12-5-1990

Steven Ranieri

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/sourcemex

Recommended Citation

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Latin America Digital Beat (LADB) at UNM Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in SourceMex by an authorized administrator of UNM Digital Repository. For more information, please contact amywinter@unm.edu.

by Steven Ranieri
Category/Department: General
Published: Wednesday, December 5, 1990

According to projections calculated by the independent Private Sector Economic Studies Center (CEESP), Mexico's 1990 trade deficit will total about $1.2 billion. The deficit is less than anticipated due to an $2 billion in oil export revenues resulting from the Gulf crisis. Next, the CEESP predicts a $4.1 billion current account deficit for the year, down from its original figure of $5.5 billion. For 1991, the Center predicts a $1.2 billion foreign trade deficit, and a current account deficit of $5.4 billion. The CEESP emphasized that Mexico realized a trade surplus over the seven years preceding 1989. (Source: El Financiero, 11/05/90)

-- End --