The Mysterious Celestial Visitor.

The comet which put in an appearance last week, and which shines in the southwestern sky about six in the evening, came unheralded and unannounced. Astronomers call it a "tramp," as it came from nowhere and its destination is equally as indistinct. It is predicted that it will disappear from our range of vision within the next few days. Observatories are turning their glasses on the mysterious stranger, endeavoring to locate its orbit, which is said to be erratic, and the fact that it is in close to the sun makes observations difficult. It is said to be within 80,000,000 miles of the earth.

Teachers' Licenses Revoked.

Word comes from Santa Fe that the Territorial Board of Education has revoked four teachers' licenses in the territory on the charge of intoxication. Jesus Maria Jaramillo, of Rio Arriba county, and Jose Ortiz, of Santa Fe county, are two who have lost their certificates for imbibing too freely in the "cup that cheers." Two female teachers of Torrance county are to be dismissed for "looking upon the wine when it is red." It is the announced intention of the board to revoke the licenses of all teachers who become intoxicated.

The Leon Entertainment.

The people of this town were treated this week to a three night's entertainment, consisting of hypnotism, mental telepathy, mind reading, etc. The Leons, who were returning from a tour of the west, gave a creditable exhibition of the above subjects, and were well patronized. The hypnotic part of the program, as is usual in similar performances, caused considerable amusement, while the mind reading excited the most interest. The Professor worked at a great disadvantage, on account of lack of stage room. However, taken all in all, the entertainment was appreciated. The Leons left yesterday for Capitan, Lincoln, Roswell, and towns in the Pecos valley, from whence they will work south, winding up in Memphis, Tenn., about the 1st of April.

I have for sale or rent some excellent residence and business properties. FRANK J. SAGER.

A Big Copper Prospect.

The big copper property, situated about seven miles south of town, will commence operation Monday morning. The lumber is already on the ground, to put up a boarding house, bunk house, shaft house, etc., and the carpenters will begin work immediately. It is said there is about $12,000 to start with, which will be increased to $20,000 in about thirty days. The development will consist of sinking a four-hundred foot shaft on the vein, and by adits and tunnels, develop the property. Just as soon as the houses are built, a large force of miners will be put to work. The vein contains copper and iron as a basis, with silver sufficient to pay for reducing the ore. The property is owned by a company, in which Forest Smith has a controlling interest. It adjoins the Hopkins property. From the assays and analysis made of the ore, the company is sanguine of opening up one of the largest bodies of mineral in the territory, and if the results of the development equal anticipation, machinery will be put in and the ore treated on the ground, which will mean a great saving in handling and shipping the stuff.

Knights of Pythias to Entertain.

Myrtle Lodge No. 19, Knights of Pythias, Capitan, will give an oyster supper and dance on February 18th., in commemoration of the 46th anniversary of the founding of the order Knights of Pythias. Myrtle Lodge, since its institution, has annually observed this date by some kind of entertainment, and has become noted for its manner of entertaining its guests. There will be plenty of good things to eat and a good time for all who attend, and everybody is extended a cordial invitation to be present.

W. C. McDonald has been elected manager of El Capitan Land & Cattle Co., commonly known as the "Blocks." This company is the strongest of its kind in this country, if indeed not in the territory, and literally has cattle upon a thousand hills. Mr. McDonald visited Richardson, the ranch headquarters, this week, and formally took charge. The headquarters of the company will probably be moved to this place soon.

FOR WEAR IN HOUSE

ADVANTAGES OF THE WELL-MADE ONE-PIECE GOWN.

Marquisette Recommended as an Excellent Material for the Purpose—Some Valuable Ideas for the Sewing Room.

A one-piece gown is best with a belt at the normal waist line, slightly tilted up at the back.

Marquisette is an excellent material and a white gown of it serves well throughout the winter. It is the custom and an economy of many well-dressed women to use well-fitted silk linings from an old frock under materials for a second-best new one. The silk lining saves the price and also the time in making.

If one must make a conservative choice in such a frock, the designers suggest a soft gray and cream stripe, which is not too fancy for the afternoon and also serves in the evening, and a mouse gray which can be touched up with a bit of silver.

It is still early for a large number of women to decide on their winter clothes. They want to see the fashions settled and get the latest advantage. They do not want to take up any of the experiments that are on the market, and most of them are busy preparing their houses for the winter.

Therefore, it is the best time of all to pick up on the house clothes that are quite as important as the ones to be worn in public, if a woman would only face the truth about it.

The time has gone when nice women wear any kind of an old gown or combination of garments in their own homes in order to put their money into clothes that are only seen by the public. This was a selfish and unwise method. It was in the same spirit, if not on the same level, with the wrapper and curl papers costume.

To fringe with the least possible trouble, clip the edge of the crash or linen up from the bottom at distances of six to eight inches. Each clip should be the depth of the fringe you intend to make. The drawing out of these shorter threads will often prove less laborious and not so injurious to the material.

It is well to know, also, that the drawing of linen threads is made easier if the dressing has first been removed.

Brush a heavy lather made from good white soap along the space from which you wish to draw the threads. Let this dry in and it will disturb the original dressing so that the threads may be more readily drawn out.

DESIGNED FOR HOUSE WEAR

Amethyst Cashmere the Material Recommended for Attractive Style of Garment.

A soft tone in Amethyst cashmere is used for the dress we show here; the skirt has a panel in front stitched at the edge, and at the foot of sides and back is trimmed with a wide, simple pattern in braiding. The bodice has tucks at the sides, trimmed with buttons, and in center has a plastron that fastens to left side; it is trimmed with braiding and buttons. The deep collar, revers and sleeves are also braided. A sash of wide satin ribbon is tied at right side of front, and the ends are finished with handsome tassels.

