

6-29-1895

Albuquerque Weekly Citizen, 06-29-1895

T. Hughes

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/abq_citizen_news

Recommended Citation

Hughes, T.. "Albuquerque Weekly Citizen, 06-29-1895." (1895). https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/abq_citizen_news/169

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the New Mexico Historical Newspapers at UNM Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Albuquerque Citizen, 1891-1906 by an authorized administrator of UNM Digital Repository. For more information, please contact disc@unm.edu.

CAPTURED BY CARLISLE

The Kentucky Democrats Endorse President Cleveland.

The Resolutions Endorse the President's Financial Policy.

Senator Blackburn and the Silver Men Signally Defeated.

KENTUCKY A DOUBTFUL STATE.

Louisville, Ky., June 26.—The democratic state convention re-assembled at 2:30 p.m. after having adjourned at 2 p.m. in the midst of unusual disorder. The night by the Harlin men could not make a platform unseated for Harlin, was renewed. Meantime the Clay men were working for the adoption of the majority report on resolutions, as a handicap to Harlin, before nominations were called for.

The following was reported by Senator Lindsey, chairman of the committee on resolutions, as the majority report, signed by one of the thirteen members. To the Democratic Convention in session at Louisville:

The undersigned, a majority of your committee, beg leave to submit as their report the accompanying resolutions.

First.—The democracy of Kentucky, in convention assembled, congratulate the country upon the repeal of the McKinley tariff law and upon evidence we have on every hand of returning prosperity under the operations of the reduced and equal tariff legislation, and we denounce as fraught with danger and disaster the threat of our republican adversaries to re-establish a protective tariff and to re-institute a policy of unequal taxation, when, in connection with general misgovernment by the republican party, maintained in the business panic of 1893.

Second.—The democratic party, which has always stood for the separation of church and state, for the sake alike of civil and religious freedom, does not hesitate to condemn all efforts to create artificial union among citizens because of differences in faith, as repugnant to this enlightened age and adherent to the instincts of American freedom.

Third.—We reaffirm without qualification the principles and policies declared by the national democratic platform of 1892 and declare our present democratic administration is entitled to the thanks of the party for honest, courageous and statesmanlike management of public affairs, and we express our undiminished confidence in the democracy and patriotism of President Grover Cleveland and his distinguished coadjutor and secretary, John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky.

The names of President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle were received with prolonged applause. Ex-Congressman W. F. Kille presented the minority report in which the silver men sought to load down the majority.

The undersigned members of the committee on resolutions dissent from the views expressed by the majority of the committee on resolutions which is proposed as endorsement of the present national democratic administration because said resolution is ambiguous, obscure and uncertain in its meaning and is in our opinion an attempt to straddle the most vital question attracting the attention of the American people. And while the undersigned do not concur in the views expressed in said resolutions nor in the views expressed in the amendment which they here submit, they nevertheless believe it is the duty of the democratic party to express itself in clear and unambiguous terms on this subject. The financial policy of the present democratic administration deserves unqualified endorsement at the hands of the democratic party of Kentucky or it does not deserve such endorsement, and with the view of taking the opinion of representatives of the democracy of Kentucky in convention assembled, we submit the following as an amendment to said resolution:

Resolved, By the democracy of Kentucky in convention assembled, that the present democratic administration is entitled to the thanks of the whole country for its statesmanlike management of public affairs, and we further declare that both President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle are entitled to unqualified endorsement of the American people for maintaining a gold standard and thus maintaining the credit of the government, and their issuance of $100,000,000 interest bearing bonds is hereby expressly endorsed. The undersigned members of the committee on resolutions, believing the democratic party of Kentucky should declare plainly in favor of true bimetalism or the gold standard, offer the following as a separate resolution and ask its adoption:

Resolved, That we believe in the coinage of both gold and silver as the primary money of the country into legal tender dollars, receivable in payment of all debts, public and private, upon terms of exact equality.

After discussing an hour and a half a motion to substitute the minority report on resolutions for majority report a call of 140 counties began. The vote resulted 445 ayes, 425 nays. The result was greeted with loud cheering by the Clay men. The Harlin men rushed to the platform and charged false counting and fraud. This created a tumultuous scene, which was finally checked by crowding Senator Lindsey through the fighters to the front of the platform when he opened another hot contest by presenting the majority report of the committee on resolutions.

