CARRIZO HONORED; LEWIS JONES ONE OF HEROES ON U.S. SHIP

German Raider Captured in Neutral Waters—Gives Big Portion of Glory to Our Home Boy.

"Hurrah for Lewis Jones!" He is included in the Naval forces who captured the first German prize in neutral waters. The steamer Agassiz, which was at one time owned by Miss Maud Lochrane, was recently sold to agents of the German government, sailed from San Diego January 27th for Mexican waters and entered into the business of sailing the coast as a raiding vessel.

The U. S. Naval authorities were not long in finding out the intention of the roving steamer which succeeded in making its way to Santa Rosalia, and thence to Mazatlan. The steamer was commanded by Fritz Bauman, and was fitted out for the raiding business, without the slightest knowledge of the fact that their actions were being well observed by the agents of Uncle Sam.

The United States war ship which made the capture, kept an eye on the Agassiz, and when she thought the coast was clear made an attempt to sail, thinking they would be regarded as a harmless tender.

They guessed wrong. The American ship was too fast for them, however, for hardly had she started, when the U. S. ship signalled for them to stop. She refused. Our boys planted a well aimed shell in front of the raider's bow. She stopped immediately.

While the U. S. ship was bearing down on the Agassiz, the crew threw overboard everything possible they could to destroy the evidence that would convict them of the guilt of raiding, but our boys boarded their vessel in time to save the engines from destruction and secured a goodly amount of arms, ammunition, and a secret cipher, the importance of which is yet to be disclosed.

Ladies of The Star

The Order of the Eastern Star, held its regular meeting last Wednesday night, and after the regular order of business was disposed with, Mrs. Harriet Russell, was duly initiated into the mysteries of the order.

Following the initiatory ceremonies, light refreshments were served. The attendance was large, as usual, as aside from the deep interest taken in the affairs of the order, its influence will be far reaching in helping to win this war and establishing peace on the face of the earth.

Honda was a little into getting into the Red Cross movement, but since we started there has been "mumpin deen" all the time. The chapter was organized about two weeks ago with a membership of fourteen; since then new members have been added every day, until at this time there are about thirty members and a Junior Red Cross Auxiliary being organized in the public school.

Following the custom of getting up entertainments for the purpose of raising funds for the purchase of material etc., it was decided to have a musicale on the evening of the 29th of March, to be followed by a dancing party. A program of vocal, and instrumental music was carried out that was pronounced the finest ever produced in this valley. The various numbers were rendered in a most excellent manner, especially those by the children; notable among these was the Flag Song, by four lassies from the Tinnie school, with Miss Pollock, primary teacher at that place accompanying on the piano. The duet (When my Ship Comes In) by Miss Gretchen and Ralph Dixon, violin accompaniment by F. Grover Hightower and the solo "When I'm Big I'll Be a Soldier," by Master Croe Hightower was heartily enjoyed; a humorous recitation in negro dialect "Sir as Yo'self," by Mrs. Mabel Smith, the popular and efficient principal of Lincoln school, was the hit of the evening. Mrs. Smith's impersonation of the love-lorn "darker gal" trying to effect a reconciliation with her "Rafus Rastus" was fine.

After the musicale, which was held in the primary room the audience passed out to the principal's room where they danced for a couple of hours. At eleven o'clock coffee and cake was served by the local ladies. The refreshments were donated by local members and by ladies from Lincoln and Tinnie as well, and were most splendid.

Taken altogether the entertainment was one of the most enjoyable that it has been your correspondent's pleasure to ever attend, as well as most satisfactory from a financial standpoint, something in excess of $43.00, being the receipts.

A beautiful crocheted table cloth, made by Dolores Ullas, an aged Mexican, was raffled off Sunday at Honda and won by G. A. Theworth of Glendon, who in turn donated it to the Red Cross to be raffled off again.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Browning was over from the Upper Rio Grande to attend the entertainment.

The Misses Clark and Pollock, of Tinnie, lent their valuable aid to the entertainment.

Mrs. George Dixon, principal of the Honda officiated as master of ceremonies in becoming manner.

Grover Hightower and Oscar

Alford rendered fine music for the occasion.

Thanks to the neighboring towns for assistance.

Mrs. J. V. Tully of Glendon was among the visitors from that place.

Roy Coe, H. P. Clarke, and J. G. Lucas, were here from Glendon.

F. S. Hulbert and wife with T. J. Knight, brought cakes from Lincoln for the occasion.

Miss Clara Poppin, and Mrs. Mabel Smith of Lincoln School, added much to the success of the occasion.

Our New City Officers

On last Tuesday, the people of Carrizozo, elected a Mayor, Clerk and Board of Trustees who will manage the affairs of the city for the next two years.

The gentlemen selected, are among Carrizozo's foremost business men, being connected with our different business interests. Mr. Campbell the new Mayor, is directly identified with the Lincoln State Bank, and connected with other business enterprises, in the city. He will head the administration, with the full confidence of the people to back him up, which means success to the interest of the town.

The Trustees, Messrs French, Sager, Ziegler, and Paden, are all like the Mayor—deeply interested in the growth and well-being of Carrizozo, and will back the executive in all his firm plans and performances, which are so vital and important to us all, as citizens. Brent Paden, who succeeded himself as Town Clerk, has made a splendid record for himself, as was evidenced by the fact that he has no opposition and the people just simply would have him agree to serve again. The town has a good Mayor, Board of Trustees and Clerk. Could we ask for more?

Teachers' Association

The attention of the public is hereby called to the fact that the Lincoln County Teachers' Association will convene in the town of Carrizozo, April 12 and 13, at the hour of 2:00 in the afternoon.

The program committee endeavored to give those in attendance, a program rich, rare and racy, as will be evidenced by the following program:

SCOTTISH RITE MASONS EXTINGUISH SEVEN SYMBOLIC LIGHTS

Carrizozo Membership Join in Observance of Ancient Custom, Which is Obligatory to Rites.

Last Thursday was in Masonry "Maundy Thursday" and Carrizozo Masons who have been honored with Scottish Rites observed the ancient custom of extinguishing the seven symbolic lights at their hall over the Exchange Bank.

The lights that are extinguished on Maundy Thursday are not relighted until Easter morning, the feast of unleavened bread and the paschal lamb are also eaten on the occasion. Carrizozo has about twenty Scottish Rite Masons, who joined in the services.

At Santa Fe the custom was observed in more elaborate fashion in the Motezuma Lodge room of the temple. The following toasts were given:

1. To the government of our country.
2. To the Supreme Council.
3. To the Sovereign Grand Commander.
5. To the deputy of the Supreme Council.
6. To the memory of the brethren of the degrees, whose labors here below have ceased during the present Masonic year.
6. To all regular Masons and Masonic bodies of all Rites and degrees over the surface of the earth. Honors and laurels to the worthy; health to the sick; comfort to the needy; and succor to the oppressed everywhere.
7. To the ladies.

These toasts are not only fitting and appropriate, but are highly obligatory being considered sacramental and cannot be omitted.

Doctor Lucas Receives Call

Dr. R. T. Lucas has received his final call which directs him to Ft. Riley, Kansas. He leaves Carrizozo Sunday night, fully equipped for military surgical duty, and is assigned to the rank of first Lieutenant. The Doctor has the kindest and best wishes of his many friends.

$30.25 for Red Cross

Wednesday night the Carrizozo Theatre donated the entire receipts to the Red Cross. The amount donated was $30.25 and Messrs Pitts and Wetmore are to be commended for their interest in the movement to assist the cross financially. The Crystal Theatre responded in a patriotic and unselfish manner by closing their doors and helping the movement by their patronage.

