FOR PRESIDENT!

Harrison Getting Ready for the Presidential Campaign.

Robbers Attempt to Steal the Cherokee Cash Box.

West Virginia White Caps Hang Three Horse Thieves.

ERASTUS WIMAN SENTENCED.

Washington, June 20.—Erastus Wiman, Secretary of the Treasury, Charles Foster, is to have charge of General Harrison's interests in the race for the next republican presidential nomination, occupying towards the ex-president and his campaign precisely the position occupied by John C. New, of Indianapolis, during the 12 months or more prior to the Minneapolis convention of '92. This information comes from a prominent Ohio republican who has recently returned from participating in the state convention at Columbus, and who learned considerable concerning the plans of General Harrison's adherents, and the statement is a ray of light to a number of republicans in both branches of congress who could not understand the ex-secretary's sudden call from Fortiaria at the eleventh hour to assume the permanent chairmanship of the state convention. It may now be taken for granted that the friends of Governor McKinley will have to contend with a strong and active Harrison element in their own backwoods. Foster's hand has been shown within a couple of weeks in the withdrawal from the head of the editorial columns of a number of representative republican papers of Ohio of the announcement that they have kept standing for several months "For President, 1896, William McKinley, of Ohio." It also developed that ex-Secretary Foster had something of a share in the recent transfer of ownership of the Chicago Inter Ocean, and which deprived Mr. McKinley of his staunchest newspaper support in the west, and that it was largely through his manipulation that certain eastern Harrisonian republicans, notably John W. Wamsutter, subscribed to the fund with which the controlling interest of H. H. Hobbs was purchased, and the paper turned into a Harrison organ.

Peary Relief Expedition.
New York, June 20.—The Peary relief expedition, under the leadership of Henry Bryant, sailed to-day on the steamer Fortia for St. Johns, where they will embark on the steam whaler Falcon and sail for the north of Greenland. The expedition is under the auspices of an advisory committee, including Prof. Heilprin, who has made two voyages to the north in connection with Peary's enterprises; Amos R. Benson, one of Dr. Kane's lieutenants, and Galvin W. Hart, of the law department of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, and one of Peary's warmest friends.

Catholic Consecration.
Albany, N. Y., June 20.—Word was received to-day from Archbishop Estalli, the papal delegate, that he will officiate in person at the consecration on July 1st of Very Reverend Father Burke, as bishop of Albany. Cardinal Gibbons also writes that he will participate upon the occasion, while Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, will probably deliver the sermon. Archbishop Corrigan will also take a principal part in the consecration. The event will be a notable one, and thousands of Catholics from all over the state will come here for the occasion.

Muskegon, I. T., June 20.—On Sunday night, Jim Cook and his brother and another person were lying in wait at a half-way house between Tahlequah and Wagoner to capture the Cherokee money in transit, when a squad of the national guard surrounded the house. In the fight one guard and one bandit were killed. The robbers escaped and were followed yesterday. The deputies brought Tom Cook here. The bandits belong to the famous gang of outlaws that has been terrorizing the west for years.

Footed Savings Banks.
Washington, June 20.—The senate resolution offered yesterday by Peffer for the establishment of postoffice savings banks, was laid before the senate, and after a short speech by Peffer, was placed on the calendar. The tariff bill was taken up, the pending question being the paragraph placing salt on the free list. A motion by Peffer was rejected, no salt remains free. "All sugars" as read in the amendment of the finance committee, on a motion to strike it out being made, Aldrich demanded a vote and the result was the paragraph was struck out.

Allen's amendment looking to free lumber was adopted. The senate then finished the free list part of the bill.

Wiman Sentenced.
New York, June 20.—In the court of Oyer and Terminer this morning Justice Ingraham sentenced Erastus Wiman, convicted of forgery in the second degree, to five years and a half imprisonment in the penitentiary.

After receiving the sentence, respectfully but unmoved, General Tracy asked permission to apply for a certificate of reasonable doubt. This was granted. Wiman will not be taken to Sing Sing until this matter is settled. The sentence, with commutation off, will amount to three years and eleven months. A monster petition for pardon is being circulated.

Compromise Endorsed.
Columbus, O., June 20.—The committee on resolutions of the miners' convention to-day reported condemning the national officers for making the late settlement, declaring they were not delegated by the Cleveland convention to take the action endorsed by President Adams. The principal resolution submitted will declare that the upper house of parliament is a standing menace to the liberties of the people, and that unless its powers are largely curtailed nothing short of its abolition will satisfy the masses of the people. The limitation most generally favored provides for a two-thirds vote of the house of lords to reject any measure coming up from the commons.

