STATE DADS' DOINGS AT THE CAPITOL DURING WEEK

Two Important Educational Bills; Larrazolo County Effort Fails With Credit To Blanchard; Tax Lists To Be Published; N. M. Press Associa'on Rates Restored.

Santa Fe, N. M., March 7.—Two bills on the educational program of Gov. Larrazolo passed the house late yesterday afternoon. The contest generally expected did not arise. The first bill, requiring employers of illiterates to send them to night schools three nights weekly, passed with only one dissenting vote. The other, which does not require children to learn Spanish, but does require that all high schools and institutions carry it on their course of study so that it may be taught if demanded, passed 31 to 10.

The third administration bill, that by Llewellyn, of Dona Ana, creating a girls' welfare board, passed unanimously. All three measures are certain of passage in the senate.

The report finally came out on the health bill which has tied up the house all week, recommending the passage of the measure, which is considerably less drastic than as originally drawn. It was the subject of a house caucus during recess yesterday afternoon and passed the house today.

The bill to create Larrazolo county died yesterday afternoon when the house tabled the report of the committee on county and county lines and the bill as well, on motion of Blanchard, of Lincoln.

The senate passed a bill prohibiting the collection of an occupation tax from farmers selling self raised truck, and a bill requiring publication of reports of county commissioners; the printing bill, as asked by the New Mexico State Press association; a resolution, by strict party vote of ten to eight, objecting to the league of nations as subversive of the Monroe doctrine and leading to entangling foreign alliances.

At last night's session, lasting till midnight, the house passed a resolution regretting the death of former Gov. Wm. McDonald.

The musical program will consist of several selections by the Wilson sisters on the mandolin, with Mrs. D. L. Donaldson at the piano; the Conway sisters will sing two beautiful duets; Mrs. Saunders will offer a well selected piano solo; Miss Carrie Roberts will entertain with a vocal solo; several interesting readings will be enjoyed by pupils of the High School under the direction of Miss Minnie Zeuch, Principal of the school.

At different intervals during the time the entertainment is in progress, Mr. George Ferguson will delight his hearers with piano solos, and we are authority for the statement that this part of the entertainment alone will be worth everything you will spend at the luncheon, and then some. The public should turn out and assist the ladies in this important undertaking, for remember that you will be entertained by artists of rare vocal and instrumental talent, and you should come.

Larrazolo Hears From Son

Three months after his election Governor O. A. Larrazolo of this state, received congratulations more welcome than any previously received, in that they were from his own son, a soldier in France, and incidentally assured the governor and his wife of the safety of the young man about whom they had heard nothing for months. A letter was received from Octaviano A. Larrazolo, Jr., dated at a town in France last November. After a thrilling description of the fighting around Chateau-Thierry, Belleau Wood and elsewhere in which the writer took an active part, the letter says, "sometime ago I read of your nomination as candidate for governor of New Mexico. I was very glad at the time and was only fearful lest it might affect your health, which was by no means good when I left. A few days ago I read of your election. To be more precise, I got the news the same day of the signing of the armistice. Then I had two reasons for being happy. Today I got a cablegram from mother telling me of your election. If possible I am going to wire you, but should I fail to do so will take advantage of this opportunity to communicate to you my heartiest congratulations and my most sincere wishes for a happy and successful administration. Next Thursday will be a day of real Thanksgiving for me, for I have something to be thankful for."

Miss Pine Surprised

On the evening of March 4th, a merry group of young people gathered at the home of Miss Hilary Cooper and from there they went to the home of Miss Catherine Pine, where they sprung a pleasant surprise on the young lady, it being the date of her sixteenth birthday.

A pleasant evening was spent in playing games of various kinds. Miss Catherine received several pretty and much appreciated gifts. The young people had an enjoyable time departing at a reasonable hour so as to be better prepared for the following school day.

White Oaks Welcomes Boys' Return

The promoters of the Welcome Entertainment at White Oaks Wednesday night have every reason to feel proud of the manner in which they entertained their guests, and the glad welcome the boys received by all who took part in the affair.

The entertainment was arranged by friends of the four boys who returned from foreign service last Sunday afternoon, namely Roy Grumbles, J. B. Collier, Warren Williams and Ira Tapp and should these boys live to a ripe old age, which we certainly hope they will, they will always treasure in their memories the glad welcome they received on the night of March 5th, 1919.

The evening's exercises were opened by a few words of welcome by a friend from Carrizozo, who on concluding his remarks requested Miss Ida Grumbles, a sister of Roy Grumbles to come forward and pin a beautiful white carnation to the lapels of the boys' coats, which the speaker said was a symbol of all that was pure, holy, loyal and loving; he then offered a tribute to the loyal, patriotic women of Lincoln County who had never faltered in the country's direst needs, and again referred to the white flower as an emblem of mother love and the smile of God. The assemblage standing, sang the "Star Spangled Banner," led by the Misses Ula Edmiston and Marion Place.

Following this the entire assemblage which numbered over two hundred came forward and gave the glad hand of welcome to the boys who stood in line to receive this token of love and good will. The Grand March then took place headed by Roy Grumbles and leaning on his arm was his best friend on earth—His Mother. Then the dancing began to the excellent music furnished by Prof. and Mrs. May of Ancho and it may be said of a certainty, that if any departed without having been bountifully entertained, they had only themselves to blame.

At 12 o'clock a bounteous luncheon was served after which the merrymaking was resumed, and it was several hours later before the good natured assemblage dispersed. On the whole, the affair was one of a novel nature, successfully carried out and will be ever remembered by those who attended as one of the joyful events of their lives.

MILLIONS AVAILABLE FOR NATIONAL FOREST ROADS

President Signs Act Increasing Fund for Roads And Trails In And Near All National Forests. New Mexico Will be Greatly Benefited.

