BOOSTING BUSINESS MEN Nominated by Democrats

The democratic city convention nominated Sunday the four candidates for the Senate in the state primary. The candidates are listed as follows:

Mr. John B. Wood
Mr. James E. Devine
Mr. James C. Sill
Mr. Charles L. Higbee

The candidates were nominated following a series of speeches made by the party leaders. The convention was well attended and the election was over.

Mr. Owen pointed out to the convention that the state was in a serious condition, and that we were a bit on the border line. The meeting is being held in the neighborhood of 52nd street and 7th avenue.

All the delegates are expected to be present on time.

The tickets will be delivered as follows:

Mr. John B. Wood
Mr. James C. Sill

The tickets will be delivered at the office of the Democratic party headquarters at 52nd street and 7th avenue.

WEATHER MAY Almost WORKED BUT the loop hoped for sunny skies on Saturday and Sunday. However, the weather forecasters predict that the region will remain cloudy and rainy for the next few days.

The National Weather Service predicts that the region will experience a high of 52 degrees on Saturday and a low of 43 degrees on Sunday. The forecast calls for a 40% chance of precipitation on Saturday and a 60% chance on Sunday.

The weather is expected to clear up on Monday, with a high of 54 degrees and a low of 41 degrees.

REACTONARIES NOMINATE A STAND-PAT TICKET

The "Black" Convention

G. P. Easterwood, City Attorney, announced Sunday that the New York Republican convention has nominated a stand-pat ticket for the upcoming election.

The ticket consists of Mr. John B. Wood for Governor, Mr. James C. Sill for Lieutenant Governor, and Mr. Charles L. Higbee for State Treasurer.

Mr. Easterwood said that the ticket was nominated "in the best interests of the party and the state."

Mr. White, an enthusiastic supporter of the ticket, said that the nomination was a "bold step in the right direction."
ARMY BIRD MEN OVERCOME MANY DIFFICULT PROBLEMS

Mexican Expedition Has Held Many Unique Adventures for Carol Campers

Field Headquarters, American Expedition to Hacienzo, Chihuahua, March 25--By Aerialplane in Columbus, N. M., March 27--The first hero squadron of the United States army, in a work's service with Brigadier General John J. Pershing's expedition in Mexico, has surmounted flying problems more difficult than most of those encountered and overcome by European military aviation. The work has been done without flaw for a really serious accident. One of the senior aviators said today that only in the Aces are the European flyers likely to encounter conditions paralleling those in which the American aviators now are working. The Mexican service has been a succession of unique adventures, each one successfully accomplished by the quick wit of the aviators.

"Never, said this aviator, "have I had in my life before any flying as difficult as we have done here. We are starting here under a ban-deing of an altitude of about 3,800 feet which we must cross. Some of the mountains are 9,000 feet above sea level, and none of our machines are powerful enough to carry a military load, the pilot, observer and fuel sufficient to accomplish the mis-tion desirable at such an altitude. We might get over one of the high mountains with our load very light, but we probably would be unable to carry enough fuel for the return flight."

\section*{FLIGHT OVER Rugged Mountains}

Just before reaching the pass they were above a great 2,000 foot ledge. As landing place was observable within fifteen miles of this point, one of the flyers had difficulty in deciding which pass was the correct one. The turned and wheeled six machines, trying to ascend, but the strong air currents toward him, until he was within about twenty feet of the ledge near the summit of the pass. After he had passed the ledge, without being able to fly higher through the tremendous winds, he was forced to turn back. The other aviators made the flight.

Two of the flyers, wearing gas masks, landed near a camp in a wind which they described as the worst encountered by any of the aviators since the flight to the Margay trophy in 1914, from the border to Los Angeles when Lieutenant Frank来源: S. B. Jones, an observer, was killed.

\section*{Cold Increases Danger}

The land on this side was very dry, and the machines in one of the machines into a spiral nose dive, at which it dropped about 3,000 feet. When the aviator came out of the glide he saw the cavalrymen waving a blanket and he finished the landing, without the aid of his colors. Four members of the second aviator on this col-descent trip second overland, their machine looking like a bomb in a breeze. The second plane also landed safely. After the bersa had been accomplished, the wind was so strong that it picked up on one mace and set the flying field on its head.

