ASSAILANT OF PECOS
GIRL SHOT IN JAIL; BRO-THER HELD AS SLAYER*Alleged Rape Fiend Gets What Pecos People Think Belonged to Him.

Pecos, Texas, Jan. 21. — F. M. Bratton, a prisoner in the county jail here, is dead with three bullet holes in his head, and Charles Colwell, son of C. C. Colwell, of this place, is in the county jail, following a shooting affray which occurred in the jail at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Bratton was arrested last Friday on a statutory charge, the alleged victim being the 13-year-old daughter of C. C. Colwell. This afternoon the girl's brother, Charles Colwell, and an uncle, Bud Turner, appeared at the sheriff's office and asked permission to talk with Bratton, who, since his arrest, had been a prisoner.

Five minutes later, according to the statement of Deputy Middleton, three shots were heard. The deputy ran into the corridor and took from Colwell a small .26 calibre automatic pistol.

An effort is being made to have the examining trial of Colwell fixed for tonight and several people have already indicated their readiness to sign his bond for any amount.

Occidental Inter-StateLeasing Company

A number of prominent railroad men of Carrizozo and El Paso are organizing a company to be known as the (O. I. L. Co.) Occidental Inter-state Leasing Company. They now hold land in New Mexico and have several leases in Louisiana close to production, offered them. The men in this company are all well known in Carrizozo and are level-headed conscientious business men who are of the kind of material that when they put their hands to the plow handles, never turn back. Remarkable to begin with is the fact that although young as the organization is, they have many valuable holdings in the state and have more valuable options in Louisiana land in close neighborhood to where oil is being found in paying quantities. Here is a good chance for wide-awake men to take a chance in a game with men of good report in a commendable undertaking, but those who so desire should get busy, as only a certain number will be allowed stock for the reason that it is the purpose of the company to prevent big holders from taking the "lion's share" to the discomfort of smaller holders, as has been practiced by some in the past. The Outlook welcomes the new company knowing as it does, each individual connected with it and at the same knows the straight forward intentions of these gentlemen. The public will be kept in touch with the future movements of the O. I. L. company. (Don't overlook the abbreviations) for O. I. L. means everything in connection with development.

"MAN OF DESTINY"Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois

The above cut is taken from a lifelike portrait of Governor Frank O. Lowden of the state of Illinois in whose behalf leading public men of his state are booming his candidacy for the nomination on the National Republican ticket for President of the United States. The Governor is interested in the stock business and an untiring champion of our industries in general. His past record is an asset to his future endeavors; his home life one of the most model. His political ambitions extend only so far as he may be able to serve the people as a whole. The interests of private corporations and self-gratification are lost sight of in his desire to be a man for the people of a great nation.

Texas Rangers Will Prevent Border Oil War

Austin, Tex., Jan. 20. — Rangers were sent into the oil territory in dispute between Texas and Oklahoma today as a police measure and to preserve law and order, Gov. W. P. Hobby of Texas said tonight.

Ordering of rangers into the disputed district, which is located in the Red river valley, followed reports today Texas and Oklahoma claimants to the land had threatened "to shoot those who interfered with their occupation of the property."

Ownership of the oil lands is claimed by both sides and litigation to determine the claims is pending in the courts.

American Legion

The Executive Committee of the American Legion met Jan. 12 at which time the following applications for membership in the Benjamin I. Berry Post of the American Legion were received and acted upon favorably: Clare H. Bradley, Jicarilla; Olden I. Norton, White Mountain; Gordon M. Wells, White Oaks; Gussie R. Reichelt, Carrizozo; and Edwin S. Marcum, Fort Stanton.

National dues by the action of the convention at St. Paul, Minn. have been raised to $1.00 which will include subscription to the Weekly. All members who have not paid their national dues should remit $1.00 to headquarters, Carrizozo, N. M.

Huge Profits Taken
By Retail Merchant

Helena, Mont., Jan. 21. — Margins of profits ranging from 34 per cent on groceries to 75 per cent on table linen are known by retail merchants of Montana, it is declared in the annual report of the state railroad commission, as an "ex-officio trade commission," submitted to Governor Stewart today.

Percentages of gross profit, the report states, include 52 per cent on women's gloves, 61 per cent on women's hose, 69 per cent on woolen dress goods, 73 per cent on cotton blankets, 64 per cent on mattresses and 58 per cent on rugs. Men's high grade shoes which cost the retailer $6.50 to $8.35, it is declared, retail for $12 to $16, and women's high grade shoes which cost $7.10 to $10.65 retail for $12 to $20.

The act creating a separate state trade commission recently was held unconstitutional by the state supreme court.

Capitan Holds Banner Who's Next

The Lincoln County "Attendance Banner" for the month of December was awarded to Miss Ellen Smith's room at the Capitan school. The percentage of attendance being 94. The next highest per cent was 90. The banner is awarded to the school room having the largest percentage of attendance for the calendar month. Make an effort to secure the banner for your school the coming month.

Now For The Finish

The work of the New State Oil & Gas Company is now so well known that it is of little use to say more to the thinking public; in review, however, we wish to state again, briefly, the main purpose of the company is general development in our section of Lincoln county, and to begin this development by securing a test well for oil gas, and artesian water, and while promoting the work to protect the people and acreage of this community against the ruinous operations of the speculator. Under the plan no money is called for from the people. The company offers to secure a drilling contract that will insure a thorough test well within one year from date of lease or return the lease to the owner of the land, and such an offer cannot be made by any other than a conscientious company. The plan of the company from the start has been only to point out to the people the advantages to be gained by the successful completion of the understanding and to represent the people rather than to barter with them for their leases. As the proposition is too large for any small company to undertake, under our prevailing conditions, no business man, banker, merchant, shopman, or agent should rest till he has thoroughly acquainted himself with the proposition, then he is not entitled to the benefits of development except in proportion to the aid he renders in securing such development.