The Strike Causes Increase of Anthracite Output.

A Crooked Massachusetts Bank Teller Arrested.

CIRCUS BLOWN AWAY.

Washington, June 21.—After unimportant routine business the tariff bill was taken up this morning, the pending question being the income tax. Hill addressed the senate in opposition.

Hill said in part: "I protest against the reputation of the democratic party in order to carry out promises to populists. Income tax is war tax. It is unfair to those desiring to support the tariff bill to be obliged to accept a provision foreign to the principal subject matter of the bill." Continuing his denunciation Hill said: "I repudiate spurious democracy as part mugwump, part populist and a least part democracy, who seek to lead us astray." He denied that public sentiment was favorable to an income tax, and said that no emergency justified it.

At took Hill two hours and three quarters to read his speech. Higgins followed, also in opposition.

It will be remembered that there was to be a world's congress of anarchists in this city during the World's fair, and that though there were no public meetings, there was a secret session in Jackson's office. BOYCOTT FAVORED!

American Railway Union Against Pullman Palace Cars.

The Senate Passes Two Bills and Discusses the Tariff.

Congressman Funston Unseated by the Democratic Majority in the House.

MARCHING TROOPS AGAINST MOB.

Chicago, June 22.—A special committee of the American Railway Union reported to the convention this morning in favor of declaring a boycott on the Pullman cars, and debate followed. If a boycott is declared the members of the union will refuse to move trains to which Pullman cars are attached. This will effect a majority of the western roads. In the east the union is not sufficiently powerful to enforce the boycott. The Pullman officials refuse to hear proposals of arbitration and feel little concern over the threat of a boycott. If arrangement is not made speedily all the railroads of the country will be affected. It is reported that starvation threatens the Pullman strikers. The report on the boycott was discussed four hours and then the convention appointed a committee to confer with the Pullman officials, with a view to a settlement. If refused they will inaugurate the boycott, beginning next Tuesday. The committee left for the interview this afternoon.

The two most important are the reduction of exemption from $4,000 to $3,000 and allowance to banks, railroads and other corporations, and of deductions from the annual gain of actual operating expenses, interest and their bonded indebtedness. The amendments were ordered printed. Then Teller, of Colorado, made an argument in defense of the income tax.

$20,000,000. The trip to Scotland is taken upon the advice of the New York lawyers who have been at work upon the case for some years and believe that Capt. Jack will be able to obtain in Scotland the missing links of evidence necessary to perfect his own title and that of his immediate relatives on his mother's side to the lapid estate.

Las Vegas Normal School.
The board of regents of the New Mexico Territorial Normal school, located at Las Vegas, had a meeting yesterday for the purpose of agreeing upon a site for the building. All the members of the board were present, and the advantages and disadvantages of all the proposed sites were fully discussed. A local committee, composed of citizens of both towns, appointed by public meetings, and embracing a number of the leading men of the old and new towns, met with the board and took part in the discussion. After thoroughly considering the matter in all its bearings, the location was fixed, by unanimous vote of the board, upon a commanding eminence immediately west of the old town—one block north and four blocks west of the court house. It is a very slightly place, commanding a view of all the surrounding country for many miles in every direction, and a building located there will be in full view from the trains of the Santa Fe railway for more than twenty-five miles. The tract embraces twenty acres, is donated by San Miguel county for the purpose, and can readily be made one of the most beautiful spots in the territory. The board will advertise at once for plans for the proposed building, and the intention is to have the work of construction going on as soon as practicable.

THE NEW OFFICE BOY.
He Was Scientifically Laid, and It Ran in the Family.
"Doesn't that new office boy of ours seem to be rather lazier than usual?" inquired Judge Crabtree.
"He's the laziest boy we ever had," answered his partner. "I caught him this morning setting his lip right and then putting molasses on them so that he could whistle 'After the Ball' without the intolerable muscular exertion of holding the proper pucker."

