TWENTY-FIRST YEAR

CARLSBAD, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, AUGUST, 8, 1913.

NUMBER 39

AMBASSADOR TO MEXICO IS FIRED

Washington, Aug. 4.—President Wilson took the first steps today in the policy through which he proposes to deal with the Mexican situation. He formally accepted the resignation of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson to take effect on October 14, and sent to Mexico as his personal representative—but not accredited to the Huerta government—former Governor John Lind, of Minnesota, a life-long friend of Secretary Bryan. The understanding is that when a stable government is established in Mexico Mr. Lind will be named as ambassador.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan had frequent conferences today; Ambassador Wilson had a long talk with Mr. Bryan, and Chairman Bacon of the senate foreign relations committee, discussed the situation with the president at the White House. But except for the announcement of Mr. Lind's mission, no explanation of the policy to be pursued by the American government was forthcoming. The statement from Secretary Bryan read:

"Ex-Governor John Lind of Minnesota, has been sent to Mexico as the personal representative of the president to act as adviser to the embassy in the present situation. When the president is ready to communicate with the Mexican authorities as to the restoration of peace he will make public his views. Governor and Mrs. Lind departed for Mexico tonight by rail to proceed via New Orleans or Galveston.

It became known that a further announcement would be made by President Wilson in a few days, possibly on the arrival of Mr. Lind in Mexico City.

It is said the president is observing with keen interest the efforts of leading Mexicans to bring about peace and will offer no suggestions until these apparently prove futile. That Mr. Lind will be empowered to explain to all inquirers the unalterable opposition of the American government to the recognition of the Huerta administration is expected to be a factor which may assist the situation. Prominent Mexicans have taken it upon themselves to try to persuade General Huerta to retire in favor of another provisional executive, acceptable to all factions.

Meanwhile, arms and munitions of war from the United States will continue to be denied to the two warring forces and unless it is apparent that international forces to bring about peace have failed the United States will not offer its services as a mediator. Mr. Lind undoubtedly will act in that capacity when the time comes.

Declaration from both Huerta and Carranza have been made in the press rejecting mediation proposals but administration officials realize that both sides fear they may be showing weakness in the acceptance of such a proposal at this time, and are not convinced that friendly efforts to mediate would prove ineffective. Officials here hope that the efforts to put an end to bloodshed and destruction of property would appeal to public opinion in Mexico and unite the factions on a peace program.

Little of an affirmative nature came from President Wilson or Secretary Bryan today to indicate what the future policy of the Washington government would be, though the acceptance of the resignation of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson settled finally this his recommendations for recognition of the Huerta government after a period of military co-operation in northern Mexico on the part of the United States to restore peace had been rejected.

The ambassador's views and activities at Mexico City in the closing days of the Taft administration were described officially as at variance with those held by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan and a reiteration came from high officials that the morality of the situation would not permit the recognition of Provisional President Huerta on account of the circumstances surrounding the death of Madero and Saurez. While officials of the administration here look with disfavor on the process of armed revolution to overthrow constituted governments in Latin-America, there is a distinct feeling of sympathy manifested toward the liberal movement at Central America of which Madero's administration was on the beginning in Mexico. Arguments therefore, that it was necessary to have in Mexico the "iron hand in Diaz", which might be expected if Huerta was recognized failed to make an impression on government officials here, who believe that the Latin-American governments cannot thrive on the extremes of civil tyranny or military dictatorship.

These ideas probably will be reflected in whatever pronouncements the president may make in the near future, and from the keystone of the administration's policy toward Latin republics.

Mr. Lind, who has been in Washington for the last three days has talked with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan and obtained their views of the situation.

Mr. Lind is a lawyer by profession and was a member of congress from the fiftieth to the fifty-second sessions, being a colleague of Mr. Bryan. He was a republican while in congress, but was elected governor of Minnesota from 1899 to 1901 on the democratic ticket; was defeated for re-election and went to congress again from 1903 to 1905 from the fourth Minnesota district as a democrat. He is president of the board of regents of the University of Minnesota.

Ambassador Wilson, except for a formal statement after his resignation had been accepted, did not care to comment on the future policies of the administration.

Mexico City, Aug. 4.—The convention of the Catholic party for the nomination of candidates for the presidency and vice-presidency opened here today, the delegates representing nearly every state in the republic.

Pedro Lascurian, who was minister for foreign affairs under Madero, is spoken of as the probable head of the ticket.