We have but few knockers to contend with and knocking is a disease with them not unlike that of the leper and like the leper they should be placed on an island to themselves where they cannot affect society. They neither seek knowledge in meritorious undertakings nor do they permit it to be given them. They are always the least informed.

Another class of people in every community, little more desirable than the knocker is that of property owners who will do nothing toward developing the community. Those in this class always wait for their neighbor to develop their vicinity that they may profit without effort. Of these there are comparatively few in our section of the country, yet but can greatly retard any movement for development. He is in a sense a knocker and like the knocker should be carefully registered and figuratively speaking, be ostracized.

The New State Oil & Gas company expect, with the assistance of the people who are looking, watching and waiting for oil development soon to be able to bring the work to an end and have a good drilling company with plenty of money behind it to push the project. Now for the finish—One big pull with a combined effort will do the work. Are you ready? If so, let's go.

Expression of Thanks

The Apron and Candy sale conducted by the ladies of the Episcopal Church Guild last Friday afternoon was successful from a financial standpoint to an extent of $27.01 above the figures published in our last issue. The sale on the whole netted the handsome sum of $87.01. The ladies of the church wish to thank the public for the manner in which they patronized the sale and contributed to its success.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21. — A defense of soviet Russia was made today on the floor of the New York assembly chamber by Seymour Stedman, of Chicago, an attorney for the defense in the trial of the five suspended socialist assemblymen before the assembly judiciary committee on charge of disloyalty.

Asserting in connection with the charge that the socialist party at its convention in Chicago last summer had expressed solidarity with soviet Russia and that the assembly had condemned the suspended members of a party which expressed such approval.

Her father is now a prosperous planter and vegetable oil manufacturer.

The Pine Family Depart

Dr. H. E. Pine and family left last week for Aztec, N. M., where the doctor will follow up his work in the live stock business as an inspector and veterinarian in which he has given so much of a measure of satisfaction here. The family was well known and much loved by all who knew them throughout Lincoln county, hence the public expression of regret manifested by all at their departure. The Pines will be missed here, but we congratulate the Aztec people on the fact that in adding the doctor and his family to their population, they are installing goods of the best quality.

Their eyes met, and each of them knew what it meant. It meant announcement to her mother that she had met Dave downtown. It meant perhaps a supposition on her mother's part that she had gone downtown for that purpose. It was far-reaching. But she said simply, "I should enjoy driving home with you."

On the way they planned that the following Sunday they would drive into the foothills together. Of course they would ask Mrs. Hardy to accompany them. Of course. But it might happen that Mrs. Hardy would be indisposed. Irene was of the opinion that what her mother needed now was rest.

As it happened Mrs. Hardy was at the gate. She greeted Dave cordially enough. Encouraged by her mood, Irene determined to settle the Sunday program at once.

"Dave was good enough to bring me up in his car," she said. "And just think! He invites us to drive into the foothills with him next Sunday. Will you come? It will be delightful. Or are you feeling—"

"Mr. Elden is very kind," said Mrs. Hardy, with dignity. "I have no doubt Mr. Conward will accompany us. He is to call this evening and I will ask him. . . . Yes, I think it very likely we will go."

The summer wore on, and autumn followed on its heels. The processes which had been discerned by Conward and other astute operators were now apparent to the mob which forever follows in the wake of the successful, but usually at such a distance as to be overwhelmed in the receding flood. The forces which had built up fabulous fortunes were now in reverse gear, and the same mechanism that had built up was now tearing down. As the boom had fed upon itself, carrying prices to heights justifiable only to the most insane optimism, so did the subsequent depression bear down upon values until they reached depths justifiable only to the most abandoned despondency. The rosy bubble, inflated with the vapors of irresponsible speculation, had dissolved into thin air.

Mrs. Hardy was among the last to admit that she had bought on an ebullient tide. She contended that her house was well worth the price she had paid; what if speculation had come to a stop? So much the better; her house was still worth its price. She would stand firm.

Mrs. Hardy consulted Conward. It had grown to be her habit to consult Conward on all matters in which she found an interest.

"How is it, Mr. Conward," Mrs. Hardy said to him one evening over her fancy work—for she practiced an indefatigable industry in matters of no importance—"how is it that there is no demand for property? You are a real-estate expert; you should be able to answer that. Isn't this city as good today as it was a year ago? Doesn't it occupy the same site? Are not the farms still producing?"

"That's just it, dear Mrs. Hardy. Why, indeed? Simply because the boomer has given way to the canny hawker. Its psychological explanation is simple enough. The world lives by faith. Without faith there would be neither seedtime nor harvest. That is true of raising cities as well as of raising crops. But there are always those who ridicule faith; always were, always will be. And as soon as faith disappears things begin to sink."

"Ah!" said Mrs. Hardy gently. "So we owe all this—these empty houses and shops, unsalable property and everything to those who have lost faith—or never had it. To men like Mr. Elden, for instance. You remember how he tried to discourage me from the very first—tried to break down my faith—that was it, Mr. Conward—I see it all very plainly now—and he and others like him have brought things to their present pass. Well, they have a great responsibility."

As a result of this discussion Dave found himself rather less popular with Mrs. Hardy than before. Dave accepted her displeasure with a light-heartedness that was extremely trying to the good woman's temper. Had it not been for his desire to spare Irene any unhappiness he would have treated it with open flippancy. He was engaged in the serious business of capturing the heart of Irene Hardy—a task made none the easier by the self-imposed condition that he must conduct no offensive but must await with such patience as he could command the voluntary capitulation of the besieged. On the whole he told himself he had no reason to be dissatisfied with the progress of events. He and Irene often motored together, frequently accompanied by Mrs. Hardy, sometimes by Conward as well, but occasionally alone. And Irene made no secret of the fact that she preferred the trips in which only she and Dave participated.

