NEWS OF THE STATE SULZER IMPEACHED MEXICAN PROBLEM

NEW MEXICO ROADS.

Pushing Statewide $100,000 Project to Completion. When it is Finished Autoists Will Have Smooth Highway from El Paso to Denver.

Mesilla Park, Aug. 11.—The many travelers who daily ride through New Mexico over the Santa Fe lines and who only glance occasionally at the road work being done almost parallel to the railroad, scarcely realize that a great project is being performed before their eyes.

The state voted $100,000 worth of road bonds last May. The purpose is to build not only a road to traverse the whole state, but numerous cross roads to make the state everywhere accessible to wagon or auto traffic.

The state of Texas is paying for a small strip of road from across the river at Canutillo to the community ditch. From here the road follows the west side of the Rio Grande to Chamberino, where it crosses the river and follows the Santa Fe lines through Las Cruces on up to Santa Fe. Beyond Santa Fe to the boundary line will require little attention.

When the committee met to decide what kind of a road was to be built, many materials were considered, but the committee evidently weighed carefully the words of the New York road engineer who said: "Build your roads of concrete; if too expensive, use gravel. Your macadamized roads will be worn out by the time your bonds are paid for."

As New Mexico has many natural buttes and peaks, full of fine and coarse gravel, gravel was selected. The roads are first graded and filled by grading camps located for the present at Mesquite, Anthony, and west of Canutillo. Gravel is laid for a depth of ten inches. This gravel is being secured in pits established at Mesilla Park and Vado.

The gravel is gotten three or four miles from the railroad, and it is hauled by four mule teams. A large tractor, which will haul eight or ten wagons, has been ordered, and will be placed in service at Mesilla Park, where gravel is being laid.

The grading has been finished as far as Anthony. As soon as the gravel is laid, the county will sink wells every 2000 feet and pump water for sprinkling the roads before and during the rolling. Engineers left Las Cruces on Monday for Canutillo, where grade stakes are to be set and a new gravel pit opened.

The Santa Fe will haul the gravel from here along its right-of-way. The man in charge of the work is the county road commissioner, Mr. Merriweather, of Socorro, N. M.

He has charge of all the engineers on the work and is thoroughly in touch with the whole project. No date has been set for the completion of the work, but it will probably take until October 1914. When finished it will be one of the finest pieces of road work in the west, and autoists may easily travel from El Paso to Denver.

Prisoner Sues Out Writ.

Juan Lujan, brought to the penitentiary from Eddy county, on July 17th to serve a two years sentence for assault with a deadly weapon, today filed a writ of habeas corpus in the state supreme court asking his release. The case was heard in chambers at 10 a. m. today but it will probably be six weeks before the court will hand down an opinion in the case. Lujan in his petition alleges that he was convicted in September, 1908, in Eddy county of assault with a deadly weapon, and the sentence suspended on condition that he leave the state. He says that he left immediately going to Pecos, Texas, where he has since resided until a few weeks ago when he came back to Hope, N. M., where for three weeks he visited his mother. While at Hope he was rearrested and without any preliminaries, his commitment was issued and he was brought to the penitentiary. As grounds for his release, he claims that he left the state as requested, and has been away more than twice the length of time his sentence would have confined him in the penitentiary, had he served it, and that his arrest and confinement are illegal.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

TAX PUBLICATIONS DISCUSSED.

Attorney-General Writes Letter of Importance to the County and District Officials Regarding Publication of Delinquent Tax Lists.

An opinion just rendered by the attorney general respecting the matter of publication of delinquent taxes will be of interest in every county inasmuch as there is a considerable conflict in the law on this point. Under the old law the publication started in January, and under the new law they must start 45 days after June 1st of each year. There is also the question of whether the new law is retroactive. These matters are all mentioned in the opinion which is given below:

August 2, 1913.

Hon. H. B. Hamilton,
Carrizozo, N. M.

Dear Mr. Hamilton:

Upon my return from Raton I find your letter of 29th ultimo relative to tax matters in Dona Ana county. You say that after the new tax law, which is published as chapter 84 of the laws of 1913, was passed you filed complaints upon publication of delinquent tax lists which had been completed in a newspaper prior to the passage of the new law, and that you have a similar case in Otero county, but that no judgments have yet been entered in these cases. I have had this matter called to my attention before, and I am of opinion that the unequalled repeal of the act of 1899 by which the omnibus tax suits were authorized, without any saving clause as to pending cases, takes away the jurisdiction of the court and paralyzes the prosecution of any such cases, such as the repeal of a statute declaring an act to be a crime, without any saving clause, puts an end to all pending prosecutions under the statute.

You further state that it is urged there is nothing in the new law which would make it retroactive, and that, therefore, there can be no proceedings under it with regard to taxes delinquent before its passage. I think this is erroneous. Under section 35 of the act the collector appears to be authorized, within forty-five days after the first day of June in each year, to prepare and cause to be published a notice that he will "offer for sale separately and in consecutive order, each parcel of property upon which taxes are delinquent, as shown by the tax rolls, and I see nothing to limit this to the tax roll of the preceding year, on the contrary, it can be considered applicable to delinquent taxes shown by any antecedent tax rolls, and the use of the word in the plural strengthens this view.

You also speak of the contention that personal, individual suits cannot now be brought for the recovery of taxes, and that any such suits now pending must be based upon the idea that the only authority for bringing individual suits is in section 17 of the act of 1899, which is specifically repealed by the act of 1913, but an examination of the statutes will not bear this out. In that section 17 there is a provision: "That no separate suit under the provisions of this act shall be brought against individuals or their property," without special authority from the judge of the district court. It may be that as to separate suits brought under the provisions of that act of 1899 and still pending, dismissals will be necessary, but it is not true that there is no general authority for the bringing of such separate suits as you will see by reference to section 4157 of the compiled laws of 1897, which has never been repealed. In the act of 1899, in section 14, there is no specific repeal of a large number of sections of the compiled laws, but section 4157 is not among them, and the legislature evidently intended to leave that section in force so that the district attorney would be at liberty to bring suits for the recovery of taxes where the amount exceeds $100. Separate suits for smaller amounts cannot be of great importance.

Yours truly,

F. W. CLANCY,
Attorney General.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Governor Wm. Sulzer was impeached today by the assembly. The action of the lower House of the state legislature raised a vital question as to whether under the constitution, the governor must vacate his office pending final adjudication of the impeachment issue by the senate and court of appeals sitting jointly as a trial court.

Indications are that he will contest bitterly the theory of the opposition that he becomes automatically barred from exercising the functions of the office the moment the articles of impeachment are formally presented to the Senate and that he will be disqualified from resuming the duties of executive until the court of impeachment fails to sustain these charges.

This afternoon, eight hours after the assembly adopted the articles of impeachment, the governor was in consultation with legal advisers in the executive chamber and had not announced his intention.

The governor reached the capitol shortly after eleven o'clock. He smiled cheerily.

Sulzer was impeached at 5:16 o'clock this morning by the Democratic majority of the assembly of the New York legislature. The vote, 79 to 45 came after an all-night session and after the governor's wife had made an eleventh-hour effort to save him at the risk of sacrificing her own reputation.

