Governor Curry Will Keep Open House to All Callers From Two to Six

APPLICATION FOR WATER RIGHT

Project to Divert Normal Flow and Flood Waters of Gallegos Arroyo.

There will be no formal reception at the executive mansion on New Year's day but Governor Curry will be at home to callers from two to six o'clock.

Notary Public Appointed. Governor Curry today appointed Jesse C. Estlack of Eunice, Eddy county, a notary public.

Application for Water Right. Joe Doherty of Folsom, Union county, has applied for four second feet out of the Gallegos arroyo and ninety second feet at flood time, for the reclamation of 400 acres in Union county. The water is to be diverted by a ditch into a natural reservoir at a cost of $2,000.

Conference of Census Supervisors. A conference of western census supervisors has been called to meet at Denver on January 11, to discuss matters that have arisen over the proposed methods of taking the livestock census.

District Court. In the district court for Torrance county, the Meyers Company of Albuquerque, on December 8, filed two suits, one against Albino Barela, Jose M. Sinerros, Doroteo Torres and Rinaldo Mirabal, on a note for $185 and the other against Antonio Jose Vallejos and son on a note for $150. In connection with these cases, the New Mexican had been informed that Hanna & Wilson had been retained as attorneys in one of them, but today was apprised by the district clerk's office, that they are not attorneys in either of the two cases.

Chinaman Lodged in Pen. Deputy U. S. Marshal James H. Smith today lodged in the penitentiary Hom Kim sentenced to the penitentiary for one year for forgery by Chief Justice Mills at Las Vegas.

MEN FOR CENSUS WORK ARE SCARCE

Director Durand Fears That There Will Not Be Enough Applications for Enumeratorships.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Relics of a prehistoric race in Colorado will be lost unless prompt action is taken to prevent their deterioration by exposure to the elements. This statement is made in a report made by Superintendent Randolph of Mesa Verde National park in Colorado. The superintendent makes a plea for the preservation of the historic spots within the reservation.

Shortage of Applicants for Jobs. Washington, Dec. 30.—Applicants are not scrambling to obtain jobs as census enumerators and Census Director Durand is considerably perturbed over the shortage of men willing to earn government money. The difficulty is in the west and south, and especially in the cities.

The job of census enumerator pays so much per name or per day, depending upon the locality in which the work is done, and averages about $60 per enumerator for the entire time required. In cities of more than 5,000 inhabitants where population is congested and counting is easy, the enumerator is required to finish his work in two weeks, but in cities under that size and in country districts, one month is allowed.

Director Durand explains the lack of applicants for census jobs only on the theory that there is so much general prosperity in the country that the government jobs are not wanted. The time for applications for these jobs ends on January 25, and Durand invites public spirited and patriotic people to join in the census work.

NEW SALOON LICENSE EFFECTIVE JANUARY FIRST.

Santa Fe Has Six Liquor Emporiums, Each of Which Will Now Pay $1,000 to City.

At midnight tomorrow the new liquor ordinance passed some time ago by the city council will go into effect and every saloon in Santa Fe will be compelled to pay the higher license which is $1,000 per year in addition to the usual county license. While the county license is payable annually, the city license is payable semi-annually. There are at present six saloons in the city. The proprietors of each have expressed an intention of continuing in business despite the increased levy made upon them.

ENRIQUE CREEL ENDS HIS MISSION

He Says He Has Been Instrumental in Restoring Peace in Nicaragua

ASYLUM GIVEN TO ZELAYA

Not an Act Unfriendly to United States, is His Declaration.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Governor Enrique Creel, special envoy from Mexico to the United States in Nicaraguan affairs, gave the Associated Press today a statement regarding his mission to this country. Governor Creel declared that he had accomplished the task with gratifying results. The resignation of Zelaya and the succession of President Madriz has ended many difficulties and prevented anarchy he declared, and peace and patriotism are now finding their way in Nicaragua. The granting of an asylum to Zelaya by Mexico, said Governor Creel was in no sense an act of unfriendliness to the United States but in full accord with the laws of the nations. Governor Creel leaves for home after January 1st.

Consul Is Too Economical.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—As the state department has had much difficulty in obtaining from Vice Consul Caldera at Managua important details of recent happenings in the Nicaraguan capital, it has been decided to send Consul Olivares, now on leave in Washington, to Managua to take charge of the consulate there.

The department is inclined to attribute Mr. Caldera's short and unsatisfactory messages to the fact that he is over economical, the toll being 25 cents a word. A dispatch was received from Managua today reporting that before he left Managua Zelaya distributed 10,000 rifles among his followers. Military activity at Managua and on the west coast, it is said, continues.

Another message says Madriz has issued an order creating a tribunal to investigate the alleged frauds of the Zelaya administration.

Commenting today upon the fact that Admiral Kimball had visited Madriz at Managua in full uniform and accompanied by an aide, Assistant Secretary Wilson said the visit was entirely without the knowledge of the state department and could not have any significance whatever. Stories that this visit might be regarded as a preliminary step to the recognition of Madriz as president of Nicaragua are declared groundless.

IRISH DEFENDER OF GIFFORD PINCHOT.

Declares Him a Remarkable Public Servant Doing His Work With Great Efficiency.

New York, Dec. 30.—Gifford Pinchot found support in his controversy with Secretary Ballinger from an unexpected quarter.

Speaking before the Economic and Historical Association, Sir Horace Plunkett of Dublin, who has brought about a rural revolution in Ireland and is said to know more about the resources of the United States than 90 per cent of our own citizens said:

"I greatly regret that I have just received a telephone message from Mr. Pinchot that pressing business keeps him away. I must decline to enter into any controversy, but I should like to say that I regard Mr. Pinchot as a very remarkable public servant. He is not only a man who is doing his work with great efficiency, but he is trying as well to broaden his administrative position."

Sir Horace expressed surprise that the warning repeatedly uttered by James J. Hill had not been better heeded in this country. He thought that perhaps we were so much interested in the trusts and in municipal regulations that we blinded the sure approach of a more distant, but also a more important problem.

STATE OF COLORADO WILL FEED STARVING CATTLE.

Denver, Dec. 30.—In response to complaints made to the Denver Humane Society, Governor Shafroth ordered the state board of cattle inspection to take measures to relieve 2,000 head of cattle which are said to be suffering for food and water on the mesas between Hotchkiss and Austin, Colo. It is said that scores of the cattle are down; that the snow is several inches deep and the temperature below zero. A law providing for the care of cattle in severe winter was passed by the last legislature, but there is some difference of opinion as to the authority of the state board under its provisions.

COLDEST DAY OF WINTER TODAY IN THE EAST

Passenger Train Stalled Six Hours in Blizzard—Coal Giving Out in Ohio Valley Towns—Tennessee Covered With Ice.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 30.—The cold wave from the west has reached here and destroyed all hope of a speedy clearing away of the blockade caused by the Christmas blizzard. Huge drifts, partly melted, have been converted into masses of ice. The Schuylkill river here is frozen. Severe weather is reported all over the state.

Ohio Frozen Over.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 30.—For the first time in seven years the Ohio river here is frozen over today except for a small space in the local harbor, which tugs are endeavoring to keep open.

Many Overcome by the Cold.

New York, Dec. 30.—New Yorkers awoke this morning to find the coldest day of winter upon them. Six above zero was the official record. Many persons were overcome by the cold and the municipal houses are crowded with persons seeking shelter.

Passengers Suffered From Cold.

Columbus, O., Dec. 30.—The Cleveland, Akron & Columbus train from Cleveland arrived this morning six hours late, after the passengers had undergone an experience of suffering from cold, panic from fire, and a hurried transfer in night clothes to another car. The heater of the sleeper became frozen on the way, and when the crew tried to thaw out the pipes underneath the car, it caught fire. The fire was unnoticed for the time, but finally the car became filled with smoke and the panic stricken passengers scantily clad, were rushed into another car. The crew finally quenched the fire.

