ROYAL CELEBRATION AT ULRICK HOME

Anniversary of Tin Wedding—Gorgeous Costumes.

Saturday afternoon, April 12th, will long be remembered by those who participated in one of the most novel, interesting and enjoyable events ever witnessed in Carrizozo. The occasion was the celebration of the tin wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ulrick, it being the 10th anniversary of their marriage, the guests being of the feminine class, completely, so that no credit could be claimed for assistance from the unhallowed hands of mere man.

At an early hour in the afternoon guests began to arrive attired in royal and gorgeous costumes. The Ulrick home was beautifully decorated in honor of the occasion which coupled with the lavishly gowned ladies and princely dressed gentlemen (impersonators) presented a scene surpassing description for beauty and novelty.

The guests were the ladies of the Carrizozo Bridge Club with a few substitutes. Mrs. F. J. Sager being at Roswell, Mrs. Geo. Tittsworth at Capitan and Mesdames McKeon and Lewis at Fort Stanton failed to attend on account of the bad condition of the roads. At the appointed time Mrs. John E. Bell, who impersonated the groom entered and leaning on his (her) arm was Mrs. Geo. Ulrick, both of which were attired in wedding costumes attended by the minister impersonated, by Mrs. T. A. Spencer and Mrs. Leon who, as the mother of the bride, weepingly consented to give the hand of her favorite daughter to the gallant lover, after the strains of the wedding march had died away.

Mrs. T. A. Spencer, as the clergyman, performed her office in a highly dignified and dramatic manner; in a short but impressive speech to the two who were about to cross the line into a new life he (she) fully warned the trembling groom of the responsibilities attending the step about to be made and exacted promises from lord and lady among which were the following:

Dearly beloved guests: We are gathered here on a very solemn occasion; You are about to witness a man and woman swear away their birthrights and commit themselves to eternal slavery. Do you take this woman to be your wife, and do you promise to remind her no less than three times a day of the good cook your mother was? Do you promise to swear every time you build the fire in the morning and every time you put the cat out at night?

To the blushing bride the following questions were propounded: Do you take this man to be your husband and do you solemnly promise to spend all he makes? Do you promise to attend no less than four card parties every week so that he may come home to a cold supper with the cat howling, the dog barking and the children crying? Who gives this woman's hand in marriage?

Asked Man to Work; Refused; Fight Follows

A sharp and almost fatal gun fight took place Tuesday of this week at the sheep ranch of Lee Corn, near Picacho, between Pablo Cantu and Juan Samaripa. Cantu, who was foreman of the ranch, asked Samaripa to begin a search for some stray sheep; Samaripa refused and to impress on the mind of the foreman the fact that he meant what he said, pulled a revolver and began shooting at the director of the work.

Cantu returned the fire; striking his antagonist with two shots, inflicting severe injuries. One shot entered the groin, the other striking Samaripa in the right side, lodging in the hip. There were nine shots fired; Samaripa firing six and Cantu three. The latter proved to be the best marksman, however, as he made good with two of his shots, where Samaripa fired six shots without effect.

Sheriff Duran was notified of the fight by 'phone and at once hurried to the scene of the shooting, accompanied by Mounted Policeman Ed Harris. The sheriff found the wounded man had been taken to Roswell by the owner of the ranch, and he proceeded to that city after him where he, after the man had medical attention, brought him over to Carrizozo.

Cantu, who is some twenty years older than Samaripa and being over the age of sixty, is another good example of argument against the doctrine of Dr. Osler, that a man's day of usefulness being past at the age of sixty, he should be quietly and peacefully put to death as an act of mercy. Both participants are now in jail to await the legal course of the law.

Card of Thanks

We wish to return our sincere thanks to the kind friends who sympathized and assisted us in our recent bereavement in the loss of our dear baby, and for the beautiful flowers that as a token of love and esteem; for all of which we acknowledge our deepest gratitude.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Starkey.

With this ring I tie, wed and forever unite and pronounce you partners in future misery which will deprive you of all individual freedom and happiness.

After the ceremony the guests repaired to the commodious dining room where a delicious four course luncheon was served. In the center of the table was a large wedding cake, the donor being Mrs. W. C. McDonald, who sent the cake from Los Angeles, where she has been spending the winter season. The cake was distributed among the guests each being provided with a slice to lay under their pillows to lure them to dreams of future bliss and happiness of all connected with the bridal feast. The plates which were tin, the hostess gave to each guest as a souvenir of this joyful occasion. Those present were all old members of the Carrizozo Bridge Club and were as follows: Mesdames Ulrick, Ziegler, Leon, Crawford, Dingwall, Allen, Farley, Spencer, Osborn, Squier, Spence, Gumm, Reilly, French, Bell, Bamberger, Tennis, Wetmore, Lemon, Mrs. J. F. Kimbell of Douglas, Ariz., and Miss Belle Lutz of Carrizozo.

