EXEMPTIONS.

Under the above caption the Santa Fe Eagle presents its views on the question of exemptions in the constitution. We present the article in question without comment, and the intelligent reader may draw his own conclusions on this particular part of the constitution:

"Up to this time it has been useless to call attention to these matters for the reason that copies of the constitution have not been in the hands of the voters. Now it is believed that every voter in the territory has a copy of the constitution and will be able to see for himself just what it provides.

"Some time ago the New Mexican printed the following:

"Remember, that the $200 exemption clause has been written into the constitution. It exempts from taxation $200 worth of property and protects the poor man against being compelled from his small means to contribute toward the defraying of government expenses. No legislature can change that clause, but if New Mexico remains a territory any legislature can repeal that protection of the poor man. Being in the constitution, it will be binding forever. The constitution is written from the poor man's standpoint, not that of the rich man, and that is why there are so many wealthy democrats and so many well-to-do democratic corporation attorneys opposing it. In the democratic convention on Saturday, it was the wealthy leaders like A. A. Jones, who most bitterly condemned the constitution."

"The above article has been widely copied since its publication and many speakers have reiterated the statement from the platform. It is just as true as many of the statements which have been made by the New Mexican and by many other papers that are supporting the constitution and there is not the semblance of truth in it.

"What the constitution does provide is the following which is Section 11, of Article VIII of the constitution: 'The legislature may exempt from taxation the property of each head of family to the amount of two hundred dollars.

"It will be observed that the constitution does not say that the legislature shall exempt, nor does the constitution itself exempt, two hundred dollars worth of property from taxation. The constitution does not exempt a penny and any voter who is interested enough in the matter may turn to Article VIII, Section 11 of his copy of the constitution and read the provision for himself. Compare the statements in the New Mexican article and the section of the constitution. The New Mexican says: 'It exempts from taxation $200 worth of property and protects the poor man against being compelled from his small means to contribute toward defraying of government expenses.' The fact is that the the constitution does not exempt a penny.

"The New Mexican says: 'No legislature can change the clause, but if New Mexico remains a territory, any legislature can repeal that protection of the poor man.'

"The fact is that the constitution leaves the entire matter of the exemption to the legislature. There is a $200 exemption law now in effect in the territory and there is no reason changing it as long as New Mexico remains a territory because there is revenue enough raised without it, but when New Mexico becomes a state the expenses will be largely increased and it will not be possible to exempt anybody. It was for that reason that the matter was left open in the constitution. The constitution makers knew that sufficient revenue could not be raised without taxing all property and the 'poor man' the New Mexican speaks so tenderly of will have to pay taxes in uttermost penny of his property.

Do not take the say-so of anybody for these things; read them in the constitution for yourself and then vote for it if you want to pay taxes on an additional $200 every year as long as you live."

COUCH OF LUXURY.

The most perfect resting place ever devised for a human being is just beneath the roof, and then you must be able to see the shingle nails sticking through. If a gentle rain be falling, so much the better. Five minutes spent in that sweet retreat are enough to banish the memory of every trouble. Debt and death lose their terrors, and the peace that passes understanding comes upon you, says the Washington Post. You become a boy again and enter once more into the world that used to be. Soon the dark corners of the room are peopled with the images of childhood. Over where the old clothes are hanging you can see the outlines of a dismantled ship, while down the sandy shore come Robinson Crusoe and Man Friday. A swarthy face peeps from behind the big trunk. It is Faringhea, the strangler, creeping stealthily upon his victim. Faster and faster they come, some pleasing, some ferocious. You welcome them all and are not a bit afraid, and the rain drips, drips, with a steady, monotonous sound. Then comes a blank. Next morning the spell is broken, but the memory remains. You see the old clothes and the trunk, and find that the only gobelin tapestry in the room is a cluster of cobwebs over the little dormer window. But you had slept the sleep of the just, and found it most refreshing.

The passenger traffic between the United States and Europe continues to offer most alluring inducements. Many of the big companies are adding the newest, largest and swiftest vessels to their fleets. One of the latest launchings is that of a ship that is being built by a French line, to run to New York. This is one of the greatest craft yet completed, and when put in commission will be able to carry 2,020 passengers. The total cost will be about $5,000,000. That is what foreign concerns are doing to get American trade. And Americans permit them to monopolize a business that should be in American control and which should be a most important auxiliary in extending American commerce.

The usual fate of get-rich-quick schemes is collapse at the end. And the "lamb" are fleeced as a preliminary. A speculative scheme of this kind in Connecticut has brought up in the bankruptcy court, with unsecured claims of $500,000 to be settled. And the further sequel no doubt will be the charging of the sum to the profit and loss account of those foolish enough to "invest."

A German musician says that our craze for ragtime is the great obstacle to creative work in American music. Ragtime? Sounds like a faint echo from our past. Our friend must have got his idea from old newspaper files.

Among airmen excessive avordupoise is at a discount, most of the successful atmosphere navigators being physical lightweights. In this as in some other matters good goods often come in small packages.

There is a man in California who went to sleep on a railroad track, was struck by a fast train and escaped with a headache. To complete the simple beauty of this tale, we are pleased to add that the locomotive is also doing well.

NEW ERA IN FINANCE

ACCURACY AND PUBLICITY PROVES TO BE A POPULAR MOTTO.

Prompt Response to Bold Move of President Vail.—"Accuracy" Reduced Western Union's Surplus $13,000,000.—"Publicity" Restored Confidence and Its Stock Went Up.

Are the great financiers of the country beginning to see a new light? Time was, until recently in fact, when the men at the head of the big corporations "kept their business to themselves," as far as the law would allow. Capable men at the head of the big concerns, long realized the weakness of their position, but what was needed obviously, as in all great reforms, was an unmistakable occasion and a courageous man. The occasion arose in the purchase of the Western Union Telegraph company by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and the man appeared in Theodore N. Vail, President of the purchasing corporation.

It was last December when public announcement was made that the Gould holdings of Western Union had been taken over by the Telephone company.

On account of the high esteem in which the management of the telephone company is so generally held, great things were predicted as a result of the absorption of Western Union. By the press of the country the "deal" was most favorably commented on, it being widely pointed out that under the direction of such men as Theodore N. Vail and his associates, the telegraph company was bound soon to work itself into a position where it could offer the public far more efficient service than it had ever before been able to offer.

But a very few months had elapsed when it became apparent to the new management that a modern and up-to-date appraisal of the company's assets would make possible a far greater degree of efficiency of operation. "Here," they said to themselves, "we've bought control of this property and we know it's immensely valuable, but we don't know just how valuable. These appraisals of real estate and securities owned were made a long time ago. If we have a complete inventory made of every thing we've got we can announce the facts to the public, start a new set of books, and begin our responsibility to stockholders right there."

How Inventory Was Taken.

The most expert accountants and appraisers to be had were put at the task. Their labors lasted over eight months. Their report and its publication by the company marks an epoch in finance.

It began by recommending an adjustment of the difference between the appraised and book values by a charge of $5,595,089 against surplus. Book values of securities held were reduced to market values, bad and doubtful accounts were "charged off," an allowance of $2,000,000 was made for "depreciation," another of $500,000 for "reserve," and so on, until the old surplus of $18,867,000 came down to $5,136,000.

It required courage, the publication of this statement to stockholders, saying in effect: "The property of your company has been revalued: the surplus isn't nineteen millions, as you have been led to believe, but five millions," but it was the truth, and President Vail did not flinch. "Accuracy and publicity," he declared, was essential. "The stockholder has a right to know. The shares of this company are scattered from one end of the Union to the other. This is more than a private corporation. It is a great national enterprise. The public is entitled to the facts."

The report was ordered published forthwith. Financiers of the old school and speculators generally were aghast. What would happen? Would the bottom drop out of Western Union when the shareholders realized that their property was worth $13,000,000 less than they had supposed? But the amazing thing happened. The stock went up and stayed up. The public had responded to this remarkable display of frankness and confidence; to the new motto, "Accuracy and Publicity."

The full significance of the action of the new board is stated concisely by Harper's Weekly in these words:

"Is this policy of publicity and of open-handed dealing with shareholders and public the forerunner of a similar movement on the part of other big corporations? Certainly it is to be hoped that it is. In the case of these big companies, dependent upon public patronage and doing business under public franchise, can there be any question of the right of the people to know?"

"That right is being recognized. It is recognized now in this epochal act on the part of the telephone and telegraph interests. It is the dawn of a new era in corporation finance."

Manners of the Boy.