THE DEEP SEA PERIL

By VICTOR ROUSSEAU

"Of course I love you," he responded sadly. Somehow his heart was utterly overcast; it was as if he had looked into the face of immortal beauty. "Of course I love you. Won't you try to sleep, Ida?" he asked.

"Yes," she answered, releasing herself. "But you don't love me, Donald—I know!"

And slowly she withdrew into her cabin, leaving Donald a prey to intense bewilderment and despair.

Who was she, this almost invisible beauty? Had she followed him here, aboard the ship, or—swimming behind the submarine? Was she another species of the sea devils?

Suddenly, for the first time since their conversation, he recalled Masterman's words:

"I brought my specimen home with me. Think of that, lad! She didn't want to eat. They don't eat after they are mature, Donald."

Now it came to Donald with conviction that the old captain had had reference to—this woman!

And, straining his eyes through the darkness, he saw her again.

But this time there was visible upon her face an expression so pitiful that it almost brought the tears to Donald's eyes.

She was watching him with a dumb yearning of inexpressible pathos. That look reminded Donald of the old legend of the mermaid who could obtain a soul only from some human lover.

An idea came to him. He would go up into the conning tower; in that narrow space he could see her better and understand what she was.

But as he stood in the passage, at the bottom of the trapdoor, Clouts appeared before him. It occurred to Donald afterward that he had been there for a considerable time.

"It's all right, sir!" said Clouts. "You told me to call you when you was to go on duty, and it's all right."

"What's all right?" demanded Donald.

"It's all right, sir. I understand such things," said Clouts.

"Clouts, what the devil are you talking about?"

"It's all right, sir," replied Clouts for the third time, pointing before him.

And in the passage, not more than a dozen feet away, Donald saw the woman's form.

His anger vanished. He took the sailor by the arm.

"Clouts," he said, "do you suppose we could get her into the conning tower?"

"I don't know, sir," said Clouts, shaking his head. "If she's willing to go, sir. That's the question, sir."

"Clouts"—Donald's voice sank to a whisper—"you must understand that this isn't a woman—at least not a human one. She's—she's—"

"Quite so, if I might say so, or thereabouts," said Clouts.

"And do you think you could get her there?"

Clouts scratched his head. "I suppose so, sir," he answered. "But she'd have to come out again, you know."

"That's what I intend," said Donald desperately. "Back into the water—through the airlock."

"Push her in, sir?"

"Lead her in, Clouts. Put on my coat and let her follow you. Then, when you've got her inside, put on the last diving dress and see that she—that she doesn't come back. I don't mean you to hurt her. She can live under the water, you know. And, while you're about it, Clouts, you might see if you can adjust the rudder."

For a moment Clouts and his captain looked hard into each other's eyes. Then Clouts' grim face softened. Putting his hands to his pocket, he drew out his mouth organ, and the soft strains of "Annie Rooney" went up into the air. Clouts played it through with quiet resolution.

"I'll do it, sir," he said.

Donald turned and saw that the woman of the sea stood exactly where she had been throughout that interview. She had not stirred.

He waited while Clouts found the last diving suit in the storeroom, and then the two went back into the mess-room. Presently Clouts emerged, encased in his cylinder, and holding the glass mask in his hand. About his shoulders he wore Donald's coat. Donald waited within.

He heard the conning tower trapdoor close, and after that he could hear nothing. He waited an indefinite time. Suddenly a soft splashing of water told him that the lower levels of the sea were being agitated by the condensed oxygen in the airlock. There followed silence. The sounds were cut off abruptly, and for a long time Donald waited.

His nerves were so tense that when Clouts opened the door he started violently. He peered into the sailor's face.

"I've done it, sir," said Clouts. "She followed me like—like a dog, sir. And I saw her eyes when I pushed her into the water, and I don't want to see a look like that again. It felt like murder, sir."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Donald angrily. "You know perfectly well, Clouts, that she wasn't on board when we started. Therefore, she must have come in with us from the sea bottom."

"I know, sir," said Clouts, shaking his head mournfully. Then, unable to control himself, he clapped his hand to his mouth organ.

And Donald waited alone, sleepless, while the dreary night wore on.

CHAPTER XII.

Afloat and Ashore.

He must have fallen into a light doze at last, for he awakened to find Davies at his side. The middy's voice cleft the thick darkness like a knife.

"We're done for, old man!" he whispered. "We'd better not awaken her. Listen!"

Hitherto no sound from without had penetrated the thin plates of the submarine, but now Donald distinctly heard a cracking noise, as if some pressure were being exerted against the sides of the vessel.

"We're breaking up, sir."

"You mean—?"

"It's that gang of devils, Donald. Do you mind letting me grip your arm a minute, sir? It's in a way disturbing."

The sounds grew louder. The plates were groaning under pressure, and it seemed every instant that the rivets would start and the water rush in.

Looking Over the Rocks, They Saw a Man in a Large Motorboat.

"It's the weight of the ocean over us, Davies," said Donald, without the faintest faith in his diagnosis.

"But this pressure is horizontal, not vertical, Donald. And water has no horizontal pressure at all."

Donald was silent. He would not voice what was in his own mind, but he knew that his explanation was nonsense, meant to deceive not only Davies, but himself also. The sea monsters must be pushing against the bottom of the F55, to break her by their own weight and get at their prey within. Maddened by hunger in those barren solitudes of darkness, they were a frenzied army of destruction.

He wondered whether Clouts' act was in any way the cause of this new activity.

The pressure increased. The steel plates crackled as trees snap in zero weather.

Donald looked up and saw Ida standing in the doorway.

"Is anything wrong?" she asked, coming forward to Donald.

He could not answer her, and she did not repeat the question, but stood looking intently at the two men, who watched each other. It was impossible that Ida could help understanding the meaning of the sounds without.

She came close to Donald. "Forgive me for what I said, dear," she whispered, clinging to his arm. "I was so afraid—not of death, dearest, but of the loneliness in that room. I was afraid for you."

He patted her arms without speaking, and led the way to the conning tower again. It was preferable that they should die, if they must, by suffocation, rather than in the maw of the monsters. Inclosed within those stout walls of steel, they could at least hope to find a perpetual tomb there.

The pressure was still increasing. The floor of the conning tower began to tilt. Surely this was the end!

But the floor righted, tilted, righted once more. A sense of movement succeeded that of pressure. Then, to their utter amazement, a white light shot through the observation port, flooding the inside of the conning tower, and the F55 scraped the rocks.

Donald grasped at Davies. "Davies! We are at the surface again!" he cried.

There was no doubting it. The moonlight flooded the interior of the tower, and before their eyes, seen through the port, were the rugged outlines of Fair Island. The monsters must have raised the submarine by the united force of their massed bodies.

"This time," said Donald, "we are going ashore to stay."

"Amen!" said Davies solemnly, and the three grasped hands.

A few moments later they emerged upon the drying deck of the D55. She was back in her old position upon the shelving beach, at the very edge of the waves. The moon, which rode high in the sky, was already paling before the increasing luster of the dawn.

"Where's Clouts?" asked Donald suddenly.

"Isn't he below?" queried Davies.

Donald raised his voice and shouted. He ran below, calling for Clouts. But there came no answer. It soon became evident that Clouts was not on the submarine.

"Good Lord!" said Donald.

It occurred to him then that he had told Clouts to look at the rudder, but he had never supposed that the man would be able to adjust it. Had he forgotten, gone back to adjust it, and failed to return?

He took a couple of revolvers and gave one of them to Davies. They went ashore. The firm rocks underfoot seemed the most delicious part of their strange fortune, and gave reality to what was still hardly more than a dream.

They knew that there was no danger of attack in the moonlight. Nevertheless, they remained near the boat. And each of them called for Clouts, firing his revolver, and listening for any response.

But there was no response. It was evident that, for some reason unknown, Clouts had gone into the sea. They went to a cave and began to make a quick examination of it. In the midst of this work a whirling sound came to their ears. It was that of a gas engine.