The following ladies were given a peep into the inner workings of the circle: Mesdames Blaney, Farley, Norman and George. Refreshments were served after the initiation.

We will hear more from Mrs. Miller in the near future, and in the meantime those interested in the work as outlined by her should get busy with pigs, chickens, calves, gardens and sewing. Any information in this direction will be gladly given by Mrs. M. L. Blaney, County Supt. of Schools.

CARRIZOZO LOSES NOTED MERCHANT

Jacob Ziegler of Firm of Ziegler Bros. Succumbs.

Last Wednesday night at the Hotel Dieu, El Paso, occurred the death of one of Lincoln County's oldest and highly respected business men, Jacob Ziegler of the firm of Ziegler Bros., who have conducted a general merchandise store in Carrizozo for the past ten years.

Mr. Ziegler was born in Germany in the year of 1856, and came to this country in 1870, being at that time but 14 years of age. His first stopping place was Pittsburg, Pa., where after a short stay he came west following the stream of health and wealth seekers working their way westward at that particular time, locating at White Oaks, where with his brother, Albert Ziegler, who followed him to this country, opened a general store at that thriving town, in 1886.

In speaking of Mr. Ziegler, Mr. A. C. Wingfield, an old settler in this locality says that in 1887 he came to White Oaks from Texas and the first man he became acquainted with in the town was Mr. Ziegler, who gladly gave him all information he desired. In connection with the store at White Oaks, Mr. Ziegler made regular trips to and from Socorro selling goods to people along the line and many old residents of this locality can remember the team of black horses he drove when making these trips.

In 1904 Ziegler Bros. sold out at White Oaks, moving from there to Trinidad, Colo., where they entered the hide and leather business, remaining in that city until 1908, when they moved to Carrizozo, starting a general merchandise store which they have so successfully conducted up to the present time.

Mr. Ziegler had been in ill health for the past three years during which time he had employed the best medical aid obtainable in this locality until last week he decided to have an operation performed but the long continued strain under which he had been laboring had so weakened his constitution that shortly following the operation he died.

Mr. Ziegler was well known and highly respected by all who knew him; his many good qualities made him a good neighbor, a firm friend, a reliable business man and a desirable citizen, whose word was as good as his bond. Besides his brother, Mr. Albert Ziegler, his partner in the firm, he leaves two brothers and one sister, who now reside in Coblenz, Germany. The remains were interred at El Paso, Texas, today, the funeral services being conducted by Rabbi Violante, and attended by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ziegler together with a goodly number of Carrizozo friends of the deceased. The Outlook extends its sympathy to the surviving relatives.

GIRL OF MYSTERY! HOUSE OF MYSTERY!

An American story of love and patriotism, of plot and counterplot, that enthralled the reader and keeps him guessing.

CHAPTER I.

The First Wayfarer and the Second Wayfarer Meet and Part on the Highway.

A solitary figure trudged along the narrow road that wound its serpentine way through the dismal, forbidding depths of the forest—a man who, though weary and footsore, lagged not in his swift, resolute advance. Night was coming on, and with it the no uncertain prospects of a storm.

He came to the "pike" and there was a signpost. A huge, crudely painted hand pointed to the left, and on what was intended to be the sleeve of a very stiff and undiluting arm these words were printed in scaly white: "Hart's Tavern. Food for Man and Beast. Also Gasoline. Established 1798. 1 Mile."

On the opposite side of the "pike," in the angle formed by a junction with the narrow mountain road, stood an humble signpost, lettered so indistinctly that it deserved the compassion of all observers because of its humbleness. Swerving in his hurried passage, the tall stranger drew near this shrinking friend to the uncertain traveler, and was suddenly aware of another presence in the roadway.

A woman appeared, as if from nowhere, almost at his side. He drew back to let her pass. She stopped before the little signpost, and together they made out the faint directions.

To the right and up the mountain road Frogg's Corner lay four miles and a half away; Pitcairn was six miles back over the road which the man had traveled. Two miles and a half down the turnpike was Spanish Falls, a railway station, and four miles above the crossroads where the man and woman stood peering through the darkness at the inconceivable signpost reposed the village of St. Elizabeth. Hart's Tavern was on the road to St. Elizabeth, and the man, with barely a glance at his fellow traveler, started briskly off in that direction.

He knew that these wild mountain storms moved swiftly; his chance of reaching the tavern ahead of the deluge was exceedingly slim. His long, powerful legs had carried him twenty or thirty paces before he came to a sudden halt.

