MCDONALD IS NOW GOVERNOR.

At noon Monday, January 15, 1912, on the Capital steps at Santa Fe, William C. McDonald took the oath that made him the first governor of the state of New Mexico. The following is his inaugural address:

Fellow Citizens:

You are here not simply to inaugurate a governor, but also to celebrate the inauguration of a state. That is what makes this day one of the greatest ever to be remembered in the history of New Mexico. It marks an epoch in the affairs of our people.

The custom of having an inaugural address is grounded upon substantial reason and has been so thoroughly established that it cannot well be set aside. The relation of the chief executive of a state to its people is so important that they desire, at the outset, to be informed of the views which are entertained by him concerning their government, and thus be enabled to gauge and estimate the sort of man whom they have chosen to represent them in the highest office of the state.

We have just passed from a territorial condition to our full rights as citizens and become a distinct force in the councils of the Nation. Notwithstanding our being the latest to enter the Union, our civilization is perhaps, the oldest and our settlement the first, within the borders of our country. A proper understanding of the relation of the state to the Union, of which we are now a part, is, I think, of the greatest importance to the maintenance of the true dignity and full rights of our citizens. We have become, instead of a people with no rights not subject to the will and caprice of an administration at Washington, a free people in the full sense, and dignified with the power and influence of a state, supreme in the control and management of its internal affairs, except so far and to the extent that such control has been granted to the National Government under the Constitution of the United States. Upon the intelligence and integrity of the people of New Mexico will primarily depend the position that we shall occupy in the Sisterhood of States.

We have formulated and adopted a Constitution as our fundamental law, defining and limiting the powers of the different branches of our State Government.

Under this constitution you have chosen your legislature, state and county officers, and today we are assuming the responsibility and entering into the full dignity of statehood. Much criticism have we had for many years while struggling and contending for the boon to which we believed that we were entitled long ago, and often have we been disappointed because Congress, for one reason or another, decided that we might not be capable of self government—be safe from ourselves—as seen through the eyes of prejudice and misinformation at Washington. Only a short time ago we were warned not to be in too great a hurry, that we did not fully consider and realize the requirements and responsibilities of a state government. But we now understand the glory and dignity of that bright star added to the flag of this great Union of States, and we shall, we must, prove to the world, that fear was groundless and warning unnecessary.

This is the beginning of a changed but not entirely new order for New Mexico. We have passed from the condition of citizens under the direct control of the federal government, to a position as citizens with equal rights and privileges in the government of the United States. While we naturally feel jubilant in the present and hopeful for the future, at the same time we must not forget that our emancipation from federal interference, except as the power for such is granted in the Constitution which makes us one with our Sister States, has put us on a different footing with the world. New obligations and greater responsibility are to be met and borne successfully. The confidence of youth combined with the wisdom of maturity will carry us far if we act with caution, born of the experience of others that have gone before.

Your Governor is looked upon today with more consideration than is his due. The guiding hand must be strengthened and upheld by the will and voice of a just and intelligent people when it is firm with the purpose of serving them; and, should it prove weak or false, the force of public condemnation should render it powerless for evil.

The principles of a republican form of government, based upon the consent and co-operation of the governor, were enunciated by the fathers victorious over the forces of wrong and oppression which would have bound them as a dependent province of a powerful nation. Now, we, the free independent citizens of New Mexico, have at last come victorious from the battle, waged for full citizenship in a sovereign state, in that Union established by their wisdom. As we look into the future, bright hopes of promise appear to some and dark forebodings may dim the horizon of others. The past is history, the present is the dawn of the future. It is to the future we look and that future will be what we make it.

I may often be misled through error of judgment, or upon mistaken or incomplete information, or, by the natural defects of a mind well intentioned. Sometimes, things that may at first

SAVING THE BIRDS.

The Audubon societies of the country have just been holding their annual meeting in New York. As a result of a campaign extending over the last decade, they report that bird-life is each year becoming safer and public co-operation more effective. The association is responsible for the New York plumage law which prohibits the sale of the feathers of many native birds, as well as those of related species abroad, and which has proved an important check on dealers engaged in the feather traffic. The association has also been active in guarding the many colonies of algerette-bearing birds along the east and south Atlantic coast. During the past year the associated societies have spent, in the course of their benevolent work, some $36,000—money well laid out, as it gives a countercheck to the thoughtlessness of fashion, the greed of business and the cruelty of both.