Felix Diaz, who thus far is the only president aspirant formally announced will probably have a further opponent in the October election in Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez, former minister of education, according to a report from Guadalajara.

Want Federal Prisoners.

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 4.—An attempt is being made by a local firm of attorneys to secure the release of the 231 Mexican federal soldiers under guard at Fort Bliss by habeas corpus proceedings in the United States district court at Austin. The suit was instituted today. The attorneys allege that the Mexicans are "illegally restrained from their liberty by the United States government."

The Mexican soldiers were arrested at Naco and Nogales, Arizona, as refugees in losing battles with the constitutionalists three months ago.

Representatives of the department of justice refuse to divulge the name of the informant, but admit they have forwarded his report to Washington. The Mexicans left for Chihuahua tonight on a federal troop train. He told his story to an American woman in El Paso, whose name, also, is withheld by the American officials.

The Mexican is a resident of Chihuahua City and is in federal military service, but says he is a spy for General Villa, constitutionalist.

He says that when the Japanese ambassador arrived at the port of Manzanillo he communicated the offer of his government to President Huerta, who transmitted the news in the government code to General Mercado in Chihuahua, who is said to be a kinsman of the president.

Mistreat American Girls.

Mexico City, Aug. 4.—How Matthew Gourd, an American farmer was lashed to a tree and forced to witness an attack on his two daughters by bandits is a story brought here from Tampico. The person relating the story said the bandits first requested cigarettes from Gourd, who complied, and a peso was offered in payment for them. Gourd was then tied and, with a knife at his throat was ordered to produce his money.

He told his 17-year-old daughter to bring the money from the house and, on her appearance she was seized and together with her sister, aged 30 years, was mistreated. When the rebels left, the women untied their father who reported the assault to the authorities at Tampico. One version is that the robbers were not rebels, but peons employed on Gourd's own farm near the Atascador colony.

The American embassy here has not admitted knowledge of the alleged incident, but it is said that a report of it has been sent to Washington from Tampico.

Insurgents Take Cattle.

Douglas, Ariz., Aug. 4.—Large herds of cattle from Chihuahua, practically controlled by the federals, are being driven overland into Sonora, which is in the hands of the insurgents, for exportation through Arizona border points. This condition is caused by difficulties of Chihuahua ranchmen in sending their stock over the Texas and New Mexico lines, according to J. F. Molinar, attorney for the Luis-Terrazas ranch interests who arrived today at Agua Prieta Sonora, opposite this point.

TAX DODGERS TO BEAT TAX SALE.

Three Injunction Suits Filed in Colfax County to Test Powers of State and County Boards of Equalization.

Santa Fe, N. M., July 27.—George E. Remley, district attorney of the eighth judicial district, composed of the counties of Toas, Colfax, Union and Quay, who has been in the city for the past two days, came here to consult with the attorney general on a taxation matter which before it is finished will probably result in a decision of the supreme court on at present a much discussed question.

Three suits have been filed in Colfax county asking that a restraining order be issued to keep the county collector from selling property for from the state board of equalization to raise the assessed valuation of Colfax county $1,000,000 in order to raise that county's pro rata of the increased cost of state government over territorial government. The assessor raised, the county commissioners cut it down and the collector is trying to collect in accordance with the instructions from the state board. This, too, will prove an important test case.

It is probable that the attorney general will appear for the state with Mr. Remley in these cases. It is also said that regardless of how the lower court decides that the matter will be taken to the supreme court of the state.

In all three cases Judge T. D. Leib granted temporary restraining orders, and the cases will be heard on July 31 and August 1, as to whether the temporary injunction will be made permanent or not.

SENATOR WALSH FAVORS TARIFF BILL.

Montana Democrat Who Has Heretofore Kept Silent, Today Heartily Endorses Tariff Measure—Wood And Pulp Schedule Taken Up.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—Senator Walsh of Montana, one of the Democrats whose position on free wool had been the subject of some speculation, emphatically endorsed the entire tariff bill in a speech today. He declared that the wool, sugar, flax and other interests of his state would not be ruined as predicted by Republicans senators.

"Sympathy over the deplorable plight of the sheep grower is altogether gratuitous," declared Senator Walsh.

"He is not asking it. Give him a law which will prevent the fraudulent dealer from imposing on the public by palming off as a pure wool fabric of original manufacture from the long fibre, goods that are largely cotton or the product of renovated rags, shoddy or other waste. Give him free access to the public range, the mountain pastures and he will ask no odds."

