Newspaper Subscription Laws.
Few readers or publishers of papers fully understand the laws governing subscription. The decision of the United States court is:
1. Subscribers who do not give express orders to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.
2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publisher may continue sending them until all arrearages are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the postoffice to which they are directed, they are responsible until they have been notified and ordered them discontinued.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers and the papers are sent to the former address they are held responsible.
5. The courts have decided that retaining or taking periodicals from the office or removing and leaving them uncollected, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
6. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice with payment of all arrearages is sent to the publisher.

rule that has been the dominant evil of Dona Ana. During the coming campaign I must be silent; my position precludes me from speaking from the stamp, but I know of no rule prohibiting me from joining in democratic councils. If any such rule prevails I shall take steps to rid myself of such bonds.

"You are here to choose delegates to the first convention of any party ever held in Las Cruces. The democratic party will meet here on Monday to choose the standard bearer who shall carry its banner to victory. There has been some dissatisfaction in the Territory, as there always will be with the party in power, but I have never seen the democratic party so united and determined as it is today. It is determined that Centronism in New Mexico shall be buried out of sight; that good government shall prevail; that when a collector of taxes fails in his public duty, he must be put out of office, whether he be in Santa Fe or in the democratic stronghold of Mora. (Applause). It is determined that no man shall be shot in cold blood, as was Frank Chavez, and his murderers go unpunished. It is determined that the good work begun in the courts by the democracy shall be carried out until such republicanism as has prevailed shall be wiped out, and that the officers of the law shall be upheld in the performance of their duty. No more shall it be given out in the public prints that ignorance prevails in New Mexico and that murder is here no crime.

"There may be more than one candidate for delegate before your convention. That only indicates a healthy state of affairs; it does not show dissatisfaction with the present delegate. It is the privilege of the people to change officers as often as they see fit. Rotation in office is a democratic principle. New Mexico has more than one man able to represent the democratic party and the people. Probably three men will be mentioned in the convention, any one of whom would be satisfactory. I should support one as strongly and earnestly as either of the others.

"If in said in the north that the man who first broke the republican ranks after the war can again lead us to victory. If he be nominated, I can support him heartily. Every democrat in Dona Ana county can support Frank Manzanera. (Applause). Our present delegate, Mr. Joseph, (Applause) is being urged by his friends to accept re-nomination. He can lead us to victory. If he be nominated, he shall have no stronger supporter than myself. In Santa Fe, many delegates have declared their preference for another man, Mr. Ferguson. (Applause). He can lead us to victory.

"There will be no trouble, no strife in the convention. Whoever is nominated will be supported by the others. If Ferguson be the choice, Mr. Joseph will stump the Territory for him. Mr. Manzanera will fight for the democratic candidate, whoever it may be, as he has not fought for years. There is unity in the party. The only question to be determined is what man is the strongest and can secure the most votes. Whoever shall be named, the democratic party will elect him.

"The democratic party of this county has fought a noble fight against tremendous odds and won a victory for good government. If united, it will sweep the county at the next election by five hundred majority."

SLIPPERY got there with both feet. He fooled many of the oldest politicians.

A. B. LAIRD isn't better than his party, but he is bigger and more powerful here in Grant County.

No one ever knew Stant Brannin to do a dishonest act or a mean thing. He is all right. Vote for him.

AS FAR we can learn not a cent has been stolen from Grant County since E. M. Young has been in the clerk's office.

THE war between Tom Foster and Sheridan is over, and a treaty of everlasting peace and friendship has been agreed upon.

THE untiring efforts of Baylor Shannon to enforce the law in the management of County affairs have made him a strong man before the people.

THE fact that Senator Jones, of Nevada, has just quit the republican party because he couldn't stand its attitude toward silver is respectfully referred to our republican contemporaries for mastication and digestion.—New Mexican.

THE following speech by Judge A. B. Fall before the convention of Dona Ana county is a clear exposition of democratic feelings and intentions in this campaign. His Honor said: "For seven or eight years I have attended all democratic meetings in Dona Ana county and spoken in what I believe to be the interests of good government and against the ring

A FRAID! NOT HE!