"Well, I hope we shan't have to resort to artificial respiration to keep him from dying on our hands as we had to with the last one," returned the judge. "By the way, what's this boy's name?"
"Tommy."
"But his last name?"
"Oh, I see—it runs in the family. I knew a man named Cregow when I first came to the city who was undoubtedly Tommy's father. This man Cregow had to be carried on a stretcher when he went to the circus. He used to show the greatest ingenuity in avoiding exertion of any man I ever knew. For instance, he was an inveterate smoker, but, of course, with his disposition, his pipe went out frequently. The labor of scratching matches to relight it was simply dragging him down, and he saw it. So he moved into a house where the elevated road ran close to the second-story windows, and there he used to sit near one of them all day long, smoking and resting. When he found his pipe out he would simply reach out of the window with a match and let a passing train rub against it, and there he was. Ingenious man. Might have made his mark in the world if he hadn't been so lazy. I'll ask Tommy to-night, when he un-gums his mouth, how his father is getting along."

Tickets for the play, "Our Chief, Mr. Knight," are now on sale at Ruppel's drug store.

Blood Poison

THE BANE OF HUMAN LIFE, Driven Out of the System by the Use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I was a great sufferer from a most persistent blood disease, none of the various medicines I took being of any help whatever. Hoping that change of climate would benefit me, I went to Cuba, to Florida, and then to Saratoga Springs, where I remained some time drinking the waters, but all was no use. At last, being advised by several friends to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I began taking it, and very soon favorable results were manifest. Today I consider myself a perfectly healthy man, with a good appetite and not the least trace of my former complaint. To all my friends, and especially young men like myself, I recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla, if in need of a perfectly reliable blood-purifier."—J. W. SCHOOL MATTER.

Statement from a Member of the Board of Education.

Editor Citizen.
Having seen several criticisms in the morning paper in regard to the action of the present school board, I think a few words of explanation would not be out of place.

Mr. W. W. McClintock, president of the board for the past year, makes the assertion that the management of the commencement exercises was "25 short." Let me inform the good people of Albuquerque, as well as the ex-member of the board, that all bills were met promptly and no warrants were drawn on the public funds nor will there be. This kind of a "kick" does not look or sound well from a man, who, as president of last year's board signed a warrant for $25 to have the books and accounts of the outgoing board put in good shape; the warrant was presented and honored but the work was never done. Is this not spending money from the public funds for which the people receive no equivalent?

Also a word in regard to the paying of teachers for work that they did not do. We found the old board two weeks behind in the payment of its teachers, hence the apparent error. A school month the country over is regarded as four weeks of five days, or twenty school days, and all teachers' registers are arranged for twenty days to the month.

The rules and regulations as approved by the board last year called for ten months, or 40 weeks, of school. School was begun the first Monday in September and, with one week of vacation at Christmas and none in the spring, the forty weeks were completed June 15, for which the teachers received their just compensation and no more. The reports, as made out by teacher and superintendent, are based on the school month and have no reference to a calendar month. Section 44 of the School Laws of New Mexico, as approved February 12, 1891, say that "the school month shall consist of four weeks of five days each."

Now anyone gifted with common sense, and who can read, cannot construe it in any other way, and if any taxpayer or citizen of Albuquerque is not satisfied let him carefully read the law and examine the school records.

A semi-annual May Meet the Biggest Town in the A. & P.

All misguided notions entertained by a select few regarding the attitude of the Plagstaff have been wholly dispelled. The advent of a half dozen or more itinerant men from Chicago and elsewhere who have in their turn "humped" the citizens of Plagstaff within the past two years, has had the effect of creating a large degree of caution, the legitimate newspapers being the sufferers thereby. This Citizens has at last overcome all obstacles and is now on a firm basis in all communities, straight dealing bringing favorable results in the long run. The advent of business men seeking locations in Arizona towns is largely due to the correspondence to this Citizens as investigation will prove.

ABOUT TOWNS.

Ralph Cameron, who made a hit as a detective in the case of Marquez, whom Ralph captured at Las Vegas, was a feather in his cap, and this, with other points in his favor will give him a pull on the republican convention in the fall for the nomination of sheriff of Coconino county. Mr. Cameron was identified some years ago with the A. & P. at Albuquerque, filled the sheriff's office, by appointment through Gov. Irwin, when Coconino was formed out of Yavapai. He is now on the United States grand jury at Prescott.

Hugh Campbell and Charley Canall are aspirants as democrats, the latter representing the railroad boys, while Campbell, a sheep man, has a pull on the herd.

Mayor Gorman A. Bray was chosen by his associates in the council, mentioned in the Plagstaff letter of two weeks ago. Mr. Bray has been reading of Grover's exploits, and is now dredging Oak creek for mountain trout. It's a way some newly made officials have.

