HORROR OF EARTH- QUAKE GROWS—THOU- SAND HAVE PERISHED

Additional Calamity Befalls
Old Mexico—Many Dead
As Quake Visits Grief
Stricken Country.

Mexico City, Mexico, Jan. 7.—Hundreds, possibly thousands, of lives were lost as a result of the earthquake which shook the state of Vera Cruz Saturday night. So wide-spread was the damage done by the shock and so wild are some of the sections that suffered from it that it is probable the number of casualties will never be known. Only two houses are left standing in the village of Coutzlan, state of Vera Cruz, where no estimate has yet been placed on the number of dead and injured resulting from Saturday night's earthquake, according to reports received here today.

Eleven bodies have been recovered from the river at San Francisco de la Pena, Vera Cruz, in addition to twenty-four at Racondia.

Twelve soldiers were among the buried under the ruins of the church at Coscomatepec, shaken down by the earth disturbances.

Reports from Jalapa, Vera Cruz, say that the damage at Coatepec and Teocelo, to the southwest of Jalapa, is exceedingly serious, although there are no estimates of the dead and injured. At Jalapa, two persons were killed and twenty injured.

New Soviet Ark Will Set Sail Soon

Washington, Jan. 4.—In a sweeping drive against radicalism, agents of the department of justice were completing today nation-wide raids against communist organizations in which several thousand radicals were taken in custody with the view to deportation.

Raids were ordered in 33 cities over the United States and promptly at the hour of nine last night the operators moved with clock-like precision in the round-up of communist workers and sympathizers. Today the number of arrests had risen to the highest figure of any similar raid in the history of the country.

The government hopes to fill another "soviet ark" and send it floating across the Atlantic to Bolshevik Russia shortly.

To Inspect Water Supply

Santa Fe, N. M., Jan. 7.—Harold F. Gray, chief of the division of sanitary engineering and sanitation of the state health department, has left for an inspection of the water supply of a number of towns. His tour will include the counties of Dona Ana, Otero, Lincoln, Socorro, Bernalillo, Valencia, Sierra, Torrance, Chaves, Eddy and Lea.

Four Loans Totalling $17,000,000 to Exporters

Washington, Jan. 5.—The first move of the American government to aid financially in the reconstruction of Europe came today when the war financial corporation announced it had practically consummated four loans aggregating $17,000,000 to manufacturing exporters.

Two loans, each of $5,000,000, have been arranged to finance the exportation of locomotives and agricultural machinery. The locomotives will go to Poland and the agricultural machinery to England, France and Belgium.

A third loan for $5,000,000, negotiations of which were said to have passed to the final stage will go to an electrical machinery corporation and will be used for the rehabilitation of stricken sections of Belgium and France, where all electrical machinery was destroyed by the Germans.

An advance of $2,000,000 also is included in the total of $17,000,000 to go to several banks which will furnish funds for the exportation of machinery to reconstruct steel mills in France.

Naughty Judge Says Gotham Isn't Hickville

New York, Jan. 7.—Smoking of cigarettes by women was judicially decreed today as not immoral. The decision was made by Supreme Court Justice Mullin in a separation suit in which counsel for the husband tried to show that cigarettes had been found in the wife's dresser drawer and that this constituted evidence of "bad character."

"It is not immoral for women to smoke cigarettes," declared the judge. "Some of the best women in the country and in the world smoke cigarettes. It would not make any difference if she had a thousand packages of cigarettes there. This isn't Hickville."

Chicago Labor Denounces Raid

Chicago, Jan. 4.—The Chicago Federation of Labor today adopted two resolutions of protest against the federal raids against radicals on January 2. One declared the executive board suspected "these raids are a part of the gigantic plot to destroy organized labor by the employers" and that among those arrested were officials of a local cigar makers' union and that the latter's records had been seized. The second resolution declared the federal agents' acts were "repressions resembling czaristic methods in Russia."

Joyful Birthday Affair

A crowd of little folks had a most enjoyable time Saturday afternoon, Jan. 3rd, at the home of little Georgia Saunders, in honor of her seventh birthday. There were sixteen little ones present, who passed the time in a pleasant manner with childish amusement, after which refreshments were served.

Tucumcari Oil News

(Tucumcari American.)

The McGee interests at San Jon have spudded in the well and have made over one hundred feet as we go to press. This well is located in Section Fourteen, Township Eleven, North of Range Thirty-Four East, about six miles north of San Jon. San Jon is thirty miles east of Tucumcari on the Tucumcari-Memphis Railway. This is considered a very favorable structure and lands are holding a good level of prices for a wildcat territory.

Several years ago E. H. Fullwood drilled a water well where the Doodle Bug company is now drilling, and at a depth of around three hundred feet, Mr. Fullwood struck what he called oil. The water well he was drilling was ruined by this oil and the well abandoned. He was drilling the well for a ranch company and they didn't pay any attention to the oil, their verdict was that it had ruined the well for stock water and it was abandoned. It is the intention of the Doodle Bug company to clean out this well and test the oil or whatever Mr. Fullwood considered oil and see what it is. If they find it to be oil they will put on a standard rig and develop the well.

The McGee will resume again as soon as the line arrives and they have men and material sufficient to operate the San Jon test and they are soon to commence in Guadalupe county in the Newkirk and Cuervo district. Should the weather be favorable they hope to be at work again here by the middle of the month.

Lodges Install

On Friday night last, the I. O. O. F. installed the newly elected officers as published in the Outlook last week, winding up a well attended meeting with a social session at which refreshments were served. On Monday night the Knights of Pythias installed with the usual social features following the regular meeting. On Wednesday night the Order of Eastern Star held its first regular meeting in the New Year, installing the official roster for 1920. In spite of the terrific storm which prevailed, the Stars turned out in good numbers. Refreshments as usual were served after the installation ceremonies. The Carrizozo lodges in general are in a thriving condition.

A New Year Message

If thou wouldst have thy life complete,
In all that gives sweet peaceful sleep,
Cast down thy cares at His dear feet;
Nor stop to question, pine or weep
O'er earthly hopes ye cannot meet,
Because His ways are hidden deep.

If thou wouldst have thy age secure,
In blessings growing year by year,
Keep far aloof from aught impure,
That sad regret may bring no tear;
And holiest trust thy thoughts assure,
As "self" fades out when God draws near.

—Mrs. George L. Ulrick.

Republicans Work on Party Issues

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Republicans from 14 middle states continued today their work of molding party issues and laying plans for the participation of republican women in the 1920 presidential campaign.

Demands for equal representation on the national committee of the party and a sentiment, reflected in speeches of prominent party leaders to deal vigorously with the labor and industrial situation as one of the chief issues of the election campaign were the principal developments of the conference which began yesterday.

Plans for the national convention next June also were launched and Edward P. Thayer, of Indianapolis, was elected sergeant at arms for the gathering.

Poison Weed Kills Cattle in Arizona

Douglas, Ariz., Jan. 6.—Cattlemen of Cochise county are complaining of heavy losses in their herds, due to the cows eating a poison weed which resembles considerably the rattlesnake weed, or peavine. J. N. Hunsaker, whose range is in Leslie canyon, complained yesterday of such loss and for that reason has moved his herd from the upper canyon in the forest reserve, where the poisonous plant seems to grow profusely.

He found several cattle which had died, while others, which probably had not eaten such great quantities of the weed, showed the effect by staggering as they walked.

Use Arsenic for Baking Powder

Santa Fe, Jan. 5.—The health authorities have been notified that two Roswell girls, Muriel and Winifred Bonham, were poisoned although not fatally, by eating biscuits in which they had used arsenic instead of baking powder. The arsenic had been put into a baking powder can, and the girls by mistake placed it in the dough for the biscuits.

Confer About Highway

Santa Fe, Jan. 5.—Judge Adrian Poe, President James G. McNary of the First National bank of El Paso, K. M. Roberts, Senator Beard of El Paso and Oliver Lee of Alamogordo, conferred with Governor O. A. Larrazolo Saturday and Sunday on the Alamogordo-El Paso highway via Newman, which is a rival of the federal aid project from Alamogordo to El Paso via the White Sands and Las Cruces. The visitors declare that the interview was a very satisfactory one.

Indian Land Drainage

Albuquerque, Jan. 7.—A bill for the appropriation of $5,500 for the drainage of Indian lands in the Rio Grande valley has been prepared and is before the house for action, according to information received by H. F. Robinson, of the Indian irrigation service. The region to be drained will include Isleta, Sandia, Santa Ana and San Felipe and is geographically a part of the valley land the drainage of which is contemplated.

20,000 REDS ORGANIZED TO OVERTHROW U. S.

Evidence Revealed at Inquiry by New York Legislators of Bold Intentions of Reds.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Congress was asked today by the labor department for a special fund of $1,000,000 for the enforcement of laws against radicals and $150,000 for their deportation. More than 20,000 alien enemies in the communist party of New York state alone are openly organized for violent overthrow of the government under the direction of Bolshevik leaders in Russia, Senator Clayton R. Lusk, chairman of the legislative committee investigating seditious activities, declared today. In addition there are the communist labor party and "other revolutionary" organizations working actively to accomplish the same ends as well as many other bodies which encourage their activities without participating openly in them, the senator said.

Praetorians Advance

Messrs. George R. Ray, General Deputy and Organizer, and D. D. Wemberly, Special Organizer for the order of Praetorians have been working here for the past week soliciting membership for the order and have met with much success. At the regular meeting Tuesday night twenty new applications were acted on, balloted for and duly initiated in both the Praetorian and Queen's degrees.

After the degrees were exemplified, refreshments were served and a general social session followed. The membership in Carrizozo now numbers near the mark of 60 and is constantly growing. The order is operating in 24 different states, having a membership in our own state of over 3,000. As a showing of what good hustling for a good order will do, the working forces of this district won the contest just closed wherein the efforts of the field forces of the Western Division were engaged in contest for increases. The meeting Tuesday night besides being well attended was highly enthusiastic. Regular meetings will take place on Tuesday following the first Thursday of each month.

Commissioners Meet

The Honorable Board of County Commissioners met Monday in the first regular session for 1920; finding a heavy budget of business confronting them which will consume the major portion of the week to dispose of. Therefore, the proceedings of that body will appear in our next issue, together with the financial statement for the year of 1919.

CHAPTER IX.—Continued.