Albuquerque, N. M., Mar. 7.—The development of the National Forest road systems in New Mexico and Arizona, as well as throughout the national forests of the country, is given great impetus by the terms of postoffice appropriations act which the President has just signed. Besides increasing by $200,000,000 the total fund available under the federal aid roads act, the new law makes available for expenditure by the secretary of agriculture $9,000,000 for roads and trails within or partly within the forests.

The local officials of the forest service, in cooperation with the office of public roads and the states of Arizona and New Mexico and various counties of those states, have already made plans for extensive road and trail construction. The location surveys for some of these roads have already been completed, so that construction can be started in the spring as rapidly as labor and equipment can be secured.

Of the new appropriation $3,000,000 is immediately available and $3,000,000 will become available July 1. There will also be available $400,000 or more from the ten per cent of national forest receipts. Altogether, therefore, we have in sight for the coming year about $10,000,000, if we can use it advantageously. Whatever we can't use advantageously at once will be added to the $4,000,000 of new money that becomes available the following year.

Also, by this time some of the men had lost their heads completely; in fact, had gone violently crazy, and the rest of us were afraid of them. We were all thinking of the fight that might occur any moment between the Yarrowdale and some other vessel and we knew we were in the likeliest place for the vessel to be struck. Even though we were not hit ourselves, if the ship were sinking we did not think the Germans would give us a chance to escape. We figured from what they had said that we would go down with the ship. And going down on a ship in which you are a prisoner is quite different from going down with one for which you have been fighting. You arrive at the same place, but the feeling is different.

Some of us thought of overpowering the crew and taking the vessel into our own hands, and we got the rest of the sane or nearly sane men together and tried to get up a scheme for doing it. I was strong for the plan and so were several others, but the Liney officers who were with us advised against it. They said the Germans were taking us to a neutral country, where we would be interned, which was just what the Germans had told us, but what few of us believed.

Then some others said that if we started anything the Germans would fire the time bombs. We replied that at least the Germans would go west with us, but they could not see that there was any glory in that. For myself, I thought the Germans would not fire the bombs until the last minute, and that we would have a chance at the boats before they got all of us anyway. There were only thirteen German sailors on board, besides their commander. This last Hun was named Badewitz.

So the pacifists ruled, because we could not do anything unless we were all together, and there was no mutiny. They said we were hotheads, the rest of us, but I still think we could have made a dash for it and overpowered our sentries, and either gone over the side with the lifeboats, or taken over the whole ship. It would have been better for us if we had tried, and if the pacifists had known what was coming to us they would have fired the time bombs themselves rather than go on into that future. However, that is spilt milk.

We were not allowed to open the portholes while we were in the bunkers, under penalty of death, and there in the dark, in that stinking air, it is no wonder many of us went crazy. Among us was a fellow named Harrington, about six feet tall and weighing 250 pounds. He seemed to be all right mentally, but some of us thought afterwards he was crazy. Anyway, I do not blame him for what he did. Harrington rushed up the ladder and opened the door. There was a German sentry there, and Harrington made a swing at him and then grabbed his bayonet. The sentry yelled and some others came down from the bridge and shot Harrington through the hand. After they had beaten Harrington pretty badly, the bull of the bunch, Badewitz himself, came over and hammered Harrington all around the deck. Then they put him in irons and took him to the chart room.

The next day we were sitting in the fiddley getting warm when the door opened and there was Badewitz. He yelled "Herans!" and began firing at us with a revolver, so we beat it back onto the coal. Pretty soon the door opened again. But it was only a German sentry. He threw down a note. It was written in English and read, "Pick out eight men for cooks." So we picked out eight men from the various vessels and they went on deck and rigged up a galley aft.

But we did not receive any knives, forks, spoons or plates. The first meal we got was nothing but macaroni, piled up on pieces of cardboard boxes. Then we appointed four men to serve the macaroni, and they got four pieces of wood, the cleanest we could find, which was not very clean at that, and they dug around in the macaroni and divided it up and put it in our hands. We had to eat it after that from our grubby fingers. Those who were helped first had to go farthest back on the coal to eat it, and those who were helped last got less, because the dividers got more careful toward the end and gave smaller portions.

But we did not get macaroni very long. A cook from the Voltaire was cleaning a copper dixie that the macaroni had been cooked in, and he was holding it over the side when the vessel rolled heavily, and dropped the dixie into the briny. A sentry who saw him drop it forced him up to Badewitz, who began mauling him before the sentry even had told his story. After a while Badewitz quit pounding the cook, and listened to the sentry. Then Badewitz said the cook had put a note in the dixie before he dropped it, so they beat him up again and put him in irons. After that they sent the rest of the cooks back, and would not let them on deck again. They had plenty of canned goods and meat aboard, but they would not give us any.

Five of the men were buried at sea that day. More men were going mad every minute, and it was a terrible place; pitch dark, grimy, loose coal underfoot, coal-dusty air to breathe, body-filth everywhere. Some of the crazy men howled like dogs. But we were not as much afraid of these as we were of the others who kept still, but slipped around in the dark with lumps of coal in their hands. We got so we would not go near each other for fear we were running into a crazy man. Those of us who were sane collected as near the fiddley as we could, and we would not let the others get near us, but shoved them back or shed lumps of coal at them. And every once in a while some one of us would begin to act queer. Maybe he would let out a howl suddenly, without any warning. Or he would just quit talking and begin to speak around. Or he would squat down and begin to mumble. We could not tell just when a man had begun to lose his mind. He would seem just like the rest of us, because none of us was much better than a beast.

