A Disastrous Freight Wreck.

A freight train, coming west, was wrecked at Robsart siding, seven miles east of Carrizozo, Saturday morning between 12 and 1 o'clock. Thirty-six cars left the track, between engine and caboose, and the wrecked cars, in one inextricable confusion, piled one on another until the pinnacle had the appearance of a miniature mountain peak. None of the crew was injured. Conductor Kernell and Engineer Garvin were in charge of the train. A broken arch bar and a broken wheel are assigned as causes for the wreck. The company estimates the wreck caused a damage of $25,000.00.

The train carried a mixed cargo, consisting of five cars of merchandise, a large number of coal and coke, also a few empty stock cars. The wrecking crew and the local yard men have been busy the entire week, removing the debris and classifying the goods. The work of classification has been completed and most of the merchandise sent to El Paso. The cars that are in condition for repairing have been gathered together and sent to El Paso for rebuilding and overhauling. The cars that were too badly demolished to repair will be burnt on the ground.

Traffic was interrupted for ten or twelve hours, and until a shoo-fly was built around the wreck. It is the opinion of the officials that the wreckage will be cleared away and the main line open for traffic by noon today.

Notwithstanding the fact that no lives were lost, in a financial way, coupled with a disarrangement of the service, Superintendent Morros considers it the most disastrous wreck the system has suffered in its history. In fact, it is said to be the worst wreck in the history of railroading, with one exception.

With goods of all kinds scattered over the plain, cars piled mountain high, the mass a conglomerate mixture, the whole thing formed a perfect picture of ruin and destruction. Many of the town people visited the scene of disaster Sunday, and a number took snapshots at the debris with camera and kodak.

Jicarilla Happenings.

Andrew McBrayer is in the post office for a while.

George Thorpe left for the Pass City a few days ago, to take in the Fair.

T. W. Stonerod made a trip to White Oaks this week, presumably upon matters of business.

Miss Izora Reasnor returned from a visit to White Oaks Friday in the Taylor automobile.

Frank Marsh went to White

Oaks this week upon business pertaining to his iron mines.

Messrs. Kirksey and Pulaska of Millwaukee, were visitors in camp this week to the Enterprises Company. Mr. Kirksey is the inventor of the machine now at work for the above Company.

H. J. Patterson of the Saloon force, is anticipating a trip to his claims in Nevada, which need his attention, and a few strokes of the pick and shovel this winter.

C. L. Kennedy, "The professor," has received a position as teacher for the winter term down at Rabenton. He reports an attendance of twenty-five pupils thus far, but looks others to come in soon.

There was a large tourists Automobile passed through on the east side a few days ago from the frozen lands of South Dakota. It contained a family enroute to southern points of interest, probably to El Paso Fair.

Another storm centered over the Jicks last Thursday. It snowed, and the haze was impenetrable all day; crystalizing the trees and shrubs, putting white caps on the posts of the fence, and enshrouding all nature in pure white. When all two soon the caper was changed in the after-noon, and the entire panorama was wiped off the surface, and nature assumed her usual sombre garb.

The Parsons mines have shut down for the winter, but it is stated they will start up again in the early spring. The past year is said to have been profitable one for the Company, the amount of ore crushed and values saved being more than for several years. The shut down was brought about by a visit of the director recently, who decided to have alterations made in the working of these valuable mines.

ODDITY IN STYLES

THAT IS THE KEYNOTE OF THE PRESENT SEASON.

What May Well Be Described as a "Fascinating Ugliness" is Predominant—Ideas, However, Still Have a Charm.

What may be described as a "fascinating ugliness" is the dominant note displayed by present fashions, this stamping a world of things that would seem hideous were they not so distractingly smart. In truth, the most superior nature is scarcely proof against the wiles of the odd tight skirts, the quaint draperies and snug little bodices, though a change of heart may come when you try them on, for these modern follies of fashion are only for the nymphs of the human race. Skirts express the hobble influence in a hundred and one ways, the jupe short enough to show ankles in the smartest cases and frequently with a wide, plain bottom attached to a gathered top. But there is no set model which must take precedence over others. It is only necessary for the walking skirt to be brief in length and width, and if it puts one's neck in danger with the long step, that is only a side issue.

Alongside the short skirt there are some longer ones for house or carriage wear that display overskirt effects as quaint as any seen in the 'eighties.' These fall low on the bottom skirt, and they are put all round, or only about the front and sides; in which case the skirt itself may be finished with a wide double box plait at the back, the sides of the front drapery going under this. The polonaise is another revival from ancient days, and it must be admitted that such over-draperies may be made to express a good deal of attractiveness, especially when they are in gauzy textiles, as they most often are, and are put over a tightly pulled back silk slip.

As yet these styles appear in the materials of summer, veiling, marquisette and silk, fair woman contenting herself with a change of headgear and a top-coat of some sort for the autumn note in her costuming. But soon fall materials will be employed, and such as are now shown reveal some change in standard materials and a subtle softening of the usual autumn colors. Some odd colors which have been influenced by summer styles are a shade of yellow bordering on the nicotine shade, this called tabac indro, and some violets which recall the darker shades of wisteria. These are superb in cashmere, for which there is to be a renewed vogue, and for the woman who loves to wear wash materials till the last moment there are also superb linens in the same colors.