Killing Frost in Florida.

Louisville, Dec. 30.—Fast in the grasp of the coldest weather in years Louisville with several million bushels of Pittsburg coal almost at its back door, faces a threatened coal shortage. The Ohio river today is frozen almost from shore to shore, for the first time in many years, and it is impossible for the coal to come down the river for at least a week. The minimum temperature at Louisville last night was one above. Even Florida is shivering, it being twenty above at Jacksonville this morning, while Tampa across the state and 200 miles south, reported 28 above and killing frost.

Ohio Valley Fears Flood.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 30.—The coming of zero weather in Pittsburg and throughout western Pennsylvania has temporarily postponed here and along the Ohio river in West Virginia and Ohio, a destructive flood. For a score of years conditions have not been so favorable for a rampage of the waters. The Ohio river is practically frozen from this point to Cincinnati. Above here, the countless tributaries of the Allegheny, Monongahela, Youghiogheny and others rivers are likewise frozen, and covered with ten to fifteen inches of snow. Warm weather and rain now mean disaster, warm weather alone a serious flood, while should the conditions moderate gradually, little damage would result. Warm weather is said to be headed this way, keep open. More that a million dollars' worth of property is jeopardized by the freezing of the river. It was three below here this morning.

Icy Cold in Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 30.—For the first time since 1893, the Cumberland river at this point is covered with a thin coating of ice. It was six above early this morning.

Six Frozen to Death in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 30.—Six persons are dead from exposure in the cold wave that struck this city last night.

WHITE SLAVES AROUSE FRANCE

Newspaper Appeals to Government to Stamp Out Nefarious Traffic

FEELS NATIONAL DISGRACE

United States Immigration Report Causes Republic to Take Notice.

Paris, Dec. 30.—The Matin today declares that the report of the United States immigration commission, which placed France first among the nations as an exporter of so-called "white slave" recruits, constitutes a national disgrace, and appeals to the government to communicate immediately with Washington for the suppression of the traffic. The paper insists that France in reality is the most decent country of the globe and where home life and virtue are most beautifully exemplified, yet abroad and especially in America, the scandalous literature circulated and the extent of the monstrous white slave trade has given her a reputation of being the center of depravity. Paris the Matin says, is pictured as a modern Babylon and adds: "The government must intervene. It is a question of humanity and of national honor."

BIG NEW YORK TENEMENT SWEEPED BY FIRE.

More Than a Score of Persons Injured Five of Them Fatally By Smoke and Flames.

New York, Dec. 30.—More than a score of persons were injured, five probably fatally at a fire which swept a big tenement on Belmont avenue today. Six of the injured were firemen, who were overcome by the smoke and were hurt in aiding the imperiled people to escape from the blazing structure. A number of panic-stricken inmates jumped from the windows.

WORK BEGUN ON NEW EIGHTY MILE RAILROAD.

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 30.—Work has been commenced on the San Antonio and Fredericksburg railroad. The line will be some eighty miles in length, and will open up a very rich territory. Several deep cuts and tunnels will make the building of the road rather expensive. The road is to be in operation in less than a year.

SHIRT WAIST MAKERS' STRIKE

Girls Are Firm in Insisting on the Recognition of Their Union

EMPLOYERS TO COMPROMISE

Mass Meeting Will Be Held in Carnegie Hall on Sunday Night.

New York, Dec. 30.—Although the suggestion of a compromise were thrown out today by the manufacturers, thousands of young shirt waist makers who are putting up such a remarkable fight for the recognition of their union, remain firm in the declaration that this essential point must be admitted. "The girls are willing to compromise on a reasonable basis but they will insist on the recognition of the union." This was the declaration made today by one of the group of society women who have rallied to the support of the young strikers. Employers have called a meeting for this afternoon when it is reported, a compromise proposition will be drawn up. Mrs. Charles Beard, wife of Professor Beard of Columbia University, is chairman of the committee on arrangements for a mass meeting in the interest of the strikers in Carnegie hall on Sunday night.

CONVICT LABOR AFFECTS MINING OF LIGNITE.

Thousand Acres of Coal Lands Sold in Texas for Small Sum of $25,000.

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 30.—In a deal made between D. J. Woodward of this city and Frank Tomlinson of Big Springs, 1,000 acres of land known to be underlaid with a high grade lignite deposit, was transferred to the latter for the sum of $25,000. The property is located near the Calvery lignite mines in Robinson county, where the best lignite coal in the state is mined. The purchase price is considered very low and it is understood that the possibility of the government abolishing in the near future all convict labor, is partly responsible for this. Owing to the fact that lignite does not bring a good price in competition with other coals its mining in Texas heretofore has depended largely on such cheap labor as the convict lease system afforded. Experts declare however, that the use of better machinery will make the mining of lignite profitable especially when it is used without having to be transported any great distance. Mr. Tomlinson is heavily interested in light and power plants all over the state and it is thought that he will erect a large electric plant near the lignite beds.

COAL MINE SUPER-INTENDENT RESCUED.

Taken Out of Oklahoma Coal Mine Unconscious After Vain Effort to Save Shot Firer.

McAlester, Okla., Dec. 30.—After having been entombed twenty-eight hours in a smoke-filled out of the Bolen Darnell Company's coal mine, Superintendent John Brown was rescued alive but unconscious this morning. Brown would have died within another hour. As it is his condition is serious. Brown risked his life in a heroic endeavor to rescue Angel Asenear, the shot firer, who was entombed following an explosion in the mine late on Tuesday. The shot firer's fate still remains unknown.

DOCTOR COOK HIDING FROM THE PUBLIC.

He is in the Wilds of Canada Waiting for the Polar Controversy to Blow Over.

Montreal, Dec. 30.—A physician who claims to be a personal friend of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, said yesterday he had received a letter from the missing explorer, who he says is at a camp owned by George Rowley of Laurentide Inn in the Lake St. John district. Dr. Cook, he said, was in excellent health and determined to stay away from civilization until the Polar controversy was straightened out.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF TONG WAR IN NEW YORK.

Police Are Unable to Find Any Tangible Clue to the Identity of Murderer.

New York, Dec. 30.—The renewal of the Tong war in New York's Chinatown claimed another victim early this morning. Ah Hung, the actor was shot and killed in a hallway of his tenement house. The police are unable to find any tangible clue to the identity of the murderers.

WOULD SAVE $10,000 A YEAR

Automobile Line From Santa Fe to Aztec is Practicable

ANOTHER GOOD ROADS MOVE

Commercial Bodies of This City Should Take an Active Interest.

From Santa Fe to Aztec, San Juan county, in one day; the saving of almost $10,000 to the Territory, the federal authorities, the counties, in railroad fares and hotel expenses; the conquest of a new trade province, that is what the opening of an automobile road from Santa Fe to San Juan county would mean. Capital is ready to place automobiles into service, without further notice, if the road is laid out.