He Heralds Tomorrow His Will to Hold the Light for Him.

At 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, when all the people living on College avenue were fast asleep, there was commotion in one of the beautiful residences along that thoroughfare. It was the home of a merchant, and the commotion broke loose in the sleeping apartment of himself and wife. She started.

She awakened suddenly and thought she heard some one trying to break in down stairs. She shook her husband, and after some time had elapsed succeeded in making him realize the situation. They both listened. There was some noise, sure enough, and a cold shiver crept down his spinal column and even to his toes.

He determined not to get scared, though his teeth were chattering, so he announced that he would go down and investigate.

"Aren't you afraid, dear?" nervously asked his wife.

He took out his revolver, struck a match, lighted a lamp and then looked at her in disgust.

"Afradi! Well, hardly. I never saw the man yet I was afraid of. Now, don't make any noise, but come on."

The little woman started in astonishment. "Do you want me to go too?"

"Do I want you to go? Why, of course I do. You must go ahead and carry the light so I can see to shoot. Do you think I could hit a burglar in the dark? Hurry up, or he'll be gone."

And that was the end of the women's go along with the light, while he held the revolver over her shoulder at full cock. They traversed the house from garret to cellar, finally found a stray dog scratching at the back door and came back to bed. He sat up for an hour telling her what he would have done had there been a burglar there.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

A HARD TASKMASTER.

The Late Edwin Vokes Took Her Art Rather Too Seriously.

The late Mrs. Clay, better known as Roxine Vokes, was a hard taskmaster. She took her art both seriously and rigidly and demanded the same from others. A young American girl during a one time connection with the Vokes company suffered extremely from a felon on her finger. Every movement of the arm gave her pain, and she was at length obliged to evade her required participation in "A Game of Cards," where the players clap hands, the one against the other. "You shirked your part last night, Miss Blank," Mrs. Clay took occasion to observe the following morning.

"I did," acknowledged Miss Blank, "for my finger is in such a condition, as you see, that present use of it is impossible."

"You will not shirk your part to-night, however," remarked Mrs. Clay, with an ominous gleam in her eye. The young American knew only too well that further remonstrance would probably result in her dismissal, so nothing more was said. The night, according to orders, she, with infinite pain, clapped hands briskly. At the first touch the blood gushed from her suffering finger; but, although her partner was Mrs. Clay, neither reference nor apology was made by that exacting star either then or afterward. "Still it was splintered," said the young actress in later years. But to impute such professional outsiders such "training" marks of tyranny.—New York Advertiser.

SPEECHES FROM NOTES.

It is usually supposed by the lay reader that the greatest speeches made in congress are the result of long preparation and are drawn from voluminous notes. This is not always correct. The preparation may be all right, but in many cases notes do not exist at all. This may be illustrated from a little conversation I had with ex-congressman John M. Farquhar. He was booked to speak at a reunion of veterans. Half an hour before he was announced to take the platform I approached and said: "Mr. Farquhar, I shall be glad to get an advance copy of your speech."

"My dear sir," he replied, "I never wrote a speech in my life and never shall. I never spoke from notes but once in my life. That was when I was in congress, and my speech occupied over four hours. My notes consisted of five words scribbled on a piece of paper. I have kept that piece of paper, and when I have joined the majority it may be considered an interesting souvenir to somebody."

I thought so too.—Buffalo News.

OUR FUTURE POPULATION.

The territorial area of Japan is about one-twenty-fourth that of the United States, not counting Canada, which is likely some time to come in, and it supports 40,000,000 people. At this rate it is computed that the North American continent would sustain a population of 1,000,000,000. How soon that limit is to be reached may be determined by the progress and the statistics, but it will come some time "thund' doubt, requiring an increasingly wise type of statesman and politician on the way if we are to hold together and carry out the destinies which seem appointed to us.—New York Tribune.

THE SPECIFIC SOUND.