What of this lone woman who traversed the highway? His first glimpse of her had been extremely casual—indeed, he had paid no attention to her at all, so eager was he to read the directions and be on his way.

She was standing quite still in front of the signpost, peering up the road toward Frogg's Corner—confronted by a steep climb that led into black and sinister timberlands above the narrow strip of pasture bordering the pike.

The fierce wind pinned her skirts to her slender body as she leaned against the gale, gripping her hat tightly with one hand and straining under the weight of the bag in the other. The ends of a veil whipped furiously about her head, and, even in the gathering darkness, he could see a strand or two of hair keeping them company.

Retracting his steps, he called out to her above the gale:

"Can I be of any assistance to you?" She turned quickly. He saw that the veil was drawn tightly over her face.

"No, thank you," she replied. Her voice, despite a certain nervous note, was soft and clear and gentle—the voice and speech of a well-bred person who was young and resolute.

"Pardon me, but have you much farther to go? The storm will soon be upon us, and—surely you will not consider me presumptuous—I don't like the idea of your being caught out in—"

"What is to be done about it?" she interrupted, resignedly. "I must go on. I can't wait here, you know, to be washed back to the place I started from."

He smiled. She had wit as well as determination.

"If I can be of the least assistance to you, I don't hesitate to command me. I am a sort of tramp, you might say, and I travel as well by night as I do by day—so don't feel that you are putting me to any inconvenience. Are you by any chance bound for Hart's Tavern? If so, I will be glad to lag behind and carry your bag."

"You are very good, but I am not bound for Hart's Tavern, wherever that may be. Thank you, just the same. You appear to be an uncommonly genteel tramp, and it isn't because I am afraid you might make off with my belongings." She added the last by way of apology.

He smiled—and then frowned as he cast an uneasy look at the black clouds now rolling ominously up over the mountain ridge.

"By Jove, we're going to catch it good and hard," he exclaimed. "Better take my advice. These storms are terrible. I know, for I've encountered half a dozen of them in the past week. They fairly tear one to pieces. You are a stranger in these parts?"

"Yes. The railway station is a few miles below here. I have walked all the way. There was no one to meet me. You are a stranger also, so it is useless to inquire if you know whether this road leads to Green Fancy."

"Green Fancy? Sounds attractive. I'm sorry I can't enlighten you." He drew a small electric torch from his pocket and directed its slender ray upon the signpost.

"It is on the road to Frogg's Corner," she explained nervously. "A mile and a half, so I am told. It isn't on the signpost. It is a house, not a village. Thank you for your kindness. And I am not at all frightened," she added, raising her voice slightly.

"But you are," he cried. "You're scared half out of your wits. You can't fool me. I'd be scared myself at the thought of venturing into those woods up yonder."

"Well, then, I am frightened," she confessed plaintively. "Almost out of my boots."

"That settles it," he said flatly. "You shall not undertake it."

"Oh, but I must. I am expected. It is important—"

"If you are expected why didn't someone meet you at the station? Seems to me—"

"H—k! Do you hear—doesn't that sound like an automobile—ah!" The hoarse honk of an automobile horn rose above the howling wind, and an instant later two faint lights came rushing toward them around a bend in the mountain road. "Better late than never," she cried, her voice vibrant once more.

He grasped her arm and jerked her out of the path of the oncoming machine, whose driver was sending it along at a mad rate, regardless of ruts and stones and curves. The car careened as it swung into the pike, skidded alarmingly, and then the brakes were jammed down. Attended by a vast grinding of gears and wheels, the rattling old car came to a stop fifty feet or more beyond them.

"I'd sooner walk than take my chances in an antediluvian rattletrap like that," said the tall wayfarer, bending quite close to her ear. "It will fall to pieces before you—"

But she was running down the road toward the car, calling out sharply to the driver. He stooped over and took up the traveling bag she had dropped in her haste and excitement. It was heavy, amazingly heavy.

"I shouldn't like to carry that a mile and a half," he said to himself.

The voice of the belated driver came to his ears on the swift wind. It was high-pitched and unmistakably apologetic. He could not hear what she was saying to him, but there wasn't much doubt as to the nature of her remarks. She was roundly upbraiding him.

Urged to action by thoughts of his own plight he hurried to her side and said:

"Excuse me, please. You dropped something. Shall I put it up in front or in the tonneau?"

The whimsical note in his voice brought a quick, responsive laugh from her lips.

"Thank you so much. I am frightfully careless with my valuables. Would you mind putting it in behind? Thanks!" Her tone altered completely as she ordered the man to turn the car around—"And be quick about it," she added.

The first drops of rain pelted down from the now thoroughly black dome above them, striking in the road with the sharpness of pebbles.