Organization leaders, who had sparred for time all night in the fear that their program of impeachment would be wrecked by lack of votes, welcomed newcomers to the assembly chamber, summoned from New York, during the early hours and, assured of victory by their presence, started a rapid fire of legislation with the adoption of the impeachment resolution.

Long articles of impeachment, embracing the findings of the Frawley investigating committee in substance, lay ready for presentation on the desk of Democratic Leader Levy hours before the organization trusted its impeachment resolution to a roll call. With the adoption of this resolution and the creation of a committee, headed by Mr. Levy, to prepare the article, a recess was taken. Mr. Levy and his associates went through the formality of retiring, to reappear within an hour, and sent the articles porch roof twenty feet square from the front of Judge Medler's home at Fort Selden Wednesday afternoon and carried it over the entire building and deposited it in the back yard, dashing the brick chimney to the ground, breaking the rafters and flooding the rooms with water. The deluge lasted two hours and left the level plain surrounding the Llewellyn and Medler places with water and leaving it standing a foot in depth with at least four feet in the arroyo by the Santa Fe track at Llewellyn crossing. Orrin A. Foster and C. E. Witter, who were building a dwelling a quarter of a mile from Judge Medler's home were sheltered in the automobile during the heaviest out-pour but seeing the porch roof sail over the Medler home and fearing injury to Judge or Mrs. Medler, drove down the hill through a torrent and through water 12 inches deep to the Medler dwelling to find the judge and his plucky wife dragging tubs and other receptacles under the leaks caused by the broken rafters the chimney snapped off when it fell. No one was injured but the Medlers could neither walk or drive their car across the arroyo and stayed in their house all night comparatively dry and as the rain almost ceased at dark, perfectly safe. The porch roof was a heavy one being made of galvanized iron and heavy timbers, and went over as if it were a feather. On Thursday afternoon rain began at 2 p. m. and kept up steadily till 7 o'clock. It is believed the water will swell the river till at least a partial irrigation down here will be possible. The soil at Fort Selden and vicinity was wet down 18 inches this morning and had the heaviest soaking in the year. Judge Medler is trying to get his veranda roof in place again today but would willingly see it sail off again for another such deluge.

with rifle teams from all over the United States. Col. E. C. Abbott has been appointed team captain by Gen. A. S. Brooks. After arriving at Las Vegas General Brooks will announce the names of the New Mexico team, these men not having been selected definitely as yet. When camp adjourned about 19 men remained to try for places on the team. Of these 19, a team of 12 will be selected, with three alternates, and it is possible a team coach or a team spotter, but instead will use the transportation for two of the alternates.

The national rifle match in which New Mexico's twelve men will compete will not start until August 25th, but after consultation General Brooks decided to take the team to Camp Perry on the 10th, a week earlier than was intended, in order that the men may become used to the lower altitude and changed conditions. —Albuquerque Herald.

MAIL CARRIER SHOT HIMSELF.

Enterprising New Mexico Postman Who Held Himself Up and Robbed Mail Makes Clean Breast of Job.

Denver, Aug. 2.—Postoffice inspectors here announced today that Charles I. Wagner, a mail carrier at Hachita, N. M., had confessed that he was the man who robbed the mail carried by himself, thus solving the mystery surrounding the crime that has puzzled the federal authorities for several weeks. Wagner also confessed that he shot himself through the arm to give color to his story that he was held up by two Mexicans.

Following the announcement of the robbery the government sent a squad of soldiers on the trail of the supposed highwaymen. Two Mexicans were arrested and identified by Wagner as the robbers. The Mexicans proved alibis and were released. Suspicion then was then directed against Wagner, and he finally broke down and told the whole story. He will be tried in New Mexico. It is not known how much loot was secured by the robber. —Albuquerque Herald.

DIPLOMATIC EXPERIMENT.

English Press So Regards American Demands on Huerta.

London, Aug. 11.—The Daily Chronicle, in an editorial today says it considers President Wilson's demand that President Huerta renounce the presidency of Mexico a curious experiment in foreign diplomacy and one scarcely likely to be carried through easily.

"A proud race like the Mexicans and the president with fairly strong backing", the editorial says, "are very unlikely to surrender, and we doubt if the United States would really care to face the stupendous task of reducing Mexico by force of arms. Mr. Wilson's demand for a general election almost borders on the ludicrous, because there is no such thing as election by ballot in Mexico, as the ballot is understood in great democratic countries."

Arguing that it is impossible for Mexico to obtain money until the United States government recognizes Mexico, and without money the country is bound to drift into anarchy, the Chronicle considers the best and safest course would be to recognize Huerta and give his government an opportunity to redeem his pledges of progress. If he failed, then, it adds, the time will have come for stronger action.

The Daily Mail declares that with the awful welter of war and barbarism just patched up at Bucharest, the American statesman has every reason to cling to diplomacy as long as possible before resorting to force, and that if President Huerta is wise he will treat John Lind courteously, because the attitude of Washington will be largely determined by Lind's report.

The United States cannot look unmoved for an indefinite period," continues the Daily Mail, "while a dictator is disarming and destroying his opponents and is establishing a more or less beneficial despotism. If Huerta will hold elections and get confirmed in power no doubt the United States will recognize, notwithstanding the dubious and blood-stained events which marked his ascent."

JOHN BULL SETTLED.

Explains Why He Recognized the Huerta Government.

London, Aug. 11.—The British government, nettled by the comment of certain American newspapers concerning Great Britain's recognition of President Huerta, declares that the comment is based on a misconception of facts. It also repudiates the insinuation that the inference that the powerful financial institutions were useful in bringing about the recognition.

In a statement issued today the government says: "The recognition of President Huerta was the recognition of a provisional president, pending an election. It was done on the advice of the British minister to Mexico as being likely to assist in the restoration of order, an important consideration in view of the large British interests involved. The French and German governments also recognized President Huerta after a recognition by him of the whole diplomatic party to which a conventional speech was made in their behalf by the American ambassador."

How Made Possible.

Your home newspaper heralded your birth to the world. It told of your entry into school. Mentioned your birthday party when you were sixteen. Applauded your graduation from the high school, started you to college, and when you returned mentioned the first job you secured. Told of your marriage to the sweetest girl in town and also mentioned the advent (or event) of your first born. Told of the visits of pa and ma, sympathized with you in your sorrow, laughed with you in your joy, and when you die it will do its best to get you thru the pearly gates, at only $1.50 a year. —Warrenson, (N. MAY RECOGNIZE THE REBELS.

On the Other Hand, May Recognize the Huerta Administration. Report of Lind Will Influence American Government in the Mexican Situation.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Recognition by the United States of the belligerency of the Constitutionalist faction of Mexico seems a possibility. Senator Sheppard of Texas has introduced a resolution providing for such recognition. Apparently determination of this international situation depends upon the investigation of John Lind, envoy to Mexico, who has arrived in the Mexican capital as a personal representative of President Wilson.