We could not take turns sleeping and standing watch against the crazy men, because when we talked about it, we agreed that none of us could tell whether or not the sentries would go crazy while on watch and have the rest of us at their mercy. It was awful to talk about going crazy in this way, and to figure that you yourself might be the next, and that it was almost sure to happen if you did not get some sleep soon. But it was worse to find a man near you going, and have to boot him out with the other insane men.

The days passed like that, with nothing to do but suffer, and starve and freeze. It got colder and colder, and all we could wrap ourselves in was the coal. We began to speculate on where we were. It was not till later than an old skipper in our bunch told us that we had rounded the northern coast of Iceland.

Finally, one day, a lad yelled down "Land!" and we all dove for the fiddley like wild men, and those who could get near enough looked out, and sure enough! there was the coast of Norway, very rugged and rocky and covered with snow. We thought it was all over then, and that we would be landed at Bergen sure. Then there was the usual running around and yelling on deck, and we were not so sure we would be landed, and very suddenly it got colder than ever.

I was in the fiddley, seeling to get out, and ready for anything that might happen, when the door opened suddenly and Badewitz grabbed me, and asked me in English if I was a quartermaster. I said yes, and he pulled me by the arm to a cabin. I did not know what was going to happen, but he took an oilskin from the wall and told me to put it on.

There were two sailors there also, and they put life belts on, and then I was more puzzled than ever, and scared, too, because I thought maybe they were going to throw me overboard, though what that had to do with being a quartermaster I could not see.

But they drilled me up onto the bridge and told me to take the wheel. What their idea was I do not know. Possibly they wanted a noncombatant at the wheel in case they were overhauled by a neutral vessel. We were going full speed at the time, but as soon as I took the wheel she cut down to half speed, and stayed that way for half an hour. Then up to full speed again.

Pretty soon there was a tramp steamer on the starboard bow, and almost before I saw it, there were two more sentries on each side of me, prodding me with their revolvers and warning me to keep on the course. They had civilian clothes on.

Then we went through the Skager Rack and Cattegat, which are narrow strips of water leading to the Baltic, and we were only a mile from shore with vessels all about us. It would have been an easy thing for me to signal what our ship was and who were aboard, but they had six sentries on my neck all the time to keep me from it. I never wanted to do anything worse in my life than jump overboard or signal. But I would have been shot down before I had more than started to do either, so I just stayed with the wheel.

We were nearing one of the Danish islands in the Baltic when we sighted a tug. She began to smoke up and blow her siren. The sailors got very excited and ran around in crazy style, and Badewitz began shouting more orders than they could get away with. The sentries left me and ran with the rest of the Fritzles to the boat deck and started to lower one of the lifeboats. But Badewitz was right on their heels and kicked the whole bunch around in great shape, roaring like a bull all the time.

I left the wheel and ran to the end of the bridge, to jump overboard. But the minute I let go of the wheel the vessel fell off of the course, and they noticed it, and Badewitz sent five of them up on the bridge and three others to the side with their revolvers to shoot me if I should reach the water. I think if I had had any rope to lash the wheel with I could have got away and they would not have known it.

When the five sailors reached the bridge one of them jumped for the cord and gave our siren five long blasts in answer to the tug. The tug was about to launch a torpedo, and we whistled just in time. One of our men was looking from the fiddley, and he saw the Huns making for the lifeboats, so he got two or three others and they all yelled together, "Don't let them get away!" thinking that they would get the boat over and leave the ship, and trying to yell loud enough for the tug to hear them. Badewitz took this man and two or three others, whether they were the ones who yelled or not, and beat them up and put them in irons. I thought there was going to be a mutiny aboard, but it did not come off, and I am not sure what the Huns were so excited about.

The other four sailors who came up on the bridge did not touch me, but just kept me covered with their revolvers. That was the way with them—they would not touch us unless Badewitz was there or they had bayonets. The old bull himself came up on the bridge after he had beaten up a few men, threw me around quite a bit and kicked me down from the bridge and slammed me into the coal bunkers. I felt pretty sore, as you can imagine, and disappointed and pretty low generally.

After a while we heard the anchor chains rattling through on their way to get wet, and we pulled up. Then every German ship in the Baltic came up to look us over, I guess. They opened up the hatch covers, and the Hun garbles and gold-stripes came aboard and looked down at us, and spit all they could on us, and called us all the different kinds of swine in creation. They had them lined up and filing past the hatchways—all of them giving us the once over in turn. Maybe they sold tick-its for this show—it would be like the Huns.

At first we were milling around trying to get out from under the hatch openings and the shower of spit, but some Liney officer sang out, "Brit-liners all! Don't give way!" and we stood still and let them spit their damned German lungs out before we would move for them, and some Cornishmen began singing their song about Trelawney. So we made out that we did not know such a thing as a German ever lived.

We got better acquainted with German spitting later on, and believe me, they are great little spitters, not much on distance or accuracy, but quick in action and well supplied with ammunition. Spitting on prisoners is the favorite indoor and outdoor sport for Germans, men and women alike.

When the show was over, they roused us up on deck and put us to work throwing the salt pork and canned goods into two German mine-layers. While we were at it, a Danish patrol boat came out and tied alongside us, and some of her officers came aboard and saw us. They knew we were prisoners-of-war, and they knew that a vessel carrying prisoners-of-war must not remain in neutral waters for over twenty-four hours, but they did not say anything about it.

That night two men named Barney Hill and Joyce, the latter a gunner from the Mount Temple, sneaked up on deck and aft to the poop deck.