Materials required: 7½ yards 46 inches wide, seven yards saten.

MAKES HANDY CANDLE BOARD

Contrivance is an Improvement Over Old Way of Placing Candles in the Cake.

The mother who has many birthday parties to give should by all means invest in a candle board. It is a much more convenient and more pleasant way to trim a cake than to stick candle holders into it, with the danger of grease mingling with the icing.

These boards can be bought, but if you have cake pans of a certain size it is wiser to have them made. They should be circular and big enough for the cake to slip down easily between the rows of candles on the outside.

The outer rim of the board is filled with small holes, into which can be screwed as many tiny candle holders as are needed. Often these boards are made of burnt wood with an appropriate motto burnt into it as "Many happy returns of the day." "Another year, another leaf, is turned within that volume brief."

If one does not wish to go to the expense of a decorated board, any carpenter will make you a large circle of white pine or any other wood, which can be finished with a white shellac, or can be given a coat or two of white paint, covered with white enamel so that it can be easily scrubbed.

More than 200,000 pounds of human hair are exported from Hongkong to this country annually.

The fireless cooker's a great thing. We've given it a look; But what we need is to learn how To cook without a cook.

Duty Society Owes to Unfortunates.

Consumption is primarily a poor man's disease. Dr. Woods Hutchinson of New York city says: "Roughly speaking, the incipient tuberculosis patient can buy as many chances of fresh air and cure as he has money." The percentage of deaths from consumption among the poor is 100 per cent. higher than among the well-to-do and the rich. Sixty-five per cent. of the consumptives in the United States are too poor to provide proper means for treatment. They must either be placed in a sanitarium or a hospital where they can be cured of their disease and where they will be removed from the possibility of infecting other members of their families, or the loss resulting from neglect to care for these poor consumptives will be twice or three times as great as would be the case if they are properly housed in institutions."

AGONIZING ITCHING.

Eczema for a Year—Got No Relief Even at Skin Hospital—in Despair

Until Cuticura Cured Him.

"I was troubled with a severe itching and dry, scrufty skin on my ankles, feet, arms and scalp. Scratching made it worse. Thousands of small red pimples formed and these caused intense itching. I was advised to go to the hospital for diseases of the skin. I did so, the chief surgeon saying: 'I never saw such a bad case of eczema.' But I got little or no relief. Then I tried many so-called remedies, but I became so bad that I almost gave up in despair. After suffering agonies for twelve months, I was relieved of the almost unbearable itching after two or three applications of Cuticura Ointment. I continued its use, combined with Cuticura Soap and Pills, and I was completely cured. Henry Searle, Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 8 and 10, 1907."

Precocious.

The little girl was acting naughtily before company. Her mother warned her sharply.

"If you do that again, I'll smack you," she said.

"No you won't," replied the pert daughter. "I'll sit down on myself and then you can't."

The Vacant Chair.

What sad memories linger around the old vacant chair. Sitting in the middle of the floor, with a plaintive look about its frayed and seemingly weary back, it brings back a tumultuous riot of sad recollections that time can never efface. Volumes of bitter anguish come to me when I arrive home in time to catch the milkman swiping the loose furniture around the place, and take off my shoes to avoid publicity, and strike my best toe against the rocker of the old vacant chair. Then, forgetting for the moment my unclad feet, I kick the chair on the other rocker. That is when the sadness and suffering that lingers around the old chair comes out with an extra edition and great chunks of gloom settle over me like a herd of ill-natured flies.—Oregon Journal.

VERA'S FIRST LOVE

By CARL, BARON TORRESANI

(Copyright, by Short Stories Co., Ltd.)

Count Mishko—his family name does not matter as everybody called him Count Mishko, in true Vienna fashion—ought to have been the happiest man alive. Young and handsome, blessed with a beautiful and charming wife, whose most extravagant whims, as well as his own, he was amply able to gratify—nothing seemed lacking to complete his happiness.

Nothing, indeed, was lacking, but something was present which he might well have spared—suspicion!

The first year of his married life had been one long dream of bliss. Two people were never more perfectly matched than he and Countess Vera. But suddenly there came a change. Without imaginable cause, Vera's merriment ceased abruptly. She became grave, pensive, almost morose, and a hard, cold expression replaced the sunny smile that had hitherto played about her beautiful lips. Mishko was in despair.

"What is the matter, sweetheart?" he asked. "Have I offended you in any way?"

"You? Oh, you men! In your vanity you imagine yourselves the cause of everything."

"But this sudden change—"

"Mishko, I wish you wouldn't notice every little trifle. It grows tiresome in time."

She turned away sullenly, but he caught her and drew her to his knee.

Then ensued the first unpleasant scene of their love drama. It was ended by Vera rushing wildly to her bedroom and locking and barricading the door against the enemy. Mishko went to the Jockey club and sought consolation in the companionship of old friends and old Amontillado. At two o'clock in the morning, when he came home, whistling and thoroughly consoled, a servant handed him a note and said that the countess had gone away.

"Do not be alarmed," she had written, "I am not running away, though you deserve it. But my nerves are worn out and I must find rest—where, I do not yet know; some quiet place in the mountains, probably. I shall be all right in a week. Please do not try to find me. You will not succeed and will only make me angry. Possess your soul in patience, Mishko, dear. It had to be, for your sake and mine. In a week, dearest wild man, I shall be in your arms again. Meanwhile I send you my forgiveness and a thousand kisses."