Looking over the rocks, they saw a man in a large motorboat hurrying round the promontory. Donald hailed him with a yell. There came no answer, but the boat continued to make toward them.

The man in the boat raised his head. It was MacBeard. He stopped the engine and lay to, about a couple of hundred yards away. He drew a handkerchief from his pocket and waved it.

"The d—n rogue!" muttered Davies, raising his revolver.

It was indeed Professor MacBeard. And he appeared distressed. At least he flew the distress, or parley, signal, and his movements seemed altogether more agitated, and his demeanor less bland than on the preceding afternoon.

Whatever his nocturnal work had been, it seemed to have been cut short by the dawn, which had driven the monsters to seek shelter in the ocean depths. He seemed to have come from the other side of the island.

"Truce!" he seemed to shout, although the sound, echoing from rock to rock, was not clearly audible. "Truce!" He waved the handkerchief frantically.

Donald and Davies fired together. They saw the bullets strike the water. MacBeard crouched down behind the engine. There could be no parleying with such as he.

They emptied their weapons in their fury. MacBeard was just out of range. He started the engine again and came to a halt fifty yards farther at sea.

"Truce! I want to speak to you," he yelled.

They aimed their empty revolvers. MacBeard started for safety. His boat disappeared round a distant point of the island.

"The devil!" said Donald. Then he turned to Davies.

"We'll take on supplies, at any rate," he said. "One thing is sure: those devils might raise the submarine, but they can never sink her, once the tanks are blown."

"They were blown when we submerged, sir," answered the middy. "The deflected rudder kept us down. But we can't go down unless we try to start her."

"Miss Kennedy!" Donald called to Ida, who had disappeared within the cave.

She did not answer him, and the two men approached to summon her. But just within the cave they saw something that revived for a moment the old horrors which they had escaped. They were two human skeletons, with fragments of clothing near them. Donald stooped and picked up a morsel.

"Khaki—government khaki!" he said. "I wonder who—"

But the explanation became too obvious when, projecting from behind a rock near by, they saw the wing of an airplane. The missing aviators had been found. And the manner of their death was only too clear. They must have been seized, while sleeping, by the sea devils.

The airplane, which was of the hydroplane type, had evidently been drawn within the cave and left there by the aviators. A hasty examination showed Donald that it was uninjured. Perhaps MacBeard had intended to make use of it; or it was possible that he had not seen it, for it was hardly distinguishable among the shadows.

"Miss Kennedy!" called Donald. "Ida! Where are you? Don't go too far!"

No answer came, and they began to grow uneasy.

PICTURE WRITING ON WALLS

Ranchman, While Hunting for Lost Cow, Makes Important Archaeological Discovery in Canyon.

J. L. Ford, a ranchman of the Pecos neighborhood on the west side of the Rio Grande, near Las Cruces, N. M., reports what may be an important archaeological find.

In hunting for a lost cow he was led into a deep canyon where his attention was attracted by picture writing on the canyon walls. These were done in a yellow pigment and were apparently very old. They represented a lightning bolt, deer and spearheads.

Several mortars were also found, in two of which the pestles still remained. This canyon is near the cave from which several years ago was taken the mummified remains of a man, supposedly that of an Indian, with an arrow protruding from his chest.

Mark Hanna's Aztec Servant.

An introduction to some of the leaders will show that there are brains as well as bullets behind the Zapata movement.

Gen. Alfredo Serratos was a former lawyer, who had made a good record as a soldier. It will surprise Americans to learn that he was at one time a servant of Mark Hanna, the noted politician of Ohio. His history is a romantic one. As a homeless waif he was taken to the United States by an American, who promised to give him an education. In Cleveland, O., the American died, and young Serratos was left stranded. For three years he worked at the home of Senator Hanna, mowing lawns and caring for horses. Later the young Mexican returned to Mexico and studied law. He speaks three languages fluently. In the convention cabinet he was elected secretary of war. These were some of the men who were Zapata's lieutenants and advisers.—Christian Herald.

Fuel From Peat Bogs.

The fuel famine in France has directed attention to extensive peat bogs, heretofore despised, which may aid as much to solve the problem as the lignite deposits of the center of France, provided the question of labor is solved.

The "Grande-Bruyere," near St. Nazaire, and the region of Culoz, according to expert estimates, hold 80,000,000 tons of dried peat, affording an average of 2,000 calories a pound, or about half the heating power of coal. Considering the greater facility of production, it is figured that one workman can extract a number of calories in peat far superior to the average production per minute from coal.

Society's Battles.

The two men in blue were exchanging confidences on the veranda of a big military hospital.

"Did you go to the big society party they gave for us wounded fellows yesterday?"

"Yes," said the other, and shuddered.

"What did you think of it?"

"Believe me, old bloke, I'd rather have another ball go through me than go through another ball."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

What the Hawthorn Says.

There is a road from the eye to the heart that does not go straight through the intellect. Men never dispute that the Hawthorn says the brightest and wittiest thing about the spring—change.

Strength Gave Out

Mrs. Schmitt Was Miserable From Kidney Trouble Until Doan's Came to Her Assistance. Now Well.

"My kidneys gave out during the change of life," says Mrs. Margaret Schmitt, 65, Alabama Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. "My back ached and pained as if it were broken. When I moved in bed, sharp, darting pains caught me across my back and I couldn't turn. Mornings I was stiff and sore and it felt as if heavy weights were tied to me. I was so worn-out, I often came near falling from dizziness and flashes of fire would come before my eyes, blinding me."

"I had the most severe headaches and my kidneys didn't act regularly. The secretions passed too often and caused much distress. I was hardly able to do my housework and just to walk upstairs took all my strength."

"As soon as I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, I improved and six boxes put me in better health than I had enjoyed for years."

Mrs. Schmitt gave the foregoing statement in 1916 and on April 6, 1917, she said: "My cure has been permanent. I keep Doan's on hand, however, and take a few doses occasionally."

IN THE SPRING

will be the great test of a life and death struggle on the Western front. In the everyday walks of life, it is the spring time that brings ill health. One of the chief reasons why the run-down man finds himself in a bad state of health in March or April, is because he has spent nearly all his hours for the past four or five months penned up within the walls of house, factory or office. It is the reason for our diminished resistance—that is, lack of out-door life, coupled with perhaps over-eating, lack of good exercise, insufficient sleep, and constipation.

In other words, we keep feeding the furnace with food but do not take out the "clinkers," and our fire does not burn brightly. Always keep the liver active. There is nothing better for health than taking an occasional mild laxative, perhaps once a week; such a one as you can get at any drug store, made up of May-apple, jalap, aloes (sugar-coated, liny, easily taken), which has stood the test of fifty years of approval—namely, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. But for the "Spring Fever," the general run-down condition, the lack of ambition, the "blues," one should take a course of treatment every spring; such a standard tonic as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, now to be had in tablet form in sixty-cent vials. Watch the people going along the street. There's no spring, no vitality. A vitalizing tonic such as this vegetable extract of Dr. Pierce's gives you the power to force yourself into action. The brain responds to the new blood in circulation, and thus you're ready to make a fight against stagnation which holds you in bondage. Try it now! Don't wait! Today is the day to begin. Gain a little "pep," and laugh and live. Vim and vitality are the natural out-pouring of a healthy body. It does not spring up in a night. Try this spring tonic, and you gain the courage that comes with good health.

METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. Lewelling, Pastor

Sunday School, at 9:45 a. m. New time. Come and swell the attendance. Good teaching a specialty.

Preaching services, 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Large Choir and orchestra to lead the music. Come and Bring a Smile.

Epworth League at 7 p. m. A meeting of Good Cheer.