The gradual shrinkage of values to the vanishing point imposed upon Dave many business duties which he would very gladly have evaded. The office of Conward & Elden, which had once been besieged by customers eager to buy, was now a center of groups no less eager to sell; and when they could not sell they contrived to lay the blame upon the firm which had originally sold to them. Although, for the most part, these were men and women who had bought purely from the gambler's motive, they behaved toward the real-estate dealer as though he had done them an injustice when the finger of fortune turned up a loss instead of a profit. For such people Dave had little sympathy, and if they persisted in their murmurings he told them so with becoming frankness.

Then there was Merton, the widower with sick lungs and the motherless boy, who had brought his little savings to the West in the hope of husbanding out his life in the dry, clear atmosphere and saving his son from the white death that had already invaded their little family. With a cruelty almost unbelievable Conward had talked this man into the purchase of property so far removed from the city as to possess no value except as farm land; and the little savings which were to ward off sickness and death, or, if that could not be, minister modest comfort in the declining hours of life, had been exchanged for property which, even at the time of the transaction, was valueless and unsalable.

Merton had called on Dave with respect to his investment. Dave had at first been disposed to tell him frankly that the property, for which he had paid twenty dollars a foot, was barely worth that much an acre. But a second look at the man changed his purpose.

"I know you were stung, Merton," he said, "shamelessly stung. You are one of those unsuspecting fellows who think everybody is going to play fair with them. You belong to the class who keep all kinds of rogues and scoundrels in easy circumstances. You might almost be charged with being accessories. Now, just to show how I feel about it—how much did you pay for those lots?"

"Three thousand dollars. It was all I had."

"Of course it was. If you had had more you would have paid more. I suppose Conward justified himself with the argument that if he didn't take your easy money someone else would, which is doubtless true. But just to show you how I feel about it—I'll buy those lots from you, for three thousand dollars."

"I can't do it, Mr. Elden; I can't do it," said Merton, and there was moisture on his cheeks. "That would be charity—and I can't take it. But I'm much obliged. It shows you're square, Mr. Elden, and I hold no ill will to you."

"Well, can I help you in some way you will accept? I'm afraid I don't mean to be unkind, but we may as well be frank—I'm afraid you won't need help very long."

Merton answered as one who has made up his mind to the inevitable, and Dave thought better of him. This little wreck of a man—this child in business matters—could look down in the face without a quiver.

"Not so long," he said. "I felt ever so much better when I came here first; I thought I was really going to be well again. But when I found what a mistake I had made I began to worry, not for myself, you know, but the boy, and worry is just what my trouble lives on. I have been working a little, and boarding out, and the boy is going to school. But I can't do heavy work, and work of any kind is hard to get. I find I can't keep going that way."

Merton looked with dreamy eyes through the office window, while Dave was turning over the hopelessness of his position and inwardly cursing a system which made such conditions possible. Society protects the physically weak from the physically strong; the physical highwayman usually gets his deserts; but the mental highwayman preys upon the weak and the inexperienced and the unorganized, and Society votes him a good citizen and a success.

"I had a plan," Merton continued, half apologetically, as though his plan did him little credit—"I had a plan, but it can't be worked out. I have been trying to raise a little money on my lots, but the mortgage people just look at me."

"What is your plan?" said Dave kindly. "Any plan, no matter how bad, is always better than no plan."

"I thought," said Merton timidly—"I thought if I could build a little shack on the lots I could live there with the boy and we could raise a very fine garden. The soil is very fertile and at least we should not starve. And the gardening would be good for me, and I could perhaps keep some chickens and work out at odd jobs as well. But it takes money to build even a very small shack."

"How much money?" demanded Dave.

"If I had a hundred dollars—" "Bring your title to me tomorrow; to me personally, you understand. I'll advance you five hundred dollars."

Merton sprang up, and there was more enthusiasm in his eyes than had seemed possible. "You will? But I don't need that much—"

"Then use the surplus to live on." So the Merton affair was straightened away in a manner which left Dave more at peace with his conscience. But another event, much more dramatic and far-reaching in its effects upon his life, was already ripe for the enacting.

There were cases that could not be turned away with a sharp answer. Bert Morrison, for instance, Bert had never mentioned her "investment" since the occasion already recorded. She greeted Dave with the sociability due to their long-standing friendship; and her calm avoidance of the subject hurt him more than the abuse of all his irate patrons.

Business conditions had necessitated unwonted economy in the office affairs of Conward & Elden, as a result of which many old employees had been laid off and others had been replaced by cheaper and less experienced labor.

"I Think You Are Absolutely Innocent," He Said Gravely.

Stenographers who had been receiving a hundred dollars a month could not readily bring themselves to accept fifty, and some of them had to make way for new girls, fresh from the business colleges. Such a new girl was Gladys Wardin—pretty, likable, inexperienced. Her country home had offered no answer to her ambitions, and she had come to the city with the most dangerous equipment a young woman can carry—an attractive face and an unsophisticated confidence in the goodness of humanity. Conward had been responsible for her position in the office, and Dave had given little thought to her except to note that she was a willing worker and of comely appearance.

Returning to the office one Saturday evening Dave found Miss Wardin making up a bundle of paper, pencils and carbon paper. She was evidently in high spirits, and he smilingly asked if she intended working at home over Sunday.