For some reason many mothers do not give the same attention to the manners of their sons as to those of their daughters. Yet the boy's training is even more important than those of the girl. The majority of young men leave their homes shortly after they come of age, and many leave before that period, and they come into contact, into intimate association frequently, with men who have had but little training in the niceties of life, and all too frequently these evil communications corrupt the good manners of the more fortunate class. But the boy who is trained to courtesy from his childhood can be trusted in any environment.

Timeliness.

All measures of reformation are effective in exact proportion to their timeliness; partial decay may be cut away and cleansed; incipient error corrected; but there is a point at which corruption can no more be stayed, nor wandering recalled. It has been the manner of modern philanthropy to remain passive until that precise period, and to leave the sick to perish, and the foolish to stray, while it spent itself in frantic exertions to raise the dead, and reform the dust.—Ruskin.

Getting Rid of One Nuisance.

The latest invention in telephones is called the "television," which enables one to see the person with whom he is talking. This is an improvement anyway in that it will rid the world of that nuisance who calls you up on the phone and then insists on you guessing who it is.

Rider and Ridden.

I never could believe that Providence had sent a few men into the world ready booted and spurred to ride, and millions ready saddled and bridled to be ridden.—Richard Rumbold.

Longevity in Birds.

Wild geese have been known to live to the age of 100, and the raven commonly lives 50 years. A record is said to be extant showing that a cockatoo once attained the ripe old age of 81 years.

Justice Has No Mercy.

An excess of one quality is always bought at the expense of other. If a man be absolutely just he will be absolutely merciless. I would not trust absolute justice to any but a God.—Arthur Sherburn Hardy.

A Sweet Revenge.

Now that a Los Angeles person has broken his collar bone fastening a collar button, it is plain that man will never be happy until it buttons in the back and he can let out the job to his wife.

TO KEEP SILVER BRIGHT

Polish Well Once a Week, Keep in Drawers Lined With Chamols or Flannel.

All household silver needs careful attention, and to keep it in good condition the housewife must sacrifice considerable of her time. When teaching an inexperienced maid her duties in the household the mistress should specially stipulate that the silver should be cleaned at least once in each week, and that a list of all the pieces should be kept on a hook in the pantry. After the thorough cleansing of all the pieces they should be counted and checked off with the list on the hook.

Under no conditions should any silver be allowed to remain out in the pantry at night, unless there is a special place for it. Each housewife usually has a method of her own for cleansing the silver. A good polish, free from all sorts of grit and dirt, is the best thing that can be used. This can be rubbed on with a soft cloth and the polishing done later with a chamols. Where engraved pieces are cleaned great care is necessary to get all the polish from the creases and crevices, where it is most likely to lodge.

One solution of the problem of taking care of silverware when it is not in use has been effective. A cupboard is built under the pantry shelves and fitted with a special lock and compartments made for the separate pieces. A shelf the length of the cupboard is placed a little higher than the center, thus leaving the lower portion for larger pieces. Both shelf and bottom are covered with thick red flannel, and, in order that dust may not gather, there is a separate flooring, as it were, under the flannel. This permits it being taken out and thoroughly brushed. The upper shelf is divided into boxlike sections, in which the small pieces fit easily. It requires less than five minutes to put away everything, and no longer to take them out in the morning. Chamols is a good lining for drawers where silver is kept.

OLD FLATIRONS MADE NEW

A shoe of thin nicked steel, which can be attached to any old flatiron is here illustrated. The old iron, it makes no difference how worn and rough, is first heated over the fire and then the shoe is slipped on, the spring attachment holding it solidly in position.—Popular Mechanics.

Potatoes and Cheese.

Boil eight or more potatoes, mix together with a cupful of hot milk. Beat until very light, seasoning to taste and shape into cone-shaped mound on a buttered baking dish. Make a large hollow in the center of the mound, pour in a filling made of a tablespoonful and a half of melted butter, half a cupful of grated cheese, the yolks of two eggs well beaten and salt and pepper. When the cheese has melted and is mixed with the butter and eggs pour the mixture into the hollow mound. Spread the sides of the mound with grated cheese and bake until brown in a hot oven.

Stewed Celery.

Wash and clean six or eight heads of celery; cut about an inch long; boil until tender; pour off the water; mix through a white sauce made as follows: Heat half-pint of milk; when hot add one tablespoonful of flour and the same of butter mixed to a smooth paste; stir this into the hot milk; season with pepper and salt and allow to stand in the back of the fire for five minutes, then stir into the celery.

NOT PAGE FROM A ROMANCE

Conversation, However, Reads a Whole Lot More Like a Scene in Real Life.

"And so your father refuses to consent to our union?"

"He does, Rodolphus."

The sad youth swallowed a sob.

"Is there nothing left for us, then, but an elopement?" said he.

"Nothing."

"Do you think, Clementine, that you could abandon this luxurious home, forget all the enjoyments of great wealth, banish yourself forever from your devoted parents' hearts, and go west with a poor young man to enter a home of lifelong poverty and self-denial?"

"I could, Rodolphus."

The sad youth rose wearily and reached for his hat.

"Then," said he, "you are far from being the practical girl I have all along taken you to be."

And with one last look around on the sumptuousness that some day he had hoped to share, he sobbed and said farewell.—Browning's Magazine.

THEIR FATE.

Mrs. Crow—William, have you ever stopped to think what will become of us when we are old?

Mr. Crow—Oh! I suppose we'll wind up as quail on toast at some table d'hôte restaurant.

YOUR STOMACH FEELS FINE.

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sourness, Gas and All Stomach Misery Ended in Five Minutes.

This harmless preparation will promptly digest anything you eat and overcome a sick, sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach within five minutes.

If your meals don't sit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from any drug store here in town a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain regulator for out-of-order stomachs, and besides it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

Remember, if your stomach feels out of order and uncomfortable now, you can get relief in five minutes by taking a little Diapepsin.

Justice of Peace Election.

FOR JUSTICE OF PEACE.

We are authorized to announce the candidacy of Ed. Masie for Justice of the Peace for Precinct 14, Carrizozo, Lincoln county, New Mexico, at the ensuing January election, subject to the wish of the people.

FOR CONSTABLE.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for Constable of Precinct 14, Carrizozo, Lincoln county, New Mexico, at the ensuing January election, subject to the wish of the people.

W. C. MILLER.

ARE YOU AN IRRESPONSIBLE DEMAGOGUE?

The republican central committee of the territory has issued a statement to the people of New Mexico, concluding as follows:

"If you want to secure for your descendants the priceless heritage of liberty and equal rights, vote for the constitution, etc;" and among others these statements occur:

"There are always public enemies. There are always people who are dissatisfied with everything that may be proposed. There are certain democrats who are opposed to the admission of New Mexico as a state under a republican administration; and there are always irresponsible demagogues trying to deceive the people."

"They are all public enemies of the people of New Mexico and they are the only ones opposing the ratification of this constitution."

"Many false statements have been made but no one has been able to point out a single section which is not for the best interests of the people and fair to all alike."

Every voter should try, at least, to learn who wrote that document, and to get the political history of the men who are responsible for its publication. Those who know them well cannot help but pause and wonder how good a thing it is that these men recommend, with abuse for all who oppose. Many "Fear the Greeks when bearing gifts," so called.

Passing over things on which men openly and frankly disagree, we call attention to those declarations of democratic principles adopted at Albuquerque July 12, 1910:

"For the establishment by law of an efficient and uniform system of elections, so framed as to secure to the people a free ballot and an honest count.

"For the enactment of a law compelling the publication by all candidates, committees, etc., of a sworn statement of all moneys expended, etc.

"For making the judiciary elective and creating the office of county judge, with limited and clearly defined civil, probate and criminal jurisdiction. No judge shall be nominated by a political party, and all judges shall be elected at separate elections.

"For a fair and just apportionment for the members of the legislature, based on the 1910 census."

What do you find in the constitution about these things vital to a free people? For instruction, read carefully the article on taxation, especially section 8 of article 8, and, for amusement, if you think it funny, read section 1, article 7.

But, above all things, do not say one word criticising that perfect document, or suggest opposing it. You will be a "public enemy" and an "irresponsible demagogue." Bursum, George Armijo, Fall, Spiess, and a few others of the peoples' friends have said it: so beware! Don't join the "irresponsible demagogues," even if you have formerly thought the constitution unsatisfactory. You are not only an "irresponsible demagogue" if you have criticised that profound document, but if you continue to oppose it, after having learned—from high authority—to what class you belong, you will immediately become eligible to membership in that more extensive, but less exclusive, club officially and Rooseveltianly named "Undesirable Citizens."

