KILLED BY HIS TEAM

While Unhitching at his Home on the Vineyard Stock Farm Three Miles South of Carlsbad.

C. C. COLLINS ALMOST INSTANTLY KILLED

C. C. Collins received injuries last Sunday about 1:30 p. m., by being knocked down and dragged under his hack, from which injuries he died in about two hours and a half. He had just returned from Carlsbad to his home at the Vineyard Stock farm, three miles south, and had stopped at the house and unhitched, dropping three tugs. He stepped in front of his team and unbuckled the breast strap from the neckyoke, leaving one tug still hitched but whether by accident or not is not known.

The horse to which the tug was attached started to plunge and run with Mr. Collins hanging to the halter; the other horse having become unfastened and gone. After the horse to which Mr. Collins was holding by the halter, had run several yards with the hack, or heavy side spring buggy, he was forced to loosen his hold on the animal and was knocked down and dragged some distance by the heavy vehicle. When picked up he was bruised and injured internally. A physician was summoned but could do little to aid the injured man who died in great agony. Deceased leaves a wife and six children, five boys and one girl, the eldest being a son, Henry, about eighteen years of age. Mr. Collins was born about 50 years ago in Tennessee and came to Texas with his parents when but a child. He came here from Fort Worth stopping in Midland where he lived for some time and where a brother resides. From Midland he moved to the plains, thence to Roswell, coming to Carlsbad about six years ago. He and his son were both members of Co. B. N. M. N. G.; and belonged to the rifle team, both being fine shots.

The funeral was attended by the military company who gave the remains a military burial, the funeral sermon being preached by Rev. T. L. Lallance, of the Methodist church. The music by a quartette composed of Mesdames Neeley and Durham, and Messrs. Penny and Armstrong, was very beautiful. "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me," "Abide With Me," and "Nearer My God, to Thee," being the hymns that were sung.

Mr. Collins had been engaged in farming a portion of the Vineyard Stock farm and had good prospects for this season's crops. He was an industrious man of good habits and his sudden and tragic death is a deep sorrow to his family and friends.

Mrs. Collins is prostrated with grief and was unable to attend the funeral.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE

Soon to Convene in Carlsbad. Prominent and Efficient Instructors Secured.

The Eddy County Teacher's Institute will convene July 31, 1911, at Carlsbad, New Mexico, for a period of four weeks. The first two weeks will be more especially for those who contemplate writing for certificates. During the last two weeks many important school problems will be discussed by the older and more experienced teachers of the county. Let every teacher of the county come, and bring their larger pupils. The association will inspire them to greater effort in their school work. Give us of your experience, scholarship and enthusiasm. Let us get acquainted, be helpful to each other, and organize for a great year's work in all of the schools.

W. A. Poore A. B. will have charge of the first two weeks of the Institute. Mr. Poore is a big school man, a fine scholar, a splendid disciplinarian and an excellent instructor.

Prof. John H. Vaughan A. M., of the Agriculture College of New Mexico, will conduct the last two weeks of the Normal. Mr. Vaughan is considered one of the best Institute workers in the South-west. With his splendid scholarship, energy and enthusiasm, we shall expect much inspiration and lasting benefit from his work with us.

Teachers holding permits, or third grade certificates, having taught at least three months within the last year, who attend every day of the four weeks, may draw $15.00 from the Territory.

The regular work will close August 24th, with examinations August 25th and 26th. All teachers who expect to teach in Eddy County must attend at least ten days, or furnish a doctor's certificate for sickness. Teachers who attend summer normals, or other county institutes will be excused upon filing certificates of attendance with the county superintendent.

Some of the text-books needed are: Reed and Kellogg's Grammars, Natural Geographies, Southworth-Stone Arithmetic Book II, Boynton's Civics, Dunn's "The Community and the Citizen," Conn's Physiology, "Primer of Sanitation"—Richie; Dismore's "Teaching a District School," Colgrove's "The Teacher and the School," "Standards in Education" and Titchener's Psychology. The Institute Manual may be secured at the office now.

Those wishing to secure board and room in advance should write this office.

Dr. McQueen Gray will lecture to the Institute August 21. We expect our Territory Superintendent J. E. Clark to be with us sometime during the session.

We hope to have a number of seventh and eighth grade pupils enroll.

School trustees of the county are urged to visit the Institute and acquaint themselves with the work and school matters in general.

A. A. KAISER, County Superintendent.

GEORGE WEBSTER BUILDS.