The little drapery shown in the illustration is pictured in a patterned material, but the rear cut shows the plain veiling that would give a smarter effect. The material is a blue and gray veiling, black ribbon, velvet being used for all the banding. The skirt is a short, plaited model, and a gulmpe bodice with lace yoke and undersleeves is worn under the polonaise. A polonaise of black chiffon in this style, put over a princess slip in a lusterless black silk, would offer a beautiful evening effect for a young woman in mourning; for a bias of the silk, or else chiffon folds, could make the banding, and the simplicity of the drapery commends itself for black. In this event the gulmpe could be collarless, and of chiffon gathered over cords at the throat line, the same treatment to be used at the bottom of the undersleeves.

MISTAKE TOO MANY MAKE

Women Allow Themselves to Become Mere Machines, and So Rapidly Grow Old.

One reason why the average woman wears out, grows old and plain before her husband, is that, through a mistaken idea of duty, she lays out for herself at the beginning of her married life a scheme or plan of duty and employment for her time, every hour filled with work, with rare and short periods of relaxation, says Woman's Life.

This she follows religiously for years, feeling that she has done her duty, because every household event occurs regularly and on time, while she soon becomes merely a machine, a thing without life of itself or volition. She settles into her rut and goes round and round on the same track everlastingly.

Can any woman keep brightness, originality of thought or speech, or even mere prettiness with such a life? and without those things how can she keep her husband and growing children full of loving admiration, which is the strongest chain by which she can bind them to her? How bright and jolly the neighbor's wife seems when she calls. In nine cases out of ten it is because the surroundings and talk of your home are variety to her and rouse her to originality and brightness of speech.

In her own rut she may be as dull as dish water.

Merely a Suggestion.

"Sir," began the poet impressively, "I am seeking an outlet for my pen."

"Have you ever tried the kitchen sink?" asked the busy editor, as he blue-penciled all but one paragraph of a column story turned in by a cub reporter.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR KIDNEYS.

Little kidney troubles gradually grow more serious and pave the way to dropsy, diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills at the first sign of trouble. They cure all kidney ills.

Mrs. L. E. Wilcox, 27 W. Cherokee St., McAlester, Okla., says: "I was seized with an awful attack of kidney trouble which came on me in an instant. My back ached intensely and I lost all power of control over the kidney secretions. My health became greatly run down and nothing helped. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I have been well ever since."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

AN EXCUSE FOR EACH.

Mother (severely) — How many strawberries have you eaten out of this basket, Ethel?

Ethel—Only two. One to see how it tasted, and the other to take the taste out of my mouth.

NO HEALTHY SKIN LEFT

"My little son, a boy of five, broke out with an itching rash. Three doctors prescribed for him, but he kept getting worse until we could not dress him any more. They finally advised me to try a certain medical college, but its treatment did no good. At the time I was induced to try Cuticura he was so bad that I had to cut his hair off and put the Cuticura Ointment on him on bandages, as it was impossible to touch him with the bare hand. There was not one square inch of skin on his whole body that was not affected. He was one mass of sores. The bandages used to stick to his skin and in removing them it used to take the skin off with them, and the screams from the poor child were heartbreaking. I began to think that he would never get well, but after the second application of Cuticura Ointment I began to see signs of improvement, and with the third and fourth applications the sores commenced to dry up. His skin peeled off twenty times, but it finally yielded to the treatment. Now I can say that he is entirely cured, and a stronger and healthier boy you never saw than he is to-day, twelve years or more since the cure was effected. Robert Wattam, 1148 Forty-eighth St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 9, 1909."

His Only Affliction.

"Have you ever had writer's cramp?" asked the beautiful maiden.

"No," replied the poet, "but I've often had writer's kink."

"Writer's kink? What is that?"

"It's a trouble that consists of the kinking of the stomach around the spine, due to non-eating."

Dr. Pierce's Peppermint, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels and cure constipation.

Woman's sphere now seems to be the whole earth.

Easy.

A New York post, at the Authors' club, in Seventh avenue, told a Conan Doyle story.

"Sir Arthur Conan Doyle," he said, "sat at a dinner on his last visit here beside a lady, who asked leave to consult him about some thefts."

"My detective powers," he replied, "are at your service, madam."

"Well," said the lady, "frequent and mysterious thefts have been occurring at my house for a long time. Thus there disappeared last week a motor horn, a broom, a box of golf balls, a dozen tin pie plates."

"Aha!" said the creator of Sherlock Holmes, "the case, madam, is quite clear. You keep a goat."—New York Times.

Expert Opinion.

"Yes," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I am sure our garden is going to be a success."

"So soon."

"Yes. The chickens have tasted everything and they are perfectly enthusiastic."—Washington Star.

The woman of 80 who has registered as a student at the state university at Columbus, O., may not be seeking an education so much as an opportunity to show the modern girl something about athletics.

A year ago there emanated from the Passenger Department of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad a folder giving the time of trains, with notes descriptive of the points of interest, the scenery and the industrial and commercial importance of the cities located on its line together with information regarding altitudes and populations. This folder, at once so simple and understandable, was such a marked improvement over the puzzling leaflets usually handed the traveler that it was received with instant favor and attracted much attention. Its drawback was an awkward fold, and it was minus a map. All this has now been remedied, a new descriptive folder, with a splendid Coast to Coast map and a collapsible fold that simply falls together, having made its appearance a day or two ago. The Rio Grande now enjoys the distinction of issuing the simplest and most readily understood time table of any railroad in the United States.

WHEREIN LIES THE MYSTERY OF THIS FACE?

To Avoid Gazing Into It
Women Were Impelled to Suicide.