Back in Conward's office, while the agreement was being drawn, Irene was possessed of a consuming desire to consult with Dave Eiden. She was uneasy about this transaction in which her mother proposed so precipitately to invest the greater part of their little fortune. "I think I would hesitate, mother," she cried. "If you buy this house we will have only a few thousand dollars left. Your health may demand other expenditures."

"My health was never better," Mrs. Hardy interrupted. "And I'm not going to miss a chance like this, health or no health. You have heard Mr. Conward tell how many people have grown wealthy buying property and selling it again. And I will sell it again—when I get my price."

"It is as your mother says," Conward interjected. "There are very rapid increases in value. I would not be surprised if you should be offered an advance of ten thousand dollars on this place before fall."

"There must be an end somewhere," Irene murmured, rather weakly.

But her mother was writing a check. "I shall give you five thousand dollars now," she said, "and the balance when you give me the deed, or whatever it is. That is the proper way, isn't it?"

"Well, it's done," said Irene with an uneasy laugh which her excitement pitched a little higher than she had intended.

In an adjoining room Dave Eiden heard this laugh, and it stirred some remembrance in him. Instantly he connected it with Irene Hardy. The truth was Irene Hardy had been in the background of his mind during every waking hour since Bert Morrison had dropped her bombshell upon him. And now that voice—

Dave had no plan. He simply walked into Conward's office. His eye took in the little group and the mind behind caught something of its portent. Irene's beauty! What a quickening of the pulses was his as he saw in this splendid woman the girl who had stirred and returned his youthful passion! But Dave had pulse. He walked straight to Irene.

"I heard your voice," he said, in quiet tones that gave no hint of the emotion beneath. "I am very glad to see you again." He took the hand which she extended, in a firm, warm grasp; there was nothing in it, as Irene protested to herself, that was more than firm and warm, but it set her finger tips a-fluttering.

"My mother, Mr. Eiden," she managed to say, and she hoped her voice was as well controlled as his had been. Mrs. Hardy looked on the clean-built young man with the dark eyes and the brown, smooth face, but the name suggested nothing. "You remember," Irene went on, "I told you of Mr. Eiden. It was at his ranch we stayed when father was hurt."

"But I thought he was a cow puncher," exclaimed Mrs. Hardy.

"Times change quickly in the West, madam," said Dave. "Most of our business men—at least, those bred in the country—have thrown a horse in few reliable firms upon which we can lean in our inexperience."

"Mother has bought a house," Irene explained to Dave. "We thought this was a safe place to come to—A look on Eiden's face caused her to pause. "Why, what is wrong?" she said.

Dave looked at Conward, at Mrs. Hardy, and at Irene. He was instantly aware that Conward had "stung" them. It was common knowledge in inside circles that the bottom was going out. The firm of Conward & Eiden had been scurrying for cover, as quietly and secretly as possible, to avoid alarming the public, but scurrying for cover, nevertheless. And Dave had acquiesced in that policy. His position was extremely difficult.

"I don't think I would be in a hurry to buy," he said, slowly turning his eyes on his partner. "You would perhaps be wiser to rent a house for a while. Rents are becoming easier."

"But I have bought," said Mrs. Hardy. And there was triumph rather than regret in her voice. "I have paid my deposit."

"It is the policy of this firm," Eiden continued, "not to force or take advantage of hurried decisions. The fact that you have already made a deposit does not alter that policy. I think I may speak for my partner and the firm when I say that your deposit will be held to your credit for thirty days, during which time it will constitute an option on the property which you have selected. If, at the end of that time, you are still of your present mind, the transaction can go through as now planned; and if you have changed your mind your deposit will be returned."

Conward shifted under Dave's direct eye. He preferred to look at Mrs. Hardy. "What Mr. Eiden has told you about the policy of the firm is quite true," he managed to say. "But, as it happens, this transaction is not with Conward & Eiden, but with me personally. I find it necessary to dispose of the property which I have just sold to you at such an exceptional price—he was looking at Mrs. Hardy—"and naturally I cannot run a chance of having my plans overturned by any possible change of mind on your part."

"I am entirely satisfied," said Mrs. Hardy. "The fact that Mr. Eiden wants to get the property back makes me more satisfied," she added, with the peculiarly irritating laugh of a woman who thinks she is extraordinarily shrewd and is only very silly.

"The agreement is signed?" said Dave. He walked to the desk and picked up the documents, and the check that lay upon them. His eye ran down the familiar contract. "This agreement is in the name of Conward & Eiden," he said. "This check is payable to Conward & Eiden."

Conward's livid face had become white, and it was with difficulty he controlled his anger. "They are all related that way," he explained. "I am going to have them indorsed over to me."

"You are not," said Dave. "You are charging this woman twenty-five thousand dollars for a house that won't bring ten thousand. The firm of Conward & Eiden will have nothing to do with that transaction. It won't even indorse it over."

A fire was burning in the grate. Dave walked to it and very slowly and deliberately thrust the agreement into the flame.

"Well, if that doesn't heat all!" Mrs. Hardy ejaculated. "Are all cow punchers so discourteous?"

"I mean no discourtesy," said Dave. "If my behavior has seemed abrupt, I assure you I have only sought to serve Doctor Hardy's widow—and his daughter."

"It is a peculiar service," Mrs. Hardy answered, curiously.

"I can only apologize for my partner's behavior," said Conward. "It need not, however, affect the transaction in the slightest degree. A new agreement will be drawn at once—an agreement in which the firm of Conward & Eiden will not be concerned."

"That will be more satisfactory," said Mrs. Hardy. She intended the remark for Dave's ears, but he had moved to a corner of the room and was conversing in low tones with Irene.

"I am sorry I had to make your mother's acquaintance under circumstances which, I fear, she will not even try to understand," he had said to Irene.

"Oh, Dave—Mr. Eiden, I mean—that is—you don't know how proud—you don't know how much of a man you made me feel you are." She was flushed and excited. "Perhaps I shouldn't talk like this. Perhaps—"

"It all depends on one thing," Dave interrupted.

"What is that?"
"It all depends on whether we are Miss Hardy and Mr. Eiden or whether we are still Reenie and Dave."

Her bright eyes had fallen to the floor and he could see the tremor of her fingers as they rested on the back of a chair. She did not answer him directly. But in a moment she spoke.

"Mother will buy the house from Mr. Conward," she said. "She is like that. And when we are settled you will come and see me, won't you—Dave?"

When the Hardys had gone Conward turned to Eiden. "We had better try and find out where we stand," he said, trying to speak dispassionately, but there was a tremor in his voice.

"I agree," returned Eiden, who had no desire to evade the issue. "Do you consider it fair to select inexperienced women for your victims?"

Conward made a deprecating gesture. "There is nothing to be gained by quarrelling, Dave," he said. "Let us get at the facts. When we have agreed as to facts, then we may agree as to procedure."

"Are All Cow Punchers So Discourteous?"

"Shoot," said Dave. He stood with his shoulder toward Conward, watching the dust settling about the foothill city.

"I think," said Conward, "we can agree that the boom is over. We have done well, on paper. The thing now is to convert our paper into cash."

Dave turned about. "You know I don't claim to be any great analyst," Conward, he said, "and I have no pity for a gambler who deliberately sits in and gets stung. Consequently I am not troubled with any self-pity, nor any pity for you, and if you can get rid of our holdings to other gamblers I have nothing to say. But if it is to be landed onto women who are investing the little savings of their lives—women like Bert Morrison and Mrs. Hardy—then I am going to have a good deal to say." Dave went on with rising heat: "If business has to be done that way, then I say to h— with business!"

"I asked you not to quarrel," Conward returned, with remarkable composure. "I suggested that we get at the facts. Now, granting that the boom is over, where do we stand? We are rated as millionaires, but we haven't a thousand dollars in the bank at this moment. This"—he lifted Mrs. Hardy's check—"would have seen us over next payday, but you say the firm must have nothing to do with it. And which is the more immoral—since you have spoken of morality—to accept labor from clerks whom you can't pay or to sell property to women who say they want it and are satisfied with the price? We have literally thousands of unsettled contracts. We must keep our staff together. We have debts to pay, and we owe it to our creditors to make collections so that we can pay those debts, and we can't make collections without a staff. Why, on the property we are now holding the taxes alone will amount a twenty thousand dollars a year. And I put it up to you, if we are going to stand on sentiment, who's going to pay the taxes?"

"I know; I know," said Dave, whose anger over the treatment of the Hardys was already subsiding. "We are in the grip of the system. Still—in war they don't usually kill women and noncombatants. That is the point I'm trying to make. I've no sentiment about others who are in the game as we are. If you limit your operations to them—"

"The trouble is, you can't. They're wise. Most of them have already moved on. A few firms, like ourselves, will stay and try to fight it out; try, at least, to close up with a clean sheet. If we must close up. But we can't wind up a business without selling the stock on hand, and to whom are we to sell it if not to people who want it? That is what you seem to object to."

"You place me in rather an unfair light," Dave protested. "What I object to is taking the life savings of people—people of moderate circumstances, mainly—in exchange for property which we know to be worth next to nothing."

"Yet you admit that we must clean up, don't you?"

"Yes, I suppose so."
"And there's no other way," Dave, said Conward, rising and placing his arm on his partner's shoulder. "I sympathize with your point of view, but, my boy, it's pure sentiment, and sentiment has no place in business."

Dave dropped the subject. There appeared to be nothing to gain from pursuing it further. They were in the grip of a system—a system which had found them poor, had suddenly made them wealthy, and now, with equal suddenness, threatened to make them poor again. It was like war—kill or be killed.

IDEA ORIGINATED IN ORIENT

Finger-Print System Claimed to Have Been in Use in Far East for Many Years.

The finger-print system that sleuths all over the world have successfully used in catching desperate criminals was the invention of orientals, either Chinese or Japanese, according to Filippo de Filippi, writing in Nature. The discovery was originally credited to Sir W. Herschel in a parliamentary blue book, but Kumagusu Minakata, a Japanese, proved the case for the East.

No one in the controversy quoted Rashid-ad-din, who wrote about the system in use in Cathay even in his day. It was a finger-print system of a sort, although not like that in use today. There was no blackening of the hands prior to the taking of the impression, but rather the hand was placed on paper and traced by the person taking the print. The hands of contracting parties were always placed on deeds in those days.