"Lucky it's a limousine," said the tall traveler. "Better hop in. We'll be getting it hard in a second or two."

"You must let me take you on to the Tavern in the car," she said. "Turn about is fair play. I cannot allow you to—"

"Never mind about me," he broke in cheerily. He had been wondering if she would make the offer, and he felt better now that she had done so. "I'm accustomed to roughing it. I don't mind a soaking. I've had hundreds of 'em."

"Just the same you shall not have one tonight," she announced firmly. "Get in behind. I shall sit with the driver."

If anyone had told him that this rattling, dilapidated automobile—ten years old, at the very least, he would have sworn—was capable of covering the mile in less than two minutes he would have laughed in his face. Almost before he realized that they were on the way up the straight, dark road the lights in the windows of Hart's Tavern came into view. Once more the bounding, swaying car came to a stop under brakes, and he was relaxing after the strain of the most hair-raising ride he had ever experienced.

Not a word had been spoken during the trip. The front windows were lowered. The driver—an old, hatchet-faced man—had uttered a single word just before throwing in the clutch at the crossroads in response to the young woman's crisp command to drive to Hart's Tavern. That word was uttered under his breath and it is not necessary to repeat it here.

The wayfarer lost no time in climbing out of the car. As he leaped to the ground and raised his green hat he took a second look at the automobile—a look of mingled wonder and respect. It was an old-fashioned, high-powered car, capable, despite its antiquity, of astonishing speed in any sort of going.

"For heaven's sake," he began, shouting to her above the roar of the wind and rain, "don't let him drive like that over those—"

"You're getting wet," she cried out, a thrill in her voice. "Good night—and thank you!"

"Look out!" rasped the unpleasant driver, and in went the clutch. The man in the road jumped hastily to one side as the car shot backward with a jerk, curved sharply, stopped for the fraction of a second, and then bounded forward again, headed for the crossroads.

"Thanks!" shouted the late passenger after the receding tail light, and dashed up the steps to the porch that ran the full length of Hart's Tavern.

A huge old-fashioned lantern hung above the portal, creaking and straining in the wind, dragging at its stout supports and threatening every instant to break loose and go frolicking away with the storm.

He lifted the latch and, being a tall man, involuntarily stooped as he passed through the door, a needless precaution, for gaunt, gigantic mountaineers had entered there before him and without bending their arrogant heads.

CHAPTER II.

The First Wayfarer Lays His Pack Aside and Falls in With Friends

The little hall in which he found himself was the "office" through which all men must pass who came as guests to Hart's Tavern. A steep, angular staircase took up one end of the room. Set in beneath its upper turn was the counter over which the business of the house was transacted, and behind this a man was engaged in the peaceful occupation of smoking a corn-cob pipe.

An open door to the right of the stairway gave entrance to a room from which came the sound of a deep, sonorous voice employed in what turned out to be a conversational solo. To the left another door led to what was evidently the dining room. The glance that the stranger sent in that direction revealed two or three tables covered with white cloths.

"Can you put me up for the night?" he inquired, advancing to the counter.

"You look like a feller who'd want a room with bath," drawled the man behind the counter, surveying the applicant from head to foot. "Which we ain't got," he added.

"I'll be satisfied to have a room with a bed," said the other.

"Sign here," was the laconic response.

"Can I have supper?" "Food for man and beast," said the other patiently. He slapped his palm upon a cracked call bell and then looked at the fresh man on the page.

"Thomas K. Barnes, New York," he read aloud. He eyed the newcomer once more. "My name is Jones—Putnam Jones. I run this place. My father an' grandfather run it before me. Glad to meet you, Mr. Barnes. We used to have a hostler here named Barnes. What's your ideal fer footin' it this time o' the year?"

"I do something like this every spring. A month or six weeks of it puts me in fine shape for a vacation later on," supplied Mr. Barnes whimsically.

Mr. Jones allowed a grin to steal over his seamed face. He reinserted the corn-cob pipe and took a couple of pulls at it.

"I never been to New York, but it must be a heavenly place for a vacation, if a feller c'n judge by what some of my present boarders have to say about it. It's a sort of play actor's paradise, ain't it?"

"It is paradise to every actor who happens to be on the road, Mr. Jones," said Barnes, slipping his big pack from his shoulders and letting it slide to the floor.

"Hear that feller in the taproom talkin'? Well, he is one of the leading actors in New York—in the world, for that matter. He's been talkin' about Broadway for nearly a week now, steady."

"May I inquire what he is doing up here in the wilds?"