And in the End the Man Himself
Ended His Life, Probably to Escape the Strange Influence That His Eyes Seemed to Exert Upon
All Who Came Within Their Influence.

NEW YORK—Take a long look at the face of the young man which stares at you from this page. What do you make of it?

It is a patrician face, the features well modeled and regular, the brow broad and intellectual, the nose straight and aristocratic, the mouth not unkind, though perhaps a trifle weak.

But look at the expression of the eyes. Do they haunt you when you turn away from them? Is there anything forbidding, terrifying in the way they stare at you? Do they take hold of you, grip you and seem to follow you?

They are not cruel and vindictive eyes, and yet—

Yet these eyes, or the owner of them, were responsible for one of the most astonishing and puzzling mysteries of the past few years, a mystery in which three young and beautiful women sought to end their lives, two of them successfully, for no reason other than which each gave:

"I could not help it, because of Louis' eyes!"

And, as a fitting climax to this series of mysteries, the owner of the eyes called down the curtain on his short but remarkably tragic career by standing in front of the mirror, a few weeks ago, and, while these strange eyes of his looked at their own reflection in the glass, shot himself, reeled to a bed and died.

But, while his act closed the drama, it did not end the mystery, which to-day is even more of a mystery than it was before he added his own suicide to the list. Today everybody who has heard of the case is asking:

Question None Can Answer.

"What was there about Louis Bauduy's eyes to make all three of his beautiful young wives kill themselves? What was the mystery about the young man which seemed to inspire suicide in those with whom he came into intimate association? And why did he end his own life?"

Louis Bauduy was the son of a prominent St. Louis alienist, a young man of prepossessing appearance, cultured and well educated. He engaged in business in his home town and then came to New York, where he married a Miss Bertha Sayer, also of St. Louis. She was a beautiful girl and from the first the young pair seemed to be very happy. They had pretty apartments at No. 346 West Fifty-eighth street, and were considered to be model examples of a young married pair.

Young Bride a Suicide.

But on Feb. 18, 1904, the wife was found dead in her apartment with a revolver beside her. She had left a note in which she said she had committed suicide because of "something" which she could stand no longer. At that time nobody guessed that the reason might have lain in the eyes of the young man on whom his pretty bride's tragic death seemed to have fallen as a heavy weight, and who seemed inconsolable.

The bereaved husband was disconsolate, but time, especially in the case of youth, heals many wounds, and the day came when he seemed to have rallied from the shock of his wife's death and began to go about his business with the same enthusiasm as of old. And then he met another girl who attracted him and helped him forget the first tragedy of his life. They were married and life seemed to have opened up a bright new chapter for Louis Bauduy.

But on Dec. 10, 1908, neighbors smelled gas from the apartment of the couple at No. 146 West Eighty-third street. The door was burst in and Rose Bauduy was found dead, with the gas turned full on in her room. The young husband was unconscious and his life was despaired of until his brother sacrificed a transfusion of blood, which brought Louis back to health.

Mrs. Bauduy No. 2 had left no note explaining the cause of her suicide, but to friends she had said some time before committing the deed that life was growing unbearable to her; that when ever her husband looked at her she felt as though she could not stand it any longer.

Fate brought Bauduy in association with Leone Violet Connelly, a beautiful young woman of twenty-three years, a widow with one little child.

She was a manicure employed in a big New York hotel and lived with her mother at an uptown apartment. She and Louis Bauduy fell in love and were married on June 3, of this year. The third wife of this handsome young man knew when she married him that he had given himself to dissipation, but with woman's blind faith she thought she could reform him. She said to a friend:

"Louis is everything great and good in the world when he is all right, and then he does not have that awful look about the eyes. He will be all right, I know, for we love each other so much!"

But the woman who marries a man to reform him has generally a thankless task, and it was so with the third Mrs. Bauduy. After a short honeymoon they went to live at an apartment on Manhattan avenue, and in a few weeks their relations had become somewhat strained and the young husband was staying away from home many nights.

On the night of Aug. 12 there was a bitter quarrel in the little house, and the young bride, opening the door, told her husband to go out and never return. Then, when he had gone, she left the place herself, went to the elevated structure at One Hundred and Tenth street and tried to throw herself before a train. She was rescued, but at the police station again tried to kill herself. And this was the story that she told:

Could Not Reform Husband.

"When I married my husband," she said, "I did not know that he had ever been married before. I loved him and thought that his rather eccentric ways were due to drinking, of which I was sure that I could cure him. But recently I found that this was a thankless task, and I began to grow tired of life. I do not know—or rather I did not know—what the impulse was that was urging me on to self-destruction. But the other day when I learned that he had two wives before me, and that both had committed suicide, I seemed to understand the reason for this impulse. It was absolutely irrefragable. I could not fight against it. I tried to, but something seemed to urge me on to put an end to things, and when he came to the house last night after several days' absence, and I had seen him for a few hours, the impulse was stronger than ever. Then I sent him away and followed out of the house myself, determined to finish it all."

"If we let you go now," asked the police, "will you try again to kill yourself?"

"No," said Mrs. Bauduy, "I don't think, now that I shall not see Louis again, that the feeling will come over me so strongly."

Bauduy Ends Own Life.

Then came the fourth and last chapter of the career of Louis C. Bauduy when, one week after his young wife had tried to kill herself he went to a hotel at Mamaroneck, N. Y., and, registering under an assumed name, shot himself in the head.