HOW TO BUY LINEN

BEST, LIKE MOST THINGS, IS NOT CHEAPEST.

Working Knowledge of Kinds and Prices Essential to Woman Who Would Make Best of Her Day.

There are few women, of whatever age or condition, who do not feel pleasure in the sight of a goodly store of lustrous damask, and to acquire such a store, to use herself and then to dower her daughters, is one of the dear objects of all mothers' hearts.

Ireland is the great home of linen manufacture. Indeed, it is said a certain firm in Belfast is the only one in the world still turning out genuine grass-bleached damasks. Irish linen is the most expensive at first cost, but probably the most inexpensive in the long run, as there is practically no wear out to the splendid Irish cloth. It comes back from the laundering (if properly done) more glossy and beautiful with each washing. The prices of tablecloths of Irish linen range from three dollars up, depending first upon the fineness and then upon the size of the cloth.

French, German and Scotch linens follow after the Irish in order. French linens are very fine and have an exquisite finish. German and Scotch linen is said to be bleached by chemicals, which probably affects its wearing qualities. On this account many housekeepers prefer to buy their cheaper linens unbleached and bleach them at home. These cloths wear well, and it is an indisputable economy to use cheaper linens every day, especially when there are children, so as to save the finer cloths and napkins.

Pattern cloths for round tables are made in beautiful designs, with a round border to suit the shape of the table. It should be remembered that the quality of damask does not depend upon the weight of the thread, but rather upon the fineness of the weaving. Accordingly, a loosely woven fabric is to be avoided. It will not only not wear so well, but will never look as well as those where the threads are smooth and connect.

Most of the economy of table linen depends upon the care that is given it. If stains are allowed to go untreated, and thin places undarned, spots and holes will put an end to its usefulness. Most stains in table linen are quite easily removed by pouring boiling water through them. Rust stains will yield to applications of salt and lemon juice, and most others to javelle water, while a few minutes' attention each week will serve to strengthen the worn parts of old clothes.

Cracks in Furniture.

Cracks in furniture can be filled in with beeswax so that the marks will scarcely show at all.

First of all, slightly soften the beeswax until it becomes like putty, then press it firmly and neatly into the cracks and smooth the surface over with a thin knife. Next sandpaper the wood surrounding the crack and work some of the dust into the beeswax.

This gives the work a finished look, and when it is varnished the cracks will have disappeared.

VERY CHIC WALKING COSTUME

Mulberry Colored Cloth After This Design Makes Very Attractive Dress.

In mulberry-colored cloth this would look exceedingly well. The smart skirt has a group of plaits at each side, which are well pressed and taped; the back and front are made in panels, which are connected at sides by narrow straps cut in with them, which are fastened by buckles.

The semi-fitting coat has the right side taken over to left in a point where it is fastened by a buckle. Black and white striped silk forms the long roll collar; Russian braid is arranged simply on the fronts; the cuffs are trimmed to match.

Hat of chip to match trimmed with masses of flowers.

Materials required: Seven yards cloth 48 inches wide, one-half yard silk, one-half dozen yards Russian braid, three buckles, four and one-half yards silk for lining coat.

Enter the Beauty Spot.

It is coming, they say. No longer will its fascinations be confined to fancy dress balls and the like.

It is not the artificial-looking bit of court plaster which is about to descend upon us.

It is the genuine beauty spot, the tiny brown mole, which is promised its innings for next winter.

If you haven't one, and few people have, in the right place, paint it there.

Several actresses have already done so, placing the tiny blemish where it will best enhance the charms of a pair of beautiful eyes, a faultless curve of the cheek or a lovely mouth.

It is surprising the effect which this innocent little bit of make-up, if artistically performed, has in bringing out good points of the face.

The Winning Candidate.

Two candidates for the same office came into a certain town one day. The one called at a house where a little girl came to the door. Said he: "Sissie, will you please bring me a glass of water?" Having brought the water, he gave her some candy and asked: "Did the man ahead of me give you candy?" "Yes, sir." Then he gave her a nickel and said: "Did he give you money?" "Yes, sir; he gave me ten cents." Then, picking her up, he kissed her and said: "Did he kiss you?" "Yes, sir, and he kissed mamma, too!"

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Sold by Druggists, etc. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Not a Solitary Exception.

Hostess—In what months are girls born who are not fond of dress?

Professor—In none, madam.

A bachelor girls' club is an association of women who think they are more likely to get husbands by pretending not to want them.

Drawing Distinctions.

"Who is your favorite author?" asked Maud.

"What do you mean," rejoined Maymie, "the one whose pieces I like to read or the one whose picture looks cutest in the advertisement?"—Washington Star.

"The Land of Irrigation" is the title of a unique booklet picturing some of the productive valleys of the Rockies. The leaflet, which is being distributed by the Passenger Department of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, is devoid of descriptive text, but depicts in a few terse axiomatic sentences the wonderful natural resources and possibilities of the Rocky Mountain region.

GIVE SWEETS TO PRISONERS

Delicacies Passed Through Bars to Unfortunates Confined in Turkish Jails.

A Turkish prison is an experience, a writer in the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune says. You enter through the cellroom. As a matter of fact, there is just one huge cell into which you are crowded with the dozen odd others. Some have been arrested for back taxes, some for murder, all form one cheerful company. The chamber is ill lit and full of the fumes of cigarettes which the men smoke the livelong day. Then by way of another door with heavy leather portieres swung in, one comes to the uniformed subchief of police at his desk.

To one side is a divan, where there are trays of Turkish coffee for his guests. Here, every one being guilty until proven innocent, prisoners of native birth are remanded to the cells. With foreigners, however, care must be taken and if one speaks not the Turkish they set you in durance till they find some one speaking French. But meanwhile you get your peep in to Turkish jails and their squalor.

Up in the interior at Plevlje, there is another interesting Turkish prison which is unique. It forms the fourth side of an open court, of which the pasha's palace is the opposite side, and so when the military band plays in the courtyard for his highness the prisoners get the benefit.

The prison is a ramshackle frame, the lower story comprising the one cellroom. In this, again, all prisoners are thrust together, and the windows are likewise the cell casements. Folk of the town take it as an act of religious devotion, frequently, to feed the prisoners dainties, and so one sees these lined up before the bars reaching the cakes through the grating as you might reach things to the apes at the zoo.

How to Sleep Well.

Do not go to bed tired and cramped and brain weary in a close room and lie in a huddled, tense heap, thinking for hours and tossing about.

If you can't get relief to your lungs by fresh air before retiring, insist upon plenty in the sleeping chamber. Undress and think and busy yourself in some trivial manner in a comfortable lounging robe. Do all your thinking before the light goes out, then go to sleep.

Try to get the blood away from the head, not into it. To eat something light has this effect, and induces sleep when reading would have the opposite effect.

When you finally get ready for bed, draw some deep breaths of fresh air and lie down, not in a heap, but comfortably relaxed, a little on one side preferably the right, so as to allow the heart free play.

Said to Be a Joke.

"I understand that C. F. Degren of Los Angeles is to put a suspender factory in Denver. I wonder if the police have been notified?"

"Why the police?"

"Well, he's a holdup man, isn't he?"—Denver Times.

Equal Rights.

"What's parlor socialism?" asked Grayce.

"Having two callers at the same time and letting each hold a hand," explained Maybelle.

Behind the Times.

Manhattan—The authorities of my city are talking of having a detail of airship police.

Lasalle—My! They certainly are behind the times. My city has had fly cops for the last decade.

His Lace Paper Lady

By JEANNE O. LOIZEAUX

(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)

It happened when they first met—the instant interest, eye flashing to eye, the feeling of having always known each other. The man's head went round a little and his heart beat very fast as he asked her for the dance he wanted.

She did not have it to give, so he made the best of sitting against the wall and watching her glide over the floor with Lawton. Meantime he mentally thumped himself into sense. He knew on the spot that she was not the wife for him. Sam Morton, sensible young business man, wanted a helpmate.

He had come up in a big family with a whining, weak mother and an overworked, harried father. He had even in boyhood determined on health and strength as the only working basis to begin married life upon. Then he called himself a fool for letting all this come to his mind at mere sight of a young girl.

For Lois was fragile and slender, a sort of lace-paper lady, he said to himself. That was just the word—she was appealing and delicate, and then, passing and catching his eye, she gave him a little smile that undid all his renunciatory work with himself in the past few moments.

