand firm and help make a celebration worthy of the Pearl of the Rio Grande, as somebody has called this town, and in doing so, we will get good results, and a big advertisement all over the state.

Now, another suggestion. If we are to celebrate, let us make it safe and sane. If we are to demonstrate our patriotism, it is not necessary to expose our lives. This is directed specially to the small boy. Fire crackers and other explosives ought to be barred from the program and its place taken by proper school exercises and a great display of the national colors everywhere.

The daily theme of the Mexican situation was discussed this week by the daily papers in such way that we thought war was imminent with that country. But once more, Huerta has yielded to the pressure of diplomacy and the danger is past.

Now the most wild rumors are afloat in Veracruz about the fate of Huerta. Some say he will leave the country, or rather flee from the advancing rebels. We do not believe such thing will ever happen. A president of a republic is always the president, even if he is not recognized by the United States, and as such, will face danger and death with serenity. And if we consider Huerta as an old soldier, we most recognize that a soldier of honor, never deserts his post in the face of the enemy. What the outcome will be, we do not know, but chances are that Huerta may get out of the turbulent country and go abroad an exile as old Porfirio Diaz did.

The suffragettes are giving a lot of trouble in England, to the extent that public indignation is aroused at last, and it seems like everybody is anxious to inflict severe punishment upon the ladies of that organization.

Lately, the disorders have been so outrageous, that they can not meet with the approval of nobody, and the cry now is: "Let them die" if they insist on a "hunger strike."

Devastation and ruin they leave wherever they go. Churches have been destroyed and that has aroused the ire of the clergy of the country; palaces are menaced, and this accounts for the hate of the government officers; homes and public buildings have been wrecked, and this is the cause of the public indignation.

So the suffragettes will have a good time in the future.

Two Serious Bean Diseases and How to Control Them

The blight and anthracnose of garden and field beans caused a loss in Michigan alone estimated at $2,000,000 or 20 per cent of the crop of 1913. This state does not stand alone for similar conditions obtain in other bean-growing sections. It is becoming more difficult each year to secure bean seed free from one or both of these diseases. In view of these facts, it is highly important that the diseases be more thoroughly recognized and that the best available methods of control, some of which must be begun in the early cultivation of the plants, be understood and put into practice.

Cause of Bean Anthracnose

Bean anthracnose is caused by a fungus which attacks the stems, leaves, pods and seeds of the plants. On the stems and leaf veins it causes elongated, sunken, dark-red cankers, sometimes killing young plants and often producing deformed and yellowed leaves. Rounded or irregular sunken spots with slightly raised rim are produced on the pods. The spots usually have pink centers surrounded by a darker reddish border. In severe cases the pods may be entirely covered by the sores and produce no seed. In other cases the fungus penetrates the pods and enters the seed, causing dark, sunken specks or spots. In these diseased seed as well as in the refuse from diseased plants the fungus is propagated from season to season.

Cause of Bean Blight

The bean blight differs from anthracnose in several ways. It is caused by a bacterial organism. On the leaves it produces irregular, diseased areas which at first have a water-soaked appearance, later dry out and become brown and brittle. The entire margin or half of a leaflet is often affected. On the pods the disease starts as slightly raised and watery pustules, which later enlarge, become of irregular shape and amber color with yellow centers. Infected seed show yellow diseased blotches or are entirely yellowed and shriveled.

Nature of Loss

Both diseases cause serious losses in the snap bean trade. Diseased pods are unmarketable and must be sorted out. If but a few slightly spotted pods are packed in a basket, the disease may spread during shipment, causing additional loss and necessitating extra sorting before the beans can be sold to the consumer. In the seed bean trade all beans must be hand-picked to get out the discolored diseased seeds. From 15 to 30 per cent of diseased beans are frequently sorted out, involving a heavy loss of beans as well as the cost of sorting. Diseased beans used for seed usually give a poor stand and result in the production of a badly diseased crop.

Control Measures

It has been conclusively demonstrated that anthracnose can be avoided by a careful system of seed selection. Save seed from perfectly healthy pods, selected with great care for entire absence of spotting. Carefully keep them away from diseased pods, shell by hand to avoid reinfection, and plant on clean land. Pull and burn any plants showing disease. By planting the seed thus secured enough disease-free seed can be secured to plant the whole crop.