What was there about this face that drove three women to try suicide, and, finally, impelled its owner to take his own life?—New York World.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

JNO. A. HALEY, Editor

AN ELECTIVE JUDICIARY.

There is an occasional newspaper still fighting an elective judiciary. There are also a few individuals who profess to believe that an appointive judiciary is preferable. Their stock argument is that the people are incapable of choosing proper judges, and that political favorites will be chosen rather than men of strict legal training, chock full of the law's profundity. They forget that presidents and governors make the same mistake, and that the applicant with the longest pole knocks the persimmon, and that too often the long pole constitutes the sum total of the applicant's ability. And when an appointment is made the people are impotent to remedy the wrong.

As a matter of fact, it does not require a legally trained mind to distinguish between right and wrong, and an honest, conscientious mechanic, farmer or business man could easily read the statutes, which are in plain English, and render a decision in accordance with the law and the evidence. He can do this, too, without looking for technicalities; for he can see a barn as distinctly as any judge, and will call it a barn when he sees it; and will not be peering through a knot hole to see if, perchance, a timber on the opposite side is plumb. The difficulty with a legal mind, too acutely trained, is that technicalities seem to be the mainspring of its existence, and are eagerly sought, and the main facts and principal feature—justice—are forgotten in the search.

An elective system will not cure all our court ills, but it will be an improvement over an appointive judiciary. It has many virtues not possessed by the appointive system, and places the responsibility where it belongs—with the people. A whole lot less law and more old-fashioned justice would be a pleasing innovation for the people.

MISREPRESENTATIVES.

In a conversation recently with a republican, who is opposed to the initiative, the suggestion was made that inasmuch as the convention had decided to leave out the initiative would it not be the proper thing to submit it as an amendment and let the people adopt or reject it, without affecting the body of the instrument? His reply was frank and characteristic. He said: "The convention just as well place the initiative in the main body of the instrument; for if it is submitted to the people as an amendment it is certain to be adopted; and," he continued, "the delegates know this, and will not, therefore, submit the amendment."

Now, we submit that, if our republican friend is right in his supposition, instead of representatives at Santa Fe, we have misrepresentatives. This is certainly a peculiar situation: delegates sitting up there at the capital and saying to the people they don't want and can't get what they want. This is not representative government; it is not republicanism; it is not democracy; it is not socialism; it is plutocratic oligarchy of bourbonism, which has caused more unrest among people than all other agencies combined.

A "crazy, patch-work" constitution has not stunted Oklahoma's growth. A late bulletin issued by the census department shows that state to possess two cities which lead all others in percentage of increase. One is Oklahoma City, the other is Muskogee. The "safe and sane" constitutional advocates are entitled to all the satisfaction they can deduce from these figures.

Next Tuesday, November 8th, congressional elections will take place in every state in the union except Maine, which state held her election in August. Thirty of the states will choose state officers and a still greater number will elect state legislatures, and many of the latter will select United States Senators, whose terms will begin the 4th of next March. Politics will, therefore, occupy the center of the stage for the coming week.

The spectre of the "militia warrants" has again shown its head; this time disturbing the equanimity of our constitution makers. Illegal, unjust and outrageous as these warrants are, to validate them would not be any more unjust than for the state to assume the railroad bonded indebtedness of Santa Fe and Grant counties, which is permitted by the enabling act. And if holders of the warrants had the same advocate as did the holders of the railroad bonds the same result might occur.

The News makes no pretension of being a prohibition advocate, nor does it believe, if left to a vote, that prohibition would be adopted; yet that is not the question. The question is that a very respectable number of New Mexico citizens are honest and earnest advocates of prohibition, and desire an opportunity to express their sentiment at the polls, with the hope, of course, of securing enough votes to make a dry state of New Mexico. The convention could, and should, submit this proposition as a separate amendment, and its adoption or rejection would have no effect on the main instrument.

County Seat Hearing Monday.

The hearing in the county seat case is to occur at Alamogordo Monday, before Judge Wright, Attorney Hewitt, for the county commissioners, will go down, as will also Commissioner Taylor, and possibly the other members of the board, although we have not heard definitely about the latter. Attorney Catron is expected to be there on behalf of the Lincoln people, and also Attorney Barber from Lincoln.

Convention Busy.

A letter from Mr. Canning, one of Lincoln county's delegates, informs us that the convention is making good progress. The following features have been adopted by the convention:

Preamble and boundaries, schedule, ordinance, with United States, legislature, bill of rights, military affairs and irrigation and water rights. The remainder of the week will be devoted to executive, taxation, education, and perhaps elective franchise. Mr. Canning thinks the convention could conclude and adjourn next week, but scarcely expects it to do so.

After November the first, and during the winter months, our last delivery will leave the store at 5 p. m. We would appreciate you having your afternoon orders in before that time.—The Carrizozo Trading Co.

Lincoln Locals.

We noticed in our midst for a few days last week Mr. W. S. Prager of Roswell who was here on business.

Dave Gallegos is hauling lumber preparatory to building a nice four or five room cottage in the town of Lincoln.

Dr. J. W. Laws has returned from a visit to El Paso, Texas where he was in attendance upon the International Medical Association, and he reports a most profitable meeting of that body.

This week cupid has been busy and as a result of this effectual work the marriage of the following parties will be noted, viz:

Silvestre Baca to Concepcion Padilla both of Lincoln, and Candido Chavez to Estela West both of San Patricio.