There was a pair of wooden stairs leading to the top of the poop deck, and Joyce and Hill lifted it and got it over the side with a rope to it. The two of them got down into the water all right, but Joyce let out a yell because the water was so cold, and a German patrol boat heard him and flashed a searchlight. They picked up Joyce right away, but Barney was making good headway and was almost free when they dragged him in. They beat them up on the patrol boat, and when they put them back on the Yarrowdale Badewitz beat them up some more and put them in irons. Then he began to shoot at their feet with his revolver, and he had a sailor stand by to hand him another revolver when the first one was empty. Then he would gash their faces with the barrel of the revolver and shout, "I'm Badewitz. I'm the man who fooled the English," and shoot at them, some more.

All the while the sailors were celebrating, drinking and eating, and yelling, as usual, and the whistles on all the German ships were blowing, and they were having a great fest. After about thirty hours we left, being escorted by a mine-layer and a mine-sweeper. I asked a German garby if that was the whole German navy, and he looked surprised and did not know I was kidding him, and said no. Then I said, "So the English got all the rest, did they?" and he handed me one in the mouth with his bayonet hilt, so I quit kidding him.

We saw rows and rows of mines, and the German sailors pointed out what they said were H. M. SS. Lion and Nomad, but I do not know whether they were the same ones that were in the Jutland battle or not. Finally we landed at Swinemunde just as the bells were ringing the old year out and the new year in. We were a fine bunch of blackbirds to hand the kaiser for a New Year's present, believe me. They mustered us up on deck, and each of us got a cup of water for our New Year's spree. Then we saw we were in for it, and all hope gone, but we were glad to be released from our hole, because we had been prisoners since December 10—three days on the Moeve and eighteen on the Yarrowdale—and the coal was not any softer than when we first sat on it.

So we began singing, "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag and smile, boys, smile. What's 'he use of worrying? It's never worth while," and so forth. They made us shut up, but not before we asked ourselves if we were downhearted, and everybody yelled "No!"

And that is how we gave our regards to Swinemunde.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"Pack Up Your Troubles."

We arrived at Swinemunde, on the east bank, and after we had had our drink of water and had been roused back into the bunkers, Badewitz went across to the west side in a launch with Joyce and Hill and a guard of sailors. They were to be shot the next morning, with some others, at a public shooting-fest. The rest of us wrapped ourselves in lumps of coal as best we could and tried to sleep.

In the morning crowds of Germans came aboard us and were turned loose on the boxes in the hold. It was a sight to see them rip off the covers and gobble the salami and other stuff that we carried. Table manners are not needed when there is no table, I guess, but if you had seen them, you would say these Germans did not even have trough manners. I have seen hogs that were more finicky.

While they were at it, hand to hand with the chow, giving and receiving terrible punishment, we prisoners were mustered on deck, counted, kicked onto tugs and transferred to the west bank, where the mob was waiting for us. My wounds, as you can imagine, were in a pretty bad state by this time, and were getting more painful every minute, so that I found I was getting ugly and anxious for an argument. I knew that if I stayed this way I would probably never come out alive, for there is every chance you could want to pick a quarrel while you are a prisoner that will mean freedom for you—but only the freedom of going west, which I was not anxious to try.

When we got near the west bank, on the tugs, we could see that we were up against a battle with our arms tied. Over half the crowd was women and children, I should say, and the rest were laborers and old civilians, and reserve soldiers, and roughnecks generally. We could see the spit experts—the spit snipers, deployed to the front, almost.

"I am afraid," answered the child, "that people will think I am pretending I am a girl so I will not have to go to the war."

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

County Officials Mourn
(Weekly Democrat)

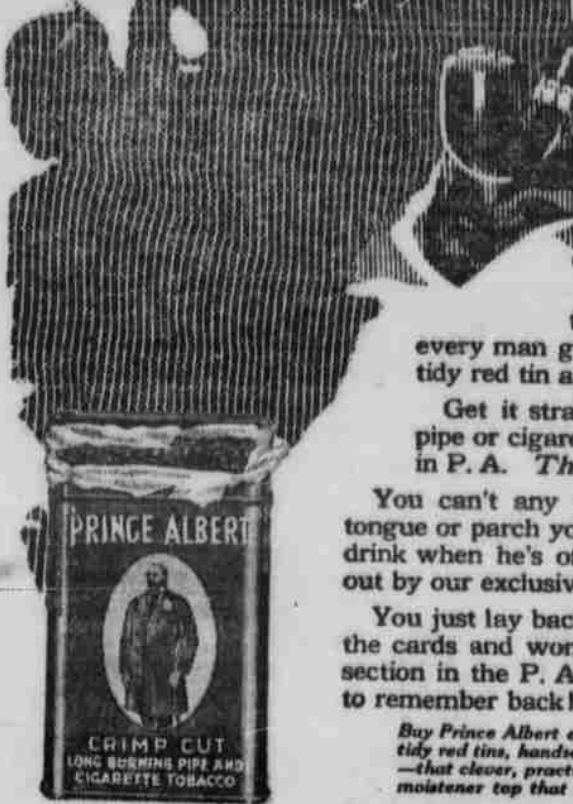

To alleviate one of the evils that press heavily on some of the people in this state was embodied in House Bill No. 200, introduced by Curran of Mora, which would permit the county commissioners to pay the county officers their salaries monthly, instead of quarterly, as at present. The bill was before the house for consideration several days ago, but it has been sent back to the committee, and, because of its violation of the old fetish of the Bateman law, it was amended so that the county officers will not receive their salaries monthly until next year, when the law providing for a salary fund goes into effect. In the meantime the county officers can go on "standing off" the grocer and the butcher or borrowing money from the banks to meet their bills for the greater part of another year. It passed by a vote of 37 to 7, as amended.

PHYSICIAN WAS IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Dr. Farnsworth Gives Doan's Credit for His Wonderful Recovery.

