Keating, recently convicted at Milwaukee of receiving deposits with the full knowledge that the South Side Savings bank, of which he was president, was insolvent, is on the docket of the supreme court today, on an order made returnable to-day by which the county is compelled to show cause why the proceedings should not be stayed during the pendency of the writ of error. If the stay is granted the ex-banker, whose frauds ruined tens of thousands of people, will be enabled to go free on bail until the supreme court has finally decided the justice of his conviction.

Poking Fun at Pannefote.

London, Feb. 21.—The members of the fashionable clubs and the members of the diplomatic circle are having a good deal of fun in a quiet way over a Washington dispatch which originally appeared in a New York paper, and has since been put into a neat circular form by some fun loving clubbers, narrating how Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador at Washington, put on the gloves with an attaché of the athletic department of one of the Washington clubs, how the latter succeeded in bringing the elated from the nose of the distinguished diplomat, and how in consequence he was compelled to offer an humble apology. Some of the diplomat's friends are inclined to regard the incident, or, to be more precise, the publication of it, as a good joke, but around Downing street there is a decidedly strong opinion that of late years British ministers to Washington have an unfortunate faculty of getting themselves into print concerning matters decidedly unbecoming and scarcely calculated to redound to the dignity that is supposed to lodge around the representatives of the Queen of Great Britain and Empire of India.

Concert at the Opera.

The grand concert at the opera house last Wednesday evening by home talent was a brilliant entertainment, and all who participated in the exercises acquitted themselves in good style. T. A. Finck delivered a brilliant address on "Washington." Prof. Manzo played "Farewell to Mexico" on the guitar, which was followed by the song "Could I from J. P. Dupuy Norman Sterry recited "Virginia" then came Mrs. A. P. Moore, "Mad of the Mill" was sung by Messrs. Dupuy, Brown, Washburn and Johnston, which was followed by a recitation from Miss James, entitled "The Angel of Buena Vista." Miss Jennings sang "Jesse, the Flower of Dan-lane" and "Robin Adair." Miss Gilmore delighted all with an excellent piano solo, after which Miss Baird came forward and recited "The Debating Society." Miss Claude Albright sang "La Habanera" from Carmen, and when encores sang another solo in perfect voice.

Diamond Robbery Recalled.

W. G. Pollock, who represents a big diamond concern of New York, is in the city with his wallet of samples, and today interviewed our diamond and jewelry dealers. Mr. Pollock is not a large man, physically, but he experienced nearly two years ago one of the most daring robberies in the western country. For five or six years before the robbery, so says Mr. Pollock, he was shadowed and followed by several men, who were bent on holding him up, and the instigator of the robbery, as was thought by the Pinkertons who worked on the case, was a merchant in business either at Pueblo or Leadville, Col. Finally one of the robbers was on the same train with Mr. Pollock, while he was traveling in the western country, and he was taken unaware by being struck across the head with a slung shot. The blow stunned him, but he made a grab for the fellow, when he received another blow, the bag of the slung shot having struck him for his desperate antagonist, when the fellow fired four shots into his body, and then grabbed his wallet, containing $17,000 in diamonds, gemstones, and escaped from the car. The wounds were not dangerous, although Mr. Pollock was compelled to keep his bed for months. The firm expended a large amount of money in capturing the robber, who was run to earth by the Pinkertons and sent to the penitentiary for seventeen years. He is now serving out his sentence. The man in the penitentiary has persistently refused to "speak" on the balance of the gang.

Direct from Cochiti.

George Osterland is in the city and he is as mad as a wet hen. About two months ago he entered the Cochiti mining district, and, as he states, associated himself with Louis Hostetter, George Blake, and Phillip O'Bannon in the development of several claims. Everything went along smoothly until O'Bannon came to the city a few days ago, when the news reached

NOTED WOMAN!

Descendant of a Revolutionary Patriot Dies this Morning.

Southern Coal Miners Opposed to Free Trade.

Boston in Fear of Riot from the Thousands of Unemployed.

CHIEF EVANS IN THE PEN.

Washington, Feb. 21.—One of the most remarkable women in American history, whose fame as a patriot is established in the records of congress and political literary archives of the government, died here this morning, being Miss Anna Carroll of Maryland, a descendant of the famous C. Carroll of Carrollton, signer of the Declaration of Independence. She was author of the plan "that broke the backbone of the rebellion." Her funeral will be held at Trinity church and her remains interred in Carrollton cemetery.

Opposed to Free Trade.

Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 21.—At a convention of coal miners held here this morning, were represented, which have an annual output of three million bushels and employ ten thousand hands and on whom forty-five thousand people depend for support. The convention passed a resolution asking that coal be not placed on the free list and prayed the southern senators to use their influence to that end.

Fear a Riot.

Boston, Feb. 21.—The city authorities this morning fear a repetition of the disturbance of yesterday afternoon, when five thousand unemployed and ragged and hungry men crowded into the state house demanding work and animating the corporations and leading for the governor, who appeared and pacified them. The anarchistic tendency of the utterances of one of the men named Swift has excited the men's passions and additional trouble is looked for and extra police are on duty today.

