MRS. WM. KAHLER SUCCUMBS AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

One of Lincoln County's Oldest Residents, After Years of Suffering, is Relieved of Pain.

The stroke of 11 o'clock p. m. March 11th, marked the passing of Mrs. Wm. Kahler from the pains and sufferings of this world, into a land where sorrow is unknown. Mrs. Kahler has been a sufferer from rheumatism for a period of 25 years during which time she has bravely and saintly endured her burdens with remarkable fortitude until weary with pain and suffering she fell asleep.

Mr. Martha A. Kahler was born in Benton County, Alabama, June 3rd, 1849. In 1873 she was united in marriage to Wm. Kahler in Conway County, Arkansas and in 1876 the young Kahlers went to Texas, where they resided until 1906, when they settled in Carrizozo and formed their part of the solid foundation on which our city rests today.

Their union was blessed with the following seven children: Mrs. Hattie Shumate of Brinkman, Oklahoma; Mrs. Emma Vincent of Tulsa, Texas; Mrs. Gussie Dalglish of Bisbee, Arizona; Mrs. R. E. Hoffman, Mrs. Carrie Sawyer, John and William Kahler Jr. of Carrizozo.

Funeral services were conducted at the Kahler home Tuesday; the Rev. Lewelling officiating, and the remains interred in the Carrizozo cemetery. Many floral offerings were laid on the altar of love and esteem for their departed friend.

Mrs. Kahler had been since early girlhood, a member of the Methodist church and many were her deeds of charity and benevolence. Possessed of a patient, loving disposition, she turned toward deeds of loving kindness, as natural as the flower turns its head to the sun.

Then let us not mourn but rejoice that,

In the sweet fields of Eden
Where the tree of life is blooming,

There is rest for the weary,
There is rest—sweet rest.

Dance in Lutz's Hall

A social dance, conducted by Laurence Rowland, was held last Saturday night. About 30 couples were present and tripped the light fantastic toe until the clock reminded the merry-makers that further indulgence in their favorite pastime would be treading on the sacredness of the Sabbath. Everyone danced to the good music furnished by Mrs. Malarney and Mr. Pitts.

Mrs. Dingwall Entertains

Mrs. George Dingwall entertained the Auction Bridge Club at the home of Mrs. George C. Ulrich, last Thursday afternoon. Tables for the guests were conveniently arranged, and all present enjoyed the afternoon, as usual, in their favorite pastime.

To Local School Boards

Lincoln County, New Mexico. Gentlemen:

The following is a copy of a resolution passed by the County Board of Education at its last meeting, held March 4th, 1918.

RESOLUTION

"The attention of the County Board of Education having been called to the fact, that in some districts Local Boards were allowing their teachers the Christmas week as holidays and counting it as a week taught, the Secretary of the County Board was advised to write the clerks of every Local Board in the county, informing them that this was not according to law and to see that their teachers make up the week before the close of the term. For the benefit of the Local Boards, their attention was directed to the following sections of the New Mexico Statutes with regard to the matter.

In section 4849 will be found the definitions for a school month and a school day.

The following are the legal holidays that occur during the school year, on which days school may be dismissed and the day counted as having been taught, viz: December 25th, January 1st, July 4th and Thanksgiving Day. These only in case they occur on a school day. See section 593.

February 22nd and October 12th are legal holidays and school may be adjourned, providing appropriate exercises have been held previous to these days and providing they occur on school days. See sections 2727-2728.

The following are legal holidays and should be observed by appropriate exercises in the schools, but the schools should not be dismissed. February 12th (Flag Day and Washington's Birthday,) the second Friday in March (Arbor Day.) See Sections 2726-4324-4862.

Under a ruling of the Department of Education, teachers' who attend the meeting of the State Teachers' Association are allowed to count the week as having been taught, but in case they do not attend, they must teach the week.

It is suggested that the Local Boards of Education look up these references carefully. They will see that they have no authority to grant any teacher any Holiday or Holiday other than those named above."

Trusting that you will give this matter your careful attention, I am,

Yours very truly,

J. E. Koonce,
Co. Supt. of Schools.

THE DEEP SEA PERIL

By VICTOR ROUSSEAU

(Copyright by W. G. Chapman)

—10—

"Now, my plan is this: We must leave the airlock one by one, with rather a light weight of metal on our feet, calculated to enable us to walk, and yet not to keep us down. We shall then simply climb the slopes of Fair Island under the water."

"I think it is the only feasible plan, sir," said Davies briskly.

"How do you feel about it, Ida?" asked Donald in a low tone.

Ida put her hand into his. "I am ready to do anything you wish, Donald, dear," she answered.