John R. Rhine, a second or supplemental minority report which simply reaffirmed the national platform of the party in 1892 and urged its adoption as a measure of expediency owing to divergent views in the party in Kentucky on the financial question. Congressman Kille opened the debate for the minority report. Ex-Governor James B. McCreary, candidate for the senate, made a vigorous appeal for Kentucky democracy co-operating with Cleveland, Carlisle and Democracy as its principles had been declared in 1892.

When McCreary argued that there was no room for two democratic parties in Kentucky, the sound money men cheered loudly. McCreary opposed the minority report and the supplement thereto vigorously and held the floor notwithstanding calls for Blackburn and other distributors. After McCreary concluded, the Harlin men insisted on a re-count of the vote by which the minority report was substituted for the majority report on resolutions, and the convention hall for some time resembled a riot.

The secretary discovered errors and Chairman Berry announced that correction would be made later if the delegates would allow consideration of resolutions to proceed.

John R. Rhine was accorded the floor and made such a vigorous speech against the majority report on resolutions as to stop all disturbance and command the closest attention. Rhine denounced President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle in a bitter and scathing manner. Rhine said: "When Henry Watterson was saying in 1892, 'Nominate Grover Cleveland and you rush from the slaughter house into an open grave,' with the sentiment of the convention against him, Rhine not only brought it to order but also commended the closest attention for a long time in his philippic on Cleveland and Carlisle as associates of Rothchilds and Morgan and of the people."

Jacob Kille following Mr. Rhine with another scathing and scathing speech in support of the minority report and supplemental resolutions. He wanted a compromise re-affirming the platform of 1892 and going no further and claimed to be offering the only franchise.

Senator Blackburn, who had been called for all day, finally came to the front. He said at the outset that he was opposed to Bradley, the republican candidate for governor of Kentucky, and for that reason was opposed to the majority report. He said especially to the argument of Congressman McCreary with intense earnestness. He stood for harmony but warned the convention against endorsing Sherman instead of Jefferson. He never endorsed a republican platform, and did not want the Kentucky democracy to do so today. He was for democratic bimetalism, but for the republican gold standard. He was not here for any new departure, but for old time honored democratic principles, and to oppose the new financial policy of the republican element that was trying to shape politics today for the democracy of Kentucky. The applause was tremendous.

Senator Lindsey made a strong reply to Blackburn. His defense of the administration, especially when he named President Cleveland, was greeted with a stirring demonstration. His voice sounded like the roaring of a lion as he warmed up in replying to the insinuations that the previous report of the committee or in the convention were advocates of republican doctrines. Lindsey moved the adoption of the majority report and there was a response of nays in loud chorus. Chairman Berry announced that a revision of the count by the secretary sustained the previous announcement of a substitution of the majority report on resolutions.

The previous question was ordered by a viva voce vote 1 o'clock on the adoption of reports on resolutions.

Ex-Congressman Kille moved to amend section 3 of the majority report after the words "Platform of 1892," by striking out the part endorsing the administration of Cleveland and Carlisle. Rhine offered a substitute for his resolution of thanks to Cleveland and Carlisle for their negotiations with the Rothchilds and Morgan. This was ruled out and the next vote taken was on the amendment of Kille which was rejected by 407 ayes and 370 nays. The final vote on the count by the secretary sustained the previous announcement of a substitution of the majority report on resolutions.

The previous question was ordered by a viva voce vote. The silver men insisted on the roll being called again on substituting the original minority report for the majority report, but call of counties was demanded and ordered at 2:30. The final vote on substituting the minority report for the majority report had only 22 ayes. When the minority report was again with supplement was lost the question occurred on the adoption of the majority report. Although the previous report showed the roll call of counties which proceeded until after 3 p.m. The vote was announced as 647 ayes, 370 nays, and 3070 nays, and was received with great applause. The convention took a recess until 7:30.

Ives, Florist, Albuquerque

YALE CREW YELL!

They Win From Harvard the Great Boat Race.

Gen. Warner is Not Pleased With Kentucky Politics.

Closing Proceedings of the Kentucky Democratic Convention.

ENGLISH LIBERALS DISCOURAGED.