Governor Curry is much interested in the project and has promised the cooperation of the Good Roads Commission if the counties of Santa Fe, Rio Arriba and San Juan do their part. In Santa Fe county, the road would follow the well worn, historic road to Santa Cruz by way of Tesuque and Pojoaque and which ought to be put in prime condition anyway as the New Mexican has advocated previously. This road, as it is, carries a large amount of local traffic and from the tourist standpoint is incomparable. At Santa Cruz, the road would cross the Rio Grande to Espanola and thence running to Chama would follow the present road along the Chama to Abiquiu, and thence to Coyote and Gallina. Just beyond Gallina, it would cross the Continental Divide at an altitude of only 7,200 feet, and then follow the Canon Largo to the San Juan river, thence to Bloomfield and Aztec, and if found desirable, on to Farmington, the entire distance being about 200 miles, or to be more exact, 192 miles to Aztec, an easy day's trip for an automobile for there are no heavy grades on the road. The hardest hill is in Santa Fe county from the Tesuque river to Pojoaque. There is also a long stretch of sand between Abiquiu and Coyote. Over the Continental Divide and along the Largo, the road would be almost level for miles and miles and all that would need to be done is to cut out the sage brush and low timber. From Coyote, a branch road could be run to El Vado and Tierra Amarilla, while from Abiquiu, a branch road runs to El Rito and Ojo Caliente and from Chama to Alcalde, Velarde, Embudo, Glenwood, Ranchos de Taos and Taos, thus opening up again old trade arteries. As stated, a practical road exists already to Gallina, and from there on to the San Juan river the road making would be a comparative trifle, for the grade is easy and there is no sand. However, the old road would have to be fixed up in places. With a daily automobile schedule over such a road it is certain that other traffic would also increase for the country traversed is populous, and very productive. Jay Turley of San Juan county, who is spending several days in this city, is seeking to interest local businessmen in the project and has every assurance of assistance from Governor Curry and from those who have the capital to incorporate an automobile line from Santa Fe to Aztec with incidental service to Taos, Tierra Amarilla and El Rito. The next few years will see extraordinary development work in Taos, Rio Arriba and San Juan counties and Santa Fe would reap a great benefit from it if had easy communications with the territory to be developed.

BONUS OF $25,000 FOR ERECTION OF COTTON MILL.

Plan is to Bring From Saxony, Germany, Spinners, to Settle in Texas.

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 30.—Dr. Charles F. Simmons, the builder and owner of the Artesian Belt railroad, has offered to Gustav L. Hergert of Chemnitz, Germany, twenty acres of land and a bonus of $25,000 for the erection of a cotton mill of 500 spindles. He will also donate $1,000 to be applied towards the sending of a southwest Texas exhibit to the Berlin international exposition to be held next May.

Mr. Hergert is the representative of a number of Saxon cotton manufacturers who are contemplating the transfer of their mills to Texas, or some other cotton growing section, in order to get close to the raw material; the claim being made by them that the manipulation of the cotton supply by American and European brokers has forced the price of raw cotton to a point where even small dividends on the capital invested by cotton goods manufacturers are out of the question.

NEW YEAR'S EVE CELEBRATION

War on White Slave Traffic is on in Earnest in Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 30.—The helms of 1909 from the United States to Canada has taken $100,000,000 of wealth across the Dominion line, according to a summary completed for the year.
The total number of settlers who will cross the border in 1910 is put up by
Col. A. D. Davidson of the Nothren
Canadian at 125,000, for the government immigration reports for eight months ending November 30 show that a total of 71,988 American home-sellers settled in western Canada, every man, woman and child bringing into the Dominion, it is estimated, an average of $1,000 in cash and property.
This is an increase of 68 per cent over the figures for the corresponding eight months of the previous year. Almost as much has come from the United States as from all other sources combined. The American immigration means most to Canada because of the wealth it brings and the skill of those settlers in agriculture.
The total immigration figures for next year will probably show that more than 125,000 citizens of the United States have settled in Canada. Without taking into account the number from the states who purchased railway and other, privately owned lands,
the first ten months of this year, 9-919 homestead entries were taken up by Americans. Homesteaders from North Dakota led with 3,464 applications, but all states of the Union were represented. Next in order were Minnesota, 1,741; South Dakota, 522;
Michigan, 514, and Washington, 510.
Great growth of the Canadian west is indicated by the fact that a special mail train of eight cars loaded down with more than 2,000,000 Christmas letters as well as many thousands of packages containing Christmas presents is on its way to the western provinces. This is by far the largest mail delivery that has ever been sent in Canada for domestic consumption and is much ahead of any previous record in the way of Christmas mails for the west. Ten years ago the Christmas mail for Winnipeg and the west amounted to only half a carload.
Last year five cars were enough.

New Year's Eve Celebration.
Preparations for New Year's Eve
indicate a celebration that no less than 250,000 people at the prominent hotels and cafes will make notable,

for estimates place the amount which will be spent that night at two million dollars. Certain it is that Chicago never prepared so eagerly and systematically for a New Year's eve of convivial revelry. The tables at some cafes have been engaged for months and the seating capacity shows the number that will join in.
One has a seating capacity of 1,200;
another of 750 and Rector's tables for 1,200. As in New York, Rector's will be the center of the merry-making
by a spendthrift throng and wines
of vintages rarely touched are certain to come from the bins in the cellar. The mail which is accumulating for visitors and traveling men at the hotels shows what a gathering of the clans there will be. Practically Chicago's celebration will be national,
for engagements have been made by visitors from New Orleans at the south,
Winnipeg at the north, and cities east and west, one reason being the coming of buyers to the wholesale houses
and the annual round-up of the salesmen. New Year's eve is the great harvest time for the headwaiters, the waiters and all the sub-waiters down to the scullion who comes in for some of the distribution of coin by those whose prodigality will grow during the evening. Cafe managers say that prosperity is back again with all sales
set and that men who last year curtailed their expenditures are much more liberal this season.

Witchcraft of Electricity.
The witchcraft of electricity will reach its height in Chicago in the reproducing of writing across a span of 2 1/2 miles when "teletograph" connections are completed between the downtown office and general office of the Consolidated Casualty company,
which has led an exodus of insurance
and other offices away from the congested district of high rents to the old residential district two miles south of the elevated loop. By means of this modern device all the peculiarities of a signature or an application for insurance or other document will reappear as by magic, silently, mysteriously, at the other end of the electric line, the longest line for the purpose in the world. This is the device which the United States navy has installed on battleships to transmit orders and messages in the din of firing
when the telephone would be useless
and speed of communication is all important. New York has put the tel-etograph to work in clubs and hotels in transmitting orders from cafe to kitchen silently and instantaneously,
but Chicago will boast the boldest ob-literation of distance where accuracy and autographs are essential. The figures of an accident policy or an indemnity bond with the name of the applicant affixed will be received at the Consolidated company's main office, although the applicant is miles away. Metropolitan banks have their teletograph communication between officers, tellers and bookkeepers for silent inquiry regarding the balance of a customer or maturity of a note,
and many a customer has marveled
at the prodigious memory of a bank president who knew his balance to a cent, and wondered whether the banker could also recall all the thousands of other balances. The operation of the device is only explained by technical phrases, but in its simplest terms, when the pencil is moved by an operator currents of varying strength go out upon the line wires and these currents pass through two light vertically movable coils, suspended in magnetic fields, and the coils move up or down against the pull of retractile springs according to the strengths of the line currents. The motions of the coils are communicated to levers similar to those at the transmitter. At the junction of the levers is mounted the receiving pen, which by the motions of the coils, is caused to duplicate the motions of the sending pencil.

Fighting White Slave Traffic.