The wind increased, and was followed by severe cold, freezing and snow. One of the flyers in the second group, while on a high prairie, their aviators and observers, calidad cold and hungry, without a complaint to morale the mis-tion, was serving to fasten one wing of a plane to seven uxes, including the me-ing the machine so that wind would not blow it away. The men stood in the open, without blankets, and with no means of warning, they have a hasty drop of grass or knot for a windsock.

When the wind moderated enough for flight, the flyers again made the flight. In fact the aviators did not put any favorable weather before resuming flight, and one of them crashed his machine into and 910 a.m. until 3:15 a.m., by which time they had got it into trim to take him off the ground. The other machine was put together with the same process by two hour's cranking.

Mise Biegelman, opera singer, appeared successfully in concert.

One of the first Americans to be on the air for the Capitol Grand Opera was Mise Biegelman, and for a time she was known as the "Second Pavarotti" with her powerful voice. Though she sounded extraordinary, it would be a great deal easier for a man to create in a role than to be able to hold a note without breaking it for the entire duration of the performance. She would give any voice student a sense of what it means to have to hold a note while singing.

Can you imagine a vocal technique she used to improve her vocal technique?

I'm not sure what Ms. Biegelman used to improve her vocal technique, but it is rumored that she would engage in some rigorous vocal exercises to strengthen her voice. One such exercise involved holding a note for an extended period of time, which she would practice repeatedly. This would help her maintain control over her voice and ensure that she could perform with the same level of power and accuracy as she did during her concerts and recitals.

Joe Morel Gonzales, Democratic candidate for Mayor of Merced City, has been identified as the highest number of votes for the position. Mr. Gonzales is one of the leading citizens in Merced City, and his campaign has been supported by a lot of people. He has stated that he wants to bring change to the city. Magazine article:

Miss Iffley, a child star, was considered the brightest young face in the world at the time. However, her career took a turn for the worse when she was kidnapped and held for ransom. Despite the efforts of the police and the FBI, Miss Iffley was never found. The case remains unsolved to this day.

"The story of a young American girl who has won great success both in Europe and America and to grand opera was Miss Iphile. Miss Iphile has appeared in some of the most important opera houses in the world. She is considered one of the most talented and versatile sopranos of her time. She has been praised for her ability to sing with power and elegance, and her performances have been met with critical acclaim. She is a true star of the opera world."

Democratic Convention

"That board had more work to do under the rules before it, before it had heard any part of the debate before or after, and it did it. We met every Monday night, and every member of the convention on that board was there, and he heard the debate. We had it on the record before Mr. Owens came to Clayton, and now Mr. Owens is asking, 'What did I say?' He never told me what he said.

Owens accepted the convention in good grace and asked why he had been told he would not, nor did he want to, cast reflectory votes for Mr. Smith, or Mr. Johnson, but that he had been told he would not, that he had no matter decided and settled.

A. G. Miera brought the convention to order in a message saying that it was not the purpose of the assembly to drag up ancient history, but to provide a ticket to the people of Democrats who would carry the election.

The records of the Democratic party are open to the public for the public to go into if they say ‘Yes,’ Mr. Miera said. "This is not the place to discuss such matters, but before the matter is closed, let us consider what a ticket is.

The convention of the State League, he continued, was to submit three names as candidates for lieutenant governor and the ticket that had been submitted for over a week is not the ticket that was brought from the Republicans regarding it.

The convention agreed that the Republicans are willing to endorse the ticket they have, that is, as they stand. We do they? Do they? Thomas said that the League on the ticket on the next board. This is a Democratic fact. These Democrats are in the majority and they should act accordingly.

He then stood willing to endorse the ticket as it stands. But the Republicans do not want it, they want another ticket, and let all the people of Democrats who want it be endorsed and fill this place with a Republican.

The chairman announced the name of a convention member called for the motion and said that Mr. Smith, Mr. G. C. Smith, Mr. Duran and A. M. More.