New London, June 27.—Harvard's freshmen eight-oared crew, confident of victory, were defeated today by Yale, while Columbia was third in the annual triangular race over two miles of Thames water. Coach Watson, of Harvard, is said recently to have stated that if his freshmen did not win this year he had little hope for his "varsity eight" which rows Yale to-morrow. Weather and water favored a good race. Just above the railway bridge, where the crews were to row two miles up the river with the tide, was anchored a huge fleet when Referee Guy Richards lined up the crews, while veteran Adios stood beside him to give official timing. At 1:30 the word was given. Harvard first caught the water as Columbia's oars flashed next, while Yale, in the middle course, was sagging back. Yale soon passed Columbia. Columbia began to lag as she neared the first half-mile flag, and it became evident they were outclassed. At the first half Harvard went over the line in 2:18, Yale in 2:20, Columbia in 2:25.

Entering the second half of the first mile Columbia's bowman broke the fast-moving bar of his row lock. Thence on the ward bow was hardly able to pull his weight.

In Yale's boat, No. 2 was losing his first wind and No. 1 in Harvard's shell was bucking the oar. The crimson crew was leeching from side to side in ragged form.

Yale, though distressed, was pulling along gamely 34 strokes to the minute as the shells passed the first mile flag. Her time at the mile was 4:54; three seconds later came the crimson; Columbia trailed over three clear boat lengths in the rear 5:15. Thence the race was Yale's though by an exceedingly slender margin. No. 2 in Yale's boat gained his second wind. Harvard's men dropped their stroke to a weary swing at 32 strokes. Columbia was losing momentarily.

The closing of the race was close and spirited. The nearness of Harvard to Yale kept alive the crimson's hope of winning on a spurt. It was not in the least, however, and Yale went over the two mile and finish line 10 minutes and 28 seconds from the start. Harvard crossed in 10:33, a length behind, while poor Columbia, with disabled outrigger, finished in 11 minutes and 18 seconds, about sixteen lengths behind Yale and eighteen behind Harvard.

Content Declined.

Boston, June 27.—Harvard university's committee on athletic sports has sent a reply declining the invitation of the Oxford and Cambridge universities to an international university athletic contest in the country next autumn. The reply closes: "If we should be fortunate enough in some future year to win on this side of the water leadership in track athletics which this year belongs so unquestionably to Yale, we shall hope to have the pleasure of competing with one of you as the winner of the Oxford-Cambridge games."

Kentucky Democratic Convention.

Louisville, June 27.—After being in session two days and two nights the democratic state convention convened at 2:30 today. With Gen. Harlin for governor and R. T. Tyler for lieutenant governor, nominated last night, general interest has been eliminated, but there was the usual large attendance. For state treasurer, R. C. Ford was nominated on the second ballot. Luke C. Norman was nominated for auditor by acclamation.

Arrested at Home.

Topeka, Kas., June 27.—Governor Morrill has asked W. J. Hard and J. B. Barnes, populist directors of the penitentiary, to resign. The governor says that from the testimony in the trial of Warren Chase he is satisfied that they are incompetent or have neglected their duties. They will fight for their places.

Went up the House.

Columbus, O., June 27.—The house in Adams county occupied by Dyas Matthey and a Mrs. Pence was blown to pieces by a neighbor last night with dynamite. Both were terribly injured. The cause was popular disapproval of the couple residing together.

Warner on Kentucky Politics.

Cleveland, June 27.—Gen. A. J. Warner said today: "The outcome of the Louisville convention was not unlooked for by the bimetalists. We know how easy it is with the assistance of office holders to pack a convention, but any one who has visited Kentucky knows the convention did not represent the sentiments of a large majority of the people of the state, who are undoubtedly opposed to the gold standard and in favor of a resumption of coinage of both gold and silver. The general trend went on to show that a split of the democratic party is almost inevitable at the coming national convention. He said: "I believe it is safe to predict that John Sherman and Grover Cleveland will vote for the same man for president in '96. Silver men will get together. Just how, it is too early to predict. That will make a silver party by whatever name it is called. They must get together or give up the fight."

Chicago Stock Market.

Chicago, June 27.—Cattle market steady. Texans steady. 2,800 at bulk. $15.50 at 12. Sheep, steady.

FOURTH OF JULY.

How the Glorious Holidays will be Celebrated.

AT SANTA FE, PRESCOTT AND FLAGSTAFF.