The peculiar murmuring sound, not unlike the ripple of the waves on a still evening, which we hear on placing a shell or other hollow object to the ear, is due to the fact that the concave surface concentrates and multiplies, in different sounds around us, so as to render them audible. The many sounds always present in the air are augmented by the resonant cavity of the shell.—Science Journal.

OVERHEARD ON THE RIVER.

"You are nothing but a big bluff," remarked the river to the bank.

"Is that so?" retorted the bank. "If I take a notion to come down on you, your name will be mud."—Indianapolis Journal.

THE GRACIOUS CASE.

The case has just issued his approval of the institution of dueling in the army. The commander-in-chief at Kiev, in issuing the new dueling code, says: "The case has conferred upon us as a new mark of his imperial grace in granting us the right to defend his graces in our hands that which is most precious to all of us—our honor. This gracious act on the part of his majesty makes it our duty, still more than heretofore, to regulate our conduct and manners alike in official and social intercourse as to obviate all intemperate misunderstandings and frivolous quarrels."—Moscow Letter.

"SABRITY" AND VICE.

The Right and the Wrong Way of Keeping Scandals Out of the Newspapers.

It would be hard indeed if we could not get a laugh out of all these horrid scandals that beset society's face, and it has come at last—broad, hearty and irrepressible.

The good people of Newport—not the old Newporters, but the people who have followed in their train—are so impressed by the reports published about the misdoings of the Four Hundred that they have organized a Society for the Suppression of Newspaper Notoriety.

Dear, comical, old Elbridge T. Gerry is at the head of the new society, and it looks as if he would have time to attend to nothing else.

The purpose of the society is to prevent the publication in New York and Boston (other cities don't count) of matters that tend to no public interest.

If Mrs. Stevens' maid takes advantage of Mr. Tom Cushing's valet, that is legitimate news, and no objection will be made to its publication, but if Mrs. Stevens herself should cast shadow's eyes at Mr. Cushing, or if Mr. A. should compromise Mr. B.'s wife, or Mr. C. see his wife for divorce, or Mrs. D. go wrong with a duke—these are matters that concern nobody but the culprits themselves and their most intimate friends.

No wonder the laugh is loud and long at these good people's expense.

Did it never occur to dear old Gerry and his younger friends on the social boggle side that a "Society for the Suppression of Vice in the Four Hundred" would cut at the very root of the evil of which they complain, whereas the step they are taking now can only trim off some of the topmost boughs?

There is without doubt a certain amount of reckless newspaper writing going on which every one abominates—and every one reads.

This writing keeps pace with the doings of the day. It is often inaccurate, vulgar and malicious; but, on the other hand, there is so much social evil doing that never finds its way into print at all that the score is pretty even up to date.

I could mention the names of hundred prominent New York and Boston families who have never had cause to complain of a single line or word printed to their derogation.

And why? Simply because they have never given the opportunity.

While not making a plea for the society reporter or the scandal loving editor I am sufficiently familiar with their methods to know that they would just as lief print good news of prominent people as bad news.

Bad news sells better than good news, of course. In times of war, tempest, famine, fire and flood the demand for newspapers doubles and triples.

So it does in times of great social disaster.

The collapse of Duncan, Sherman & Co., the failure of Grant & Ward, the elopement of Herbert Pull and Mrs. Kate Kernochan, the divorce of Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Ymaga and the subsequent marriage of both, the Drayton scandal, the Vanderbilt imbroglio, the Gould fiasco—all these stirring incidents in social life, and thousands of others for which I haven't space, constitute the grip of the day which is on every one's lips, and which can no more be kept out of the newspapers than a duck can be kept out of water or Ward McAllister out of print.

That is why I advise kind old Gerry and his pretty playmates to begin to trim ship before they yell that they are overboarded by water.

I cannot predict any success for the new society with the object of suppressing bad news about fashionable people. Murder will out—so will adultery, drunkenness, cheating at cards, dishonest indebtedness and all the other vices to which flesh is heir.

