Carrizozo Boy On U.S.S. Fairfax Feels Fine

Ed. K. Jones in Interesting
Letter to Outlook Sends
Regards to Friends

San Francisco, Calif.
Feb. 12th, 1918.
Editor Carrizozo Outlook,
Carrizozo, N.M.

This is to let you know how I am getting along, in fact I never felt better. I hope you and all Carrizozo are the same.

This is also to say a "Big Hello!" to all my friends and others who read this.

I am proud to be in the Navy and doing my bit for my country, as many others have done. I have no complaint to make against the Navy, for the treatment is fine. Couldn't be better.

At present I am on the U. S. S. "Fairfax." This boat is one of Uncle Sam's "Fighting Ships." Our officers say that it is a man that is on one and lives through it will have something to be proud of after the war is over.

The ship is a "Torpedo Boat Destroyer," and if I don't get a chance to be with it when it goes after the "Kaiser's Pets," will be greatly disappointed. It is my greatest wish that I go with the ship when she goes "Over There"—and that is not far off.

My officers are a fine bunch of men, and I am proud to be under them. I've had the pleasure of meeting a few of the Carrizozo Boys at Goat and Mare Islands, Bert Holland, Mike Barnett and Jack Hardy. I feel better now since I have met some of the boys from home.

Here is hoping that I get a crack at the "Kaiser" before this war is over.

May I remain a friend to those I know and a "Son of Carrizozo."

Me for the Navy,
E. K. Jones, U. S. S. Fairfax,

White Oaks Will Entertain

The White Oaks Entertainers, announce a Masquerade Ball for Saturday March 2nd, and a good crowd will of course go from here. Those who go may be assured of a good time, for a guarantee, goes with every announcement the White Oaks people make.

Died in Infancy

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Farres, died here Sunday morning at 2 o'clock. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Lewelling, Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The body was taken to Pollard Alabama for interment.

RED CROSS BENEFIT NET BIG SUM FOR CAUSE

Four Hundred and Forty-Six Dollars and Forty-
One Cents the Financial Outcome of a Successful Affair

The good natured crowds that flocked to the benefit dance for the Red Cross Wednesday night, donated to the cause beyond the expectations of all concerned. Just think of it. $446.41 was netted as a result, and the people seemed determined not only to do their bit, but to do their best.

The committees in charge of the entertainment wish to thank the following business firms and individuals, for goods and services rendered to the cause.

Carrizozo Trading Company, for the use of their building. A. J. Rolland and Ziegler Bros for donating prizes for the waltz contest. W. H. Osborn, Dr. Woods, Live Stock Commission Co. and New Mexico-Electra Oil Co. for use of their office rooms. Frank Richard, and Barnett Bros for hauling. Foxworth-Galbraith Co. for use of lumber. Ernest Preme for painting signs. Mrs. Scott, for use of piano. Lewis Burke, for use of drums. Mesdames Shulda and Malarney, Miss Belle Lutz and Mr. R. C. Pitts, for donating their services as musicians. Mrs. Gurney, for donating drawn work table cloth. Mrs. McDonald, for donating chickens and eggs. Ladies of the Eastern Star, for finishing and displaying, the baby layette, that excited so much admirable comment. Teachers and Scholars who took part in the program. Carrizozo News, for tickets for the cloak room. Carrizozo Outlook for donating tickets for the ball.

To the visitors from our neighboring towns, the committee wishes to return thanks for their presence and assistance, for without this kindly support, the report would fall sadly short of the figures we so proudly put into print, and if space would permit, our friends would be individually mentioned.

In addition to the list of committees published last week, the Judges of the prize waltz, deserve special mention. Mrs. E. L. Moulton, of Corona. Mrs. C. H. Parks of Encinosa, Col. Pritchard, of Santa Fe. J. Benson Newell, of Las Cruces. E. Prehm, of Carrizozo, who rendered their decision in favor of Mr. Will, Gallacher, and Miss Kitty Tinnon, of Carrizozo.

Following is the program which was so successfully carried out.

Echoes from the Big Doings

The table cloth donated by Mrs. Gurney brought $106.39.

***
Miss Grace Kretzer sold the tickets that netted the above amount.

***
The "Chamber of Horrors" was liberally patronized—the poses of "La Belle De La Finley" was worth every cent contributed.

***
The swimming match between two young ladies was something grand.

***
Mr. O. W. Bamberger, gladly donated his best services, and displayed his usual good humor, in a dignified manner.

***
Some of our citizens are looking forward to the good things foretold by Mesdames Gurney and Kimbell.

***
Who made that good coffee? P. E. Lacey of course. And it was certainly fine.

***
Mrs. Ed. Harris knew, how to serve the grape juice, and Mrs. Scott knew how to take in the money. The lunch room made a good showing.

***
Mr. H. S. Campbell said: "It makes me feel old to see the wonderful improvement in Carrizozo. When I came here you could count but three houses."

***
Everybody danced but Chairman Haley.

***
The singing by Messers. Nye and Haley excited favorable comment.

***
Mrs. C. P. Squier's vicious "Ground Hog" was much feared, by the big crowds.

***
It's all over now and everybody had a good time. Everybody pulled together.

***
We don't know whether Judge Seth F. Crews visited the "Chamber of Horrors" or not. But we saw him casting sheep's eyes at La Belle.

Red Cross Consignment

Mrs. J. B. French, chairman of the supply committee, and Mesdames Harris and Gray who are in charge of the knitting, report the following list of articles sent to the division headquarters at Denver, Feb. 14th.

Fort Stanton, 3 Sweaters, 3 pairs of socks, 1 pair of wristlets. Oscura, 1 helmet, 1 sweater, Hospital garments 2 pajama coats, 1 pair of pants. Encinosa, 1 sweater, 1 pair of wristlets.

Capitan, 12 pairs of socks, 11 sweaters, 1 helmet, 4 mufflers. Hospital garments, 12 bath robes, 1 dozen handkerchiefs.

Corona, 4 sweaters, 1 muffler, 7 pairs of socks, 5 pair wristlets. Hospital garments, 14 suits of pajamas, making a total of 207 hospital garments, and 116 knitted garments, which were sent to division headquarters last week.