In the absence of such disease-free seed (1) secure for planting,

THE KITCHEN CABINET

It's a beautiful world to see,
Or it's dismal in every zone,
The thing it must be in your gloom or your gloom,
Depends on yours if alone.
—S. E. Kiser.

CHILDREN'S LUNCHEONS.

I wonder how many teachers and parents realize that often the dull pupil is either under-nourished or really ill.

The child, to do good work in school, should be started out in the morning with a wholesome, nutritious breakfast, one which will "stay by" until noon.

Lack of appetite in the morning is more often the result of sleeping in poorly ventilated rooms or too late hours. The bad taste in the mouth in the morning should not be thought unworthy of attention.

A "grown up" may miss a meal without evil effects, or in fact with good results, but a child who uses all its energy in building tissue cannot well omit a meal. Children are hungry more often than adults, because their digestive processes are very active. It is for this reason that lunches are necessary for the child between meals. The continuous lunching is much worse than none at all, so that discretion should be used to see that the lunch is served not too near a meal.

The food for growing children should be simple and easy of digestion. Tea and coffee are not children's beverages; milk, cocoa and water will be found a sufficient variety.

All highly seasoned foods, which tend to unduly excite the digestive juices, should be used only by those who have lost the appetite of childhood and need a whip to stimulate the digestive functions. Their continued use has been the cause of the craving for strong stimulants.

A luncheon for the child should be put up in such a way that it is attractive and will be appetizing.

Learn to pack a box or basket neatly. Have plenty of cheap paper napkins, a package of paraffin paper, some rubber bands, all very inexpensive, and a supply lasting a year will cost but little. A dinner taken from a tin pack packed carelessly, and in many cases frozen on the way, is not the kind of food which will produce good blood and clear brain work.

Variety is another thing which should be studied, for children like surprises better than "grown ups." A fig or a date or two, or even a bit of candy hidden in the lunch, is a source of keen delight to the youngster. Let us never grow too old to forget our own youth and youth's desires.

Nellie Maxwell.

DISHES FOR THE DAY.

The following dishes are some that will be acceptable for various occasions, to give variety to the diet:

Clam Soup—Take two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour; when the butter is bubbling hot, add the flour, stir slowly until well blended, then add a quart of rich milk, and when smooth season with celery salt, salt and a few dashes of red pepper; then add a cupful of finely minced clams with the juice. Let boil up once and serve.

Crosby Pie—Chop fine two medium sized apples; after peeling and coring, add the juice and rind of a lemon, one cupful of sugar, one egg well beaten and one tablespoonful of melted butter. Mix well and bake in two crusts.

Chopped Canton ginger stirred into whipped cream makes a delicious sauce for ice cream or in fact any kind of steamed pudding which would use the cream as a sauce.

Chicken Souffle—Make two cupfuls of cream sauce, using thin cream and a tablespoonful of butter to four of flour, add onion juice and chopped parsley for seasoning, then add two cupfuls of finely minced chicken; add the beaten yolks of three eggs and cool, then fold in the beaten whites and season well with salt, a dash or two of red pepper and put into a buttered dish to bake. Bake until the eggs are set.

Banana Pie—Pass enough peeled bananas through a vegetable ricer to fill a cup. To this add a half cup of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of molasses or the rind and juice of half a lemon, half a teaspoonful of salt, one beaten egg, a dash of cinnamon, a half cup of milk and a third of a cup of cream. Mix all together and bake in one crust. Cover with whipped cream and serve.

"Bread with your meat! Good gracious! And me paying $14 a day for you, and bread only five cents a loaf. Here, eat this can of caviar with your meat. It's the real imported Astrakhan, worth $1.50 a spoonful."

Money Howls in Mexico.

There is more truth than fiction in the following article from the pen of Fred L. Boalt. It was written at Vera Cruz under date of May 10th:

The noisiest thing in Mexico is a jeopardized American dollar. You can hear its cries any evening on the Plaza de la Catedral. "What," the American business man who has fled from Mexico wants to know, "are we loafing here in Vera Cruz for? When are our troops going to march on the capital?"

The American business man left Mexico City hurriedly. He left a business worth, say, $100,000. For all he knows, the federals have burned his store and looted his safe.

He wants to know if there are such things as the rights of property. It is the duty of the United States government, he says, to protect American business interests abroad.

"What is your business in Mexico City worth?" he was asked.

"One hundred thousand dollars," he said and groaned.

"And you want the American troops to go to Mexico City and save it?"