If every man and woman of fair understanding and open mind would read every Sunday morning the fifth chapter of Matthew, which is the sermon on the mount, containing the beatitudes, this world would be happier than it is. One need not stop to discuss the doctrine of it, but just let the sweet spirit of it get into his life, as he lets the view of a fine landscape, or a glorious sunset, or the heavens filled with stars, get into his soul, and it will put him in harmony with the all-pervading truth that ruleth all things, and will spread a vision before him that he never saw before. There is the best truth in the universe; better than one will find in the sciences, the arts, the philosophies, the histories, and a truth that one does not have to struggle to get, but which comes to him as freely as the light goes into his eyes. All he has to do is to open his eyes, and there it is.

Nothing indicates more surely the general commercialism of literature than the interviews with authors and descriptions of their "methods of work," as they call them, that frequently find their way into print. The author of a recently published novel tells with glee how she "pounded it out on a typewriter" at the rate of a thousand words a day, and plumes herself on her achievement as "pretty good for a beginner." As a matter of fact it would be difficult to imagine a worse beginning than this thousand-word-a-day effort, says the New York Herald. The fact that she reckoned her daily stunt in words rather than in ideas shows only too plainly her attitude toward the profession of writing.

Automobiles racing at a speed of a mile a minute, and incidentally climbing telegraph poles are among some of the curiosities of this rapid age. But as an engine of modern improvements, the automobile is rather to be commended for trying to abolish the disfiguring street electric pole.

Edison claims that he has completed a new invention which will revolutionize things generally, but he won't tell what it is. Our hope is that it may be something which will cause people who pick their teeth in public to quit.

NEW STYLE OF MOTORCYCLE

Dry Battery Concealed under Seat Eliminates Gatling Gun-Like Exhaust—Runs Easy.

Motorcyclists who object to the trouble of starting the gasoline-driven cycle, or to its gatling-gun-like exhaust, will welcome a new type of electric motorcycle which is being introduced, and which, it is claimed, will run from 75 to 100 miles on a single battery charge, start instantly on the turn of a switch, and run absolutely without noise.

The motor, which is located under the seat, drives the rear wheel by means of a chain and sprocket wheels, and is connected to the three-speed controller which provides for speeds of 4, 15 and 35 miles an hour, says the Popular Mechanics. The six-cell, 12-

PROGRESS MADE IN ORIENT

Augustus D. Curtis Tells Electric Club of Advance Made in Electricity in Far East.

"The advanced stage of electricity seen in the orient was one of the greatest surprises I ever had, especially the progress noted in Japan. Even in remote places seldom reached by tourists we found electric plants with the most modern improvements, and, though the machinery was mostly American make or American type, the orientals had mastered all of the details of operation."

This statement prefaced an address made by Augustus D. Curtis at the Electric club's first fall meeting, held at Chicago the other day. He recently returned from an oriental trip.

"Being an electrician and interested in electricity," said Mr. Curtis, "it was only natural for me to investigate the progress made in these countries, and it is truly wonderful. In America opticians and illuminating engineers only recently have worked out the problem of indirect lighting—that is, the system of reflection from the lamp to the ceiling and then down—and imagine my surprise to find much of this lighting in the orient, especially in the larger cities of Japan."

QUITE USEFUL ON SILK HAT

Electric Iron Does Away With Necessity of Using Coat Sleeve or Pocket Handkerchief.

As Ed. Howe would say, what has become of the old-fashioned man who used to polish his silk hat on his coat sleeve or with a silk handkerchief? He may not be altogether extinct, but the Simplex French hat iron is surely working a revolution in the methods of keeping a "stovepipe" in order, says the Popular Electricity. The iron is nickel plated and has a wooden handle and of course is electrically heated. The shape of the iron is suitable for reaching every part of the hat brim as well as the crown.

NOW THE ARTIFICIAL SPONGE

Process of Making It Consists Principally in Action of Zinc Chloride on Cellulose.

An artificial sponge, the outcome of German ingenuity, is now to be had, says the Scientific American. The process of making it consists principally in the action of zinc chloride on pure cellulose. This results in a pasty, viscous mass, which is mixed with coarsely grained rock-salt.