MEXICAN MURDERED AT SAN JOSE

Friday night, last, August 1st, a killing occurred at the Mexican town of San Jose adjoining Carlsbad wherein Carlos Mendia lost his life and Dolores Corrales was terribly cut and shot through the body twice, and Cruz Hernandez was also cut, his thumb being severed from his hand.

The decision of the court today overturns the mandamus but gives the wets twenty days in which to file a contest case in court, meantime holding the present conditions in Dexter in force.—Roswell Record.

The "Shower" Party.

There has been much complaint among democratic appointees to office relative to the inadequacy of their salaries. It is conceded that ambassadors must make up large deficits from their private purses. For example, Walter Hines Page, whose salary as ambassador to Great Britain is $17,500, after much hunting and bargaining finally succeeded in renting a modest house in London for $20,000. In order that he may live in reasonable style, the firm of Doubleday, Page & Co., continues to pay him a salary of $35,000 a year.

Mr. Bryan, as secretary of state, must piece out his salary of $12,000 by going on the lecture platform, which has led people to wonder if he were elected president if he would not find it necessary to spend his vacation on the paid lecture platform in order to piece out his salary of $75,000. Mr. Bryan is a thrifty soul who has an income of something like $70,000 a year, and he wants to keep that ball rolling and gathering more money as it rolls.

But it remained for Judge Peter J. Hamilton, recently appointed to the bench in Porto Rico, to resort to a new scheme, so far as judges go, for piecing out his salary of $7,500 a year. The judge was a class mate of Woodrow Wilson and he married the daughter of a Methodist preacher and he lived in Alabama, where "showers" for preachers are common. The judge needed furniture for the house he had just rented, so he made his debut in Porto Rico society by inviting the people of San Juan, the territorial capital, to a "shower" party. The "shower" was to be of furniture, and, on the night of the "shower" reception attorneys and litigants in the judge's court were on hand with all sorts of furniture for the judge's house. They had everything from frying pans to bedsteads, sideboards and bureaus.

But there were meddling people in Porto Rico who criticised the judge a "shower" and the news of it was sent to Washington. An investigation was ordered and a report was made embodying the following language: "It was a joke on the part of the judge. He married a minister's daughter and comes from a section of the country where such parties are common. He is a classmate of President Wilson."

But the assistant secretary of war, to whom the matter was referred, failed to see the "joke", and a complete investigation has been ordered.

Thrift in public office may take the form of salaries paid by private firms, or lectures, or "showers", but as a rule the people believe that a public officer should be content to live within his salary and private income or resign and allow a richer or a more economical or less grasping man to hold the job.

LYNCH MUST STAY IN JAIL.

District Court Denies Application for Writ of Habeas Corpus and Slayer of Woofter Cannot Have Freedom on Bond.

The district court, this morning, with Judge G. A. Richardson on the bench, handed down an opinion on the application of James O. Lynch for a writ of habeas corpus, denying the application and remanding Lynch to the custody of the sheriff until the trial comes off at Carlsbad in September.

Lynch is accused of the murder of Marshal Roy Woofter, was tried two years ago, found guilty in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged. Appeal was taken to the supreme court and that court sent the case back to the district court for a new trial.

Then came the attempt to get Lynch out on bond by means of habeas corpus proceedings, resulting in failure, the opinion being handed down this morning.—Roswell Record, 4th.

Carlos Mendia and his brother, or half brother, Cruz Hernandez had a grudge against Dolores Corrales, Mendia believing that Corrales had injured him by either being too friendly with his wife or from some other cause, at least the evidence shows that Mendia and Hernandez both went to a house in San Jose in which Dolores Corrales was seen by them and which house was occupied by some women of shady character. Mendia went in through a window while his brother entered at the door and engaged Corrales in a fight by grappling him by the throat and at once commenced to cut Corrales with a knife inflicting several gashes across the throat and face and while he had Corrales by the throat it seems he cut his own thumb off. Carlos Mendia who got in the window commenced to shoot and at the same time Dolores got his revolver out and emptied six shots into Carlos and Cruz ran out the door. Corrales fell in a faint from the loss of blood and when the officers arrived they found both Corrales and Mendia lying on the floor, the women of the house having fled.

Corrales was supposed to be mortally wounded bullets having passed through his body as well as cuts near the jugular vein and across the face. District Attorney Scott came down from Roswell Sunday night and Monday filed complaint against Cruz Hernandez for assault with intent to kill. A coroner's inquest was held and the verdict of the jury in the inquest over the body of Carlos Mendia was that he came to his death by wounds inflicted by parties to the jury unknown. Carlos is now at the hospital and it is said he stands about an even chance to live. The chances are that Hernandez will be prosecuted for the part he took in the affair for he started the row with Dolores.