"I'll answer for the lady with my own life, sir," said Clouts heartily.

"Then we're decided," said Donald.

"Now, follow me in single file, hands on the shoulders of the one in front of you. All ready?"

He led the way through the darkness, down the ladder at the base of the conning tower toward the storage room in which the diving apparatus was kept. Then he lit a candle.

The Siebert apparatus possesses the merit of simplicity. Donald, as he adjusted it on each with the aid of Davies, did not think it necessary to explain the mechanism. It consisted, first, of a waterproof uniform, then of a glass mask and copper cylinder, the latter covering the upper part of the body and fastening about the shoulders. It contained a supply of compressed oxygen for several hours. The carbonic acid exhaled passed into a receptacle containing caustic soda, which purified it, thus liberating the oxygen, while the nitrogen could be inhaled over and over again.

There was also a single sleeve attached by wires to a little storage battery worn on the neck, in which, when the apparatus had been properly adjusted, a small electric light could be made to burn by the pressure of a button.

They waited a moment while Ida put on the waterproof uniform; then all followed suit. Donald and Davies dressed themselves after Clouts, and attached the weights about the feet of each and to their own. Finally, when all were in readiness, Donald snuffed the candle and lit his electric lamp, which was inclosed in a specially devised glass, calculated to resist a great pressure.

Each of the party was now sealed from all sound. They saw each other's faces very dimly through the glass masks.

Donald indicated to Davies that he was to bring up the rear, his hands upon the shoulders of Sam Clouts in front of him. He placed Ida in front of Clouts, and, raising her hands, put them upon his own shoulders, himself leading the procession.

He made his way into the conning tower again. He opened the inner chamber of the airlock, admitting Ida and himself, and closed it again. He knew that Clouts and Davies could take care of themselves.

The airlock, built to be used for escape in just such an emergency, was meant for one temporary tenant alone. But two could just manage to squeeze in, and Ida could not have undertaken the plunge alone.

They were breathing the stored oxygen within the copper cylinders. They were safe for the present. The transit was not especially perilous in itself, but there were dangers to face—the possibility of being too heavily weighted and sinking into the ooze; that of being too light and losing balance. These had to be met.

Through the glass mask Donald saw Ida's face. She was composed and, in spite of the distorting medium, he was sure that he saw a look of trustful love in her eyes.

He started the compressed-air apparatus to keep the sea water out of the lock, and opened the outer door. They looked into the nothingness of the ocean bottom. The wall of inky water was hardly illumined by the faint light that shone from their sleeve-lamps.

Donald pressed Ida's hand. He felt her fingers flutter in his. She understood what she was to do. She placed her head and shoulders within the aperture.

Donald raised her feet and pushed her into the sea. He saw the night of water swallow her.

And, choking down his fears, he plunged in after her.

CHAPTER IX.

On the Sea Floor.

He struggled for balance as the sea depths enveloped him. He groped in the water as in a fog. The swirl of bubbling air from the oxygen apparatus in the lock carried him some distance from the submarine, and then he felt himself sinking.

He sank very slowly, and as he sank he groped for Ida. He could not find her. The submarine had disappeared completely.

He waded to and fro clumsily. He was like a dead man who wakes in an uninhabited purgatory of desolation. There was nothing anywhere—nothing. Only the yielding water, at which his fingers clutched fruitlessly.

He began to walk for six paces in every direction, calculating that in this way he could bound a parallelogram and return to his starting point. But he saw nothing, and he did not know that he had returned to the place from which he had set out.

He started wildly backward, believing that the submarine lay behind him. As he walked, dragging his weight like a convict's chain and ball, suddenly the outlines of the P55 appeared before him.

He realized that she was lying with her bow higher than her stern. At once he grasped the situation. She had sunk with her bow toward land, and from this end, therefore, he must start on the ascent of Fair Island's subterranean base.

And this discovery renewed his courage. Of course, the others were endeavoring to make the ascent, while he had gone floundering in the wrong direction, downward toward the heart of the crater.

He made his way parallel with the submarine's bow, keeping well within sight of the elusive craft, which would disappear momentarily before his eyes and suddenly appear again, almost within arm's reach. Suddenly he stopped. He stared at the oozy floor.

He Struggled for Balance as the Sea Depths Enveloped Him.

His light had cast his shadow in front of him.

But that was impossible.

It was no shadow. It was a flattened man, a dwarfish figure, ridiculously misproportioned, resembling an image seen in a curved mirror. It approached slowly and uncertainly. For a moment Donald felt his heart stand still with fear. It was a nightmare figure, terror incarnate. A little glow flashed from its arm. They drew together.