This note instantly dispelled Mishko's slight exasperation. In the morning he telegraphed to every one whom Vera would be likely to visit and, receiving only negative replies, resigned himself to his punishment. On the third day he happened to meet that good-looking but vapid fellow, Sokoloff, of the Russian embassy, who asked:

"Any news from St. Petersburg?"

"Eh?" said Mishko.

"From the most charming of countesses, I mean. She should be there by this time."

"My wife! She is no more in St. Petersburg than we are."

"Strange! She was in such haste."

"When? Where? About what?"

"About her passport."

"She applied for a passport? When?"

"Friday morning."

Mishko wiped his brow. Though not exactly a sage, he was by no means a fool. He could put two and two together.

When Vera had played her great scene she had been in possession of her passport several hours. She had provoked the scene deliberately to afford a pretext for her sudden flight.

He waited, but not patiently, and in sleepless nights he formulated a plan to pay her back in her own coin if her explanation should be unsatisfactory or suspicious. If she could act a part, so could he.

On the seventh day after her departure Vera returned, radiant as the dawn.

"Here I am, Mishko!" she cried, extending her arms.

It was less an embrace than a wrestling match. All he said was: "Where have you been?"

"Do not ask, Mishko! If you love me, dear boy, do not remind me of that which I wish to forget. It is past and gone and this moment is the commencement of a new life for us."

"Serpent!" he muttered under his breath, but he made no audible reply and never again referred to his wife's eccentric flight.

It did seem like a new life, for Vera apparently sought to atone for her action by redoubled effusiveness and docility.

Vera's deceitfulness, her well-acted comedy, still rankled, but he had nearly arrived at the point of forgiving even these, when one morning at breakfast, he was startled by seeing in his wife's face the same cold, hard, ominous expression that it had worn just before the scene of 18 months before.

He tried to drive it away by jests and affectionate words—both very artificial and equally fruitless. Vera's face seemed hardened to stone, and her heart also, for the few words which he wrung from her were uttered in a tone that chilled him.

He telephoned to the Russian embassy and received the answer he expected.

Very well! He was prepared. Now let the play begin!

Of course it was not necessary for a lady of Vera's lively imagination to play the same comedy twice. This time the stage setting, dialogue and action were quite new, but the finale was the same—a nocturnal flight.

In a sleeping car of the international express she slumbered without dreaming that her husband lay awake within a few yards of her, and on the following evening, when she peeped out of the troika which conveyed her from the station to a fashionable hotel on the Nevsky Prospect she failed to recognize her trim and elegant Mishko in the fur-wrapped occupant of a carriage close behind her. Mishko stopped at the same hotel and next morning stationed himself in a cab near the entrance. After waiting three hours he saw his wife come out and enter a troika. He followed her to a fine apartment house in Volshaya street and to an apartment on the second floor, the door of which closed after her, almost in his face. In wild excitement he rang the bell and was admitted by a servant in livery. As he entered he heard a scream and a sound of something falling to the floor, and through an inner doorway he saw Vera standing and at her feet—a broken dental plate with two incisors!

Man is a strange creature. Mishko, it might be supposed, would have shouted with joy at this proof that his tormenting suspicions were groundless, but it was also a proof that Vera had deceived him in another way for years, and this new thought completely engrossed him.

As they drove back to the hotel he listened with a very bad grace to her tearful explanation.

It had happened when she was a schoolgirl in St. Petersburg—an accident in skating. Luckily no one had seen the damage except her father, who had hurried her off to the best dentist in the city—the one she had just visited—and nobody had ever guessed her humiliating little secret.

"Why need you go to St. Petersburg?"

"Because there lived the one man who knew my secret, which I did not care to confide to another."

Now or never was the time to learn the whole truth.

"How about that fellow?" he asked.

"Who?"

"That fellow. You know well enough. To speak frankly, I would have sworn that you came—"

"To meet him? Here, in St. Petersburg? So that is why you followed me! O, my poor, dear boy, that was a master stroke of diplomacy! Do you know where he is? In Vienna! You see him and shake hands with him every day and have never had the slightest suspicion. How could you? A respectable father of a family, a stiff, formal diplomatist, and quite uninteresting. I can't imagine what I ever saw in him to admire."

"Who is he?"

"Your friend Sokoloff of the Russian embassy."

Name Towers for King and Queen.

The news that the king and queen have consented to allow their names to be assigned to the western towers of Truro cathedral is extremely welcome. Many of our cathedral towers bear names connected with some saint or some great local notability, but we believe it is a new departure of recent years to give them a royal aspect. The kindly action of the king and queen will be much appreciated in Cornwall.—Lady's Pictorial.

The Watchword of Missouri

Famous "Show Me" Phrase Was First Popularized by a Tramp Printer.

The effort of Rev. Dr. John Clark Hill to discover the origin of the famous phrase has resulted in the discovery that the sentence, "I'm from Missouri, you'll have to show me," originated in the publishing house of a Springfield agricultural paper. The Cleveland Plain Dealer says.

About fourteen years ago there was working there a printer by the name of Sam McIlhenny, who hailed from Missouri and who did not hesitate to say so. He talked about it so much that it got to be a joke among the printers. One day a letter came from a Missouri farmer complaining vociferously that his paper had been cut off. In concluding, he said: "You folks may think it's all right to stop the paper I paid for, but I'm from Missouri; you've got to show me."

