  Regent Koch complimented the coach and the ski team, stating that the team members are outstanding scholar athletes. Regent Koch’s father brought skiing to New Mexico and so he feels particularly close to the sport and athletes.

  Comments from the Regents’ Advisors will be on the agenda for the May 11, 2010 meeting.

- Discussion of FY 2010/2011 UNM Consolidated Budget. Main Branch Campus, Andrew Cullen, AVP, Budget. (Attachments 1 & 2.)

  The overall budgeted expenditures for FY10/11 are down 1.1%, a total of $2.114 billion. State funding is shrinking and a greater portion of funding is coming from tuition and fees. Plant fund expenditures are down because projects are further along and require less funding as they are wrapped up. Main Campus state appropriations have been reduced close to $25 million from FY09 to FY11. The overall projected shortfall for FY11 is just over $8 million. The cost containment measures will cut that by $6 million, resulting in a needed tuition increase of 3.5% to meet the $2 million remaining shortfall. The blended rate of tuition and fees is an increase of 7.9%, an additional $404.38, for a total of $5,505.58 per student per year.

  Five budget recommendations from constituency groups, Faculty Senate, Staff Council,
GPSA, ASUNM and the Deans Council, were adopted.

This budget includes over $13 million in one-time funding.
Health Sciences Center & UNM Hospitals, Ava Lovell, Vice President & Controller. (Attachment 3.)

Revenues for FY11 are projected to be up $1.2 billion, 2.1%, driven completely by clinical operations. State funding is down 2%. Medicaid funding is the most vulnerable to being cut by the state. Nineteen of the 36 RPSPs have been moved into I & G funding. Balance forwards will be used to fund SRMC, renovation and backfill of buildings and College of Pharmacy initiatives. School of Medicine and College of Pharmacy class sizes are projected to increase and the School of Nursing is planning for the Doctorate of Nursing Practice in 2012. The hospital will open new clinics.

Branch Campuses, Andrew Cullen, AVP, Budget. (Attachment 1.)

Total revenues for the branch campuses will be up over $44 million, a 2.7% increase, due to increased enrollment and state formula funding.

- Student, Faculty, Staff and other Constituent Comments.

Doug Fields, Faculty Senate President, commented on the short time span to develop and study the budget and noted that faculty are leaving the university. The funding of the deficits of the Athletics and Research departments was discussed.

Elisha Allen, Staff Council President’s comments attached. (Attachment 4.)

Lissa Knudsen, GPSA President, also spoke of the declining number of faculty. She urged the regents to invest in research and graduate students. Research grants can be a steady source of revenue, while I & G money is going down. The secession of the law students from GPSA was discussed and points raised about where the GPSA would spend “its portion” of student fees if it were to secede from ASUNM.

Monika Roberts, ASUMN President’s comments attached. (Attachment 5.)

Regent Sanchez asked that comments be confined to the budget if at all possible.

Maria Probasco, Parent Association President expressed concern over students foregoing their education due to financial hardship and cautioned against compromising the quality of education and services for students.

Andrew Cullen, AVP Budget, responded to Mr. Fields remarks regarding budget reductions in instruction and/or student services, noting that I&G funding for Instruction will be up $800 thousand while Institutional Support, basically administration, will be down $5.3 million and Operations and Maintenance will be down $8 million. Athletics revenue will be up with the opening of the renovated University Arena (the Pit) and expenses will be up for debt service. The decrease in Restricted funding for FY11 is essentially line item cuts by the legislature over which UNM has little influence. To increase Unrestricted funding to offset those cuts would require huge tuition increases.