De Filippi says that this ancient system is worthy of investigation today as study of the drawings shows a distinct difference in the outlines of fingers of the hands of different individuals, in the length of the fingers, the relative distance made by the axis of the thumb and the axis of the first finger, and in many other ways.

Horse Lore.

It is found that there is a very definite connection between the coat color of horses and the frequency with which white markings occur. Thus the latter are by far the most commonly associated with the chestnut color. And not only are they the most prevalent in chestnut horses, but it is also, of course, a well-known fact that the markings are apt to be more extended in nature in the case of this color than in that of any other. Chestnut, therefore, apparently possesses, so to speak, a special affinity for these markings. Ray ranks next as regards the degree of frequency with which white markings appear in horses of this color, although it comes a good way behind chestnut in this respect. Then follows brown, while the white marks are met with less frequently among black and roan-colored horses—Indianapolis News.

"Loot" Originated in India.

The word "loot" came into the English language by way of India, and is supposed to be derived from the Sanskrit "loota," signifying booty. Originally all booty taken from the enemy in war pertained to the crown of the victorious nation, the title thereto being regarded as indisputable. The crown was supposed to dispose of these spoils of war according to its pleasure, bearing in mind the services of the captors of the matter. This was, indeed, the basis of prize law at sea. But at every international congress at which the laws of war and of mutual relations came under discussion it was agreed to exempt from seizure private property on land and to restrict confiscation to the national property of the foe.

Cattle Eat "Rubber Cakes."

Experiments at Singapore have shown that a feeding cake for cattle and other stock can be produced from the residue of Para rubber seed after the extraction of an oil comparing favorably with linseed oil.

Springs Done Away With.

The use of springs is done away with in a new cord operated device for opening and closing transoms, windows, or shutters.

Matching.

"Her affinity is a shoemaker."
"Then it was natural for him to want a sole mate."

BOSCHKE'S SYRUP.

A cold is probably the most common of all disorders and when neglected is apt to be most dangerous. Statistics show that more than three times as many people died from influenza last year, as were killed in the greatest war the world has ever known. For the last fifty-three years Boschke's Syrup has been used for coughs, bronchitis, colds, throat irritation and especially lung troubles. It gives the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectation in the morning. Made in America and used in the homes of thousands of families all over the civilized world. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

The Althea Players

The Althea Players entertained at the Methodist Church Saturday evening making a big hit with the large audience of Carrizozo patrons. This was one of, if not the very best entertainments of the kind ever given before a Carrizozo audience; the talent of the five girls being immediately detected and their work highly appreciated by music lovers in attendance. All the numbers were good; the overture "Orpheus," "Hungarian Dance" ensemble; readings, "Mandy's Organ," "Ma in the Auto," "Sweet Brown Girl," "The Baseball Game," the violin solos, and ensembles "Spring Song," "Spanish Dance," "Perpetual Motion" and the selections from the "Rainbow Girl," "Polonaise" and the "Gypsy Girl" were exceedingly well rendered.

In addition to their well rendered selections, the appearance of the performers proved a merited asset. After the entertainment the girls were given a dinner at the home of one of our Carrizozo citizens, after which they entertained with several selections from popular numbers. Later in the day, as their train was late, Miss Hardie, leader of the entertainers, demonstrated the fact that, in addition to her good musical qualities, she could also ride a horse and the skill with which she handled a cow pony would have made the average "puncher" throw away his spurs, green with envy. The local committee is to be congratulated on securing this popular number.

White Oaks Notes

Mrs. M. F. Wells, daughter Francis and Miss Maggie Current were in Carrizozo Tuesday

Mrs. L. Archuleta, an old resident of White Oaks, died just before Christmas and was buried at the White Oaks cemetery.

The dance given on Christmas Eve was the best given at the town hall for some time. Good music and good time during which refreshments were served.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fitzpatrick New Year's morning, a son. Both mother and son are doing nicely.

Miss Francis Wells has resigned the position as Postmistress and Miss Josephine Schale is her successor.

Mining expert Bennett with a company of mining men from Colorado are busy making calculations on the coal possibilities around White Oaks and good news may be expected for the public soon.

Ed Orthofer has sold his iron mine to Beeth Bros. Mining Co.

The Christmas entertainment at the Church was highly successful. A good crowd attended and a splendid program was carried out ending with distributing of gifts to the children.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Haskins, formerly of Jicarilla, a boy. Both parties are doing fine.

Miss Aileen Wells returned to Mesilla Park January 1st, to attend School.

Revival Meetings Begin

The revival meetings scheduled to begin Sunday night opened according to announcement. Rev. Coale began the series of meetings with an introductory sermon making plain the object of the meetings and inviting members of all denominations to enlist their services in behalf of the work.

On Monday evening the Evangelist spoke to church members particularly; he asked that portion of his congregation if they were willing to ask their nearest neighbors to come to the meetings. He said many church members were more than willing to invite people from another part of town, but hesitated to ask the neighbor next door. He did not express surprise at this, and cited many instances among which were some incidents of a peculiar nature and rather humorous. He said the good church member paid his grocery bills and those who do not should get busy; Christianity, he said, was the embodiment of everything that was honest and this must be revealed to the outside world before good results are obtainable. He once knew a party, who after hearing a sermon along these lines approached a certain groceryman and paid a bill that had been outlawed. The groceryman wondering at this change in the manner of the party, accepted an invitation to attend the meetings and was converted. Interest in the meetings increase as they continue.

WANTS WOOD ALCOHOL LAW

COMMISSIONER ROPER SAYS
WOOD ALCOHOL NOT A BEVERAGE.

WOULD REGULATE LAW

DEATHS DUE TO DEADLY LIQUOR
CAUSING MUCH ALARM.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Legislation subjecting the manufacture and sale of wood alcohol to the same restrictions as grain alcohol will be recommended to Congress as a result of the many fatalities from the use of wood alcohol as a beverage, Commissioner Roper of the bureau of internal revenue has announced. Officials have in mind the placing of a heavy tax on the manufacture and sale of wood alcohol, and requiring permits by all persons engaged in the traffic. This would provide the government with a definite record of the movement of wood alcohol from manufacturer to consumer, and would make possible immediate action by the authorities in case of violation of regulations.

"It is obvious," Commissioner Roper said, "that wood alcohol is in no sense a liquor or beverage as described in either the prohibition amendment or the internal revenue laws, nor can it be considered a narcotic under the provisions of the Harrison law. It is known to be a deadly poison, and should be treated as such. In most of the states, if not all, wood alcohol is recognized as a poison, and stringent laws have been passed regulating its use and safeguarding the public from its abuse. No such law exists, however, for the use of federal authorities."

New York.—Two score federal agents have been dispatched on a hunt through greater New York and the other sections of this internal revenue district for poison liquor. Manufacturers of perfumes, hair tonics, flavoring extracts and furniture polish were investigated on a wholesale basis to "nail down" non-beverage alcohol, in an effort to prevent recurrence of Christmas wood alcohol tragedies.

Will Give Evidence to Grand Jury.

Washington.—Evidence gathered by the Department of Justice relative to the alleged leak in decisions of the United States Supreme Court will be submitted to a federal grand jury here this month. It has been announced at the Department of Justice. The government's case is practically complete, officials said. The nature of evidence obtained was not disclosed except that officials predicted it would be "conclusive." Charges that there had been advance information on the decision of the court in the Southern Pacific oil land case and the prohibition cases through which certain men made large sums in Wall Street have been under investigation by the department for two weeks.

Favors Stock Control.

Chicago.—The American Bankers' Association, through its special railroad committee, went on record as favoring government control of stock and bond issues of railroads, early return to private ownership and a six months' guarantee of income after federal control ends. Consolidation of railroad properties and federal incorporation were endorsed conditionally.

Canada to Establish Air Patrol.

Calgary, Alberta.—Establishment of an air service in the Rocky Mountains, by means of which government work, such as police and forestry patrols, surveying and photographing can be carried on economically, is under consideration by authorities here. It is proposed to operate from the international boundary to Fort Vermilion. A string of aerodromes along the east slope of the Rockies is part of the plan.

Son of Dean Gets Sentence.

New York.—Charged with violating his parole by forging checks, committing thefts and getting drunk, Donald Hammond, 24 years old, son of William Hammond, dean of Cornell University, has been sentenced to a term of three and one-half to seven years in state prison.

1,500,000 Germans Killed.

Berlin.—Official statistics made public today place the number of Germans killed in battle at 1,500,000. These figures do not include those who died in prison camps.

Caught in The Act

(Alamogordo News)

There was a rollicking, jolly justice of the peace case before Justice Walton last Monday. The culprit before the court was an aged Mexican who had been caught in the act of taking the railroad company's coal at the coal chute by Ben West, the company detective, of Carrizozo.
This is alleged to have been about the third time Mr. West had caught the same man taking coal and had let him go on the previous occasions after a good lecture.

There is a suspicion in the official mind that this same man has been making a practice of taking the company's coal for a number of years. He sold the coal to householders in various parts of town, it is alleged.

Before the court the defendant denied stealing any coal and said he just took it. He also volunteered to justify his action in taking the fuel by a passage of scripture. Mr. West also proved to be a scriptural student at least so far as the ten commandments are concerned, and asked the old man if he had never read, "Thou shalt not steal," in the Bible.
He acknowledged that to be a new passage to him.

He claimed to be a cripple and pulled off his shoes, whereupon the hardhearted railroad detective asked him if he did not think a little soap and water would help his feet.

The result of the trial was a fine of one dollar and a suspended ten days sentence in jail. The old man came around later with the dollar and was released as to further appearance. It is likely that he will adopt a new line of business after the first of the year.

Notice to Property Owners

It is required by law that each owner of real estate must list his or her property not later than the last business day of February, and failure to do so requires this office to list same to an unknown owner. It is not the desire of this office to either list this property to an unknown owner or to have to add a 25% penalty, but failure to list all property after January 1, 1920 makes it compulsory for us to do both. Please make it convenient to list your property as early as possible after January 1 or have your authorized agent to do so for you.

Respectfully yours,

FRANK R. MILLER,
Assessor Lincoln County, N. M.