They stood looking at each other, peering through their thick masks. But in that vague medium recognition was impossible.

Donald saw only the blurred features behind the thick glass that covered the face, distorted and twisted by the refraction. He surmised that it was not Davies. Davies could have made himself known by any of a number of symbols of the seaman's freemasonry. But then, it could not be Clouts either.

He caught at the figure's hand and raised it to his sleeve-light. It was a woman's hand—it was Ida's.

They knew each other. Donald took her fingers in his, and together they started on the ascent.

To his horror, Donald perceived that the water was becoming opaque.

It presaged the appearance of the sea monsters. They were in this lair, and this substance was no food, no plankton that those devils pushed forth before them like a veil, but a material designed to shield them from the filtering sunlight.

Donald grasped Ida's hand and fought his way through the clinging mass. As he swung his free arm, upraised, it struck against a rocky barrier overhead. The ooze underfoot had yielded to solid rock.

He thrust out his arms on either side, and still found rock. He realized that they were no longer ascending the mountain, but had struck a cave.

Donald stood still, reflecting. Did Ida understand? There was no way in which to tell her.

He was about to retrace his steps when he perceived, a long distance in front of him, a tiny glimmer of light. At first he hoped that it was daylight. But that was impossible.

Ida raised her hand and pointed. She, too, had seen it, and had placed the same interpretation upon it.

At every step the light grew clearer. It was not stationary, but swung to and fro slowly from side to side, rising and falling, yet seeming to retreat slowly as they advanced. Donald strained his eyes through the mask, expecting every moment to see the form of one of his comrades.

The light stood still immediately in front of them, upon a level with Donald's eyes. He leaned forward, put out his hand toward it.

Suddenly Ida leaped backward, dragging him violently with her. There was a sense of sound, or vibration, rather, like the closing of a trap's jaws. They seemed to snap together hardly a foot from Donald's head.

And he saw suddenly, as if it had at that moment only become visible, the shadowy form of some vast monster lurking within the recesses of the cave.

It was one of the giant forms of deep-sea life, perhaps holding the same relationship toward the sea beasts as tigers do toward men. It might have followed the swarm when they assembled in the submarine crater, preparatory to their emigration southward.

It was not one of the monsters that had attacked the boat, for Donald could discern a fishlike body and a huge head with gleaming eyes, and a pair of hinged jaws that gaped wide as if to search for the prey that had eluded them.

The light was a phosphorescent lure used by the creature to draw its victims within the cavern in which it lurked. The sluggish monster remained quiescent, and again the lure appeared, dangling between the jaws from the snout above them.

Donald pushed Ida before him and fled out of the cave until he stood upon the ocean ooze again. And they continued to crawl at the bottom of the sea, two helpless human creatures, unbelievably helpless, while around them the fierce, predatory swarms sought their dismal food.

Donald had found the slope of the island when the water began to grow thick again.

Presently a phosphorescent patch appeared in the distance. It became less hazy, it seemed to concentrate. The ocean suddenly became like transparent jelly.

And, facing him, Donald saw the outline of one of the sea monsters, visible now and horribly magnified. The eyes opened upon his own. They were not currantlike in that medium, but expanded to the full, great orbs like sunflowers that glowered on their prospective prey, larger than the eyes of any beast created since leviathan and behemoth.

However, the creature made no move toward him as Donald, almost paralyzed, remained confronting it. He saw the gorilla form, with its short, huddling limbs, the trunk of gorilla's thickness, the narrow flippers, and the triangular head.

He felt as some primeval man might have done when he looked into the face of the mastodon.

The creature did not pursue him, but stood, swaying gently, dreadfully human. Donald snatched at Ida and tried to run. He tripped and fell.

He dragged himself to his feet again. He became aware of a barrier between the monster and himself, which had, perhaps, saved them. He had stumbled upon a spiny substance, a coralloid growth that proved to be the outpost of a submarine forest. It was a field of crinoids, the yellow lilies of the sea.

Beautiful plants with branching arms, they bent and swayed before Donald's eyes as they drew in the minute forms of life on which they subsisted. They were vegetable octopods, carnivorous scavengers of the deep, which feasted on the small fish that they entangled in their waving branches, and drew by the ciliary movements of the lining of their tentacles toward the central stomach.

Donald saw one of the waving arms sweep down toward him. He tore at it with his fingers. To his surprise, the brittle branch broke loose and settled slowly in the ooze, there to become the embryo of a plant. From every quarter the tentacles, as if apprized of their presence, came swooping slowly toward them.

Donald saw Ida grasped in their clinging clutch. Madly he tore at the graceful, shrinking forms, until he had cloven a wide swath before him, and the arms, balked and baffled of their prey, withdrew.