Placed in a press mold armed with pins the mass is pierced through and through until it appears traversed by a multitude of tiny canals, like the pores of a natural sponge. The excess of salts is subsequently removed by prolonged washing in a weak alcoholic solution. The artificial sponge swells up with water, but hardens on drying, just like its prototype; it is said to be eminently adapted for filtering water for sanitary or industrial uses and it can be employed for all the purposes that are usually assigned to the genuine article.

GOT THE LETTERS MIXED

Clergyman's Mistake Resulted in Giving Decided Surprise to Dignified Archbishop.

One of the most amusing stories which the Hon. Lionel A. Tollemache tells in "Nuts and Chestnuts," is that entitled, "The Wrong Envelope." Mr. M—, a missionary, shortly before leaving England, received two letters—one from Archbishop Tait asking him to dine, and the other from the secretary of a religious society, a very old friend, asking him to preach. He accepted the archbishop's invitation, and at the same time wrote to the secretary, but put the letters into the wrong envelopes.

After the dinner at Lambeth the archbishop said to him: "Mr. M—, do you always answer your dinner invitations in the same way?"

"I do not understand, your Grace." The letter, which was then shown to the missionary, ran thus: "You old rascal! Why did you not ask me before? You know perfectly well that I shall be on the high seas on the date you name."—London Tit-Bits.

$2—Does the Work Quickly or Money Refunded.

For quick and positive results, the pint of cough syrup that you make with a 50-cent bottle of Pinex, cannot be equalled. It takes hold instantly and will usually stop the most obstinate deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. Even croup and whooping cough yield to it quickly.

The user of Pinex mixes it with home-made sugar syrup. This gives you a full pint—a family supply—of better cough remedy than you could buy ready mixed for $2.50. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—all directions in package.

Pinex soothes and heals the inflamed membranes with remarkable rapidity. It stimulates the appetite, is slightly laxative, and tastes good—children like it. Excellent for hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, and other throat troubles, and has a wonderful record in cases of incipient lung trouble.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Simply mix with sugar syrup or strained honey, in a pint bottle, and it is ready for use. Used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will gladly get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., 234 Main St., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Fellows in Distress.

An efficient woman principal of a New York grammar school, though devoid of good looks and bearing the marks of long service in her profession, still retains the charm of a delightful frankness. One day while watching the pupils pass out of her building two by two, as usual, she noticed one boy marching alone, with his arm to his eyes, sobbing tumultuously. In answer to her solicitous inquiry as she drew him from the line, the little fellow wailed: "I—I haven't g-got no pardner!"

The principal extended a prompt and sympathetic hand. "Shake, dear boy, shake!" she invited. "I haven't either."

Somewhat Inconsistent.

The young woman had spent a busy day. She had browbeaten fourteen sales-people, bullyragged a shop-walker, argued victoriously with a milliner, laid down the law to a modiste, nipped in the bud a taxi chauffeur's attempt to overcharge her, made a street car conductor stop the car in the middle of a non-stop run for her, discharged her maid and engaged another, and otherwise refused to allow herself to be imposed upon. Yet she did not smile that evening when a young man begged:

"Let me be your protector through life!"

Precise.

The proofreader on a small middle-western daily was a woman of great precision and extreme propriety. One day a reporter succeeded in getting into type an item about "Willie Brown, the boy who was burned in the West end by a live wire."

On the following day the reporter found on his desk a frigid note asking, "Which is the west end of a boy?"

"It took only an instant to reply—
"The end the son sets on, of course."

SOME HINTS ON SWEEPING

Broom in the Hands of the Inexperienced Often Does More Harm Than Good.

It is not an easy matter to sweep well, at any rate, if one judges by experience, for when a broom is put into the hands of the inexperienced more harm than good generally results from the use of it.

Light sweeping and soft brooms are desirable. Many a carpet is prematurely worn out by careless sweeping.

In sweeping thick piled carpets always brush the way of the pile. By doing so it may be kept clean for years; but if the broom is used in a different way the dust will enter the carpet and soon destroy it.

If the carpet covers the whole floor of the room and it is nailed down, place the chairs and other articles of furniture which can be easily moved in the middle of the room, pin up the curtains and cover the couch with an old sheet.

Pieces of damp paper may be sprinkled round the sides of the room, and then sweep with a carpet broom toward one place.

Take short strokes, being careful not to raise the broom much. Sweep the corners and edges with a small whiskbroom.