"I certainly do. I'm an American citizen—"

"How long have you lived in Mexico?"

"Twenty-five years."

"Pay any taxes in the United States?"

"Certainly not. My property is all in Mexico."

"Ever go home to vote?"

"No."
"Then you who don't care enough about your country to live there sometimes or to vote or pay taxes, want American soldiers sent to Mexico City to save your property?"

"But don't you see that I am not alone in Mexico? There are hundreds—yes, thousands—of Americans in business in Mexico City."

"Exactly," spoke up one of the newspaper men. "The census of 1910 gave 15,000 Americans in Mexico, and a total population of 16,000,000."

"The 15,000 Americans, we'll say, 5,000 men are working for the big mining and oil companies for wages and small salaries. That leaves 10,000 of the big fellows. And you want 90,000,000 people to come to the rescue of 10,000!"

"Well, if you don't do something soon it will be impossible to do business in Mexico."

"Therefore, we must teach the Mexicans a lesson? If we were to march to Mexico City, how many Americans do you suppose would die?"

"I don't want any of them to die," the American business man protested.

"But they will die. A lot of them will die. Let's say that one man would die for every $10,000 worth of property owned by Americans. Ten would die for yours."

"I had to leave the capital in a hurry, too. I left behind a piano, a dress suit and some other things. I demand that my property rights be protected. Maybe a soldier will die for my piano and dress suit, also."

"The man who will die for my piano joined the army from patriotic motives. So did the ten who will die for yours. They are better Americans than you, because they stay at home and vote and pay taxes. They are producers, and some day they will be—if they are not now—husbands and fathers of children."

"But, doggone it! haven't I any rights at all in Mexico?"

"Not one. You knew Mexico was turbulent when you came in. You took a gambler's chance, because there was a prospect of big profits. You've lost. That's all—you've lost."

Then all the little jeopardized American dollars clamoured twice as loudly as before.

But the army at Vera Cruz sheds few tears with the weeping dollars!

Training Animals.

The psychology of animals is curiously like that of young children. Interest must be won; it cannot be forced. No appeal, save a direct one to instinct, is admissible. Penalties are quite meaningless except as obstacles in a particular path, and as such they must never arouse active fear. It will be seen therefore that the opportunities for cruelty are necessarily limited. Trainers may abuse their charges, but each time they do so they court disaster.

Neatly Countered.

The action at law came up in London. The lawyer was Scotch and the judge was English. The case in argument concerned certain water rights, and the lawyer had frequently to use the word "water," which he pronounced very broad. "Mr. Macpherson," at last interrupted the judge, "do you spell water with two 'a's in your country?" "Na, na, my lord," quickly retorted the lawyer, "but we spell manners w' twa 'n's!"

Pictures of Thought.

The little six-year-old daughter of a correspondent related to her brother, age seven, a dream which, evidently, she had not enjoyed. He said to her, very seriously, "Never mind, sissy; dreams are only moving pictures in your mind." This is better than some of the philosophers have done with their explanations.

Frighten Fish Into Net.

A novel way of fishing among Chinamen is with a net and clapper. The net is stretched on a light bamboo frame in the shape of a truncated pyramid. The fisherman either sits in a boat or wades in the shallows, striking the water with the wooden clapper, which frightens the fish into the net.

Must Be in the Blood.

A London cat is said to relish feeds of pastry, chocolate, blackberries, tomatoes, egg shells, and even wood as a variety on the general feline fish and meat diet. But many a landlady has credited her cat with even a more catholic taste when her lodger began to think he missed things.

Her Opportunity.

Maid—"I've come to give notice, ma'am." Mistress—"Indeed?" Maid—"And would you give me a good reference, ma'am? I'm going to Mrs. Jones, across the way." Mistress—"The best in the world, Maggie. I hate that woman."—New York Globe.

Brotherly Amenities.

"We don't have any grass growing on our streets," sneered the New Yorker. "No, I dare say not," replied the Philadelphian. "I suppose your street car horses nibble it off as they browse along."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Had Much to Learn.

First Stenog—"How do you like your new boss?" Second Stenog—"Great! He don't know no more about grammar, spelling, an' punctuation than I do; he's jest out 'er college."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Worse Than Quoted.

"I don't see," said Mrs. Pozzillo, "why it is said of a homely woman that her face would 'stop a clock.' I know women whose faces would cause a clock to run itself to death from sheer fright."