NIAGARA KEEPS ARMIES WELL.

Chlorine, Used in Water, Kills the Germs of Disease, Yet Leaves the Drinker Untouched.

In the trenches of Europe there must be pure water, lest epidemic disease sweep over them, destroying more than the shells, shrapnel and machine guns of the enemy; and Niagara comes forward with chlorine, or an allied product, which kills the germs of disease, yet leaves the drinker untouched.

In the simplest forms, the process of breaking up salt and getting command of the qualities of the two elements in it consists of dissolving about one part of common salt in eight parts of water and passing a given current of electricity through it. The resultant fluid is a great bleacher and disinfectant. A gallon of it will kill all the germs in a day's drinking water of a city like Washington.

A thousand American cities sterilize their water with these products of Niagara, which have done more than any other agency in the hands of the sanitarians to wipe out water-borne epidemics. In the hospitals of France and England they form the active part of mixtures used to sterilize the wounds of the soldiers.—National Geographic Magazine.

Argentina's Wheat Crop.

Reports from the Argentine state that weather conditions are ideal for the growth of wheat. The official preliminary estimate is for a crop of 240,000,000 bushels. The large crop of 1915-16 was 173,000,000 bushels, and the average for the five preceding years was 140,000,000 bushels. Domestic requirements are about 70,000,000 bushels. The large crop now growing will be available some time after January 1 if transportation is furnished.

The Argentine oats crops is estimated at 88,000,000 bushels, or 12,000,000 bushels more than the crop of 1915, of which 57,000,000 bushels were exported.

To drive a tank, handle the guns, and sweep over the enemy trenches, takes strong nerves, good rich blood, a good stomach, liver and kidneys. When the time comes, the man with red blood in his veins "is up and at it." He has iron nerves for hardships—an interest in his work grips him. That's the way you feel when you have taken a blood and nerve tonic, made up of blood root, Golden Seal root, Stone root, Cherry bark, and rolled into a sugar-coated tablet and sold in sixty-cent vials by almost all druggists for past fifty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This tonic, in liquid or tablet form, is just what you need this spring to give you vim, vigor and vitality. At the flag end of a hard winter, no wonder you feel "run-down," blue, out of sorts. Try this "Medical Discovery" of Dr. Pierce's. Don't wait! To-day is the day to begin! A little "pep," and you laugh and live.

The best means to off the machinery of the body, put tone into the liver, kidneys and circulatory system, is to first practice a good house-cleaning. I know of nothing better as a laxative than a vegetable pill made up of May-apple, leaves of aloe and jalap. This is commonly sold by all druggists as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and should be taken at least once a week to clear the twenty-five feet of intestine. You will thus clean the system—expel the poisons and keep well. Now is the time to clean house. Give yourself a spring house cleaning.—Adv.

Little Shy on Manual.

A Wall street clerk received his commission in the navy because he earned it, and not through pull. Below decks, in the engineering division, his rating was unusually high, but he was a little shy on military requirements. A few days ago he visited his brother, an enlisted man at one of the near-by camps, and a score of seamen stood at attention upon his appearance.

They would probably be standing stiff and upright yet, only the brother saved the day by whispering to him: "Say, 'As you were.'" He did, and the men relaxed.

Severe Test.

"It may be true that kind words never die," remarked the Observer of Events and Things, "but it must be admitted that a sudden fall on an ice-covered pavement is apt to put a sort of a crimp in them."

WHITE OAKS

Messrs. McGarry of Florence, Alabama, Sloan and Jones of Ohio were in White Oaks last week and were negotiating for land on which to begin operations in search of iron which they are certain can be found in paying quantities.

The masquerade ball given recently was a grand affair. "A Man of Mystery" of Las Cruces impersonated George Washington and Miss Frances Wells as Liberty, made a good patriotic combination to lead the grand march, and also won the prize of one half a dozen silver spoons. Prof. and Mrs. May furnished the music and sang many patriotic songs. The affair was a grand success.

Miss Bertha Wells left for El Paso Monday to take a thorough course in a business college in that city.

Everybody prepared to attend the Red Cross Benefit Dance March 16th. The Red Cross calls you.

Mrs. M. F. Wells has received a letter from her son Gordon. He is at Pago Pago Tutuila Samoa on the U. S. S. "Sanona."

Wayne Van Scoyk and Bob Taylor motored over to Luna county seat this week.

Judge Hewitt took a trip to Santa Fe a few days ago.

Dock Freeman has acquired a new strip of land just north of White Oaks.

The Littell Eating House at this place is fast becoming a popular dinner resort for the "high fliers" of Carrizozo. Hardly a Sunday passes by that there is not from three to five car loads of them at the noon hour.