Should Mr. Lind find that the defacto government of Mexico is actually supported by three-fourths of the population of the northern half of the country and suggests such recognition, backed by the American embassy, it is believed the United States government stands ready to act upon that suggestion. Further, it is thought the American government is inclined to credit the report that the Mexican Constitutionalist faction have the majority support.

High authority says for the statement that nothing definite in the way of an announcement may be expected from Washington until a thorough report of conditions have been suggested by Mr. Lind. The proposal or message which the special envoy carries, while kept secret is confidently expected to the administration to be productive of allaying irresponsible agitation, finding expression through certain newspapers and other channels.

It is also the belief of the administration that the Mexican situation is less acute than it was, although at no time has it reached such a dangerous stage as has been pictured in some circles according to government officials. The conference held by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan with the senate committee on foreign relations Saturday night has unquestionably brought to all concerned a clearer understanding of the purposes of the conference. Republicans have been commiserated and given assurance that the administration has withheld nothing from them. While no definite policy was made known to the committee the obvious explanation is that no such policy has been outlined nor will be until Mr. Lind and the American embassy have advised the government on conditions.

No little heat is shown by the president and other administration officials over reports published in some papers. They are so misleading and entirely at variance with the actual situation that it is construed to be the result of international misrepresentation. Such terms as "colonial and impudent lies" have been applied to these sensational stories which are appearing regularly. It is not believed, however, that they are seriously belittling the situation.

While nothing official or otherwise specific is in the hands of the administration to support the change made on the senate floor, by Senator John Sharp Williams, of Missouri, that there is an organized district on the part of named interests to try up a war between the United States and Mexico, the senate's statement is given in a message credit. Domestic purposes of the Carranza movement, the size of the force supporting it and other details have not been forwarded to the administration. It was said recently that information regarding plans of the movement was to be furnished the administration by the Carranza regime following a statement given out in Washington that such information would be welcomed.

Asks Change of Venue.

Judge W. W. Gatewood, counsel for Jim Lynch, states that the defense would ask for a change of venue from Eddy county. If such a change should be granted, the second trial of Lynch for the murder of Marshal Roy Woolter would be held at Portales or Clovis. Judge Gatewood said the change would be asked for on the grounds that the case had been much discussed in Eddy county, that 200 venemen were summoned the first time before a jury was secured and that there is now about a half dozen elections in progress there on the liquor question. —Roswell News.

Carlsbad Current established November 19, 1906. New Mexico Sun established May 12, 1905. The two papers consolidated October 11, 1907.

Carlsbad, N. M., Friday, Aug. 15, 1913.

Official Paper of Town of Carlsbad.
OFFICIAL PAPER EDDY COUNTY

JUST A PLAIN LIE.

The county superintendent, not satisfied in moving his office to a point out somewhere on the Plains away from the schools of the county, and to be at his ranch most of the time, has made the assertion that this paper has received the sum of $2,500 from Eddy county since January 1, 1913. This is a lie, pure and simple, for the amount only exceeds two thirds the sum named by a lie. But, suppose the whole sum had been received, it was earned and not one cent did Mr. Bailey pay, for the greater portion was for publication of a delinquent tax list that only those who let their taxes become delinquent pay for, and in the course of time the county is reimbursed. Then, the fact that this paper is paid for what it does does not justify the superintendent in hiding himself away from the people. It is his moving his office that is under discussion and until he can justify his acts the question of the amount received by this paper cuts no figure. The amount charged for the tax list was put up to the district attorney, Mr. Hall, and he stated to the board what the paper was allowed, and the bill was allowed after consultation with him and not as Mr. Bailey would intimate—by some grafting method. Such men as Bailey should be made to prove their assertions, and probably will be. This paper courts full investigation of all county bills and invites criticism for it is the business of every tax payer in the county to know how the money is being spent, but lies will never win.

CATHOLICS ACCUSED FALSELY.

It has become common in some quarters to make charges of lack of patriotism among Catholics, on account of false and malicious stories spread by ignoramus who are not aware that the greatest patriots of this land of the free were Catholics. Such men as Father Ryan, Phil Sheridan, Col. Meagher, and our present chief justice of the supreme court may be numbered among our great Americans. The following account of a gathering in Milwaukee is published to show that some notice is being taken of the menace and other lying, mischief making sheets:

Milwaukee, Aug. 11.—Archbishop Ireland, before two hundred dignitaries and 800 laymen of the Catholic church, tonight concluded the second day's session of the twelfth annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies in session here with an address on "Americanism and Catholicism."

The vast audience sitting in the Auditorium, decorated with American flags and streamers intertwined with the gold and white of the Vatican, sat in perfect attention as his eminence, clear voiced, bespoke of the patriotism of the American Catholics and at the same time condemned those who accused the Catholics of a lack of patriotism.

IS IT THE BEST WAY?

Col. Bill Mullane of the Carlsbad Current sticks to his guns in regard to the free advertisement of state institutions, and a very considerable number of the brethren are backing him up. They all say that there is merit in the attitude, and that the good nature of the fraternity has been imposed upon. All of which is the truth, but it is not clear that the best way to correct the condition is denunciation.—Roswell News.

You cannot hit a lick amiss when you are right Brother Will—"Be sure you're right, then go ahead." No language is strong enough to denounce space beggars. The rule should be with newspaper men to publish nothing, except news, free. Any attempt to secure publicity for a state fair, a state institution, or any other project, free, should be met with the contempt of the waste basket. If the space is worth asking for, it is worth paying for. This paper wants no state fair tickets, and will only publish that which is paid for, neither does it want any other "compliments". We have the cash to pay for what we want—for our wants are simple.

Governor of New York Accused.
It is to be hoped that Wm. Sulzer, governor of New York, may be able to refute or explain the charges against him of swearing falsely and stock gambling, but at present the case looks as if he would be impeached. The following is an epitome of the evidence brought out by the committee of the legislature to investigate the charges against the governor:
The affidavit of Governor Sulzer accompanying his declaration that he received and spent only $5,460 directly or indirectly, as candidate for governor, is followed by the statement that the testimony shows a much larger sum to have been paid him for this purpose. This unaccounted for surplus included checks for $2,500 from Jacob H. Schiff and $500 from Abram I. Elkus, in addition to various amounts, including $500 from Wm. F. McCombs, chairman, and $1,000 from Henry Morgenthau, chairman of the finance committee of the Democratic national committee, which it is asserted "that no one can doubt" were contributed specifically for campaign purposes.

Details were given of Mr. Sulzer's alleged account with the stock brokerage firm of Royer, Griswold & Co., showing one transaction of $12,025. Of this, $900 is said to have been in the form of a check from Sulzer on his campaign account with the Farmers Loan and Trust company, $100 is the check which Lyman A. Spaulding testified he had contributed for campaign purposes and the committee find that the other items were originally sent to Mr. Sulzer for the same purpose. It is estimated that the total currency deposited and paid out by Mr. Sulzer in various stock transactions between the dates of his nomination and inauguration amounted to $43,950.