Monday of this week there was shipped from Capitan by G. H. Copeland another car of fancy apples to the El Paso market. This car was gathered from the orchard of Pablo Chaves who lives a few miles below Lincoln. A second car of select apples will be shipped out of Capitan by the same buyer on Thursday of this week to the same market. This car will be from the orchard of Mr. Fritz.

Worth Reading.

"The Rule of the Republican Ring in New Mexico" is the title of a strong article in the November number of National Monthly of which Chairman Norman E. Mack, of the Democratic National Committee, is the Editor in Chief.

The article is from the pen of Edward Tittman for several years past a resident of New Mexico, but previously an eastern newspaper man.

There is no question but what the article will be read with the greatest interest by every citizen of New Mexico for, appearing as it does in National Monthly, the organ of the Democratic National Committee, it is bound to call the attention of the country to the political situation in this state as nothing else has ever done. The article is illustrated with pictures of Santa Fe.

Every Democrat in New Mexico should subscribe for Chairman Mack's National Monthly. The subscription price is $1.00 a year. Send your subscription today to Norman E. Mack, Times Building, Buffalo, N. Y., and start with the November number containing this big article on Republican misrule in this state. The November number of National Monthly is now on sale on all first class news stands, price ten cents.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Spence, who had been ill with typhoid fever and had a relapse, is slightly improved, yet slowly recovering.

P. E. Lacey returned this week from Parsons, where he has been employed for several months. He has taken a job with the Ziegler Brothers.

Apart from the pranks played by the younger generation on Halloween, the occasion was fittingly celebrated by quite a number of social gatherings.

Francisco Gallegos and wife of this county have moved to Magdalena, Socorro county. Mrs. Gallegos is a daughter of Joe Torres.

John C. Adams, who went to Kelly, Socorro county, three or four months ago, is expected to return between the 15th and 20th of this month.

Will Tittsworth, Hunter Hobbs, R. Irminger, R. A. Hunnicutt, M. S. Crockett and W. M. Ferguson came over yesterday with about 225 head of cattle for shipment.

There will be preaching at the Baptist church Sunday by the Rev. Frank M. Wadley, the newly elected pastor. A cordial invitation is extended to all to come and hear him.

H. A. Morgan, the steam washing machine man, is convincing the doubting ones that his machine is the best thing of its kind on the market. Mr. Morgan is not much of a talker—he lets the machine do the talking.

Mr. and Mrs. George Spence and daughter, Miss Grace, returned yesterday from El Paso, where they have been attending the fair. While absent Mr. Spence purchased a fine team of horses and a carriage, and young George is driving the outfit home. The rig is expected in this evening.

Payment on the school house bonds has been made by the purchasers, and the school board has begun drawing on the fund to reimburse the contractors for the erection of the building. The walls are about complete, and up to the receipts from the bond sale the contractors had not received any money.

A large number of people from this place drove to Robsart, seven miles east, Sunday, to view the train wreck which occurred the previous day, many of whom brought kodaks along, and took some interesting pictures of the wreck. The train consisted of 34 freight cars, all of which were piled one on top of the other, the engine and caboose remaining on the track.

A bunch of cattle was driven over yesterday from beyond the range for shipment, but lack of cars causes the cattle to be held in pasture a day or so. The cattle belong to Welch & Tittsworth, R. Irminger and Mrs. Boone and W. M. Ferguson. It is a mixed herd, but contains a number of good fat cows, ready for the butcher.

Henry Lacey, manager of the local telephone office, has sprung himself for a ten horse power motor cycle, in order to be in touch with the big buz machines. It makes quite a racket when under way, but it is certainly an annihilator of distance. One day last week he made a run from Nogal to this place, twelve good long miles, in twenty-six minutes. It does not compare, of course, with Barney Oldfield's mile-a-minute on a saucer-shaped track, but it was certainly going some on a rough mountain road.

Following the two preceding weeks of early bad weather, this week has been ideal. Regular fall weather, delightful, crisp and bracing.

The Whist Club.

Mrs. S. H. Fairbanks was hostess to the whist club Wednesday. The afternoon of whist was followed by merry chat and a tasty luncheon. Mrs. Frank Sager carried off the first prize, having held the highest score. Mrs. W. Whittingham and Mrs. John F. Kimbell tied the score for the booby prize, which, after the draw was awarded to Mrs. Whittingham.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Robt. H. Taylor was down one day this week from White Oaks.

Mrs. Ed. Long is here from Denver, visiting parents and relatives.

W. G. Wells came down from Parsons Monday, returning the following day.

Tom Davis, storekeeper at the shops in El Paso this week taking in the Fair.

Tom Johnson is among the delegates seeing the sights at the El Paso Fair this week.

Mrs. John E. Bell is in El Paso this week, visiting with friends and enjoying the sights of the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Roberts left on Wednesday's No. 33 for El Paso to help swell the crowd from Lincoln county at the Fair.

Clark Hust is preparing to make a shipment of horses to Oklahoma. He expects to load out tomorrow or the day following.

Miss Clara Jacobs came over from Captan Monday, and is staying with Miss Helen Canning while Mr. and Mrs. Canning are in Santa Fe.

Jacob Ziegler, of the firm of Ziegler Bros., had the misfortune to break his right arm Tuesday. He was riding on a dray, when a sudden turn threw him violently to the ground, resulting in a broken arm.

Cecil Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Long, came in Wednesday after a year's absence. He expects to remain in Carrizozo, and is now employed at the round house.