"Oh, didn't Mr. Conward tell you?" she answered, as though surprised that the good news had been kept a secret. "He is to spend a day or two at one of the mountain hotels, and I am to go along to do his correspondence. Isn't it just lovely? I have so wanted to go to the mountains, but never felt that I could afford it. And now I can combine business with pleasure."

The smile died out of Dave's eyes, and his face became more set and stern than she had ever seen it.

"Why, what's the matter, Mr. Elden?" she exclaimed. "Is anything wrong?"

"I found it hard to meet her frank, unsuspecting eyes; hard to draw back the curtains of the world so much that those eyes would never again be quite so frank and unsuspecting." "Miss Wardin," he said, "did Conward tell you that?"

"What? About going to the mountains? Of course. He said he was taking some work with him, and he wondered if I would mind going along to do it, and he would pay the expenses, and—and—" There was a quick, hard catch in her voice, and she seized Elden's arm violently. Her eyes were big and round; her pretty face had gone suddenly white.

"Oh, Mr. Elden, you don't think—you don't think—that I—that he—You wouldn't believe that—"

"I think you are absolutely innocent," he said, gravely, "but—it's the innocent thing that gets caught."

The girl had broken into violent tears. "Whatever shall I do? What can I do?" she moaned. "Oh, why didn't somebody tell me? What can I do?"

He let her passion run on for a few minutes, and then he sought, as gently as he could, to win her back to some composure. "Some one has told you," he said—"in time. You don't have to go. Don't be afraid of anything Conward may do. I will settle this score with him."

She controlled herself, but when she spoke again her voice had fear and shame in it. "I—I hate to tell you, Mr. Elden, but I must tell you—I—I took—I let him give me some money—to buy things. He said maybe I was short of money and I would want to buy some new clothes—and he would pay me extra, in advance—and he gave me fifty dollars—and—and—I've spent it!"

BALD HEADS AT PEACE TABLE

Many Diplomats Had Whiskers and Mustaches, but Lacked Hair on Their Craniums.

An amusing sidelight on the recent peace conference at Versailles is thrown by a correspondent, who not only reported the proceedings proper, but took notes regarding the hair, mustaches, beards and whiskers of the peace-makers.

Two-thirds of the delegates were more or less bald. Perhaps some of them made up for this by wearing mustaches. Out of 65 men who sat round the peace table, all had mustaches but 14.

Whiskers, on the other hand, were not popular. Only three people wore them, and by a curious coincidence the names of all these three people began with V. They were Venizelos of Greece, Vandervelde of Belgium and Vassitch of Serbia. The latter's whiskers were particularly prominent.

In regard to dress, there was less formal attire than one might have imagined. The English paid no special attention to dress. High hats and frock-coats, once a combination that would never have been sanctioned, were quite popular; but there were some countries which put all they knew into their attire. These were, notably, the Japanese, and some of the South American states.

World Is in Its Infancy.

We should not, I think, proceed far in this study without being convinced that civilization is still in its infancy. How distant is the human mind from the perfection to which it may attain—from the perfection for which it was created? How incapable are we of grasping the whole future destiny of man! Let any one ever descend into his own mind—let him picture there the highest point of perfection to which man, to whom society may attain that he can achieve, that he can hope; let him then contrast this picture with the present state of the world, and he will feel assured that society and civilization are still in their childhood; that however great the distance they have advanced, that which they have before them is incomparably, infinitely, greater.—Gulzot's History of Civilization.

Tactful Augustus.

The colonel was known to be of very choleric and uncertain temper, and Augustus was extremely nervous when invited to dine at the old boy's rooms. He determined, however, to be prepared to meet any situation tactfully. The sitting room was on the first floor, and, sure enough, when it came to carving the roast, a dull knife upset the colonel's equilibrium. He strode to the door and flung the knife downstairs after the servant. Augustus, with great presence of mind, seized the roast and threw that down, too. "What the deuce do you mean by that?" spluttered the old boy as soon as he was able to speak. "I'm very sorry, sir," said Gussie, coolly. "I—er—I fancied you were going to dine downstairs."

Better Late Than Never.

The strangest wedding I ever saw was that of an aged aunt, who in her youth had had a suitor who went off to make his fortune and never returned until, old and infirm, but wealthy, he returned to claim his old sweetheart, who was so feeble she had to remain in a wheel chair during the ceremony.—Chicago Tribune.

Tricks of the Trade.

Lawyer (to fair client, a defendant)—"When a young juror looks at you, weep; when an old one looks at you, flirt."

Nothing New.

"All the world's a stage," and yet some people look upon the revolving stage as a modern idea.

Generally Does.

The trouble with the fellow who is so disagreeable that he "says it to your face" is that he is likely to boast about it afterward.

Was Going Down-Hill

Mrs. Bergman's Friends Were Worried, but Doan's Brought Remarkable Recovery From Kidney Complaint.

"I couldn't sit down without putting a pillow behind my back," says Mrs. Ole Bergman, 820 Pennsylvania St., Gary, Ind. "When I bent over it felt as though somebody had stuck a knife right into my back and I would often fall to the floor. The kidney secretions made me get up four and five times a night. There would be only a small amount, which would burn so that I would almost scream. Before long my body bloated and my feet were so swollen that I couldn't wear my shoes. My skin looked shiny and when I pressed it down it left a dent. I had chills and fever. Sometimes I would sweat so that I could fairly wring the water out of my clothes. Everybody said I was going down-hill fast. In two months I lost fifteen pounds and was discouraged. By the time I had finished three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I was entirely cured and I have enjoyed the best of health ever since."

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets gently cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the colon and bowels all the constipated waste matter and poisons so you can straighten up.

Cascarets tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, or cause any inconvenience, and cost no little too.—Adv.