The bill against the interstate traffic in "white slaves," which Congressman Mann of Chicago has introduced in Congress, has had endorsement over the rival bills which have been presented by tardy champions of reform. United States District Attorney Edwin W. Sims, whose articles in the Woman's World of Chicago, a year ago startled the country with their astounding revelations, subsequently borne out by official reports,
said: "I consider the bill prepared by Congressman Mann to be the one which should be made a law. I have given it my endorsement and hope it will be universally endorsed." State Attorney Wayman, whose office has recently prosecuted many cases of white slavery, under the new Illinois
pandering law, said: "I endorse the Mann bill because I believe it will stand the legal tests and because it will be a great aid in the regulation of the traffic. It is a needed weapon in the fight to throttle this evil." The Mann bill provides drastic punishment for inducing or taking women from one state to another to lead immoral lives. Progress is being made in Ohio in the preparations to secure a new state law similar to that enacted last year in Illinois. The report of the house committee on interstate commerce stated: "This evidence showed beyond a reasonable doubt that there was in existence an organized system
or syndicate, having for its purpose
the importation of women from foreign countries to Chicago and other cities in the United States for immoral purposes. This syndicate had headquarters and distributing centers

in New York, Chicago, Omaha, Denver, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle and Nome, Alaska. It is conservatively estimated, from an examination of the data and information at hand, that the syndicate has imported annually for the preceding eight or ten years on an average of about 2,000
women—largely French."

End of Charity.
The end of charity balls in Chicago,
foreseen in the outburst of attack upon the last one, will put "finis" to social events that have been for years
the most elaborate and conspicuous that the city has boasted. More splendor has been lavished upon the settings for these balls and more display of gowns and jewels made than at any other event of the year, and incidentally they have been the means of raising for charity's uses about $200,000. Mrs. Potter Palmer has annually returned from Europe and its royal, semi-royal and petty courts to take up the no light task of guiding
the Chicago charity balls to success,
each year succeeding in outdoing the previous one. She is reported to be hurt incurably by the stinging criticism which has followed her latest and greatest triumph. The dispensing of charity by means of a brilliant ball has been branded as a sham and as an ointment for consciences troubled by the knowledge that poverty and misery exist beyond the narrow horizon that bounds their life of ease.
One preacher said: "The charity ball
is a second-handed and roundabout
way of doing the thing that Christ taught should be done first handed." Another said: "A ball under the cloak of charity is bad and without excuse." Those who buy a box in which to display themselves have little right to assume credit for the good their money may do. No clergyman or charity worker has refused to dispense funds provided by the ball.
However, the general theory expressed is: "It is the best way to get money out of them." The spirit of charity has almost been lost sight of by hundreds of the contributors to the charity ball funds, it is said, for the reason that they avoid coming in contact with the suffering and the need that they are presumed to deplore and try to alleviate.

Taxation of Standing Timber.

The taxation of standing timber before it is cut, which was denounced by Chief Forester Pinchot in Chicago, promises to become a prominent national issue. The present system of taxing the value of timber before it is cut Mr. Pinchot contended was penalizing the man who grows trees instead of wheat or corn, for these crops never are taxed until they have been harvested and turned into personal property with a definite market value.
"The land alone should be taxed," said
Mr. Pinchot. "Why should growing crops of timber pay taxes when other growing crops do not?" Mr. Pinchot's ideas have been approved by President H. U. Mudge of the Rock Island system, who said: "The government ought to buy up the cut-over lands itself and plant them at its own expense. It could easily secure the money by issuing fifty-year bonds. It is difficult to see how the government could lose. If there is government ownership, as some people seem to think may be the case fifty years from now, the government could not do better than to take measures that would insure it a sufficient supply of ties and posts against that time. If the railroads should then still remain
in private hands, the government could easily recoup itself at a good profit by selling its supply of timber
to the railroads for ties and posts."

FIVE ALBUQUERQUE SALOONS WIPED OUT.

High License Forces Them to Give Up
Business—But Eighteen Thirst
Parlors Will Continue.

Albuquerque, N. M., Dec. 30.—Five saloons may go out of business on Saturday, January 1st, as a result of the present rate of the retail liquor license. Of these three are positive in their statements that they will quit business, claiming that the fixed charge for license makes it impossible for them to meet expenses. Two others threaten to do so, but the owners are not positive as yet whether or not they will renew their licenses.
At the recent meeting of the city council when an effort was made to reduce the license, the statement was made that ten of the twenty-three saloons now running would quit January 1st. This estimate, however, appears to have been exaggerated as an inquiry among the owners yesterday found only three who had definitely determined to quit and two more who are considering it.

Mrs. S. Joyce, Claremont, N. H., writes: "About a year ago I bought two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy. It cured me of a severe case of kidney trouble of several years standing. It certainly is a grand, good medicine, and I heartily recommend it." Sold by all druggists.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

MODERN, GOOD ROADS BUILDING.

From time immemorial, the county and city of Santa Fe, have adhered to a policy in road building that is more out of date than are the methods of the old Romans and Greeks for these knew two thousand and more years ago how to construct splendid thoroughfares. Although there has been patching of roads and streets in this county and city for the past three hundred years, and this county has been the smallest for many years and today is next to Bernalillo, still the least in extent in area of the twenty-six counties of the territory, it has no good roads outside of the Circle Drive, built through the energy of Mayor Jose D. Sena, and part of the Scenic Highway up Santa Fe Canon, built by the territory. This is a disgrace, and it is to be hoped that the new year will bring some sense to the authorities in the matter of handling road funds and road labor, both in the city and in the county. Instead of trying to spread the patchwork over all creation, the labor available should be concentrated on a block or one road at a time, building it according to modern methods from the bottom up and the money should be spent in buying good roads machinery. The mere scraping of the dirt in the gutters to the center of the street to be washed back into the gutters by the next rain, is not good roads building, it is wasting the taxpayers' money. There is only one way to build a road and that is to excavate it to sufficient depth, put in a foundation of stone and upon this lay either concrete, asphalt, cement or paving or to macadamize it by building up the road first with large stones, then smaller and smaller stones and finally packing it solidly by running a heavy road roller over it. Material for good roads building is at hand in every part of the county and costs practically nothing and labor is cheap. A block of macadamized street or of macadamized road would probably cost less here than does road construction anywhere else in the United States.

Bernalillo county has turned a new leaf in that respect, and Santa Fe county and this city, should follow this good example. Says the Albuquerque Morning Journal:

"The people of Bernalillo county have reason to congratulate themselves upon the fact that the county board has 'turned over a new leaf,' in the matter of making and mending county roads, and has resolved to adopt a common sense plan of doing such work hereafter.

"Since the 'memory of man runeth not to the contrary,' it has been the rule in this county, and we presume elsewhere in the territory, to select the precinct road supervisor with regard to his vote-getting qualities, without any regard whatever to what he might know or not know about the making or repairing of roads, and as a consequence the road fund has been regularly and deliberately squandered, and while we have been collecting every year from those who pay their taxes, a fund sufficient to have given us good highways in every part of the county, the fact still remains, to our disgrace, that the richest county in New Mexico has not a mile of properly improved country roads within its borders.

"Recognizing these shameful facts, the county commissioners have determined to bring a little common sense to bear upon the matter, and hereafter when a section of road is to be built or repaired, instead of allowing the public money to be frittered away by some utterly incompetent person, a contract will be publicly let to the lowest responsible bidder, and the work, according to prepared plans and specifications, will be done under the immediate supervision of the county engineer, who will see that the job is done according to contract before it is paid for.

"Under the operation of such a plan as this we shall have in the course of a very few years a network of good country roads all over the county. Right at our hands we have as good material, in inexhaustible abundance for the making of first class country roads as can be found anywhere, and we tax ourselves in a sum amply sufficient to pay for the work. All that has been necessary has been the application of a little common sense to the method of using our materials. And that defect the county board will remedy by its present plan."

NEW YEAR CALLS.

There is no social custom more delightful or founded on more solid principles of good fellowship and good will than that of extending New Year greetings by friendly calls. To express good wishes and hopes for health and prosperity during the year just begun is a most gracious act of kindly feeling and is worthy of high appreciation.