And still this old camp appears to be the Mecca for so many of the eastern mining experts of the country—yellow legged decorations or just plain cut—looking for anything from a wee, tiny tungsten blossom to a mountain of iron ore. And we have it all here to be bought at a fair price but not leased.

Coal Chute Going Up

Workmen are busy on the new coal chutes which were destroyed a short time ago by fire. They are being built stronger and will be more conveniently arranged than before.

The railroad management has suffered much inconvenience with loading the engines, but will soon have this bothersome feature eliminated, and we will again hear the rumble of the coal chutes.

REV. JOHN F. MEASELLS

Rev. Jno. F. Measells of Las Cruces will be here Monday, March 18th, to preach at the Baptist Church for a week or ten days. He is a wide-awake young man who has lately come to New Mexico from the Lone Star State. He is a splendid preacher, so say those who have heard him. Let everyone in Carrizozo go and hear him, and judge if they care to, but above everything pray for him that God may use him in bringing many souls to Christ. YOUR FLAG AND MY FLAG

On an East Bound Train

A sad thing occurred a short time ago, on an east bound train. It was on one of these warm evenings we have lately experienced, and the smoking car contained a good natured bunch of traveling men, who smoked and joked as the train rumbled along.

Immediately in front of this jolly crowd, sat a fat man with a full grown hill of snuff brown whiskers that covered his adams apple, and a halo of hair that encircled a neatly waxed skating rink on the top of his head. The merriment of the drummers was painful to him. After much fretting and pulling the bell cord of his whiskers he finally slept. He not only slept, but he snored until the smoking car trembled. He snored by note; the tones rising and falling with marked regularity, until he would now and then swallow a part of his tongue, when he would manfully struggle to overcome the interference, while the drummers vainly hoped he would die.

With a violent lurch the train came to a full stop that sent one section of his false teeth half way down his throat, and while struggling to bring them to the surface, the brakeman tapped him on the shoulder and said, "Here's your town Mister, we only stop a minute, you'll have to hurry."

With a sound that echoed through the car like the death gurgle of a bath tub, he recovered the lost portion of his teeth, gave a look of reproach at the jolly crowd of drummers and made a headlong dash for the door. Some infernal fool, as he termed him, threw a banana peeling in his path, causing him to wheel, stagger, and finally fall into the lap of an unmarried lady of about forty five summers who sat deeply interested in a book entitled, "Wood and Won."

As he fell his valise became unlocked and articles of all sorts were scattered about the car. Shirts, collars, socks, several saythe stones, a meat axe, two porous plasters, a desert water bag and several bean sandwiches decorated the passengers right and left.

He recovered himself and making for the door, disappeared in the darkness, as the train moved on.

On the return of the brakeman one of the men asked, "What town was that?" The brakeman answered, "Coyote." "Why, you put him off at the wrong town. He belongs at Duran."

KIDNEY TROUBLE NOT EASILY RECOGNIZED

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected

An examining physician for one of the prominent life insurance companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

We find that Swamp-Root is strictly an herbal compound and we would advise our readers who feel in need of such a remedy to give it a trial. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots. Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MR. BROWN BEAR.

"Hello," said Mr. Brown Bear in his growling voice.

"By the way," said Mr. Brown Bear. "To be sure the letter B. in the cousin's name stood for Brown, but then it was not used, so there would be no confusion."

"Have you had a good sleep?" asked Mr. Brown Bear.

"Fine," said Mr. B. Bear. "How about you?"

"Oh, I slept like a top."

"What's a top, and how does it sleep?" asked Mr. B. Bear.

"I'm sure I don't know," said Mr. Brown Bear. "But when folks sleep particularly well they always say that they sleep like tops."

"Have you no idea what tops are?" asked Mr. B. Bear, who was quite a curious animal.

"Yes, I think I know. And to know a thing is better than to have an idea about it."

"You said just a moment ago that you didn't know, and so I asked you if you had an idea."

"I forgot for the moment," explained Mr. Brown Bear. "I am still so sleepy that I have forgotten what I know and what I don't know."

"Tell me about the top," begged Mr. B. Bear.

"A top spins around and around and it's a toy which children play with."

"Then what is the sense of saying people sleep like tops?" asked Mr. B. Bear.

"Surely people do not want to spin around and around when they sleep. They don't do that, do they?"

"I don't imagine that folks do spin around when they sleep," said Mr. Brown Bear. "I guess that saying has no sense to it."

"It's a pity it's used, then, isn't it?" said Mr. B. Bear.