Several other incidents led up to the affair, one in which Corrales is said to have accompanied Mrs. Mendia to Roswell and where she stayed with friends for several weeks. Corrales being also in Roswell. Corrales had just returned from Roswell on the Friday evening train previous to the killing.

He Saw Things.

Ye editor and wife visited the family of Leslie Coe Sunday. While there a sudden shower of rain with considerable bluster, came up. On returning home, in the lane between Coe's and Hatchcock's for the space of about one mile, there were observed hundreds and thousands of small frogs in and by the road.

They were about the size of the first joint of a man's thumb. There was no evidence whatever that they came out of the ground, and were not in evidence at all just a few hours before. There were so many the buggy wheels crushed and burst the little toads.

Now, this is true. And if ye don't believe it, ask ye editor's wife. She saw them and she never drinks.—McDonald News.

Alfalfa Shipment.

For several days there has been shipped from here each day from three to five cars of alfalfa. The price has been near $8.50 a ton.

Why not get together and either form a company or get some one to erect an alfalfa mill? In some way, thousands of dollars would be saved the community which now goes to the railroad company as freight rates.

The demand for alfalfa meal is growing every season and there is money to be made in a mill at this place.

Also, a mill would employ from ten to fifteen men a day which would be no mean payroll for a town of this size. There is no reason why we cannot have a mill at this place, so it behooves everybody to get busy and boost.—Fort Sumner Review.

taxes. Back of these suits are several very important questions. In one suit four banks of Colfax county, located in Raton, Cimarron and Springer, have asked for the injunction to restrain the collector from selling their property because although they have paid their taxes of the 35 per cent valuation fixed in 1912 by the Colfax assessor, they have not and refuse to pay the additional taxes on the 15 per cent raise which the state board of equalization put on them. Consequently their property has been advertised for sale and they are fighting the case.

In another suit, brought jointly by several large land owners, in Colfax county, they have paid their 1512 taxes on a basis of 40 cents for their grazing lands but refused to come up with the balance made payable by the raising of the assessed valuation of equalization. Both these cases will test and define the powers of the state board of equalization, and regardless of which way it is decided will have a most important bearing on future taxation matters.

In the third case, certain property owners of Raton are seeking an injunction to prevent a sale because the assessor and later the collector insist on collecting taxes on a valuation which the county commissioners as a board of equalization lowered. The assessor based his raise on the ground that he had received orders

Consideration of the metal schedule was deferred in the senate today because of the absence of Senators Oliver and Penrose, who are interested particularly in the metal rates. Senator Oliver will have a substitute for the entire schedule which will be backed by the regular Republicans. The progressive Republicans have agreed to support another substitute by Senator Cummins. The senate took up the wood and pulp schedule.

Dexter Demurrer is Sustained.

The demurrer to the application for a writ of mandamus against the mayor and city clerk of Dexter, commanding them not to count the ballots in the recent wet and dry election in that town, was sustained this morning by Judge Richardson, the court upholding the contention that a contest and not mandamus was the proper proceeding.

This means that the injunction against counting the votes and declaring the result will be continued for twenty days to give the contestants time to take a contest case into the courts, should they so decide.

The election at Dexter resulted dry by a majority of three votes. Wet ones, were challenged and thrown out that should have been counted and the final result should have been a tie vote. To enforce their view of the case they mandamus the mayor and

OUTRAGEOUS.

Terribly incensed, is a mild way to put it when speaking of the condition of mind in which some of the space beggars are thrown by the facts given in this paper in connection with the general begging for space and from the president of the state school in particular.

However, one fact stands out prominently, and that is that no reputable newspaper has found fault with the position of the Current in the matter. It is only a few natural and made up beggars with more cheek than self respect that are overburdened with ignorance regarding the general problem of conducting newspapers who are doing the kicking. The hit dog howl! But, it would be more sensible if the people who object to newspapers being paid for their work and expense to advance some argument to bolster up their position.