Only women who have suffered the pain and agony that female disorders and monthly periods frequently cause can ever realize the suffering and torture many women are forced to endure. If this condition is not relieved, ruined health and misery may result.

But thousands have found relief and benefit from the use of

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills

Here's a case:

"I suffered from excessive monthly pains for years. A friend advised me to try Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. First box relieved. Now I suffer no pain and do all my house work." Miss Nellie A. Jones, Jeanerette, La.

No harm or unpleasant effects from use—free from Opiates or Narcotics.

SCHOOL NOTES

(By Supt. E. E. Cole)

Supt. Cole has just received a life diploma from the State Board of Education.

The last addition to the high school library is the Winston Cumulative Loose-Leaf Encyclopedia. The desirable feature about this late encyclopedia is that new publications may be added at any time.

The Boy Scouts have just received a bugle and a troop flag. The flag is of the broad-pennant type, one half white and one-half red. On one half are the words TROOP 1, in white on a red field; on the other half, which is white, is the word CARRIZOZO in red letters. In the center of the flag is a green circle, in which is the scout trefoil and the letters B. S. A. It is a beautiful flag.

Last Monday Miss Jarrett's room gave a Robert Lee program as follows:

It was a good program in honor of a great man. Quite a number of visitors were present.

The superintendent has distributed to all the teachers of the town material for a Flag Day program. This program is to be combined with Lincoln Day program and will be given February 12 in New Mexico. Many of the states observe Flag Day in May or June.

Mr. Cazier reports that the manual arts class has been making some very useful articles for the school and the home. "In our classes we have been making, during the past few days, a number of articles from oak and have also been experimenting upon the finish that oak will take. In the selection of all our projects we select them with a view to their usefulness and the personal intent of the student. All work to be of the best must have the personal interest of the student."

Before the holidays we made many toys and the students demonstrated their ability to work at small delicate articles as well as large ones. Some of the articles made this year are—book racks, camp stools, necktie racks, medicine cabinets, chicken brooders, harness racks, taboretts, miniature houses, airplanes and many other useful articles.

All pieces of work made in the classes are kept till the end of the year when they are exhibited and then given to the students.

About the first of May there will be an exhibit of manual arts work done by all the grades. This exhibit will be in each grade room and we hope to see the rooms crowded at that time with the parents and the friends of the pupils.

PARABLES of TRAVEL

Mr. Brown, who was a big man at home, set out to "See America First," as all the advertisements advised him to do. He went to a certain city and stopped at a great hotel. Just before leaving he tried to pay his big bill with his personal check. "Sorry, but I do not know you, Mr. Brown," said the cashier. "You must be identified." "Identified?" quoth Mr. Brown indignantly. "How can I be? I am a stranger in a strange city." And so Mr. Brown's troubles began, and the pleasure of his whole trip was marred.

If Mr. Brown's funds had been in American Bankers Association Cheques, identification would have been easy by countersigning a cheque in the presence of the cashier, and the cashier would have been glad to accept the cheque the same as money in payment of the hotel bill. "A. B. A." Cheques are universally accepted in payment of travel expenses, and are cashed by 50,000 banks.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford car can well be called the "people's car," because there are more than 3,000,000 of them in daily operation. That is about four to one of the nearest follower in the motor car industry. This would not be so if the Ford car had not for sixteen years proven its superiority in service, in durability, and in the low cost for operation and maintenance; this would not be so if the Ford car was not so easy to understand, so simple in construction that anybody and everybody can safely drive it. Mayflower Is to Sail This Year

New One Will Cross Atlantic in the England-Holland-United States Celebration.

SHIP'S 300TH ANNIVERSARY

Plans Announced for Celebration in Honor of Pilgrim Fathers—Main American Events Will Be in Boston and Plymouth.

New York.—The three hundredth anniversary of the Pilgrim Fathers, tentative plans of which have just been announced here, will include celebrations in England, Holland and the United States, and will continue from May to December, 1920.

A four-day program in Leyden, Amsterdam and Rotterdam, whence the Pilgrims sailed three centuries ago to the American wilderness, where they might find "freedom to worship God," will start on August 30, when committees from the United States and England will be received at the University of Leyden.

Scholars Will Deliver Addresses.

Addresses commemorative of the occasion will be delivered by scholars from the three countries, including the rector of the university, Dr. Rendel Harris of Manchester, England; Viscount Bryce, and a famous American who has not yet been designated.

The next day, August 31, the birthday of the queen of the Netherlands, will include, besides a congress in the town hall, a religious memorial service in the Pieterskerk, in which Rev. John Robinson, who led the separatists from the Church of England (the Pilgrims) to Holland in 1609, was buried.

One of the features of the holiday at Amsterdam, September 1, will be a meeting in the Rijksmuseum, the unveiling of a memorial window in the Bagijnkerk and a reception. The next day there will be an aquatic pageant in Rotterdam, the visitors traveling in the morning from Leyden to Delftshaven if possible by boat along the way the Pilgrims went.

Then there will be trips to the religious havens of Rotterdam, a memorial service in the church at Delftshaven, and at 7 p. m. the English and American contingents will depart for Southampton.

The celebration in England will start in May, 1920, with meetings in Scrooby, the home of Robinson; Austerfeld, Boston and Sheffield.

From August 4 to September 20 there will be ceremonies in Cambridge, London, Southampton and other places, culminating in the sailing of the new Mayflower, which will carry the returning American committee and British delegations who are to participate in the program on this side of the Atlantic.

Main events of the American celebration will be in Plymouth, Mass., and Boston, where historical pageants will be held, followed by a big reception in New York. Vice President Marshall

Soap Bubbles Kept Intact Whole Year

Scientific Society Gives Information on Sir James Dewar's Test.