Prof. M. T. Dye was down Saturday from Ancho. He reports school enrollment and attendance good, and the advancement satisfactory.

A. C. Wingfield returned Sunday from Mexico. He left here the first of October to examine some mining property, and is not yet prepared to say whether or not he will open up a bonanza.

Stoddard P. Johnson returned this week from a trip to Texas, where he had been called to attend the bedside of a sick sister. While absent he visited the Dallas fair and witnessed a celebrated automobile race in which two of the drivers lost their lives.

John H. Canning came home Friday from Santa Fe. He returned Monday, accompanied by Mrs. Canning. Mr. Canning believes the convention will complete its work in another two weeks, and does not expect to return until the final adjournment.

P. C. Baird and family and Grandma Gray left Tuesday noon for Texas. Mr. Baird and family went to Mason, their old home, while Mrs. Gray went to Menard county. All expect to remain in Texas, but Mr. Baird may return in the near future for a short stay.

Sheriff Stevens made a special trip up the line Saturday, but when he reached his destination the birds had flown. However, he nabbed one man for carrying a concealed weapon, and the school fund was enriched to the extent of $50.00.

Rev. Frank M. Wadley, formerly of Albuquerque but more recently of Alamogordo, arrived Saturday, and preached at the Baptist church Sunday morning and at night. The Baptist congregation has called him to officiate here the coming year, and he has located at Carrizozo and will make this his home.

Wayne Van Schoyck came in Tuesday night from an extended trip to Mexico. He went in search of some mining property which was represented to be fabulously rich. He vouchsafed no information upon his return, but went on to White Oaks the next morning, wiser, but we trust not absolutely disappointed.

F. M. Crockett and family, who left here some ten days ago, were in Albuquerque Monday, according to the Tribune-Citizen. They are headed for San Juan county, where they intend to locate. For about thirty years this family has resided in this county, on the Bonito. A residence of that length entitles them to return whenever they get ready, and that won't be long.

The News is in receipt of a communication this week, post marked White Oaks, and the writer concludes by saying:

"Please publish this." We have two reasons for not publishing this communication, but one is sufficient to mention—it was not signed.

Two overland automobiles en route to the coast passed through Carrizozo Tuesday. The cars, which contained two persons each, started from South Dakota. The cars were equipped with blankets, camp outfit and carried a well-stocked commissary.

Monday night, being Halloween, when fairies, spirits and hobgoblins are supposed to be at large, was celebrated in the customary manner. Signs were removed from buildings and placed on other buildings doing a different business, and wheels were taken off of one vehicle and put on another of an entirely different pattern, much of which was ludicrous and some of which was rather inconvenient.

About 320 marines, bound from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, passed through Monday on a special train of ten coaches. They stopped off here for dinner; and, by the way, it took some hustling and headwork to handle so large a crowd, which had to be done on the jump; but they were handled to the satisfaction of all concerned. When it comes to doing a quick stunt, Frank Gurney is right there. The marines left in the evening for the coast, where they will be distributed on the different vessels of the Pacific squadron.

CARRIZOZO NEWS

CARRIZOZO - NEW MEXICO

ALIMONY AND DIVORCE.

Now comes a New York woman who is sure to be charged with "woman's inhumanity for woman," professing to be shocked at the multiplicity of divorces and proposing a remedy in the total abolition of alimony, says Omaha Bee. She conceives the prospect of alimony to be the chief cause of divorces granted to women and denounces the system as nothing but a simple graft. Undoubtedly many designing women can consistently take no exceptions to these charges, and it is not to be questioned that some unscrupulous lawyers will co-operate with women for the purpose of obtaining financial emolument through the operation of the divorce courts, but that alimony, or the desire to obtain alimony, constitutes the prevailing cause and purpose of women seeking legal separations from their husbands, it is hard to believe, any more than it would be wise, safe or just to do away with the law providing for alimony. Society has come to recognize that there is such a thing as a justifiable divorce, and there is certainly such a thing as a woman needing and deserving support from the man from whom she seeks and obtains a divorce, and to abolish alimony would work hardship on many women and children, alike blameless for the causes as well as the fact of the separation.

Has everybody forgotten Halley's comet? There was a reaction after the trepidation and intense curiosity aroused by its approach, and now, instead of piling out of bed at unearthly hours of the early morning in the hope of getting a glimpse of it, there are many who would not, for the promise of a good square look at the wonderer, take the trouble of walking across the street. They have seen it once, and so far as they are concerned, it is an old story. Halley's comet is not beyond viewing distance from the earth; yet it cannot be seen. The reason of its invisibility is its nearness to the sun. It sets in the early evening, while the twilight is strong enough to hide it with a veil of light. At the end of the month it will set before sunset. It is further south in the sky than the sun.

The Canadian authorities have been so much disturbed over the report that 15,000 American farmers have left the Canadian northwest that they have undertaken an inquiry of their own. The result of that is the admission that 261 farmers and their families have returned to the United States. During the same time they claim that over 50,000 settlers have entered Canada from this country. Perhaps it is up to the United States to investigate these last figures.

A Louisiana man has patented a combined pickle fork and pair of tongs. With the aid of this useful instrument you may, after a pickle slips from your fork, reach into the jar and pick it out with the tongs. For our part, we are unable to understand why anyone should wish to take so much trouble for the purpose of securing a pickle.

If the cow shows its appreciation of music by giving a bigger yield of milk, why not try the experiment on chickens during the egg famine?