Dr. T. G. Farnsworth, 70 S. Kansas St., Buchanan, W. Va., retired physician of over forty years' experience, ex-State Congressman, ex-City Mayor and ex-County Health Officer, praises Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is Dr. Farnsworth's experience as he tells it: "It was just a few years after my retiring from practicing medicine that I found I was afflicted with severe disorder of the kidneys and bladder. I grew steadily worse, and sometimes I was unable to get around at all. The kidney secretions were retarded and so painful in passing I would cry out in misery. I was in a frightful condition. After I had lost hope in other remedies, Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and I tried them. I soon noticed a change for the better. I used several boxes and they cured me completely. Never in my practice did I know a remedy that would accomplish what Doan's Kidney Pills did, and I give them my heartiest endorsement."

He was old and angular, but strong and upstanding, with the look of the farm on his unsophisticated face. In his old and none too clean blue jumper and jeans he gazed out upon the boulevard with his shining eyes and daintily clad ladies. Confidence in all the world shone in his innocent old eyes.

"Say, mister, I'd like a ride, please," he called to the driver of a new seven-passenger car at the corner of Thirty-fourth and main streets.

But the seven-passenger ignored his plea. Car after car did the same, and the old man turned puzzled eyes to the others standing near and remarked in neighborly fashion: "Out our way we ain't so proud as to refuse a ride to anybody."—Kansas City Star.

WILSON DELIVERS SPEECH AT MECHANICS HALL IN BOSTON TO BIG CROWD.

Western Newspaper Union News Service

Boston, Feb. 24.—President Wilson made the following speech at Mechanics Hall in Boston, after landing from his trip back from Europe.

"Governor Coolidge, Mr. Mayor, Fellow Citizens:

"I wonder if you are half as glad to see me as I am to see you. It warms my heart to see a great body of my fellow citizens again, because in some respects during the recent months I have been lonely indeed without your comradeship and counsel and I tried at every step of the work which fell to me to recall what I was sure would be your counsel with regard to the great matters which were under consideration.

"I do not want you to think that I have not been appreciative of the extraordinary generous reception which was given to me on the other side, in saying that it makes me very happy to get home again. I do not mean to say that I was not very deeply touched by the idea that came from the great crowds on the other side. But I want to say to you in all honesty that I felt them to be a call of greeting to you, rather than to me.

"I did not feel that the greeting was personal. I had in my heart the overflowing pride of being your representative, and of receiving the plaudits of men everywhere who felt that your hearts beat with theirs in the cause of liberty.

"There was no mistaking the tone in the voices of those great crowds. It was not a tone of mere greeting, it was not a tone of mere generous welcome, it was the calling of comrade to comrade, the cry that comes from men who say, 'We have waited for this day when the friends of liberty shall come across the sea and shake hands with us, to see that a new world was constructed upon a new basis and foundation of justice and right.'

"I can't tell you the inspiration that came from the sentiments that came out of those simple voices in the crowds. And the proudest thing I have to report to you is that this great country of ours is trusted throughout the world.

"I have not come to report the proceedings of the result of the peace conference; that would be premature. I can say that I have received very happy impressions from this conference—the impression that, while there are many differences of judgment, while there are some divergences of object, there is, nevertheless, a common spirit and a common realization of the necessity of setting up new standards of right in the world. Because the men who are in conference realize as keenly as any Americans can realize that they are not the masters of their people, that they are the servants of their people, and that the spirit of their people has awakened to a new purpose and a new conception of their power to realize that purpose, and that no man dare go home from that conference and report anything less noble than was expected of it.

"The conference seems to go so slowly, from day to day in Paris it seems to go slowly; but I wonder if you realize the complexity of the task which it has undertaken. It seems as if the settlements of this war affected directly, every great nation. I sometimes think, every small nation in the world, and no one decision can be made which is not properly linked in with the great series of other decisions which must accompany it, and it must be reckoned on with the final result, if the real quality and character of that result is to be properly judged. "What we are doing is to hear the whole case; hear it from the mouths of the men most interested; hear it from those who are officially commissioned to state it; hear the rival claims; hear the claims that affect new nationalities that affect new areas of the world, that affect new commercial and economic connections that have been established by the great world war through which we have gone.

"And I have been struck by the moderation of those who have presented national claims. I can testify that I believe I have nowhere seen the gloom of passion. I have seen earnestness. I have seen tears come to the eyes of men who pled for down-trodden peoples whom they were privileged to speak for, but they were not the tears of anger, they were the tears of ardent hope.

"I don't see how any man can fail to have been subdued by these pleas, subdued to this feeling, that he was not there to assert an individual judgment of his own, but to try to assist the cause of humanity.

"And in the midst of it all every interest seeks out, first of all, when it reaches Paris, the representatives of the United States. Why? Because—and I think I am stating the most wonderful fact in history—because there is no nation in Europe that suspects the motives of the United States.

"Was there ever so wonderful a thing seen before? Was there ever so moving a thing? Was there ever any fact that so bound the nation that had won that esteem forever to deserve it?

"I would not have you understand that the great men who represent the other nations there in conference are disesteemed by those who know them. Quite the contrary. But you understand the countries of Europe have again and again clashed with one another in competitive interests. It is impossible for men to forget the sharp issues that were drawn between them in past times.

"It is impossible for men to believe that all ambitions have been of a sudden been foregone. They remember territory that was coveted; they remember rights that it was attempted to exert; they remember political ambitions which it was attempted to realize, and while they believe that men have come into a different temper, they cannot forget these things and so they do not resort to one another for a dispassionate view of the matters in controversy. They resort to that nation which has won the enviable distinction of being regarded as the friend of mankind.