ALWAYS MYSTERY TO SCIENCE

When Bubble Becomes Very Old It Offers Only Possible Example of the Molecule Visible to the Naked Eye.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Facts about the prodigious strength of soap bubbles, proved by experiments in which bubbles were kept intact for more than a year and subjected to all sorts of weight strains, were made public here for the first time by the Franklin Institute, one of the oldest scientific societies in the United States.

Important to Chemists.

Coming on the heels of the announcement of Einstein's discoveries of the gravitational bending of light, the exploitation of the soap bubble is on the other end of the scale as to size, yet, according to scientists, is of tremendous importance to chemists, physicists and research workers in the strength of materials and essential elements. The man who made the experiment is universally recognized as one of the leading scientists in the world. He is Sir James Dewar, LL. D., D. Sc., F. R. S., Fullerton Professor of Chemistry, Royal Institution of Great Britain, and an honorary member of the Franklin Institute.

The soap bubble is a simple thing, yet it has always been more or less a mystery to scientists. They consider it perhaps the best phenomenon existing for the study of the habits and idiosyncrasies of the molecule.

Scientists now claim, on the strength of the experiment made by Sir James Dewar, that when a soap bubble becomes very old, say in three or four days, it offers the only possible example of the molecule visible to the naked eye. Most parts of the bubble are estimated to consist of about one hundred layers of molecules. But by various methods of treatment the bubble is induced to perform "stunts" until in black spots which appear it represents only a single layer of molecules.

Remarkable Strength.

This layer is so thin that Sir James estimates it would take one and one-third million like it, superimposed, to make an inch. Yet, when the soap bubble is permitted to mature in air that has been freed of its natural enemies, it is so strong that it will support drops of water many times its own weight before breaking. Sometimes a bubble is torn from its supporting ring by the weight before the molecules release their bulldog grip.

Bird in Jail.

Bath, Me.—Cramped quarters were furnished in the Bath jail recently for the oddest prisoner ever harbored there. The inmate had been arrested in the neighboring town of Woolwich and turned over to the Bath police for safe keeping. He was not a tippler, but a crippled crane, and measured from ten to twelve feet from tip to tip of the wings. After being on exhibition for 24 hours the bird was liberated, all fines being remitted on condition of good behavior.

Peculiar Bird.

Stanford, Ky.—Mrs. Roberts, who lives just beyond Rowland, caught the other day a peculiar member of the bird or fowl species, known as a grebe. It has something of the appearance of a duck, but can neither walk nor fly. It is carried from one place to another on land by heavy wind and is much more at home on water than on land. It was brought to town and exhibited by N. W. Fowle and was later purchased by Sam Gentry.

INDIAN PAINTINGS ON CLIFFS

Owner Offers Them to State or National Authorities to Include in Park.

Austin, Tex.—The most remarkable Indian paintings or photographs in the Southwest have been offered to state or national authorities, provided the cliffs upon which they are drawn are inclosed in a park and adequately guarded, according to J. E. Pearce, associate professor of anthropology of the University of Texas.

These paintings, which are owned by E. D. Sims of Paint Rock are located along the banks of the Concho river near Paint Rock, upon every available surface for a half-mile. They are in deep red, with an occasional black figure or character.

All phases of the early tribes are represented, Mr. Pearce declares, and so much valuable historical material is included in these paintings that Mr. Pearce will have them copied in scenic for a report to the Smithsonian institution, for which he is doing research work.

BIRDS SHOW INCREASE

Beneficial Effects of Migratory Act Being Felt.

Waterfowl Have Been Breeding Rapidly Under Protection, the Bureau Declares.

Washington.—The beneficial effects of the migratory bird treaty act are beginning to be felt. The United States department of agriculture, through its bureau of biological survey, has conducted investigations of the breeding areas of ducks in North Dakota and Nebraska. Compared with former years, a gratifying increase of breeding waterfowl, particularly in North Dakota, is evident. The fifth annual series of counts of birds of all species breeding on selected areas in various parts of the United States contained a large proportion of reports showing increases in bird population. The total number of reports received, however, was not large. Many of the persons who had formerly taken part in the annual bird counts were unable to find time for the work required by the fifth count.

"Many species of migratory birds," reports the chief of the bureau of biological survey, "have had a marked increase under the existing treaty act. Waterfowl formerly driven to the far North by spring shooting have remained in steadily increasing numbers to breed in localities where none had previously nested for many years."

Grasping Landlady Sentenced.

Budapest, Hungary.—Dr. Charlotte Szecsi, a physician, has been sentenced to two months' imprisonment because she refused to rent an apartment to a tenant unless he would buy her furniture for 100,000 crowns (nominally $20,000). The action of the court is in line with the effort to provide housing for the over-congested city.

ONE DRESS POLICY

Single Garment, Well Made, Gives Much Service.

Housewife in Smaller Towns Better Pleased With Larger Supply of Inexpensive Gowns.

There are two ways of dressing inexpensively. One is to have a good many clothes of cheap material and the other is to have one well-made gown at a time and to wear that on all occasions until it is worn out. The one-dress method is perhaps preferable for the woman who lives in a large city, for the business woman, or for the traveler. The housewife in a small town will probably do better if she has a good many inexpensive clothes, observes a fashion writer, and so will the young girl who mingles in a society where nobody patronizes an expensive dressmaker and extravagance is not looked on as a virtue.

In a big city, where an economical woman is likely to meet and mingle with persons who have much more to spend on their clothes than she has, the one-dress method has many advantages. In a well-made coat suit a woman is appropriately dressed for church, calling, afternoon card parties, teas, trips to the theater and the restaurant and for shopping. If she possesses a cheap and badly made street suit, in addition to several other dresses, she will never look very well, although she may sometimes feel that a thin silk, no matter how poorly made, is more appropriate than a suit for a card party.