The circulation man who read the letter thought it was pretty good and took it up to show McIlhenny and the other printers. It soon became a byword among them and for many months was a phrase on everybody's lips.

One day a "tourist" blew in and he astonished everybody by springing the much-used sentence.

"Where did you hear that?" queried the astonished McIlhenny.

"Oh, I first heard it in Cleveland, from Harry Wines," he said, "and he's been using it all over the east."

Wines was a tramp printer of the most typical sort. He hailed originally from Springfield, worked there part of the time and set type all over the United States. It appeared that he had made industrious use of the worn Farm and Fireside joke.

Gradually it was spread and it received a big impetus when used in the comic opera, "The Shogun," which is supposed to have given the phrase its first really national circulation.

McIlhenny is still working in Springfield.

THE NATIONAL STOCK SHOW.

Prospects for the Greatest Show Ever Held in the West.

Entries for the National Stock Show at Denver close this week on everything but carloads and entries already indicate the greatest show ever held in the West. There will be horses from Canada, from Ohio, from Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas and most of the western states. Among the prominent herds of cattle coming are the Shorthorn herds of Carpenter & Ross of Mansfield, Ohio; Thomas Johnson & Son of Columbus, Ohio; C. E. Clark of Minnesota; Frank Harding of Wisconsin; The Elmendorf Farm of Kentucky; W. J. Miller of Iowa; A. C. Binnie of Iowa; J. E. Bales & Son of Iowa, and many others, all the beef breeds being represented by the best in the country. There will be sheep from all over the United States and Canada, all of the breeds being represented.

It is expected that the car load exhibit of feeder cattle will be the greatest ever held and big feeder buyers are coming from all parts of the country to purchase the prize winners.

The business end of the Denver show always attracts considerable attention. The stockmen from the west bring their choice cattle and sheep to the show and sell them at fancy prices and the big breeders of the east bring their cattle, sheep and horses here and sell the best of them to the western men. This is where the show is doing a great work. It is placing within the reach of the western breeders the best the country has in live stock and within a very few years the western men will be winning the premiums and the eastern man will be pretty well out of it.

The railroads are making very reasonable rates through the West for the week of the show. In Colorado a half rate will prevail while in New Mexico, Utah, Idaho, Nevada, Wyoming and Montana, the rate will be a fare plus $2 for the round trip. This will bring in a great number of stockmen and with the stock show and conventions, Denver will be a busy place during the week of January 8-15. With the new buildings being erected and the magnificent big pavilion completed last year, the show will be in shape to take care of the crowds comfortably no matter what the weather may be, but there is usually good weather at that time of the year.

If we will only be good we may secure statehood in 1911. So says the reports that come from Washington, D. C. In other words, if we will allow the administration to write our constitution we are promised smooth sailing.

The cost of living in the United States has increased 34 per cent in ten years. In England, during the same period, it has increased 7 per cent. High protection in America, free trade in England—take your choice. A difference of 400 per cent is an item to be considered.

A Texan is reported to have exchanged 100,000 acres of land in the Lone Star state for an equal number of gallons of whisky. We think, however, the Texan has been libeled, for that is too much whisky even for a Kentuckian.

The high cost of living has even reached the staid precincts of the United States senate, and resolutions have been introduced in that body to investigate the causes. If the senate would only review its own acts the reasons could be easily disclosed.

The stock market has been shaky since the panic of 1907; indeed, "panicky" would be the word for the usual condition of the exchange for the past two years. The vast system of gambling that is practiced may result in a disastrous panic at any time, under the present system.

President Taft seems to be afraid that the people of New Mexico, if permitted to write their own constitution, will adopt something on the order of the Oklahoma instrument, to which he is unalterably opposed. He need have no fears on that score. The danger will be that when one is prepared it will not be one half as good as Oklahoma's.

There will be no new stars added to the flag this year. The Hamilton bill, recently passed by the House, does not seem to meet with the approval of the Senate committee. Sometime during 1911, preliminary steps may be taken to allow the territories to hold constitutional conventions, the adopted constitution to be submitted for the approval of the President and Congress, after which statehood will be in order—maybe?

The Liberal majority in the House of Commons has been so unusual that nobody in Great Britain doubted it must at this election be cut down somewhat, reaction seeming to be as necessary a quality of human nature as of the mechanical universe. The results indicate that there is no chance of the British taking up the principle of protection at present. They also indicate that taxation must hereafter fall upon the rich in greater part than it has fallen heretofore. As to the House of Lords, it seems very possible that it may have a chance to assist in its own reform rather than being subjected to any violent alteration against its own consent. The development of constitutional government is and should be gradual; but the opinion given by the English electorate is sufficiently decisive to show that the outcome must be in the direction of democracy.—Colliers.

The Surveyor General, John March, calls attention to owners of small holding claims, March 3rd., 1910, is the last day upon which these claims can be filed. It makes no difference where these claims are located, so long as they are not on private land grants or upon Indian reservations.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

W. C. McDonald left yesterday for Albuquerque, where he went to attend the session of the Cattle Sanitary board. This is the most important meeting of the board for the entire year, as the policy of the board for the year is outlined.

LOST.—Probably between Main street and postoffice, one large doll's arm. Finder will please return to Dr. Paden's drug store, or the Pioneer Jewelry store.

Ben W. Rentfrow came over from Capitan Monday and left that night for Mesilla Park, to visit his family. Mrs. Rentfrow and the children went to Las Cruces last fall, where the children were placed in school, the elder in the Agricultural college, the two younger in the public school.