Put two tablespoonfuls of ammonia into one gallon of water; wring a cloth out of this and wipe the carpet. This will remove the dust and help to brighten the carpet.

PLAIN WASHING SODA'S USES

Chemical Is Great Saver of Work and Almost Indispensable to the Housekeeper.

Uses for common washing soda: One heaping tablespoonful of soda to a pint of water (boiling) will clean the ugliest burned pan by letting it soak a few hours.

In boiling clothes a few tablespoonfuls of soda in the water will eradicate stains from clothes and lend a snowy whiteness. I have used it on the finest quality of white goods with entire satisfaction. It will not injure the material.

To clean a coffee or tea pot made of granite or lined with porcelain, fill up the utensil with cold water, set on stove to boil, and add a lump of soda as large as a hazelnut to the water. It cleanses perfectly. In fact, sweetness is insured after its usage in every instance.

To clean silver: Put a level tablespoonful in dishpan, add a quart of cold water, put on fire to boil (put silver in pan in the cold water), and wipe immediately after the water boils up. Result: Perfectly shined silver ware without any trouble. These are hints I learned for myself on the usages of soda.

Lemon Jelly.

An excellent rule for lemon jelly, which is nice either as a dessert by itself or as a foundation for an elaborate sweet, calls for two cupfuls of boiling water, two small lemons, half a big cupful of sugar and two large tablespoonfuls of gelatine, or as much as will stiffen the mixture when it becomes cold. Soak the gelatine in barely enough cold water to cover it, and when it becomes soft melt it completely by setting the cup it is in in boiling hot water. Then stir it immediately into the lemon juice, water and sugar, which should be heating on the stove. Let the jelly harden on ice or snow after pouring it into a mold.

Queen Charlotte Pudding.

One pint of bread crumbs, one quart of milk, one cup of sugar, yolks of four eggs, butter size of a walnut. Bake half an hour. Take out of the oven and cover with currant jelly. Beat whites of the four eggs, one cup of sugar, juice of one lemon, spread over the jelly and brown in the oven.

LOTS OF EXCITEMENT.

Native—Slow? Say, nearly every evenin' there's the gol dingest most excitin' checker game at the store you ever seen!

IT IS CRIMINAL TO NEGLECT THE SKIN AND HAIR

Think of the suffering entailed by neglected skin troubles—mental because of disfiguration, physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft, white hands, and good hair. These blessings, so essential to happiness and even success in life, are often only a matter of a little thoughtful care in the selection of effective remedial agents. Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a postal to "Cuticura," Dept. 21 L, Boston, will secure a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on skin and scalp treatment.

Governor McDonald.

The New Governor, the first governor of the State of New Mexico, William C. McDonald, was inaugurated at Santa Fe, the Capital, Monday, January 15. The ceremonies attending the inauguration were interesting and attractive, the day ideal, the multitude that witnessed the ceremonies was enthusiastic and the entire proceeding was marked by good feeling and joyous expressions of good will for the new governor and the best of wishes for a successful administration.

The inaugural address, which appears elsewhere in these columns, was recognized by all as one of the strongest state papers ever promulgated at the ancient seat of government. It was brief but the aphorisms added strength to the expressions; the language was simple, but therein lay its beauty, and the manner of delivery displayed the latent force, recognized by every listener, that existed in the mind and heart of the first state executive. The address convinced every well intentioned auditor that the new executive, while appreciating the responsibilities and difficulties of the position, was firm in the purpose in demanding and having, so far as lay in his power, a just, economical and fair administration of public affairs, and the cheers of the assembled throng evidenced the belief that the governor had the ability to secure such results.

It was a great day for New Mexico; it was a great day for Lincoln county, whose favorite son acquitted himself with such distinction—a distinction that we are now compelled to share with the entire state, as he has become the governor of New Mexico.

County clerk A. H. Harvey left today for Lincoln, to take charge of the county clerk's office. The death of the retiring clerk, J. G. Riggle, left the office without any one in authority, as Deputy Nye's commission expired with the death of his principal. Mr. Harvey does not feel that his qualifications are complete, as the board of county commissioners has not passed on his bond as county clerk, and yet some one had to assume the responsibility for three or four days, pending the meeting of the board.

Novel Features of Hardware and Implement Show.