AVISO A LOS DUEÑOS

PARABLES of TRAVEL

Mr. Brown, who was a big man at home, set out to "See America First," as all the advertisements advised him to do. He went to a certain city and stopped at a great hotel. Just before leaving he tried to pay his big bill with his personal check. "Sorry, but I do not know you, Mr. Brown," said the cashier. "You must be identified." "Identified?" quoth Mr.
Brown indignantly. "How can I be? I am a stranger in a strange city."
And so Mr. Brown's troubles began, and the pleasure of his whole trip was marred.

If Mr. Brown's funds had been in American Bankers Association Cheques, identification would have been easy by countersigning a cheque in the presence of the cashier, and the cashier would have been glad to accept the cheque the same as money in payment of the hotel bill.
A. B. A. Cheques are universally accepted in payment of travel expenses, and are cashed by 30,000
banks.

FURS IN DEMAND

Twice as Much Peltry Is Being Worn This Season.

Three-Quarter Coat Still Favorite With Young Girls—Novelties in Sport Models.

Handsome furs for mid-winter wear are being featured at all the exclusive furriers and reports say that there are nearly twice as many furs being purchased this season as last. On the "Avenue" and in the limousines one glimpses fur coats and scarfs that are truly magnificent. Indeed to be fashionably dressed this season one must be fur clad or at least "fur trimmed." Even hats are distinguished by bits of fur, while some ingenious milliners have fashioned entire hats from the skins of animals.

For the "jeune fille" the half or three-quarter coat is still favored. Those young girls who did not purchase coats of this type late last season when they were first introduced, are busy shopping now for this popular model. Sometimes these sport coats are belted, but more often they fall in a graceful drape from the throat to the hips. Taupe squirrel is a happy choice for the younger set with Hudson seal as a close rival.

Another sport model recently seen at a fur shop was made exclusive because leopard skin allied itself with French seal. The top of the coat was of leopard 12 inches deep with a border of seal the same depth. The sleeves featured the same combination and as a final touch of cache there was a deep collar of seal and a narrow belt of leopard.

Nutria and beaver are well liked by many women and shown often in two tones of the same fur. For instance, a seven-eighth-length coat of nutria was collared, cuffed and bordered with nutria of a darker shade.

For the large matron there is a gorgeous cape of broadtail fringed at the bottom. A chinchilla collar added to the warmth at the throat and the apertures for the arms were finished with cuffs of the lighter fur.

Short capes and shoulder lengths are still seen with velvet gowns. An interesting hip cape of seal is belted at the front and shows a stunning collar of kolinsky.

When one goes to the theater or smart restaurant she dons a draped dolman of squirrel, mole or seal that falls from a deep shoulder yoke. The fur is set on rather full at the yoke and is draped lavishly at the hips, but narrows fashionably at the feet.

USEFUL FOLDING WORK-CASE

when so closed with ribbon strings, and might possibly find a place in the dressing-table drawer.

It is carried out in dark brown silk, lined with pale pink silk, and bound with brown ribbon. The sides are stiffened with pieces of card sewn in between the silk and the lining.

In the lining, upon the left-hand side, there is a little pointed pocket, into which a small pair of scissors can be slipped and upon either side of this pocket there are loops of narrow elastic for holding bodkins, large needles, etc.

The lower half of the right-hand side of the case forms a large pocket that is useful for holding various little articles, such as a card of buttons, darning wool, thimble, and possibly part of a reel of cotton wound upon a card.

In the center four leaves of flannel, cut into points at the edges, are sewn for the needles.

Some pretty little design such as suggested in the right-hand sketch, can be worked upon the front of the case with the words: "Scissors and Needles," beside it.

Dolman Sleeves in Coats.

Smart coats for limousine or promenade wear have the huge dolman sleeve which is so graceful. This sleeve has an armhole that extends from the shoulder to the waistline and from this big armhole the sleeve tapers to a 12 or 15-inch width at the wrist. A new coat of falsen brown hollia has these dolman sleeves ending in cuffs of kolinsky and there is a bolster collar of kolinsky around the throat. The coat is double-breasted and the buttons, down one side, are set in tabs that make an effective trimming from shoulder to hip.

Little Trimmings.

Decorative hat pins constitute the only trimming seen on some hats, particularly of the off-the-face type.

Black and White Effects Here

Opposite to Dazzling Colors, English Writer Says, Are More Becoming to People Generally.

As a set-off against the dazzle season of gold and silver and jade and magenta, and all the rainbow of the Russian ballet, special attention is being paid this winter to black and white effects. There is nothing, of course, says a writer in the Manchester, England, Guardian, more becoming to people generally, and while it is still the custom in this country to discover a person who is wearing black, whether she is in mourning, yet black-and-white is gradually winning a place of its own. For one thing, of course, it sets off admirably the English complexion; for another, it is, in the long run, most economical.

These qualities have their defects, too, for people who have learned to appreciate black-and-white also learn to take it far too much for granted, and allow it easily to get mangy and rusty, and even, and to relate of a cold bath nation, exceedingly dirty. Crispness and cleanliness is as much a necessity of black-and-white as of other colors—indeed, much more so, for it is just its possibilities of crispness which make it so attractive. Even the black suits with the thin, white stripes which are worn so much just at present should be frequently cleaned in order to keep the white fresh and smart looking.

Black suits which have very little suggestion of mourning about them are being made of thick woolen velours corduroy. Some of them have a band of black fox round the throat and sleeves. Worn with black silk stockings and suede shoes, and a close fitting black-and-white toque, they are exceedingly becoming to all ages and most complexions. But apart from the suits, of which there is every variety in black and in black-and-white, the magpie note is at its best in the afternoon semi-between dress.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

President Proclaims Return of the Railroads to Their Owners on March 1.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR BILL

First Shipment of Deported Reds on Its Way to Russia—Admiral Sims Refuses Medal and Accuses Secretary Daniels of Injustice.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

President Wilson, having been convinced of the dangers that would be incurred if he carried out his announced intention to return the railroads to their owners on January 1, since congress could not or would not pass the necessary legislation by that time, yielded to the situation and on Wednesday issued a proclamation setting the date for the return as March 1. In the intervening two months, he believes, the railroads and express companies should be able to prepare adequately for the resumption of their business under their ownership and control. This action pleased such congressmen and railway officials as were interviewed, and the latter expressed the belief that the roads would be ready by March 1, to carry on. Of course they expect congress to enact suitable legislation and the interstate commerce bill to permit such rate increases as will make it possible for them to borrow the money for needed equipment, extensions and improvements.

Immediately after the issuance of the president's proclamation Director General Hines made an appeal to all officers and employees of railroads to redouble their efforts to produce the best and most economical railroad service possible during the remaining period of federal control. This really was directed especially to the railway brotherhoods, which have been holding in abeyance their demands for wage increases amounting to nearly a billion a year to see whether the government's efforts to bring down the cost of living would have any marked effect. They do not seem impressed by the present success of those efforts and are growing restless. It remains to be seen whether they will now wait much longer for the decrease in prices, which the attorney general has said are likely to begin to appear next month.

The prospects for early legislation for the return of the railroads to their owners have brightened very considerably. The senate having passed the Cummins bill, conferences began to adjust the differences between that and the Esch bill passed by the house. The clauses concerning wage adjustment, the forbidding of strikes and voluntary or compulsory arbitration presented the greatest difficulties. The conferees said they hoped to make considerable progress before congress reconvenes on January 5.

Loud cheers, metaphorically speaking, sped on its way the departing transport Buford when at the beginning of the week it started for Europe. No one wanted ever to see any part of the cargo come back, for that cargo consisted of 249 rabid and dangerous "reds" who were being deported by Uncle Sam for his own sake. True to type, the radicals cursed the United States venomously as they were herded onto the vessel, and threatened awful deeds when they return. They were headed by Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, who for many years have preached their poisonous doctrine in America almost unhindered. The delectable Emma shouted, as she passed up the gangplank: "This is the beginning of the end of the United States." Just where the unsavory gang is to be landed was unknown even to the captain of the transport until he opened his orders at sea. It was presumed, however, that they would be put ashore at a Finnish port and sent thence by rail to Russia.

If the Chicago Federation of Labor was seeking a way to "get in bad" it could not have found a better one than in its action endorsing the work of Emma Goldman and Berkman and announcing its opposition to the deportation of aliens who are members of any union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. No such brazen demand for the exemption of any "class" from punishment for crime was ever heard, at least in America. The decent citizens of America, who after all form the vast majority in the country, have shown plainly that they are tired of the alien radicals and their vicious activities, and the sooner union labor recognizes that fact, the better for it. As might have been expected, William Z. Foster, erstwhile apostle of syndicalism and sabotage and organizer of the fabled steel strike, supported the anti-deportation movement in the Chicago meeting. It is planned to extend throughout the land the plan to save union men from "banishment and exile."

Admiral Sims, who commanded America's naval fighting forces in the war, started what may develop into a real navy scandal when he declined to accept the Distinguished Service medal awarded him by Secretary of the Navy Daniels. The admiral, in his letter to the secretary, accused the latter of injustice and discrimination in making up the list of those to receive medals and navy crosses, and expressed his indignation at the giving of the medal to swivel chair officers and to officers who lost their vessels at sea under circumstances that might not be to their credit, while it was refused to others who displayed great bravery and gallantry in combat. Many of the latter, recommended for the decoration by Admiral Sims and approved by the board of awards, were cut from the list by Mr. Daniels. The admiral said such injustice would go far toward destroying the morale of the navy and he did not wish to countenance it by accepting the medal awarded to him.

Secretary Daniels said there was no basis for the charge of favoritism, that he was determined to decorate every commander of a torpedoed ship—his son-in-law, Commander Bagley, is in that category—and that the list is not yet closed. It was said in Washington that the admiral's action was very likely to bring about a congressional investigation of the whole matter.

Great Britain will never consent to separation of Ireland from the empire, but is willing to give it the largest possible measure of self-government and to give this at once. Such was the statement of premier Lloyd George to parliament, and he then proceeded to give an outline of the home rule bill which the government will introduce when parliament reassembles. The measure will create two legislatures somewhat on the American model, one for the southern part of Ireland and the Roman Catholic part of Ulster, and the other for Protestant Ulster. Above them will be the council of Ireland, elected by the two legislatures. The latter bodies have the power to combine at any time without the consent of the British parliament. All powers not reserved to the imperial British parliament are given to the legislatures. These reserved powers include peace and war, foreign affairs, the army and navy, defense, treason, trade outside of Ireland, navigation, wireless and cable, coinage, trade marks, light-houses, and the appointment of the higher judiciary until the legislatures agree on a plan for the appointment of judges. Also reserved are the income tax, customs and excise, but the excise may be reclaimed by Ireland by agreement of the legislatures. Ireland is to collect all of the taxes and retain all but a fair contribution to the imperial expenses.