Missionary meeting at the home of Mrs. G. B. Barber Wednesday, April 10 at 3 p. m. Let all the ladies be present.

Easter services at the Methodist Church.

The church was prettily decorated, the program rendered by the Sunday school was elaborate and enjoyable, the Easter spirit pervaded the people. At the close of the service Mrs. Anna Stimmel, Misses May and Olivia Kennedy, were received into the church.

The sermon on the resurrection was delivered at the evening hour to a large and appreciative audience. The music was superb and the Spirit of joyous brotherhood prevailed.

There are unquestionable evidences that every department of the Church work is moving forward.

New Mex. Troops Are Fine

New Mexican troops are reported as being in splendid shape and ready for any duty. As the figures are compared it is found that the state has given its full quota and more to the nation, the per centage of volunteers for the regular service being larger.

"NUMBER ONE"

By ALICIA CHALLONER.

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

"You won't feel offended, or—scold me, will you, Mr. Ward?"

A culprit, fair enough to be irresistible to the most hardened anchorite, pleaded with dewy eyes and soulful face. They stood at the gate of the home of Winifred Sumter. There had been a tennis party and somehow Albion Ward had lingered and Winifred had encouraged him.

All through the afternoon she had devoted herself to his company. She had done so purposely. To this man she felt that she and her family owed more than they could repay. Albion Ward never dreamed that they were aware of facts in the career of Ned Sumter, brother and son, which he supposed to be a buried secret between Ned and himself.

Those two had been college chums. Ned Sumter had got into a scrape that meant not only expulsion at the most critical juncture of his college career, but public disgrace. Albion Ward had stepped into the breach. He had money and he spent it lavishly to clear Ned. He took the blame Ned should have suffered.

"You will stay quiescent," declared Albion in his impassive but determined way, "or I'll wreck the future of half the class, by implicating all who were mixed up in the miserable horse play business of blowing up the founder's monument on the campus. What are graduating honors to me? I'm a broken, worthless fellow, a wreck from drink and will be worse as time goes on. It's born in me and I can't resist it. Take the lesson this ugly escapade has taught you, Ned, and keep to the road called 'Straight' after this."

What Winifred Sumter hinted at was no fiction. Young, brilliant, the favorite and heir of an indulgent uncle, a curse rested over him as it had over his father before him. He was no sot, but no restrictions could prevent him from getting liquor when one of his drinking spells was on him.

It had come about that Ned had insisted upon his going home with him one vacation. Those were two weeks to be remembered. For the first time in his life Albion Ward felt the sway of a spirit so pure, so gentle, so friendly, nay, more, loving, that he seemed transplanted into a new sphere. Then one night in a neighboring town a great storm came up. The village tavern offered its hospitality and its temptation. Shutting himself up in a room all by himself and well supplied with the fiery liquid, he, Albion Ward, for a whole week was lost to friends.

"I'm not fit to even look at your sister, much less impose my wretched society upon her," declared Albion suddenly, to Winifred's brother.

"At least say goodbye to her," appealed Ned. "She knows of your fall from grace, as others do, but she is full of sorrow, more than that, pity for you. Old friend, can't you brace up for her sake?" So Albion consented to bid adieu to Winifred, and it was as his brief call was ended that she placed a trembling hand on his arm with the words:

"You won't feel offended, or—scold me, will you, Mr. Ward?" and he had bowed his head and clenched his hands hard to endure the shame he experienced.

"Miss Sumter," he said huskily, "I am unworthy of your interest. If I ever do anything worth while it will be through the memory of this holy hour. You must not think of me. I—I will try to overcome—goodbye."

He was gone, and the next day Winifred sank like a stricken dove when her brother entered her presence with the exciting intelligence:

"Ward is No. 1. He was the first to sign the honor roll of volunteers and don't cry or worry, mother, Winifred, for he showed me my duty and I joined, too."

And a few months later, in a lonely spot at the front in far away France, No. 1 and No. 2 crouched in a cave-like indentation of a high hill as a deafening crash was followed by a shower of shattered rock and earth around them.

They had been chosen to undertake a secret important mission.

Just approaching a part of the rugged ledge along which they had crept foot by foot, suddenly from the plain below where a great field piece was operated by the enemy, a shell came hurtling towards them. It landed so close that the rock splinters penetrated their uniform in a dozen places. Ned was partially stunned, Albion dragged him into the cave-like shelter. There came a second shell. It landed directly at the entrance to their retreat. "Don't waste time," directed Albion in feverish haste. "They have the range. You can make the first shot in safety between the shells. Run for your life when I give the word."

Bewildered, as he was dragged from cover, protesting, as his comrade gave him a vigorous push one way and himself darted the other, Ned groaned as a hissing shell struck the face of the rock and a great blast obliterated No. 1 amid the heaping debris.

"It is the end for poor Albion!" he moaned, as he reached camp in safety. But lo! it was only the beginning. For they found the fearless hero hours later, battered, wounded, insensible. The camp was ringing with his daring exploit for weeks. They carried him triumphantly on their shoulders when he was invalided and sent home, where Winifred possessed herself of the hand that was not in a sling and her tears fell upon it.

Our achievements are less than our intentions usually. Let us aim high.

Ramires—Zuniga

At four o'clock Saturday afternoon, Pascual Ramires and Viviana Zuniga were united in marriage at the office of the County Clerk. Justice of the Peace Harvey officiated with his usual display of dignity, and the office force, a few chosen relatives, together with a newspaper man, acted as witnesses. The parties are both from Polly. They returned to that place after the ceremony.

BACKYARD POULTRY GROWING

The city or town man who keeps a small flock of hens not only is saving money but is helping his country. Every pound of poultry raised and every egg laid releases just so much pork and beef for our armies and allies, according to L. W. Burby, poultry husbandman stationed at the agricultural college by the United States department of agriculture.

Poultry will not prevent one's growing a garden. Twelve hens confined in a pen big enough for exercise and provided with green feed will furnish a goodly number of eggs for food. A packing box and a little poultry netting are all that is necessary for building a house and run.

For egg production a rooster should not be kept, as he is noisy and has a large appetite, but has no influence on the number of eggs produced.

The poultry grower should not depend too much on table scraps for feeding his poultry, points out Mr. Burby. Enough feed should be given to keep the birds in good condition and sufficient excess to produce eggs. The hens will eat vegetable peelings and fruit scraps if these are put through the food chopper and mixed with a little mash. A good mash consists of four parts of bran, two parts of shorts, and one part of high grade beef scraps, by weight.

Plenty of green feed should be used. This cuts down the amount of grain necessary. It is desirable to feed to the poultry the green weeds and thinnings from the garden, also the misshapen and wormy vegetables, and tough corn, unfit for human consumption.

Optical Glass Playing a Big Part in the World Conflict —Needed by All Departments

That every field of military endeavor depends upon the supply of optical glass is the statement recently made by Prof. Edward W. Washburn of the department of ceramic engineering at the University of Illinois.

"The war could not be conducted without optical glass," said Professor Washburn. "Telescopes, binoculars, officers' lenses and photographic plates for army and navy observation purposes, X-ray bulbs and microscopic lenses for the medical and sanitary corps and many other necessary implements of a modern army would be struck out if it were not for the ceramic industry," explained the lecturer.

"Previous to the war," Professor Washburn said, "Germany manufactured 100 different kinds of optical glass, an assortment which supplied the whole world. England boasted about twenty varieties of glass. The United States produced none whatever. England's product was not nearly sufficient to meet the demand of the allies and Britain found it necessary at the beginning of the war to collect all field glasses and small telescopes owned by citizens."

Doctor Washburn then told how America is meeting the same problem under the direction of a special committee on optical glass manufacture.

"As a result of activities of this commission," according to Professor Washburn, "American industry is now supplying all the optical glass urgently needed by the army and navy."