The committee in charge of the exhibition of the Colorado Retail Hardware and Implement association which takes place at Denver, Colorado, February 19-24, 1912, is arranging a program of interest not only to dealers but to the general public as well.

In addition to the many exhibits which will include everything from a carpet tack to a threshing machine, they will provide some amusement features that in themselves are enough to attract capacity attendance. Circus acts of international reputation, and theatrical attractions of prominence and merit, will form a part of each day's entertainment.

The exhibition will be held in the National Amphitheater, one of the finest buildings in the West, where the National Stock show is held each year. The buildings cover many acres and are especially adapted for exhibitions of this magnitude.

This is the first show of its kind ever held in the West and promises to compare favorably with those held annually in the eastern states. Already one hundred and fifty manufacturers have secured space to exhibit their products and further requests for space are coming in daily.

The exhibition which is to be held in the main building will be open daily from 1 to 10:30 p. m.

Attractive railroad rates will be in effect from all points in Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico. Arrange your annual trip to Denver this year to include the great hardware and implement exhibition, February 19-24.

F. C. Moys, Boulder, Colorado, the secretary will furnish any further information regarding the coming show.

On trip of inspection.

A special from El Paso arrived here at noon yesterday and, after a short stop, proceeded to Dawson. The special contained twenty officials who are to inspect the coal properties of the company at Dawson.

J. G. Riggle Dead.

News reached here Tuesday of the death of J. G. Riggle, at National City, California, his death having occurred Thursday of last week. His wife and son, who left here last week, reached his bedside before his death. His two daughters were also there at the end.

Mr. Riggle had been in bad health for a number of years, but his afflictions grew worse until last summer when, upon the advice of his physician, he went to California. For a time his condition improved, but recently word came that the end was near and his wife and son hastened to join him. Rheumatism, which finally affected his heart, was the immediate cause of death.

The deceased was a native of Illinois, came to White Oaks in the eighties; later returned to his old home, was married and again came to White Oaks, and he and his family have ever since resided in Lincoln county. He was elected probate clerk of this county in 1908, a position he held until his death, as his successor had not qualified. His official duties, however, the past six months have been performed by Deputy O. T. Nye.

To the sorrowing wife and the orphaned children the deepest sympathy of the entire county is extended.

Carrizozo Lodge of I. O. O. F. will meet in regular order for the purpose of advancing Oddfellowship, the 1st. and 3rd. Thursday evening of each month. Now in thinking of our Lodge matters, the Lodge in many respects is like other organizations, no one man can make a success of running it, and not many "American-oes" like a one man rule or the running of anything by one man that is intended to benefit the Brotherhood at large. In view of this fact we ask all of the chain gang to come out from time to time and help in pushing forward this great Order. It is up to each member to make this Lodge what it ought to be. We are going to depend upon you as a brother to help us bring this Lodge up to a high standard of excellence and efficiency.

It Means Health For the Child

The careful mother, who watches closely the physical peculiarities of her children, will soon discover that the most important thing in connection with a child's constant good health is to keep the bowels regularly open. Sluggish bowels will be followed by loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder.

At the first sign of such disorder give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring and repeat the dose the following night if necessary—more than that will scarcely be needed. You will find that the child will recover its accustomed good spirits at once and will eat and sleep normally.

This remedy is a vast improvement over salts, cathartics, laxative waters and similar things, which are altogether too powerful for a child. The homes of Mrs. E. B. Jackson, Burr Oak, Kas., and Mrs. J. H. Walters, Mulberry, Kas., are always supplied with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and with them, as with thousands of others, there is no substitute for this grand laxative. It is really more than a laxative, for it contains superior tonic properties which help to tone and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels so that after a brief use of it all laxatives can be dispensed with and nature will do its own work.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 301 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

SIX FAMOUS RECIPES

GOOD THINGS TO EAT AS CON-
COCTED IN KENTUCKY.

Any Housewife Will Find It Worth
While to Try Gumbo, Buttermilk
Biscuits, Soft Cornbread and Sweet Pickled Cantaloupes.