The president of the New Mexico Association of Volunteer Firemen, who returned last night from a trip to southern California, found among his delayed mail a letter from Santa Fe, stating that the people of the territorial capital have gone to considerable expense and trouble to make the firemen's convention and tournament, together with the celebration of the Fourth of July, one of the biggest and grandest affairs of the season, and will spare no pains to entertain, in a royal manner, all visitors from the metropolis. Those who contemplate visiting Santa Fe on the glorious Fourth—taking advantage of the low rate offered on the excursion train—should purchase their tickets at once, so the promoters of the excursion train will know how many coaches are necessary to carry the merry Albuquerqueans to the capital. Think of it! Only $2.50 for the round trip, and children under 12 years of age, half that amount. Tickets are on sale at the principal stores of the city.

A representative of THE CITIZEN dropped over into prosperous and lively Prescott on the 24th of June, to see for himself if the people there were really in good faith in presenting to the world that they intend to celebrate for one week, beginning with Monday, July 1, and ending the festivities on Saturday night, July 6, and found the facts to be as represented. The town was one scene of bustle—hotels, stores, offices, etc., were receiving their decorations, and everybody was as busy as bees. A talk with that prince of good fellows, F. A. Healy, general passenger agent of the Santa Fe, Prescott & Phoenix railroad; J. M. Aiken, chief of the Prescott fire department; Editors Martin, of the Journal Miner, and Rogers, of the Courier; W. C. Bashford and other prominent Prescott citizens convinced THE CITIZEN representative that Prescott would truly do wonders in her celebration of the glorious Fourth. They are glad that Albuquerque will be represented by her famous base ball club, and Chief Aiken informed the writer that he intends to see that the strained relations existing between Prescott and Albuquerque are entirely eliminated, and that Prescott is represented at the coming territorial fair by a horse running team. All kinds of sport will be indulged in by the Prescottites and their thousands of visitors next week, and everybody who visits the town is guaranteed a splendid time. In the base ball tournament, the clubs from Whipple Barracks, Williams, Phoenix, Tucson, Prescott and Albuquerque are entered, and the Albuquerque are conceded in advance to be the winners.

AT FLAGSTAFF.

The enterprising people of Flagstaff, as THE CITIZEN representative ascertained, will not be outdone the coming Fourth of July and have arranged to celebrate in gorgeous style. At this date every business house and almost every private residence have been decorated with flags and evergreens, and Flagstaff presents a gay appearance. The following well-known citizens of Flagstaff are in charge of the celebration: Mayor David Abbott, D. M. Kierland, R. S. Clark, D. J. Brannen, Chas. Canell, George Horwath, R. H. Cameron, J. W. Francis, A. T. Corbett, Oscar Gibson, C. M. Funston and Geo. Hochfelder. The Fort Wingate brass band and orchestra will furnish the music. On July 3 the Williams and on July 4 the Flagstaff club will play the winners of the previous day. On the evening of July 3 a "Kid" Bovey, of Albuquerque, will meet "Spot" Roberts, of Flagstaff, in the 24-foot ring for a purse of $200, and the "Kid" is the favorite. J. W. Sparling, formerly of this city, now the Postal Telegraph company's operator at Flagstaff, claims that "Kid" Bovey will have an easy snap in "Spot" Roberts.

Against is moving rapidly in the way of improvement. "Handy" Bonahoe, ex-sheriff of Coconino county, has the foundation of a large hotel completed; the territorial reform school is nearing completion; the handsome brown stone court house will be ready to be occupied in a few weeks, and many other substantial improvements were noted.

Park's Tea is a great blood purifier and cleanser. A pleasant herb drink which moves the bowels without pain, griping or discomfort. Sold by Dr. Thos. H. Burgess & Son.

METHODIST MEETING.

Epworth League in Full Force at Chattanooga.

Indiana Democratic Editors Want a Silver Convention Called.

Pittsburg Republicans Making a Bid for National Republican Convention.

WEDDING OF NOTED COLORED COUPLE.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 27.—The Methodist Episcopal church south, and the Methodist church of Canada are represented in this historic town today by nearly a score of thousands of their sons and daughters, who have gathered to participate in the second international conference of the Epworth League. Although the most elaborate preparations for the reception of the visitors have been in progress for the past two months the facilities of the city are being taxed to the utmost, and it has only been through the hospitality of the citizens that many of the delegates have been able to secure food and shelter as the hotels were literally packed from cellar to roof long before the influx of young Methodists had ceased. The conference was called to order at 2:30 this afternoon, and sessions will be held daily during the remainder of the week. The present membership of the organization is over 1,000,000, scattered throughout the world, there being local organizations in every state of the United States, in every province of the Dominion of Canada, and in nearly every foreign country. The tent in which the convention is being held has a seating capacity of ten thousand, and if it had held twice this number it would have been filled. At 4:30 this afternoon there was a meeting of the Chattanooga University, Bishop John H. Vincent presiding. This evening there will be a love feast by Bishop Fitzgerald, a sermon by Bishop C. B. Galloway, after which the sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered by the bishops present.