Prison Labor Bill Provides For Use of Inmates of Penal Institutions in Road Making

Many state and county administrations are utilizing prison labor in road work.

Governor Brough of Arkansas has announced that 75 to 100 convicts will be used continuously on road work in his state. A sentiment is growing in favor of imprisoning all vagrants and placing them at work on county highways. This method of utilizing prison labor, where it is conducted under proper conditions, has always had the endorsement of the national committee on prisons and prison labor, and a provision for road building has been incorporated in the prison labor bill.

An important feature is that of requiring the payment of a wage to the prisoner. Such a wage will make it possible for the prisoner to contribute to the support of his dependents and at the same time will prevent unfair competition with free labor. The passage of the bill will give impetus to the movement for the employment of prisoners in road work and in other occupations affected by the national emergency.

Ever since the United States entered the war the demand for utilizing the prison labor supply confined in the penal and correctional institutions of the country has steadily increased. Reports made to the national committee on prisons and prison labor show that the demand for this labor comes from practically every organization which has as its purpose some work related to the prosecution of the war. National and state food, fuel, freight, farm and fish commissions are seeking prison labor. State and county commissions are meeting to discuss the problem.

Many of the proposals made will not be realized until the passage in congress of the prison labor bill introduced by Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia and Representative Charles F. Booher of Missouri. This bill has been introduced through the efforts of the national committee on prisons and prison labor and the American Federation of Labor to promote the use of prison labor in the war emergency and also to prevent exploitation of the prisoner.

Potato Menus Provide for Breakfast, Dinner, Supper

Use potatoes, urges the United States food administration, making public a menu which provides potatoes from morning until bedtime. Here it is:

BREAKFAST

Cornmeal mush with dates.
Potato and meat cakes (very little meat).
Coffee, with milk for children.

DINNER

Mutton stew. Macedolins of vegetables.
Boiled potatoes and lettuce salad.

SUPPER

Soup with potato crotons.
Puffy omelet with tomatoes.
Baked potatoes.
Scotch fancies and chilled fruit.

Potato crotons are made this way: To one cupful of mashed potato add one egg yolk and beat well together. Spread half an inch thick on flat oiled platter and when cold cut in two-inch squares, then each square diagonally to form triangular pieces. Brush over with milk and brown lightly in the oven or in a very little fat in the frying pan.

Mother's Cook Book

The people who indulge in honeyed phrases seldom have any fear of eating their own words.

Lenten dishes this year have no worriment for the housewife who has been keeping lent all winter by meatless, wheatless, porkless days. Eggs are at present so high that when using them the frugal cook tries to extend them by adding something to the dish which will give bulk and not detract from the attractiveness of it.

One good dish may be made by using rice with egg. Put a quarter of a cupful of rice well washed into a frying pan with a little sweet chicken fat; fry it until yellow, then add some chicken broth or, lacking that any good vegetable liquor which has been saved because of its mineral content. Cook until the rice is tender, season and stir in three eggs, carefully cooking, add butter, salt, paprika, and serve as scrambled eggs. This dish will serve five or six people, saving two or three eggs.

Tomato Rarebit.

Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan; when bubbling hot add a tablespoonful of flour; when smooth add a cupful of strained tomato and when cooked smooth and thick add a half cupful of grated cheese, a half cupful of milk and a well beaten egg. Stir until the egg sets, season well and serve on graham crackers.

French dressing made as follows with thick sweet cream added is especially good with sliced cucumbers: Use three tablespoonfuls of olive oil, one of vinegar, a half teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of powdered sugar, a dash of cayenne pepper, and when well mixed and blended stir in three tablespoonfuls of thick whipped cream. Sour cream may be used.

Rye Popovers.

Mix and sift together a third of a cupful of rye meal and two-thirds of a cupful of wheat flour; add salt, two beaten eggs and one cup of milk; mix and fill hot buttered pans; bake 40 minutes.

Mexican Rice.

Fry three pieces of salt pork or bacon until crisp, then add a third of a cupful of rice, four tomatoes, one large pepper and a medium-sized onion, all cut up, and pour over the rice and fat. As it cooks add vegetable water saved from draining potatoes or other vegetables; season well with salt and pepper, add a few dashes of paprika and serve very hot.

To The American People

There is no foundation for the alleged violations of law attributed to our Company by agents of the Federal Trade Commission and I want to say emphatically that Swift & Company is not a party to any conspiracy to defraud the Government. Nor has Swift & Company been guilty of improperly storing foods or of making false entries or reports.

Conferences of packers, where prices have been discussed, have been held at the urgent request and in the presence of representatives of either the Food Administration or the Council of National Defense. And yet the packers have been accused of committing a felony by acting in collusion on Government bids!

We have done our best, with other packers, large and small, to comply with the directions of the United States Food Administration in all particulars, including the furnishing of food supplies for the U. S. Army and Navy and the Allies, now being handled through the Food Administration.

We will continue to do our utmost, under Government direction, to increase our production and assist the Food Administration. We consider that the opportunity to co-operate wholeheartedly and to our fullest powers with this branch of the Government is our plain and most pressing duty.

The Trade Commission Attorney has, by false inference and misplaced emphasis, given to disconnected portions of the correspondence taken from our private files and read into the Record, a false and sinister meaning with the plain purpose of creating antagonistic public opinion.

The services of the packers of the United States are most urgently needed, and I regret exceedingly that we should at this time have to spend our efforts in defending ourselves against unfounded, unproved, and unfair assertions such as are being daily made public.

CO-OPERATIVE FARMING IN MAN POWER NECESSARY TO WIN THE BATTLE FOR LIBERTY

The Food Controllers of the United States and Canada are asking for greater food production. Scarcely 100,000,000 bushels of wheat are available to be sent to the allies overseas before the crop harvest. Upon the efforts of the United States and Canada rests the burden of supply.

Every Available Tillable Acre Must Contribute; Every Available Farmer and Farm Hand Must Assist

Western Canada has an enormous acreage to be seeded, but man power is short, and an appeal to the United States allies is for more men for seeding operation.

Canada's Wheat Production Last Year was 225,000,000 Bushels; the Demand From Canada Alone for 1918 is 400,000,000 Bushels

To secure this she must have assistance. She has the land but needs the men. The Government of the United States wants every man who can effectively help, to do farm work this year. It wants the land in the United States developed first of course; but it also wants to help Canada. Whenever we find a man we can spare to Canada's fields after ours are supplied, we want to direct him there.

Apply to our Employment Service, and we will tell you where you can best serve the combined interests.

Western Canada's help will be required not later than April 5th. Wages to competent help, $50.00 a month and up, board and lodging.

Those who respond to this appeal will get a warm welcome, good wages, good board and find comfortable homes. They will get a rate of one cent a mile from Canadian boundary points to destination and return.

THE GREAT WAR HAS MADE
CIGARETTES A NECESSITY.

"Our boys must have their smokes. Send them cigarettes!" This is a familiar appeal now to all of us.

Among those most in demand is the now famous "toasted" cigarette—LUCKY STRIKE. Thousands of this favorite brand have been shipped to France. There is something home-like and friendly to the boys in the sight of the familiar green packages with the red circle.

This homelike, appetizing quality of the LUCKY STRIKE cigarette is largely due to the fact that the Burley tobacco used in making it has been toasted. "It's toasted" was the "slogan" that made a great success of LUCKY STRIKE in less than a year. Now the American Tobacco Co. is making 15 million LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes a day.

A good part of this immense production is making its way across the water to cheer our boys. The Red Cross has distributed thousands of LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes.

Lincoln County Oil Co.

On Friday March 15 the Lincoln County Oil Co. composed of the following named gentlemen of Oscura filed articles of incorporation; Robert W. Burns, Ben S. Burns, Dr. Robert E. Blaney, Seth F. Crews and W. H. Corwin.