If a newspaper is not worth the subscription price it is soon relegated to the newspaper bone yard and it should be. But, if it is worth the price it should be paid for, and for this reason this paper has dropped many good people from its list and will drop more unless the price, $1.50 per year, is paid more promptly. It is unfair to expect a county paper to carry subscribers from year to year without a cent. To make out bills is considerable work and it should not be necessary for the date of expiration of the subscription is on each paper after the subscriber's name. Many papers place accounts in the banks for collection and more start suits, but this does not appeal to us, for we want the good will of all good people and hope they will see the justice of paying up when their time expires.

Every portion of the country is stirred up about good roads except that portion between Carlsbad and Queen, and between Malaga and the state line. Both these stretches of roads are in about the condition that nature fashioned except for the marks of wheels that have passed over them. Still, these two stretches have as much to do with the prosperity of Carlsbad as any other one thing just at present. Mr. A. C. Heard took a trip from Malaga to the state line Monday and he says that if something is not done to make a road down that way we may look for autos to go around Carlsbad in their journey up the Pecos.

It has been some months since those fierce Apaches were brought to the Mesalero reservation, but we have heard of no atrocities that have been committed by them there. We have heard of no settlers having been murdered or any cities having been devastated and, finally, we have not heard of any speeches having been delivered in the senate of the United States in support of a bill providing for their removal from the state of New Mexico.—Santa Fe Eagle.

There seems to be an effort on the part of many to take all the free booming possible from the local papers and studiously refrain from doing the papers any good in return. Take the local papers out of Carlsbad and what kind of a town would you have? As it is, there is no other town in the state that can boast of as good papers and with so little support from the business interests. Both are forever singing the praises of the City Beautiful and certainly deserve some consideration. While there are some who realize the good of the press and stand ready and willing at all times to bear their share of the expense of upholding the papers, they are unable to bear the burden of all. And these are the people who ask less from the papers than others who are like star boarders, never miss a meal or pay a cent.

Despite assertions to the contrary, the sale of lands is to go on under the Carlsbad Project at a five per cent commission. The new land firm of Reeves, Hill & Co. will handle all proposals for this commission and no more will be charged. But, there should be no trouble in collecting this commission when a sale is made. Poor old Bobo made more sales than any other real estate outfit in the same time and in nearly every instance he was obliged to sue for five per cent commission. The statement that it costs money to sell land may be true but if the sellers will pay five per cent and without being sued to get it the new land firm will come as near selling as any.

The slashed skirt has made its appearance in Lordsburg, but the men complain that the wearer is a piker. The slash is there all right, but instead of exhibiting what was supposed to be behind the slash, there appears to be a big blue patch behind the slash, covering everything. In Phoenix the chief of police has prohibited slashed skirts from appearing on the streets. The Lordsburg rubber neck club has appealed to the chief of police to prohibit the appearance on the streets of a slashed skirt, that has the slash covered with a patch.—Lordsburg Liberal.

It is said that John Lind drives, and walks about Mexico City just the same as any other tourist. Among some who know the Mexicans, the belief prevails that he is none too safe while so doing, for it would be easy for some outlaw who would like to see war between this country and Mexico to kill Mr. Lind, which would be certain to bring on the desired war. This might happen either with or without the knowledge of Huerta and still be charged to him as the blowing up of the Maine was to the government of Spain.

Gov. O'Neil, of Alabama, Tuesday named Henry D. Clayton member of congress from Alabama to succeed the late Joseph F. Johnson in the senate of the United States. It is said Clayton may not be seated because of the fact that the election of a U. S. senator by the people is necessary. Senator Culbertson, of Texas, is very ill and there is much concern among Democrats in the senate for the tariff bill and other needed legislation necessary to carry out the party program.

As all know, who have read the Current for many years, there has been printed enough free advertising to exploit the country that if strung out one column wide would encircle the globe. To assist all worthy enterprises is the object and aim of this paper, but when institutions supported by the state aid it is going a step too far. It is too much like robbing from the poor to give to the rich, something no reputable highwayman would be guilty of.

From the evidence in the Diggs and Caminetti white slave cases now before the court in San Francisco, it would seem that the best thing for the men would be rope from a tree. If a negro in the south had shown half the devil that either of the "high class" young married men of California did, he would have been burned at the stake many weeks since.

Publicity and the News.

Deming, Aug. 2, 1913.—Editor Eagle Santa Fe, N. M. While disclaiming any intention of becoming a regular contributor to the Eagle, I am obliged by your editorial comment upon my last week's letter, anent university news, to beg just a bit of additional space.

Coming at once to the point, it seems to me that you confuse the University of New Mexico with a private, or privately, endowed institution of learning, and, likewise, you misconstrue the modest request of Dr. Boyd. I am quite certain the latter will gladly pay standard rates for any regular advertising which he may see fit to have done in the papers. He merely asks all editors to grant the University of New Mexico the same news treatment accorded other state institutions—among them the insane asylum, the penitentiary and the others, none of which occupy a position of as potential importance as the university. Dr. Boyd asks for no allotted space, requesting whatever news space you may feel the facts warrant; this means absolutely no space at all if your columns happen to be crowded with more important news. He asks for no advertising space whatever. The granting of his request in no way, shape, or manner implies that newspapers should give even news space to private or privately endowed schools such as Harvard or Stanford; it does mean, however, that publicity owned cooperative universities like Wisconsin, California, Michigan and all the state colleges deserve and ought to have at least the same publicity that other state institutions receive. Oregon Agricultural college and numerous other public centers of learning, to my own knowledge, maintain real publicity bureaus and the newspapers of their respective states gladly print whatever is sent out from these bureaus in the way of news.

More About Space Beggars.

—Santa Fe Eagle.
We publish another communication from Mr. S. A. Lindauer in reference to advertising the state university. We do not, for a moment, entertain the idea that there is a newspaper publisher in New Mexico who would refuse, or even neglect, to publish news of the state university any more than he would of any other state institution. There is no disposition whatever to discriminate against any state institution on the part of any newspaper publisher in New Mexico that we have ever heard of and we do not believe that such a disposition exists. There is, however, a disposition on the part of newspaper publishers in New Mexico to discontinue the practice of giving free advertising to those who ask it. The state institutions are supported by the people of the state. Newspaper publishers are assessed for the support of these institutions the same as other property owners and they should not be asked to contribute more than their share any more than other business men. Because a newspaper publisher can afford publicity to an institution or to a business, or to a professional man is no reason why the publisher should do so free. A business house, a hotel or a lawyer who would ask a newspaper publisher to give publicity to his business would, in all probability, be informed that his desire would be complied with at a certain rate per inch, or per line, as the case might be. If newspaper publishers were not assessed for the support of the state institutions as other residents of the state are assessed, there might be some reason in asking them to give free publicity to state institutions, but, under existing circumstances, it would seem just as reasonable to ask a coal dealer to furnish free coal as to ask a publisher to furnish free publicity. There is a wide difference between news and advertising. Publishers are only too glad to get and print news. Printing the news is the principal source of expense to the newspapers and the successful newspaper man must make his advertising pay a part of the expense of getting and printing the news. If, as President Boyd, of the university, stated in his letter to the publishers that "Judge G. A. Richardson, of Roswell, in the commencement address he delivered here, made the statement that he believed that the state institutions were not known to fifty per cent of the people of New Mexico. If this be true, the newspapers of the state can be of great service to the state and to themselves, by helping to promote the publicity of those institutions," it would appear that the university is asking for publicity instead of asking the newspapers to print news. If publicity is worth anything to a business or to the university of New Mexico, it should be paid for just as much by the university as by the business. Newspaper publishers are under no more obligations to the state institutions than they are to business men and under no more obligations than other business men.