The house of commons as a whole received the scheme with approval, but there is little hope that it will please any of the Irish factions. In that fact, it is said, lies the best chance of its success. Lloyd George took occasion to say what he thought of the recent attempt to assassinate Viscount French, lord lieutenant of Ireland. He declared it was not only despicable and dastardly, but one of the most foolhardy political crimes in history.

Addressing the chamber of deputies, the French premier made the first authoritative statement concerning the conference in London. The two principal decisions made, he said, were not to make peace and not to compromise with the soviet government of Russia. The allies were determined, he added to be the allies of all peoples attacked by bolshevism and would maintain a barbed wire around Russia, notably by aiding the Poles, Roumanians and others along the frontiers. He expressed full confidence in the Anglo-Franco-American pact and predicted a solution of the Fiume difficulty. The chamber thereupon gave the government a vote of confidence, 158 to 71.

Really, the Fiume dispute seems at this writing to be on the eve of settlement. The Italian cabinet has approved an agreement with D'Annunzio on the basis of proposals made by the government. This, it was reported, was that Italy should keep in its possession the whole of the armistice line, reaffirming the right of Fiume to decide its own fate and assisting it financially to resume its activities under the regime of a free port. The recent plebiscite in Fiume resulted in 75 per cent of the votes being cast in favor of the Italian government's plan for the future occupation of the city. It was said that Captain D'Annunzio declared he would not accept this result and that he departed from the city.

As for Russia, the bolsheviks seem to be getting along very well in a military way. They have beaten Peflura and his Ukrainian army, and are said to have cut off the retreat of Denikin's volunteers so that their only way of escape is into Roumania. The Estonians and the bolsheviks, it is announced, agreed on the questions of frontiers and military guarantees.

The bituminous coal operators, after registering an objection to the statement that they had agreed to the terms of the settlement with the strikers, have accepted the agreement, at least in the central competitive field. The president named the commission that is to inquire into the situation and determine wages and conditions. He appointed Henry M. Robinson, John P. White and Rembrandt Peale, representing respectively the public, the miners and the operators. Already some of the larger operators have let it be known that they intend to pass on to their customers the 14 per cent advance in wages.

SEVENTY-FIVE
AND BOARD

By M. P. MERRYMAN

(Copyright, 1917, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Yellow October sunlight poured through the west windows of the library. Myriad dust particles floated along the slanting sun paths that slid abruptly into shadow at the table's edge. The assistant professor of biology sat hunched over a book that lay upon the table before him, but he was not concentrating, at least not upon the text. With a thump of his fist that set the book jumping he raised his head and looked about the big, quiet room.

The assistant professor took off his glasses and rubbed his eyes and stretched. Then he shoved his hands into his pockets, tilted back in his chair and surveyed the shelves of dog-eared volumes opposite him. It gave him an immense satisfaction, this bare, low-vaulted room with its brown walls and solid, brown tables and its rows and rows of books.

The assistant professor pulled out a crumpled bit of paper from his pocket and smoothed it out upon the book, after which he continued to regard it with an expression of ironical amusement. It was a check made out to him for the amount of twelve dollars and fifty cents; a sum he had received in payment of a scientific article which it had taken him two months to write. It was a good article, too, but according to more than one editor "not sufficiently popular in tone."

He had been trying to make a decision. This last contemplation of the scrap of paper in his hand had served to topple the scales. He closed the book with a bang, uncrossed his long legs, rose from the table and ambled down the aisle to the door. Outside he stood for an instant blinking in the strong light. When he closed his eyes they still registered printed book pages. With something of the feeling of a stranger he turned and scuffed along the leaf-strewn path to the lake. Now that there was no longer any doubt about his departure the intimate landscape seemed all at once unfamiliar and different. He felt already detached from it—and sorry.

The moment the tip of her canoe veered round a bend in the shore line he recognized it and whistled. The assistant professor of English whistled her answer and waved an undignified paddle in greeting as her small craft slipped into sight.

"Want to come?" she called, invitingly.

"Sure!"

"All right! Climb in!"

The canoe nosed landward and slushed into the sand. With a lunge which shot the boat into deeper water and himself miraculously, into the boat, the new passenger embarked and took charge of the paddle.

"Where to?" he asked.

"Oh, anywhere," she replied and smiled at him.

He selected the most distant spot on the lake, laid the paddle across the canoe and rested his elbows on it.

"Takes longer this way," he explained.

She laughed and leaned sideways to watch a swirl of red and yellow leaves that went scudding along the surface of the water like a fleet of toy sailboats. The red of her tam-o'-shanter, however, held more fascination for him. At length the leaves whirled out of sight and she settled back in her seat to feast her eyes upon lake and trees and sky.

"I'm so sorry for all the folks who live in cities," she said.

"Why?"

She looked up inquiringly at the question. He had snapped it out so abruptly it puzzled her a little. He had begun paddling, too, furiously.

"Why?" she repeated. "Why, because they miss all this!" She waved a brown arm toward the rustling woods that shadowed them. "Wouldn't you hate to miss it?" she queried. The blade in his hand cut a long swath before he answered.

"I—I expect to miss it—after next Sunday," he said.

"You—you mean—?" Her question hung unfinished.

"Yes, I'm going away—to the city," he said dryly with a pucker of his mouth as if even the taste of the words was bitter to him.

"Oh!" She bit her lips and tried to go on speaking naturally, but her brain appeared to be turning a somersault—and no words came.

"Yes," he went on dully. "I'm going away. Decker has a fellow here now who can take my place. They've given me these last two days till college opens to decide. Well, I've made up my mind. I'm going to the city to live in a hall bedroom and work in an office—and sell rubber. I'll be selling rubber, but I've got to stick to it till I can make a decent enough living to ask a decent girl to marry me. I'd rather stay here and go on with my work than anything else on earth, but I'll be hanged if I'll ask my wife to wear second-hand clothes all her life or wear 'em myself. This digging along forever on seventy-five a month and board is getting my goat. Today this came. It was the last straw." He drew his offending check from his pocket and flipped it into her lap. She read it and met his eyes when she had finished. "I—I don't know that I blame you much," she said.

They skimmed along for a time, each waiting for the other to speak. When she had made up her mind that he never expected to open his mouth again, she gave in. "And—and how does—the girl—feel about it?" she inquired. "That would make—some difference—of course." Hours passed for her before he replied.

"I—I haven't—asked her—yet," he said hesitatingly.

With a little shiver of relief she sank back in her seat and caught back the smile in her eyes so that he might not see. He went on blustering, man-fashion:

"It isn't unreasonable, is it, to want enough to live on decently? I'm not aspiring to plumbers' wages, you know, or anything like that; but hang it, even a teacher's got to live."

She began speaking then and her voice grew softer and fuller as she went on. "I know," she replied. "It's unfair and it probably will be for a long time to come, but you can't have everything, you know, Bob. You have the work you like best in all the world. Not many men can say that."

"I know all that," he said, shaking his head in reply. "I've talked that way to a self, too, but all the same steam-heated apartments in town rent for $50 a month."

"So you have been house hunting?"

He had not even the grace to blush. "Sure!" he exclaimed. "Why shouldn't I? Even a poor devil of a pedagogue can look, can't he?"

She leaned forward, her eyes dancing, but for the moment she felt a little like his mother, nevertheless.

"Boy," she explained slowly and emphatically, "when you're a school-teacher you don't rent a steam-heated apartment in town; you get a cottage in the country and buy a good second-hand stove. For that matter, all the furniture is second-hand but you needn't look like that—it's nice! You buy a few pieces at a time and put on three coats of paint and then you enamel it and if you want to you paint little flow—"

He could not wait for her to finish. "And for an engagement ring," he jeered, "you buy some pretty little tin thing at the five and ten."

She shook her head defiantly till the red tassel bobbed. "No, you don't! You hunt up that lovely old amethyst ring of your mother's that you once showed to—to me."

He was still stubborn and unconvinced. "And then," he demanded, "when the house is rented and furnished and—and everything—who pays the bills?"

Her patience reached its limit. "Can't you figure out anything for yourself?" she demanded angrily. "Some land goes with the cottage, of course; enough to raise garden truck for the family, and besides that you do whatever you can. Raise chickens or rabbits or bees or thoroughbred dogs or mushrooms or anything that sells—how can I tell exactly? Personally, I've made several hundred dollars writing 'detektit' stories. Maybe your—your wife could do something like that—after the dishes."

The assistant professor of biology began to believe he had died and gone to heaven. He felt as if he were trending on balloons that bore him higher and higher, yet strangely did not break. The prospect of remaining at his work made him giddy enough, but added to that the idea of wife and home was still beyond his rapidly expanding imagination.

"Do you—do you suppose—it could be done?" he demanded, and tried to swallow. The red mouth beneath the red tam-o'-shanter was quivering, but the round little chin was firm. "Of course it could!" she said.

"God!" murmured the assistant professor of biology fervently. "I—I almost believe it could, too! And you don't believe I'd be a low-down cad for asking the best little girl in the world to marry me and live like that?" His hands moved forward, eagerly awaiting the touch of the two steady ones that slipped into his own, while the paddle, unnoticed, slid into the water and floated away.

"I—I'm sure you wouldn't," she answered, "if—if you mean—me!"

Notice for Publication
 In The Probate Court of
 Lincoln County, New Mexico
 In the matter of the last Will and Testament of Theodore Brady de Chavez.
 TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
 Notice is hereby given that in an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of Theodore Brady de Chavez has been filed for Probate in the Probate Court of Lincoln County, New Mexico, and by order of said Court the first day of March 1920, or as soon thereafter as may be possible in the Court room of said Court, in the town of Carrizozo, New Mexico, is the time, day and place for hearing the proof of said last will and testament.
 Therefore any person or persons wishing to enter objections to the Probate of said will and testament, are hereby notified to file their objections in the office of the County Clerk of Lincoln, State of New Mexico on or before the time set for said hearing.
 Dated at Carrizozo, New Mexico,
 this 5th day of January, 1920.
 G. C. CLEMENTS,
 County Clerk.
 By FLOYD L. ROWLAND,
 Deputy.