The object of this corporation is to deal in oil and all its products; in oil lands and oil leases to own and operate oil wells; and to buy and sell such oil wells and the products of same.

The amount of the total authorized stock, no stockholders liability, is $250,000.00 divided into 25,000 shares.

The gentlemen who head this promising enterprise are well known in Oscura and Carrizozo, being connected with business projects in both places. Shares in the new oil company are selling rapidly and as soon as the required amount of stock is subscribed, the work of drilling will follow as fast as possible.

The company starts out with bright prospects, as in the opinion of experts, oil in paying quantities is to be had in this district, which the company will operate, and before long we may expect some important news from the Lincoln County Oil Company.

Citizens' Mass Meeting

On Monday, April 1st, the citizens of Carrizozo got their heads together and concluded to call a meeting to ascertain the wishes of the voters as to who would be their favorites for Mayor and Trustees, for the coming term.

In order to inform the populace of the meeting, signs were painted on the sidewalks of the town, and hand bills were scattered. The meeting was held in the Wetmore Building.

Promptly at eight o'clock, with a good representation of citizens present, the meeting was called to order by Ira O. Wetmore, who explained the object of the same. Upon the announcement that the selection of officers to preside over the deliberations of the meeting was in order, George Spence was chosen as chairman, W. H. Osborn as secretary, John E. Bell, Brent Paden and A. L. Burke, tellers.

The first in order was the selection of a candidate for the office of Mayor. H. S. Campbell was unanimously named as the choice of the meeting, and as an evidence of that fact, all placed themselves on record by a standing vote. The next in order was the selection of four trustees, which produced some friendly discussion as to just how they should be selected. The matter was soon settled by an agreement that the four receiving the highest number of votes after the ballot was cast, would be considered the nominees of the meeting. Nominations being in order, F. S. Sager, J. B. French, Albert Ziegler, Dr. Paden, John E. Bell, C. P. Squier, O. W. Bamberger, I. O. Wetmore and J. E. Kimbell, were nominated, with Mr. Kimbell declining.

After the votes were counted it was found that Sager, French, Ziegler and Paden, the highest on the list in the count, were declared duly elected as trustees to assist the Mayor in protecting the interests of Carrizozo for the ensuing term.

The selection of a candidate for the office of clerk was next in order, and on motion Brent

BY THE GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO
A PROCLAMATION

The law of the State of New Mexico designates certain days, particularly the Fourth of July, called Independence Day, Public Holidays. It further provides that any day appointed by the Governor of the state as a day of thanksgiving or fasting and prayer, or other religious observance, shall be a Public Holiday.

April sixth, next, is the first anniversary of our entry into the war for the freedom of the world. That freedom, if delivered at all, must be delivered by the United States of America; New Mexico is one of these states. Citizens of New Mexico, let us not deceive ourselves longer.

Up to the present time, Germany is winning this war. Germany, the Cave-dweller, the wild beast among nations. Germany, by cunning, by barbarity, by atrocity beyond the pale of civilization, subjugating the world. Now, today, the fate of Civilization hangs in the balance. There is no longer room on this earth for Freedom and Germany. Which do we choose? Of course, as our fathers of old, we choose Liberty. Are we, as were they, ready to die for Liberty? Let us be sure of that.

Now therefore, I, W. E. Lindsey, Governor of the State of New Mexico, do appoint April sixth, 1918, a day of prayer, or other religious observance and a Public Holiday. May the clergy, on that day, proclaim from every pulpit, the Liberty of the God of our Fathers in contrast with the Slavery of Odin and the sword, the mailed fist, the poisoned gas, the submarine assassin and the liquid fire.

Our gallant sons are in the trenches, on the soil of France, and their blood of our blood is shed daily in the holy cause of Liberty. Liberty for us to pray and to sacrifice. Liberty and Freedom.

This is a time sacrifice and labor. Let us save food, save clothing, buy Liberty Bonds and re-dedicate our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor to the support of the Government in the prosecution of the war.

This is a time for militant patriotism. Let us cease to speak of peace without victory, prod the citizen who sleeps while Liberty perishes, suppress the seditious, kill the traitor and entrain the spy for hell. Otherwise, Civilization must perish and Liberty die.

To every man, woman and child in New Mexico, let me appeal: That you support your Community Council of Defense, your County Council of Defense, your State Council of Defense—aiding them with diligence.

Disloyalty must be first whipped on its own ground.

Service is individual, and these councils are the agencies of the people and the state for lighting the torch of Liberty in each community, hamlet, town and city. Look at the casualty lists from the trenches, from the battlefields—on and under earth and in the sky—from the high seas and underneath its waves. Think of the fate of the Belgians, the French, the Serbians, the Italians, the Armenians and the Russians. Think if their fate was our fate.

Doubtless their fate will be our fate if Germany wins the war.

"Set up the standards upon the walls of the — United States — make the watch strong."

I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of New Mexico to be affixed. Done at the City of Santa Fe, this 25th day of March, A. D., 1918.

(SEAL) W. E. LINDSEY,
Attested—ANTONIO LUCERO, Secretary of State.

Paden was the choice of the meeting by a standing vote.

NOTES OF THE MEETING

Wm. Brady acted as interpreter for Chairman Spence in a prompt and dignified manner.

The only vote in opposition to the selection of Brent Paden for clerk was the Doctor, which shows that a prophet is not without his reward, save in his own country.

There was only one vacant chair in the hall, and that belonged to Postmaster Haley.

At the close of the meeting, Mr. Wetmore invited the good natured crowd to the Carrizozo Theatre.

Latest Indiana Lie

When you do hear from Indiana, you may expect to hear a good one. Here's the latest, "A hen on the farm of Robert Buell near Greensburg, in the Sandusky neighborhood, has adopted a number of pigs and mothers them each day as if they were members of her own brood. One sow on the place has ten of the little fellows and Mother Hen looks after some of them, covering as many as she can every night. This is an out of the ordinary story close to home."—Greensburg News.

Now for Victory

THE War Savings Stamps and certificates offered by the United States Government makes patriotic service possible to all. Every 25-cent Thrift Stamp you buy is more than a silver quarter safely loaned at 4% interest, compounded four times yearly. It is a measure of your self denial, made at a critical time in the cause of Freedom and Democracy.

These stamps and certificates place a wonderful opportunity before every man, woman and child, to become an investor in Government securities. This Bank will gladly explain them to you as well as supply you with them.

Remember a $5.00 saving certificate for $4.12 this month—the cost is more in February.

"SOME SORT OF A BISHOP"

Eminent Churchman May Safely Leave

Who Know Him.

Bishop Greer of New York, who is a great friend of Bishop Whitehead of Pittsburgh, entered a restaurant recently and sat down opposite another man. After a time he and the man engaged in a casual conversation and the stranger finally said:

"You look somewhat like a clergyman, sir."

"Well, I am one," said Bishop Greer.
"Oh," said the man, "is that so?"

"Yes," nodded the bishop.
"Your work is here in New York, I suppose?" the man continued.

"Yes," said the bishop.
"Just what is your parish?" asked the stranger.

"Well," answered Bishop Greer, "I really haven't any definite parish. I—er—"

"Some sort of a bishop, then, I assume," said the man.

The waiter at this time brought Bishop Greer his check.

"Yes," he answered as he rose to go. "I'm some sort of a bishop."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

TRAILING ARBUTUS FLOWERS.

"We mustn't waste any more time," whispered one of the trailing arbutus family to another.

"Oh, Dear, I'm a Little Shy."

"It must be too soon. There aren't any." But they looked under some of our leaves and several of us were trying to peep out as fast as we could, so we would not disappoint the children.