"Whenever it is desired to send a small force of soldiers to occupy a piece of territory where it is thought nobody else will be welcome, they ask for American soldiers, and when other soldiers would be looked upon with suspicion and perhaps met with resistance, the American soldiers are welcomed with acclamation.

"I have had no many grounds for pride on the other side of the water that I am very thankful that they are not grounds for personal pride, but for national pride. If they were grounds for personal pride I'd be the most stuck-up man in the world. And it has been an infinite pleasure to me to see those gallant soldiers of ours, of whom the constitution of the United States made me the proud commander. "You may be proud of those men, but I am proud of the peace league.

"I have been searching for the fundamental fact that converted Europe to relieve us. Before this war Europe did not believe in us as she does now. She did not believe in us throughout the first three years of the war. She seems really to have believed that we were holding off because we thought we could make more by staying out than by going in. And all of a sudden, in a short eighteen months, the whole verdict is reversed. There can be but one explanation for it. They saw what we did—that with out making a single claim we put all our men and all our means at the disposal of those who were fighting for their homes, in the first instance, but for cause, the cause of human rights and justice, and that went in not to support their national claims, but to support the great cause which they held in common.

"And when they saw that America not only held ideals, but acted on them, they were converted to America and became firm partisans of those ideals. "I met a group of scholars when I was in Paris. Some gentlemen from one of the Greek universities who had come to see me, and in whose presence, or rather in the presence of whose traditions of learning, I felt very young indeed. And I told them that I had had one of the delightful revelations that come to a man. All my life I have heard men speak with a sort of condescension of idealists and particularly of those who chose to term themselves idealists, who were in the habit of uttering ideals in the free atmosphere when they clash with nobody in particular.

"And I have said I have this sweet revenge. Speaking with perfect frankness in the name of the United States I have uttered as the objects of this great war, ideals and nothing but ideals, and the war has been won by this inspiration. Men were fighting with the music of a lovelier music, until they came to realize those things, feeling they were fighting for their lives and their country, and when these accounts of what it was all about reached their heads, they raised their heads to heaven; then they saw men in khaki coming across the sea in the spirit of crusaders and they found that these were brave men, reckless of danger not only for themselves, but for their country, and they seemed to see something that made danger worth while. Men have testified to me in Europe that men were possessed by something they could not call religious fervor. They had a vision, they had a dream, and they were fighting in the dream and fighting in the dream they turned the tide of battle and it never came back.

"And now do you realize this confidence we have established throughout the world imposes a burden upon us? If you choose to do it a burden. It is one of those burdens which any nation ought to be proud to carry. Any man who resists the present ideas that run in the world will find himself thrown upon a shore so high and barren that it will seem as if he had been separated from his human kind forever.

"I invite him to test the sentiments of the nation. We set this nation upon a new basis and we do not confine our conception and purpose to America. "Now," said the President, "this conference we have established calls for something. The Europe I left was full of hope. The Europe I left was full of the war was sinking to a stubborn desperation. They thought the end of the war would eventually be a resumption of the old order. They never dreamed it would be a Europe of settled peace.

"Now all the peoples of Europe are buoyed up in the hope that all the nations of the world shall unite their moral and physical forces so that right shall prevail. If America should fail the world of its hope, the nations will be set up as hostile camps again, and the men at the peace conference will go home with their heads upon their backs because they will have failed. We would leave on the peace table nothing but a modern scrap of paper."

Men, he declared, who would have America fail the world in his hopes saw only beyond the nearest horizon.

"They do not know the sentiment of America," he said.

Speaking of hopes of the people of Europe for a lasting peace which he said was planned to in the United States as the "friend of mankind," the President said he had no more doubt of the verdict of America in this matter than I have of the doubt of the blood that is in me."

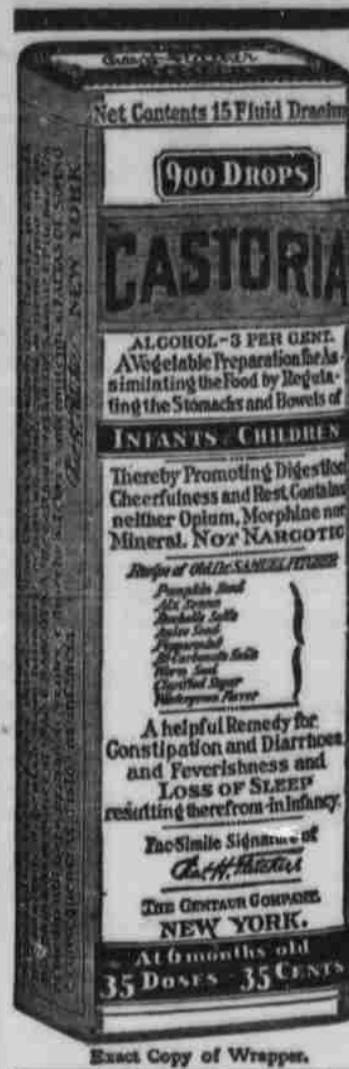

"The nations of the world have set their heads now to do a great thing and they are not going to stop short of their purpose," he said. "I do not speak of the governments, but of the peoples who will see that if their present governments do not do their will some others will. And the secret is out and the present government knows it.

"I don't have come back for an attempt to transact business for a little while in America, but I say in all soberness that I have been trying to speak your thoughts. Probing deep in my heart and trying to see the things that are right rather than the things that are expedient, I am finding the heart of America.

"I find that in loving America I have joined the majority of my fellow men throughout the world."

U. S. Tonnage Big.

Washington.—Discussing the American merchant marine problem in the Senate, Senator Ransdell of Louisiana predicted that within a few months the shipping board would own one-half the ocean-going merchant vessels in the United States of over 500 gross tons, and that by 1920 ship construction in this country would have increased the total tonnage under the American flag to approximately 19,000,000 tons. "These figures," the senator said, "lead to the conclusion that from the quantitative point of view the problem of the American merchant marine is solved."

