More Topics

To the Editor:

I was pleased to note that The Lobo published an article this week on the Homecoming queen candidate Sam Townsend. It is a welcome sight that the local newspapers are acknowledging the existence of the other quint candidates who will be running against her.

Dick Kleinberg

(Editors Note: In light of the fact that we have the opportunity to do so, we will give all the candidates any exposure they feel they need to make their point.)

Court Injunctions, Threats Stop Miners’ Strike for Medical Benefits

(Editors Note: The following article is the last in a three-part series about the coal miners’ strike. The miners were striking against the United Mine Workers (UMW) and coal companies for more medical and retirement aid for disabled miners. Working miners joined in the strike and closed several mines. The miners remained closed, and the strike led to the closing of several mines in the South. Court action followed.)

BECKLEY, W.Va. (CFS-SCRP) —

The real story is the power of the Coal Operators’ Association in West Virginia; its power is the power of an outsider. It is a power that is far removed from the reality of the lives of those who are affected by the strike. The Coal Operators’ Association, led by Dr. Donald Rasmussen, has proven to be an effective bully in the coal industry.

Rasmussen, the association’s president, had boasted of his “super bummer” in the coal industry. However, the association’s tactics have been severely criticized by the miners and the public. The miners have called the association’s tactics “outrageous” and “shameful.” The association’s tactics have also been condemned by the West Virginia Governor.

U Buildings Inaccessible to Disabled

Campus Lacks Proper Facilities for Students in Wheelchairs

About 20 students in the U-Michigan campus are currently being denied admission to the university due to physical or mental disabilities. The students have been protesting for months, but they have yet to receive a response from the university. The students are demanding that the university provide proper facilities for students in wheelchairs and those with other disabilities.

In Review

To the Editor:

I would like to disagree with the article “The College Experience” that was published in The Lobo. I believe the article accurately depicts the experiences of many students, who are often faced with overwhelming academic pressures and personal challenges. The article highlights the importance of maintaining a balance between academic and personal responsibilities, and it encourages students to seek support from friends, family, and faculty members when needed.

Opposes Lobo’s珑值

In response to Frank W., who stated that The Lobo is not worth my time and that I should put more energy into my studies, I would like to respectfully disagree. The Lobo is a valuable resource for students, as it provides important news and information about campus events and issues. It is also a platform for students to express their thoughts and opinions on various topics.

Congressmen:

The congressman is expected to hold a press conference next week to discuss the latest developments in the bill. The congressman has been working with members of Congress from other states to develop a comprehensive plan for addressing the issue.

The congressman has also been speaking to constituents about the importance of passing this legislation. He is committed to ensuring that all Americans have access to quality healthcare.

The congressman's office is available to answer any questions or concerns you may have. You can contact the office at 505-123-4567.

Queen's Identity Secret

The outcome of last Friday's Homecoming queen competition is a secret until halftime of Saturday afternoon's football game with New Mexico State, but there is a strong indication that the winner will be named Saturday night.

The winner is determined by the number of points accumulated during Friday's election. A point value is set for each first, second, and third place vote. The queen will be the one who receives the most points.

The Homecoming Committee is keeping busy planning activities for the weekend. Plans include a parade, luminaria drive, coffees in various departments and a dance Friday night.

Chairman for this year's events is Bob Bilgo. He is in charge of the coronation and election and the student government and the Communication Department of the University of New Mexico is assisting with the planning.

Queen's identity will be revealed at halftime of the football game.

For more information, contact the Homecoming Committee at 505-123-4567.

Ross, Lobos Crush San Jose, 48-25

By PAUL FRIECE

Their 48-25 victory over San Jose, also the game nine, the Lobos finally got their second Saturday night win. Did what people have been saying for weeks. The Lobos started to show signs of the power teams that they are at home. Up 41-0 in the third quarter, the Lobos capped off the win with a 10-point fourth quarter. The key to the game was the running game. The Lobos stuffed the line with San Jose and ran the ball well. The Lobos averaged 248 yards rushing and a combined total of 405 yards on the ground. The game was played in the rain, which made the field soggy and muddy. But the Lobos still managed to run the ball well. The Lobos averaged 14.6 yards per carry and ran the ball 46 times for 660 yards. The Lobos also had 216 passing yards.

The game was won on the ground. The Lobos averaged 248 yards rushing and 104 more to boot. Ross, Lobos Crush

Field, an obvious offensive threat, took his place at quarterback and led the Lobos to a dominating victory over San Jose.

Stone Age Titles
Anne Morgan's letter of Oct. 1, complaining of The Leisure Class, observes the "elitist" for women's titles. In the Stone Age, new and younger-oriented journalism classes have been proposed to congratulate your paper for taking the very approach the revolution.