"At present he ain't doing anything except talk. Last week he was treddin' the boards, as he puts it himself. Busted. Up the duc. Showed last Saturday night in Hornville, eighteen miles north of here, and immediately after the performance him and his whole troupe, started to walk back to New York, a good four hundred miles. They started out the back way of the operry house and nobody missed 'em till next mornin' except the sheriff, and he didn't miss 'em till they'd got over the county line into our balliwick. Fear of 'em are still stoppin' here just because I ain't got the heart to turn 'em out ner the spare money to buy 'em tickets to New York. Here comes one of 'em now. Mr. Dillingford, will you show this gentleman to room eleven and carry his baggage up fer him? And maybe he'll want a pitcher of warm water to wash and shave in." He turned to the new guest and smiled apologetically. "We're a little short o' help just now, Mr. Barnes, and Mr. Dillingford has kindly consented to—"

"My word!" gasped Mr. Dillingford, staring at the register. "Someone from little old New York? My word, sir, you— Won't you have a—er—little something to drink with me before you—"

"He wants something to eat," interrupted Mr. Jones sharply. "Tell Mr. Barnes to step up to his room and take the order."

"All right, old chap—nothing easier," said Mr. Dillingford genially. "Just climb up the elevator, Mr. Barnes. We do this to get up an appetite. When did you leave New York?"

Taking up a lighted kerosene lamp and the heavy pack, Mr. Clarence Dillingford led the way up the stairs. He was a chubby individual of indefinite age. At a glance you would have said he was under twenty-one; a second look would have convinced you that he was nearer forty-one.

Depositing Barnes' pack on a chair in the little bedroom at the end of the hall upstairs he favored the guest with a perfectly unabashed grin.

"I'm not doing this to oblige old man Jones, you know. I won't attempt to deceive you. I'm working out a daily board bill. Chuck three times a day and a bed to sleep in—that's what I'm doing it for, so don't get it into your head that I applied for the job. Let me look at you. I want to get a good square peep at a man who has the means to go somewher and yet is boob enough to come to this gosh-awful place of his own free will and accord. Darn it, you look intelligent. I don't get you at all. What's the matter? Are you a fugitive from justice?"

Barnes find the theatrical people entertaining, but as the storm rages does a good deal of thinking about the mysterious girl bound for Green Fancy.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says: "Take for example, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drugg stores.—Adv.

His Ice Cream Bucket.

They were on the back platform of an outbound Irvington street car. One was carrying a small paper bucket, which was labeled all over with the words, "Ice Cream."

From the way the other passengers eyed the bucket it was evident they either thought the ice cream season was past or wondered why the carrier hadn't bought it in Irvington instead of carrying it such a distance.

"I guess people think I'm dippy, carrying a bucket of ice cream from downtown when it can be bought out here," said the man with the bucket. "But it's not ice cream. It's chili."

"Well, they say ice cream is chilly, so you should worry," said the other. —Indianapolis News.

Ginch.

"How can I be sure that I am the only woman you ever loved?"

"That's easy. Until I met you I didn't know what love was."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Actions speak louder than words. Some men never say die, yet they all have to do it.

When it is our duty to do an act of justice it should be done promptly. To delay is injustice.—LaBruyere.

For Colds, Catarrh or Influenza

Do you feel weak and unequal to the work ahead of you? Do you still cough a little, or does your nose bother you? Are you pale? Is your blood thin and watery? Better put your body into shape. Build strength!

An old, reliable blood-maker and herbal tonic made from wild roots and herbs, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This "nature remedy" comes in tablet or liquid form. It will build up your body, cure your cold, and protect you from disease germs which lurk everywhere. One of the active ingredients of this temperance alternative and tonic is wild cherry bark with stillingia, which is so good for the lungs and for coughs; also Oregon grape root, blood root, stone root, Queen's root, — all skillfully combined in the Medical Discovery. These roots have a direct action on the stomach, improving digestion and assimilation. These herbal extracts in the "Discovery" aid in blood-making, and are best for scrofula. By improving the blood they aid in throwing off an attack of influenza.

Catarrh should be treated, first, with blood disease, with this alternative. Then, in addition, the nose should be washed daily with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

Send 10c for trial pkg. of Medical Discovery Tablets or Catarrh Tablets to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE SHORTHORN COW

Is the farmer's cow. She gives a liberal flow of milk and carries a natural heavy flesh covering. She has weight, a quiet disposition and thrives on the ordinary farm rations. Why not start with two or three registered females? You would soon have a valuable herd at small cost. A Shorthorn bull will add 500 pounds to every steer he sires. You can always sell a Shorthorn.

Second Fordson Arrives

A peculiar rumbling sound attracted the attention of the Outlook force one day last week; upon investigating we found it to be a new Fordson tractor manned by Mr. Stanley Squier, of the Western Garage. This is the second Fordson introduced to Carrizozo; the first being sold to Fred Pfingsten of Lincoln. The new Fordson is also sold but the name of the party making the purchase could not be ascertained at this writing.