He could dance with her, anyway. And, fool that he was, nobody but himself had suggested his marrying her! Perhaps even if she were asked she would not have him—he suddenly felt humble. Perhaps she was engaged—that was a startling thought; maybe she was engaged to Lawton—that was a jealous thought. He straightway despised his friend Lawton in his heart and accused him of inability to care for a frail child of a girl like Lois. Then he wondered how old she was—surely not twenty!

And then, the waltz ending, he hurried to her to see if by chance she had not made a mistake about having no dance for him. His insistence made her blush and waver. Finally she yielded him her program and he crossed out Lawton's initials and put his own where they had been. After this he danced with the stupid girl he had thought attractive an hour ago and waited until his turn came with her.

This was a beginning of bad times for the young man, who surely, in precarious financial times, needed all of his means in his very small but prospering business. He vowed during the sleepless fag-end of the night after the dance that he would cut out merry-making thence forward and forget the "girl business." He charged his whole disturbed condition to what he aptly enough called the "marriage microbe"—three of his friends had lately married. He had helped at the functions, at the subsequent home celebrations, and somehow the thing had got on his brain—he would shake off the idea. What did he want of marriage for a good five years, or three—or two, at least? He had a first-class boarding place, which was expense enough until he was better settled with the store. Not that he was not doing well, for he was.

And when he did marry—this was, after all, the principal thing to remember—it must be to no lace-paper lady. He had once heard a man he knew call a fragile girl that, and it struck his rather romantic fancy—a lace-paper lady—very, very pretty, to be looked at, but unfit for the stern wear and tear of everyday life.

When three months had passed and he had resolutely refused, and had in the end gone to, everything social where he knew or thought the girl might be, he was more than ever sure that he was right. But one thing a fine instinct had kept him from doing—he had never asked any one a single question about her, and he was so fearful of showing his interest that he went away if by chance she was mentioned by his friends. Thus all he knew of her he gathered from her own lips—and she was silent. It seemed to him that she was more silent with him than with others—Lawton, for instance.

At quite a large picnic, the last in the beautiful fall weather, it had seemed to him that she fairly chattered to Lawton, but when he after awhile found himself beside her, she was awkwardly shy.

They had sat a little apart from the rest while Pickle Jones discoursed some alleged music from a banjo and a loud but rather battered set of vocal cords. The wistful beauty of her face struck him as poignantly as pain; her girlish slenderness called to his strength as for protection. Turning, she answered the scrutiny she had been sensitive to by a fleeting little smile. His heart went fast and then something like a veil floated a moment before his eyes—he could not see.

When Pickle had finished his ragtime song, and the rest had applauded, he leaned closer to the girl and asked if she would not like to go home early, walking part of the way, and whether he might not go with her.

She hesitated. "I'm sorry—but I just promised Harry," she said, simply. But somehow, while his heart was hot that it should be Lawton—again, he had for the first time an idea that perhaps she really was sorry.

He went home that night miserable to the core of his being. Tired as he was, there was no sleep. And finally in the gray hours of the morning, peace came to him by a strange path; it was through the self-verdict that he was an unutterable, sneaking cad of a coward!

Now he knew that love is—love! It takes you up and you belong to it and cherish it your life long! You love—because you love, and if the lady of your heart be a tender plant, a fragile flower, you love her and guard her the more because she needs you and your strength! It was all very clear and made him ineffably happy for two days and a night. Then he awakened to new torture!

What use was anything if, while he had been hesitating, the other man had won her? This thought made him sore and sick, and he finished his day's work like an evil, feverish dream. He hastened home to his boarding house, swallowed his supper, and then with a lover's carefulness, made himself immaculate. He would go and see her.

But it was not until he was starting that he remembered he did not know exactly where she lived. He had been keeping away from her, avoiding mention of her, and here he was unable to find her! All he knew was what he knew from her—he asked her how she stood the heat downtown one September day of unseasonable heat and she had answered simply:

"I'm not downtown—I don't work—I stay at home."

Of course she was a pampered child; her appearance told him that. He had heard, he could not have said where, that she had no mother, and lived with her father and several sisters—he never saw the sisters—old maids who made a business of petting her, no doubt. He wondered if they would object to him, whether he could convince them he would be tender with her? And all this before he had once called upon the girl!

Finally he went to a drug store directory and found her street and number.

And in the dusk of a warm October evening he found the little street and the little cottage where she lived. He saw no light, but he went up the winding path through the deep, tree-guarded yard and to the small, simple dwelling.

Sitting alone on the small porch, he was aware of her, and that she arose and came toward him, timidly, until she saw who it was.

"You!" she breathed in a tone soft as a caress, while he took her hand, and stood holding it, though she would have withdrawn it.

"Yes, I!" he replied in a tense voice. "Lois, I can't wait to say it prettily and work up to it—but I've been in torment since the first minute I met you, because I—love you so, Lois! Can't you see that I've loved you so much that I could not trust myself to come near you for fear my heart would come out of me and drop to your hand! That first time I danced with you I came near telling you I'd give my soul just to kiss you once—I bit my tongue and managed to keep still! Now, girl, girl, could you marry me—could you trust me to take care of you? I won't let the wind blow on you even, if you will give me my chance!"

He paused, breathless, because, wonder of wonders, she was listening, and her gentle head was very near his shoulder—so near that he put his hand behind it and brought it close. And then he stopped and kissed her, and knew that her cheek was wet with tears.

"Dear," he said, "what is it? Why are you crying?" and then she laughed and wiped her eyes, but her hands clung to him.

"I'm laughing because you should think I need so much coddling—a girl who does all the work for a father and three little sisters! Father is going to marry again, and they're wild for a new mother—but I'm not!" "But why were you crying? Tell me. But she was shy about it.

"Well," she finally said, "since you must know it—I was glad. I had begun to think you—might—never—ask me!"

And then the happy lover laughed and held the girl very close.

The First Club Sandwich.

A New York lawyer claims to have discovered the first club sandwich, which is now the popular tasty of every tea room. He found it down in New Mexico ten years ago. He stopped at a small town and not being on the train with a dining car, went into the little eating place and ordered a dozen sandwiches, half of which were to be ham and half tongue. After he had boarded the train and opened the package, he found the order carried out to the letter. Every sandwich had a filling of one slice of ham and one slice of tongue. But the inventor of these sandwiches was not so far out of the way.

A Ready Example.

She picked upon Tommy as the most likely to do her credit. Tommy's freckled knees showed through his trousers, and, because the managers were present, Tommy sat with a hand on each knee.

"Tommy," said the teacher, "will you please give me"—the teacher was always polite when the managers were present—"will you please give me a sentence with the word 'toward' in it?"

Then Tommy rose, and, in a graceful attitude, with a thumb on each freckle, answered:

"Please, teacher, I toward my trowsis!"—Answers.

Beauty Needs No Praise.

Whatever is in any way beautiful hath its source of beauty in itself, and is complete in itself; praise forms no part of it. So it is none the worse nor the better for being praised.—Marcus Aurelius.

Everybody Shivered.

The first three days of the new year have been bitter cold, not only in New Mexico but throughout the west. Locally, it has been the coldest weather we have experienced in six years. The thermometer registered two degrees below zero in Carrizozo, while at Capitann and Fort Stanton it was reported ten below, with Nogal playing a close third. Corona reports six below, and at Lincoln the zero mark was sought by the mercury.

The following press dispatches show the intensity of the cold elsewhere:

At Roswell it was two below zero, and it was eight below at Santa Fe, the lowest recorded in a number of years.

Losses on the ranges are feared.

Mrs. C. A. Miller was frozen to death while on her way to her homestead, from Malpais, Union county, New Mexico.

The bitter cold weather, which has held the whole Rocky mountain region in its grip tighter than for several years, is disappearing.

From 13 below, recorded at Denver shortly after midnight, the temperature had risen to 18 above by 9:30, and other sections report similar conditions.

Temperatures in the west got down very low, registering 18 below at Lander, Wyoming, and 12 below at Sheridan, Wyoming.

Tucumcari, N. M., Jan. 3.—Following a light snow of the preceding evening, a blizzard struck this neighborhood last night, soon sending the thermometer down to zero, the lowest record in town giving it five below. Those living in frame houses felt the cold severely, and almost a water famine existed in some places.

The Golden State Limited and other passenger trains on the local line were delayed on account of snow up in the Rock Island territory.

For Constable.

Leo Oswald asks the News to announce to the voters of this precinct that he will be a candidate for constable at the election to be held next Monday, January 9th. Mr. Oswald requests a respectful consideration of his candidacy, and would be pleased to have the support of all who think he meets the requirements demanded. Mr. Oswald has served the past two years as deputy sheriff, and his actions in that capacity are well known to the people; and while all, naturally, do not approve, yet he has many warm friends who believe he has made a good officer, and think his official record entitles him to the office he seeks.