"It is," agreed Mr. Brown Bear. "But I don't suppose we can do anything about it. People are not apt to ask our advice on any subject—it's funny that they don't."

"Not so very funny," sniffed Mr. B. Bear.

"By the way," said Mr. Brown Bear.

"By the way," interrupted Mr. B. Bear. "Is there some way by which we can find the best food when the spring comes?"

"That's only another saying," said Mr. Brown Bear. "I meant that I thought of something I wanted to tell you."

"Tell me; I am interested in hearing."

"Well," commenced Mr. Brown Bear. "Just before I went to sleep for my winter nap I heard some folks talking as they drove on the wooded road."

"I'll be glad to get home," said one.

"Why?" asked the other.

"Because I'm as hungry as a bear," said the first.

"And, by listening closely," continued Mr. Brown Bear, "I discovered that they seemed to think that to be as hungry as a bear meant to be as hungry as possible for a human being to be."

"Now, it annoyed me, it did. In the first place, we sleep all the winter. Now and then we come out on a good warm day like this, but we go back to sleep in no time."

"Hello," said Mr. Brown Bear. "We really sleep all winter. And for that time we don't eat at all. We live on our own fat. We have no regular meals—and for that matter—we don't even have irregular meals."

"True," agreed Mr. B. Bear.

"So I think it most unfair for folks to say 'I'm as hungry as a bear,' when bears spend a good portion of the year in sleeping and not in eating."

"But we do make up for the time we don't eat when we have such huge meals in the fall," said Mr. B. Bear.

"We eat ahead of time."

"No matter," said Mr. Brown Bear, who insisted upon having the last word. "It's unfair, and when I stop to think of it, it's very nearly as senseless a thing to say as that speech about sleeping like a top."

Real Presence of Mind.

"You chaps talk about nerve and keeping cool under fire, but I've seen a finer bit of presence of mind here in humdrum old England than any of you men who have lived in the thick of things. I was motoring with a friend, and as he was driving through a village he lost control of the car. It dashed into the post office, smashed through the plate-glass window, and finished up by turning on its side and burying the postmaster."

"My friend picked himself up, advanced to the girl who was standing behind the counter—or what was left of it—took out a penny, and said: 'Two ha'penny stamps, please, miss.'—London Tit-Bits.

The Vernacular.

"My dear woman," asked the literary sium visitor, "do you periodically castigate your offspring?"

"I dunno," said the lady of the tenement, suspiciously.

"He means," translated the settlement-worker, "do you ever wallop your kids?"

Peruna Relieved My Cough

I Feel as I Did Twenty Years Ago.

Mrs. Gertie Ehardt, 219 East First St., Kewanee, Illinois, writes: "I have taken six bottles of your Peruna for a cough, and I am all well. I went over to see a neighbor one day and I had a terrible cough and my eyes were sore. She gave me half a bottle of Peruna last November, and it did me so much good that I bought a bottle, and then when I had finished that I got another, and so on until I have taken almost six bottles and I feel like a new woman. I am fifty-nine years old, and since I have taken the Peruna, I feel as I did twenty years ago. I will always keep Peruna in my house."

Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations

Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says:

"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Kitten vs. Landscape.

It is possible that a story loses nothing in the telling when told by Mr. Charles Hanson Towne, the gifted editor of McClure's, but this is the way Mr. Towne tells it.

He says that not long ago, at the Players' club, Mr. Childre Hassam approached Mr. Oliver Herford and said:

"Why do you always paint kittens, kittens?"

"It is true that I often paint kittens, kittens," retorted Mr. Herford, fixing Mr. Hassam with his eye, "but at least I do not call them landscapes."—New York Sun.

We are not simply to occupy space, but to occupy it well.

Not Altogether Deficient.

For dinner fried chicken had been the special dish, the leftovers set aside for the evening meal. Some one had carelessly left the door of the refrigerator open, whereupon the cat proceeded to help itself to the tempting morsel. When mother discovered this she lifted the cat out with her foot, not any too gently. Ralph exclaimed: "Oh, mother, don't hurt that little kitty, for it has feelin's if it hasn't think-ums."

Indefinite Statement.

"The Germans say the English will have to give up Gibraltar." "Oh, that's a bluff."

An old toper says it's the drinking between drinks that hurts a fellow.

Triplex Glass to Be Made Here.

It is announced from London that a group of New York financiers has acquired the patent rights for the manufacture of a triplex glass for war purposes. At present this glass is used in aviation goggles, automobile windshields, port lights of ships, observation windows, chart covers and so on. The manufacture of this glass in America will begin shortly, the plant for the purpose now nearing completion.—Scientific American.