Outpiled Four Mules
 The Western Garage has just delivered a Fordson Tractor to the County and its first trial was one wherein four mules had been unable to perform a certain task of pulling. The Fordson was put on the job and easily did the work. Certain parties connected with county road work say that if difficult work like that mentioned can be done continually by the tractor, the County Commissioners would do well by the purchase of several more.

Dramatic moments from four great stories!

SUDDENLY, around the corner whirled a shabby old depot hack; it was plainly empty, but the well-known negro driver seemed to be in a desperate hurry. He lashed the horses to a run. "Wonder who's going to his train to-night," laughed Mr. Ludlum. But the driver turned in to the Ludlum curb, threw his weight backward and checked the horses so sharply that they slid, and their shoes scratched sparks from the stone. The driver stood up in his pulpit and shouted at the porch. "Oh, Mjz. Ludlum, your boy's drowned." Then he struck out with his whip; the horses plunged, the hack careened round the next corner and was gone.

THAT'S cheap and noisy melodrama," he scoffed, albeit a bit worriedly. "What do you mean?" I mean just this, "she said: "Life is not worth the living without you. I came here to claim my rights. If you refuse me those rights, I'm not going on living. And I shall end things here and now, I have thought it all out. And I've come, ready, "she finished, with a slight gesture toward the hand-bag she carried on her wrist. "I am not bluffing, Rolf. You have deserted me. You'll take me back, or there will be a human sacrifice here to adorn your wedding-night. Make your own choice." The man felt a twinge of physical nausea at her flamboyant threats and at a memory they evoked.

SOMERS suddenly came to action. He jerked a revolver from his pocket, and there was a spurt of flame, the bullet slashing by my ear. The frightened mare swerved and reared perilously near the edge of the road. Choked with rage, I tugged at the reins, keeping my eyes on Somers. There seemed no escape, and I couldn't even curse. I opened my mouth to shout; but the sudden rush of blood to my head caused a warm trickle in the very center of my forehead.

Somers instantly perceived it. It seemed to stagger him, for my eyes never left his face as I struggled with the reins. His imagination thoroughly tricked him. Slowly, with an expression of horror, he backed away into his darkness, still covering me with his revolver but not daring to fire again. There came another sound from up the valley, the clanging of the tongs horn.

WHEN Jim walked out of the barn, he walked into a determined young fist and some very unpleasant, choking language. But the return blow, though Sanford got ready for it as quickly as he could manage, didn't follow. Jim didn't go down; he only staggered a little, clenched his fists, and stood still.

"What do you mean, you—you?" Sanford spluttered. "You've got your weight on the wrong foot, Sanford," said Jim. "If I got in quick with my left, where would you be? You want to think about those things, you know, when you go round pandering people." "Don't call me Sanford. And I want you to know that I'm here to protect my sister—" "All right, Mr. Berrian. ## LONG FACES

"Cascarets" for Liver and Bowels bring back Smiles

Turn the "kill-joys" out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and misery-making gases—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lax liver, clogged bowels, or an upset stomach. Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep.—Adv.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

From All Over
New Mexico
and Arizona

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Over $100,000 is spent, being spent, or about to be spent in improvement and extension of the Socorro county, New Mexico rural school system.

The executive committee of the Southern Baptist convention of New Mexico, decided on Las Vegas as the location for the Baptist school, which is to be erected in this state.

"A square deal for the farm boy and the farm girl," is one of the slogans of the Boys and Girls' club department of the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Arizona.

Officials of the Mesa post of the American Legion have launched a movement to secure for the post two sections of land northeast of Mesa, Arizona. The land is now held by the War Department. It was homesteaded ten years ago by officers of the Mesa Company of the Arizona National Guard and held as a military reserve.

Giovani Estrada, a bright Mexican boy, 9 years old, is in the St. Mary's hospital at Gallup, N. Mex., in a serious condition as the result of being burned by an electric wire. The boy climbed a pole to get a ball which had lodged in the wires and in some way came in contact with a live wire with the result that his left arm was burned off at the elbow, his right arm partially disabled and his body burned in several places.

Four hundred and four forest fires have occurred during the past season in the national forests of Arizona and New Mexico, according to a report just compiled by the forest service. Fully 50 per cent of these fires were caused by human agency, and approximately 50 per cent by lightning. Among those caused by human agency, the largest number were set by logging operations, and the next largest by campers. These fires burned more than six thousand acres of forest land, caused damage of about $3,300, and cost over $6,000 to extinguish. One and one-fourth million board feet of timber were destroyed.

The Federal Monthly Crop Report just released for publication through the office of Field Agent R. F. Hare of the Bureau of Crop Estimates, shows that New Mexico has planted this fall 211,000 acres of wheat compared to 182,000 acres planted last year. Last year's crop passed the winter and spring with an abandonment of only 5 per cent of the planted acreage. The condition of the present crop is reported better on December 1st, than was last year's crop at that time. In the United States only 38,770,000 acres of wheat has been planted this year, compared to 50,489,000 planted last year. The condition of this crop is only 85.2 per cent of normal, compared to a condition of 98.6 per cent for last year's crop at this time. This report shows that New Mexico has produced 281,700 bushels of apples this year, and 75 per cent of these have been shipped from the county in which they were grown. Chaves county reports having shipped 815 cars, San Juan county 203, Otero 60, and De Baca 12 cars. The Bureau's investigation relative to wages of farm labor this year, compared to 1918, 1917, and 1916, show that the wages of the farm laborer have kept pace in this state with high cost of living. The report shows that the average wage by the month without board, was as follows: for 1910, $24.25; for 1917, $18.00; for 1918, $50.00 and for 1919, $60.00. This year, day laborers commanded $2.00 per day; last year they were paid $2.38; in 1917, $1.97 and in 1919 they were only paid $1.08.

Arizona's mines enriched the world by $174,550,388.86 during the year just closing, according to the annual report of the state tax commission. The minerals produced totaled 10,188,710.20 dry tons, and the average value per ton from the gross yield was $9.10. Copper production amounted to about 16 times the value of all the other minerals produced, gold and silver following next. Copper produced amounted to 720,001,087.06 pounds, of which 682,823,224.61 pounds were marketed at an average price of $0.23291, or a total of $163,218,510.35. Gold production amounted to 249,250.08 ounces the average price being $20.43, and the total value being $5,092,700.43. In silver production the state had 5,120,054.9 ounces, the average price being $0.3727, and the total value, $4,080,140.97. In lead the state produced 6,622,052.03 pounds at an average value of .0007, or a total of $441,503.26.

The government has approved plans and specifications for the Douglas-Rodde highway link in Arizona, according to word received from Washington by State Engineer Maddock. This means that the road will receive $107,000 federal aid for its construction.

been one of the last to leave her place."

"She really shouldn't keep us waiting like this," said Wan.

"I suppose we could get back into the carriage," said Yen.

"We could," said Wan, "only the people who are walking down the street away from the hall have to go aside for us, and that is pleasant."

"Yes, that is pleasant," said Yen. "It makes me feel very glad and happy when I see them all stepping out of their way for us. It shows so plainly that while we may be very small we are very choice and beautiful."

"Ah, we have such beautifully combed-yellow-tan hair," said Wan.

"We're dogs of the rich and we are rich, too, for all things are done for us. We're waited upon. We never have to do anything at all. And if we get cross or angry they always excuse us. I say that we're so highly bred and so very fine and that we can't help our dispositions."

"Once in a while," said Yen, "don't you wish you were a regular dog? Don't you wish that you were allowed out to run and scamper and play and that you could talk to any dog you met?"

"Sometimes I wish I could have a sensible life. I want to be a pet, of course, but I would like it sometimes if I didn't always have to be such a snob."

"Yes," said Wan. "Sometimes I wish so, too, but we mustn't talk like this, for some one will hear us and we must keep our dignity."

"What's that?" asked Yen.

"We must look rich and fine and snobbish—that's dignity with us, though it may not be so with others."

"It's funny," said Yen, "but the people talk so foolishly who come out from that hall."

"They've been listening to a concert," said Wan. "I suppose it makes them foolish."

"Sometimes music has made me cry," said Yen.

"You mean yelp," said Wan.

"Oh, well, yelp, if you prefer it," said Yen.

"It is more correct," said Wan.

"Then by all means say it," said Yen.

"But as I was saying, everyone who has passed has been talking foolishly. They have said: 'Oh, didn't the violins play beautifully and weren't the cellos too gorgeous for words?' and as for that piano solo—well, that was superb. The two harps were lovely, also, and the horns were splendid."

"That is the way they have talked," said Yen.

"That is the sort of talk I've heard, too," said Wan.

"Too absurd," said Yen. "Why, the way they rave and talk is ridiculous. Now if they were talking about beautiful cream and delicious meat from tender chops—well, then I could understand it."

"People are ridiculous," said Wan, "but still we must be polite to them, for people look after us."

"There comes our mistress, now," said Yen.

"Oh, look at my two precious darlings, sitting on the sidewalk in such a cunning way," said their mistress, and she picked them up and got into the carriage with them.

"I feel like tea," she said, "and you two dear dogs will have a saucer of cream apiece."

"I'm glad," said Yen, "our mistress doesn't rave about the foolish music she has been hearing."

"Picked Them Up."

FOUND IN AMHERST COLLEGE

Discovery of Audubon Collection of North American Birds Will Delight Ornithologists.

The famous Audubon collection of North American birds, which was mislaid thirty or more years ago, was discovered a short time ago in Appleton cabinet at Amherst college. In the collection are more than 800 type specimens of birds, from which, it is believed, Audubon painted the illustrations in his edition of "Birds of North America." Fifty of the specimens bear labels containing Audubon's own handwriting and are dated 1834.

The collection was originally sold by the Audubon estate for $600 to "Ward's Natural Science" establishment, following which it was sold to H. H. Farnum who, forty years ago, presented the specimens to Amherst college.

Curator Bangs of the ornithological collectors at Harvard will take possession of the collection, which contains specimens of practically every kind of North American bird.

FOUND NEW DISEASE GERM

Annoying "Deer Fly Fever," It Is Announced, Is Caused by Bacterium Tularensis.