White Oaks, 12 sweaters, 11 pairs of socks, 1 pair wristlets, 1 muffler. Hospital garments, 12 suits of pajamas.

Carrizozo, 15 sweaters, 10 pairs of socks, 8 wristlets, 1 scarf, 22 wipes, 2 waichrags, 4 helmets. Hospital garments, 70 pajama coats, 83 pairs of pants.

This remarkable showing, is the outcome of tireless toil, and willing sacrifice.

Eighth Grade Promotion

Examination—Note Dates

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction has notified this office that the eighth grade promotion examinations will be held this year as follows: March 14th and 15th, April 11th and 12th, May 9th and 10th.

Schools having pupils who wish to take the examination at either of the above dates will please note the dates and let this office know the number wishing to write, that the needed preparation may be made.

Superintendent Wagner says: "The expenses of grading these manuscripts is such that our contingent fund is not sufficient to cover the cost. We therefore are asking that you collect this year fifty cents from each applicant as an examination fee."

Also we are able to announce, at this time, that the first examination of teachers for this year will be held May 31st and June 1st.

Every one interested in the above will please bear in mind the dates and act accordingly. For further information concerning these matters address,

J. E. Koonce
Co. Supt. of Schools.

Sheep Men Will Be Concerned In These Methods

More Scientific Lambing Methods Essential To Successful Sheep Raising.

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 12. — That more scientific lambing methods are essential to the greatest productivity in the sheep-raising industry is the gist of the conclusions arrived at after long study by a grazing specialist of the Forest Service. The manner in which this improvement can be brought about is described in the following article.

The time was when the sheep industry in Arizona and New Mexico, did not justify the extra expense necessary to properly care for ewes and their young during the lambing period; but suddenly conditions have changed. Prices are high for both mutton and wool. The open range is gone. Sheep men must make more money from smaller herds, and must run their sheep on more restricted range. This means that instead of lambing wherever feed and water happen to be good they must lamb on practically the same range each year, and they must provide feed and water not only for the favorable seasons, but for those dry and backward springs which come all too often in the Southwest. In addition, they must reckon with one or more severe storms each month during the spring until the last of May. The three important items in successful lambing are: plenty of feed and water, and protection against storms and predatory animals.

The Forest Service has been interested in working out in cooperation with stockmen a method of lambing which would most successfully meet the conditions that prevail on the open ranges of the higher mesas and mountains in the Southwest.

(To be Continued Next Week.)

Postponed

The Episcopal Church services have been postponed on account of Rev. Hoering being unavoidably detained at home. Announcement of future meetings will be made next week.

$50.00 More For Red Cross

The management of the Carrizozo Theatre donated the proceeds of the show Friday night to the Red Cross Society, showing the picture "A Man Without a Country" which when turned over to the cause, was found to amount to over $50.00.

On Monday, Feb. 25th with Nash's orchestra, considered the best in the southwest, the Carrizozo Trading Co. opens their new home.

Too Fast for the Dictionaries.

Judge Ruppenthal says the language continues to outrun the dictionaries. In the Judge's own Kansas dictionary, which he has compiled through many years in shortgrass courts, there are more than 1,000 western words and phrases which are not in any other dictionary. Judge Ruppenthal also reports that the latest Standard and Webster lexicons do not seem to have heard of Colonel Roosevelt's familiar "Jugo-Slav," or of the army "barrage."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

FEBRUARY.

"February," said Mother Rabbit, "is a month in which I have absolutely no worry and no care. It's the only month I can say that about, the only one."

"Whatever do you mean?" asked Mrs. Squirrel. "I would be glad to hear."

Mrs. Squirrel sat up in a tree and Mrs. Rabbit was down below. She had only her usual fur coat on and though it was a cold day she did not seem to feel very cold.

Mrs. Squirrel kept jumping from tree to tree to keep warm but she always came back to hear anything Mrs. Rabbit was saying. And when she heard Mrs. Rabbit make such an astonishing and amazing remark she decided that though it was a cold day she would be kept warm by hearing such interesting talk.

"I really don't understand you," said Mrs. Squirrel.

"Won't you please explain?" she continued after a pause, for Mrs. Rabbit had said nothing.

"I don't see what there is to explain," said Mrs. Rabbit. "I was just repeating a fact. February is the only month of the year which I can call a month free of worry. The other months I have worries and many of them, but in February—not a one!"

Mrs. Rabbit wiggled her nose, flapped her ears, and looked at Mrs. Squirrel. "Cold day, isn't it?" she said pleasantly.

"I don't care whether it is cold or not. I want to hear what you have to say," said Mrs. Squirrel.

"I have said all I had to say," answered Mrs. Rabbit. "I would like to hear you talk now. Tell me the gossip. I'm pining to hear some."

"I haven't a bit to tell you," said Mrs. Squirrel, who was much disappointed Mrs. Rabbit took so long in explaining herself. "I want to hear why February is the only month in which you have no worries."

"Now I really shouldn't have said that," Mr. Rabbit answered. "No, I really shouldn't have said that at all. Its not kind and motherly for me to call the darlings worries. No, its not nice of me to do that, and I don't mean it."

"You don't mean what?" asked Mrs. Squirrel, who was all mixed up.

"I don't mean that the darlings are worries," answered Mrs. Rabbit.

"What darlings?" asked Mrs. Squirrel. "Do you mean the little rabbits?"

"I do," said Mrs. Rabbit.

"Don't they worry you in February?" asked Mrs. Squirrel. "Or do the 'darlings' promise you one month in which they really will be darlings and not 'worries'?"

"You do them a great injustice," said Mrs. Rabbit. "They never mean to be worries, and they are always darlings."

"Aren't you getting a trifle confused?" asked Mrs. Squirrel, in rather a scolding voice. She was annoyed that still she didn't understand what Mrs. Rabbit had meant.

"Not confused in the least," said Mrs. Rabbit cheerfully. "You're confused in your mind—you can't understand me. I'm bright enough to see that."

"Well, won't you have the goodness to explain?" asked Mrs. Squirrel.

"Yes, I will," said Mrs. Rabbit. "I only wanted to make you good and curious and to prove that rabbits aren't the only creatures in existence hereabouts."