Geo. H. Webster formerly a resident of Carlsbad and for five years owner of the Vineyard Stock farm, will become famous as the builder of the most expensive and also the most unique home in the United States as the following from the New Mexican would indicate:

Denver, Colo., July 15.—Perhaps one of the oddest dwellings in America, especially for a millionaire to use as a permanent home, will be a magnificent structure upon which work has already started near Cimarron, New Mexico and which will be an exact duplicate of an old Indian pueblo.

The master of this unique residence will be George H. Webster, formerly of Chicago and owner of the famous Uracca ranch comprising 80,000 acres of land in New Mexico, upon which to build his home.

It is the intention of Mr. Webster ultimately to establish a colony of friends around him with all their houses built in a similar fashion.

Architect Mountjoy, is of the opinion that when the structure is completed it will be one of the most picturesque residences in America.

of Mountjoy & French of this city is consulting architect. He says that the house, or pueblo, will be ready for occupancy this fall. The residence is to be situated at the mouth of a rugged canyon with a broad and rolling mesa sloping gently away in the foreground.

Architect Mountjoy says that the exterior of the building will resemble perfectly the quaint Indian pueblos. The foundation will be built of stone, the walls of the finest adobe, and the timbered roof will have a heavy coating of adobe, giving the structure the appearance of having been built altogether of this material.

The rooms are to be arranged around a patio fifty by sixty feet which will have a beautiful fountain in the center and also a parway. The cloister around the patio and the terrace in front are to be terraced. All entrances to the rooms will be from the patio.

According to the style of the old Indian pueblo, the rooms will have ceilings of different heights, thus giving a sloping effect to the building. The interior of the residence is to be strictly modern. The wood work will all be rough hewn and stained and stone fireplaces are to be installed in all the rooms, twenty in number. The exterior of the structure will be plastered with terra blanca, a white mud.

FARMER'S AWAKENING

Heretofore the average farmer has taken a pride in the public schools and churches, in farm buildings and in the appearance of his field fences, but pride in the roads passing his field and over which he has to travel whenever he stirs from his farm has been totally lacking. But an awakening has taken place, and already the farmer is beginning to ask himself why he should not put his roads first instead of last. He is the chief sufferer when they are bad.

WANT MEN TO PATROL HIGHWAYS OF THE STATE.

Town Superintendents of New York Apply For a Thousand Men.

At a state conference of town superintendents of highways held recently at Binghamton, N. Y., which was addressed by state highway officers from all parts of the state, a project was launched for appointing 1,000 patrolmen on the highways of the state.

The plan is to have these men separate from the town superintendents and to do work similar to that of the good roads patrolmen. It is figured that this can be done at a cost of $75 and maintenance of a horse and suitable wagon by some competent resident of each town. The work will last about seven months of the year, the patrolman being paid by the month and not by the hour.

His duties would be to patrol all the roads of the town and wherever he finds it necessary to make repairs such as replacing planks in bridges, filling in ruts, picking stones, repairing culverts, etc. The present system provides that this shall be done by a gang of men and a team, who are often sent out to the farthest corners of the town, taking about a half day to get there and often being compelled to make several trips on this account. It is figured that the patrolmen will not increase the expense, but will provide a system for keeping the roads in better condition. It is believed that 1,000 patrolmen will be appointed under this plan during the year.

Hedges and Weeds.

On some public roads the hedges and the weeds give them the appearance of a wilderness. It causes them to hold the moisture, and to rot and keep the roads soft and muddy. The weeds prevent the use of any part of the road except the narrow path in the center of the lanes, and that wears down holes and ruts in the track.

If the hedges were removed and the weeds cut down, the road would be a good deal better. The weeds would not grow so fast, and the road would be a good deal better.

The Grass We Grow.

It would require a large machine and 150 feet deep to root the grass produced in the United States in an average year.

ROADS MADE OF STRAW.

One Hundred and Forty Miles Bidden Down Around Walla Walla.

One hundred and forty miles of straw roads have been made within a year around Walla Walla, Wash. Straw holds down the dust and prevents the wheels from sinking too deeply into the mud in the wet seasons.

Straw is a favorite road building material and is good while it lasts.

Sagebrush is also used in some places. This latter is tougher than straw and sheds into threadlike filaments with little travel.

MEANING OF LOVE.

Perhaps of all words in human speech none is more elastic than love. It means as many different things as there are minds. It is the one word which when a man speaks it means no more or less than his personality. It is the gist, substance and quintessence of what he is; more, of what he longs to be, for—

"The thing we long for, that we are."