Announcement has been made by the United States public health service of the discovery by its investigators of a new germ foe to man which causes a disease which has resulted in fatal cases in Utah, the New York Times says.

An investigation has been completed by Surgeon Edward Francis. The germ, which bears the name of bacterium tularensis, was first located by Doctors McCoy and Chapin of the health service, as the causative agent in a plague-like disease of rodents. It was not then known that the same germ also infects man.

Doctor Francis now finds that bacterium tularensis is the cause of "deer fly fever," a disease occurring among the rural population of Utah, and, in fact, according to popular belief, by a fly bite on some exposed surface of the body. The site of the bite and the neighboring lymph glands become tender and inflamed and commonly suppurate. A fever like that in ordinary blood poison develops and lasts from three to six weeks.

The Man of Destiny

The high cost of government has caused the supporters of Governor Lowden of Illinois to launch that notable personage before the people of this country as a logical candidate for the presidential nomination. Governor Lowden's administration has been one of, if not the most economical of any state in the union. In his early life he met with experiences which taught him lessons which in after life he put into practice, methods which bore fruit in commendable results for the people whose affairs he was chosen to use governorship over.

He was born in Sunrise, Minn. January 25, 1861; his father being a village blacksmith. At the age of seven he trudged beside a slow moving prairie schooner as the family moved to the state of Iowa. He afterwards worked as a farm hand after which he taught school and worked his way upward graduating from the University of Iowa and followed by graduating from the Union College of law and was admitted to the bar in 1887. Locating in the state of Illinois, he was married in 1896 to Miss Florence Pullman, daughter of George Pullman of the Pullman Car Co. He served in Congress from the Thirteenth district and was elected Governor of the state of Illinois in 1916. During his administration, taxes have been lowered 20 per cent. The method used being the establishment of nine departments to handle the affairs of the state institutions whose headquarters at the state capital instead of 125 separate boards scattered over the state with unlimited powers to spend the people's money as they saw fit.

What would seem to be to some as a drawback to his candidacy is in reality a bountiful asset—he is opposed by William Hale Thompson, mayor of Chicago, whose record for "shady-Americanism" has long since been fully established. When asked as to what he considered the greatest need of our country at the present time, Governor Lowden said:

"That really is not a question. We all recognize the need—it is for stronger, finer, happier, Americanism. We can compel aliens to respect our forms of government, or get out, and that we must do. At the same time we are under the profound necessity of earning that respect from all right thinking men."

"With a record of economy in his administration and possessing that large measure of 100 per cent Americanism which should attract the attention of those who believe this virtue a principal factor in the qualifications of presidential timber, Governor Lowden's chances are extremely good for the nomination on the Republican ticket and if such should be the case, it would be a guarantee of his election."

SCHOOL NOTES

By Supt. E. E. Cole

The following is the substance of Superintendent Cole's talk to the Carrizozo teachers at the teachers' meeting last Monday:

The Puritan, with rigid self-discipline, used to go apart from his fellows for reflection and meditation. With relentless introspection he analyzed his actions and his character. Figuratively speaking, he tore himself to pieces, examined his defects as well as his good qualities and determined to put himself together again so that he would be a better man. The results of this were excellent. We have drifted too far away from the Puritan. I believe we may profitably ask ourselves a few questions worthy of consideration which will lead to reflection and result in a higher standard and greater efficiency.

Am I looking after details as I should? Little things amount to much in the aggregate. In any line of business it pays to keep loose ends tied.

Do I give attention to the language of the pupils?

Do I see that the problem in arithmetic is explained with the logical and forceful language of clear analysis?

Do I insist on neatness, not only in the writing and spelling of examination papers but also in the dress and cleanliness of the pupils, teaching them to be clean in their persons, in their language and in their thoughts?

Am I keeping up to the work as outlined for the year, being faithful in carrying out my part of the plan which must be fully worked out in the details in order to make a complete and harmonious whole?

Am I working with the faithfulness, energy and enthusiasm that I had at the beginning of the school year?

Do I enter my school room with the same amount of spirit that I had when I taught my first school? A teacher may not have the same amount of such that she had when she began teaching; but, as the time goes on, she should have a broader, deeper insight and interest in her work and her pupils. She should steadily advance. Today should be better than yesterday.

In school management and the methods of instruction it is difficult to take the proper course—to combine theory with practice, to discern and follow the golden meaning between the real and the ideal. While attention to details in the schoolroom is of great importance, we should remember that above and beyond the correction of examination papers or the covering of so many pages of arithmetic in a given time is a high ideal of true education. We should not be so engrossed with the humdrum of routine work that we lose the soul of our profession.

The greatest thing in education is the teacher's personality impressed on the lives of her pupils. It is the duty of every teacher to look after a moral welfare and development of her pupils. This can be done by precept and example. Both are necessary. But the secret of success is a deep love for the pupils, a sympathetic heart that beats responsively to each pupil's highest interests. If the attitude of the teacher is right she is a friend to her pupils, and they know it, and feel it, and naturally become her loyal supporters.

New Commissioner Seated

Mr. Augustine Chavez, the new County Commissioner appointed by Governor Larraz took his seat among the Commissioners Monday at the first meeting of that body for the year of 1920. Mr. Chavez is a native of Rabenton where he has resided for the past thirty years. He is well known and highly esteemed by residents of his locality and having lived so long in this county, knows its needs and therefore, will be of valuable assistance to other members of the board with whom he will work for the present year.

may be "better than no bread" as the proverb goes, but half a loaf of our bread is only an aggravation. For it is so light and toothsome, so "moreish" in flavor, that even a whole loaf goes a very short way in satisfying the wants of those who try it. If you would know what perfect bread is try some of ours.

Salton Sea Now Rapidly Receding

Waters Are Retreating at Rate of About a Mile Yearly.

SETTLERS GRAB THE LAND

Opens Up Largest Area of Date Producing Land in the Country—Big Fish Cannery Planned by Arizona Capitalists.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The Salton sea, in the Imperial valley, one of the natural wonders of the West, is constantly shrinking. At present it is about 18 miles long and nine miles wide at the greatest point. During the last five years the water is said to have retreated about a mile a year, leaving a salt-encrusted adobe land, which is eagerly seized by homesteaders. Often their location stakes are planted far out in the water.

The sea, which lies 103 feet below the level of the ocean, abounds in mullet and carp, which local and Arizona capitalists are planning to utilize by the creation of a great cannery.

The United States department of agriculture reports state that about the Salton sea lies the largest area of date-producing land in the country.

Geologists say the Salton "sink," as it once was known, in prehistoric times has changed from desert to sea and from sea to desert 50 times or more.

Becomes Inland Sea.

For centuries the Colorado river would flow quietly to the Gulf of California and gradually build up a sandbar across its mouth. Then come spring flood would cause a washout in the river's bank farther north, and the whole torrent would sweep toward the Salton "sink." The desert would become an inland sea, remaining so for centuries perhaps, until some great flood would carve out a shorter way to the ocean. The sea would be drained and the region relapse into a desert.

Mud volcanoes abound near the sea, a short distance inland. They are of all sizes up to great mounds 16 feet in height. They all emit steam, some in a steady stream, others steam and mud alternately. Many of them give out a sulphurous gas. At times their roaring can be heard for miles.

More and more the sea is being visited by tourists, and during the heated season, when the temperature is from 10 to 20 degrees cooler than in the valley towns, dances are frequently held on an old wharf which once served as a landing place for fishing boats, but which has been left high and dry by the receding waters.

Of Interest to Tourists.

Of especial interest to the tourists are the bubbling "mudpots." As the water retreats it is in a state of constant ebullition. Gases from some unknown subterranean source are continually finding escape through unseen vents in the bottom. Layer after layer of colored pigment is deposited. The retreating waters have left uncovered acres of this deposit, said by experts to be fully equal to the dry sienna and amber colors of which so much is imported.

It is thought that the shrinkage of the Salton sea will continue until it finally becomes a salt "sink" with a pool of brackish water in the center, unless a fresh outburst of the great Colorado should replenish its waters.

HOUSEMAID FOR PARLIAMENT

Hatless English Lass Plans to Seek Election to Commons on Labor Ticket.

London, England.—Jessie Stephens, a housemaid with a mass of dark hair, and who generally goes about hatless, has signified her intention of entering the race for parliament on the labor ticket. She is endeavoring to gain a seat in the local borough council of Bermondsey and will then stand as a parliamentary candidate.

She has been employed as a cook, housemaid, cook-general, hostess of a large common lodging house in Glasgow, porter in a chemical warehouse and driver of a three ton lorry.

Traditions 1,000 Years Old Upset

Bratislava, Slovakia.—It is only on Czechoslovakian maps that this ancient Hungarian city of Pressburg can be located by its new name. Ruled by Hungary for a thousand years, it passed under the control of the new Czechoslovakian republic by the decision of the peace conference, and a large part of its inhabitants do not take kindly to the new order of things. Its people are dominantly Germanic or Hungarian.

The street signs are in German and Hungarian characters, and now to them is being added Czech. The old postal and telephone employees have been replaced by Czechs and Czech high officers installed in the government. Slovak regiments on duty here have been replaced by purely Czech soldiers. In a city as old and conservative and routine as this, drifting through the centuries undisturbed in its social customs, these things have made feeling run rather high in certain social strata.

Many Are Expelled.

Persons, regardless of sex, who have not acquired legal residence are being expelled. One man who told the Associated Press he had lived and done business here for forty years was expelled a few days ago. The list of those cited for expulsion is said to contain names of dead persons.

Some Hungarians do not hesitate to express their resentment over the employment of Czechs in government positions here formerly occupied by the Hungarians. Czechs and many Slovaks of the educated classes who hold office under the government say this feeling is due to Hungarian and German propaganda, and has no real strength or extent. Also they admit the necessity of Czech officialdom, as Slovakia has little or no educated class from which to draw executives of ability.

Hard to Upset Tradition.

It is hard to upset rudely the traditions of ten centuries, and talks with many persons, both in official and unofficial circles, would indicate that the antagonism displayed toward the Czechs is a natural condition of this period of transition and is not deeply rooted. Probably it is stronger here in Pressburg than in the other parts of Slovakia, where the change is not so apparent.

The school question plays a very prominent part in the situation here. The government has abolished the German and Hungarian languages in the schools, and this means a general ousting of teachers and a reaction in households.

Wolves Indicate Hard Winter.