"I don't mind insults," said Mrs. Squirrel. "If you will only continue."

"In February," said Mrs. Rabbit, "no beautiful little rabbit children come to me. They come all the other months of the year. Yes, every month, dear little rabbit children come to me and they come in numbers from one to a dozen. How precious they are! But in February I never invite any for I think I need a month in which I need not worry. They are darlings but they do require so much attention and often worry me dreadfully."

Mrs. Squirrel gasped as she heard Mrs. Rabbit's story and as soon as Mrs. Rabbit was through she went off to tell all her squirrel friends how Mrs. Rabbit invited the rabbit babies to come every month except February!

Mrs. Squirrel gasped.

Mrs. Squirrel gasped.

STRAWBERRIES FROM SUMMER TO FROST

Planted in April This Field of an Everbearing Type Gave a Crop the Following Autumn.

DELICIOUS BERRY THROUGH SUMMER

Long-Season Strawberries Have Passed Trial Period.

OF REAL VALUE FOR MARKET

Heretofore "Everbearing" Varieties Have Been Grown Chiefly by Amateurs and Commercial Growers—Crop First Season.

Strawberries from your garden throughout summer and autumn are now a possibility as the result of the perfection of "everbearing" varieties of this delicate berry. Everbearing strawberries are not a brand new discovery, but heretofore they have been grown chiefly by amateurs and commercial growers who have tested them in comparison with ordinary sorts. In a recent publication of the United States department of agriculture announcement is made that a sufficient number of trials of these varieties now have been completed to indicate their real value for home use and for market in certain sections of the country.

Primarily a Northern Type.

The regions where it is known that everbearing varieties can be grown extend as far south as the northern parts of Virginia, Kentucky, Arkansas and Kansas. South of these limits there are probably points where they may be grown with some degree of success, but they are not definitely known to succeed there.

The two leading varieties of this type of strawberry, the Progressive and the Superb, are notable not only because they produce fruit from the time of the usual crop until late summer or autumn, but also because they are exceptionally resistant to leaf-spot diseases. They are also very hardy. The Progressive has been found

SET STRAWBERRIES EARLY TO GET FRUIT FIRST YEAR

Early spring—as soon as you can get into the garden—is the time to set "everbearing" strawberries, or, in fact, any strawberries. With such an early start a larger crop of fruit can be obtained the first year. The plants also have opportunity to become established and to develop better root systems before beginning to fruit. The markedly different behavior of the long-season varieties has led to the development of cultural practices differing in special details from those followed in the production of standard sorts. Directions for the culture of the everbearing types, in so far as the methods differ from ordinary practices with strawberries, are given in Farmers' Bulletin 901 of the U. S. department of agriculture.

to withstand the winters of the middle West better than any other variety except the Dunlap, one of its parents. The Superb also is harder than most varieties of strawberries. Another remarkable characteristic of these varieties is that if their blooms are killed by frost they soon flower again. Therefore in many sections subject to late spring frosts, which often destroy the crop, these varieties are particularly valuable.

KINDS OF EVERBEARERS AVAILABLE TO GROWERS

Thirteen varieties of "everbearing" strawberries are in the trade at present. They are: Advance, Americus, Autumn, Forward, Francis, Iowa, Onward, Pan American, Peerless, Productive, Progressive, Standpat and Superb. In addition, a variety known as the Minnesota No. 1017, distributed by the Minnesota State Horticultural society and the Minnesota agricultural experiment station, has been introduced. Only two of the varieties introduced, the Progressive and the Superb, have been widely grown as yet. The Americus is grown to a slight extent and the others very little. The Minnesota No. 1017 has been widely tested in Minnesota and is grown to a slight extent in surrounding states. Farmers' Bulletin 901 of the United States department of agriculture describes these varieties in detail and discusses their suitability to different sections.

Small Crop First Season.

If plants of the everbearing type are set early in the spring, a small crop can be had the first season. Plants which have been set for a year give a fair yield at the time the usual strawberry crop is borne. For the period immediately after this early summer crop the amount of fruit secured is small. In August, September and October it becomes larger and under favorable conditions the late summer or autumn crop from certain varieties may equal or exceed the early summer crop. Thus instead of a constant supply throughout the season there is a distinct early summer crop, then a period of comparative rest when little fruit is produced, followed by a long period when a fairly uniform amount of fruit is borne.

Weather conditions play an important part in the amount of fruit produced during the summer and autumn. Only when the moisture supply and other climatic conditions are favorable can the yield be constant. For this reason the results obtained from the everbearing varieties have varied greatly in the different sections of the country, and in different years. If a long drought occurs while the plants are fruiting, the berries become small and the plants finally cease to bear. Therefore they are not well adapted to sections having long droughts except when irrigation can be supplied.

Market gardeners apply 20 two-horse cart-loads of rotted manure to the acre.

Heroic Women of France

They Have Even Stepped Into the Place of Work Animals

By DR. ALONZO TAYLOR.

My words are not powerful enough to do even scanty justice to the most heroic figure in the modern world, and of ages past—the woman of France. Of the healthy men who are engaged in the military service in France, practically all are engaged either in transportation or in the manufacture of munitions, leaving the agriculture absolutely to the women. Not only this, but they have stepped into the place of work animals; you can go into any section of France today and see women of magnificent, noble womanhood hitched to the plow and cultivating the soil. All of the agriculture rests upon their shoulders. The home, always an extremely efficient home, maintains a few old men, the wounded and the tubercular. Uncomplaining, with high devotion, with an attitude that amounts almost to religious exaltation, the woman of France bears the burden.

Now, conditions being as they are, does it lie within the heart of the American people to preserve and hold to every convenience of our life at the expense of adding an additional burden to the womanhood of France? This is the exact question that is involved in our substitution of other cereals in place of wheat.

The women of France must be enabled to hold up the morale of the French soldier until next spring. The morale of the house decides the morale of the soldier in the fighting line. We can do this by giving to them the greatest possible freedom in their food supply, and of this, wheat is the chief factor.

Things Worth Knowing.

The College of Hawaii has added a four-year course in sugar technology.