"Many of our sisters and brothers were picked and I believe they came out later on in water."

"But those same children have come back every year, and now they are almost grown-up. They always say,

"Here is the first place we find these lovely spring flowers." And so we know what is expected of us."

"How did you learn all that?" asked the first arbutus. "This is the first look at the world I've had."

"It's my first look, too," said the second arbutus, "but I almost feel as if I know all about the world, for the leaves have whispered to me when we were under the snow all about the glorious world."

"Ah, yes," continued the arbutus,
"every year as our family goes away
as the different flowers are picked,
they whisper to the leaves:

"Don't forget to tell the buds in the spring that they must be the first to come out. It's expected of them.
Remember to tell them."

"And so we know we must come out soon."

"Yes," said the first arbutus, "that's why I'm out. I thought perhaps you had been here before."

Just then they heard a rustling of leaves and then some laughter.

"I believe those are the voices of children," said the first arbutus.

"Oh, dear, I'm a little shy," said the second arbutus. "I must hide."

And it hid a little under the leaves.

Most of the arbutus family are shy,
and they always hide under the leaves.
But once they are picked and put into water they are shy no longer, and they give a glorious fragrance all around them, to let grown-ups and children know how happy they are they can give pleasure.

"We must look under the leaves," said one child. "I've heard this is the place where they come out first every year."

The arbutus flowers nudged each other and rustled a trifle under their leaves. "It's just as I said," the second arbutus whispered.

"Yes, it is," said the first arbutus.
"Won't they love it when they see us hiding here? We're having a little game of hide-and-seek—that's all!"

"Look!" exclaimed the children.
"Here! Here! Lots of them. Oh, aren't they beautiful, the lovely pink sweet flowers."

The flowers smiled. "Good morning, children," they seemed to say. And how bright and pink and happy they looked.

"It's true," said
one of the children, "this place is famous for the first arbutus of the year."

"There," thought the leaves to themselves, and the roots which
were left behind,
we will have to
tell the flowers
the same thing
next year. Oh, how sad it would be if we ever lost
our fine reputation?"

"But I'll hurry things up next spring," said one of the roots.

"So will I," said another.

And off the children went, carrying the biggest bunches you ever did see of trailing arbutus flowers. And the flowers whispered secrets to the children, but as the children didn't understand flower talk, they didn't know that they were hearing secrets.

This is what the flowers were saying: "We hide our heads under the leaves because we're shy, but we love children and the whole beautiful world, so pick lots of us, and we'll be bright and gay."

But the children only knew that the flowers were very, very fragrant, and oh, so very sweet!

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER

has been a household remedy all over the civilized world for more than half a century for constipation, intestinal troubles, torpid liver and the generally depressed feeling that accompanies such disorders. It is a most valuable remedy for indigestion or nervous dyspepsia and liver trouble, bringing on headache, coming up of food, palpitation of heart and many other symptoms. A few doses of August Flower will immediately relieve you. It is a gentle laxative. Ask your druggist.

Chopping Him Off.

"Ah, Mr. Gloom!" began the suave representative of a large Eastern publishing house, who called on only the few persons in each community who were of sufficient culture to appreciate the valuable works which he was purveying. "I recognize you instantly. A gentleman told me of your remarkable resemblance to Daniel Webster, and—"

"Ah, yes!" interrupted J. Fuller Gloom. "The likeness is truly astounding—neither Dan nor I ever had more than one nose. But, still more amazing, I also greatly resemble the late Captain Kidd, in that I never give nor ask quarter, especially to or from a book agent."—Kansas City Star.

Got a Laugh Anyhow.

"There is not going to be any more marrying in Indiana," said old Judge Daniels, a crusty old bachelor.

"How is that?" asked his nephew,
who had just got married.

"I see the legislature has passed a law forbidding weak-minded persons to marry, and they are the only ones who ever think of doing such a thing."

As old Daniels is rich, both the nephew and his young wife laughed heartily at the wit of the old man.

GIRLS! MAKE A BEAUTY LOTION WITH LEMONS

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoother and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is truly marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands. Adv.

HOW WAR MIGHT BE ENDED

London Newspaper Suggests Trying the Effect of Ring of Ill Omen on the Kaiser.

Could the king of Spain end the war
at once?

According to a French writer this should be possible.

In Madrid, in a certain public square, stands a statue of Our Lady of Almudena; on a gold chain about the neck of the statue hangs a ring richly set with diamonds. Nobody meddles with it. Even thieves let it severely alone.

The reason is plain. For the ring is endowed with a terrible power, as its history proves.

Alfonso XII made a present of it to his wife, Queen Mercedes. Queen Mercedes died a month later. Then the king gave the bauble to his sister, the Infanta Maria. A few days afterward the Infanta died. The ring reverting to the royal giver, was next presented to his late queen's grandmother, Queen Christina, who was dead within three months.

After that the monarch kept the ring in his own jewel casket. Within the year he was dead. Ever since then the ring has hung about the neck of Our Lady of Almudena.

The French suggestion is this: Why shouldn't the present king of Spain send the ring to the Kaiser?—Tit-Bits.

Don't Use Any Other Than Cuticura Soap To Clear Your Skin

W. N. U., DENVER, NO. 13-1918.

Inquisitive Bobby.
Bobby is of the inquisitive boy age.
His father, a physician, took him to his office recently and Bobby asked questions about everything in sight.
Finally he got into a room where the doctor keeps some curios, including a skeleton.

"What's this, papa?" asked Bobby.
"The bones of a man."

"Whose bones, yours?"

"Hardly," the father replied.
A flat worm preserved in alcohol in a glass jar next attracted Bobby's attention.

"Oh, papa, here's a noodle. Got any more? Let's take them home for soup."

Wanted to Be Helped Out.
Mrs. Styles—Will you come over to tea tonight?

Mrs. Myles—Surely.

"And will you bring your husband?"

"Why, yes."

"And your knitting?"

"Most assuredly."

"Oh, yes! I almost forgot. And will you please bring over some sugar and coal with you?"

Some people try to hide their ignorance by saying that they are superstitious.

22 Million Families in the United States

4 CUPS OF WHEAT FLOUR TO THE POUND

If each family used 4 cups of flour less per week, the saving would be 22 million pounds or 112,244 barrels every week.

The greatest help housekeepers can give to win the war is to make this saving and it can be done by using this recipe in place of white flour bread.

Corn Meal Biscuits

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup scalded milk $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
1 cup corn meal 1 cup white flour
2 tablespoons shortening 4 teaspoons Dr. Price's Baking Powder

Save $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of the measured flour for board. Pour milk over corn meal, add shortening and salt. When cold, add sifted flour and baking powder. Roll out lightly on floured board. Cut with biscuit cutter and bake in greased pan fifteen to twenty minutes.

Nogal Notes

A serious accident happened to Adam Zumwalt while making a water trough of a pine log at the Jake Hicks Ranch. The ax with which he was working slipped, cutting his ankle so badly that a physician was summoned and stopped the flow of blood thereby saving his life.

The small fruit such as peaches, pears and apricots have been killed by frost in Nogal Canyon, but the prospects for bumper crop of apples is good.

Mrs. Allen from Ruidoso is visiting her mother, Mrs. Emerson in Nogal.

The wheat bran, which has to purchased with each equal amount of wheat flour, does not take very well here. It makes good cattle feed, however.

James Gatewood is building a six room concrete cottage for Asher Emerson.

Adam Zumwalt made a hasty trip to Carrizozo the first of the month to consult his family physician.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Hedges has been suffering from a partial dislocation of the spinal column.