K. S. Clark, formerly of Albuquerque, has been appointed to a trifle more office than some people think his due, but they are none too many. As a matter of economy the council gave them all to Clark, who is now city attorney, clerk and treasurer.

William Bayless was appointed town marshal, W. A. Mayflower street supervisor, and there is nothing left but fire marshal and dog catcher.

A tracer has been issued from the office of the majority of the board of reformation school commissioners for Anson Smith, a follower of Grover—in the past. Smith is wanted here to confer with Ballou and Vorhes about reform school matters.

Major D. M. Rorison is in Washington to have a special act passed to permit an increased indebtedness, which the Harrison act prevents. He will return in time to lead the parade July 4.

Sheriff "Sandy" Donahue is at Tempe to install the receiver of the default bank.

Eighty cars of Arizona alone will be shipped from the quarry near town to Topeka, for a hospital to be built this year.

Dr. J. A. Miller, late of Oakland, Cal., has located an office of dentistry here.

The Order of Foresters, accompanied by the local band, went to Larnie Springs this morning. It is a picnic.

It is dust, not window sand, that is flying today. They say this is unusual.

Among the outside features of the Fourth which can be taken in by those so disposed are the new observatory, half mile west; the lumber mill, three-quarters of a mile southwest; Oak Creek fishing grounds, eighteen miles south; cliff dwellings, nine miles southeast; and the Grand Canyon, sixty miles north, but too far away to include in the possibilities of the Fourth.

The Atlantic & Pacific pay to the territory some $79,000 territorial taxes, Coconino getting a percentage. There are 400 miles of Atlantic & Pacific rail in Arizona.

Flagstaff and vicinity has paid in $60,000 to Receiver Schofield, who promises 10 per cent dividend July 1.

night will receive attention later on. More or less Albuquerque goods and vegetables are landed here almost daily. Roxie Duncan started his saloon at the depot last week.

President Brown, of the Saginaw Mill company, suggested a flying trip on Saturday evening to Challender, and the writer took advantage of it, failing, however, to discover Mr. Brown on the train.

During our stay we met ex-Sheriff John Francis, one of the proprietors of the local mill which is filling a lumber contract with the Saginaw company. The mill is doing well.

T. A. Brady, formerly of Wingate, is agent and operator, Will Henderson being in Kansas City on leave. Pirrook.

Shooting at Terrillos. Late yesterday afternoon at Terrillos, after the game of base ball between the Santa Fe team and the Little Pittsburghs, several of the visitors started out on a little lark and visited the room of a woman while they were enjoying themselves, someone rapped at the door and demanded entrance. This was refused by the woman, but the Santa Feans, who were inside of the room, wanted the door opened so they could "smash" the intruder or intruders. Finally the party who knocked at the door, becoming desperate and no doubt jealous, pulled out a big six-shooter and sent a bullet into the room through the sill of the door. The ball struck the hard adobe floor, glancing up and lodged in the vest of one of the Santa Fe visitors. Unconcerned, he took the bullet from its lodgment and threw the deadly missile on the floor.

The door of the room was then opened when the shooter, intending to frighten and not to hit, shot in the ceiling. Everybody about the premises then scampered off, even the man with the gun, and in half an hour Town Marshal Clausen arrested the latter. He gave his name as Charles Crook, and is a miner at the White Ash mine.

A FUNNY SHOE STORE.

Illustrating the Old Jingle, "One Shoe Off and the Shoe On." A company of idlers on a hotel piazza were telling such yarns as are commonly spun in such places, when one of them offered to wager that he had done something as a boy in Tennessee that no other member of the party had ever done or heard of.

"What was it, colonel?" asked one of the crew.

"I wore out my first pair of shoes without ever having them both on at once."

"Explain."

"Well, you see, it was this way. The shoemaker was slow and I was in a hurry. A boy who has never had a pair of shoes finds it hard to wait. Come Saturday night the man had one of them done, but told me I should have to wait a week for the other."

"Well, give me that one anyhow," said I, and I carried it home. I wore it all that week and all the next, for the fellow didn't keep his word any more than shoemakers generally do; and by the time the second one was done the first one needed repairing."

"And so the thing went on. That shoemaker was so slow and the latter was so poor that I ran about so much that somehow I never once had both shoes on together, and by and by they were gone entirely."

TAKEN BY LIGHTNING.

A Portrait taken on a Window-pane by a Dazzling Flash.