With no desire to become abusive, as has the man with the Bohemian name in the Albuquerque Journal, or the Dutchman in the Santa Fe Eagle, the Current will propose the following for their digestion:

This state has the following state endowed institutions, all clamoring for notices free in the country press: University of New Mexico; College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts; Quay County Experiment Farm; New Mexico Normal Schools, Silver City and Las Vegas; New Mexico Spanish-American Normal, El Rito; New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell; Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Santa Fe; New Mexico Institute for the Blind, Alamogordo; Museum of New Mexico, Santa Fe; Historical Society, Santa Fe; New Mexico State Penitentiary, Santa Fe; New Mexico Reform School, Springer; New Mexico Insane Asylum, Las Vegas; Miners Hospital, Raton; National Guard of New Mexico; and many other projects such as the various good roads like the Camino Real and other matters.

Now suppose a local paper gives one tenth the space asked for to each of the above, what room would there be left for local news? The cost of setting a column of type is about the same as to plow an acre of ground, or to shovel in a ditch for a half day. Which one of you Bohemians or Dutchmen want the job of shoveling for, say ten days out of the year for each of the above named institutions?

The Albuquerque Journal is repaid for any notices it gives the State University by business from the University to the amount of several hundred dollars per year but, how much does the same paper boom the other institutions? The Journal is now carrying an advertisement for the School of Mines as is several other papers, and if the School of Mines' president continues in the way he has commenced he will prove that he is an old newspaper man and knows his business as an educator. The Current also has an advertisement from the School of Mines and proposes to give a full equivalent in space and reading notices for the school, which if it obtains several pupils from this county through the publicity given by the Current the school will be well repaid. It is the best of the state institutions and has the best president.

The following from the Santa Fe Eagle answers one of the unreasonable idiots in a nutshell:

We print an interesting communication in this issue from Mr. S. A. Lindauer one of the most enthusiastic as well as one of the most persistent boosters in New Mexico, concerning an article which was reprinted in these columns last week from the Carlsbad Current. We printed the article in order to show what extent free advertising is asked of the newspapers. The Eagle has no quarrel with the University of New Mexico, or with the head of that institution, but there is no more reason why the newspapers of New Mexico should furnish free advertising for educational institutions than there is for the furnishing of free fuel by dealers in coal or the furnishing of free water by the water companies to such institutions. The educational institutions of the state are not eleemosynary institutions. They have been liberally treated by the state legislature and the university has an appropriation this year of $45,000 for its support. The officers of that institution might ask a painter to paint the building free with just as much property as to ask a newspaper publisher to donate his advertising space to advertise the institution. Advertising space is just as much the newspaper publisher's stock in trade as a stock of groceries is a grocer's stock in trade.

If newspaper advertising is of benefit to an educational institution, it should be paid for; if it is not, it should not be asked free, because that would be paying for something that costs the publisher money and which would be of no benefit.

Wm. J. Bryan says criticism is helpful when directed toward a public servant. More than half the county officials of New Mexico fail to agree with him, however, especially in the criticism on the salary matter.

The county superintendent visited the county seat this week and incidentally took the editor of the Current to task for daring to mention the fact that the superintendent had concluded to exercise the functions of his office at his home some fifty miles east on the plains instead of at his office in town. He says he has a right to place his office at any point in the county that suits him best. Mr. Bailey seems to want to make the matter a personal one with the editor, which is wrong for it concerns every person who desires to discuss it, for he is nothing but a public servant and deserves only the same courtesy he gives.

R. M. Thorne, treasurer of the Carlsbad Volunteer Fire Department, Monday received a draft for $510 as the share of the department here of the monies coming from the insurance companies and which has been held up awaiting the decision of the supreme court on account of the unwillingness of the state auditor to allow the account on decision of the district court of Santa Fe county. The original amount allowed by law was $600 but the law fees for collection amounted to $90 which were ten per cent in the district court and five per cent in the supreme court. About $15,000 of this fund has been held up for some time and on account of the state auditor it cost $1,500 to collect it from the state.

It is said upon pretty good authority that not an editor or an Irishman is found in the New Mexico pen tho' the warden is Irish and a great sympathizer with the down trodden newspaper man.

Election Must be Put off.

It seems at this time as though very little difficulty will be experienced in providing for the grammar school grade pupils for the coming school term.

Although nothing can be done toward calling a bond election until about the middle or last of September, owing to a law which provides that no other election can be held within thirty days of the local option election. This will be held the 23rd instant, and consequently the election by the school board cannot be held until thirty days later.

However, it is thought the old Legal Tender cafe rooms can be secured and by crowding a little in the High school building, all can be cared for. The school will start the first Monday in September.

The Loving Band.