The one frock should be of good material and should be well made. If one is bought each year, a street suit, consisting of coat and skirt and matching waist, can be bought one season—a dark, inconspicuous evening or formal afternoon frock for the next. The suit should be chosen so that it will look well the second year and will look fairly well the third; the frock, remodeled a little, will also serve for two or three years. In a few years the woman who goes on the basis that the one-dress plan is a good one will have a very serviceable and good-looking wardrobe on hand.

The coat suit, when it is to answer many calls, should be of moderately normal proportions. Unusual waistlines, sleeves, yoke and collars should be avoided. The coat should be semi-fitting and the skirt should be neither tight nor loose. Such a suit will never be in the height of fashion, but, provided it is becoming, it will always be distinctive and good looking. It should be of some standard dark color—dark blue, black, or a becoming shade of brown are always inconspicuous. In two years, when you are due to buy another suit, the old one will be ready for knockabout wear, still retaining a style and dignity never possessed by a cheap suit.

WILL SUIT ANY EMERGENCY

A simple taffeta frock is an indispensable garment in every feminine wardrobe, for it can be pressed into service in many emergencies. The model illustrated features the new flounced skirt, the flounces being finished with a narrow knife plaiting.

The same rules hold good of the evening dress, which can only be renewed every two years. It should be of becoming color and cut, should avoid all extremes and should be of as good material as you can afford.

The one-dress method requires almost perfect fit, and if the clothes are bought ready made and extra payment to have them well fitted is an economy.

Morning frocks and a homemade house dress from time to time supplement the one-dress wardrobe sufficiently.

To Dry Knitted Goods.

To dry knitted goods make a cradle out of a large Turkish towel by tying each end with a string, then hang the towel between two lines or between two wooden chairs. Squeeze, but do not wring the article, and place it in the cradle. In this way it will dry more readily than in the pillowcase, for the air can get at it; besides it can be turned as parts dry, thus giving the air a better chance at the wet parts.

SCOTCH PLAIDS IN SWEATERS

Skating Garment Lends to Charming Pictures When Worn by Girls; Novelty From Paris.

The newest sweaters are so interesting that they make us wonder how we could have held to the plain Tuxedo coat sweater for such a long time and why someone did not think of making them like smocks and blouses as they are now, says a fashion writer in the New York Tribune.

Scotch plaids appear to be quite as popular in sweaters as they are in coats. Young girls make charming pictures this winter skating in white brushed wool smocks with collars in scarf form and cuffs of Scottish plaids. A novel sweater, hand knitted of bright green wool, has just arrived from Paris. It is trimmed with fluted frills of black taffeta ribbon. These encircle the bottom, trim the three-quarter length sleeves, which are in flowing style, and edge a rolling collar which goes completely around a rather open-cut neckline. This sweater is extremely smart when worn with a skirt of bright green wool jersey to make a complete dress.

Flannel Blouses Shown.

It was noticed by dealers in wearing apparel last year that people showed a tendency to wear heavier clothes, especially during the influenza time. For that reason flannel blouses are ordered occasionally in the shops this season. These blouses will be quite as much of a luxury as silk owing to the high prices of all woolsens. White and light colored grounds with colored strip are used.

Pearl Buttons.

Scratched and worn pearl buttons can be renovated with the help of buffer and manicure powder.

Colored Skirt for Lingerie.

Colored silk is still very much liked for lingerie.

BUCKWHEAT FINE FOR POOR SOILS

Profitable Yield May Be Secured Where Wheat, or Even Rye, Cannot Be Grown.

EXCELLENT AS COVER CROP

Can Be Grown on Land Where Spring-Sown Crops, Such as Corn, Have Failed to Make a Stand—Many Other Uses.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Buckwheat is in general the best grain crop for poor, thin land. Its natural and favorite environment is "back in the hills." On land where wheat or even rye cannot be grown with profit buckwheat is often able to produce a profitable yield. The climatic conditions, however, must be favorable.

On acid soils, which are quite common in the northern states, buckwheat does well. It does not require large supplies of lime in the soil, although lime is taken up largely by the plant.

Good Summer Cover Crop.

Low-grade fertilizers may be used to advantage in the growing of buckwheat, as it can make use of relatively insoluble materials to better advantage than the other grain crops. It may be used to render available insoluble phosphates, like rock phosphate, as these are taken up by the plant in larger quantities than by other small grains. To obtain the greatest benefit from such applications to follow crops, the buckwheat should be grown as a summer cover crop to be plowed under as green manure in preparation for fall seeding.

Buckwheat serves to make even very hard land mellow and friable. Consequently it is a good crop to use in preparation for such crops as potatoes.

As it has a short growing period, buckwheat can be grown on land where spring-sown crops, such as corn, have failed to make a stand. It can also be used where the land cannot be worked until late, or where other crops have been drowned out by late spring floods.

Enlarge Farm Activities.

Buckwheat can be used to enlarge farm activities. After other crops that must be sown early are all in there is often time to prepare land and sow buckwheat. On account of the short growing season it may be sown later than any other grain crop. Where it is so used it often may be advisable to sow it even on rich land which otherwise could be used more profitably for other crops.

Buckwheat is a suitable crop for growing on new ground. Land just cleared of timber or drained marsh land containing much decaying vegetable matter will produce good yields of this grain.

Farmers' Bulletin No. 1062 contains full information on this crop. Copies may be had free on application to the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

LETTUCE FOR LOCAL MARKET

If Sold by Dozen It Often Pays to Dispose of It Before Maximum Weight Is Reached.