"Did you ever hear of a photograph being taken by a flash of lightning?" inquired Samuel L. Goodnow, of Charleston, S. C., of the newspaper man.

"While traveling through the western part of the state about a year ago I came across a remarkable phenomenon at a farm house where I passed the night. On a pane of glass in the upper sash of one of the windows was a distinct and what was said to be an accurate likeness of a former master of the house, who had been dead a number of years. The portrait presented the appearance of a photograph negative. The people told me that a few years before his death the man, while standing by the window during a severe thunder-storm, was stunned by a sudden flash of lightning and the theory had always been that his features were photographed on the window-pane at that time. Those who were acquainted with the man before his death told me the picture was an exact likeness of him."

Catching Monkeys. Most of the monkeys that travel with shows and organ-grinders come from the isthmus of Panama. These animals are captured by the natives in rather a curious way. They take a coconut and cut a hole in it large enough to admit a monkey's paw. A string is then attached to the nut. The monkey is a very inquisitive little animal, and when he sees one of these nuts he inserts his paw through the hole to find out what it is. When the paw is closed it cannot be withdrawn, and as the monkey has no sense enough to open his paw, the nut is dragged by the string, and the monkey with it, to within reach of the captors, who throw a net over the monkey and in that way secure him.

Such the Matter of the Two. Grant Allen relates that he was sitting one day under the shade of the up-oak, turning for some petty point of detail to his Baedeker. A sheik looked at him sadly and shook his head. "Murray good," he said, in a solemn voice of warning; "Baedeker no good. What for you use Baedeker?" "No, no; Baedeker is best," answered Mr. Allen; "why do you object to Baedeker?" The sheik crossed his hands, and looked down on him with the pitying eyes of Islam. "Baedeker bad book," he repeated; "Murray very good. Murray say, 'Give the sheik half a crown.' Baedeker say, 'Give the sheik a shilling.'"

BASE BALL.

The Santa Fe Club Trounces the Los Cerrillos Team.

GRAYS DEFEATS BAR LAS.

One of the finest exhibitions of amateur base ball playing took place yesterday afternoon at Terrillos between the Little Pittsburghs, of that town, and the Santa Fe, the latter winning by the score of 9 to 1.

The visitors, with two wagon loads of Santa Feans, and half a dozen or more soldiers from Fort Marcy, drove across the country from the capital to Terrillos, arriving there yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock, being met by Manager Goodall and Captain Coleman, of the Little Pittsburghs, and other Cerrillos citizens.

After a good, substantial dinner at the Palace hotel the two teams donned their uniforms and at 1:30 o'clock p. m. repaired to the grounds, where ten minutes later Adolfo Hill, who came over with the visitors to officiate as umpire, called play.

For the first three innings both teams were blanked, so effectively did the players on both sides watch every point, and although the batting was spirited the support given to the pitchers was great.

In the fourth inning the Santa Fe batters got on to the pitching of Pardee, aided by several gross errors by the Cerrillos boys, piled up six runs, half of them being unearned. The Cerrillos team was blanked in their half of the fourth, but in the fifth inning the "Little Pittsburghs" broke the ice and scored a triumph of luscious cleanness.

Mr. Zumwalt, who had been out in search nearly all the night before, said to Arthur Hudson that he believed he had found little Jack Downing if he had a horse. He added that a dream during the few hours of sleep he had had, where to go, Young Hudson said "let's take a horse and buggy and go." This was agreed to and the two started without delay.

Mr. Zumwalt insisted that he knew where to go and dictated the way the horse should go with a precision that was almost astounding in the light of facts subsequently disclosed.

Further in the article the New Mexican says:

At 5:30 p. m. Zumwalt, who was on the job ahead of the cart, sighted the red jacket of little Jack on the east side of the arroyo in which he had been waiting, immediately ran to the spot and picked the little fellow up. Evidently Jack had crossed the arroyo and stumbled exhausted into a bunch of cactus. When found his head was pointed eastward and he was lying on his stomach with his face slightly turned up. His face was somewhat flushed, his eyes were open and his mouth was partly open, the whites of his eyes were nearly black, his lips were purple, his tongue was much swollen and his teeth and lips indicated that he had been eating cactus and other vegetation. His little hands and legs were lacerated with cactus barbs. His heavy clothing was just as it had been when he disappeared.

Except that his shoes and stockings were pitifully worn and his straw hat was gone. When picked up the little stick that had marked his trail for miles, fell from his hand.