Old Citizen Passes Away.

At his home, seven miles east of Carrizozo, Tuesday, January 3rd, T. Lalone, an old and respected citizen of this county, passed from this life. The deceased, at his death was 73 years and 7 months old. The funeral took place from the Baptist church yesterday at two o'clock p. m., and the remains were interred in the local cemetery. Many friends accompanied the remains to their last resting place, and extended words of sympathy to the bereaved.

Tiofilo Lalone was born at Ogdensburg, New York, June 3, 1837, and after reaching maturity ran on the St. Laurence river, first as a pilot, then mate on a steamboat, and later as a captain of a sailing vessel. He left Kingston, Canada, in 1858; came west the year following, and has been in New Mexico since 1862, and settled in Lincoln county in 1866, where he has since continuously resided.

In 1868, at Roswell, New Mexico, he married Miss Estanisiado Padilla, who survives him. Six children of this union survive, all of whom reside in this county. There are four daughters and two sons, as follows:

Mrs. D. N. Tinnon, Mrs. P. E. Lacey, Mrs. Julian Lial and Mrs. Jose Sanchez, and Fred and Louis Lalone.

Having lived in New Mexico for 48 years, 42 of which were in Lincoln county, he was therefore one of the early pioneers of this section, and only about two are still living in this county when Mr. Lalone became a resident.

All these years, as a resident of this county, the deceased has been regarded as a good citizen; he had a host of friends, and left to his children the heritage of a good name. Peace to his ashes.

A FOREIGN VIEW.

The El Paso Times urges the people of both New Mexico and Arizona to reject the constitutions presented by the conventions of the two territories, and says:

The announcement comes from Washington that the constitutions of both New Mexico and Arizona are certain to be rejected, and that is exactly what the Times has been endeavoring to impress upon its friends in both territories since their constitutional conventions adjourned. The best thing the people can do now is to promptly vote down both constitutions, reconvene their conventions and adopt new constitutions with the objectionable features eliminated.

Supreme Court Opinions.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—The Carmack amendment to the Hepburn rate law, making the initial carrier liable for loss of interstate shipments during transportation not only on its own lines but also on connecting lines, was declared constitutional by the supreme court of the United States.

The fight against the policy of a state guaranteeing bank deposits met with reverses today when the supreme court of the United States held as constitutional the bank guaranty laws of Oklahoma, Nebraska and Kansas.

The fight of the federal government to have the "labor contract" law of Alabama declared unconstitutional was crowned with success today, when the supreme court of the United States held the law invalid. The government claimed that the law reduced hundreds of negroes to a state akin to peonage.

Outside Capital Furnished Revolutionists.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 4.—The Record Herald today prints the following:

Carefully laid plans of Chicago and New York capitalists, owners of silver and copper mines in northern Mexico and Honduras, to finance the revolutions now in progress in these countries, coupled with the attempted dispatching of two filibustering expeditions into the war zone, have been unearthed in Chicago by the department of justice.

More than 10 agents of the department are in the city secretly investigating the war plot and the arrest of several well known financiers may result, on a charge of violation of the neutrality laws.

The "Jackpot" fund for financing the revolutions is said to aggregate several million dollars. The appearance in Chicago of Gustave Madero, brother of Francisco L. Madero, leader of the Mexican revolutionists is said to have brought to ahead the government's efforts to nip the syndicate's war plans.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—Further than a guarded statement that agents of the department of justice were "watching for any violation of the neutrality laws in connection with the revolutions in Mexico and Honduras," no information regarding Chicago developments was available at the department of justice today.

If its Schlitz you are looking for, the Headlight has it.

Senator Elkins Dead.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—Stephen B. Elkins, United States senator from West Virginia, ex-secretary of war, former leading citizen of and delegate from New Mexico; millionaire thirty times over and one of the best known men in America, died in this city at midnight last night.

Lincoln Locals.

Mrs. Sylvester G. Anderson of Carrizozo is here visiting her many relatives and friends.

Probate Court opened Monday morning in regular session with Judge Doroteo Lucero presiding.

Messrs. Ed. Queen and D. L. Jackson, the White Oaks mining men, were here this week on business.

The stork has left a fine baby boy at the home of Scipio Salazar. both mother and baby are reported as doing well.

Dr. T. W. Watson and Wm. F. A. Gierke went to Carrizozo to attend the Masonic installation one day last week and returned the next.

School resumed last Monday morning. The school building underwent a thorough cleaning during the holidays. New seats have been installed and everything looks neat.

The prisoners at the Lincoln County jail were not forgotten during the holidays. Mrs. C. A. Stevens assisted by her sister Mrs. L. M. Mathews prepared a most elegant dinner Christmas and New Year day while Charley was passing the cigars around.

GREAT OCEAN BOAT

Olympic, Recently Launched, is Largest in the World.

Ship Is One-Sixth of a Mile Long, Ninety-Two and One-Half Feet Wide and Will Transport 2,500 Passengers.

Belfast, Ireland.—At the immense ship-building yards here recently was launched the world's largest steamship, the Olympic of the White Star line. The immense craft, to be used in carrying passengers across the Atlantic between New York city and Southampton, is 822 feet long, has a breadth of 92 feet and a height from the keel to the top of the captain's house of 105 feet. There are 11 steel decks and 15 water-tight bulkheads.

Exceeding one-sixth of a mile in length, the Olympic is nearly 100 feet longer than any ship now afloat and, compared with her, the Great Eastern, launched in 1853, would seem a dwarf. The Olympic will carry a crew of 860 and will have accommodations for 2,500 passengers, the passenger state-rooms and the various public apartments to be exceptionally spacious, while the beauty and luxury of the appointments will surpass anything ever attempted aboard a ship.

In addition to lounging rooms, restaurants, smoking apartments, saloons and the like, the Olympic will have in the line of special attractions, swimming pools, sun parlors, sport decks, tennis courts and palm gardens. The decks will be connected by passenger elevator, much the same as the various floors of a modern office building.

The gross tonnage of the Olympic will be 45,000, and the ocean monster will have a displacement of 60,000 tons. Every part of the leviathan has been constructed with a view to strength. There is a double bottom, extending the entire length, the depth being five feet, three inches for the whole distance except under the engine room, where it is increased to six feet, three inches. The double bottom alone contains more than a half million rivets, weighing about 270 tons, while in the complete ship, the shell plates and steel decks, there are more than 3,000,000 rivets, with a total weight of 1,200 tons.

Every part of the vessel and all its belongings are on the same massive scale as the gigantic shell itself. The anchors weigh more than 15 tons each, and each link of the cable is two feet in length and weighs over 130 pounds. The rudder, while weighing more than 100 tons, may be controlled as easily as though it were a feather, its movements being directed by electricity.

The Olympic will be fitted with triple screws, propelled by engines which combine the reciprocating principle with the low-pressure turbine, a system which practically eliminates vibration. The speed of the Olympic will be 22 knots an hour.

PRESIDENT OF NEW REPUBLIC

Senor Theophile Braga, Who Was Chosen to Hold the Reins of Portugal's Government.

Lisbon.—Chief among those who de-throned King Manuel of Portugal and sent him a fugitive to the friendly asylum of other shores is Senor Theophile Braga, first president of the Portuguese republic.

Senor Braga has been styled the Victor Hugo of Portugal. He is the son of a Lisbon doctor and was born in the Azores in 1843. His connection with republicanism began in 1870, but he did not become active in politics until quite recently. Early in the present year he was elected a deputy for Lisbon and at once, owing to his ability as a speaker, his great fund of information, his standing as an educator and his power of leadership, took a prominent part among the republicans, who were seeking the regeneration of their country. Senor Braga is a poet and a philosopher. For years he was professor of literature at the High Literary College in Lisbon and is an author of note. In all he has published 130 volumes and was the last man one would suspect of becoming involved in a revolution. It is too early yet to predicate as to his future, but one would expect the republic to be safe in his hands.

THE CONFEDERACY'S SECRET

Trusted to Negro by President Jefferson Davis and Will Never Be Known.

Richmond, Va.—During the closing days of the civil war, when the prospective collapse of the confederate government became a certainty, Jefferson Davis, president of the southern states, summoned his bodyguard and personal servitor, James H. Jones, a negro, at the southern capitol in Richmond, and said:

"James, I hereby hand you, solemnly and sacredly, the seal of the Confederate States of America. The southern government is about to fail. This seal, which we must and do hold sacred and undefiled, must be secreted where no man in future shall profane it by public gaze and examination. I entrust this mission to you. I hereby charge you with this seal's disappearance. Hide it, and let no man know where it is. Tell not even me. And let the secret die with you."

