Jon Eldredge Named NLM Fellow

by Sally Bowler-Hill on May 12th, 2022 | o Comments

HSLIC's very own Jon Eldredge, PhD, MLS, AHIP has been named a Fellow of the Medical Library Association. He will be officially conferred the title of Fellow after the Medical Library Association's 2022 annual meeting in May.

Medical Library Association (MLA) Fellows are members elected by the association's board for sustained and outstanding contributions to health sciences librarianship and to the advancement of the purposes of MLA. MLA Fellows must demonstrate notable leadership in MLA, outstanding achievement, and significant scholarship. This is one of the highest honors in health sciences librarianship.

Eldredge joined UNM faculty in 1986 as a lecturer, with an appointment in the School of Medicine, in what was then called the Medical Center Library. Through the years he has taken on multiple roles at HSLIC. He currently serves as HSLIC's Evidence-Based Practice Librarian.

In this role, Eldredge integrates library, informatics, and evidence-based practice skills into the curricula of medical, physician assistant, public health, clinical research, and other health sciences graduate programs. He co-teaches a research methods course for Physician Assistant program, a determinants and equity in public health course in the Master of Public Health program, and a biomedical informatics course for the Master of Sciences in Clinical Research program. He is also the Associate Program Director for the Clinical Informatics Fellowship within the School of Medicine's Department of Internal Medicine. Last year, Eldredge was named to the National Library of Medicine's Literature Selection Technical Review Committee, and he has extensive experience as an editor and review for scholarly publications in health sciences librarianship.

Congratulations, Jon, on this outstanding achievement!