Few towns the size of Loving even try to have a band—but there are exceptions to all rules, and at this time the above mentioned little city is in possession of a band that would do credit to a town many times its size. The band has been organized about four months, with that well known musician, H. M. Chilcoat, as leader. Mr. Chilcoat it will be remembered made the trip weekly from Loving to Carlsbad for a number of years in order that he might be present and play at the band concerts.

The Loving band gave its first public concert last night and each member acquitted himself (or herself) like a veteran. The music was all good and up-to-date and the entire affair was a great success. A number were in attendance from this city and the Loving people turned out well, thus showing their appreciation of good music. The band feel much encouraged and expect to repeat the concerts weekly. The program follows:

March Triumph
March Albion
Waltz Silver Tone
Polka Elvia
Serenade Mary
Galop Elida
Overture Elmore
March Big Six

The instrumentation is not as well balanced as the Band Master Chilcoat wishes it to be—it lacking another alto and a trombone. However these players are in view and will likely be secured in a short time. The instrumentation is:

H. M. Chilcoat, cornet.
Pardue Rosson, cornet.
John Fanning, Jr., cornet.
Paul Hale, cornet.
A. D. Fleming, baritone.
Miss Hazel Fleming, tuba.
Charley Hepler, tuba.
Claude Holcomb, tenor.
Mahan Wyman, tenor.
Troy Jenkins, alto.
Claude Jenkins, and Walter Smith, drums.
Will Gerlock, clarinet.

Lane on Reclamation.

Secretary Lane, of the department of the interior, has already given an illustration of what he means by applying common sense to his problems—of "sitting around a table and talking things over." Immediately on taking office he found a "situation" in the reclamation service. In many ways this is one of the most splendid activities of the government. For ten years the United States has been engaged in the business of reclaiming the soil. It has advanced the money for these projects—derived from the sale of public lands; built storage reservoirs, which, such as the Roosevelt and Shoshone dams, are among the world's most magnificent engineering feats. According to the financial scheme laid down by congress, actual settlers on the reclaimed lands are to pay back the cost of these improvements in a series of annual installments. So far the reclamation service has spent $70,000,000 on these works; settlers have moved upon them in large numbers, and the time has arrived to begin paying back the money. But all kinds of trouble has been brewing among the settlers. A committee of congress has investigated the reclamation service. It has been extravagant, its work badly done, the interests of settlers have been ignored in favor of land speculators—so run the accusations. When Mr. Lane took office, he found his desk piled high with letters, telegrams, petitions and newspaper clippings—all ostensibly appeals from the water-users for decent treatment. "Guess this is one of the things we will have to talk over," said Mr. Lane. He sent letters to the complainants inviting them to come to Washington for consultation. Representatives from all the reclamation projects in the United States presently swept down upon the secretary. Mr. Lane held hearings all the afternoons and evenings for three weeks. Though the atmosphere was at high tension—people in debt $70,000,000 to the government are inclined to take life seriously—Mr. Lane simply radiated benevolence. When he had finished he probably knew as much about all phases of reclamation as anyone in the United States.

"It's the old trouble," says Mr. Lane. "Our reclamation service contains great engineers, but they have failed on the human side. They did not realize that, primarily, these lands were being reclaimed for human occupation. They were interested chiefly in making wonderful dams and reservoirs—not in making the people industrious and contented. These things will have to be straightened out; what we need to do is to keep our tempers and use a little common sense. There may have been some extravagance—who can tell? But there has been no graft, an, on the whole, the service has done a really inspiring piece of work. This reclamation service is the kind of thing I like to see the government do. It is paternalistic in the best sense of the term; socialistic, if you will; an intelligent extension of governmental powers, I should call it. It is only one of the many things the government can do better than the people. There are those who think that the federal government cannot undertake business enterprises of this sort—I think it can."—The World's Work for August.

Monument or Tombstone?

THAT night I did so many exercises that at last I found a faintness in a chair in front of my bed. I did not get up, but I lay down on my side and closed my eyes. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

I Was Spectacular with Delight.