For one transcendent moment, when you say, therefore, that you love a man, a woman, a child or God we can have not much idea of what you mean until we know you. Most folk express their most exalted ideal—the feeling of their union with God—and even describe the nature of duty itself by this word, while vicious and perverted creatures use precisely the same word to express their lowest form of selfishness. — Rev. Frank Crane.

AVOID HARSH DRUGS.

Many Catholics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels.

If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This remarkable, little Royal Cathartic, there are no other anything and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is oil press, tasteless and odorless. Combined with other well known ingredients long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not gripe, purge nor cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak, delicate persons and aged people as well as for the most hearty person.

They come in two size packages, 12 tablets in cents, 24 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain them only at our store—The Royal Store.

Judge Freeman, of Carlsbad, delivered a Fourth of July oration in Victoria, B. C. entitled "Our Neighbors." Who, except Judge Freeman could make a talk that would set well on the minds of both Canadians and the sons of Uncle Sam? But he did. His oration was a fine presentation of our present relations and what our attitude should be toward the subjects of King George on our north, but his remarks about a tacit tho' not open alliance with England can never meet the approval of any who know the nature of the almost bankrupt government of Great Britain. We want no alliance of any kind with any country much less old Robber England. It would be wrong to give England any rights in the Panama Canal not accorded other nations and, as what is wrong should be frowned down every loyal American should be against any such scheme or plot to get us into trouble. Then again the judge refers to the people of the United States as of the same blood, nature, or are representatives of the Aryan race, as those of England. This is wrong again, for the people of the United States are anything but Anglo-Saxon or English. There is more German blood here than English, and far more of Spanish, French, Russian, Italian, or, in fact, any other nation of Europe than English. More than nine tenths of the people of the United States are of other than English extraction. Not to say that the people of English birth and descent are not good Americans or good people, but the people of the United States, as a whole, recent the assertion that they are Anglo-Saxon just as much as the people of Canada resent the idea that some hold that they are English.

Hayti has another revolution.

Cholera has broken out in New York City, where six deaths occurred last Saturday and Sunday.

The senate will vote on the statehood resolution August 7, and that day will settle the matter one way or the other for the present.

Unfounded Race Prejudice.

Most unfortunate is the prejudice against our Spanish speaking fellow citizens and neighbors that has been shown to exist by some of the letters recently published in connection with the topic "Nationality and Ladyhood." It is safe to say that most, if not all, of those who have expressed sentiments derogatory to the Spanish speaking population as a racial group, are comparatively new comers to this section, and have brought their prejudices with them, or have made no effort to understand the Mexican character, or have not been so situated as to become acquainted with it.

Men and women who have lived in this section for many years and who have known intimately Mexican people of the higher type, know themselves when they design that as they types of true gentlemen and true ladies exist in the world than exist among those people we commonly call Mexicans, including the native Spanish-Americans of this country. No distinction has ever been made, socially or any other way, in this part of the country, between English speaking and Spanish speaking white persons. In the schools, public and private, the children of Spanish speaking parents, whether natives of the United States or Mexico, sit side by side with children of English speaking parents, and associate on absolute social equality with them, no questions having ever been raised as to their absolute right to be regarded as social equals, if their qualities of character and personality admitted. There are social differences among white English speaking persons, of the same nationality or of different nationalities: just so, there are social differences among Spanish speaking persons, and among persons of the two groups. But never before in this community has it been seriously suggested that there might be or should be any social distinction between the English speaking and Spanish speaking divisions of the population, on account of that difference in race and tongue.

The expression of such a desire betrays a narrow social horizon, a fear of one's self. Contamination by such social intercourse, where such is held to exist, is inward, not outward. It is conceivable that many a Mexican, essentially good in character, antecedents and ideal, may be seriously contaminated by intercourse with low grade Americans, far beneath him in character, antecedents or ideals. The worst political conditions among Spanish speaking persons in New Mexico or Texas are fostered and made possible by unscrupulous English speaking bosses. The least corrupt localities in Mexico or our own southwest are often those where the Spanish-Indian blood has been untainted by low grade persons of English speaking races.

As to Mexicans of the highest type, no finer characters ever existed in any race, judged by the most rigid standards of the true gentleman and the true lady. Some of our own peoples who have had the good fortune to have known intimately at least a few of such superior men and women, are ever glad to testify to the beauty and perfection of certain qualities of character that are born and inherent in them, not enameled and painted on the outside for show, and for sordid use.