Funerals His Hobby.

United States Treasury Has a Man Who Enjoys Them Exceedingly.

In one of the bureaus of the treasury department is a man who has a strange desire to help bury people and attend funerals. The other day says the Washington Post, he was transferred to a new division. The first day he asked his chief for leave of absence during the afternoon.

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

METHODIST MEETING.

Epworth League in Full Force at Chattanooga.

Indiana Democratic Editors Want a Silver Convention Called.

Pittsburg Republicans Making a Bid for National Republican Convention.

WEDDING OF NOTED COLORED COUPLE.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 27.—The Methodist Episcopal church south, and the Methodist church of Canada are represented in this historic town today by nearly a score of thousands of their sons and daughters, who have gathered to participate in the second international conference of the Epworth League. Although the most elaborate preparations for the reception of the visitors have been in progress for the past two months the facilities of the city are being taxed to the utmost, and it has only been through the hospitality of the citizens that many of the delegates have been able to secure food and shelter as the hotels were literally packed from cellar to roof long before the influx of young Methodists had ceased. The conference was called to order at 2:30 this afternoon, and sessions will be held daily during the remainder of the week. The present membership of the organization is over 1,000,000, scattered throughout the world, there being local organizations in every state of the United States, in every province of the Dominion of Canada, and in nearly every foreign country. The tent in which the convention is being held has a seating capacity of ten thousand, and if it had held twice this number it would have been filled. At 4:30 this afternoon there was a meeting of the Chattanooga University, Bishop John H. Vincent presiding. This evening there will be a love feast by Bishop Fitzgerald, a sermon by Bishop C. B. Galloway, after which the sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered by the bishops present.

Funerals His Hobby.

United States Treasury Has a Man Who Enjoys Them Exceedingly.

In one of the bureaus of the treasury department is a man who has a strange desire to help bury people and attend funerals. The other day says the Washington Post, he was transferred to a new division. The first day he asked his chief for leave of absence during the afternoon.

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

METHODIST MEETING.

Epworth League in Full Force at Chattanooga.

Indiana Democratic Editors Want a Silver Convention Called.

Pittsburg Republicans Making a Bid for National Republican Convention.

WEDDING OF NOTED COLORED COUPLE.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 27.—The Methodist Episcopal church south, and the Methodist church of Canada are represented in this historic town today by nearly a score of thousands of their sons and daughters, who have gathered to participate in the second international conference of the Epworth League. Although the most elaborate preparations for the reception of the visitors have been in progress for the past two months the facilities of the city are being taxed to the utmost, and it has only been through the hospitality of the citizens that many of the delegates have been able to secure food and shelter as the hotels were literally packed from cellar to roof long before the influx of young Methodists had ceased. The conference was called to order at 2:30 this afternoon, and sessions will be held daily during the remainder of the week. The present membership of the organization is over 1,000,000, scattered throughout the world, there being local organizations in every state of the United States, in every province of the Dominion of Canada, and in nearly every foreign country. The tent in which the convention is being held has a seating capacity of ten thousand, and if it had held twice this number it would have been filled. At 4:30 this afternoon there was a meeting of the Chattanooga University, Bishop John H. Vincent presiding. This evening there will be a love feast by Bishop Fitzgerald, a sermon by Bishop C. B. Galloway, after which the sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered by the bishops present.

Funerals His Hobby.

United States Treasury Has a Man Who Enjoys Them Exceedingly.

In one of the bureaus of the treasury department is a man who has a strange desire to help bury people and attend funerals. The other day says the Washington Post, he was transferred to a new division. The first day he asked his chief for leave of absence during the afternoon.

What for? asked the chief.

"I want to attend the funeral of Capt. Smith."

"The chief had hardly got upstair with the man and sent him upstairs to his former chief's desk if he had been permanently transferred to his new division. The man came back with the announcement that he had been transferred, and he was, except for the funeral, and he was, except for the funeral."