Death of Joseph P. Wangler, of Decorah, Ia., at Carlsbad, New Mexico.

The following from the Eleven O'Clock Toast, the Elks Journal, of Cincinnati, refers to the passing of an Elk, at this place some time ago:

Mention has been made in this paper from time to time of the stray herd of Elks who reside in the pretty city of Carlsbad, New Mexico, many of whom being thousands of miles away from their lodges and from home and kindred, and who are compelled to spend their days in this distant place on account of their health or of some of their loved ones. The number of these afflicted brothers has grown to between thirty and forty and the bonds of friendship created by their common affliction is transformed into the strongest bond of affection by the fraternal ties of Elksdom and although the city is by far too small to permit the granting of a charter for an Elk lodge, the brothers have an organization known as the stray herd of Elks and hold social functions and keep alive their Elk spirit, and on the first Sunday in December of each year Elks memorial service is observed by this little band of brothers, and eulogy, music and flowers are the tributes of love of the memory of brothers gone to the Great Beyond.

Since the organization of this loyal band, the Grim Reaper has invaded their ranks at different intervals and has taken six or eight of the loyal good fellows as his great toll. Death again recently exacted another sacrifice and took for its mark Bro. Joseph P. Wangler, a member of Decorah, (Ia.) Lodge, who has been a resident of Carlsbad for about seven years, where he was greatly admired for his sterling and lovable qualities.

Brother Wangler was a true and loyal Elk and bore his affliction with philosophical fortitude and was always ready to assist others and lend them encouragement. He was a beloved member of the stray herd who will mourn the absence of genial "Joe" as he was known.

Brother Wangler leaves a widow to mourn him, who has the heartfelt sympathy of the families of the stray herd of Carlsbad, and also of the entire people of that city, who greatly admired Mr. and Mrs. Wangler.

Brother Wangler's remains were taken to Little Rock, Arkansas, where they were interred in the family lot of Mrs. Wangler.

"How did he raise the wind?"
"Well, he had a fine air to start with, so he just blustered a bit and blew about his prospects."—Judge.

LEAF FIFTH.

Only an Old Song.

SLEEP is one of the most delightful and undervalued amusements known to the human race. I have never had enough yet, and every second of time that I'm not busy with something interesting I curl up on the bed and go dream hunting—only I sleep too hard to do much catching. But this torture book found that out on me and stopped it the very first thing on page three. The command is to sleep as little as possible to keep the nerves in a good condition—"eight hours at the most and seven would be better." What earthly good would a seven hour nap do me? I want ten hours to sleep and twelve if I get a good tired start. To see me stagger out of my perfectly nice bed at 6 o'clock every morning now would wring the sternest heart with compassion and admiration at my faithfulness—to whom?

Yes, it was the day after poor Mr. Carter's funeral that Aunt Adeline moved up here into my house and settled herself in the big south room across the hall from mine. Her furniture weighs a ton each piece, and Aunt Adeline is not light herself in disposition. The next morning when I went in to breakfast she sat in the "vacant chair" in a way that made me see that she was obviously trying to fill the vacancy. I am sorry she worried herself about that. Anyway, it made me take a resolve. After breakfast I went into the kitchen to speak to Judy.

"Judy," I said, looking past her head, "my health is not very good, and you can bring my breakfast to me in bed after this." Poor Mr. Carter always wanted breakfast on the stroke of 7 and me at the same time, though he rarely got me. Judy has two dead husbands and she likes a ginger colored barber down town. Also her mother is our washerwoman and influenced by Aunt Adeline. Judy understands everything I say to her. After I had closed the door I heard a laugh that sounded like a war whoop, and I smiled to myself. But that was before my martyrdom to this book had begun. I got up now.

But the day after I came from the city I lay in bed just as long as I wanted to and ignored the thought of the exercises and deep breathing and the lay, unsympathetic tub. I couldn't even take very much interest in the lonely egg on the lonely slice of dry toast. I was thinking about things.

Hillsboro is a very peculiar little speck on the universe; even more peculiar than being like a hen. It is one of the oldest towns in Tennessee, and the moss on it is so thick that it can't be scratched off except in spots. But it has a lot of nice horse and distillery money in it, and when it gets poked up by anything unusual it takes a gulp of its own alcoholic atmosphere and runs away on its own track at a 2:45 gait, shedding moss as it goes. It hasn't had a real joy race for a long time, and I felt that it needed it. I rolled over and laughed into my pillow.

The subject of the conduct of widows is a serious one. Of all the things old tradition is most set about it is that, and what was decided to be the proper thing a million years ago this town still dictates shall be done and spends a good deal of its time seeing its directions carried out. For a year after the funeral they forget about the poor bereaved, and when they do remember her they speak to and of her in the same tones of voice they used at the obsequies. Then sooner or later some neighbor is sure to see some man with home from church with her or hear some old bachelor's voice on her front porch. Mr. Cain took Mrs. Carter's little Jessie up in his buggy and helped her out at her mother's gate just before last Christmas, and if the poor widow hadn't acted quick the town would have noticed them to death before he proposed to her. They were married the day after New Year's, and she lost lots of good friends because she didn't give them more time to talk about it.

I don't intend to run any risk of losing my friends that way, and I want them to have all the good time they can get out of it. I'm going to serve out mint juleps of excitement until the door old place is running as it did when it was a two-year-old. Why get mad when people are interested in you? It's a compliment, after all, and just gives them more to think about. I remembered the two trucks across the hall and hugged my knees up under my chin with pleasure at the thought of the town talk they could talk.

Then just as I had got the first plan well going and was deciding whether to wear the mauve meteor or the white chiffon with the rosebud embroidery as a first julep for my friends a sweet mess came in through my window that took my breath away, and I lay still with my hand over my heart and listened. It was Billy singing right under my window, and I've never heard him do it before in all his five years. It was the dearest old fashioned tune ever written, and Billy sang the words as distinctly as if he had been a boy chorister doing a difficult recitative.

"Say, Molly, look at the snake I brought you!"

My heart beat so it shook the face on my breast like a breeze from heaven as he took the high note and then let it go on the last few words:

"If you love me, Molly, darling, let your answer be a kiss!"

A confused recollection of having heard the words and tune sung by my mother when I was at the rocking age myself brought the tears to my eyes as I flew to the window and parted the curtains. If you heard a little boy angel singing at your casement wouldn't you expect a cherubim face upturned with heaven lights all over it? Billy's face was upturned as he heard me draw the shade, but it was streaked like a wild Indian's with decorations of brown mud, and he held a long slimy fishworm on the end of a stick while he wiped his other grimy hand on the front of his linen blouse.