Gumbo.—Cut a young hen into neat joints as for frying; brown the pieces in hot drippings; remove to a soup pot and add two quarts of hot water and two or three thin slices of sweet breakfast bacon; boil slowly until the meat is tender; season with salt and pepper when the meat is about half done. If the meat is to be served separately return it to the frying pan in which it was browned; add a cup of the stock and a cup of milk; let it boil up and thicken with flour and water. If not to be used as a separate dish, slip the meat from the bones and chop moderately fine; do not grind; and set aside, while you add to the stock in which the chicken was cooked, one quart of okra pods (tender young ones), cut in quarter-inch slices; the corn from six ears, one large onion, cut in small cubes, and two or three tomatoes, peeled and cut in small pieces; let these boil half an hour and just before serving add the chopped chicken.

Buttermilk Biscuits.—One quart flour, one teaspoon of salt, one heaping teaspoon soda and the same of cream of tartar; half cup shortening; rub all well into the flour and mix to a soft dough, with buttermilk that is about two days old.

Smothered Chicken.—Split broilers or young frying chickens down the back from the neck to the tail, before drawing; remove the entrails, wash and break the collar and wish bones, so the chicken will lie flat in the pan, breast side up; season with salt and pepper on both sides, and lay two strips of sweet bacon across the breast and legs, securing it with wooden toothpicks, put a few lumps of butter on the breast and legs and wings; add three cups hot water and roast in a moderate oven half to three-quarters of an hour, or until tender. Remove the chicken to the platter and add a cup of milk to the gravy, let it come to a boil and thicken with flour, rubbed smooth in water. Serve with hot buttermilk biscuits.

Fried Corn.—With a sharp, thin-bladed knife shave the tops of the grains off and then press out the pulp, by scraping the edge of the knife down the length of the cob. Have three tablespoons of bacon or ham drippings in a frying pan; put the corn into this and add enough hot water to cook the corn without allowing it to stick to the pan. Cook 20 minutes; season with salt and pepper; add a cup rich milk; let it boil up and serve.

Soft Cornbread.—Two cups cornmeal, one cup boiled rice or hominy; half cup sweet milk, two eggs, a piece butter size of an egg. Put butter and salt into the meal and pour boiling water over it till it is the consistency of mush; add the rice and milk, beat the eggs stiff and add the last thing.

Sweet Pickled Cantaloupe.—Half dozen ripe cantaloupe; pare and cut in half-inch slices or less, put into a jar with enough vinegar to cover; a little salt should be added to the vinegar before putting in the fruit. Let stand 24 hours; take out and cover with fresh water; let stand an hour or two; put in a kettle with fresh vinegar to cover, to which has been added sugar in the proportion of five pounds to the gallon of vinegar. Boil until clear. In another vessel add to a quart of vinegar one piece of horseradish, one tablespoon of white mustard and three pieces of white ginger root, two dozen whole cloves, one tablespoon mace, boil well and when the cantaloupes are cold pour over them. These are very fine.

The Human Heart

The heart is a wonderful double pump, through the action of which the blood stream is kept sweeping round and round through the body at the rate of seven miles an hour. "Remember this, that our bodies will not stand the strain of over-work without good, pure blood any more than the engine can run smoothly without oil." After many years of study in the active practice of medicine, Dr. R. V. Pierce found that when the stomach was out of order, the blood impure and there were symptoms of general breakdown, a tonic made of the glyceric extract of certain roots was the best corrective. This he called

Being made without alcohol, this "Medical Discovery" helps the stomach to assimilate the food, thereby curing dyspepsia. FROCKS FOR SERVICE

MAY BE MADE TO SUIT ALMOST ANY OCCASION.

Matter of Expense One for the Individual to Consider—Combinations That Will Make Success of Any Ordinary Costume.

It is a great relief to turn from the more splendid creations of dress to the gentle effects adapted to the average wearer and pocketbook. The toilets called "little," which means a fairly modest material made up in a simple and yet dressy manner, fill the bill of most needs to a T, as besides being inexpensive these charming frocks are suited to almost every occasion. They are worn at five o'clock in the house, smart women donning them for the possible caller or for the home dinner; covered with long cloaks they are permissible in the street, and, provided the bodice is dressily treated with proper accessories, such a gown may go in triumph to the theater.

Many cheap materials are suited to these frocks, although, of course, if one expects good service textures had better be chosen with an eye to at least a season's wear, for a really common goods soon shows wear and tear, and so many dainty little hand touches are needed on a gown it seems scarcely worth while to spend the time on something that won't last. A number of the bargain materials permit both economy and elegance for these gowns, for the dressier textures are all reduced, and the very genre of such costumes calls for elegance of color and fabric.