Department of Justice

The Department of Justice announces, that:

A German alien enemy changing his place of residence to another place within the same registration district shall immediately report such change to the registration officer of the district and present to such registration officer his registration card for the purpose of having endorsed thereon by such registration officer the change of residence. A German alien enemy who desires to change his place of residence to a place of residence within another registration district must obtain a permit. Such German alien enemy must present himself to the registration officer of the district in which he then resides and make application for the permit on a form supplied by the registration officer, and present his card to the registration officer for the purpose of having the permit of change of residence, if granted, endorsed on the registration card. If the registration officer denies the application, there may be an appeal under certain circumstances set forth in Article XIII, Paragraph 3, of the General Regulations, to the United States Marshall of the judicial district for financial action.

A change of residence in violation of the Regulation subjects an alien enemy, among other penalties, to arrest and detention for the period of the war.

The registration officers who acted in the registration will continue to act as registration officers for the purpose stated in respect to permits for change of residence.

We consider this stock an attractive speculative investment at six cents. It should advance very rapidly as the season opens for successful field operations. Trinity is in the hands of practical oil men who confine their drilling operations to proven territory. It has secured producing wells on its 400-acre tract in Kansas, which is proved on every side by its production. Its holdings there and in Thornton, Oklahoma and other fields are described in detail in our Trinity circular, which will be mailed upon request.

SAVE BILLIONS BY STOPPING FOOD LOSSES.

Increased Forces of Federal and State Experts Will Help Farmers Fight Pests of Wheat, Corn, and Other Crops This Year.

MAKE BATTLE ON FOOD PARASITES

Billions of Dollars' Damage to Crops Has Been Prevented.

SPECIALISTS URGE BIG WAR

Assistance to Be Given Farmers to Reduce Injury Caused by Insects, Diseases, Mice, Rats, Squirrels and Other Rodents.

Every effort should be made to prevent losses in production, storage, and transportation of food in these days when the conservation of every product contributing to our food supply means so much, states the United States department of agriculture in its 1918 campaign just announced.

Billions of dollars are lost every year, says the statement, from such preventable causes as insects, plant and animal diseases, carelessness in breeding, predatory animals, rats, mice, ground squirrels and other rodents. These losses are being held in check by present agencies and can be further greatly reduced or prevented at a cost which is insignificant when compared with the amount of damage done. Methods of controlling many of these harmful factors are now well established and should be more widely adopted. A large loss on the farms of the United States results from the improper care of manure, and its careless and ineffective use. In these times of scarcity of fertilizing materials more attention than ever should be paid to the conserving of plant food from this source.

Animal Diseases and Parasites.

It has been estimated that diseases of animals, such as hog cholera, tuberculosis, contagious abortion, dourine, Texas or tick fever, and others, cause annual losses aggregating many millions. Many of these diseases, to a still greater extent, can be prevented or their ravages reduced considerably. The department has greatly extended its facilities for dealing with these matters and will assist farmers in every feasible way.

The annual losses from insects and plant diseases are enormous. It has been conservatively estimated that smuts of wheat alone cause losses aggregating $90,000,000 annually. The staff of specialists in the department of agriculture, as well as the staffs in the state institutions, has been increased, and, in co-operation with the forces in the various states, they will be able to render more effective assistance to farmers during the coming season than ever before.

Predatory Animals and Rodents.

The losses from animals injurious to agriculture and to animal husbandry are enormous. Native rodents cause losses of grain, forage and other agricultural products estimated at more than $150,000,000. House rats and mice levy a toll of $200,000,000 upon the nation's food supply. On the western cattle ranges predatory animals alone cause losses of live stock amounting to $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 annually. Methods of eradication have been developed, especially in the case of rodents, which will make it possible to reduce the losses at a relatively small expense. The department will vigorously prosecute its activities in this field and will assist farmers in every feasible way, in co-operation with the extension forces of the states, to control or eliminate these pests.

More Beans, Peas, Peanuts.

As important features of its supplementary program for feeding the nation, its armies, and the allies, the United States department of agriculture recommends that great attention be paid to the production of beans, peas and peanuts. On these subjects the program states:

"The production of beans and peas should be increased in regions to which they are adapted, because of their high food value, keeping qualities, and availability for domestic or export trade.

"Soy beans and peanuts should be increased in order to supplement beans and peas as human food, as a source of much-needed oil, and as animal feeds.

"The production of beans last year in the six leading states increased from 10,715,000 bushels to 15,701,000 bushels, and peanuts from 35,324,500 bushels to 60,222,000 bushels. But these increases proved to be greatly needed, and there is every indication that large increases will be readily absorbed in 1918.

"The peanut is especially valuable because of the oil it contains, for which the need is great. In the South, especially, soy beans and peanut meal are proving very satisfactory as partial substitutes for wheat. Both soy beans and peanuts are of great value as forage crops."

Some 1918 Garden Needs.

Market gardens near large consuming centers should be increased so as to meet, as nearly as possible, the needs of the community, and in order to obviate the necessity of transporting such products from distant points.

The planting of home gardens, especially for family needs and for preserving food for future use, again should be emphasized.

The commercial production of perishables generally should be increased above normal wherever it is reasonably clear that transportation and marketing facilities will be available.

Is your home Certain-teed?

You pay for insurance against a fire loss that may happen. Are you equally protected against loss that surely will happen if your home remains unpainted,—or poorly painted? Is your property Certain-teed against deterioration and decay?

Wherever there is need for paint or varnish, that need is supplied by a Certain-teed Paint or Varnish made for the purpose. For interior walls, ceilings, woodwork, floors and furniture; for exterior walls, roofs, porches, outbuildings and porch furniture — there is a Certain-teed product made to withstand the use or exposure to which it will be subjected.

Certain-teed

Paints and Varnishes

are more decorative than ordinary paints,—their colors and finish more clear and lustrous. And they are, in the ultimate, more economical; for they spread farther and last longer, and each color is priced according to its cost of production; whereas most paints are sold at a flat price, based upon the production cost of the most expensive color.

For Porch and Lawn Furniture

The man in the illustration is giving his porch and lawn furniture a coat of Certain-teed Porch Furniture Enamel. The sun will not fade its color; rain will not dim its lustre; hot weather will not soften its surface. This enamel, like all other Certain-teed products, is compounded of pure materials, properly proportioned, accurately mixed by machinery under the supervision of paint experts.

Certain-teed Paints and Varnishes are made for all uses, in all colors and in all sizes of cans. Any store that sells paints can supply you. If the dealer you apply to, cannot immediately supply you what you want, he can obtain it promptly.

Term Defined.

"What's your idea of a separate peace?" inquired Broncho Bob.

"Well," replied Pinto Pinto, "the practical kind of separate peace is the kind that keeps a man perfectly peaceable while he is being separated from his money."

Allen's Foot-Ease for the Troops.

Many war zone hospitals have ordered Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder, for use among the troops. Shaken into the shoes and sprinkled in the foot-bath, Allen's Foot-Ease gives rest and comfort, and makes walking a delight. Sold everywhere 25c. Try it today. Adv.

A Precaution.

"What for?"

"You see, my wife persists in using ours this mild weather for fear of a sudden cold spell."

Occasionally there are men who would rather pay their debts than be bored to death by bill collectors.

Easy to figure the Profits

Where in Western Canada you can buy at from $15 to $30 per acre good farm land that will raise 20 to 45 bushels to the acre of $2 wheat — its easy to figure the profits. Many Western Canadian farmers (scores of them from the U. S.) have paid for their land from a single crop. Such an opportunity for 100% profit on labor and investment is worth investigation.

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her

APRIL 15, 1918

Owing to the unusual and very unsettled conditions affecting the automobile field, brought about by the war, we are compelled to put our business on a cash basis, beginning April 15, 1918. Dealers and supply houses are demanding their money upon the delivery of goods, forcing us in turn to ask for cash from our customers.

This departure from the credit system is being introduced by garages throughout the country and we feel that the public will heartily co-operate with us.