Student Murders.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 21.—The annual banquet of the Cornell freshmen last night resulted in the death this morning of a colored woman cook and Thomas McNeal, a student. The sophomores generated chlorine gas in the room under the banquet hall, and introduced the deadly fumes through the door. Besides the two fatalities many are dangerously ill.

Shipwrecked Aways.

London, Feb. 21.—A dispatch from Montevideo this morning states that all the vessels of the fleet of the Brazilian government, with the single exception of the Nietherly, have deserted and joined a squadron of insurgents and sailed away from the harbor of Rio Janeiro.

Bad Fire.

Quincy, Ills., Feb. 21.—A disastrous fire occurred this morning in the business portion of this city. Before the flames could be subdued, the damage amounted to two hundred thousand dollars. Watchman J. Sullivan was overcome by the heat and lost his life.

Trouble Brewing.

Cripple Creek, Feb. 21.—Miners working 9 hours by order of court on the Portland mine were obliged by strikers to work only 8 hours, and there is trouble brewing. The leading citizens are in consultation this afternoon.

They don't speak.

London, Feb. 21.—Ex-British Minister to Washington Sackville-West and United States Minister Thomas F. Bayard do not speak as they pass by. It was at a fashionable function a few weeks ago that the two distinguished diplomats came together for the first time since the American ex-secretary of state came to this country in the role of ambassador. Some of the guests noticed that the ex-minister to Washington did not seem in a hurry to greet his brother diplomat, but that, on the contrary, he found it convenient to form one of a group in an adjoining salon, until the hostess put in an appearance and compelled him, nilly-willy, to take her arm and accompany her to the group surrounding Mr. Bayard. Here she went through the formality of an introduction. Mr. Bayard's manner was cordial, but Sackville-West contented himself with a stiff and formal bow. The rest of the guests wondered what it meant, until somebody with a memory recalled the fact that Mr. Bayard happened to be the American secretary of state at the time that Sackville-West made his now historic break, and that it devolved upon the present American minister to conduct the correspondence that ended in West's recall. Then everything was explained. Since this event the two gentlemen have met twice in aristocratic drawing rooms, but they do not speak as they pass by.

Direct from Cochiti.

George Osterland is in the city and he is as mad as a wet hen. About two months ago he entered the Cochiti mining district, and, as he states, associated himself with Louis Hostetter, George Blake, and Phillip O'Bannon in the development of several claims. Everything went along smoothly until O'Bannon came to the city a few days ago, when the news reached

Mr. Osterland that O'Bannon had interdicted.

Mr. Osterland states that the place holds were discovered by him and O'Bannon, and by rights he should share a united of the mine proceeds, which the syndicate expects to reap from the rich fields which they have discovered through the manipulations of Mr. O'Bannon. Mr. Osterland states that this morning a wealthy gentleman from Denver, arrived in the district the other day with his assaying instruments, and from rock taken from one of the claims, his returns showed 250 ounces of silver and $500,000 worth of gold.

The gentleman also informs that O'Brien states that the Crown Point mine worked by Jas. D. May, and partly owned by Henry Lockhart and Ben Johnson, of this city is about the best property in the district. The owners will ship a car load of ore as soon as the snow melts.

It is learned that there is a quarrel among several Albuquerque people, who are interested together in a claim in the district, and that the difference will have to be settled in the courts.

A letter received by The Citizen this morning from Wallace states that the stage coach, which leaves there at 7:30 a. m., returning at 7 p. m., is crowded every day with gold-seeking prospectors and miners. The writer says that a large engagement of groceries and an assay outfit arrived at W. Tuesday night yesterday, and was immediately sent out to the district.

THE WRONG FELLOW.

he no hold here for Chas. Moore, the Rapist.

A few days ago the "tramp" of the city arrested and imprisoned by Chas. Moore, the Rapist, the Fremont, Ont. report, and placed him in the city jail. They then placed their hands on the shoulders of the man, and in response to their shouts, Sheriff Radford came on to examine the supposed suspect, and being convinced that he was not Moore, the authorities here turned the fellow loose as to that charge, but justice took him to the city jail, where he was kept for several days, among whom was H. S. Knight, who was married and deputy sheriff of the county, besides a number of other men, who were arrested on the same charge. The sheriff returned home Wednesday night. In regard to the father of the little girl so tragically, the Fremont Advertiser says:

Michael Dougherty, of Pueblo, father of the little girl, who was so tragically murdered by Chas. Moore, arrived from that city Friday evening. Instead of going immediately to the hospital to see his child, as many fathers who have any love for their offspring would have done, he spent the night with the two colored prostitutes to whom care he had consigned the child. Yesterday, accompanied by the two women, he proceeded to go to the hospital and to the little girl, against the wishes of the nurses. The officers were notified and succeeded in getting the child away from the premises, who were all taken into custody. The women were jailed as vagrants and as no charge could be preferred against Dougherty, he was released. A note was taken back to the hospital, where she will remain until a home can be found for her.