The Pas, Can.—A long winter, as bitter as that of 1915, when the mercury fell to 54 degrees below zero, was predicted by trappers reaching here recently, who reported outlying settlements surrounded by great packs of wolves. This, they asserted, was a sure indication of cold weather.

INTERNAL PESTS INJURE POULTRY

Easier to Prevent Enemies of Farm Fowls Than to Get Rid of Any of Them.

GAPE WORM IS TROUBLESOME

Slow Suffocation Follows Where Young Birds Are Attacked by These Parasites—Tape Worms Also Cause of Suffering.

Gape worms, round worms, tapeworms and flukes are the principal internal enemies of farm poultry. It is much easier to prevent all of them than it is to get rid of any one of them.

Early summer and late spring are the times when gape worms give the most trouble. As soon as the frosts are well out of the ground and there is no more danger of freezing the gape worms become active. Just where and how they spend the winter is not known, but they make their appearance with singular regularity following a few warm or hot days.

Gapes simply means the slow suffocation of the young birds that are attacked by these parasites. When a number of these worms get into the windpipe and become swollen with blood breathing becomes difficult and even impossible. Gaping, the characteristic symptom of the gapes, is the natural result of this choking.

Other Symptoms.

There are other symptoms, of course. Some of these are the shaking of the head, the contracting and the extension of the neck, the drooping of the wings and a peculiar staggering gait, doubtless caused by the choking and the exhaustion of the chicks.

Once in a great while gaping will be caused by a touch of bronchitis, but as a rule it is associated only with the attacks of the tiny reddish worms that fasten themselves in the chicks' trachea. They not only choke the chicks, but they cause an irritation that leads to inflammation of the lining of the air passages.

Weak chicks, attacked by gape worms, will die nine times out of ten, as it is very hard to relieve them. The strong chicks may have vitality enough to overcome the trouble, but they will lose in growth.

The worms are sometimes extracted from the upper throat by means of a looped horse hair. This is a tedious operation and hardly worth while when there are many chicks to be looked after. The best plan is to isolate the sufferers and move the remainder away from the ground where they have been feeding. Forcing the chicks to breathe lime dust, fine, dry air-slaked lime, will force the worms to loosen their hold on the air passages. As a rule, though, the chicks are hardly strong enough to stand such measures.

Other Harmful Worms.

In older birds the tapeworms and round worms cause some losses. The round worm is a cylindrical, smooth parasite, tapering at both the front and the rear, but the front is more pointed than the rear. They are intestinal parasites, bloodsuckers and devourers of the nourishment needed by the growing bird or the laying hen. When very numerous they cause a diarrhea or in some instances a stoppage of the intestines.

The remedy is two grains of ant-toun for each bird, dissolved in the drinking water or mixed in and fed with a mash. The round worm is white in coloring and may vary from one-third of an inch to five inches in length.

Now and again serious outbreaks of the tapeworm in poultry are reported from various parts of the country. The chief remedies used for tapeworm in fowls are extract of the male fern, turpentine, pumpkin seeds, the arcea hut and Epsom salts.

At least one form of the tapeworm causes extreme thirst among fowls. They are eager for ice water in winter and in the summer they will run under the eaves in order to catch a few drops of a stream running from the roof.

BUYING SMALL FARM TOOLS

Due Consideration Should Be Given to Necessary Outlay for These Minor Articles.

Few farmers realize the extent of their investment in small items of equipment, says the United States department of agriculture, or the inconvenience involved in buying them singly or in small lots. In planning the farm equipment, due consideration should be given to the necessary outlay for these minor tools. There is no better time for getting the list completed than the late fall, after harvest work is over. If possible, the articles should be purchased all in one order. This will save time and, usually, money. Also, it will entail a total expenditure sufficiently large to impress the buyer with the importance of giving systematic care to his small tools.

Easy to Increase Fertility.

It is not a difficult thing to increase the fertility and humus content of the soil each year. Fertilizer and limestone are easily applied.

Clover Improves Soil.

Sweet clover is a valuable crop for improving soil, and is a good crop for pasture as well as meadows.

Handling Stock.

The best of stock poorly handled cannot prove a success. Inferior stock properly handled will be better; but well-selected stock properly bred and looked after will do truly good work.

Improving Herds.

There are ways of improving dairy herds. But this is a long road and of course expensive. Starting with poor stock offers very little encouragement. This should not be done.

Dairy Cows Vary.

Dairymen have observed that cows vary from day to day. Generally this can be accounted for by change of feed, sudden changes in the weather, indisposition of cows, etc.

Cheap Fat Producer.

The hog is the cheapest producer of animal fat. Don't send him to market in thin condition.

Grain Litter for Sows.

Sows with litter require a liberal ration of grain in addition to green pasture.

NO SIGNS OF "DRYNESS" IN HUNGARY

Such a thing as prohibition is quite unknown in Hungary, and one of the chief industries in that country is the cultivation of the grape for wine. The photograph shows a grower selling grapes by the tubful to a merchant for wine making.

SCOPE OF FOOD LAW

Misunderstanding as to Application of Act.

Does Not Affect Foods or Drugs Consumed in State Where Manufactured.

Washington.—The federal food and drugs act does not apply, as many people suppose, to foods and drugs which are manufactured and produced in one state and not thereafter shipped out of that state, that is, that are consumed within the state where produced. Such foods and drugs are subject to state laws.

The provisions of the federal food and drugs act do apply to the foods and drugs which (1) are shipped or delivered for shipment from any state or territory or the District of Columbia into any foreign country; (2) are being imported into the United States; or (3) are manufactured, sold, or offered for sale in the District of Columbia or any territory of the United States.

The words "food" and "drug" as defined in the federal food and drugs act have a somewhat different meaning from the popular understanding of those terms. For instance, water under the food and drugs act is classed as food. The term "food" includes all articles used for food, drink, confectionery, or condiment by man or other animals, whether simple, mixed or compound. The term "drug" includes all medicines and preparations recognized in the United States pharmacopoeia or national formulary for internal or external use, and any substance or mixture of substances intended to be used for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease of either man or the animals.

$4,000 in Shelf Paper.

Seattle, Wash.—How $4,000 of Seattle Improvement bonds, bought by a son for an income for his mother, were used by her to paper pantry shelves, was disclosed when some of the mutilated bonds were brought to the office of City Treasurer E. L. Terry to see if they had any value. According to the story told Accountant A. B. Lund, the bonds are the property of an elderly woman who has been living alone in Seattle several years. During a long illness five or six years ago she is said to have suffered a temporary lapse of memory, and when she recovered apparently had forgotten everything about the bonds and their value.

Privation Despite Prosperity.

London.—There were 26 deaths from starvation or accelerated by privation in England and Wales the past year, though wages were never higher and unemployment never less, according to an official statement.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

That His Friends May Know

It has been rumored for some time that County Commissioner Wm. Sevier would be a candidate for the office of County Assessor subject to the decision of the Republican county convention which will convene the coming fall. To verify the rumor a newspaper man approached the Commissioner and found that he, according to the wishes of his friends was willing to allow his name to come before the convention and he would now like for those of his friends, who are not aware of the fact to know that his "hat is in the ring." Mr. Sevier has served one year as County Commissioner in which office he has made a good record.

The ladies of the Baptist Church conducted a Box Supper Saturday evening at the K. of P. Hall, at which the sum of $27.00 was realized. While this sum might be considered small, it was quite large when we take in consideration the fact that the ladies had but one day in which to give the event publicity as the movement was decided on last Friday.

The ladies are to be congratulated for such good results in so little amount of time.

The Misses Irene and Mabel Smith, daughters of Rev. Smith of the Baptist Church, left Sunday to attend college. Miss Irene will attend the Commercial College at Brownwood, Texas, and Miss Mabel will continue her studies at the Institute at Plainfield, in the same state.

Louis Adams has accepted the position of book-keeper at the Western Garage. This new and valuable addition to the firm will give Mr. Squier the opportunity of attending to other matters of business outside of the office, where he has of late been confined on account of the lack of help.

Judge Kimbrell opened Probate Court Monday to give attention to several cases, chief among which were the probating of wills and a few matters of a more minor importance. The Judge is very hopeful of the oil situation at Picacho and thinks the project will be a winner in the near future.

Paste This in Your Hat

Let us forget, the above notice will serve as a "memory jog" to remind us of the fact that on the afternoon of January 16 the Ladies' Guild of the Episcopal Church will conduct an apron and candy sale at the office of Mr. Wm. Rely in the old Trading Co. building next door to the Western Union Telegraph office. In connection with the apron and candy sale, cake and coffee will be served. Don't forget the date.

Mrs. E. C. Corn, daughters Ada, Myrtle and Robana accompanied by Miss Barbara Hust spent Christmas and the holiday season on the Corn ranch and at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunn, dividing their time between the two places. They returned the first of the present week.

John Boyd, John Rowland and Roscoe Rustin left last week for El Paso where they joined the Navy and were sent east to enter the service. They will first undergo training at one of the Naval stations after which they will be assigned to different Naval vessels for active service.

Jesse Patty and family moved to Carrizozo Saturday from the Nogal-Mesa where they have been for the past eight months on the R. R. White farm. Mr. Patty will accept a position at the E. P. & S. W. shops and will remain a Carrizozo resident for the future.

Mesdames Shulda and Hoffman and the children left for their homes in El Paso Saturday after spending New Year's day and the week-end with their Carrizozo friends.

Mrs. George Ferguson and baby returned from Raton Monday where they spent the holiday season with relatives.

The Lon Jenkins family have moved to Carrizozo from their home at the Tecolote mines to enable their son Richard to attend our schools.

Mrs. W. L. Gumm spent the holiday season with her sisters, Mesdames Laws and Stevens at El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. French spent several days of the holiday week at El Paso.

American Legion Notes

The American Legion, local post, has been granted the use of the Hall used by the local lodge of the Knights of Pythias. The conditions being that the Legion use the hall not more than once a month, the only charge being a small percentage of the light bill. This is very favorable to the Legion and duly appreciated. Permission to place their library in the hall has also been granted.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Benjamin I. Berry Post, A. L. has been called to meet at 5:00 P. M. in the Directors' Room of the First National Bank, Carrizozo, N. M., Jan. 12.

Mrs. Nora Massie spent the holiday season at Globe, Arizona with relatives.