Acid-Stomach Ruins Health of Millions

Besides those painful attacks of indigestion; that awful bloated, lumpy feeling after eating and downright stomach misery that you who have experienced it know so well; besides disgusting belching, food-repeating, sour stomach and distressing heartburn—besides all this, ACID-STOMACH undermines the health and saps the strength of millions.

If you don't get rid of those stomach ills there is no telling where your stomach troubles will end, for it is a well known scientific fact that many serious ailments have their start in an acid-stomach.

Start now—this very day—to get rid of your stomach miseries. Take EATONIC—the wonderful remedy that absorbs the excess acid from the stomach and brings INSTANT relief. You simply have no idea how much better, stronger and brighter you feel at once. It drives out all the gas and bloating, puts an immediate stop to belching and heartburn, ends stomach suffering and makes it cool, sweet, comfortable and strong.

There can be no further excuse for you to allow acid-stomach to wreck your health—pile up misery upon misery until you get to the point where you feel down and out and that life has lost all its joys. Remember, just as acid-stomach ruins teeth, so acid-stomach ruins health.

Take EATONIC. It's good, just like a bit of candy and makes the stomach feel fine. You can then eat the things you like and, what is more, every mouthful you eat will count in creating power and energy. You'll feel so much better—have punch and pep—the power and will to do things and get results, and your stomach misery will be gone.

Take our advice. Get a big box of EATONIC from your druggist today. It costs so little. If it fails to remove your stomach distress, he will refund your money. That is guaranteed; you are to be satisfied or money refunded.

Capitol News

(New Mexico State Record)

Governor Larrazolo announced Wednesday that he expects to use $5,000 from the state defense funds as New Mexico's portion for a suitable celebration of the soldiers and sailors homecoming to be carried out in New York on an elaborate scale.

The county of Hidalgo, which in its inception was discussed as Pyramid county was created this week by the concurrence of the senate in the house bill. Hidalgo comprises the southern portion of the present Grant county and is attached to Luna county for the purpose of electing members to the legislature. Lordsburg will be the county seat. The county will begin with ample resources and proportionately large population, closely balanced politically between the Republican and Democratic parties.

The county of Larrazolo, comprising the western portion of the existing county of Curry is taking form. Melrose is the proposed county seat. A delegation from Duran and vicinity asking for a new county from adjoining parts of Torrance, Guadalupe and Lincoln has also arrived in the city.

On Tuesday evening at the executive mansion, Gov. Larrazolo was the host of members of the senate at a dinner. Twenty-six were present. They were served at two tables, Lieutenant Governor Benjamin F. Pankey presiding over one of the groups.

In the first week in March the members of the house of representatives will be similarly entertained by the executive and his lieutenant.

The house bill providing for free text books for school children whose parents cannot afford to buy books, declared in the house to mean an annual expenditure of $175,000 passed the house Wednesday afternoon by a vote of 40 to 2.

LAND IN DEMAND

Opportunities of Western Canada Becoming Known.

Fertile Soil on Which Can Be Produced Record Crops Offered to Settlers at Prices Attractive to Farm Seekers.

In the early months of 1919 there was a demand for farm lands in Western Canada, the greatest that has ever been in the history of the country. This despite the fact that farm lands have increased in price, as the value of the farm product has increased and the vitality and productive value of Western Canada farm lands have come more and more into evidence. Farming there is no longer an experiment. Good crops can be grown in all localities, some probably a little more favorable than others, but on the whole a good—more than good—general average. Land elsewhere on the continent is used for the developing of one hundred and twenty dollar steers, thirty-five dollar hogs, two dollar and twenty cent wheat and eighty-five cent oats, and its price is anywhere from one hundred and fifty to three hundred dollars an acre. Western Canada land sells at from twenty to forty dollars an acre, and the farmer cultivating it gets one hundred and twenty-five dollars for his steer, thirty-five dollars for his hog, two dollars and twenty cents for his wheat, and eighty-five cents for his oats. And he can grow corn, too, but Western Canada is saying no more about it than North Dakota did fifteen years ago, when it was an experiment there, and see what North Dakota is doing today. The prediction is that in less than a decade corn will be grown successfully in all parts of Western Canada. It is, therefore, easy to account for the increased demand for Western Canada lands. The war is ended, and the food that the American and Canadian farmer sent across to the soldier, holding up his strength and maintaining his vitality, won the war. No! It was just a factor in winning it, as was the soldier of Italy, of France, of Belgium, of Great Britain, of Canada and of the United States. An important factor, nevertheless. People generally have begun to realize what food means, means to everybody—and it is grown on the farm. So people today want farm lands, and they want those that are good. The great, wide, open stretches of wonderfully productive soil of Western Canada are the chief attraction of the land seekers of today, and it will be so tomorrow, and of all days, until these vacant inviting acres are brought into fruition by the hand of man and the multiplied effort of steam and gasoline power, to the influence and operation of which these lands present such a splendid opportunity.

The pulse of today's desire to secure farm lands may be seen to beat in the columns of the local newspaper, recording sales of many tracts of lands, ranging from 100 to 1,200 acres. A Regina (Sask.) paper says, "In farm lands there is so brisk a business being done that it might be considered a boom." Another paper reports the sale of a section of raw prairie seven miles east of Regina for $35 an acre, and 200 acres at $50 an acre. One real-estate firm handled in three weeks' time over 3,500 acres of farm lands, the turnover being upward of $100,000. An improved farm near Regina changed hands at $47 an acre. "For the first time in the history of the Moosejaw district farm land has been sold for $100 an acre, when J. S. Cameron of Victoria, B. C., sold half a section, known as the Lett farm, to John Logan. The farm was bought a year ago for $85 an acre and is located three miles from the city. It is highly improved and has fine buildings."