About $500,000,000 a year is being spent on education in the United States.

God preserve us from the destructive power of words! There are words which can separate hearts sooner than sharp swords; there are words whose sting can remain through a whole life.

A Group of Salads.

In sections of our country where cauliflower is reasonable in price it may be served occasionally as a winter salad, making a most attractive one. Wash the cauliflower carefully, tie in a piece of cheesecloth and cook in boiling salted water. When done remove from the cloth and sprinkle with lemon juice and cool. When ready to serve separate into flowerets, arrange on a dish, sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve with French dressing, made by using three tablespoons of olive oil, a tablespoonful of vinegar, half a teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of cayenne. Beat well and pour over the cauliflower.

Carefully remove canned salmon from the can and arrange in a nest of lettuce, then pour over a spoonful of lemon juice and cover with mayonnaise just when it is ready to serve. Chopped pickle may be sprinkled over the salmon if preferred, omitting the lemon juice.

No Connection Between the Weather and Moon's Changes

People who rely on the moon as a weather indicator (writes a correspondent) must have very short memories, for accurate comparisons prove conclusively that there is no connection whatever between the weather and the moon's changes of phase.

Professor Schuster analyzed a whole century's weather records, and, as a result, was unable to trace any lunar period in them. Several authorities are agreed, however, that there is a tendency for clouds to disperse as a full moon comes to the meridian of any place; but it is a far cry from that to the definite belief that the weather

HINTS FOR THE POULTRY GROWERS

In addition to the grain and the table scraps in feeding chickens for meat and eggs, it is well to feed a dry mash. This dry mash is composed of various ground grains and is placed in a mash hopper or box from which the hens can help themselves. The advantage of feeding such a mash is that the hens always have access to feed, and this tends to make up for any faulty, inexperienced, or insufficient feeding. The hens do not like the dry mash so well that they are likely to overeat, but it will supply a source of feed in case they are not getting enough. The dry mash also provides a suitable medium for feeding beef scrap, a certain amount of which may or may not be necessary, depending upon the amount of meat scraps available in the table waste. If the hens show a tendency to become over-fat it may be desirable to close the mash hopper during a part of the day and allow them access to it only during a certain period, preferably the afternoon. A good dry mash is composed of equal parts by weight of cornmeal, wheat bran, wheat middlings, and beef scrap. Another good mash is composed of three parts by weight of cornmeal and one part beef scrap. Still a third mash, which has given excellent results, is composed of one pound of wheat bran, one pound of wheat middlings, 6.5 pounds of beef scrap, and 16.5 pounds of cornmeal. The beef scrap used in the dry mash is usually the most expensive ingredient, but it is a very essential part of the mash and very efficient for egg production. It should not be eliminated or reduced unless the quantity of meat in the table scraps is considerable or unless some other product can be substituted for it. Fish scrap, when available, may replace the beef scrap, or cottonseed meal can be used to replace one-half the beef scrap in the mash. No attempt should be made to replace more than half the beef scrap with cottonseed meal, as the results in egg production and in the quality of the eggs will be unsatisfactory.

Green cut bone can often be purchased from the butcher. This material when procured fresh makes an excellent substitute for beef scrap. It should be purchased in small quantities, as it can not be kept fresh for any length of time and when spoiled may cause severe bowel trouble. It is best fed in a trough not oftener than every other day, allowing about one-half ounce per bird. Should severe or continued looseness of the bowels follow the feeding of green cut bone it should be discontinued or the quantity reduced.

Vegetable tops, parings, and other vegetable refuse supply a valuable and very necessary green feed for the hens. Lawn clippings also are a valuable green feed. They can be fed as soon as cut, or they may be dried or cured, stored in bags, and saved until winter, when they can be soaked in warm water and fed in that condition or be mixed with some of the mash or with the table scraps.

changes with a change in the lunar phases.

These changes, of course, can be predicted for years in advance with perfect accuracy, and if the weather depended on them, weather forecasting would be the simplest of all the sciences, instead of the most difficult.

Pastor Offers to Provide Women to Till the Farms

Speedy filling of the labor shortage on the farms of Luzerne county, Penn., is indicated in the offer by Rev. Nicholas Chohey of the Wilkes-Barre Greek Catholic church of 100 women of his congregation, who will gladly enter service if proper housing quarters are supplied. Farmers have said that next year's plantings depend entirely upon labor; that it will be useless to extend cultivation under present conditions, and that the likelihood is, rather, toward a cutting down of the acres.

"Back of the 100 volunteers," said Father Chohey, "stand a regiment of women, who will follow the example of the pioneers, provided the farmers do their part." The Wilkes-Barre branch of the public service committee, has accepted the volunteers, and a committee will canvass the country districts for support from the agriculturists.

Attention has been officially called to the signal bravery of Robert Ausburne, a navy radio electrician of the first class, who went down when the United States army transport Antilles was sunk. When the ship was struck Ausburne and a fellow electrician named MacMahon were asleep in the radio room, Ausburne, realizing the seriousness of the situation, told his fellow worker to get on his life preserver. As he left to take his emergency station at the radio key he shouted to his companion, "Good-by, Mac." This was the last seen of him. Going to the radio room MacMahon found it locked, and realizing that the ship was fast sinking attempted to get Ausburne out, but without success.

Win the War by Preparing the Land Sowing the Seed and Producing Bigger Crops

Work in Joint Effort the Soil of the United States and Canada

CO-OPERATIVE FARMING IN MAN POWER NECESSARY TO WIN THE BATTLE FOR LIBERTY

The Food Controllers of the United States and Canada are asking for greater food production. Scarcely 100,000,000 bushels of wheat are available to be sent to the allies overseas before the crop harvest. Upon the efforts of the United States and Canada rests the burden of supply.

Every Available Tillable Acre Must Contribute; Every Available Farmer and Farm Hand Must Assist

Western Canada has an enormous acreage to be seeded, but man power is short, and an appeal to the United States allies is for more men for seedling operation.

Canada's Wheat Production Last Year was 225,000,000 Bushels; the Demand From Canada Alone for 1918 is 400,000,000 Bushels

To secure this she must have assistance. She has the land but needs the men. The Government of the United States wants every man who can effectively help, to do farm work this year. It wants the land in the United States developed first of course; but it also wants to help Canada. Whenever we find a son we can spare to Canada's fields after ours are supplied we want to direct him there.