22 Million Families in the United States

IF EACH FAMILY saved one cup of wheat flour it would amount to 5,500,000 pounds, or more than 28,000 barrels. If this saving was made three times a week, it would amount to 858,000,000 pounds, or 4,377,000 barrels in a year.

You can do your share in effecting this saving and really help to win the war by omitting white bread from one meal today and baking in its place muffins or corn bread made according to this recipe:

Corn Meal Muffins

1 cup corn meal	2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 cups flour	No eggs
1 teaspoon salt	1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon Dr. Price's Baking Powder	2 tablespoons shortening

Sift dry ingredients together into bowl; add milk and melted shortening and beat well. Bake in greased muffin tins in hot oven about 20 minutes. Same batter may be baked as corn bread in greased shallow pan.

MAKE A GERMINATION TEST

Home-Made Device Will Tell Value of Seeds—Clean Small Grains Before
Sowing—Send Sample to Agricultural College.

The seed trade has voluntarily agreed to label all field seeds with the percentage of pure seed that will grow, giving the purchaser exact information as to quality. The United States Department of Agriculture urges all farmers to buy their seeds only from dealers who comply with this agreement and not to run the risk of buying high-priced, unlabeled seed that will not give a stand in the field.

Make Germination Test.

Get your seed early and make a germination test of it before sowing. Count out 100 seeds; put them between folds of moist paper or cloth between two dinner plates and keep at room temperature for four days; then count the sprouted seeds. If 45 seeds sprout the seed is good; if only a small part of them sprout the seed is either poor or the test was not properly made. If in doubt as to the value of the seed send a sample to your state agricultural experiment station or to the Seed Laboratory, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., with

SCREENING SEED MAY PREVENT NEW DISEASE.

Screening out the shriveled grains from wheat seed before planting will remove one cause of spreading the new bacterial disease of wheat which has been discovered in many states of the middle West. This has been learned by specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture who, in co-operation with the experiment stations of Kansas and Wisconsin, are studying the problem of controlling this disease. Wheat kernels that are plump do not contain bacterial cavities, but shriveled ones often do.

SEED DEALERS TO FURNISH INFORMATION WITH PRODUCT.

According to a plan agreed upon by representatives of the seed trade and representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture in conferences last year, seed dealers will provide the following information with all lots of ten pounds or over of field-crop seeds which they sell:

1. Name of seedman.
 2. Kind of seed.
 3. Proportion of pure live seed present, with month and year of germination test.
 4. Country or locality of origin in the case of the following imported seeds: Beans, soy beans, Turkestan alfalfa, and red clover from southern Europe and Chile.
- Since the seed trade conferences, practically all the larger seedsmen have individually agreed to conduct their business in accordance with these suggestions.

the request that it be tested for quality, including percentage of purity and germination.

Don't take any chances with the quality of the red clover seed you sow this spring.

High Price of Seed.

Never before has the price of red clover seed been so high as it is at the present time, and never has the quantity of seed on hand been so small in proportion to the acreage to be seeded.

In years when the demand for any kind of seed exceeds the supply, all available seed is put on the market and much of the seed is of poorer quality than in normal years. Therefore, every farmer before sowing should know what proportion of the seed he buys cannot be expected to grow. If one lot contains 90 per cent of seed that will grow and another lot contains 64 per cent of seed that will grow it will take three bushels of the 64 per cent seed to sow the same number of acres that two bushels of the 90 per cent seed will sow.

This is important from the standpoint of cost alone when red clover seed is selling for $20 or more per bushel. It is much more necessary, however, to know the quality of seed in order that the rate of seeding may be proportional to the quality, so that enough live seed will be sowed to insure a stand in the field. First know how much of the seed may grow and then sow accordingly.

NEW COAT OF MAIL

Entire Tunics of Tarnished Silver,
Dropped From Neck to Knees.

Warrior-Like Corsage Is Embroidered
With Pearls, Brilliants and Flashes of Steel—Jewel Headdress.

Not only Cheruit, but many other French dressmakers, have lent their ear to making a pronounced fashion out of silver tissue. Two years ago, observes a prominent writer, we grew excessively weary of evening gowns made of superimposed pieces of tulle on a metallic foundation, and when the thought of silver and gold tissue presents itself as a fashion, we turn away from it in a petulant manner.

But wait! This revival of a coat of mail for women, the warrior's uniform of ancient days which no modern fighter would touch, is another and a more pleasing thing than the evening gown of metallic cloth.

Entire tunics, in the twelfth century fashion, are made of tarnished silver dropped from neck to knees, or longer, over skirts of blood red or midnight blue satin or velvet. Except for the costliness of the material, the tunics have all the simplicity of primitive dressing. Their introduction into the early spring fashions has brought about a quantity of silver used in every way.