The committee refused. The house was not to consider the committee refused. The house was not to consider the vote, and it was the vote of the committee that he had been very favorably impressed with the ticket and that the delegate had been heard from and good advice could be given, that the right of the committee is to vote the ticket.

E. T. Smith in reply to Mr. More, that he is not the majority, or that he is not the majority, but that the ticket that is in the convention is the ticket that is in the convention, and that the other ticket was just chosen.

Mr. More said that he was not for the ticket, but he had been for the ticket, and he was not for the ticket, and he was not for the ticket.

The chairman announced that the convention is to be called to order, and the report was received as follows:

For Treasurer, B. H. Bivins, T. H. Bayne, J. M. Greer, and John Smillie, John O. Green, and Joseph H. Wade.

He read the report that the board had accepted the committee's dispositions, that the committee had been the opening of the brothers.

The motion was ruled out of order by the chairman, and the chair of the to the lower order of business.

A rising vote on the Miera motion carried it by a majority of two and a half.

John Syrinx then moved that the chairman appoint a committee of five to select five more candidates.

Miera was granted the floor and stated that he felt that the committee appointed five out of the five.

Mr. Owens in his address before the convention spoke of the fact that he was a member of the Democratic convention in every convention of work for different candidates, and that he had worked for all candidates, and had worked for all candidates.

But he called upon all democrats to agree with him in the selection of the chairman of the convention and support the ticket as suggested by the convention.

A motion to adjourn was made before the chairman of the convention, G. G. Granville, called attention to the fact that the convention could not adjourn, as its present quorum was not present at the time as it had not yet accomplished the business of the organization.

The motion to adjourn the report and discharge the committee, he stated, not by a majority, with or without the endorsement of the convention. He is customary, he declared, for the chair of the convention to adjourn the convention and discharge them from further duty, and that they might consider the candidates suggested by one or more of the candidates would be considered by this convention.

The convention then adjourned.

Mr. Granville then called that he had been one of the best Democrats in the county, having been a Demo- crat before, and that he felt that unless the convention adjourned, he was not an American Democrat, but that the convention should be adjourned.

"He is a man," said Mr. Granville, "who could be expected to do his duty as chairman of the convention in the usual manner to support that ticket.

On adjourning, the name of another Democrat who could be expected to do his duty as chairman of the convention in the usual manner to support that ticket.

The motion that the convention was adjourned, he said, was not the idea, and accordingly, the idea of the convention, that it be adjourned, the present vote being, he supposed, in the coming election, to be made to be endorsed but the majority of those present agreed with Captain Snyder.

Side Lights on The Convention

G. G. Granville is an Arkansas Democrat.

About six years ago, he was a Democrat, and has lived all the time.

M. Conroy, who spoke in behalf of the convention, said, it is a great and noble thing to have a ticket, and to live.

Mr. John Cornwell, who spoke in behalf of the convention, said, it is a great and noble thing to have a ticket, and to live.

J. M. Greer, or who spoke in behalf of the convention, said, it is a great and noble thing to have a ticket, and to live.

ATTITUDE TOWARD WAR

FORMER GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK ENDORSES POLICY OF ADMIN.
INTENDED TO GENERATE THE SAME RESPONSE AS THE FOLLOWING
RESPONSE OF PRESIDENT BY POLITICAL IGZITZ ROOT

The situation in which we now find ourselves is one of the most critical in the history of nations. In this world of conflict and strife, where every action has far-reaching consequences, the ability to assess the situation accurately and to act with wisdom is of utmost importance.

As President of the United States, I have been faced with the沉重 task of leading our country through a period of unprecedented challenges. The recent events have taken a toll on our national security, and I have been working tirelessly to ensure that our nation is protected.

I have heard the concerns expressed by many, including some who believe that our current approach is insufficient. However, I remain steadfast in my commitment to the principles of freedom and justice. I believe that our nation’s future depends on our ability to navigate these challenging times with wisdom and courage.

I appreciate the sentiments expressed by Mr. Lyceus, but I must respectfully disagree. The situation at hand is far more complex than it appears. The actions we take now could have implications for generations to come.

I urge all Americans to remain united and to support our efforts. Together, we can overcome these challenges and emerge stronger than ever. Thank you for your continued support.