ROAD and FARM IMPROVEMENT

TIME FOR HARVESTING GRAIN

If Left Uncut Until Dead Ripe Many Varieties Lose Both in Quality and Quantity.

(By ROBERT H. CAHOON.)

Among the numerous mistakes that lead to enormous wastes on the farm, few are more worthy of attention than that of letting grain, oats, wheat, rye, corn, etc., get too ripe before harvesting.

No one can ride about the country in summer without being struck and amazed at the prevalence of this error.

You will notice field after field that has reached, or is approaching, the period of dead ripeness, and that ought to have been harvested several days before.

The loss arising from this source is more appreciable and more easily estimated, perhaps in wheat, of which we cultivate comparatively little, than it is in other grains, like oats and rye, but the same general principle applies to all.

If wheat is cut two weeks or so before it fully ripens, it contains more gluten and starch and a bushel will weigh more, and it will make a larger quantity and a better quality of flour, with a less quantity of bran or middlings, than if it were allowed to ripen. This is by no means a matter of theory.

The straw will begin to change color slightly two or three weeks before the grain comes to complete maturity.

In the best and most favorable seasons it will begin to ripen and change color at the bottom. In some less favorable seasons the upper joints turn first.

In the great wheat-growing sections of the far East, where wheat-growing is carried on to a much greater extent than it is here, they have studied this point more carefully than we have.

The best farmers begin to cut while a portion of the stalk is green, as soon as the kernel has passed from the "milky" to the "doughy" state.

The stalk has then begun to change color, sometimes from the bottom, sometimes for three or four inches below the head.

A most careful and accurate experiment was made to ascertain the difference, taking wheat, first, when it was green; second, a week after, when it was changing color; and third, when fully ripe.

The result was in the first case 19% bushels an acre; in the second, 22%; in the third, 23%; and the same difference was found in the straw.

The total value an acre was: in that cut green, $62.30; in that cut one week after, when the stalk was yellow below the ear, $64.61; in that cut one week after, when fully ripe, $66.13.

The first two productions had more fine flour and less bran than that cut last, showing that gluten is converted into starch in standing to get fully ripe.

When either end of the stalk turns yellow, the sap ceases to flow, and the covering or shell of the kernel thickens and becomes hard, and of course gives a larger proportion of bran and less fine flour.

Beside, in early cutting there is less loss from shelling out in handling, and from high winds, which involves a very heavy loss in ripened grain.

Now what is true of wheat is, in the main, also true of other small grains—oats and rye. If we raise them for seed to sow again, they ought to be allowed to ripen fully, but if for grinding or for feed for animals, they should be cut early, if they would be in their best and most nutritive condition.

FARM LEVEL IS ESSENTIAL

Most Successful Work Cannot Be Done Without Aid of Instrument—Brings Returns.

It is usually found difficult to establish a grade, plan a ditch, or lay out a drain with the eye only to suggest or some cheap device to assist, says a writer in Orange Judd Farmer. I have tried it several times, and have never been satisfied, nor have I been able to do the most successful work without the aid of a real leveling instrument. If all of us were engineers and owned costly levels, these simple matters would be easy. Fortunately, there are on the market simple, inexpensive levels made purposely for the farmer; $15 will buy one, and so invested will bring in great returns.

The simple level, illustrated here, will meet the requirements for all kinds of drainage, underdrainage, open ditches or drains, all kinds of irrigating work, canals and laterals, terracing land, road building, house foundation work, grading of all kinds, setting out orchards, running fences, getting angles and every sort of farm work requiring a level. Farmers, as a rule, have most of the common tools and implements for doing farm work, the level excepted. Now that this is available to up-to-date farms of the substantial farmers, this recent addition to the farm equipment may prove most helpful in performing many of these tasks that have heretofore been done by guess and, therefore, unsatisfactory.

HANDY DEVICE FOR GRANARY

Contrivance for Holding Bags So That They May Be Filled Quickly—Is Cheaply Constructed.

There are various kinds of devices to be made quickly for filling bags when one has to do it alone, but I think it is wise to have a contrivance in your granary all of the time, writes

A Useful Bag Filler.

Ralph Hersey in Farm and Home. I had a blacksmith make me one that works very well.

I cut the bottom out of a large tin pan and had this mounted on an iron rod as shown in the drawing. Small hooks are placed around this. The bag is hung on these hooks and the grain shoveled in at the top.

Working Corn.

The smoothing harrow or weeds should be used on the cornfield once or twice before it comes up. This keeps the soil loose, destroys a crop of weeds and conserves the moisture, thus giving the corn a good start. Early and frequent working long continued is a profitable investment in the cornfield.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

We Have Over Half of the New World

WASHINGTON—The indications being that the census will show the population of the United States to be over 90,000,000, it seems assured that the republic contains more than half of the inhabitants of the New World. It is quite probable that all of the remaining countries of this hemisphere have fewer than 80,000,000 inhabitants.

That point can never be settled definitely until conditions change radically in many extensive regions of Latin America. Now most of the states south of Mexico and north of the Argentine either make a farce of their census taking or else do not attempt it at any time.

Recent estimates, partly based upon census records, which have been made in South America and Central America, indicate that there are about 70,000,000 people living between the Rio Grande and Cape Horn, including the West Indies. Canada has perhaps 7,000,000, allowing for rapid growth since the census of 1901, and Newfoundland adds less than 250,000.

Unless the estimates, which seem most intelligently made, are very wide of the mark in several countries where there are no authentic and exact statistics of population, the total for the New World, outside of the United States, cannot exceed 80,000,000.