All the plain and bordered marquisettes and veillings, striped and plain silks, and checked and figured volles are other adaptable materials, and with a double width goods only three yards and a half or four yards would be needed.

If the trained version of the style is chosen the floor fall of the skirt could be cut pointed or square, for although the pointed tail is considered a shade more chic than the square finish both cuts are equally used. With a plain trained skirt in some rich brocade a bodice entirely of lace would be eminently smart, and in this event the back of the peplum could be made much more elaborate, or be cut with a deep rounded dip.

The illustration demonstrates a silk overblouse as it will look when topping a plain street skirt and simple waist of any sort, and it is of surah in a brilliant shade of blue. The striped facing of the revers and the cording on the sleeves are only used here to make sequence with the skirt, for such a blouse is as often part of a dress as separate from it. With a black dress a scarlet blouse of this kind would be charming with a little gold braid about the neck and sleeves. Silk, satin and cashmere are available materials for the smart blouse, which, besides being so chic a thing, also adds something to warmth.

As you have noticed, color, and a good deal of it, pervades this little talk, and for the good reason that color is far more fashionable than all white or all black. The big makers tell you why all white and all black make one look old, and consequently behind the times, as youthfulness is the most important feature of dress nowadays. For the same reason, trimmings are used in the most modified quantities and whenever a bit can be left off it is. This restraint marks all of the best French things, and however much we may want our own fashions we still look to France for the newest and smartest ideas.

MARY DEAN.

Best Petticoat.

For a petticoat to wear under the plain narrow skirt of the winter cloth suit a heavy china silk, in a shade matching the suit, is one of the best materials possible. Taffeta, because of its rustle, is no longer considered smart, while the soft satin skirts do not wear well. There is practically no weight to the china silk, and it wears well. Some of the skirts are made merely with a wide hem, while a scant ruffle or flounce, with a few pin tucks, form a trimming on others.

Saving Hemstitching.

When the stitches give way in hemstitched articles, such as dollies, tablecloths, sheets, etc., take some twisted embroidery cotton and featherstitch or herringbone neatly over the hem, catching each side firmly.

This looks well and prolongs the wear indefinitely.

New Cushion Tops.

Some new cushion tops to be worked in tapestry colors have the patterns woven in colors in the canvas. The designs and colors are taken from old German tapestries.

SOME CRUEL AND UNUSUAL

Double Penalty Threatened for Those Who Dared to Interfere With the Wires.

Rotorua has been laughing over the wording of a notice that has been placed by the Public Works department on some of the electric wire posts on the road to Okere, in New Zealand.

Some time ago a Maori youth, who seemed to have a misguided taste for experimenting, threw a long piece of cable over the electric wires that run to Rotorua from the power station at the Okere Falls.

The town was at once plunged in darkness for two or three hours until the mischief had been located.

The dusky and youthful experimenter was carpeted in the court and fined for his scientific enthusiasm, and the department put up this notice:

"Any persons climbing the electric light poles or damaging the insulators are liable to a fatal shock and a penalty of £10."—Tit-Bits.

Not for Earthly Ears.

Dr. Reed, a minister, was opening the Sunday morning service at his church with the usual prayer. While he was in the midst of it a stranger entered the church and took a seat far back.

Dr. Reed was praying in a low note, and the man in the rear, after straining his ears for awhile, called out: "Pray louder, Dr. Reed. I can't hear you."

Dr. Reed paused, opened his eyes and turned them around until they rested on the man in the rear. Then he said: "I was not addressing you, sir; I was speaking to God."—London Watchdog.

A Mighty Good Sort of Neighbor to Have.

"A little widow, a neighbor of mine, persuaded me to try Grape-Nuts when my stomach was so weak that it would not retain food of any other kind," writes a grateful woman, from San Bernardino Co., Cal.

"I had been ill and confined to my bed with fever and nervous prostration for three long months after the birth of my second boy. We were in despair until the little widow's advice brought relief.

"I liked Grape-Nuts food from the beginning, and in an incredibly short time it gave me such strength that I was able to leave my bed and enjoy my three good meals a day. In 2 months my weight increased from 95 to 113 pounds, my nerves had steadied down and I felt ready for anything. My neighbors were amazed to see me gain so rapidly, and still more so when they heard that Grape-Nuts alone had brought the change.