The custom of New Year calls, when it was almost universal, gave the best opportunity possible, and often the only one, for a man to renew acquaintances with old friends, to learn of changes in their families and circumstances, and to show a continued interest in their welfare. Unfortunately, in the large cities, the visiting list grew so large that it became impossible to make the round in person, and so gradually the good old custom degenerated into the sending of cards and finally was largely discontinued. But in smaller cities and villages there is every reason that it should be continued and increased. The man who cannot devote one day in the year to kindly greetings to his friends is not worthy of having any friends; and the lady who is not glad graciously to receive such greetings, deserves no calls throughout the year. There is no necessity for refreshments, all that is essential is kindly feeling and sincere good will. The New Mexican hopes that in Santa Fe the callers may be many and that they may find open doors. While announcements of being "at home" are not necessary, yet the New Mexican will cheerfully publish such as are received.

Daily automobile service from Santa Fe to Aztec, San Juan county, would mean a saving to the counties, the Territory and the federal government of almost $10,000 in official mileage and expense allowances each year. This represents the interest on an investment of $100,000 and from a financial standpoint, therefore, makes an automobile road from this city to the San Juan country the best investment the Good Roads Commission could make, especially since such a road would tie up with the road now being built to Albuquerque as well as the road to Las Vegas and Raton. Not much expense or time would be involved in such a project, for the road from Santa Fe to Santa Cruz is good with the exception of the Pojoaque hill and a few sandy places; in fact part of the road is one of the best highways in the Territory. The Rio Grande is bridged at Espanola and the bridge would merely need to be strengthened, while from Espanola to Chamita and thence to Abiquia and Coyote and even to Gallinas, the road is traveled daily and would need repairs only here and there to place it in first class condition. From Gallinas, the road would cross a beautiful, level mesa which constitutes the Continental divide rising at no point higher than 7,200 feet, a natural highway over the backbone of the continent. Along the Largo to the San Juan river, the drop would be very gradual and road making easy. The proposition is a feasible one and would mean much for developing an immense territory which has been always tributary to Santa Fe.

The farmers of the United States, taken as a whole, are still the best fixed factor in the industrial life of the nation. Their holdings are estimated to be worth thirty billion dollars, a sum so stupendous that the mind can hardly grasp it. But if farmers as a whole are very rich, as an individual, the farmer has in most cases still very much to wish for. Farm life, as the recent country life commission learned for itself, lacks many of the comforts and luxuries that fall to the man and woman in the city. However, rapid advancement is also being made along these lines and in some instances, farmers now have beautiful homes and all the advantages that modern sanitation and invention have devised for home comforts. After all, the farmers is most secure from vicissitudes of life, from financial failure, from panics, from dull times and his acres should always yield him enough to nourish and clothe the body, something which is not assured the factory and the office worker. No wonder, therefore, that there is an eager rush for the free and fertile lands of New Mexico and that in another twenty years, not one acre suitable to cultivation of the fifty million acres of government land in this Territory will remain for filing.

Judge John R. McFie stands as high in Taos, in Rio Arriba, San Juan and Torrance counties as he does at home in Santa Fe county. The New Mexican has lately quoted from the San Juan and Torrance county papers who have praised him for his learning, ability and integrity and is pleased to quote again the Estancia Daily Herald as follows:

"The New Mexican says that the Daily Herald, although with Democratic leanings, likes Judge McFie and does not stand back on saying so. Well, we never stand back on saying what we believe to be right. We like the judge because we believe him honest and fair on the bench. His legal ability is unquestioned; his moral character is conceded by all, and as a party man must have the place we prefer him to some stranger we know nothing about. Beside we are perfectly independent in this matter and desire the appointment of the judge because of his fitness legally, morally and further because he's an old comrade. We will say frankly to the New Mexican that our leanings have always been in favor of good government. If that's Democracy make the most of it."

The discussions of the pedagogues at Roswell this week are of more moment to New Mexico than all the scheming of politicians for senatorships and other offices, but it is in the nature of things, that less attention is being paid to them than there is to a fight over a constableness. However, New Mexico is making great progress along educational lines through the efforts, self-sacrifice and patriotism of its host of more than a thousand public school teachers, not to speak of those who teach in private schools and in the higher institutions of learning. New Mexico is fortunate in having at the head of its public school system, an experienced educator like Superintendent J. E. Clark, who is also a practical business man. Without losing sight of the higher ideals he knows how to make the most of existing conditions. Aboard seconding him in his efforts are most of the county school superintendents, for never before in the history of the territory, has the average of the twenty-six county superintendents measured up to such high standard as at this time.

The state of Kansas will be offered the grounds and buildings of the Haskell Institute at Lawrence, Kansas, for a state industrial training school. This means that this large school for Indians is to be closed up by the federal government. This is in accordance with a program of the Indian service by which all non-reservation schools will in time be turned over to the commonwealths in which they are located; those farthest away from Indian reservations first and then those nearer to them. Schools situated so fortunately as that at Santa Fe, adjoining the Pueblo population as well as convenient to the large reservations of Navajos and Apaches, still have a long lease of life and usefulness although in the course of events, they too, will some day be turned into an industrial training school for white children rather than Indians.

The New Mexican would like to see District Attorney Edmund C. Abbott appointed to the vacant judgeship in the Territory. Mr. Abbott is a clean conscientious and fearless prosecuting officer, whose experience has been of so broad a nature that it has fitted him especially for the judicial ermine. As a prosecuting officer he has been diligent in the performance of his duties and his record is of the best. He is highly regarded in the department of justice at Washington and has had offered to him advantageous positions elsewhere but his love for New Mexico and interest in its future are keeping him in Santa Fe. He has been a sturdy and loyal Republican and yet is free from narrow partisan bias. The administration at Washington certainly would not make a mistake in appointing him to the vacancy on the New Mexico supreme bench.

On Tuesday the New Mexican told of a boy killing himself accidentally with a twenty-two caliber rifle which had been given him for a Christmas present. Yesterday it gave the news of a youth who died at Tucuman from a self-inflicted wound from a revolver with which he was playing. Scarcely a week elapses that the local newspapers do not tell of an accidental shooting through the careless handling of fire arms. There seems to be only one remedy and that is to forbid the sale of fire arms except to certain privileged classes or those having a license for which they must pay an annual fee. While this would not abate the evil entirely, yet, it would prevent the promiscuous handling of weapons by those who have no business with them.

The New Mexican takes no stock in the news of the reported acquisition of the New Mexico Central railway by the Rock Island interests. Rumors of this sort have been many since the road was built. However, this much is certain, that sooner or later a branch line will be constructed into the Hagan coal fields and that those fields are the key to the future prosperity of the road which has had some hard sledding since it was first built but has outlived the predictions of those pessimists who have had it in the hands of receivers or sold at least a dozen times the past two years.

you'll not detect the slightest odor of smoke.

The following contribution arrived in this morning's mail:

Dear Mr. Editor: Calculating that your reporter don't have a thing about the great and glorious game called basket ball and having been present at last night's game between the Santa Fe boys and the Occidentals of Albuquerque, I take great delight in reporting the game as follows. Being an old timer I know the game down to its finest points as witness my technical terms. When I arrived upon the scene of battle in the National Guard Armory, a large crowd was gathered, seated on either side of the hall and a lean, lank fellow in an orchestra chair, was pounding a bass drum at irregular intervals. The Santa Fe members of the team were scattered about the center of the hall tossing about an exaggerated football. The boys were dressed for the occasion in decollette costume that had women's abbreviated skirts beat to a frazzle, as Roosevelt would say. Just as I seated myself, a pretty girl next to me with her eyes fixed upon the manly form of Gus Koch, remarked, "Don't they look just too cunning for anything?"