The books for the Garrard & Corn Garage show the sales of two new cars for the past week. E. O. Finley purchased a Buick and Jesse Dawson of Alto a Dodge. Both owners express themselves as being well pleased with their new machines and why not? Just see who they bought them from!

Your Telephone Service in Peace, War and Reconstruction

Peace

An abundance of materials for telephone construction purposes, an always available supply of labor, a well knit business organization, and normal and long anticipated demands for service—

Telephone service of the type that the Rocky Mountain West received in those pre-war days was within the bounds of possibility.

War

But then came the day when the nation squared its jaw and turned its face toward war—when industry in general lined up behind the nation in one solid phalanx to bring about the Great Result.

There was no longer an abundance of labor and material available for any purpose not directly connected with the prosecution of the war. Thousands of highly trained telephone men and women were called upon to devote all their time and skill to meeting the needs of the government.

And neither was there the same normal demand for service. The candle was burned at both ends. While the supplies of the things that made service possible at all fell far below normal, the demand for the service rose steadily until the daily number of calls reached tremendous proportions.

During this period we rendered the best telephone service that war-time conditions would permit, but it was not and could not be the same type of service that the public enjoyed in days of Peace.

Reconstruction

We have gone through the troubled period of war and we face to-day the important period of reconstruction.

But it has not been possible to overcome in a few months the handicaps imposed by nearly two years of restricted construction. New buildings and completed switchboards cannot be improvised nor can large numbers of additional employees be trained to the highest point of efficiency in so short a period of time.

We have not yet been able, under these conditions, to bring your telephone service back to the same high standards that characterized it in pre-war days.

But the same policy of striving to give the Best Telephone Service in the World still exists, and to-day our efforts are centered in the work of supplying the most efficient service that the present unsettled conditions will permit.

May we expect your confidence and cooperation while waiting for that period of normality to which all business is looking forward?

SEAT CHOSEN FOR LEAGUE

LEAGUE DRAFT AMENDED TO SAFEGUARD THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

BIG FOUR FIX PENALTIES

PEACE TREATY MAY NOT BE PUBLISHED BEFORE IT IS SUBMITTED TO GERMANY.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Paris, April 11.—At the meeting of the commission on a League of Nations, ten sections of the covenant were considered and passed. The Japanese amendment was not reached, and the actual text of the section exempting the Monroe doctrine from the provisions of the covenant of the League of Nations is not yet available. American commissioners stated, however, that the doctrine was definitely named in the provision guaranteeing that it will not be affected by the terms in the covenant. The adoption of the section exempting the Monroe doctrine was the only real exemption made during the meeting. President Wilson offered the amendment and made a plea for it, saying that he believed the doctrine was protected under the terms of the covenant as they stood, but because of the demands for specific exemption, he felt it imperative that the amendment should be added. There was some adverse argument, but the amendment was adopted without prolonged opposition.

PARIS.—Geneva, Switzerland, has been chosen as the seat of the League of Nations, according to announcement here.

PARIS.—The League of Nations commission adopted a new section to the covenant, specifically providing that the Monroe doctrine is not to be affected by the provisions of the covenant. The Monroe doctrine amendment was prepared by Col. Edward M. House. Provision that the League of Nations shall exercise general supervision of the Saar valley for a period of fifteen years was contained in the settlement of the Saar problem affected by the council of four.

At the end of the fifteen-year period, a plebiscite will be taken to determine the wishes of the inhabitants regarding the future form of government. The change was made to avoid annexation, and to establish the principle of self-determination.

France is given economic control of the coal fields of the Saar valley up to an amount to recompense her for the losses sustained from German occupation of the coal fields of northern France.

Indications are that there may be interpellations concerning the secrecy with which the big four is surrounding itself, and rumors are heard that negotiations may open with the Germans without fully advising all the peace delegations of the terms of the treaty. The council of four is strongly opposed to official publication of the peace treaty before its submission to the Germans. It maintains that it is allowing positive decisions to be announced, and that consequently the public will be advised on all the main points before the treaty is signed.

Reds Battle Czechs.

Copenhagen.—In a battle at Ungvar, about 100 miles southwest of Lemberg, between the Reds and the Czechs, thirty Reds and 180 Czechs were killed, according to advices from Budapest. The civilian population is reported to have been subjected to many cruelties.

Dodge Jap Measure.

Sacramento, Calif.—A decision not to press to an immediate vote the report of the Senate rules committee denying him permission to introduce a bill preventing Japanese leasing agricultural land in California was reached by Senator Inman in the midst of debate on his demand for a record vote of the Senate on the report. Inman demanded a vote on the report following the reading of a cablegram from Secretary Lansing saying: "It would be particularly unfortunate" to have the bill introduced at this time.