Pick Warden was in town last night from Ancho. He and his brother, who are running a sheep ranch near Ancho, have had a five-mile pipe line surveyed, and expect to have the line in operation soon. By this means, they will have water and grass contiguous.

The Masons held a meeting on the 22nd inst., at which Dr. T. W. Watson of Lincoln, and R. R. Sale and R. E. Stidham of this town took the first leap into the mysteries of Masonry. J. V. Edwards of Oscura was put through the second degree. There were quite a number of visitors present. After the meeting a sumptuous supper was served.

Deputy sheriff P. C. Baird brought two prisoners from the vicinity of Corona Sunday night, and lodged them in the county jail the following day. They are named respectively, Pedro Salez and Juan Salinez, and who live about 20 miles west of Las Vegas. They are charged with slaughtering range cattle, or what is known in the parlance of the sheriff's office as "pinon butchers." There was a third man in the party named Alberto Aragon, who escaped in the brush, but, as he is known to the officers, it is believed he will be apprehended later. The sheriff's officers are being assisted by the people of Corona, who wish to see their town among the most law-abiding in the county.

The Big, Brilliant Comet.

San Jose, Calif., Jan. 18.—Astronomer R. G. Aitken of the Lick observatory, today gave the following statement to the Associated Press:

The comet discovered in South Africa a day or two ago is brighter than the planet Venus. It was easily seen at the Lick observatory today at noon with the naked eye. It was about four degrees east of the sun and one-half of a degree north of it and was moving toward the northeast. In a clear sky it should be a brilliant object for the next few evenings, and should be looked for in the southwestern sky immediately after sunset.

Daylight observations today by Astronomer Wright showed that the spectrum of the comet's nucleus is continuous, crossed by bright radium lines extending into the coma.

Amendments to 320-Acre Homestead Law.

Representative Rucker, of Colorado, is preparing a bill looking to an amendment of the Mondel 320 acres homestead law, so as to permit homesteaders to enter and prove up on 320 acres, even though the lands are not "contiguous" as the existing law provides; in other words, should a prospective homesteader elect to settle in one locality and desire land separated from him by the farm or homestead of another settler, he may acquire it, providing he carry out the usual requirements of homesteading in entire good faith.

CAPITAN.

Attorney A. H. Hudspeth was down from White Oaks Monday night.

Sheriff Stevens left for Las Vegas Sunday, on official business.

J. B. Humphrey has taken a situation in the car repairing department.

L. J. Mundell, a ranger on the Gallinas forest reserve, was in Carrizozo Monday.

B. D. Humphries is now stationery engineer at the shops, vice Stanley Holder, resigned.

Sergeant Dudley of the mounted police stopped off a few hours here Thursday.

Night foreman Sharpe, of the roundhouse, is laid up with a slight touch of pneumonia.

W. R. Beaty came up from Os-curo Sunday morning and returned the same evening.

W. G. Wells, an old friend of the NEWS, who lives at Parsons, was in for a short time last Saturday.

Engineers Hudnall and Harris have been transferred to El Paso and will move their families at an early date.

Frank Goodin was up from Three Rivers Saturday night, to attend the regular convocation of the Masonic lodge.

Oscar Bamberger has returned from a visit to his old home in Indiana, and is again behind the counter at Ziegler Bros.

S. T. Gray, was over from Capitan, Thursday, on a business trip. He returned the same afternoon by the auto route.

There are more prisoners in the county jail at present than for a year. The town of Corona furnishes 13 out of a total of 23.

Car foreman S. F. Miller made a trip to Ancho this week to examine the condition of the cars that were recently wrecked there.

Dr. G. Raniger, J. V. Edwards and Wm. C. Martin came up from Os-curo Saturday evening, the A. F. & A. M. lodge meeting being the magnet.

W. L. Gumm left yesterday for El Paso, and may visit the western portion of this territory before returning. He is on a deal for some machinery, piping, etc.

W. R. Beaty, ex-county surveyor, accompanied by Jno. A. Haley, county superintendent of schools, went to Alto this week to verify a survey of the Alto school district.

W. H. Lumbley and wife, of Alamogordo, have gone to Abilene, Texas, where they will in the future reside. The Lumbleys lived in Lincoln county many years and are well known in this section. They have made Alamogordo their home for the past six or seven years.

J. H. McCutcheon, formerly a knight of the quill in this territory, spent several days in town this week. Jack is now with the El Paso Times, and was here in the interest of that publication.

Wayne Van Schoyck and E. B. H. Chew were down from White Oaks Saturday evening, they both being members of the local Masonic lodge which met that night.

Clark Hust is preparing to produce the biggest crop of his life this year on his farm near the foot of the mountains. There is nothing like it, Clark; when you put your hands to the plow, never look back.

The immigration agent of the Rock Island, after spending several days here, collecting data and pictures to be used in a bulletin advertising the resources of Carrizozo and Lincoln county, has returned to Chicago.

P. C. Baird and W. D. Gray returned Saturday from Lincoln, where they had gone with a bunch of prisoners. Mr. Baird left Saturday night for Corona, where he is serving as deputy sheriff and local peace officer.

B. R. Robinson was over yesterday from his Bonito farm with a load of apples. Uncle Ben has only a small orchard, but his crop last year amounted to about 15,000 pounds, which will bring in close to $500.

Wm. M. Ferguson, of the Mesa, and J. V. Tully, of Glenco, loaded three cars of cattle here yesterday evening for the Kansas City market. W. D. Gray, of this place, and Mr. Tully accompanied the shipment.