It is strange how often a man's memory is like a book. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

First I went to bed. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Next I went to bed. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

I spent three days at the great Klein store. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Kahoma, her sister and husband, a Methodist missionary enroute to Manila and little me. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

"show house" we had to take off our shoes. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

After we were seated the serving girl came, sat down on her knees and took our orders. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

First the girl brought a brass contraption about eight inches across and six inches deep with short legs. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Just before the chicken was done, the girl brought us some Japanese "pickled vegetables" and some chop sticks. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

We proceeded to practice with the sticks and eat the vegetables. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

The vegetables were good, but Gee! how they smelled. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

While we were eating with vegetables the girl brought the tea outfit and kneeling on the floor, made tea for us. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

She poured hot water on the tea and we then she brought boiled rice (in a wooden bowl) and gave us little wooden saucers full of it. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Then we took our chop sticks and fished some chicken out of the pan (it was cooking in the center of the table) and a wooden ladle and poured some of the broth over the rice. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Also should have seen us eat with those chop sticks! Toward the last I got so I could pick up a single grain of rice every time I tried. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Was more proud of my dexterity. This was all we had and after eating our fill, which was quite a little, we left. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

They took fish and various meats in the same way as we did the chicken. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

It was a funny fellow. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

The very first time I saw him, I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

First I went to bed. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Then she and I went to bed. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

poddies. Some of them not more than eight by ten feet—others a lot larger. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

At Nagasaki, where the steamer "coaled" about six hundred men, women and children worked all afternoon until five o'clock the next morning, putting coal from the barge into the hold, and harder work than this I cannot imagine. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

I had a ride in a "lampan." It's a large sized row boat propelled by a man standing near the rear and working a long oar (for lack of a better name) which sticks out behind the boat. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

At Kobe we came pretty near drowning a passenger. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

There was a choppy sea and we were anchored about two miles out from the Hotta (wharf) and using a steam launch to get in. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

It was almost impossible to get it alongside the gang plank. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

This passenger, in trying to step onto the launch, fell, but succeeding in catching to the edge of the launch and after a struggle was pulled aboard by some of the sailors. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

He got wet to his arm pits and skinned up quite a bit. We all got wet though before we got to land. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Gee! but that launch did some plunging. Water was knee deep one time on one side of the deck. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Speaking of getting wet, though, reminds me of one I got just out to Yokohama. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

I was standing up on the bow of the "Tenjo" as she plunged through a choppy sea and a seventy mile breeze, (so the captain said). I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

She would raise her bow about ten or fifteen feet out of the water and then souze it in about twenty or thirty minutes when she souzed her nose in, it hit the crest of a wave. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Gosh! I thought the whole Pacific ocean had reared up and fallen back on me. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Soaked? Well, I guess yes! Possibly the amount of plunging is exaggerated a little but the wetting most certainly is not, and I was at least thirty feet above the normal water line of the ship and she extended 32 feet below this water line so you see it is entirely possible that she did plunge that much. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Say, you ought to come over and go to the "dog market" with me some Sunday morning. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Our school here is located on the top of a mountain peak and at its foot is located the Baguio market. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Every Sunday hundreds of Igoivots, Bontocs and Filipinos gather here to buy and sell a kind of mongrel dog. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

And the poorer the dog is the better they like it. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

They take them home, starve them for several days and then feed them all the rice they can hold. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Then the dog is beaten to death, its hair singed off and into the pot it goes. I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head and I felt a great heaviness over my head.

Band Boy's Dance.

The members of the Carlsbad band were entertained at the Bunch residence Monday night, in honor of Joe Owen, who left this week for school at Berkeley, California, he being a member of the organization and one of its most faithful adherents.

The floor coverings at the Bunch residence were removed for Monday night and the floors waxed for the dancing and everything was done that could give pleasure to the guests.

Mrs. Bunch was assisted in her duties as hostess by Mrs. Kennie Reed, Miss Buna Heard, and her daughter, Miss Bunch.

W. H. Grove for several years one of the prosperous sheep owners of the Plains came in from San Diego about ten days ago and left for that place last Monday evening. The Missionary Society of the Methodist church met with Mrs. W. P. Mudgett yesterday afternoon.

The pear orchard on the C. R. Foster place, south of town, is a beautiful sight. Bartlett pears in abundance hang on the trees, and Bartlett pears in the Pecos valley are worth seeing. Laying of Tiling Progressing Nicely.

The government ditcher is at work on the C. R. Foster farm south of town this week, and it is a very interesting and instructive sight to see the huge machine cut the ditches for the tiling. The ditches are eight feet deep and eighteen inches wide. Some difficulty has been experienced this week in digging, as they have encountered a quick sand formation which has impeded the work very much, at times.

The tiling, which is the twelve inch size, is placed on the bottom of the ditch and then covered by tarred paper, which in turn, is covered by a layer of twigs, weeds, etc., before the dirt is filled in.

Work began at the river and will take a course through the Foster place afterwards going through the Dearborne, Lensen and Forke lands.