Jones, an intelligent and faithful negro, accepted the task. And to this day he has fulfilled it with sacred fidelity. The seal, an enormous silver affair, which had been made in England and imported through the federal blockade of the south, he secreted. Today, as an employee of the stationery room of the United States senate, and seventy-five years old, he tells the story, with this detail. But to no farther point of narrative can he be induced to go. The secret will die with him.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

American Gibraltar in Manila Bay

WASHINGTON.—About two years hence if passengers on steamers entering Manila harbor and passing between the several small islands that guard the principal port of the Philippines should inquire with indifferent interest as to the name and use of a small dun-colored rock, hardly discernible any distance away and looking much like an irregular shaped house-boat floating on the ocean, they will be told that they are looking at El Fralle Island. Perhaps, also, they will be told that the little island, scarce two hundred feet square, is the most diabolically effective fortification of its size in the world.

For eighteen months army engineers have been directing the work of fortifying what is intended as the backbone or keystone of the strong defenses in Manila harbor. They have resorted to a plan suggested by a young engineer officer after their superiors had thrown up their hands in despair at the prospects of attempting to fortify the rock which showed its head above the water for so small an area. It involves the leveling of the island almost to the surface of the sea and erecting a structure in the form of a battleship deck stripped for action. The artificial fortifying will be of steel and cement.

The defenses of Manila bay entrance present the most picturesque as well as the most complete set of fortifications Uncle Sam possesses. Stretching across the mouth of the harbor are a series of islands. The largest of these islands and the one which will be used as a base of supplies for the others is Corregidor, from which the first hostile gun was directed against Admiral Dewey's fleet in 1898. On Corregidor the army is installing a 24 company post.

But the most interesting of all the islands is the El Fralle, at present a tiny rock rising in a pinnacle 180 feet above the bay. The shape of the island will, as stated, be changed by means of steel and concrete walls which will extend below the water line, to resemble the hull of a battleship. No section of the island ground will be exposed to fire. It will be surrounded and covered over by steel and concrete walls, about fifty feet thick on the sides and almost solid steel on the top. On the surface of this "deck" two turrets will be placed, each turret containing two 14-inch guns. Besides the four large guns, four six-inch rapid-fire rifles will be placed in embrasures at the seaward end, and like batteries of small guns will be placed at other points of advantage. Quarters will be provided for only a sufficient number of men to work the guns and machinery.

Treasury Building Is Overcrowded

WHEN the small army of architects and artisans has finished the work now in progress on the United States treasury building, the beautiful old structure will show the first material change since 1869. Architecturally it still will represent a pagan temple, indicating, many folk say, the American people's worship of money. But visitors to the nation's capital who have not seen the treasury in 40 years will find some changes for efficiency and economy.

The nucleus of the present building, located where President Jackson, irritated by the procrastination of congress in choosing a site, put his hickory stick down with a thump and exclaimed, "Put 'er there, on that spot," will remain unchanged, but the double-stone staircase leading up to the colonnade on the Fifteenth street side has been torn away. Architects said it spoiled the beauty of that side of the building, plans for which were drawn by William T. Elliott, a surveyor, who came to Washington in 1813.

The 30 granite monoliths, each of which cost $5,500 and weighs 30 tons, now stand in an unbroken row. They are said to be the finest example of their kind of the stonemason's art. It required ten men, working 60 days, to produce each of them, and a sulk train of 30 flat cars brought them to Washington from the quarries in Massachusetts.

To make more space inside the building all the files of letters and documents will be stored in the old coal vaults under the lawn on the Pennsylvania avenue side, and new coal vaults are being built on the side opposite the White House.

Big Job to Fill the Supreme Bench

THE seven justices of the Supreme court of the United States, led by the venerable Justice Harlan, called on President Taft the other day to pay their respects. This annual call of courtesy reminded the president of a duty which is uppermost in his mind and occupying it almost to the exclusion of any other consideration, for the president is called upon to remodel the highest tribunal in the land.

The president has appointed two justices already—Hughes in place of Brewer, who died, and Lurton in place of Peckham of New York, also dead.

These deaths removed a Republican and a Democrat, and their successors were of the same political faith. Since then Chief Justice Fuller, a Democrat, appointed from Illinois, has died, and Justice Moody, a Republican, of Massachusetts, has resigned because of ill-health, and President Taft will have to fill these two vacancies.

In addition to judicial fitness, politics and geographical qualifications must be considered. Moreover, the president is brought face to face with a task which will be of tremendous importance to the United States for the next generation. With political beliefs changing over night and greater zeal in governmental supervision being urged by the dominant party, the court which President Taft must reconstruct will pass on all the changes in the organic laws of the United States which may be made by congress.

A NATIONAL PARK OF MAMMOTH CAVE

IN MAMMOTH CAVE

MAMMOTH CAVE! Ten to one you have not heard the name mentioned, let alone thought of it, since you put aside your school geography. Yet it is one of the greatest natural wonders of America and at one time rivaled Niagara falls in popularity. There was a time when it was the Mecca of all newly-married couples who could afford the trip. Travelers came from all over the world to see it. Today, however, it is practically forgotten. Visitors even from nearby cities are few and far between. In fact, Mammoth cave is the forgotten natural wonder of the world.

Representative Thomas of Kentucky expects to introduce a bill in congress providing for the purchase of Mammoth cave by the government and making it a national park like Yellowstone and Yosemite. His argument will be that the United States government should take steps to preserve a great natural wonder that is likely some day to be destroyed unless some strong hand intervenes to protect it.

There is as yet no indication that Mammoth cave will be destroyed; but no one can guarantee that science, in its constant search for new material to convert to man's use, may not discover some profitable use for the curious geological formations that go to make up the glory of this great hole in the ground.

At any rate, this project for its purchase by the government brings it once more to the attention of the public. Its present owners, the heirs of the late Dr. John Croghan, under the trusteeship of Judge Albert Covington Janin, have allowed the great cave to become neglected and forgotten. Back in 1844 more than 100 persons visited the cave every day. Today the number does not average five. Yet the population of the country has increased from 20,000,000 to almost 90,000,000 since that time.

To discover what had brought about this condition a newspaper representative recently journeyed to Mammoth cave. It required nearly an hour to buy a ticket to the nearest point on the railroad. Only after a long, careful study of railroad maps was it possible to get a ticket, and this was to Glasgow Junction, Ky. This station was reached after a 24-hour ride, and there, on a siding, was the train for Mammoth Cave, nine miles away. This train consisted of a little engine with the name "Hercules" painted on its sides, and one old-fashioned day coach lighted by smoky oil lamps. The writer and an old man with a dog were the only passengers. There were two conductors to collect the fare of two dollars which is demanded for the short ride to the cave. The nine miles of grass-covered tracks were covered in about an hour and at last the lights of the Mammoth Cave hotel came into view.

The hotel is a rambling old structure built nearly seventy-five years ago—part of it, in fact, almost 100 years ago. There were only three persons at the hotel during the writer's two day stay. The big dining-room, with its long rows of tables, capable of seating 250 or 300 persons at one time, was deserted. The greater part of the structure was boarded up, deserted and fast falling into ruin.

The cave itself, of course, is just as wonderful as ever. It is the largest cave that has ever been discovered and its natural beauties excel those of every other. There are more than 157 miles of walks in the cave, and some idea of its size may be gained from knowing that its main avenue is four and one-half miles long, 129 feet high and 60 feet wide. There are 49 other avenues, large and small, and at least 100 chambers. The present owners charge two dollars for the first admission to the cave and one dollar for each succeeding visit. Four trips are necessary to see all the wonders. Each one takes from four to six hours to make, and the four enable one to see practically all the sights, if one is willing to walk some twenty-five or thirty miles. On one long trip practically every important sight could be seen if the guides were disposed to show the cave that way. If the cave shall ever become the property of the government, is lighted by electricity and shown in a way that will not take three or four days, and a modern hotel be built to replace the present barnlike quarters, Mammoth cave will come into its own again.