An extract from a local paper says: "The movement of farm lands is opening up well this season and there is every indication that a large area of prairie property will be turned over during the months intervening before seedtime."

"The price received for farm lands in each instance is considered as good, particularly for unimproved raw prairie, and shows a considerable improvement on prices for similar properties sold during the years of the war."—Advertisement.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.
To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 4 oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

WILSON IS RUSHING WORK

WILL NOT ASK THE SENATE TO RATIFY PEACE LEAGUE
NOW.

MONROE DOCTRINE SAFE

BOTH HOUSES VALIDATE INFORMATION WAR CONTRACTS LET
BY UNITED STATES.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Further important expressions of opinion on the League of Nations came from President Wilson in his conferences at the capitol, from Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, chairman of the foreign relations committee, in an address to the Senate, and from senators and representatives who attended the dinner at the White House.

President Wilson, in discussing the league with members of Congress and also at a conference with newspaper correspondents, expressed confidence in the success of the plan.

He also let it be known that he has every expectation of conclusion of peace within a few months and in this connection said that territorial adjustments presented the most delicate problem remaining. Work on all other questions, he stated, is rapidly nearing completion by the commissions appointed to handle it.

The President was emphatic in expressing his belief that in no particular did the proposed constitution of the league conflict with the American constitution or with the Monroe doctrine.

Washington.—President Wilson spent two hours at the capitol today conferring with scores of Democratic members of Congress, discussing innumerable executive affairs, measures to expedite the work of Congress before adjournment, patronage and the League of Nations and questions related to his work at the peace conference. Leaders were urged by the President to pass all urgent appropriation and other measures. While the President was at the capitol the Senate debated the $1,000,000,000 wheat guarantee bill. Chairman Hitchcock of the foreign relations committee made his address on the League of Nations and the House debated the general deficiency appropriation measure. "Speeding up" measures bore further fruit in both houses. The measure validating about $2,750,000,000 in informal war contracts was completed, both bodies adopting the conference report.

Repeal Semi-Luxury Tax.

Washington.—Repeal of the semi-luxury tax included in the war revenue bill signed by the President was proposed in a resolution approved by the House ways and means committee and later introduced by Chairman Kitchin. The clause provides for a tax of 10 per cent after May 1 on wearing apparel and many other articles costing above specified sums. Quick action on the measure is expected, with House leaders hopeful that the Senate will act before adjournment.

Greeks Occupy Kherson.

Athens.—Greek troops now occupy Kherson, ninety-two miles northeast of Odessa, on the right bank of the Dniester river in southern Russia. A dispatch from Athens said Greek and Rumanian troops had advanced fifty-three miles from Odessa.

Trouble Not Settled.

Berlin.—The soviet congress in Munich has not yet reached an agreement regarding the proposal to proclaim a soviet republic in Bavaria, to which the regular Socialists are strongly opposed. According to reports received, the prospects for the adoption of this measure by the Munich proletariat, which would signify a complete breach with the national government, are not as strong as formerly. The Munich congress, however, has adopted several radical measures, including one providing for dwellings for workmen and one for the regulation of the non-Socialist press. The housing commissioner is given dictatorial power to seize palaces, villas and barracks and convert them into lodgings for the working people.

Kultur Not Improving.

Warsaw.—Twelve persons were killed in Bransk by the Germans before they evacuated the town, and villages along the railway from Bialystok to Brest-Litovsk are being burned and pillaged by them.

Grow Wheat in Western Canada

One Crop Often Pays for the Land

Western Canada offers the greatest advantages to home seekers. Large profits are assured. You can buy on easy payment terms.

Fertile Land at $15 to $30 per Acre—land similar to that which through many years has averaged from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Hundreds of cases are on record where in Western Canada a single crop has paid the cost of land and production. The Government of the Dominion and Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta want the farmer to prosper, and extend every possible encouragement and help to Grain Growing and Stock Raising.

Though Western Canada offers land at such low figures, the high prices of grain, cattle, sheep and hogs will remain.

Loans for the purchase of stock may be had at low interest; there are good shipping facilities; best of markets; free schools; churches; splendid climate; low taxation (none on improvements). For particulars as to location of lands for sale, maps, illustrated literature, railroad rates, etc., apply to Dept. of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or

Mining Men Meet With Governor

Mine owners, investors and operators from all sections of New Mexico are gathered in Santa Fe this week for a conference with Governor Larrazolo and the members of the state tax commission and the members of the legislature, on suggested changes in the existing mine tax laws. A number of bills are pending in the assembly looking to changes in the present system of taxing mines.

A suggestion has come from members of the state tax commission, which is being given careful consideration, that in view of the complex character of the subject and the wide variation of mine tax law and the system in the mining sites, that the governor be asked to name a commission consisting of a mining engineer, an economist and a lawyer, to make a two year study of the mining taxation situation in New Mexico and to report to the next legislature with a program of such legislation as may be needed.

Must Raise 300 Tons

While the governments of the stricken peoples of Europe who have just been liberated from German domination are bending every effort towards driving out the grim spectre of famine which is hovering over them all, the people themselves are suffering for the lack of clothing. Heeding their pitiful appeals the American Red Cross has undertaken to supply them with a minimum of 1,000,000 garments a month.
 As part of this responsibility the Red Cross, during the last week in March, will collect 10,000 tons of used clothing throughout the United States.

The Mountain Division, comprising the states of Utah,
 New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming, will be asked to raise 300 tons—100 tons more than during the last drive, which was for Belgium and France alone.