The whole subject is a delicate one, hardly admitting of argument, but rather a test of the breadth of sympathy, feeling, and understanding of every individual. Persons who "hate and despise" "the Mexicans" are probably of the same general type of persons who hate and despise the Poles, the Italians, (invariably called Dagos by these people), or any other race or group or class whom they do not understand. They are free and welcome to refrain from social or any other kind of intercourse with persons whom they "hate and despise" or even merely dislike. They are equally free to express their opinions privately and publicly. But The Herald challenges their right to stir up in this community, feelings of race antagonism which do not and should not exist, or to cast upon a whole race of people, slurs which are in no wise merited, and only betray the critics' misinformation and intolerance. — El Paso Herald

THE CONQUEROR.

It's easy to laugh when the skies are blue
And the sun is shining bright—
Yes, easy to laugh when your friends are true
And there's happiness in sight.
But when hope has fled and the skies are gray
And the friends of the past have turned away,
Ah, then indeed it's a hero's feat
To acquire a smile in the face of defeat.

It's easy to laugh when the storm is over
And your ship is safe in port—
Yes, easy to laugh when you're on the shore
When the tempest's spirit
But when wild waves wash over the storm-swept deck
And your vessel ship is a battered wreck,
Ah, that is the time when it's well worth while
To look in the face of defeat with a smile.

It's easy to laugh when the battle's fought
And you know that the victory's won—
Yes, easy to laugh when the prize you sought
Is yours when the race is run.
But here's to the man who can laugh when the blast of adversity blows. He will conquer at last.
For the hardest man in the world to beat
Is the man who can laugh in the face of defeat.
— Emil Carl Aurin

WASHING DAIRY UTENSILS.

Washing dairy utensils is an important operation, though it involves but a few simple considerations. Always use a brush, never use a cloth, as the latter cannot be kept in a sanitary condition. First rinse the utensil in cold or lukewarm water, never hot water, as the latter tends to cook the milk fast to the tin. In this way the bulk of the adhering milk is removed. Then water should be used containing salt soda or washing powder, but under no circumstances should soap be used. Thorough rinsing after scrubbing in hot water and washing powder is essential, after which steaming should take place over a steam jet or in an autoclave or chamber constructed for the purpose. After being steamed the different pieces should never be touched with a cloth, but allowed to dry of their own heat.

FEEDING PRIZE CATTLE.

Methods Pursued at the Nebraska Experiment Station.

The Nebraska station was particularly fortunate in the awards at the recent international show in Chicago. It is scarcely necessary to say that in fitting fat cattle continuous development is desired, writes Professor Hall of the University of Nebraska. Beginning with the calves, as young steers of from ten weeks to three months of age, they are fed liberally, so that growth is never checked. The steers are housed at night in winter, but run in the yard during the day unless the weather is very bad. Grain is fed inside, each steer having his own feed box. Such feeds as silage and roots also are usually fed inside, though silage is fed also in the large feed bunk outside. Hay is placed in a large rack in the open yard. The aim in feeding the steers over winter is to carry them in good growing condition, but not to get them too fat.

This general scheme of feeding and managing continues throughout the winter, the cattle getting sufficient exercise in the lot or from being used in the judging classes. When spring approaches and the warm days begin to bring flies the steers are no longer out during the day, being stalled then, but they are turned out overnight on the grass pasture. Grass during the night and a moderate allowance of grain in morning and evening is the usual plan of feeding during spring and summer. Cool quarters, free of flies, are provided during summer and fall. In the early fall the rations are gradually increased, and early in the season the steers are practically all on a full feed.

The feed-stuffs used at the station are corn, oats, bran and alfalfa for grain rations, with alfalfa as a principal roughage. Occasionally a bit of entire hay is given if an animal has overaten of alfalfa and is a little loose. Hoses and silage are used some what, more as a variation and appetizer than as a steady diet, though a few pounds of silage per day per steer will be fed for several weeks during the winter. The standard grain ration is oats twenty, corn fifty, bran twenty and oilseed ten. This is fed to steers of all ages, together with about one-half pound of alfalfa hay per hundred weight. When a full feed of grain is allowed the hay is kept green so that sufficient grain is readily taken. The difference in rations for older and younger steers is more in the amount allowed than anything else.

As steers and mothers, as rangers and feeders, as money makers, the Short-horns come to best perfection as any other breed of beef producing cattle. Because of their ability to lay on flesh cheaply they are popular with many feeders in the corn belt.