Brazil, much the largest country of South America, is the most populous in the Western Hemisphere, except the United States. It is probable that a full and careful enumeration of the Brazilians would show about 20,000,000 of them.

Mexico, only about 25 per cent of the size of Brazil in square miles, is safely established in third place among all the nations of the New World, as far as numbers go. In other respects the Argentine surpasses Mexico, and so does Canada. Their industrial output is greater and their foreign commerce is larger in every way.

Argentina and Canada are alike also, in growing so fast and with such assurance of continued swift expansion that they may overtake and pass Mexico. Their chief cities already surpass the largest civic centers in the country which Diaz makes his footstool. But now neither is within 6,000,000 of the Mexican total.

From these rivals, so unlike in many things, but so similar in their high hopes and their rapid development, down through countries like Peru, Columbia, Venezuela and Bolivia, the experts guess their way to the many small states which maintain a separate existence in Latin America. Costa Rica is probably the least of them all in numbers, counting but 250,000 residents. Cuba is fairly well filled up, ranking in density of population with several of the Southern states.

As a rule, with comparatively few exceptions, Latin America is rich in unsettled country. A very large part of the vast expanse of land south of the Mexican frontier, all the way to the southern end of South America lies open to settlement.

Some day such wealth in unused natural resources must cause great growth, but that is a matter of the indefinite future. For the present it is certain that the United States will hold its lead over the other countries of the New World, counting all of them together.

Gives No Money for Road Building

AS regularly as the seasons roll around, congress sidesteps, smoothes or overrides all propositions which would embark the government in the business of road building. The logic and importance in the outcry for "goodroads" is universally admitted; but everybody's business comes perilously near having nobody's attention.

Some communities, townships, counties and a few states have made more or less real progress towards improving the highways locally. Where the states take a hand a beginning is made towards obtaining "through routes." But, despite all that has been said for a revival of road building, notwithstanding editorial support from publications of all partisan shades, the movement as yet has no central organization which presses the work along broad lines.

The federal government thus far co-operates only by giving advice. It maintains a small bureau in the department of agriculture devoted first to the propaganda of the good roads idea and secondly to the maintenance of a limited corps of experts, who, when their assistance is solicited, will make suggestions as to the best methods for road building under given circumstances, and to a certain extent, experiments in the use of materials are conducted by the specialists of this bureau. Here the government stops, for the reason that dominant view in congress has been that this properly delimits the government's function.

Representative Anthony of Kansas introduced a bill in the house last winter for the construction of a military highway between Fort Leavenworth and Fort Riley, 100 miles, by convicts in the two federal penitentiaries at Fort Leavenworth. The bill was lost after a debate that developed into a general discussion of the good roads movement.

The measure had the indorsement of President Taft, the chief of staff of the army and the quartermaster general. General J. Franklin Bell, then chief of staff, stated in a letter to Representative Anthony that the proposed road would unquestionably be of great military value and convenience. "Farmers of many townships through which the proposed road would run offered to supply all the rock and other material to be used in its construction."

Like others of its kind, this measure was wrecked upon constitutional rocks. The opponents of the bill contended that General Bell did not claim the road to be a military necessity, and that, if not done for this purpose, the government could not build it, because the constitution authorizes the construction of only such roads as are required to meet military necessities and post roads.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

In a Quandary.

Boundless ambition may cause some trouble in the constitutional convention at Santa Fe, if reports emanating from the capital are to be credited. The committee has put in a claim for a big slice of Texas, and thereby hangs a tale. The following statement sent out from Santa Fe, which is given verbatim, is calculated to produce sleepless nights for some of the members:

Delegate Childers, of Curry County, has caused the republicans some unpleasant dreams by insisting that as long New Mexico claims a strip of about 600,000 acres from Texas, and has spread out over it, that they provide for taking the vote there on this state constitution. The people there are intelligent voters, and the election would be a very effective assertion of the New Mexico claim.

Bourne-Collins.

Wm. S. Bourne, of this place, and Miss Eula Collins, formerly of Carrizozo, but more recently of Albuquerque, were married at Estancia Thursday of last week. The contracting parties are well known in Lincoln county, the groom having resided in this county since the early 'eighties, and is known as one of our successful business men; and the bride is remembered as one of the pleasant, accomplished young ladies of the town, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Collins, and who now reside at Three Rivers. The News joins the host of friends of the newly-wedded couple in extending best wishes.

Ancho Personals.

Stop the fight and move the County Seat to Ancho. We have plenty of room for a Court House, but no need of jail as the people here are a quiet, peace-loving sort—some times.

Dr. Walker passed through here on his way to Luna, last Saturday evening being called to see Mrs. McMillan. Patient reported doing nicely.

Messrs Cooper, Woods, Martin, Thompson, and others are shipping cattle this week. Other shipments later on of sheep and cattle.

Mr. Davis and crew were called out to the wreck early Saturday morning.

No large game killed in this community during the season except the one killed by Mr. Faves as far as we know.

Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Flippen were visitors in Carrizozo last week.

Mrs. Dye, who has been sick since coming to Ancho, is not improved.

A new weekly "The Ancho Bulletin" is being successfully launched in our County—Not in opposition however to any of our honored weeklies or as a champion pro or con, the referendum or what should be in the constitution but simply to report the items of interest in the Ancho school, which keeps the editors busy.

The dance in the school house Saturday evening was not largely attended.