Mr. Zumwalt says that at several places along the trail in the arroyo, unmistakable evidences that eyes played around the poor little lad, probably jumping on him and were stood off by the little stick mentioned. The tears he shed and the agony he suffered before death claimed him, God only knows.

Over Family Troubles. P. Ransom, the west Railroad avenue carly and fruit dealer, was arrested yesterday by Policeman Formell and placed in jail. For some time Mr. Ransom, who is an Italian, and his wife, who is a Japanese, have not lived happily together and occasionally engaged in bitter quarrels. It is said that Mrs. Ransom has been sending upon others, not her husband, and that the latter entered a very emphatic objection. However, his pleadings have not been heeded, specially by his wife, and early this morning he concluded that the best thing he could do was to kill himself. He first wrote a note to several of his Italian friends telling them what he intended doing, and then procured a pistol. He called at Joe Bado-racco's on north Third street, leaving his hand on his pistol and in a very exciting manner. Alderman Grande heard of the threats of self-destruction from Mr. Ransom and made haste to notify Policeman Formell. The officer called at Mr. Bado-racco's and seeing an opportunity secured the pistol from the thoroughly excited man. He was then marched off to the city jail, and later on taken over to the old town jail. With quiet for a few days, Mr. Ransom will be all right.

They Had No Case. Postoffice Inspectors Waterbury and Phall, upon investigation recently of postal affairs in Mohave county, had James W. Haas, ex-postmaster at Mineral Park, arrested for abstracting money from registered letters. When the case was presented to the United States grand jury, the charge was ignored by a unanimous vote, there being not a scintilla of evidence against him. The testimony showed that two registered letters, which had passed through his hands and through those of two or three other postmasters, had been opened. They were alleged to have contained money. Mr. Haas claims that the inspectors never visited his office at all in their investigation of the case. After his arrest he was incarcerated throughout the country in an alleged Press telegram as a bad man, ready to fight, shoot or do anything else of a desperate nature. He has resided for several years in Arizona, and is spoken of by parties acquainted with him as being a peaceable, law-abiding citizen.

Inspector Waterbury has made trouble for a great many postmasters and ex-postmasters, but his case has in nearly every instance fallen flat when submitted to a judicial investigation. It is an easy matter to arrest a man on suspicion, but quite another thing to convict him by evidence. Mr. Waterbury seems to jump at conclusion too frequently, or, in other words, is too previous in making arrests of individuals against whom he has no evidence.—Prescott Journal.

eight inning, Manager Short tried Fred Talbott in the box, and he proved a winner in his curves, not an opposing batsman seeing second base in that inning. Two scores, however, were tallied for Baracas team in the ninth. The score by innings is as follows:

Grays	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total
Browns	0	1	1	2	4	4	0	0	0	12
Freeman	2	1	1	2	0	0	0	0	0	6

Freeman, the scout of the Grays, proved almost as good as his word by lining out a two-bagger the first time at the bat.

Manager Short says his youngsters are still in it. Master Johnny Short, the mascot for the Grays, was out in his new ball suit and attracted considerable attention.

Umpire Quier gave universal satisfaction. Manager Short expects to take his team to Gallup on Sunday, June 27.

The Browns were present and the Grays received their good wishes. "Corkey" Donahue had his arm with him yesterday. "South-Paw" Talbott was also all right.

Found Dead. The funeral of little Jack Downing, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Downing, who wandered away from his mother last Thursday and was found dead over nine miles from Santa Fe late Friday afternoon, took place at the territorial capital yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock and was largely attended.

The whole population of Santa Fe and adjacent towns had been searching the country surrounding Santa Fe for miles, but failed to find the little wanderer.

In a long article about the finding of the body the New Mexican says:

About 1:30 Friday afternoon Harvey H. Zumwalt, who had been out in search nearly all the night before, said to Arthur Hudson that he believed he had found little Jack Downing if he had a horse. He added that a dream during the few hours of sleep he had had, where to go, Young Hudson said "let's take a horse and buggy and go." This was agreed to and the two started without delay.

SIERRA COUNTY.

Gray and Hat at Kingston Mining Matters.

Kingsport, June 16. Today ends the hottest week of the season. And dry! The rains which have been flooding the east and north did not get further west and south than the upper part of Sierra county. We beheld the lightning, saw the angry clouds and heard the muttering thunder, but the few drops of rain that fell would not quench the thirst of a grasshopper, and they are very scarce this season. As a consequence the range is short of grass, but stock is not yet suffering. The dry weather of the past two years caused cattlemen to get rid of or ship out of the country all the stock they could gather in.