Apply to our Employment Service, and we will tell you where you can best serve the combined interest.

Western Canada's help will be required not later than April 5th. Way to competent help, $50.00 a month and up, board and lodging.

Those who respond to this appeal will get a warm welcome, good wages, good board and find comfortable homes. They will get a rate of one cent a mile from Canadian boundary points to destination and return.

The Governor's Letter

Some time ago the Committee on Public Information asked Governor W. E. Lindsey for an expression of his views upon the patriotic duties of American citizens. The plan of the Committee was to use Governor Lindsey's statement, with others, in a campaign which was designed to increase patriotism throughout the nation. The statement elicited high praise from the Committee, which wrote through L. A. Brown, director of publicity, as follows:

"I am very grateful for your splendid patriotic message. It is notable for its clarity and terseness, and I believe it will be very widely read in all sections of the country. You have put some of your thoughts better than I have seen them expressed anywhere else. With much appreciation."—New Mex. War News.

Business Men Eat

The business men of Tucumcari have perfected an organization for exploiting the resources of that section, and their example can be followed by others, to good advantage. At a recent dinner outside speakers were present and greatly encouraged the town boosters. Hon. W. A. Hawkins, of the El Paso and Southwestern, was present and made one of the best talks of the evening, disclosing the fact that he and his company are boosting for the development of the country.

Misleading Picture

Santa Fe, N. M.—Authentic information secured by the U. S. Food Administration indicates a well-planned German Propaganda intended to magnify the distress of the Central Powers with respect to their food supply. By painting conditions worse than they actually are, the enemy hopes to lull the American mind into the belief that we are fighting a people on the verge of collapse and that early peace is certain.

Such an attitude here in the United States will delay preparations, defeat food conservation and in countless ways weaken our military and economic force. The Central Powers control thousands of square miles of productive lands in Poland, Roumania, Serbia, Belgium and France.

Much of this is wheat land and such possessions added to home resources make starvation thru blockade a remote and futile hope. Under her system of rationing, Germany's cattle supply is ample for several years.

Hen's and Pullets are Safe

"The Following Rule has been adopted in with connection with Special Rules and Regulations governing dealers in poultry and eggs."

Rule 14: The licensee shall not between February 11th 1918 and April 30th, 1918, sell or negotiate the sale of any live or freshly killed hens or pullets. Provided, However, that this shall not stop the purchase, importation or sale, between Feb. 11th and Feb. 23rd, 1918, of hens or pullets which were either killed or shipped prior to Feb. 11th, 1918 to markets for sale as food and Provided Further that nothing in this rule shall prevent the purchase, shipment or sale of live hens or pullets for egg production purposes.

Effective February 11th, 1918.

Net Profits of Mines

It is estimated that the net profits of the New Mexico mines will probably amount to more than twenty millions of dollars for 1917, and will produce a very comfortable sum of money for those counties fortunate to have the big producers. For 1918 the Chino paid into the Grant county treasury more than $103,000, besides the other taxes, this sum being the result of the mine tax law of 1915.

A KLONDIKE TO THE REAL FARMER

A Western Canada Crop Estimated at $12,000, Makes $19,000.

Messrs. Harris, formerly of Audubon, Iowa, wrote the "Audubon Advocate," expressing their satisfaction of things in Western Canada. They located at Makepeace, Alberta. They say there are those who make good, and those who fail. The former are those that land agents refer to when advertising their land. "But," continues the letter, "A great many of the farmers in this vicinity pay for their land with their first crop. A man near here bought a section of land in the year 1915 for $23 per acre. He broke 300 acres of the land during the summer of 1915. In the fall of 1916 he threshed 16,000 bushels of wheat, which paid for his land, all expenses and had a balance of $4,000. In the fall of 1917 he threshed nearly as much off the other half of the section. At the present time he would not take $50 per acre for his land.

"We have had five crops in Alberta. The two dry years (1914-1917) our wheat made 20 and 30 bushels to the acre respectively. In 1916 we raised 50 bushels of wheat to the acre on summer fallow. The best results are obtained by plowing or breaking in the summer, working it down in the fall so that it will retain the moisture. Thus farming one-half your ground each year.

"Persons owning land here and still living in the States should, if they don't feel themselves able to come up here and finance themselves until they could get their first crop, get some of their land broken and worked down in the fall before they come. The next spring they could come and put in the crop, fence and put up their buildings. This way they have to wait only one summer for their first crop.

"It is not advisable for a person to come here in the spring, break out land and put it in crop the first year, because the moisture is not in the ground and a failure is almost certain unless it is an exceptionally wet year.

"One of the boys from that locality, Mr. Peder M. Jensen came to Alberta last spring. He bought a 30-60 Rumely Oil-Pull engine on the 8th day of June, 1917. After that date he broke 1,100 acres of prairie sod for which he received an average of $5.00 per acre.

"Mr. Hansen from your community, was up here last fall with several prospective land buyers from that neighborhood. At that time he inquired the value of the crop on the section we were farming. We told him that it would probably make in the neighborhood of $12,000. This same crop when sold brought nearly $19,000. The most of it being sold when prices were low for the year."—Advertisement.

I continued its use and am now free from pain and able to do all my housework."—Mrs. B. B. ZIELINSKA, 202 Weiss Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Portland, Ind.—"I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my housework, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. ### Her Mistaken Impression.

The dear old lady knew nothing about automobiles, and when her daughter, who lived in Blankton, sent the chauffeur for her, she entered the car rather timidly. Everything went well until, in attempting to pass a loaded hay wagon, the car went into a ditch and its passenger was deposited in an adjoining meadow.

Recovering from the shock, though somewhat confused by this rather unusual method of alighting from a vehicle, she said to the chauffeur: "Is this Blankton?"

"No, ma'am," he managed to gasp; "this is an accident."

"Oh, dear," said the old lady, "then I hadn't oughta got out here, had I?"—Boston Transcript.