If I said before, a society that could demand to know what is to be printed on a moment upon all its news that is not printed and be grateful on its marrow bones that such matters are still personal and have not yet become of public interest.—Cholly Kuckersbocker in New York Recorder.

AN INTERESTING SLAB.

It Marks the Boundary Between Mexico and the United States.

Under the direction of the boundary survey commission the old marble monument which since 1848 has marked the dividing line between the United States and Mexico at the coast has been brought to the city to be dressed up. For years that monument has been a point of interest and has been visited by thousands of citizens and strangers. Some have apparently felt that no one would believe he or she had been there if some portion of the slab were not carried away to be offered in evidence on all occasions.

The result has been that the marble has been chipped and defaced until its original form is almost lost. It is because of all this that the slab was brought to the city. To work out the effacement the surface would have to be worked down two inches. When dressed, the stone will again be placed in position, but this time it will be protected by a fence of steel pickets. The pickets will be 8 feet high, the tops sharply pointed and leaning inward, after the device of some rattap, so that while it might be possible for an active person to climb in it would require a first class scrobat to climb over those curving pickets. Besides this a new law makes it a penal offense to mutilate the monuments.

At Tinajas a similar slab will be erected on the old brick foundation in National avenue, which has long been a landmark there. The Tinajas monument will be of granite instead of marble and it will be incased with steel pickets, like the one at the coast here.—San Diego Sun.

HOUSE, HISSIE IN WINTER.

The Mont Blanc observatory is undergoing its present winter season, and the most interesting news of the kind during the coming spring will be the account of how its occupants passed the winter and what observations they were enabled to make. But it is not expected that much can be done in winter, except in connection with meteorology, and we must look for whatever discoveries are to come through the advantage of high altitudes to the South American and Californian observatories.—English Mechanic.

AN ASSOCIATE OF PERIER.

Once during the schooldays of the president of the French republic his professor in geography asked him, "Perier, give me the exact position and indicate the latitude of the Gambia group." Casimir-Perier crossed his arms tightly upon his chest, looking very perplexed. One of his neighbors whispered to him the wrong answer, whereupon the professor gave him the exact position of this little group, which belongs to the more important French establishments of Tahiti, and after a short pause, and with a little point of irony, said: "You ought to know that, Perier, because it is thanks to your grandfather that France acquired the ascendancy in these parts of the world." It was through his efforts and enterprises that the dusky queen of these islands was induced to come to France, and the men of my generation still remember the colonial songs which celebrated the event." Perier blushed considerably, but, holding his head still higher, answered the professor with his quick and peculiar diction, "I will most certainly go over this lesson again and try to be more proficient at the next lecture; but, so far as the deeds of my grandfather go, they are so numerous that I am not old enough yet to know them all."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A PARLOR INDUSTRY.

A Paris correspondent describes one of the oldest industries of that city to be found in a little shop in the Rue des Ecoles, which deals exclusively with the secondhand boots of the men who work in the sewers. These boots are furnished by the state and come half way up the thigh, and each man is allowed a new pair every six months. When new, they cost $2; when sold secondhand, they realize the modest sum of 50 cents, but as at least 6,000 pairs per annum are sent to the Rue des Ecoles it makes quite a booming industry. The leather of these boots is, so to speak, tanned by the state and greasy water in which the sewer cleaners paddle, and they are eagerly sought for by the great Parisian bootmakers, for this leather, being at once tough and light, serves to sustain the curve of the Louis XV heel.

His Favorite Color.

Old Mr. Kerr-Muggenon, who agrees with George II in hating "poetry and painting," and who is never agreeable except when he is smoking, was engaged in this favorite amusement on his doorstep when Mrs. Guescher passed.

"Oh, Mr. Kerr-Muggenon," she said, "I am glad to see you enjoying the beauties of nature!"

"What d'y'e mean?" asked Mr. Kerr-Muggenon.

"Why, weren't you looking at the sunset?"

"The sunset! Well, no, not just exactly. But, now that you mention it, it does look fine, doesn't it? Looks a good deal like a meerschaum pipe just after it's begun to color!"—Youth's Companion.