"Say, Molly, look at the snake I brought you!" he exclaimed as he came close under the sill, which is not high from the ground. "If you put your face down to the mud and sing something to 'em they'll come outen they holes. A doodle bug come, too, but I couldn't catch 'em both. Lift me up, and I can put him in the water glass on your table." He held up one muddy paddle to me, and promptly I lifted him up into my arms. From the embrace in which he and the worm and I indulged my face and dimity came out much the worse.

"That was a lovely song you sang about 'Molly, darling, Billy,' I said. 'Where did you hear it?'"

"That's a good bug song, Molly, and I bet I can get a lizard with it, too, if I sing it right low." He began to squirm out of my arms toward the table and the glass.

"Who taught it to you, sugar sweet?" I persisted as I poured water in on the squirming worm under his direction.

"Nobody taught it to me. Doc sings it to me when Tilly, nurse nor you ain't there to put me to bed. He don't know no good songs like 'Roll, Jordan, Roll,' or 'Hot Times' or 'Twinkle.' I go to sleep quick 'cause he makes me feel tired with his slow tune what's only good for bugs. Git a hairpin for me to poke him with, Molly, quick!"

I found the hairpin, and I don't know why my hand trembled as I handed it to Billy. As soon as he got it he climbed out the window, glass, bug and all, and I saw him and the red set go down the garden walk together in pursuit of the desired lizard. I suppose I closed the blinds and drew the curtains again and flung myself on my pillow. Something warm and sweet seemed to be sweeping over me in great waves, and I felt young and close up to some sort of big world good. It was delicious, and I don't know how long I would have stayed there just feeling it if Judy hadn't brought in my letter.

He had written from London, and it was many pages of wonderful things all flavored with me. He told me about Miss Chester and what good friends they were and how much he hoped she would be in Hillsboro when he got there. He said that a great many of her faint ways reminded him of his own slip of a girl, especially the turn of her head like a "flower on its stem." At that I got right out of bed like a jack jumping out of a box and looked at myself in the mirror.

There is one exercise here on page twenty that I hate worst of all. You screw up your face tight until you look like a Christmas mask to get your neck muscles taut and then wobble your head around like a newborn baby until it swims. I did that one twenty extra times and all the others in proportion to make up for those two hours in bed. Hereafter I'll get up at the time directed on page three or maybe earlier. It frightens me to think that I've got only a few weeks more to turn from a cabbage rose into a Billy. I won't let myself even think "fisculous peach" and "string bean." If I do I get warm and happy all over and let up on myself. I try when I get angry to think of myself in that blue muslin dress.

I haven't been really willing before to write down in this torture volume that I took that garment to the city with me and what Miss Rene did to it—made it over into the loveliest thing I ever saw, only I wouldn't let her alter the size one single inch. I'm honorable as all women are, at peculiar times. I think she understood, but she seemed not to and worked a miracle on it with ribbon and lace. I've put it away on the top shelf of a closet, for it is torment to look at it.

You can just take any old recipe for a party and mix up a debut for a girl, but it takes more time to concoct one for a widow, especially if it is for yourself. I spent all the rest of the day doing almost nothing and thinking until I felt light-headed. Finally I had just about given up any idea of a blaze and had decided to leak out in general society as quietly as my clothes would let me when a real conflagration was lighted inside me.

If Tom Pollard wasn't my own first cousin I would have loved him desperately even if I am a week older than he. He was about the only oasis in my marriage mirage, though I don't think anybody would think of calling him at all green. He never stopped coming to see me occasionally, and Mr. Carter liked him. He was the first man to notice the white ruche I sewed in the neck of my old black taffeta four or five months ago, and he let me see that he noticed it out of the corner of his eyes even right there in church under Aunt Adeline's very elbow. He makes love unconsciously, and he flirts with his own mother. As soon as I've made this widowhood hurdle—well, I'm going to spend a lot of time buying tobacco with him in his run about, which sounds as if it was named for himself.

FIRE AT PECOS.

Two Residences and Effects Totally Destroyed—Damage Amounts To Over $5,000.

—Pecos Times.

Saturday evening about seven o'clock the alarm of fire was sounded and in short order the fire company and the citizens were making their way as fast as possible to the Western portion of the town which was lit up by the flames.

The fire originated in the residence occupied by Hux Hall and family, none of whom were in the city at the time, and it soon spread to the residence occupied by Major T. H. Bomar and finally on the North. Both residences were completely destroyed.

Little could be done toward saving anything from these houses but the firemen did good work in protecting surrounding buildings, and saved the residence of Bob Harraves, by a narrow margin as the roof caught afire several times.

The buildings were owned by J. B. Gibson and valued at about $3,200 and were insured for $2,400. The furniture and effects of Hux Hall were valued at about $2,200 and were covered by $1,150 insurance. Nothing was saved from this building as the flames were too hot for any one to enter the place, the whole structure being a mass of flames by the time help arrived. Most of the household effects of Major Bomar were removed before the flames spread to the house and his loss was estimated at about $75 with no insurance.

Old Santa Fe.

We have received the initial number of "Old Santa Fe a Magazine of History, Archaeology, Genealogy and Biography." The editor is Ralph E. Twitchell and the associate editors are L. Bradford Prince, Lansing B. Bloom, James H. Vaughan, Herbert W. Clark, E. H. H. Roberts, Frank W. Clancy, Antonio Lucero, and Ruth Laughlin.

The magazine will cover a field all its own; a field of wonderful richness that will be made to yield a bounteous harvest by editors who are thoroughly qualified for the work.

The first number contains the opening chapters of "New Mexico Under Mexican Administration," a historical article which will cover the period from 1821 to 1846, and several biographical articles, among which is a very interesting and quite extended biography of Chief Justice Kirby Benedict who was a judge for many years in New Mexico. The magazine is handsomely printed and illustrated with several portraits. It is a publication which will serve to awaken interest in Santa Fe and the southwest which must inevitably result in great benefit to the ancient capital.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Caron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

To Rid a House of Flies.

Pyrethrum powder burned in a house stupefies a fly until you can sweep him up and put him where he belongs. A little of this burned in the rooms in the morning after which the rooms should be aired—will make the house free from flies all day. Twenty drops of carbolic acid dropped on a shovel or any warm piece of iron creates a vapor that lays flies low.

The common mignonette plant grown in jars and placed in a room makes things unpleasant for flies. A handy thing is the sweet clover. It is strange but flies hate the odor of sweet clover. Have a little of this around in a vase and you will notice that the flies will have business in the other direction. This clover should be renewed every day or two, for when it becomes dry it irritates the nostrils. A cheap and effective poison that is not dangerous to human life is bicarbonate of potash in solution. One drachm dissolved in two ounces of sweetened water and placed in a shallow dish will call the long roll for any number of flies. Another remedy that for all purposes has few equals is a solution of formalin, or formaldehyde in water. A spoonful of this liquid in a quarter of a pint of water left exposed in a room will make the flies scarce in a very short time.—Leslie's Weekly.