Robt. L. Owen is laying a 12-mile pipe line from one of his ranches on the Bonito canyon, south of Corona. His flocks of sheep are too numerous to be watered only at his home ranch, and at the same time protect his range.

O. M. Baker, a sheepman from near Corona, last week lost a valuable horse, camp equipage and commissary. Mr. Baker numbered among his herders a man named Pedro Salazar, a native of Valencia county, who, tiring of laboring in this part of the country, decided to take French leave and took the trail for the Rio Grande, taking with him the above described property. He had two days start, but the officers are confident of intercepting him before he reaches Valencia county.

USE RATS IN WARFARE

Animal Pests Were at One Time Employed to Destroy Powder Magazines.

The presence of cats on the French war office staff, writes a correspondent, might have led to trouble in the old days, when it is quite possible that a detachment of rats formed part of the army. An old military dictionary tells us that rats were sometimes used in war for the purpose of firing powder magazines by means of lighted matches tied to their tails. We cannot offhand recall any historical instance of this, but presumably it did occur, seeing that Marshal Vauban laid down special rules for counteracting it. Anyhow, the dodge is as old as Samson, who, you may recall, used foxes in a similar way for a somewhat similar purpose.

As to that royal rat catcher, we may add that he had a special official livery. According to Pennant's "British Zoology," it consisted of a scarlet costume, embroidered with yellow worsted, in which were figures of mice destroying wheat sheaves. By the way, rats were not the only animals honored with a special catcher. Leicester, for instance, used to pay a yearly salary of £1 11s. 6d. to its municipal mole catcher. — London Chronicle.

A Relic of English Rule.

That many of the things we cherish are relics of former English institutions—slang, grammar and cigar store Indians—is commonly known. One more may now be added to the list, as is shown by the following excerpt from the Daily Chronicle of London:

"Besides the marrow pie alluded to in 'Bleak House,' which is said to have been a mixture of bread, pounded almonds, cream, eggs, lemon peel, sugar, nutmeg and marrow, one can recall many other delicacies that have practically vanished from the Londoner's bill of fare. Take, for instance, the once popular 'a la mode beef.' In Dickens' time shops for its sale were dotted all over London, while now the present writer knows only one establishment, in Fleet street, where it can be enjoyed, to the accompaniment of potatoes in their jackets, and the whole washed down with porter served in its native pewter, after the fashion of our grandfathers' time." — Harper's Weekly.

Rather Quaint.

Apropos of divorce, Judge Simon L. Hughes of Denver said at a recent dinner:

"A marriage likely to end in divorce was celebrated last week in Circleville. A minister told me about it.

"An oldish man—70 or so—was led rather unwillingly to the altar by a widow of about 45.

"He was a slow-witted old fellow, and the minister couldn't get him to repeat the responses properly. Finally, in despair, the minister said:

"Look here, my friend, I really can't marry you unless you do what you are told."

"But the aged bridegroom still remained stupid and silent, and the bride, losing all patience with him, shook him roughly by the arm and hissed:

"Go on, you old toot! Say it after him just as if you were mocking him."

Both Belong to California.

The highest and lowest elevations in this country are in California, within 100 miles of each other. The loftiest is Mt. Whitney, 14,499 feet high, and the lowest is Death valley, about 450 feet below the level of the sea.

TRY GYROSCOPE CAR

Coach on Single Rail Tested in England.

Inventor's Idea Is to Carry Passengers on the Principle of a Spinning Top—First Trial a Success.

Manchester, Eng.—A 22-ton railway car, 40 feet long, 13 feet high and 10 feet wide, mounted not on regular trucks but on one single line of four wheels, with not a support but that line of wheels. That's the first thing to picture. Then put 40 passengers inside the car and run the whole combination around on a single rail at 25 miles or more an hour, and you have the spectacle that was presented before the Royal Society of England several days ago on the war office grounds near Chatham. It was the first public demonstration of the full-sized working model of the new gyroscope car, first made public before the Royal society on May 8, 1907, by its inventor, Louis Brennan, C. B.

The demonstration was successful even beyond expectation. The car ran smoothly and without vibration, taking curves and irregularities in the track with perfect safety and absolute stability, loaded or empty, fast or slow. There never was the least tendency on the part of the car to leave the rail, so perfect was the gyroscope control. Two gyroscopes were used, weighing three-quarters of a ton each, and making 3,000 revolutions a minute in a vacuum. A gasoline engine furnished the motive power through the means of an electric dynamo. Mr. Brennan was overjoyed at finding that the stability of the gyroscope principle was even more marked in a full-sized model than in a smaller one.

The principle of the gyroscope is that of a spinning top. Some thirty years ago Mr. Brennan, who was then in Australia, became beset with the idea that this principle could be applied to railroad construction and operation in a way which would revolutionize land transportation all over the earth.

It has always been known that on an ordinary two-railed track friction and jarring prevent the use of any but 12 per cent. of the total power developed by a locomotive. The two-railed track is also dangerous in that it has a safety limit of speed at about seventy-two miles an hour, after which spreading of rails and breaking of wheel flanges become not only possible, but probable, except in those cases where the equipment is kept at its highest state of perfection. It was this that led to the development of the monorail, a single-railed overhead track from which the cars were suspended. Not only was a great deal of friction thus overcome, but many of the common dangers were entirely done away with. Nevertheless, the suspended type of monorail was not perfect. It had dangers of its own, and besides this the cost of construction was immense.

It was figured that if a single rail could only be laid on the ground and a car or train run over it railway construction would almost be made perfect. With a rail on the ground, however, the center of gravity would necessarily be above the line of support, and gravity was one thing which man had never yet successfully overcome. Slowly the idea of the spinning top and then of the gyroscope worked itself out in the mind of the inventor.