The Deep Sea Peril

By VICTOR ROUSSEAU

(Copyright by W. G. Chapman)

THE F55 IS INVADED BY THE WEIRD MONSTERS AND PAGET HAS A TERRIBLE STRUGGLE TO SAVE HIMSELF AND IDA—THE OTHERS ARE DEVoured.

Naval Lieutenant Donald Paget, just given command of a submarine, meets at Washington an old friend and distinguished though somewhat eccentric scientist, Captain Masterman. Masterman has just returned from an exploring expedition, bringing with him a member of the strange race, the existence of whose species, he asserts, menaces the human family. At the club, the "March Hares," Masterman explains his theory to Paget. The recital is interrupted by the arrival of a lifelong enemy of Masterman, Ira MacBeard, and the former is seized with a fatal paralytic stroke. From Masterman's body Paget secures documents bearing upon the discovery and proceeds to the home of the scientist. Paget proceeds to sea on his submarine, the F55, and encounters a German cruiser. He sinks the enemy, which had destroyed the Beola, on which Ida Kennedy, his fiancée, was a passenger. The girl escapes in a small boat. He rescues her, but finds himself unable to take the skiff to the submarine because of invisible forces.

CHAPTER VI.

The Siege of the Submarine.

"I'm positive it's the water, sir," said Davies. "We've tried running submerged, and the electric engines won't drive her any faster than the petrol ones. It's like running a locomotive on greasy rails."

"It's plankton," answered Donald. "Marine organisms, you know."

He was standing beside Davies in the conning tower. Ida had been taken below and placed in Donald's cabin. She had been hardly conscious since her rescue; she was too numbed from exposure to realize what had occurred, and she had fallen asleep immediately.

At Fair Island, which was an uninterrupted, cavernous rock, Donald expected to find the oil-ship, from which his stores were to be replenished. Then he was to patrol the northern area of the North sea with the aid of the airplane. A stock of supplies in the shape of food was also expected at the island.

But now Donald was wondering whether it was not his duty to return to the mainland to report the destruction of the enemy cruiser. Of course the officers of the Flying corps who would be with the airplane could undertake this duty. But then there was Ida. And there was the swarm of devil men that had appeared.

How could he tell the navy department of this without being relieved of his command? But how could he fail to tell them?

Donald looked keenly at Davies. He was a nice little chap, disciplined, clean, alert, the beau-ideal of a naval officer in embryo. What he liked best about the little middy was his resolution; he knew that Davies would never hesitate to take responsibility whenever he thought his duty required a prompt decision.

Donald could have no better confidant. And he needed one as sorely as Masterman had done.

"Davies," he said, "I'm going to tell you something. It's not the engines, but it isn't altogether the water either. The plankton wouldn't stop us. And it's too fine to clog the machinery. Something is trying to push us back, Davies."

"I beg your pardon, sir?"

"I was warned about it before I left New York," continued Donald. "What I'm going to tell you will sound incredible, but it happens to be true. You know, Davies, our ancestors were marine creatures?"

"I thought they were monkeys, sir. At least, a long time ago."

"Long before they were monkeys, Davies. At least, they first lived in the sea. And we became monkeys afterward, and then men."

"Yes, sir. I was going to say that the electric engines show signs of developing—"

"One moment, please, Davies. There's another swarm of deep-sea men coming to overrun the earth. Masterman told me—you've heard of Masterman, the marine explorer? He told me he'd seen them—no, 'felt' them—before he died. I felt them today. They attacked and upset us."

"Excuse me, sir," said Davies, "but wouldn't you like to lie down? I can take the F55 to the island, sir, and we'll call you when we are at anchor."

"Please listen to me, Davies. They are invisible, these monsters, all except the eyes, which look like euryanths. When they die the albuminous parts of the body harden, producing a milky opacity. They look then something like hairless monsters. And they're trying to stop the submarine from making Fair Island, just as they tried to draw the boat there. They—"

He broke off, confounded by the middy's polite, respectful stare. Donald had not imagined that the story would sound so grotesque. He hardly believed now that he could make Davies realize its truth.

"I'm sorry to hear about them, sir," said Davies. "What do you wish me to do?"

"Keep the hatches closed," said Donald. "We are taking a risk not submerging, but we have got to make Fair Island. If they get aboard, it will be a fight to the death. Happily, it isn't hard to kill them, only we can't see them. They are quite invisible, remember. I killed two of them. Better serve out cutlasses—"

"We won't stand for any nonsense from them, sir," answered the middy. "Excuse me, sir, while I call Clouts to take the lookout." He moved toward the entrance.

In a few moments Sam Clouts came in. He saluted, but instead of taking his post at the observation port, he remained standing in front of Donald. "Wouldn't you like to lie down below, sir?" he asked.

"What's that?" demanded Donald.

"What do you mean, Clouts?"

"Excuse me, sir, but I think a rest would do you good," said the sailor.

"Get to your post!" said Donald sharply.

"But, really, sir—"

"Is this insubordination, Clouts?"

"No, sir. But it would be best for you to rest, sir," persisted Clouts.

Davies reappeared at the door.

"He's quite right, sir," he said.

"He's acting under my orders. You need to rest for a while."

Donald suddenly began to understand.

"Davies, do you imagine that I am crazy?" he cried. "Why, that's what they told Masterman!"

"I think, sir, you ought to rest," said Davies. "Meanwhile I am assuming command."

"I'll have you court-martialed, Davies!" cried Donald angrily.

"I'll face that, sir," returned the little middy. "You see, sir, it amounts to this: I have only spoken to Clouts so far. It would be better to lie down quietly than to have the rest of the men know about this. It would be very prejudicial to discipline, sir. And in the morning, when you feel different, I shall resign the command to you again."

Donald began to realize the impossibility of convincing Davies. The middy evidently believed that his exposure in the boat had turned his brain. It was useless to attempt to argue. Of course he ought never to have spoken about the monsters, but they had been so real, so recent in his mind. However—

"Davies, you may take command until morning," said Donald. "Only remember my warning about the hatches."

He turned toward the door. Davies saluted him. Sam Clouts accompanied him to his cabin below.

"We put the lady in here, sir," he said, pausing in front of the door.

"Quite right," answered Donald.