In mining there is no let-up. The mines still continue to "give up" to the hardworking, honest silver miner, and all those that are being worked as heretofore mentioned are yielding ore.

Foran and Hartman, of the new strike, are developing their claim and taking out some ore. E. V. B. Huer, of the Kangaroo, has bonded the adjoining claim—southwest—from Lockwood Mead and paid some money down. This would not have been a business possibility a few months, or even weeks ago, as Mr. Huer is employing more men than any one else in camp. This means business.

We have had more visitors from our neighboring camp of Hildoboro the past week than usual. Gold bugs, you know, looking after soft snags in a silver camp. No kick coming about this. They show their discretion. It is only a matter of time when all will be turning towards the greatest silver camp in the west.

Col. John S. Crawford is again in the east on a mining deal. It is some time since the colonel has struck a mining deal on the fly. He lately has been operating in silver producers and they have not been in it.

M. L. Mead, an old timer, old miner and old soldier, all of which of course made him hang heavily upon him, succumbed today and was buried this evening at 5 o'clock. He died at an early hour this morning. Early in the week he worked in the hot sun and became prostrated by the heat, from which he never recovered. He was one of the original owners in the celebrated Grey Eagle mine, stocked some years ago, by Jim Whitlatch, for $2,000,000, and was supposed to be comfortably fixed. He leaves a widow and several small children.

Kingston people little suspected that June Johnson, the quiet, good-looking boy who got his first experience in mining and the ways of mining life a few years ago in Kingston, had the vim to command an army such as he has recently at Cripple Creek. An army of strikers—that certainly meant business. "16 to 1."

TO HOLD 4,000,000 VOLUMES.

The New Library building at Washington the largest building of its kind.

In round numbers the national library of the United States contains 7,000,000 bound volumes and 2,000,000 pamphlets all of which at present are crowded into a room in the capitol—a room which was full fifteen years ago according to Kate Field's Washington. Yet the accommodation has grown on until there is barely room to walk about in the library itself, where a dozen rooms elsewhere in the building are filled to overflow.

With the need in plain sight it took congress several years to make up its mind to erect a library building, but finally in April 1886, it decided to do it. A site was chosen on Capitol hill directly east of the capitol itself and $500,000 was appropriated for its purchase. Forty or fifty buildings and to be removed before excavation could be made for the foundation. It took 2,000 feet of fencing twelve feet high to enclose the ground and it was nearly four years after the fence was built before any part of the building was visible over its top. There is a great deal of the library—470 feet long by 340 feet wide. It covers 161,000 square feet of ground and will be 100 feet in height from the ground to the top of the dome when finished. That is, next to the capitol, it will be the largest edifice in Washington and the largest library building in the world.

When congress did decide to do the work it was pleased to have it done well. The utmost care was used in securing a firm foundation, and the best of material has been put into the superstructure. All the material is of home manufacture except the white enameled brick.

When the contract was made in 1888 no enameled brick was made in this country—certainly not in sufficient quantities. Several states are represented in the construction of the library building. New Hampshire and Maryland furnish the granite; the structural iron work came from Pennsylvania. New Jersey, and Indiana, the ordinary brick are made within the District of Columbia, and the foot-dilling comes from Massachusetts and Vermont.

"The new library building," declares Mr. Spofford, "will suffice for 150 years to come. When defaced it will hold 4,000,000 volumes—nearly fifty per cent more than are now on record in any library in the world." In national libraries France now leads the world. Here contains a full million more volumes than that of Great Britain—the next largest. Germany is next in rank and Russia is fourth. The United States comes next in order.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Commercial club last night the following officers were elected: W. C. Hadley, president; M. W. Flournoy, treasurer; Jesse M. Wheeler, secretary; and A. McGaffey, assistant secretary and treasurer.

The parents and friends of the pupils of St. Vincent's academy are invited to call and inspect the extensive display of the year's work at the school, which will be thrown open to visitors on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week.

YOUNG MEN AT THE FRONT.

Few Yearlings to Be Found Among European Sovereigns and Statesmen.