A careful analysis of one method of feeding will show that they approach very close to the practical and that the feeds used are those most easily obtained and most economical.

Sludge For Sheep.

A series of exhaustive tests at the Indiana experimental station have demonstrated beyond doubt that good sludge used judiciously is an extremely desirable feed for sheep in winter. It has an excellent effect upon the digestive system and upon the general health and thrift of the lambs. Ewes fed during the winter on ration including a liberal amount of sludge gained an average each winter of twenty pounds, while those similarly fed without the sludge gained only fifteen and a half pounds. Those receiving the sludge also consumed more than 7 per cent less grain and over 32 per cent less clover hay than those maintained exclusively upon dry feed. It also had a valuable effect upon the fleeces, those receiving sludge having a slightly heavier coat of wool.

A Card to the Public.

Having leased my building and tools of the Ohnemus shop to James Stevens and Frank Ohnemus for five years, I take this method of expressing my thanks to my many friends and patrons for their patronage while in the blacksmith business during the past such ten years and bespeak for my successors a continuance of the same liberal patronage, for they are both first class workmen and will give excellent service in their line. I still retain the wagon yard, public scales and engine and pump business. I have on hand gasoline engines pump and pump jacks and centrifugal pumps of all sizes and am prepared to install all kinds of pumping outfits on short notice. Having disposed of the blacksmith business in order to give more time and attention to the engine and pump business, I ask all who are indebted for blacksmith work to call and settle their accounts with the firm of R. Ohnemus & Son.

Geo. M. Pendleton is suffering from an attack of wasps that stung him on both hands and many other places. He was discovered by the wasps in R. Ohnemus' peach orchard. The wasps let him alone as long as he was just picking a few peaches to eat but when they saw him filling a box to carry away they stopped him and he left the box in the orchard. He says he does not care who knows it so long as Rome Ohnemus don't find it out.

A very interesting meeting of the ladies of the local Methodist church, and others, was held Thursday afternoon at the home Mrs. Eugene Williams. ## Sunday School Class at Otis Entertains.

The C. I. C. class of the Otis Sunday school gave an entertainment Thursday evening, July 13 which was greatly enjoyed by those present.

The music rendered by Mrs. Easton and Mr. Keith was of a high order of excellence.

The dialogue, entitled "Sister Elizabeth's Chance," was great. Miss Eitelgeorge, as Elizabeth, delighted her audience; Mr. Keith, as Mr. Peters, a widower, who was sent by match making Aunt Marie, carried out his part well as also did Miss Masters, as Jane, the sister of Elizabeth.

The comedietta of one act, and three scenes, entitled "Queen Anne Cottages," was well acted. Miss Foster, as Anne Westworthy, the leading lady, and Mr. Masters, as Henry Harrington, were both fine. Mr. Masters acted as substitute and had but a short time in which to prepare his part. Allen Tipton, as Robert Barton, Mr. Harrington's chum was very good. The part of Susan Marsh, Miss Westworthy's girl friend, was well carried out by Miss Ora Masters; Miss Anna Masters, as Sarah, was enjoyed by the audience. Mrs. Easton, as Thomas Jefferson Dillingham, with the number of hand boxes, bundles, and pillows, was well enacted, and Mr. Evans, as Joseph, assisting Mrs. Dillingham was excellent. Charles Marsh and fishing party, bringing shrimps, crabs and fish was well carried out by Lee Brown, Leola Slacum, and W. E. May.

The class song, the solos and duets were well rendered and greatly enjoyed by the audience.

The tableaux "Great Expectations," by Allen Tipton, "At the Stake," by Fern Foster and "Maudie Muller," by Leola Slacum, were very laughable and greatly enjoyed by all.

Owing to the inclemency of the evening, there was not a large crowd out, but we hope the C. I. C.'s will repeat the entertainment some time in the near future, and get a full house as it well deserves it.

The militia boys left Tuesday morning for Las Vegas to the number of thirty-one men and three officers. On account of the sudden death of Mr. Collins his son was unable to go as was also J. Kircher, Harry Christian and his son, Monroe, the Moore brothers, Tom McLenathen and few more. Coming as it does in the height of the peach season and alfalfa harvest, for seed and hay, it is difficult for the full company to leave. There are, however, about 700 men at Camp Mills where the encampment will be held until August 1. Afterward quite a number will go to the National Encampment held this year at Camp Perry, Ohio.

At the home of T. C. Webb in Carlsbad Wednesday night, was held a very pleasant session of the B. P. O. E.