A Peculiar Legal Case.

A very peculiar case came up in the United States court sitting at Las Cruces last week. The United States Marshal for this territory sent a registered summons to John A. Rathel, at Deming, commanding him to appear and serve as a grand juror at the present term of court. Rathel having moved from Deming some months ago and located in Sheridan, Wyoming, the postmaster at Deming promptly forwarded the letter to Mr. Rathel at that place. Rathel having severed his residence connection with this territory was in a quandary as to his duty in the matter. He made diligent inquiry of legal authorities in his town, but they, not being familiar with our law in regard to the question in point Rathel concluded that the only thing to do was to comply with the demands of the summons. Accordingly he presented himself and demanded his mileage, which amounted to $220. Then arose the question of his liability to serve in the capacity for which he had been called, and after a long time he was no longer a resident of the territory he was excused, but not, however, until the mileage had been paid. The legality of service by registered letter is seriously questioned by very many of the leading attorneys of this territory and it is a matter which will no doubt be brought before the legislature. FAMOUS ORDER!

The Strike Order of Judge Jenkins Must be Modified.

Victory for Makers of Surgical-Electrical Appliances.

The Vatican a Rome to be Protected by a Free Brigade.

ILLINOIS PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Milwaukee, Feb. 23.—On the docket of the United States district court today is a motion through which Judge Jenkins sought to modify his famous strike order with reference to the Northern Pacific railway conflict. This motion is made by P. M. Arthur, grand chief executive officer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; E. P. Sargent, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Railway Car and Equipment Men; E. K. Clark, grand chief of the Conductors; D. G. Baunoy, chief of the Telegraphers' National association; S. E. Wilkinson, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Trainmen; and John Wilson, grand chief of the Switchmen's Mutual benefit association. These organizations and officers state in the motion that they represent, such employees of the Northern Pacific only as belong to the organizations named. The federation of employees of the Northern Pacific road is not a party to the motion. The court is asked to make out all that part of the first injunction issued December 19, and of the second or supplemental injunction issued December 22, which restrained the employees from striking or preparing to strike. Charles Quarles, of Quarles, Science and Quarles, the attorneys for the plaintiffs, said today that the object of the motion was to bring to a direct issue before the court the question whether courts can grant injunctions to restrain employees from striking. It will be a test case of national interest and vital importance. The petition, for no important document is brief. It asks for the modification of the injunction of December 19 by expunging the words "and from combining and conspiring to quit, with or without notice, the service of said railway, with the object and intent of crippling the property in their custody, or embarrassing the operation of said railway, or in any way interfering with the operation of said railway." It is also asked that the passages in the supplemental injunction, which are much stronger, covering the same ground be eliminated.

Press Association.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—The members of the Illinois Press association were slow in getting together this morning, the exercises in honor of Washington's birthday having lasted until after midnight. Rev. Dr. Benson, the eminent Baptist divine, H. H. Kohlstedt, of the Inter Ocean, Victor F. Lawson, of the News, and Melvin E. Stone, of the American Press, were among the speakers. The committee on the proposed trip to Europe presented a report which was unanimously approved, and which provides for a three months' trip to England and the continent. The delegates then discussed the law of libel and other typical questions. The election of officers takes place this afternoon, and the convention concludes to-night with a reception tendered to the delegates by the local press.

Important Decision.

London, Feb. 23.—Manufacturers of surgical-electrical appliances throughout the world may be regarded as having achieved a remarkable victory in the decision rendered today in the Marlborough police court, and by which the final proceedings on the charges of conspiracy against the Medical Battery company were dismissed. The members of this company were arrested some months ago at the instance of a number of medical men who found their business being obstructed by the company's sale of electrical apparatus with conspiracy to commit fraud by retailing various kinds of apparatus with the knowledge that they were worthless. No less than eighteen hearings took place in the case, the defendants being placed in dock on each occasion and otherwise treated as criminals. When the turn of the defense came scores of witnesses of position and standing, army officers, actors and actresses, and newspaper men were placed on the stand, and testified that the treatment they had received had restored them to health after they had "led to derive benefit from the services of eminent medical men, among the latter being the late Sir Morrell Mackenzie. In the result Justice Haney concluded that no jury would convict under the circumstances, and left the matter to the government prosecutor to decide whether or not he would proceed with the case. In court today it was announced that the prosecution will not be followed, and accordingly the prisoners were honorably discharged.

Recitation of Rosary.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 23.—A recitation of the greatest importance to members of the Catholic church has just been conducted here from the sacred congress of the Indulgences. It relates to the recitation in common of the most holy rosary, and provides that where two or more persons recite the rosary together, it will be sufficient that one of the number should hold in the hand a chaplet or a pair of beads properly blessed to enable all the other persons engaged in these devotions to secure all the indulgences attached thereto. It is provided, however, that during the recitation the full attention of the mind and spirit of the worshiper shall be devoted thereto.