Lord Rosebery's succession to the premiership serves to call attention to the fact that whereas during the first decade after the Franco-German war, and throughout the major part of the second, the destinies of Europe were controlled by monarchs and statesmen of advanced age, their power is now rested in the hands of comparatively young men. This is, indeed, the epoch of youth. Lord Beaconsfield, Prince Gortchakoff, Prince Bismarck, M. Thiers, Depretis, Gladstone and the Danish statesman, Estrup, have all either died or withdrawn into private life, and the same may be said of their masters. The German emperor, who is undoubtedly the man at the helm in the Teutonic empire, is only 33 years old; the prince of Bulgaria is 31, the emperor of Russia 49, while the king of Wurtemberg, the king of Portugal and the king of Greece are all young men. Still more youthful are the queen of Holland, the young king of Serbia and the little king of Spain. As regards statesmen, we find young men, such as Lord Rosebery, and Mr. Asquith, occupying the principal offices of the British crown. The Austrian prime minister, Prince Windisch-gruetz, is under 30, and Cardinal Rampolla, the papal secretary of state, is barely one or two years over that age, while M. Dupuy, his predecessor and now president of the chamber of deputies, is about three years younger. Many other names might be added to the list, but the above will suffice to show that we are living in the golden age of youth, and that while age and experience are at a discount youth and enthusiasm are above par.

Trapped and Fought a Bear. A mountaineer's desperate struggle with an infuriated bear.

A mountaineer named Jere Sands had a terrible conflict with a bear in Greasy Cove, near Johnson City, Tenn. Recently. The animal had been entrapped during the night, and when Sands came upon the scene he went directly up to the bear before making an effort to shoot it. He was standing a few feet away when the infuriated beast made a lunge, broke its fetters and was upon him in an instant. Before the surprised hunter could get his gun in position the bear seized his left arm in its crushing jaws, the weapon dropped from the hand of the mangled limb and a battle of death began. In a moment the mountaineer was in the dread embrace of his antagonist. They fell to the ground in the struggle which ensued, and rolling over and over they went down the mountain side thirty yards and dropped off a ledge of rocks twelve feet sheer fall. The bear happened to fall underneath and during the momentary shock which followed the half dead man managed to draw from his belt his hunting knife, which fortunately had remained undisturbed, and plunged it with all his strength into the animal's neck, severing the jugular vein. This ended the battle. The bear soon released his hold and was dead, but his slayer was too badly hurt to leave the scene of the struggle. His continued absence caused his friends to go in search of him. They found the victor covered with blood and pillowed upon his shaggy victim nursing his mangled arm. The bear was one of the largest ever killed in that region.

THEY DIDN'T FRATERNIZE.

The Old Crier Man Had to Give Up the Lion and Lamb Effort.

"The hardest thing to train a wild beast to do is to perform with a weak, defenseless animal," remarked A. L. Hutchins, an old circus and menagerie hand, who had deserted the arena and ring for mercantile pursuits as a commercial traveler. "I remember once, several years ago, an effort being made to persuade a lion or, better than to lie down with a lamb. The idea was certainly a good one but it took several lambs and also several weeks before the lion, which was willing to jump through a burning hoop, sham death on being shot, etc., could be persuaded to allow a lamb to enter his den with impunity. Twice he killed a lamb in the presence of his trainer, and the second time he nearly killed the trainer, who rather recklessly tried to get away the carcass. Finally the lion would tolerate a lamb in its den just as long as the keeper stood over it with an umbrella. But the effort was so evidently forced and the performance so abjectly lacking in smoothness that it was abandoned after three attempts."

The Roar of a Lion.

The roar of a lion can be heard farther than the sound of any living creature. Next comes the hyena, then the screech owl, the parrot and the scak in succession. The donkey can be heard fifty times farther off than the horse and the cat ten times farther than the dog. Strange the quiet and timid hare, when he cries in fear can be heard farther off than either dog or cat.

A Wolf in the Fold.

"You know old Jones who owes you six dollars?"

"Yes."

"Well, he's d'n't, an' says he'll leave this world in a chariot of fire."

"Serves him right," replied the editor; "he'll be roasted before he gets there."

Laugher.

When an Irishman speaks of his "fader and moder" he is guilty of nothing more than older English than we are accustomed to hear. "Worschipe the fader and the moder," says Wycliffe's New Testament.

Nor being a political organ.

Tus Citizens reserves the American privilege to do pretty much as it pleases, and it brands the following from the New Mexican as absolutely false:

It sticks out too plainly to be ignored. If Bernillo county, which means Albuquerque, doesn't name the next republican nominee for delegate in congress the Albuquerque Citizens will beat the ticket. Tus Citizens has practically served notice to this effect on the territorial republicans.