Lassen Erupting.

Redding, Cal.—Mount Lassen, the only active volcano in America, is showing some renewed action again. White sulphurous smoke is pouring from the northern part of the crater and drifting southward, but not ascending high. The spectacle is striking, but does not approach the grandeur of the eruption of four years ago. The volcano lapsed into inactivity in 1915. This is its 100th eruption.

Starving in the Midst of Plenty

Acid-Stomach Steals Strength and Good Feelings From Millions

One of the worst features of acid-stomach is that very often it literally starves its victims in the midst of plenty. And the strange thing about it is that the people with acid-stomachs seldom know what their trouble really is.

No matter how good or wholesome the food may be, or how much they eat, they do not gain in strength. This is clearly explained by the fact that an acid-stomach cannot properly digest food. Instead of healthy, normal digestion, the excess acid causes the food to sour and ferment. Then when this mass of sour, fermented food, charged with excess acid, passes into the intestines, it becomes the breeding place for all kinds of germs and toxic poisons, which in turn are absorbed into the blood and in this way distributed throughout the entire body. And that is exactly why it is that so many thousands of people eat and eat and keep on eating and yet are literally starving in the midst of plenty. Their acid-stomachs make it absolutely impossible for them to get the full measure of nourishment out of their food. And it doesn't take long for this poor nourishment to show its ill effects in a weakened, emaciated body.

You may say: "My stomach doesn't hurt me." That may be true because many victims of acid-stomach do not actually suffer stomach pain. Then again, there are millions who do suffer all kinds of aches and pains—headaches, rheumatic twinges, gout, lumbago, pains around the heart and in the chest—who never dream that an acid-stomach is the real cause of the trouble.

Naturally, the sensible thing to do is to strike right at the very cause of this trouble and clean the excess acid out of the stomach. There is a quick, easy way to do this. A wonderful new remedy quickly removes the excess acid without the slightest discomfort. It is EATONIC. Made in the form of tablets—they are good to eat—just like a bit of candy. They literally absorb the injurious excess acid and carry it away through the intestines. They also drive the blast out of the body—in fact you can fairly feel it work. Make a test of EATONIC in your own case today. Get a big box of EATONIC from your druggist. See for yourself how surely it brings quick relief in those painful attacks of indigestion, bitter heartburn, belching, disgusting food repeating, that awful bloated, lumpy feeling after eating and other stomach miseries. Banish all your stomach troubles so completely that you forget you have a stomach. Then you can eat what you like and digest your food in comfort without fear of distressing after effects.

If EATONIC does not relieve you, it will not cost you one penny. You can return it to your druggist and get your money back. So if you have the slightest question about your health—if you feel you are not getting all the strength out of your food—if you are not feeling tip-top, ready for your work, full of vim and vigor—do give EATONIC a fair trial this very day and see how much better you will feel.

His Unfortunate Mistake.

A doleful affair has just occurred in one of our neighboring states. A man had been importuned by his wife to assist in the hour of spring housecleaning. At an unguarded moment she asked him to beat the carpet. The shock was too great for the poor fellow and his intellect sagged in the middle and slowly sank to the ground. Instead of beating the carpet he made such a convincing effort to beat his wife that the neighbors were forced to interfere.

Use Your Ears As Well As Your Eyes

when buying Phonographs don't buy simply furniture; get musical instruments as well. Of course the way a phonograph looks is important, that is the reason why the Pathe Cabinets are made by artists, not carpenters.

PATHE RECORDS

have the latest hits, first and best, the new songs that Broadway is humming; One-step with pep, dreamy waltzes; stirring military marches; and the old ballads you love so well.

Each instrument is a finished work of art. But the distinctive feature of the Pathe Phonograph and records is the perfect tone—clear as a crystal. The sapphire ball—a round polished jewel, does not miss a single sound wave. The music flows from the records, is not scratched off. The Pathe sound box is all wood, which means no harsh metallic sound.

Records played on the Pathe practically never wear out. Played with the sapphire ball, a Pathe record is guaranteed to play at least 1000 times perfectly.

WEBSTER DEFINES VALUE as the power which an object confers upon its possessor, irrespective of personal sentiment.

A strong and interesting definition, isn't it?

Now think of a bank account in the light of that analysis of value. Doesn't it begin to have a personal application?

Whether your business will be large or small—whether it be in the form of a Checking or Savings account, it confers a power upon you "irrespective of personal sentiment."

Now to this natural power add the usefulness in the willing, personal service to be found at this bank, and see the new force that is in your possession.