Mme. Simone of the Theater Antoine in Paris, is wearing, I hear, a wonderful gown which is being copied for this country. It is of silver cloth faced with red, hanging in panels on the ground over a slim, tight skirt that clings to the figure as she walks. The warrior-like corsage is embroidered with pearls, brilliants and flashes of cut steel. To it she adds a warrior's headdress made of the same jewels as in the corsage and mounted on silver cloth.

Wherever silver can be flicked in and out of a frock to enliven it, the designer loses no chance of trying out her ingenuity through this channel. When she abandons the Russian blouse of gold and bronze metallic cloth, which drops over a skirt of bronze satin, she takes the same material and uses it in bands, cuffs and high, wrinkled collars that enclose the chin like a fence.

It is a strange idea, this bringing out of a new coat of mail for women as the spring approaches. Is it a re-

POLKA DOTS AND WIDE BRIM

The novel use of polka dots combined with a large inverted brim makes this hat delightfully entrancing. It is designed for the tourist who wishes to bring joy to herself and all beholders, and is fabricated in blue and white satin, with the polka dots as the sole trimming.

SOME SPRING FASHION TIPS

Linen Blouses With High Collar Are Popular—Pumpkin Color Is Worn
With Navy Short Jacket Suit.

A swagger linen blouse of white recently seen had a high collar, plaited frills and long bands of rose-colored linen, which were stitched all the way down the upper part of the sleeve. The effect was decidedly new and interesting, observes a fashion writer in the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Very smart and attractive are three-piece or middy suits evolved in silk and cloth combinations, and these have very becoming lines for youthful figures. Decidedly unique is this idea: Pumpkin yellow handkerchief linen is developed into a mannish, tucked front sleeveless blouse to wear with a navy suit whose jacket is short and boxlike in the latest fashion line.

Effective catfitching in heavy silk is seen for spring.

ignition of their first victory toward suffrage and the fact that they may be counted as warriors today in civic, national and war work?

ATTRACTIVE SPORTS COSTUME

This is just the suit for the girl who is going gunning for beaux, for it is well equipped with holster pockets. Of course she won't need a gun. The whole effect of this tasty costume is one of readiness for sport. It is fashioned of durable jade dress corduroy that will stand up under the severest usages. A collar faced with French blue satin and Norfolk straps on the jacket complete the costume.

FASHIONS AND FADS

Suits have straight skirts. Topcoats are made of taffeta. The silhouette remains unchanged. The finest suits are the simplest ones.

Foulards are becoming very plentiful. Afternoon dresses are made of etamine.

Straight one-piece dresses are made of linen.

There is some evidence of a return of laces to favor.

Black-and-white checked materials are favored.

Pretty turbans are made of green leaves and rosebuds.

There is a return to volles, both printed and plain.

There are some very pretty evening gowns all of chiffon.

Slipover blouses are thought very well of in some quarters.

Button-back blouses also find their place in many spring lines.

Hats are of the simplest shape, depending entirely on line.

Venice lace is slowly pushing itself into favor among laces.

buckle forms the belt on a white velours waistcoat made to go with a short jacket of navy tricotine suit. The result is most pleasing.

Many different colored piques are used for collars and cuffs or lingerie blouses for spring, and this same material forms many of the smart vests and waistcoats made from spring suits.

A delicate gray handkerchief linen is used for some of the most attractive handmade blouses that have arrived from Paris.

Linked Buttons Fasten Front.

Not only do cuffs but entire front fasten with linked buttons as instanced in a beige tricotine suit. They are found starting in center, under the semi-circular pin tuck which simulates a yoke on this model which contrarily has no open front.

Silk Jersey Jumpers.

Decidedly charming are the silk jersey jumpers slipped on over perfectly simple plain skirts, and emphasis of outline can be imparted through the simple means of a sash.

"Blue" and Worried?

"Blue" worried, half-sick people should find out the cause of their troubles. Often it is merely faulty kidney action, which allows the blood to get loaded up with poisons that irritate the nerves. Backache, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder troubles are added proofs that the kidneys need help. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands thank them for relief from just such troubles.

A Colorado Case

Mrs. Daisy Brum, "Daisy Peter Tell a Story" boy, 114 Twelfth St., Greeley, Colo., says: "I had a steady ache in my back and frequent attacks of dizziness made me feel weak and miserable. My kidneys acted irregularly. My feet swelled and ached so that I could hardly stand on them. For three months I hardly slept at all and was so nervous I couldn't lie still. I used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and the trouble is now entirely gone and I am in good health."

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/4 oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off. Adv.