Prevention is better than cure. Avoid leaving in exposed places any matter that will attract flies or furnish a breeding place. Use lime or other active disinfectant freely. Don't leave water standing in wash bowls, sinks, etc. Always keep your house screened and for those flies that get inside, use a good "fly spray" or whip freely and frequently.

Roping Contest at Winnipeg, Canada.
One of the features of the big celebration to be held in Winnipeg, Can., in August, will be a roping contest between two five-men teams from Texas and Oklahoma. As many of the names and the teams are familiar to people in this section we reprint a notice of the coming event clipped from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch:

The five-men teams of Texas and Oklahoma cowboys, who will compete for the roping championship of the world at the Winnipeg Roundup in August, have been chosen by the team captains, Henry Grammar and Joe Gardner.

The teams will be known as the Texas and Oklahoma teams and although there are hundreds of fast ropers in both States, the captains have scoured the country to secure the best roping talent to be found.

On Grammar's team will be Henry Grammar, Kaw City, Oklahoma, Clay McGonigal, Pearl, New Mexico, George Weir, Abilene, Texas, Henry Cornett, Virden, Oklahoma, Blue Gentry, Council Hill, Oklahoma.

Gardner's team will line up as follows: Joe Gardner, Sierra Blanca, Texas, Bill Hale, Wilbourn, Oklahoma, C. H. Johnson, Pawhuska, Oklahoma, Chas. and Bert Weir, Monument, New Mexico.

Followers of the sport of roping, especially those who were present when the teams were selected at Doney, Oklahoma, a few days ago, agree that the men named in the above are about the best in the ranks of the ropers of the world. Each man will rope 5 steers, making 35 for each team.

All of the Southwestern ropers will go in a special train to Winnipeg. The big roundup is to be held August 9 to 16, and the start of the special train will be from Kansas City on August 5th.

Preparations for Opening of School.

The school board held a meeting Tuesday night to make final arrangements for the opening of the fall term of school which takes place the first Monday in September. Arrangements were talked over in regard to the housing of the various grades and much routine business was transacted. Among other things a janitor was elected for both buildings, Andy Peay securing the position.

Arrangements were also made to make a small payment each month to assist in supporting a kindergarten grade. The tuition consequently has been lowered from $5.00 to $2.50 for each child attending each grade. No teacher has yet been elected for the commercial department, but it is almost definitely decided.

The age for admission to the schools has been raised from five and one-half years to six years. Every child whose sixth birthday occurs within two weeks of the opening of school, can be admitted. At the opening of the second semester children six years old at that time may also enter.

The board have determined to cut down all possible expenditures and run the schools as economically as possible consistent with the high standard the schools now maintain.

An alarm of fire was turned in Saturday afternoon between one and two o'clock, which called the department to the Groves lumber yard, where it was found the barn and lime shed were on fire.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Will Fenton and seemed to be confined to the north side of the limehouse which was well stocked with lime. The yard fire hose was at once put to work playing on the flames, and Mr. Hegler, manager of the Groves lumber company, ran to the corral which joined the lime house on one side, to release his horse which was in the corral at the time. He was unable to get the gate open and hurried to get a crowbar. At this juncture the animal became frightened and dashed into the flames where it soon perished.

By hard work the fire was confined to the buildings mentioned, entailing a loss to the Groves lumber company of about $350, which was covered by insurance. Mr. Hegler, however, had no insurance on the horse.

SULZER IMPEACHED

to the speaker's desk, with a resolution that they be adopted.

A roll call showed the adoption of the articles by a vote of 79 to 32. A committee was appointed to acquaint the Senate with the assembly's findings at the meeting of the Senate scheduled for 11 o'clock this morning.

In the light of the revelations contained in Mrs. Sulzer's declaration to Senator Palmer yesterday afternoon, Governor Sulzer's friends are expected today to view the ordeal which confronts him with less apprehension than before his impeachment. By her assertion that she had diverted part of the campaign contributions sent her husband to private purposes without his knowledge and used them to purchase stock in Wall Street, she has shown the articles of impeachment to be many of their ferocious, his friends declare.

The articles of impeachment make a statement of more than 4,000 words. They are introduced by the formidable heading:

"ARTICLES EXHIBITED BY THE ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK IN THE NAME OF THEMSELVES AND OF ALL THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK AGAINST WILLIAM SULZER GOVERNOR OF SAID STATE, IN MAINTENANCE OF THE IMPEACHMENT AGAINST HIM FOR WILLFUL AND CORRUPT MISCONDUCT IN HIS SAID OFFICE, AND FOR HIGH CRIMES AND MISDEMEANORS."

The eight articles, in substance, set forth:

That Governor Sulzer, in filing his statement of campaign expenses set forth his entire receipts at $5,460 and expenditures at $7,724; that this statement "was false and intended by him to be false and an evasion of the statutes of the state."

That the affidavit of Sulzer as to the correctness of the campaign statement was "false and corruptly made by him."

That Sulzer was "guilty" of mal and corrupt conduct in office and guilty of bribing witnesses.

The specific charge is that while the Fawley committee was investigating the governor's campaign accounts, he "fraudulently induced timony."

That the governor was guilty of suppressing evidence.

That the governor was guilty of "preventing and dissuading a witness (Frederick L. Caldwell) from attending under a subpoena."

That prior to election the governor used campaign funds "in speculating in stocks and thereby stole such checks and was guilty of larceny."

That Sulzer threatened to use the authority and influence of his office to affect the vote or political action of certain public officers, including two assemblymen.

That he corruptly used his authority as governor to affect the prices of securities on the New York Stock Exchange in some of which he was speculating, on margins or otherwise, recommending and pressing for passage legislation affecting business of the exchange and then "by withdrawing or attempting to withdraw from consideration such legislation."

Assemblyman Gibbs in answer to the charge against Gov. Sulzer said: "Let not those men who have prepared to sacrifice William Sulzer for their own advantage put on a cloak of hypocrisy and shed crocodile tears. Everybody knows the reason that Sulzer is being demanded as a victim is that he had the manhood to refuse to be tied to the wheels of a certain political chariot."

Mr. Gibbs added that in the history of America no public official had been impeached for offenses committed prior to his taking office.

"Why impeach the governor if he has committed a crime?" he asked. "Are not our courts sufficient to deal with such a matter? I make the bold assertion that if the governor had been guilty of murder prior to his taking office he could not be impeached therefor. It will all come out why the Democratic organization in New York has put itself back of this affair. The men who are trying to drive the governor out of office are promoters of a vicious political system. If they impeach the governor they will at the same time impeach the Democratic party. Maybe they have done so already."

Mr. and Mrs. Tyne Walker left for Plainview, Texas, Monday, after some months spent at the residence of B. L. Walker west of town. The trip was made overland, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Walker accompanying them several miles.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Over 100 banks in the south and west have asked for government money to help move the crops, as offered by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. Farmers in the great wheatfields of the country are rejoicing over the action of the administration, judging from telegrams which have been received by the treasury department. The merry buzz of the great harvesters will go on more merrily than ever, for the crops are fairly heavy this year and money was tight. The banks applying asked for amounts ranging from $25,000 to $1,000,000, and it was estimated in the office of the secretary of the treasury that the total amount represented in the applications was about $20,000,000. In some cities the national banks applied as a group.