It is thought this section of the valley will receive great benefit from the government drainage system. Some twenty-five or thirty men are employed and the work is under the direct supervision of Fred Weaver.

Hagerman Loses.

Hagerman has sustained an almost irreparable loss in the person of Mr. T. O. Mitchiner, who left yesterday for his old home in Carlsbad. For several years Mr. Mitchiner has been manager of the grocery department of the local Joyce-Pruit store, a position which he filled to the entire satisfaction of the firm and its patrons.

In addition to his recognized business ability, Mr. Mitchiner is appreciated for his great personal worth, and the people of Hagerman will suffer a lapse of memory before they forget his many gentlemanly qualities. On account of his parent residing at Carlsbad Mr. Mitchiner never could exactly call Hagerman his home, and being otherwise interested there he felt that it was to his interest to get nearer home. He retains a position with Joyce-Pruit company at Carlsbad, with whom he worked before coming to Hagerman.

The Priceless Juniors met at the home of Ruth Daugherty, Wednesday afternoon for their regular weekly sewing hour. The guests were Lucille and Pauline Johnson, Dorothy Swigart, Modine Bates, Lorene Powell, Gracie Stephenson, Thelma Toffelmire and Ruth Daugherty.

LATEST LOCAL NEWS

Burglar Boys.

A couple of tramp boys, aged sixteen and seventeen, giving their names as Frank Smith and William Hartman, were brought up from Malaga last Saturday charged with burglary, having in their possession about eight dollars worth of goods, the property of Herbert Penikett who missed the following articles from his residence: One Colts automatic revolver, one gold filled hunting case watch, one pair field glasses, one compass, one cap, and one razor. The boys were found with the goods and admitted the crime and after a hearing and plead of guilty before Judge Richards they were held in jail to await the action of the grand jury. The boys seem to be a pair of run aways from some point in Texas and are quite innocent in some ways but the chances are when they get out of this they will be wiser if not better boys. Mr. Penikett recovered all his property except the razor which the boys had lost.

Bob Withers and Andy Harrison were brought in from the J A L range last week charged with larceny of calves, one having twelve unbranded calves in his pasture and the other fourteen in his pasture. They claimed to own the calves and that they were calves from milch cows and that they could show a cow for every calf. Inspector Montgomery went to their pastures to get the calves but decided on investigation that he would not take them, evidently believing that they were milch cow calves.

OIL WILL BE FOUND

ANDREWS, THE MAN WHO DOES THINGS WILL STICK TO IT UNTIL HE GETS IT, BECAUSE UNDOUBTEDLY ITS HERE

W. H. Andrews, for many years a delegate to congress from New Mexico, and before coming here state senator in Pennsylvania and for years chairman of the state republican committee of Pennsylvania, was in town a few days this week. Mr. Andrews was interviewed by the Current and stated that he was entirely out of politics, but is thoroughly interested in the development of the state of New Mexico and in this portion at present. To those who know the Current it is unnecessary to state the fact that we have nothing in common with Mr. Andrews in politics for though he stated that he was out of politics he also said he was still a republican. But, when it comes to development of New Mexico resources we can shake hands with Mr. Andrews or any other man and drop politics. On being asked his business here he said:

"In company with Mr. McPherson Mr. Wooten, Mr. Fox and other capitalists of Albuquerque, I am endeavoring to develop the oil field east of Carlsbad and on account of having been born and reared in the oil fields of Pennsylvania and engaged in the work for many years of drilling, I have acquired a knowledge of indications, though, of course nothing but the drill will settle the question of the actual flow of oil. In company with a friend from Pennsylvania I visited this section some time ago and we looked over the whole field from Roswell to Pecos on both sides of the river, and found the best indications six miles east of Carlsbad on sections 3 and 4 22-28. Here the incline and surface rock shows that we are near the pool that furnishes the dribblings and fumes so evident all over this country. Mr. Wooten will remain with me to supervise the work and we will have a drill started shortly. Mr. Standcliff who has been here all this week has verbally agreed to go down 2,000 feet for a specified sum which is now in the treasury of the company. We will have the details completed and contract signed with some driller during the next month. We have acquired title to considerable land where we expect to drill and there can be scarcely a doubt that oil will be struck somewhere, for even though we should fail to get it in the first 2,000 feet we will drill again and again until we do strike oil. You may tell the people we are in the work to stay for the oil is here and we are going to have it."

While saying this the old man looked the determination he evidently felt and from his reputation of doing things it is easy to believe he will prosecute the work until the Carlsbad oil field becomes the richest in the United States.