Louis Brennan was the inventor of the Brennan torpedo, controlled by the British war department, and as he had been through some practical mechanical experience he started in to develop the gyroscope car. And in May, 1907, he made his invention public.

Trees Are Canadian Guide's Compass.

A famous Canadian guide—of whom his friends assert that you could take him up in a balloon blindfolded and drop him into the middle of the wilderness and he would find his way out—was asked by a Michigan hunter not long ago how he did it.

"There is one thing which in any general stretch of country is infallible. This is the inclination of the trees. Every section has its prevailing wind. If you know what is the prevailing wind of the region where you are it seems to me that anybody with half an eye ought to be able to take a straight course and hold it.

"Of course you won't find the trees in thick woods bending at a decided angle as you will find those on exposed ground. But if you observe carefully you will detect enough variation from a straight perpendicular to keep you going true. That's the secret of my senses of direction, and it's the secret every man in the woods can share."

Golf.

Golf, the game of presidents, has penetrated even to Bagdad. Where the Caliph Haroun once walked in mufti with his vizier, prosaic Germans and Englishmen now swear and shout "Fore!"

At Chinking, on the Yangtse river, there is a golf course covered with strange oval bumps. These are graves, and they make splendid hazards. The course is an abandoned Chinese cemetery.

Benin, Zanzibar, Bangkok and Perak all have their golf clubs.

Just a Suggestion.

In Shakespearean days they used to label the scenery. They hung out placards stating that "This is a wood" or "This is a castle." We don't need to do that now. Still, we might use the scheme to advantage. It would help sometimes to see an alleged Thespian bearing the legend, "This is an actor."

Observation.

The majority of men go through the world without cultivating the faculty of observation. How many of them, for instance, have ever taken the trouble to find out the number of buttons there are on the backs of the waists worn by their wives?

Seeking Knowledge.

It had been raining all day and finally little Lola asked: "Mamma, when God gets all the juice squeezed out of a cloud what does he do with it?" — Chicago News.

How Relief from Distressing Kidney Trouble Was Found.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wolf, 388 W. Morgan St., Tipton, Mo., says: "Inflammation of the bladder reached its climax last spring and I suffered terribly. My back ached and pained so I could hardly get around and the secretions were scanty, frequent of passage and painful. I was tired all the time and very nervous. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, and after taking a few boxes was cured and have been well ever since."

GOOD WORK IS LOVED WORK

And Therein One Should Find the Contentment That is Chief Part of Life.

If a man doesn't love his work, he had better get something else to do. But the trouble is that such people will hardly love any kind of work. The trouble is in them. They lack intelligence. If they knew enough to know good work, they would soon learn to love it. The manual-training scheme has this in view—to surround the job a man is doing with such intelligence and taste as will make it attractive to him.

"The man who is in love with his job gets more contentment out of life than any other," says Brander Matthews; and he gets a great part of his contentment in doing his work right. No man can love his work who shirks. No man can be contented who is dishonest about his work. This is shirking or doing it negligently. So these things always go together—honest work, contentment and love of the job.

Every Little Bit Helps.

The lecturer raised his voice with emphatic confidence. "I venture to assert," he said, "that there isn't a man in this audience who has ever done anything to prevent the destruction of our forests."

A modest-looking man in the back of the hall stood up.

"I—er—I've shot woodpeckers," he said.—Everybody's Magazine.

HABIT'S CHAIN

Certain Habits Unconsciously Formed and Hard to Break.

An ingenious philosopher estimates that the amount of will power necessary to break a life-long habit would, if it could be transformed, lift a weight of many tons.

It sometimes requires a higher degree of heroism to break the chains of a pernicious habit than to lead a forlorn hope in a bloody battle. A lady writes from an Indiana town:

"From my earliest childhood I was a lover of coffee. Before I was out of my teens I was a miserable dyspeptic, suffering terribly at times with my stomach."

"I was convinced that it was coffee that was causing the trouble and yet I could not deny myself a cup for breakfast. At the age of 36 I was in very poor health, indeed. My sister told me I was in danger of becoming a coffee drunkard."

"But I never could give up drinking coffee for breakfast, although it kept me constantly ill, until I tried Postum. I learned to make it properly according to directions, and now we can hardly do without Postum for breakfast, and care nothing for coffee."

"I am no longer troubled with dyspepsia, do not have spells of suffering with my stomach that used to trouble me so when I drank coffee."

Look in pkgs. for the little book, "The Road to Wellville." "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

VEGETABLES NOW IN SEASON

New and Old Ways of Preparing the Ordinary Accompaniments of the Staple Meats.

Creamed Cabbage.—One small head cabbage chopped coarsely and boiled 10 minutes in boiling salted water without covering; drain. Mix two level tablespoonfuls of flour with the same amount of butter and add to one-half pint of the liquid from cabbage, one cupful scalded milk, one-half teaspoonful salt; stir over flame until rather thick. Place layer of cabbage, one of sauce, until bake dish is full, then place in oven until nicely browned. May be prepared the day before wanted. Only takes a longer time to brown in the oven when ready.

Sweet Potatoes.—Peel, boil in enough water to cover. When nearly done pour off all but a cupful of the water and add one good cup of sugar. Cook about 10 or 15 minutes longer. Then take out potatoes, put in a pan with a tablespoonful of butter, add just a little vanilla to the sirup and pour over the potatoes. Put in oven and brown. Serve hot.