IOWA LIQUOR LAW HELD VOID.

Webb-Kenyon Act Regulating Shipments Into State Declared Usurping Congress' Powers.

Ottumwa, Ia., Aug. 8.—The Webb-Kenyon law is declared to be unconstitutional and void, "in that it is a delegation of power to the states of power of regulating interstate commerce in intoxicating liquors, which power is vested in congress exclusively," in a decision handed down today by District Judge Francis M. Hunter.

The case was that of the state against the United States Express company, charged with violating the Webb-Kenyon law by delivering shipments of intoxicating liquors to points within the state.

Courtesy and Dignity.

He was only a little Mexican bootblack, undersized and dirty, but he said "Excuse me" when, to reach the aisle in the moving picture show, he had to crowd past; he was only a little Mexican bootblack, with his rough kit and ragged jacket, but his face lighted with a bright smile as he said the English words which perhaps he had learned at school. And as we made room for him to pass, and responded to his courtesy, we wondered how many "American" children of similar birth and station in life would have been as thoughtful and as gentle as this little fellow who had honestly earned and profitably spent the nickel which meant his great holiday.

The grizzled old bandit who works in our garden could teach true courtesy to any courtier. The modest little

SENATOR JOHNSON DIES.

Well Known Alabamian Passes Away in Washington as Result of Pneumonia.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The death early today of United States Senator Joseph F. Johnson of Alabama, who succumbed to pneumonia at his home here, leaves a vacancy in the senate that is somewhat embarrassing to the Democratic majority on the verge of the completion of the Democratic tariff reform program and makes necessary an immediate interpretation of the provisions of the seventeenth constitutional amendment requiring direct election of senators. The senator's death reducing the working majority in the senate to five, by recent desertions from the ranks on account of the sugar schedule, the majority on the tariff bill is reduced to one and leaves the party in a dangerous position should any other emergency arise. In view of this the Democrats of the senate insist that the vacancy must be filled as soon as possible and to this end the governor of Alabama and the legislature of the state will be called to act under the terms of the constitutional amendment.

Governor O'Neil, of Alabama, realizing the gravity of the situation asked Attorney General McReynolds for an opinion as to the proper method of selecting Senator Johnson's successor.

Special Alabama Election.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 8.—Governor O'Neil of Alabama, announced late today that he would call a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the death in Washington today of United States Senator Joseph Johnson.

Governor O'Neil issued the following statement tonight:

"I want to order a special election at once in order to fill the vacancy in the United States senate caused by the death of Senator Joseph F. Johnson of Alabama. While this is my present intention conditions at Washington might make it necessary to call a special session to fill the vacancy at once. I am not, however, of the opinion that a special session would be more expeditious than a special election."

Attorney General McReynolds advised Governor O'Neil by wire tonight that the governor is entirely within his rights in ordering a special election, in order to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Johnson.

Summers Burkhart was confirmed by the senate this week as United States attorney for the district of New Mexico, in spite of the opposition of Senator Fall who opposed both the nomination and the confirmation. Evidently the president and the democratic members of the senate do not take Senator Fall quite so seriously as he imagines he ought to be taken. He opposed the removal of the Indians to the Mesquero reservation vigorously, but the Indians were moved. He opposed the nomination of Burkhart and even told the president how obnoxious the appointment would be to him, but Burkhart was appointed. He protested to the senate committee against the confirmation of Burkhart and when, finally, he gave his reasons the committee promptly voted for confirmation and two days later the senate ratified the action of the committee.—Santa Fe Eagle.

Woman who graces the laundry on washday has a certain nobility of bearing and she never forgets to ask after the health of each absent member of the family. The little girl who solicits "trabajo" at your door, and calls it, in English, "wear-kee" to make herself quite clearly understood, has a polite and maidenly dignity that many a society favorite might envy.

Courtesy is not all there is to character, yet it often reveals much of the soul of man or woman. It is another language, and human intercourse is difficult without it. There may be character without courtesy, and there may be courtesy without character, but it is not hard to detect the false from the true. It is not hard to know the sincere from the insincere.

And the great men and women are the simplest and most considerate of others. When you see a man or woman rude to others, and especially if rude to those in lower station or subordinate post of service, you have uncovered the narrowness and weakness of that man or woman. Look out for that streak of selfishness and cruelty. Such a person can never approach, in genuine dignity and respectability, the little bootblack, the courtier who works in your garden, or the gracious personage who ennobles the drudgery of washday.—El Paso Herald.

Lunch and Smoker Given by Elks.

The "Stray Elks of Carlsbad," knowing of the presence in our city of Dr. Parr of Washington, Indiana, had planned a lunch and smoker in his honor, but owing to the continued illness of Dr. Homer Parr, the idea was abandoned. However, Messrs. McKnight and W. D. Austin, members of the fraternity, and another stranger whose name was not learned, being in the city, an informal lunch and smoker was given at the new restaurant of J. S. Johnson, on Fox street, last night, which was another of the very enjoyable affairs given by the B. P. O. E. residing in Carlsbad.

The following, beside the three honor guests, were in attendance: Messrs. Linn, Webb, Osborne, Patterson, Ervin, W. R. Vawter, Finlay, Schneider and Dow.

Until orders are received this office will accept parcels up to eleven pounds as usual, but no one need be expecting to send twenty pounds until orders are received from the department that the amount is admissible.

Governor McDonald Names Board of Exposition Managers.

Santa Fe, N. M., Aug. 14.—The San Diego board of exposition managers, provided by the law of 1913, and which board will have charge of the New Mexico exhibit and the expending of the $50,000 appropriated for a display from this state, was appointed today by Governor McDonald. It consists of the following:

J. J. Schuler, Raton.
F. E. Twitchell, Las Vegas.
Manuel U. Vigil, Albuquerque.
Sam P. Clark, Deming.
Guy A. Reed, Carlsbad.

It is probable that a meeting of the board will be called within a few days although the law provides that the appropriation does not become available until January 1, 1914, so that it is very likely that active work will not start on this proposition until after that time.

SOCIALISM AND CATHOLICS.

The action of the Catholic congress at Milwaukee in lining up squarely against socialism, as it is now understood and preached is one of the most interesting developments of the year. Heretofore it has been of the general policy of the mother church to disapprove the principle but this is the first time that it has in such an unmistakable way taken a stand against it. That it will very seriously retard the growth of socialism can not be doubted. It is only a step from the position taken to one of absolute interdiction, the effect of which would be instantly apparent all over the world.—Roswell News.

The talented editor of the News would do well to discuss the position of the Church on socialism with his pastor in Roswell before venturing comment on what the actual position is, by saying "it is only a step to absolute interdiction" which as we take it said step was taken many years ago, at least on the principles that are involved in socialism and as defined by Schaeffle in his "Quintessence of Socialism". The work of the congress simply was an endorsement of the position of the Church taken when the monster reptile first showed his head. There never was a time the Church even tolerated any class or kind of socialism for it is all humbug, a delusion and a snare for the ignorant and leads to anarchy.