"You may sling me a hammock in the officers' messroom."

"I've done it, sir," Clouts answered.

A moment later Donald found himself a prisoner on board his own ship. For, on making his exit, Clouts had locked the door. The action was done with dispatch, and the key was turned almost noiselessly, but Donald had heard it.

He got into his hammock and tried to compose his mind, but he discovered that the events of the day had shaken him more than he had imagined. Those awful memories recurred to him against his volition. Worst of all was the knowledge that precious time was passing while he was a prisoner. And he recollected that the monstrous horde, surrounding the submarine, no doubt, had already discovered that men were food. If Davies took off the hatches—perhaps he had already done so.

His mind became obsessed by the threatened danger. He sprang from his hammock, trembling. He tried to open the door. He set his shoulder against it. Outside he heard the reedy notes of a mouth organ, and Sam Clouts suddenly stood before him.

Donald had an impulse to appeal to the man, but at once he saw its futility.

"Tell Mr. Davies that he is on no account to take off the hatches," he said.

Sam Clouts saluted him and calmly locked the door again. Outside the strains of the mouth organ were heard once more. Evidently Clouts was under instructions to remain at his post.

Donald went back to his hammock. He shrugged his shoulders at the futility of it all, his helplessness. He had done all that he could do. And now a sense of complete fatigue began to overcome him. He could not keep his tired eyelids apart.

Slowly, struggling desperately against the imperative need of sleep, he felt himself floating away.

He did not know how long he slept, but it seemed a few minutes only when cries pierced through the mists of unconsciousness. In an instant he was upon his feet, groping in intense darkness.

He could not discern from what part of the boat the ominous sounds proceeded. The whole interior of the F55 was like a sounding board. The cries appeared to proceed from every part of her. Donald had never heard such cries save once, and then they came from animal throats. That was when his revenue cutter had surprised a band of pirates at their bloody work on the seal islands.

"Paget! I've Come to Die With You!"

He heard Ida cry out in his cabin. He cried to her in answer, and, leaping back, he plunged with all his might against the panel, and again, and yet again, until the woodwork splintered.

The cry burst forth again, drowning the sounds of the onths and scuffling. It was a cry of a woman in mortal fear. Donald drove the splintered timbers before him through the hole in the wall. He found the girl where she lay beside his berth. He raised her in his arms, and felt one of the blubbery flippers on his hand.

That fight in the little room was always a nightmare remembrance. The yielding body offered Donald no purchase. And the monster fought in silence, apparently incapable of articulation, and the stinging flippers sucked the blood from his face and hands; and, as he pried them away, the flesh rose into welts beneath them.

They awayed and struggled, and through the inky darkness Donald could hear the sound of similar battles, the curses of men, their agonizing cries, the thudding falls of heavy bodies.

But Donald could not lose with Ida's life at stake. The monster's struggles grew feebler. Donald flung it from him, and heard it shuffle out of the room and into the darkness of the passage. Then he knew that fear ruled among these sea-beasts as upon land.

Suddenly Davies burst into the cabin.

"Paget! I've come to you!" he cried hysterically. "You spoke the truth, sir, and I thought you were mad! I opened the hatches, and they're all over the ship, sir! I've come to die with you!"

Another man ran panting up to them. It seemed strange afterward, when Donald recalled it, how the three seemed to be aware of each other's presence in the little cabin.

It was Sam Clouts. "They've got us, sir!" he cried. "I fought to the end, but the rest are in the sea, and I'm the only one left! I've locked the entrance to the conning tower, but it's only a question of minutes, sir!"

Donald could hear the monsters straining at the door. He felt sure that the steel plating, thin as it was, would yield; not to the sudden exercise of any muscular force, but to the silent, steady pressure of the heavy bodies. The door creaked and groaned under the impact.

"Into the torpedo-room!" gasped Donald. "Through the escape hatch! We must save Miss Kennedy," he added.

He snatched up Ida and began groping toward the metallic sheathing which admitted air from above into the torpedo room.

"I think I can get the tube apart, sir," Clouts volunteered.

It seemed an eternity before Donald heard a section of the metal plate rattle upon the floor.

"We'll have to jump, sir!" Clouts panted. "I'll go down first and catch you. Pass along the lady when you hear me call."

The villain, MacBeard, possessed of the dead Masterman's papers, sets out for the abode of the unknown creatures, off the Shetland islands. His purpose is deadly.

EACH NEW SWORD IS BLESSED

Japanese, Past Masters in Art of Making Weapons, Offer Them When Completed to Goddess.

That the Japanese are past masters in the art of swordmaking is proved by the splendid weapons, equal to those of Toledo and Damascus, which they turn out. The actual method of swordmaking in Japan is jealously guarded, an extraordinary feature of the industry being the religious ceremony which accompanies every process of their manufacture. The walls of every swordmaking shop in Japan will be found to be covered with allegorical representations of the swordmakers and the chief goddess of the Shintos.

Even the final processes of polishing and sharpening are characterized by certain religious ceremonies, and finally the weapons are offered, one by one, to the sword god to be blessed, says London Tit-Bits. This ceremony consists in placing the swords in front of the goddess of the Shintos on the wall, with an offering of sake, rice and sweetmeats, after which prayer scrolls are read and blessing upon the work is invoked.

Secret of Spider's Walk.

The way a spider moves its eight legs in walking is interestingly described by a science authority. In order to observe this movement at his leisure—for it is usually too rapid to be followed by the human eye—he tired the spiders by making them swim and then let them walk slowly over a smooth surface. In this way he discovered: 1. The longest legs, those of the first and fourth pairs, move along lines of their own directions by vertical bending of the joints; the shorter legs of the second and third pairs move forward by rotation from the coxae (the 1-4-6-8 moving legs with the body)—the 2-3-5-7 moving legs with third off leg; (a) second near leg moves with third off leg; (b) third near leg moves with second off leg; (c) fourth near leg moves with first off leg; (d). 5. Walking consists of (a) and (c) simultaneously, followed by (b) and (d) simultaneously.

Not a Swede.