Comments by David J. Schmidly, President, University of New Mexico

I have just a few comments. In putting the budget together we did appoint a strategic advisory committee that included members of the Faculty, Faculty Senate, Staff, and Students. They worked very hard. We asked for their input in terms of managing the cost containment initiatives and other ideas on the budget. They provided a report which I think is online and can be seen by everyone, and we accepted many of the recommendations that were made by that group. They had short-term recommendations, they had mid-term, and they had long-term recommendations. And we are in the process of continuing that group and we will continue to seek their input on the mid-term and long-term recommendations. There were a series of seven meetings held prior to the Budget Summit with Faculty Leadership, Staff Leadership. There were meetings with the Deans, Provost, Graduate Students, and with the Undergraduate Students to discuss where we were with this budget. Obviously it’s not easy to put a budget together when you are faced with the realities we were faced with. Those meetings took place, we went over various scenarios and those scenarios were presented at the budget summit on Friday, April 2, 2010. After the summit we asked for comments. We received some comments; most of them were not substantive. Most of them were along the lines of what we heard today as opposed to real substantive cuts and ideas. There were some and we tried to consider them. One of the main concerns raised by the faculty was the situation with sabbaticals. We attempted to address that. Andrew, earlier, went through many of the recommendations, and where they came from. We considered them and tried to adopt as many as we could in the budget. Following the Summit, as we put this together, we had four additional meetings with the same groups and we didn’t receive any further concrete proposals on ideas to the budget. So, these are not easy times I think we all need to recognize that. There is a lot of frustration and there is a lot of anxiety. I think that we’ve tried to maintain the proper priorities. Those priorities were to do the very best we could to protect the classroom. We were fortunate this past year to have an enrollment increase. It wasn’t a huge increase, but it was enough to break us out of the ban and because of that we were able to get some additional revenue. We wanted to make sure we put some of those recourses back into the faculty; back into student advising and I think we did a good job under the circumstances of doing that. We will see more faculty positions as a result of adopting this budget. Also, if you will look over the last three years at real numbers you will see that the graduate assistantships at the University have increased. We made that a priority. As far as tuition is concerned, I don’t think anyone relishes the idea of raising tuition. We had to deal with a tuition credit again this time of 5% and of course that’s money that fundamentally is deducted from our state appropriations and it’s money, unfortunately, our students pay and we’re not able to invest directly back into their education. When you look at the tuition increase we have asked for and have discussed, it’s 3.5%. We think if you look around the nation at what’s happened at other places that this is not an unreasonable tuition increase. We have tried to take some of that money and reinvest it back into the students. The students legitimately have been very concerned about advising. We have listened to those concerns and we’ve also tried to put some money back into the scholarship program for the students. If you look at the State of New Mexico and compare it to other states in the region, what you will see is that New Mexico is a low tuition high aid state. That is pretty rare. Our tuition rates (if approved today), five and a half million, will place us at number two or three from the bottom in terms of our peer groups. And almost one third of our students that have the lottery scholarships don’t even pay that tuition, it’s paid by the state. So we’re really in a pretty fortunate situation in this state compared to other states. I regret that faculty are leaving. We try, on a case by case basis to address those concerns. The Provost working with the Dean, I think, has created a plan for Chemistry; there have been new hires there. They have created a plan for Math, to address the concerns that were relayed there. We have had some attempts to raid some of our very best faculty, our highest performing people and we have accommodated some concessions to keep those people on the faculty. I think that is a very high priority for us. So I want to thank people for their input, I appreciate it and I understand it. I also understand the difficulties of the situation that we’re in. We will continue to manage this in the most sensitive way possible and in a manner that has the least impact on our people. We’ve not had big layoffs; we’ve not had furloughs and I think that’s a good thing. The State of New Mexico (right now) does not need more people laid off, unemployed with reduced salaries. It needs people that are fully employed. And if you look at our employment, we’ve done a good job there. Those are my comments.

- Regents Comments

Concerns expressed by Regent Gallegos:
That the $870 thousand for new faculty positions (Budget Plan page 13) be absolutely committed to new tenure & tenure-track faculty.

That support of Alumni Relations with I&G funds will have to be re-evaluated.

BR&R funds cannot continue to be used for operating expenses.

Campus safety, especially pedestrian safety at Lomas & University, be reviewed.

That details of the $17 million for Property and Building Acquisitions will be provided to the regents.

Concerns expressed by Regent Koch:
Stimulus funding being used for on-going expenses.

Another state funding recession possible in August or September.

That $1.7 million budgeted for increased scholarships should come from the Regents’ endowments earnings rather than funding it with the tuition increase.
Concerns expressed by Regent Gallegos:
The small reserve of $400 thousand at the end of FY11.

Concerns expressed by Regent Chalmers:
The board should wait to act until there are actual negative budget pressures (further recessions) to increase the reserve.

Concerns expressed by Regent Sanchez:
Acting without knowing if there will be further recessions.

“Handcuffing” $1.7 million by putting it in a “lock box.”

This would become a recurring distribution from the endowments in addition to the annual spending distribution.

Concerns expressed by Regent Abeita:
Acting without knowing if there will be further recessions.

It was clarified that, with the exception of the Woodward fund, the regents’ “endowments” do not have to be spent for scholarships.

Motion defeated with a vote of 3 in favor (Sanchez, Koch, Gallegos) and 4 against (Fortner, Wisdom, Abeita, Chalmers) to use $1.7 million from earnings of the regents' endowments to fund the increase in scholarships on a recurring basis (1st Koch, 2nd Gallegos).

Motion passed unanimously to use the $870 thousand specified for New Faculty Positions (Budget Plan page 13) “primarily” rather than “solely” for tenure and tenure track faculty (1st Koch, 2nd Gallegos).