Potatoes au Gratin.—Boil as many potatoes as needed in the jackets. Peel and cut in small cubes. Put a layer of potatoes in a baking dish and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Now grate Switzer cheese plentifully over them and dot with butter. Put more potatoes and more cheese until pan is full. Cover top with cracker crumbs and pour a cupful of rich milk over and bake about 30 minutes. Serve from pan you baked them in. This is a fine dish, but use no other than Switzer cheese.

Potatoes.—Pare, wash and bake all same size potatoes. After done, cut in halves, scrape out the inside of potato, add butter, pepper, salt and milk, then mash and beat until very light; then put back into the half shell, rounding top nice and smooth. Put under broiler flame to brown quickly, serve on platter, garnish with parsley; put a small piece of butter on each half potato just before serving.

Green Tomato Mincemeat.—To one-half peck of green tomatoes add two pounds of sugar, one pound of raisins, one pound of currants, one tablespoonful ground cinnamon, three-fourths tablespoonful of cloves, one-half cupful of vinegar, pinch salt, five sour apples, one-half cupful of beef suet; put whole mass through meat chopper and boil about two hours. The suet can be omitted, but it won't be quite so rich without. This keeps all winter in stone crock or glass jars.

A cloth moistened with alcohol will clean piano keys.

Clean linoleum with warm water and polish with milk.

Ammonia used unsparingly cleanses and purifies kitchen utensils.

Clean soiled wallpaper with plaster of paris tied up in a muslin bag.

No soap on window panes! Rub them with either alcohol or ammonia to make them shine.

Decorated china plates should be put away with round pieces of cotton flannel between them.

Apply the white of an egg with a camel's hair brush to fly specks on gilt frames and they will disappear.

Soft soap made from half a pound of shaved down hard soap and two quarts of water will save the soap bill at cleaning time.

All the cooking utensils should be washed with soda immediately after they have been used, which will remove every trace of grease.

Grated raw potato makes a splendid cleanser for carpets. Rub it over the surface and finish off with a clean cloth wrung out of warm water.

Cover plaster of paris figures with a thick coating of starch and water, let it dry on the surface and the dirt will brush off with the dry powder.

The Gridiron Club.

The Gridiron Club, composed of Washington newspaper men, had their annual meeting this month, at which many of the leading officials of the capital were guests. Many good things, absent the political situation, were sprung; but the most laughable, perhaps, were the orders given the Nome waiter, who would transmit the orders to the chef in the inimitable style of this celebrated club. Here is a sample of the orders:

"Hash with red peppers and tabasco sauce," was demanded for President Taft.

"Chef, one order of Roosevelt's policies," shouted the man from Nome.

"Speaker Cannon says he wants something to remind him of Victor Murdock."

"Chef, one headed duck and let the blood drip."

"Secretary Knox wants a large hot bird."

"One Crane, and let 'er sizzle."

In came the chef, standing not on the order of his coming. He cried, "Boss, there's a waiter won't stand for calling hash 'Roosevelt's policies.'"

"Get the frog-eater's name and fire him," advised the boss.

"Name's Pinchot."

"Oh, that's different. They'll never fire Pinchot."

Postmaster General Hitchcock asked for a dish which was a favorite with him in the last campaign, breast of chicken, with wings attached and boiled dumpling.

"Oh, chef," yelled the boss, "one angel with the dough."

"Got it, one Charles P. Taft," bawled the chef, in reply.

"Attorney General Wickersham wants deviled lobster with laws removed."

"Oh, chef, one busted trust."

"Oh, sugar," came the answering drawl.

Suddenly a crashing behind the curtain suggested disaster.

A disheveled chef rushed in to declare that "Ballinger's got all our coal, Pinchot all the wood, and the fire's out."

Census Enumerators Rates of Pay.

The varying wage scales in different parts of the country and the differences in the nature and extent of the local difficulties confronting the enumerators in the larger geographical divisions of the United States have influenced and guided United States Census Director Durand in the adoption of a classification of enumerators' rates of compensation.

The different classes of rates will be so applied the average enumerator will earn substantially the same actual amount in one district as in another, even though the population may be much sparser in one than in the other, with other conditions also different. Regard is paid to the fact that prevailing wages and salaries are higher in some parts of the country than in others, but, aside from this, the Director's aim is to adjust the rates so as to make the earnings of the enumerators substantially uniform. Where the per capita rates would not give sufficient pay, the per diem rates are prescribed. The rates in general will be so adjusted as to give a slightly higher average amount to the enumerators than they received in 1900.

The rate will range from $5 to $6 per day for the enumeration of the rural areas outside of cities and towns. Six dollars is the highest rate authorized by law.

The per diem rates range from $3 to $3.50, $4, $5, $5.50, and $6, and are to be paid for a day of eight hours' work.

A Correction.

A portion of the commissioners' proceedings, held at Carrizozo, Lincoln county, New Mexico, was omitted last week, the same being the introduction to the resolutions in the bond matter. The resolutions were published, but the vote declaring their adoption got shifted in the hurry incidental to going to press, and did not appear. The following is a copy of the proceedings, from the introduction of the bond matter to the actual wording of the resolutions themselves:

"R. H. Taylor presented the following resolutions providing for the issuance of $28,000 court house and jail bonds of the county of Lincoln, and moved their adoption.

After full consideration and discussion, the motion to adopt the same being duly seconded, was put to a vote, resulting as follows:

Ayes—R. H. Taylor and C. W. Wingfield.

Nays—R. A. Duran.

Whereupon the chairman declared the resolutions adopted.