Alderman Captain is a member of the home guards of the Twenty-fifth ward, says the Chicago Herald. He took Alderman Toman out to see the drill soon after the latter returned from investigating Boston saloons. Toman was put in line and the instructor announced that he would give a lesson in Swedish gymnastics. The younger men went through the drill with ease. Toman began to puff. He finally blurted out: "I'm too old for that sort of stuff."

"How old are you?" inquired the instructor.

"Thirty-eight."

"Fine," commented the instructor. "The Swedes use this sort of exercise at the age of sixty."

"I'm no Swede; I'm a Bohemian," said Toman as he got out of line.

Heat-Resisting Material.

A heat-resisting composition of special value in constructing casements in heating apparatuses, shingles, chimney shelves, et cetera, is a combination of cement and asbestos. Two Swiss architects are responsible for the invention of this fire-proof material.

WASH THE KIDNEYS!

All the blood in the body passes thru the kidneys every few minutes. This is why the kidneys play such an important role in health or disease. By some mysterious process the kidney selects what ought to come out of the blood and takes it out. If the kidneys are not good-workmen and become congested—poisons accumulate and we suffer from backache, headache, lumbago, rheumatism or gout. The urine is often cloudy, full of sediment; channels often get sore and sleep is disturbed at night. So it is that Dr. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., advises "Washing the Kidneys," by drinking six to eight glasses of water between meals and then if you want to take a harmless medicine that will clear the channels and cure the annoying symptoms, go to your druggist and get Anuric (double strength), for 60c. This "Anuric," which is so many times more potent than lithia—will drive out the uric acid poisons and bathe the kidneys and channels in a soothing liquid.

If you desire, write for free medicinal advice and send sample of water for free examination. Experience has taught Doctor Pierce that "Anuric" is a most powerful agent in dissolving uric acid, as hot water melts sugar. Send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial package.

SENSE OF GUILT IN ANIMALS

Proof That They Know When They Are Doing Wrong, and Seek to Evade Consequences.

In military stables horses are known to have pretended to be lame in order to avoid going to a military exercise. A chimpanzee had been fed on cake when sick. After his recovery he often feigned coughing in order to procure dainties.

The cuckoo, as is well known, lays its eggs in another bird's nest, and, to make the deception surer, it takes away one of the other bird's eggs. Animals are conscious of their deceit, as is shown by the fact that they try to act secretly and noiselessly; they show a sense of guilt if detected; they take precautions in advance to arouse discovery; in some cases they manifest regret and repentance. Thus, bees which steal hesitate often before and after their exploits, as if they feared punishment.

A naturalist describes how his monkey committed theft. While he pretended to sleep the animal regarded him with hesitation, and stopped every time his master moved or seemed on the point of awakening.

A Pica.

"And why should I give you a kiss?" "Scientists say a man needs sweets." "What of it?" "I'm going without sugar. Now's your time to encourage patriotism, girle."

Only a few things that are worth having are to be had for the asking.

Your comfortable, healthy, well-to-do neighbor uses INSTANT POSTUM instead of coffee.

Ever ask him the reason?

Might be worth while—especially if you are one of those with whom coffee doesn't agree.

"There's a Reason"

Governor Lindsey Praises The Flag of Our Nation

In a well designed pamphlet entitled "Our Flag," the Governor eulogizes our country's flag in a befitting manner, and the following is an extract of this patriotic masterpiece.

"Tis the Star Spangled Banner, oh! long may it wave

O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

A flag may be described as a strip of cloth of a light fabric varying in form and color, frequently bearing some emblematic design, and ordinarily displayed, affixed by one end to a staff, pole or rope. The most common use of flags is as emblems of the nations.

The use of flags is of great antiquity. In the book, Numbers, of the Bible, we read: "Every man of the Children of Israel, shall pitch by his own standard, with the ensign of their father's house."

Standards, ensigns, flags, are what peoples and nations make them from generation to generation, from age to age.

Totems of the North American Indian have no vital significance to us, but to him, it is the Standard, Ensign, Flag, Religion, History, and Government.

The Star Spangled Banner—flag of the Republic of North America—OUR FLAG, had origination in a resolution of the Continental Congress June 14th 1777, and is the oldest national flag in existence. Its Union was declared as "thirteen stars, white in a field of blue, representing a new constellation, and thirteen bars, alternate red and white." The stars in OUR FLAG stand for the states of the Union. They were thirteen in the Revolution, thirty-five in the Civil war, forty-five in the war with Spain and now forty-eight.

After speaking of the different colors of the flag and what they mean to us as American patriots, the executive concludes with these glowing words:

"Rightly we glorify our fathers, who, for justice and preservation of the Union, have died beneath the folds of OUR FLAG from Lexington to Yorktown, from Ball's Bluff to the Appomattox, but higher glory is reserved for us, if, in this world-war we prove worthy sons of noble sires by carrying OUR FLAG to the battlements of Berlin, there to uncrown the Hohenzollern and hamstring the Beast."

"And the Star Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave WHILE the land of the free IS the home of the brave."

W. E. Lindsey, Feb. 11, 1918.

Masque-Ball

There will be a Grand Masquerade Ball at White Oaks, on Saturday night March 2nd. Music will be furnished by May's Orchestra. Refreshments will be served by the Women's Club.

A good time guaranteed to all who come.

Gillett and Daniel

O. T. Gillett, who is well known to our people as a contractor, has united in partnership with C. B. Daniel, who is an experienced contractor from Arizona.

Mr. Gillett has found of late that his increasing business demands more attention than he can give it, in justice to himself and the people.

In order to do justice to all concerned, he decided to enter into partnership with some man of experience like himself.

The want was filled when Mr. Daniel came to Carrizozo and the two contractors were not long in effecting an agreement, and a partnership was soon formed.

Mr. Daniel, has for several years past been a contractor in Arizona, and for almost three years, held the position of State Building Inspector under Governor Hunt.

Mr. Gillett needs no recommendation to the people of Carrizozo. His years of usefulness in this community, as a contractor, has earned for him a reputation for being a good mechanic, careful calculator, and serviceable contractor. The new firm will broaden out and spread their net over all the additional territory surrounding Carrizozo.

Ranch work is solicited and the new combination wishes to state that their equipment will be second to none in this section of the country.