"My 4-year-old boy had eczema very bad last spring and lost his appetite entirely, which made him cross and peevish. I put him on a diet of Grape-Nuts, which he relished at once. He improved from the beginning, the eczema disappeared and now he is fat and rosy, with a delightfully soft, clear skin. The Grape-Nuts diet did it. I will willingly answer all inquiries. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

appear mistakes, may later, and upon investigation, prove the error of hasty conclusion on your part, encouraged by a possible weak or venal source of information and instruction. I shall ask your indulgence only to the extent that you consider the whole situation and decide any given case, after viewing it in the light of all that is obtainable to reach a fair and just conclusion. Conditions under which we live are changing and reshaping in a new order of re-adjustment. We are called upon to meet these changes and prepare ourselves for the progress and advancement that intelligent energy and honest purpose will be able to accomplish for the future.

An administration for the unfair advantage of any party organization will not be the fullest success for the benefit of all. Opinions change and men may honestly differ. Principles are fixed and abiding. Patriotic endeavor, born of a purpose to let no trifles divide those who would strive honestly for the common good, while it may not make all men agree in all things, ought safely to establish the foundation of our state government, based on the great principles of equal rights and privileges to all men under the law. The passions and bitterness aroused in contests to determine methods, must have no place in the minds of men whose honest energy should be expended for the general advancement of our great commonwealth—material, intellectual and moral—along all the lines of modern, honest, progressive ideas. The man who believes and feels that he is right will often make concessions to his equally honest opponent. Those who want special privilege and undue advantage will more often contend to the last for what they know to be wrong.

Personal power, based upon control of money and upheld by government for a long time, becomes difficult to wrest from those who have it. Those who ask only for equality and a fair show, under just laws, honestly executed, cannot afford to use questionable methods to obtain desired results. We should guard the voter in every possible way and provide severe punishment for those who would tamper with the sacred right of a free and uncontrolled ballot, so that the result of an election shall represent the will of the voters, expressed free from fear or other corrupt and corrupting influences.

The economical use of money taken from the people is as essential in government as in the ordinary affairs of business, to the end that the public business shall produce results commensurate with the efforts put forth to maintain it. Taxation, to be willingly borne, must fall equally upon all, in proportion to the ability of each to bear what is otherwise an unjust burden. Its equitable distribution lies at the very foundation of successful popular government.

Upon the education of the children of today, will largely depend the success and influence of the men and women who will, in a short time, assume the management of public affairs in the state which we have helped to found. The public schools should be our first concern, for they will be responsible for success or failure hereafter. Only a small per cent of these children will ever receive any benefits from our institutions of higher education. The public lands now held by the state must be preserved and conserved in such a manner, that the proceeds and revenues coming therefrom may go to our children as a vast heritage, resulting from the wise management of those who hold them in trust.

As labor is the producer of capital, so should the rights of those who are engaged in that production be given all the protection that a beneficent government can render to those on whom largely depend its development; and at the same time we should safeguard the rights of capital in every way consistent with the public welfare.

Upon the proper and wise use of our water rights, depends much of the real development of our great areas of land now lying idle and almost useless through lack of necessary irrigation. This work, if carried forward with the purpose of beneficial use and the greatest good to the greatest number will be the source of untold wealth and bring happiness and contentment to thousands of homes.

Our penal and reform institutions should be carefully and humanely managed, both for the good results that may follow for their inmates, and the credit that will come to the state. We shall demand and have a just and economical administration from those in charge.

Laws and rules can help direct, but cannot make good people—happy and prosperous—but, right thinking, honest citizens, can, under our form make good government. You are entitled to be served by a mind unbiased by inordinate party zeal, which may be unjust to those who differ but are equally sincere and honest; by a will unhampered by careless or questionable promises that might compromise the best efforts for a free government of the expressed will of the people; and by a heart free from malice or hatred toward any, and which beats in sympathy with the great cause of humanity.

Awed by the solemnity, and yet sustained by the enthusiasm of the occasion, fully impressed with the importance of the responsibilities that are placed upon me, I have taken the oath that binds me to your service. And now, trusting in the Power that controls the destinies of men and nations, and the encouragement and inspiration that come through the confidence of a generous people, I shall take up the work, that with the blessing of the Almighty, I trust may redound to the benefit of our New State and the good of the whole people.