However, there are many obstacles that will have to be overcome before this can be brought about. When Doctor Croghan, the owner, died in 1849, he left the entire Mammoth cave estate, consisting of nearly 3,000 acres, in the hands of trustees for the benefit of his nine nephews and nieces, with the proviso that when they should all be dead the trustees should sell the estate at public auction. Five of the heirs are still alive, and although the youngest is seventy-two, it may be many years before the provisions of the will can be carried out. At public auction the Louisville & Nashville railroad probably would be the purchaser, for already it owns practically all the land around the cave, and for a long time it has been known that the railroad would like to get it to boom its traffic. The railroad and the trustees have been at loggerheads for years, with the result that the road makes no effort to stimulate traffic. The trustees of the estate do not spend any money in advertising the cave or for improvements. They are content to get what revenue they can from admissions to the cavern and from the hotel.

Representative Thomas declares the government could step in and buy the cave despite the Croghan will, which provides for its sale only at public auction, and then only when the last heir shall have passed away. If he can get a sufficiently large appropriation—probably $1,000,000, for the timber on the land is worth $250,000—the government can have the estate appraised and pay the appraisal price to the trustees. His idea is to have the federal authorities improve the estate and make the cave once more a famous show place. The thousands of persons who have visited the cave in earlier days, who have seen its wonderful stalagmites, who have sailed on its Echo river and who have sat in the star chamber, will sympathize with him and his plan.

And unless his plan be carried out in the near future the cave will be absolutely forgotten except in its immediate vicinity. The guides and the people who live near the cave love it, and they are looking forward to the time when under government control hundreds of visitors will arrive daily to see its wonders as they did in the good old days "befo' de wah."

Recreation.

They say that the best crew is the one which gets its rest between every two strokes. We need the games and the arts that recreate us from moment to moment so that our souls shall never get dry, prosaic, or discouraged. Play and beauty running like a gold thread through the warp and wool of our life-fabric are surely as needful as the more concentrated and exclusive recreations. To sing (or whistle) at one's work, to carry melodies and verses in our heads, to do things with a swing and a rhythm as some Japanese and all sailors do, is to preserve our souls from drought. The games that we play with vocal intonations, the dramas we carry on with a lie and glance and grimace, need not interrupt work. They call for no apparatus and no stage. Best of all, each of us 'maker the team' in these games; in these dramas each of us has "a speaking part."—Richard Cabot, in Atlantic.

Somebody took the rope off the bell in the fire engine house to use for a clothesline, and now, when there is a fire, the constable has to climb up into the tower and ring the bell with a hammer. Somebody took the hammer the other day, and, when Hank Purdy's cornercrib ketched fire, the constable had to hurry down to Hilliker's store for to borrow a hammer. Hilliker had lent his hammer to Deacon Renfrew, who lives four miles out in the country, and by the time the constable had got there and hunted around in the barn for the hammer and got back to the engine house, the angry elements had done their worst and Hank's cornercrib was a mass of smoldering ruins.—Judge's Library.

The Whist Club.

Mrs. Frank J. There were no absentees.

Misses Virginia Fenton and Frances McDonald were the invited guests present.

The highest score was made by Mrs. W. C. McDonald, who carried home the handsome lunch cloth; the booby prize was won by Mrs. A. J. Rolland, a jar of toilet powder.

Francis Canning left today for Notre Dame, Indiana, to reenter the university, after a holiday visit with home folk.

O. W. Bamberger, the popular salesman at Ziegler Bros., returned Wednesday from a four days' visit to El Paso.

Miss Bertha and Paul Mayer, of White Oaks, passed through yesterday enroute to Las Cruces, to reenter the Agricultural College. They will both graduate from that institution at the 1911 commencement.

Dr. M. G. Paden went to Lincoln Sunday, returning the following day. While in Lincoln, in his capacity as health officer, accompanied by Dr. Laws, who has been looking after the cases, investigated the scarlet fever situation. All the old cases had been and still are under a rigid quarantine. A new case was reported, and it was promptly quarantined. None of the cases are of the malignant type, but every precaution is being taken to obliterate the disease. The schools have been closed, awaiting further developments.

THEY GROW

Good Humor and Cheerfulness From Right Food and Drink.

Anything that interferes with good health is apt to keep cheerfulness and good humor in the background. A Washington lady found that letting coffee alone made things bright for her. She writes:

"Four years ago I was practically given up by my doctor and was not expected to live long. My nervous system was in a bad condition.

"But I was young and did not want to die so I began to look about for the cause of my chronic trouble. I used to have nervous spells which would exhaust me and after each spell it would take me days before I could sit up in a chair.

"I became convinced my trouble was caused by coffee. I decided to stop it and bought some Postum.

"The first cup, which I made according to directions, had a soothing effect on my nerves and I liked the taste. For a time I nearly lived on Postum and ate little food besides. I am today a healthy woman.

"My family and relatives wonder if I am the same person I was four years ago, when I could do no work on account of nervousness. Now I am doing my own housework, take care of two babies—one twenty the other two months old. I am so busy that I hardly get time to write a letter, yet I do it all with the cheerfulness and good humor that comes from enjoying good health.

"I tell my friends it is to Postum I owe my life today."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

CARE OF THE FLOORS

VARIOUS SUBSTANCES MAY BE USED FOR POLISHING THEM.

Water Should Be Employed Sparingly, As it Will Cause the Wood to Expand—Oil and Wax Considered the Best.

If one has been so fortunate as to secure a hardwood floor, the intelligent care of it becomes a very important matter and one which is not particularly difficult if a little thought and attention are given to the subject. Various materials are employed for this purpose, but the processes are all similar, namely, that of rubbing the surface with some sort of an oil or wax. In general, it is a safe rule never to apply water to the surface of a nice floor, at least not in sufficient quantities to wet the fiber of the wood to any extent, because all wood, even oak, is susceptible to moisture and to the extent to which the fibers expand they will dry afterwards and gradually cracks will appear in the boards. If something has been spilled on the floor so that it is absolutely necessary to wash it, this should be done with a cloth wrung out of water. For the most part, however, oil and wax in some form are the proper cleaning and polishing mediums. It is said that equal parts of sweet oil, turpentine and vinegar, well mixed and well rubbed into the floor with cotton or woolen rags, is a highly successful method of treating a polished oak floor. The acid in the vinegar cuts the dirt and grime that works into it from shoes, the sweet oil gives a luster and the turpentine dries it. There are any number of articles on the market that are advertised for this purpose, and some of them are very effective. In testing any new brand of wax or other application, it is well to try it first of all on a small portion of the floor in some inconspicuous part of the room. A weighted brush is a great advantage, though more or less expensive. A piece of plank covered with Brussels carpet is not a bad substitute.

The above-named mixture does not need to be applied to the floor oftener than once a month, and about once a year a coat of good floor wax should be well rubbed into the floor.

The application of varnish to a hard wood floor is a modern method of finishing. The old-time method being that of rubbing them with wax, and a very beautiful surface may be thus produced, provided the floor has first had a thorough coating with a paste filler which fills up every pore and crack and makes a perfectly smooth surface.

Metallic Trimmings.

Gold and silver are used lavishly in all forms of trimming—buttons, passementeries, applique embroideries, laces, etc., but, as a rule, these metallic trimmings are in the soft, dull tones and achieve richness and beauty without being garish or barbaric. There are beautiful heavy silver and gold laces, crocheted by hand after the fashion of the Irish lace, and others fine and thin as spider web. Deep lace flouncing, with gold or silver net top is made with enough to form an entire skirt, and the chintilly and alencon meshes and designs are cleverly reproduced.

Bananas on Half Shell.

Trim ends of bananas, split lengthwise without removing skins; mark sections crosswise with a knife, and squeeze a little lemon juice over them, and sprinkle with sugar. Serve on a lettuce leaf and garnish with slices of lemon. Nice for breakfast.

Scented Water.

16 YEARS OF SKIN DISEASE

"For sixteen long years I have been suffering with a bad case of skin disease. While a child there broke out a red sore on the legs just in back of my knees. It waxed from bad to worse, and at last I saw I had a bad skin disease. I tried many widely known doctors in different cities but to no satisfactory result. The plague bothered me more in warm weather than in winter and being on my leg joints it made it impossible for me to walk, and I was forced to stay indoors in the warmest weather. My hopes of recovery were by this time spent. Sleepless nights and restless days made life an unbearable burden. At last I was advised to try the Cuticura remedies [Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills] and I did not need more than a trial to convince me that I was on the road of success this time. I bought two sets of the Cuticura Remedies and after these were gone I was a different man entirely. I am now the happiest man that there is at least one true cure for skin diseases. Leonard A. Hawtof, 11 Nostrand Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., July 30 and Aug. 8, '09."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. ## SYSTEM FULL OF URIC ACID—THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY CURED

Two years ago I was very sick and after being treated by several of the best physicians in Clinton, I did not seem to get any better. I was confined to my bed. Seeing your Swamp-Root advertised, I resolved to give it a trial. After using it for three weeks, I found I was gaining nicely, so I continued until I have taken a number of bottles. I am now restored to health and have continued my labors. My system was full of uric acid, but Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root cured me entirely. I am sixty years old.