Well, anyway, the game soon started and the fun was quickly at full tilt. Each team was trying to outdo the other tossing the ball to bare brick sides of the building where hung a wire hoop with a net attached. The object seemed to be to get the ball into the net. Every time it went in two points were counted though there was no score board in the hall to let the audience know how it happened. It may be that the game was being played with a secret code and the score was not intended for the public. Also points were counted when fouls were made and in making fouls some of the bunch seemed to be members of the chicken raising industry. A deplorable feature of the game was the absolute lack of common politeness on the parts of the members of both teams. Not a single member on either team had courtesy enough to permit a member of the opposition to make a throw of the ball without interfering and getting in his way. It is certain that a number of good clean throws would have been made if the man with the ball had been given enough room and freedom of his arms. Even the girls thought it a shame.

Another disagreeable feature was the constant interference of a man wearing a grey sweater. Apparently he wanted people to think he knew more about the game than any one else and he seemed very fond of blowing a new whistle that some one had given him for Christmas. Every now and then he would blow his whistle, stop the playing and make the men begin over. And just when things were getting real interesting he blew his whistle and made them stop playing altogether, saying twenty minutes were up. The girls didn't like that fellow a bit.

After a pause play was begun again, but the Albuquerque boys became very selfish and hardly ever let the Santa Fe boys have the ball. They were very, very rude, indeed. I then noticed another feature that seemed to me to be a very mean trick. The nets that hung suspended from the hoops on either wall had had their bottoms cut out by some miscreant, probably with the intention of interfering with the game.

As a result of the nets having no bottom, the ball whenever it entered the net fell through to the floor. The Santa Fe boys seemed to notice this fact and as a result did not seem to care much whether or not they threw the ball into the net. During the progress of the game a number of the boys became generous and tried to further entertain those present by turning flip-flops though always at unexpected times. An unusual play was introduced by Harry Franklin who showed the boys that basket ball can also be played with the face. He stopped a high one with his "phiz," but afterwards decided that "high-ball phiz" are not what they are cracked up to be. And so the game went on, but finally the Albuquerque boys grew tired throwing the ball in the net and seeing it drop through the bottom and a moment later the man in the grey sweater blew his whistle and said that Albuquerque had sixty-six and Santa Fe eighteen. But every one present is willing to swear that neither team had more than five men on each side. Later the hall was cleared and a dance took place. When the girls took a vote on the matter the result showed that the Santa Fe boys were considered by far the best dancers on the floor. Even Morrison's orchestra seemed to think so for they played better than ever.

Yours for Basket Ball, PETE, THE SPORT.

N. B.—The next time the local boys play I hope no one will cut the bottoms out of the nets.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by Stripling-Burrows Co.

IN THE EARLY DAYS AT FORT BAYARD.

Interesting incidents in the Latter Seventies at the Post Near Silver City.

Under Frontier Sketches, the Denver and Farm last week contained the following of reference to old Fort Bayard, New Mexico, during the early days:

"The first army post of any importance we ever visited was that of Fort Bayard, near Silver City, N. M., in the latter part of the seventies. The place is now a military sanitarium with the dove of peace resting on the perch formerly occupied by the war eagle. John A. Miller was sutler until 1880, when he sold out to some St. Louis brothers, named McGinn. Subsequently he ran for Congress and the other day Dick Allen reported him as mining somewhere in the recesses of old Mexico. Mr. Miller was the best friend the boys in blue ever had there, and the most accommodating merchant we ever met in the west. Doubtless his desire to please cost him many hundreds of dollars made up in profits on account of the large trade he had.

"The prevailing prices in those days would make a fellow's hair stand on end if he had to pay them now. Whisky or as the boys call it, tarantula juice, choice rattlesnake essence, or centipede extracts, was two bits a drink and it seemed as if the manufacturers had tried just to see how rotten they could make the stuff used in the frontier trade. Beer was seventy-five cents a bottle of about three glasses, cigars, two bits each; candy $1 a pound; sugar, four pounds for a dollar; canned fruits, fifty cents a can; tobacco a dollar and a half a pound; bacon, four and six bits a pound; calico, twenty-five cents a yard, and everything else in proportion. In spite of the high freight rates the merchant's profits must have been immense. A piece of money of smaller denomination than twenty-five cents, or two bits as it was commonly called, was practically of no value at all, as nothing could be bought with it, unless it might be postage stamps.

"Mexican fruit vendors from the post and it took almost a meal sack full of money to get a stomach full of fruit. Vegetables were also transported from the Rio Grande and sold for a good price.

"As the soldiers raised extensive gardens at Fort Bayard, of course they were not compelled to buy. We remember that the great character at the post was the butcher whom the boys called Old Watt and if he ever had any other name we never heard it and had probably forgotten it himself. He was a great gasser, and it was always a question with the Rockies which was the toughest the stories he told or the broncho beef. The majority of the stories were hard, but they could be partially digested, yet we never heard of a ration of beef succumbing to complete mastication.

"For a time he ran the officer's mess and they talked of getting Barium's iron jawed man out from the state to do the chewing act for them. Of course the privates did not get the choice cuts, but as a matter of fact there was not much preference, the advantage if any probably being on the side of the shanks and soup bones the boys could at least crack them and get the marrow, a morsel not to be sneezed at. Watts had a Mexican mozo who did his herding, and becoming disgusted with him gave him the bounce. This brought on a quarrel over wage matters and Watts and the Mexican settled it without gloves. The fight took place in the barroom of the sutler's store and the combatants were encouraged by a crowd of soldiers that looked gleefully on. Watts licked but wote'de use of lingering longer over the details of such an insignificant episode as a fist fight."

SPOKANE PAYS LABORERS THREE DOLLARS A DAY.

Highest Wage Scale in Any City of Northwest With the Exception of Butte, Montana.

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 30.—Officials of labor unions in Spokane believe that the action of the city council in increasing the wage scale of laborers from $2.75 to $3 a day and that of teamsters from $5.50 to $6.50 a day for eight hours' work, beginning April 1, 1910, will have a general effect upon wages in building and other lines. With the exception of Butte, the scale to be paid in Spokane for ordinary labor is higher than in any other city in the northwest. The increase was obtained by the work of the business agents of the two federal labor unions and the two teamsters' organizations after a campaign of two months. There was no talk of striking or other trouble. The representatives of the unions laid their matters before the city council, convened in a meeting of the committee of the whole and the demands were discussed at

They cure sick kidneys. They cure backache, every kidney ill.

Here is Santa Fe evidence to prove it.

Mrs. Agripina D. de Gonzales, 102 Garcia street, Santa Fe, N. M., says: "In September, 1906, I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Stripling Burrows & Co.'s drug store and used them for backache which had been a source of such annoyance. In the morning when I arose my back was so lame and painful that I could hardly stoop to pick up anything. I knew that my trouble was due to disordered kidneys and I was finally led to try Doan's Kidney Pills by the good reports I heard about them. The contents of one box drove away all my pains and aches and I am happy to say that my cure has been permanent."

SOLDIER CUT HIS THROAT WITH HIS KNIFE.Found Dead in an Albuquerque Hotel
—Had Been Honorably Discharged
From the Army.

Albuquerque, N. M., Dec. 30.—Claude M. Toney, for nine years past a soldier in the regular army, honorably discharged at San Francisco on December 20th, with money in his pocket and a record of six years creditable service in the Philippines, committed suicide some time during Tuesday night, in his room in the Craig hotel 118 1-2 West Silver avenue, by cutting his throat with a small pocket knife.

Dependancy resulting from ill health is believed to have furnished the cause for the suicide. Toney's papers, carried in the pockets of his coat, showed his army record to have been clean from start to finish, and he carried besides his regular discharges, letters from his several commanding officers giving him highest commendation for good service.