Reasons and Women.

"When a woman can give a reason for disliking a man, she hasn't any if her dislike comes just because she has no reason there's generally good ground for it."—Reginald Wright Kauffman.

Danger in "Scorching."

An eminent doctor says he has found a cyclist's pulse to beat as high as 250 times a minute immediately after making a fast mile. This illustrates the danger of "scorching."

Surprised Explorer.

An African explorer found a very modern American sewing machine being operated by a woman in a native village in the heart of the dark continent.

Thackeray's Unique Distinction.

Thackeray stands alone, according to a gatherer of unconsidered trifles, in that he is about the only man of genius who possessed yellow hair.

Good Position.

"What does your father do for a living?" asked one little girl. "Why," replied the other, "he takes up the collections in church."

Biblical Hunger Strike.

And there was set before him meat to eat; but he said I will not eat until I have accomplished my word.—Genesis xxiv., 33.

Origin Not to Be Traced.

Outside of Ulster the Irish are mainly of Celtic stock, but their origin is lost in antiquity.

Pointer for Poets.

If trading stamps were given with the words of the poets more women would buy them.

PLANS GONE AWRY

Johnson—So you are going to stay home for the summer?
Woodson—Yes, I intended to enjoy myself thoroughly. But after I had tennis clothes, yachting clothes, golfing clothes and riding clothes made I found I hadn't enough left to pay railway fare and hotel bills.

NOT WELCOME

Reggy—Every time I—aw—call on her she invites me to sit on a wicket old rocking chair. Why do you—aw—suppose she does that?
Harry—Probably she hopes you will take a tumble.

THEN HE DIDN'T

Mrs. Benham—Do you believe that odd numbers are lucky?
Benham—Not when I remember that you and I are one.

NAME QUEERED HIM

Ginks—What does he call his horse?
Dinks—Ready Money.
Ginks—No wonder he isn't in sight when the winners come under the wire.

HE WAS WISE

Mrs. Knowsitt—My dear, the piano must be tuned in time for the musicale tomorrow night.
Mr. Knowsitt—Let the professor play something from Wagner and they won't know the difference.

Up in the Air.

"General Funston," said in a Park Row restaurant a war correspondent just back from the front, "was admiring one day in Vera Cruz, the splendid flying of one of our army airmen."

"No uncertainty about that chap," the general said. "He's not like a flyer I heard about recently."

"A millionaire paid this flyer $100 to be taken up in his monoplane. Up they rose, but the dipping, the zigzagging and the side-slipping were terrible."

"Easy, man, easy!" the millionaire roared above the shriek of the wind and the thunder of the motor. "Easy! This is only my second trip, remember."

"It's my first," said the pilot."

The Bean Deceases

seed having the least possible amount of disease, as shown by actual examination; (2) all seed should be hand-picked and no seed showing the slightest discoloration should be planted; (3) practice crop rotation, never plant beans on land where the same crop grew the previous season; (4) do not cultivate or walk through the bean field or pick beans while wet with dew or rain. If the disease is present it is then easily spread from one part of the field to another.

The bean blight is more difficult to control than anthracnose, but the same methods will give the best results at present available.

"Pupil of Sousa."

One morning after the street organs got hold of his "Washington Post March," John Philip Sousa ran across an Irishman playing the march at a dirgelike pace which set his teeth on edge. Snatching the handle of the organ away from him, Sousa exclaimed angrily:

"My heavens, man! Why don't you play it with a little energy? There's nobody dead in this terrace."

"And who are you, anyhow?" he exclaimed.

"I am Mr. Sousa," exclaimed the bandmaster. "I composed this march. Don't mind my giving you a friendly hint."

The Irishman retired with his features wreathed in smiles. Next morning an enormous placard appeared about his neck. It was printed in red ink and ran as follows: "A pupil of Sousa."—New Orleans States.

Willie's Confession.

Little Willie had been very naughty—so much so, in fact, that after having reproved him several times his mother was at last forced to severely punish him.

When his father arrived home he at once perceived that Willie's eyes were suspiciously red.

"What's the matter, sonny?" he cried.

"Oh, nothing," responded Willie, uneasily.

"Come, don't be frightened," said the father, in coaxing tones. "Tell me all about it, I want to know."

Willie remained silent for some time, then he suddenly burst out: "Well, if you must know, I've had a thundering row with your wife."—Pearson's Weekly.