Significance in Names.

In an Illinois town a workingman having been informed that a sixth baby had arrived at his home, exclaimed: "Sufficient," and his neighbors, referring to his having given that name—Sufficient—to the new arrival, credited him with originality. The incident resembles a case nearer home, adds the New York Tribune. A New York family was blessed with nine daughters, when the stork brought a tenth one. It was in the days when the slang term for an oft-told story was a "chestnut," and as the baby certainly came under that head, she received the name, but for euphony's sake the French for the word was employed, and she was called Marron.

MIX THIS FOR RHEUMATISM

Easily Prepared and Inexpensive and Really Does the Work, Says Noted Authority.

Thousands of men and women who have felt the sting and torture of that dread disease, Rheumatism, which is no respecter of age, persons, sex, color or rank, will be interested to know that it is one of the easiest afflictions of the human body to conquer. Medical science has proven it not a distinct disease in itself, but a symptom caused by inactive kidneys. Rheumatism is uric acid in the blood and other waste products of the system which should be filtered and strained out in the form of urine. The function of the kidneys is to sift these poisons and acids out and keep the blood clean and pure. The kidneys however, are of sponge-like substance, the holes or pores of which will sometimes, either from overwork, cold or exposure become clogged, and failing in their function of eliminating these poisons from the blood, they remain in the veins, decompose and settling about the joints and muscles, cause the untold suffering and pain of rheumatism and backache, often producing complications of bladder and urinary disease, and general weakness.

The following simple prescription is said to relieve the worst cases of rheumatism because of its direct action upon the blood and kidneys, relieving, too, the most severe forms of bladder and urinary troubles: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. The ingredients can be had from any prescription pharmacy, and are absolutely harmless and safe to use at any time.

TO MAKE RICH BISCUIT

VARIOUS RECIPES FOR MIXING THE DOUGH.

A Measure of Flour, Add Salt, Baking Powder, Milk and Lard—Handle Mixture as Little as Possible—Mix With Knife.

"America seems to be peculiar in its impromptu bakings of Parker house rolls, biscuits, and 'Johnny cake,'" says a recent writer, summarizing the experience of a round-the-world traveler with breads, brod, etc. Just why the biscuit, and particularly the baking powder biscuit, should be considered such a dainty I could never understand. Perhaps it is because it really does require considerable skill to make it. Cream biscuits were my own first proud accomplishment, but their making was forced upon me, albeit my efforts were rewarded with a bouquet which I did not deserve, because so much had been done for me that they could not be a failure. It is easy to understand why beaten biscuit should be considered something fine, but as for the other, it is easy to see why the unsophisticated Englishman, accustomed to calling all forms of crackers biscuits, should not be altogether satisfied with some of the things he gets in America called biscuits.

Hot Biscuit I.—To one pint of sifted flour add a half teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of baking powder, and sift again. Work in very lightly with the fingers a tablespoon of lard. When thoroughly mixed cut into it with a knife about one cup of ice cold milk. Roll out on a well floured board about three-fourths of an inch thick and cut with biscuit cutter. Bake in hot oven. The secret of good biscuit is to have the dough very soft, to handle it as little as possible, and to bake in a very quick oven.

Hot Biscuits II.—One quart of flour a pinch of salt, two tablespoons of lard, two teaspoons of baking powder. Wet up with cold water, roll out softly an inch thick, and bake in quick oven. Biscuits made with lard and water are much lighter and better than when butter is used.

Quick Biscuit.—Two cups of flour, one-half teaspoon of salt, three tablespoons of lard, three teaspoons of baking powder, one cup of water. Sift all the dry ingredients into a bowl and rub the lard lightly through them. Stir in the water, drop the dough into greased gem pans, and bake in a quick oven.

Emergency Biscuit I.—Two cups of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt, two tablespoons of snowdrift, one cup of milk. Mix shortening with flour to which salt and baking powder have been added. Add milk. Drop mixture from spoon, allowing about one tablespoon to each biscuit. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. This makes from 12 to 14 biscuits.

Emergency Biscuit II.—Two cups of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt, two tablespoons of butter, one-half cup of milk, one-half cup of water. Sift dry ingredients, cut in butter, add milk and water gradually. Drop mixture in greased muffin tins and bake in a hot oven 12 minutes.

Cornmeal and Meat Loaf.

Get two pounds of soup meat, with the soup bone, and after the soup has been made remove all the meat and chop it fine. Then take about a quart of the soup and reduce it slightly with hot water, then add sufficient cornmeal to make a rather thick mush. Cook the meal thoroughly, and when almost done, add the chopped meat, with a little salt, pepper and two teaspoonfuls of grated onion. Stir the mixture frequently to prevent catching or burning. When done, pour in a pat to harden. Cut in slices and serve like a beef loaf.

DO IT NOW.

If you have the slightest symptom of kidney trouble, begin using Doan's Kidney Pills at once. Delay may lead to dropsy, diabetes, or fatal Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills began curing sick kidneys 75 years ago. They have been curing kidney trouble ever since.

Mrs. William McGregor, 711 Lilletth St., Pendleton, Ore., says: "All my life my kidneys had troubled me. I bloated terribly, could not control the kidney secretions and suffered intense backache. Finally I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and was cured completely. I had previously doctored without relief."

Remember the name—Doan's.

INNOCENT ON ONE COUNT.

Mrs. Farmer—Say, did you say you wasn't goin' to do no work for dat dinner?

Boston Billings—Ah! ma'am, I assure you the double negative is a solecism I've never been guilty of.

Putting in the Time.

A gentleman was engaging a general man and telling him what he wanted him to do. "You will have to clean the windows and the boots and the knives, and go messages, chop wood, cut short grass, mind the horse and pony, look after the garden and keep the house supplied with vegetables and do any odd job that is required and if suitable you will get ten shillings a week."

"Is there any clay in the garden?" asked the man.

"What makes you ask that?" asked the gentleman.

"I was thinking I could make bricks in my spare time," said the man.

Jicarilla Happenings.

Here's hoping; the new year for peace and prosperity.

The worst spell of the season is upon us now. Below zero weather.

Sheriff Stevens came into camp Thursday on business, and continued the journey to Ancho.

A. H. Hudspeth alighted here Friday on a mission of business, returning to White Oaks the same afternoon.

Mr. Richardson of Colorado, died at Colorado Springs a few days ago. He owned valuable mining property here.

W. A. Franklin of Chicago, the manager of the Wisconsin mining company, arrived Friday, to attend to matters before probate court.

Ed Wilson came in Saturday to visit his family, and reports, after testing his new well, that the flow is twenty five to thirty gallons per minute.

A. H. Norton has begun work on the "Hawk-eye" for the owners, Messrs Thornton and Chancellor of Chicago. It is the richest in gold of all the Jicarilla mines.

We learn that the Reasoners are working upon a lease on the old "Prospect" property, belongs to the firm of Brown, Manzaneros of Albuquerque. It is a fine old claim.

Nick Mace, with parties from Picacho, have set up their machinery to drill for water on the east side. Before another dry season, water will be plentiful in this county.

New years greeting! young and artless, with only a few hours of life, the new year is restive with the bitterness of the storm, which assuages its harshness not to atone, but to terrify with a soul withering-requiem. E're the sere and yellow leaf shall again fall, what mysteries shall have dissolved and barred their secrets to the world. As sequels to our half formed plans, the future unfolds the solutions, and, good or bad, the present must assume its burden of bitter-sweet. May we all be mercifully spared the worst. May all enjoy a goodly share of prosperity, their blessings of health, their surcease from sorrow! Typical of the whole year, the weather is varied, as will mark the nature of its coming events. It may be trials, grief, sorrow we view in those hurrying clouds, albeit there are gleams of sunshine in the rift of their chain! May there be peace and tranquility after the spirit forges through the storm. Blessed are those who live and breathe in the bright spots of life! Thrice blessed are those who see through the darkness to the light ahead.

Thus the year, though young and beautiful in its stainless purity, will be checkered soon enough with clouds across the sunshine, good and evil omens of our awaiting hearts, may we all be strong enough to penetrate all obscurity with our souls' resplendent light! May each and all conquer evil by our natural astuteness and the conciliating influence of right. And may we be given strength and Christ-like resignation to accept the good thankfully, and nobly surmount the bad.

If its Schlitz you are looking for, the Headlight has it.