The body was discovered late yesterday afternoon when efforts to arouse Toney failed. The door was forced open and the body was found lying in a great pool of half dried blood, the feet resting on the bed whence he had evidently fallen in his death struggles. The first glance at the body caused the discoverers to believe that death had resulted from a hemorrhage. The throat was covered to the chin with a sweater covering the ugly wounds which were not disclosed until the body had been carried to the undertaking rooms, where the operator at once found the gashes. An immediate search of the room discovered a small and very sharp pocket knife with which the work was done. There were deep gashes on either side of the throat. One did not do the work, and the second one was evidently made in a frenzy of desperation, for it went clear through the jugular vein. Death must have followed very quickly and the man had evidently been dead for hours.

Toney came to Albuquerque on train No. 4 Tuesday evening. He went directly to the Craig hotel and reserved a room, retiring soon after. He had no baggage, but said he had given his check to an expressman. This baggage has not yet been discovered. In addition to his discharge papers he carried a ticket from San Francisco to San Antonio, Tex., by way of Albuquerque and El Paso, the ticket allowing stopovers. Chief of Police McMillin and Police Judge Craig who examined the body and the papers believe the suicide was planned on Toney's arrival here.

Toney carried his last discharge paper in a separate envelope. It showed honorable discharge at San Francisco and that he had returned from the Philippines on November 21, coming with other discharges from Luzon province. The discharge showed him to leave the service with the rank of sergeant and showed that on December 20th he was paid in full, the sum of $260 and some cents. There were but $12 on his person when his body was found.

No relatives had been discovered up to late last night. The three discharge papers showed that the man first enlisted at Fort McDowell, Neb., in 1901, giving his age at 24 years and his place of birth Cass county, Ind. He enlisted again in 1903, and the third time in 1906, the last six years of his service having been chiefly in the Philippines. He had served as assistant warden of the Alcatraz military prison and carried a letter from the warden testifying to his good character and service. There was also a paper showing that on one promotion in the Philippines he had been reduced from sergeant to the rank of corporal at his own request.

The body was extremely thin and emaciated, showing a very low condition of health and it is the theory that with his money practically gone he determined to put an end to it. Telegrams were sent last night to various military posts where Toney enlisted, and to Cass county, Ind., officers in an attempt to find his relatives. A coroner's jury was empaneled this morning and the inquest held at 10 o'clock by Justice of the Peace Craig.

FARMERS NOT TO BLAME FOR HIGH COST OF LIVING.

Nelson S. Pratt, Mayor of Spokane, Replies to James J. Hill, the Northwestern Railroad King. Spokane, Wash., Dec. 30.—Nelson S. Pratt, mayor of Spokane, a successful farmer and lumberman in the Mississippi valley and the Pacific northwest, takes exception to the sweeping statement by James J. Hill that the present high cost of living is chargeable to the extravagance, carelessness and lack of thrift of the agricultural classes of the country, saying:

"I am more than surprised that a man with the understanding and observation of Mr. Hill should undertake to make such broad charges in view of the fact that the methods of a quarter of a century ago are not to be compared to the present system of farming. There is nothing to bear out Mr. Hill's contentions.

"As a result of a recent visit to several of the largest districts in the middle western and Pacific states, I am prepared to say there has never been a time when general farming was conducted along more economical lines than at present. In fact, the methods of today are marvels to those who farmed land in the '80s. Had we been as skilled and thorough then as are the farmers of today, we certainly would have been equally successful.

"It is not overstating the case when I say that the modern grower conducts his farm along the same lines that prevail in a well organized business establishment, and as a result he is not only making a good living and educating his children, but is also putting money into improvements, as well as into the bank.

"It is idle talk to charge the high cost of living to the farmer, as it must be plain to any one who has studied the subject that at least three causes contribute to increasing prices of the necessities of life. The large production of gold during the last few years is an important factor, in that it has resulted in making money cheap, and, to a great extent, no doubt, is responsible for increases in prices. Cheap money means high prices.

"Perhaps the greatest factor in the high cost of living is the tariff which enables manufacturers to combine and compel the consumers to pay enormous and unreasonable prices. Such farm products as beef and pork are controlled entirely by the so-called 'Beef Trust,' while butter, eggs, cheese and poultry are handled by cold storage companies and kindred combinations, and the prices of cereals are fixed largely by the speculative boards of trade.

"As a matter of fact, while in the Mississippi valley a short time ago I found that the prices of butter, eggs, cheese and poultry are nearly as high there as they are on the Pacific coast, where the demand at present is far greater than the supply. I also learned from reliable sources that these products are almost entirely controlled by combinations and not by the producers.

"I hold no brief for the farmers of the country, but from an experience of almost a lifetime as a farmer, born and raised on a farm, I know that the system employed during my time holds no comparison to the present methods of farming. Intensive agriculture, with the use of water supplied by artificial means, was then largely an experiment, and so-called dry-farming, or more properly soil and moisture conservation, was in its very infancy. These methods are successes today. The agricultural colleges and experiment stations have also been and are strong factors in advancing the industry.

"I challenge Mr. Hill to show any period prior to 1894, when there were larger acre yields of grain, fruit, grasses and roots than at present, and with this I would also ask him to point to any year when the farmers were more prosperous than they are today. Extravagance and lack of thrift and progress and prosperity do not go hand in hand, and that fact alone answers Mr. Hill's statement."

Documentary Evidence

By WILLIAM DESMOND

(Copyright by W. G. Chapman.)

"It's no use, mother," said Fred Williams despondently. "As long as Mr. Stuart is so set against me his daughter won't marry me. Lily loves me, but she will not go in opposition to her father's wishes."

"Well, it's right for young folks to honor and obey their parents," commented Mrs. Williams, "but it's hard on the two of you just the same. I suppose his chief objection to you is because you work at the roundhouse, and he thinks you're not Lily's social equal."

Her son colored. "Yes, that's it," he said, slightly annoyed at his mother's persistence in harping on the topic. There was an incisive curve in her chin that bespoke a determined will, although Mrs. Williams had the name of being a mild woman.

Thirty years ago Granville Stuart was wild in love with his aunt Kitty," she said musingly. "He used to write her all the time—as silly letters as you could imagine. There's a heap of them upstairs now in an old trunk. When Kitty went to California she left them here with a lot of other rubbish."

"Well, I must get back to work," said Fred, who had finished his dinner and was not particularly interested in the stale love affairs of Lily Stuart's father. After he had gone Mrs. Williams sat a long time at the table sipping her tea in an abstracted manner. At last the dreamy expression of her face changed to one of sternly decided decision, and she rose and proceeded to her room. In a little while she re-

"Granville Stuart Was in Love with Your Aunt Kitty."

appeared clad in bonnet and dolman, with a small packet in her hand. Locking the door, she walked rapidly down Main street, and halted where a signboard bearing the inscription of "Granville Stuart, Real Estate and Loans," hung over the sidewalk. The office, tucked in between two stores, was divided by a counter surmounted by a brass railing. The bald, portly, red-faced man within glanced at his unexpected visitor in surprise.

"How do you do?" he said in a tone of rather forced cordiality.

"Can I see you alone?" she asked curtly.

"Certainly; come into my private office."

He opened the gate at the end of the counter and held it open for her to pass through.

"It's an unexpected pleasure to see you here, Mrs. Williams," said Stuart as his visitor sunk into a chair.

The lady paid no attention to the compliment. "I came," she said abruptly, "to find out why you won't let Lily marry my boy."

"Ah, my dear madame," said Stuart hastily, "nobody likes Fred better than I do, but—"

"He works at the roundhouse," she interposed. "Because he happens to be a good mechanic instead of a fourth-rate professional man or dandy clerk you think your girl is above him. Well, my own father was a judge, but I was poor when my husband died, and Fred liked machinery, so I let him do what he wanted to. He's a mechanic, but there isn't a better-looking lad in this town."