Acres of state owned lands in New Mexico now available for the tools of the oil well driller are in excess of 3,500,000.

Oil stock promoters doing business within the city of Albuquerque will be forced to pay a license fee of $100 per quarter per company under the terms of a special ordinance passed by the city commissioners of that city.

County Highway Superintendent D. W. Jones, accompanied by the sheriff, tore down several fences which were standing across the newly created Abo highway. The destruction was accomplished on the proposed road west of Ricardo.

Organization of a Home Builders company with a capital stock of $100,000 has been effected at Santa Fe. The concern will specialize in the construction of four to six-room houses, probably using the Santa Fe style of architecture.

Deming is experiencing a serious attack of oil fever. Two exchanges are now open for the sale and transfer of oil stock. Three companies have been organized by local capital and Deming men have become interested in a number of other concerns.

Incident to the codification of the irrigation district law by the recent Legislature, it is now disclosed that its provisions permit women land owners to vote on all irrigation district matters. Under the old law it was restricted to qualified voters but now the franchise properly is extended to all persons who have investments.

The State Highway Commission of New Mexico is advertising for bids on four federal aid road projects covering the construction of about forty-five miles of road work in the counties of Chaves, Colfax and Santa Fe. It is estimated that between three and four hundred thousand dollars will be expended in this proposed work.

A publicity and membership campaign extending throughout New Mexico has been determined upon by the executive committee of the Albuquerque Federal Employees Union No. 40. There are 700 government employees in the state of New Mexico, according to a recent survey. This is exclusive of postal employees, who have a union of their own.

Members of the new sheep sanitary board elected Daniel Padilla, representative from Bernalillo county, to be secretary of the board for the next two years to succeed James C. Logan. Mr. Padilla was not a candidate for the position but was proposed for the place by friends among the wool growers of central New Mexico with whom he has been associated for years.

Fred Luna is in a serious condition as the result of a pistol wound inflicted by Patrolman Chaves at Albuquerque. Luna was under arrest on a charge of having sold whiskey to a young man who was in an intoxicated condition at a dance. When within a block of the city hall, he started to run, and when the policeman called on him to halt refused. The shooting followed.

The campaign to rid Colfax county of violators of the prohibition laws which has already been marked by scores of arrests, received considerable boost at Raton when Judge Thomas D. Leib in District Court made it plain that he is determined to be rigorous in the matter by fining A. H. Tox $300 and costs and adding thereto a four months jail sentence. The latter was suspended on good behavior.

Applications for oil leases on 400,000 acres in southern Union and in Quay counties were received by the state land office in one day.

Bernalillo county is to purchase $10,000 worth of Victory bonds out of its sinking fund. It was decided at a meeting of the county commissioners at the last meeting.

John H. P. Jones, cashier of the First State Bank of Tatum, Lea county, has just concluded leases on approximately 50,000 acres of land in Lea county, for oil prospecting purposes.

Orel Batum of Bellevue, N. M., twice wounded in his service with the American forces abroad and crippled for life by his wounds, was taken to a naval hospital at Cleveland for treatment after a fall on the sidewalk in which his old bruises were reopened. Batum was a member of the force of American marines who checked the Huns at Chateau Thierry and was also at Soissons and Belleau wood. He was wounded in both knees at Soissons by machine gun fire and spent two days on the battlefield before he was found. After treatment in Pelham Park hospital in New York City, he started for his home in New Mexico.

HOW CAN YOU TELL YOUR FAVORITE TOBACCO?

As Plain as the Nose on Your Face—Just Smell It

Smokers do not have to put tobacco in their pipes to find out if they like it. They can just rub the tobacco between the palms of their hands and smell it. The nose is an infallible guide to smoking enjoyment.

All smoking tobaccos employ some flavoring "to improve the flavor and burning qualities of the leaves", to quote the Encyclopedia Britannica. Naturally, there is considerable difference in the kind of flavorings used, and the nose quickly detects this difference. TUXEDO Tobacco uses the purest, most wholesome, and delicious of all flavorings—chocolate. And the almost universal liking for chocolate in a great measure explains the widespread popularity of TUXEDO Tobacco.

Carefully aged, old Burley tobacco, plus a dash of pure chocolate, gives TUXEDO Tobacco a pure fragrance your nose can quickly distinguish from any other tobacco. Try it and see.

Born Values

Judged by price alone, Born Tailoring is not cheap.

But it is the lowest priced good tailoring. Judged by the measure of clothes quality and clothes service it affords, Born Tailoring costs less than any clothing you can buy.

It has always been Born policy to give the greatest actual clothes value in exchange for each dollar of the price paid.

Many thousands of men know this to be true—let us prove it to you.