"Yes, he is handsome," admitted Stuart, who evidently did not wish to be drawn into an argument.

"You must let them marry," said Mrs. Williams decidedly. "If I was Lily I'd do it without your consent, but she's afraid."

"Lily generally does as I say," he put in complacently. "I have no fears on that score."

"I suppose not," said Mrs. Williams dryly. "By the way, I expect you remember my sister Kitty?"

"Of course I do," assented Stuart.

"You thought a good deal of her once."

"I guess I did, in a boy's way," he replied uneasily. "She's well, I hope?"

"Yes, she's well," Mrs. Williams laid the packet on her lap and her lips curved in a cold smile. "You used to write letters to her when you were a full-grown man. Mighty sentimental ones, too. When she began to go with Harry Avon you certainly wrote some wild ones."

"Did I?" queried Stuart, looking as embarrassed as a middle-aged man will when confronted with the follies of his youth. "But all that was long ago. I have buried a wife since then, Mrs. Williams."

She held the packet between her finger and thumb. "I have some of your letters here," she said. "Kitty left them at my house—she read them to me when they came. I wouldn't touch them now if you had only treated Fred right."

Stuart reddened to the roots of his scanty hair. "This is blackmail," he exclaimed angrily.

"I don't care if it is," retorted Mrs. Williams placidly, untying the string and taking a sheet from its envelope. "Listen to this one: 'Nobody can ever love you as I do. Darling, won't you promise—'"

"Stop," shouted Stuart, driven beyond endurance by the level cadence of his tormentor's voice. "I swear I never wrote such stuff."

"Oh, I guess you did, for your signature is at the end," was the goad response. "And there's lots of them a deal more amusing than this one. Here, for instance, where you rave about the sunshine of her smile and star-like eyes. To look at you now, a person would never think you could be so poetical."

"I've a notion to take them away from you," he cried savagely, rising from his chair.

"There's plenty more at home," she responded, without moving.

"What is it you want me to do, then?" he demanded furiously.

"I want you to permit Lily and Fred to get married. If you refuse I'll read these letters to everyone I know and make you the laughing stock of the town."

Stuart gasped and sat down again. Fear of ridicule was his weak point, and Mrs. Williams knew it. "You wouldn't dare," he muttered.

"Wouldn't I? Well, just wait and see." She put the packet in her pocket and stood up, shaking out the back breadths of her skirt.

"Wait a minute," cried Stuart desperately, catching her arm. "I'll confound it—yes, I'll let the young folks marry if you'll give me all of those letters right away."

Mrs. Williams smiled feily. "You'll get those letters as soon as the marriage ceremony is finished, and not a moment before," was her tart reply.

Stuart knew when he was beaten, and nodded a sullen assent. "Very well, then," he said ungraciously, "I suppose it will have to be as you say."

That evening Mrs. Williams told her son to call upon Lily Stuart at the girl's home.

"Her father won't object any more," she assured him. "I talked with Mr. Stuart this afternoon, and he has changed his mind."

"What did you say to him?" queried the astonished lover curiously.

"Oh, I just chatted things over with him a little," responded his mother vaguely, and Fred wasted no more time in idle questioning.

The wedding took place a few weeks later, and at its close Mr. Granville Stuart received back the love missives of his youth. Mrs. Williams kept her own counsel in the matter, and the bride and groom never knew that they owed their happiness to a humble little packet of Cupid's epistles of the long ago.

MR. HORSE RADISH IS HOT

In His Anger, He Says He'll Burn in Spite of the Fire Department.

"There goes a warm member," said the vegetable man.

"That fat fellow with the chalky complexion?" asked the reporter of the New York Herald. "He looks meek enough."

"Never judge a radish by its cover. He's the hottest thing that ever came down the pike."

"Any relation to Rosy Radish?"

"She's his only child."

"That's one on me. I thought she was an orphan. Guess I'll give him a tickle."

"Better be careful. He has a fiery disposition."

"What's his first name?"

"Horse. Just yell 'Whoa!' and he'll stop."

"Whoa!" shouted the reporter.

"What do you mean by yelling at me like that?" asked Mr. Horse Radish, pulling up short and advancing with blazing eyes.

"Now, don't get hot over nothing. I merely wanted to interview you."

"I don't relish notoriety and I decline to be interviewed."

"But your friends would like to hear from you."

"Friends! Bah! The very word grates on me. I've got a lot of friends. But I'll have satisfaction yet. I'll burn everybody that touches me."

"Don't let Chief Croker hear you talking that way."

"I don't care for him or his whole department. I'll be burning when they're all dead and gone."

"I don't think you mean what you say. You look like a decent chap, and I know you have a white heart."

"I've had that same white heart for a long time, but what good does it do me? I haven't made a bit of progress. Still stuffed in an old jar with clams and oysters my sole companions. That's a delightful existence, isn't it?"

"You're living on the half shell," said the reporter, "but you must remember there are others."

"I'll be sure to remember you the next time we meet. I'll keep you drinking ice water for a few minutes."

Horse radish is always in demand as a relish. It will grow in any kind of soil and once planted defies extermination. Ten cents will buy enough to treat a six-room flat.

DEATH OF CHARLES H.
GILDERSLEEVE IN NEW YORK.

Was for a Number of Years a Prominent Leader in New Mexico—Family Lives Here.

Charles H. Gildersleeve for many years a prominent citizen and attorney of this city, died at the home of his sisters in Hurleyville, Sullivan county, New York, on the 18th of December, at the age of sixty years; the cause of his death being apoplexy.

The deceased was born at Liberty Falls, New York, and was the son of James Gildersleeve and Delilah Hill, his wife. He attended school at Monticello and later at the Claverack institute on the Hudson. When but nineteen years of age his father died and he became manager of his tanning business at Forresterburg, which he carried on for six years. He was then attracted to the west and crossed the plains in the old fashioned style and located at Santa Fe. He was possessed of great natural ability and quickly mastered the Spanish language, studied law in the office of Hon. Thomas B. Catron and was admitted to the bar under Chief Justice Palen. He was actively and successfully engaged in the practice of his profession for over twenty years, during a portion of which time he was the senior member of the firms of Gildersleeve and Knaebel, and Gildersleeve and Preston. In 1880 he was appointed the first supreme court reporter in New Mexico, and as such he compiled and published the first ten volumes of New Mexico reports which cover the period from 1851 to 1900, and involved a great amount of labor, especially in the collection of the scattered material for the first volume.

He was active in all important business enterprises at that time, was president of the Texas, Santa Fe Northern railroad and it was through his energy that the railroad was built from Santa Fe to Espanola. In politics he was always a Democrat and for a number of years was chairman of the Democratic territorial committee. He was always deeply interested in public education and was one of the incorporators and trustees of the University of New Mexico which for many years carried on the Whitall Hall Academy and the Ramona Indian school.

Soon after his admission to the bar he married Teresa Eaton, daughter of Colonel E. W. Eaton, who was then living at Santa Fe and managing the Eaton grant; he is survived by Mrs. Gildersleeve and seven children, one son and six daughters. He was a member of various Masonic organizations, including Santa Fe commandery of Knight Templars. More than ten years ago his health broke down and he was compelled to give up business and has since been residing in the state of New York, much of the time entirely deprived of sight.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Cowan of the Presbyterian church at Liberty, and the interment was in the cemetery at that place.

TEXAS LOOKS FORWARD TO BUMPER COTTON CROP.

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 30.—A steady rain, which in parts of southwest Texas lasted over a week, has put the ground in excellent condition for crops. The consensus of opinion is that a bumper crop of cotton may be looked for next year. A heavy fall of sleet lasting nearly two days is said to have practically exterminated the boll weevil in these parts.