If lettuce is for a local market and sold by the dozen, it often pays to market before a maximum weight has been secured. It all depends upon the keenness of market and the need of bunch for other crops.

Needed for Maximum Return.

Good crops, good live stock, good management and good markets are all necessary for a maximum return for the farmer.

IMPROVE QUALITY OF COUNTY LIVE STOCK

Unique and Successful Community Association in Virginia.

Specialists Believe There is Fertile Field for Formation of Similar Clubs Throughout Country—Overhead Cost Saved.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the most unique and successful community breeders' associations of the country is located in Loudoun county, Va. It is unusual because instead of fostering the breeding and improvement of a single class of live stock, it sponsors the improvement of eight breeds and classes of live stock. The excellence of such a plan is that duplication in work and extra expense are eliminated, while the society is really standardizing the production of purebred live stock within Loudoun county.

Guernsey and Shorthorn cattle, Percheron horses, Berkshire and Duroc Jersey hogs, Shropshire sheep, and Rhode Island Red and Barred Plymouth Rock poultry have been selected in public meeting by the farmers and stockmen of that section as the dominant breeds of the county.

The Loudoun County Breeders' association, organized in 1916 by joint efforts of the county agent, a progressive banker, and a few forward-looking farmers, has grown from an original strength of 60 to over 250 active members. Through its manager it purchases and sells live stock for its members and has been of marked influence in improving the character and quality of the county live stock.

Specialists of the department of agriculture believe that there is a fertile field for the formation of similar live stock breeding clubs throughout the United States. In some of the leading stock-producing areas four or five, or even more, individual breeders' clubs now exist, whereas one general organization saves an overhead cost and permits of the hiring of a paid business manager as in Loudoun county.

WINTER SHELTER FOR STOCK

Suitable Protection Is Most Desirable to Prevent Loss From Sudden Severe Spells.

Shelter is highly desirable during winter. Animals may survive very sudden and severe weather; they generally do. But these sudden spells always cause a loss to the feeder when the animals are exposed to the weather.

Good Motto for Feeder.

"Systematic giving" is a good motto for the stock feeder. It has done wonders for religious and charitable causes and it will produce more milk, meat or eggs than irregular service.

Keep Animals Improving.

Don't let the calves, colts, pigs, lambs, lose their baby fat. Keep them improving.

The platform must be strong enough to stand up under the load of dirt and the extra pull that comes when the team drags the scraper up the incline. The check block stops the scraper and helps in dumping it into the wagon box.

USE SIRE OF GOOD QUALITY

Recipients of Department of Agriculture Emblems Represent Scattered Sections.

Widely scattered sections of the country are represented in the list of the first recipients of the official emblem bestowed upon live stock owners by the United States department of agriculture in connection with the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign now in progress. Possession of this emblem shows that the owner has agreed to keep and use only pure-bred sires of good quality, and will follow to the best of his ability breeding methods leading to live stock improvement.

Select Good Seed

Corn: Take Care of It

By Robert H. Moulton

GOOD AVERAGE EARS

REAL CORN FROM GOOD SEED

GOOD EARS AND BAD

IF THE farmers of this country want to profit by the experience of recent years, when they were several times caught without home-grown seed, resulting in poor crops, they will at once turn their attention to the selection of plenty of good seed for their own use as well as to sell to their neighbors. If next year's corn crop should be a total or partial failure, it might not be possible to harvest any good seed at all from it. In that event, this year's seed, if properly chosen and well cared for during the winter months, will not only be good seed for 1920 but better seed in 1921 than imported seed will be.

In 1915, in the northern corn belt, most of the corn failed to mature. We had little good home-grown seed for the 1916 planting. This should have taught us a lesson. We should have saved a two years' supply for seed in 1916, but we didn't. In 1917 the corn again failed to mature and we were again caught without seed. The result was that the farmers of the United States lost millions of dollars because of the reduced yield in 1918. The 1919 corn crop promises to be one of the largest on record, and few farmers will have any excuse for not saving an abundance of seed.

To save plenty of good seed is always good business. If our surplus is not needed for seed it will not be wasted. It always will have a market value, or it may be fed to stock. If it should be needed for seed, it will be worth many times its market value as grain. We can import potatoes, oats or wheat, but we cannot import seed corn and expect to get as good results as we would get from corn grown in the immediate neighborhood.

The importance of testing seed corn before planting is now generally recognized and practiced by farmers everywhere, but all the testing in the world will avail nothing unless good seed is selected after harvest and then properly stored and cared for until testing time comes.

Paradoxical as it may seem, the best looking ears will not always prove to be the best for seed. As a matter of fact, one national authority on the subject states that he has frequently planted seed from blue-ribbon ears—ears judged according to the score card and seemingly physically perfect—and failed to get as good results from them as he did from ears which would never win a prize on account of their shape. The trouble is that these fine looking ears do not give any line on their yielding power until after they have been tested. Consequently, if a farmer selects ears based solely on their appearance, he might get nothing but poor reproducers, and it would then be too late to save other ears for planting.

Moreover, the big ears, which it is human nature for the farmer to save, believing they should be best for seed, are more often than not abnormal ears, due to late maturing or to some defect which nature has endeavored to correct during the period of growing by the use of abnormal methods. As a general thing, the offspring of such an ear is weak.

A medium sized ear, say ten and a half or eleven inches long, with a circumference of approximately seven inches, is about right. Straight rows indicate careful selection and breeding in the seed which produced the ear, and for this reason are desirable. On the other hand, some varieties of corn are known by their characteristically crooked rows and should not be discriminated against. An average ear of the size stated will weigh about 14 ounces when its moisture content is 15 per cent, and it will shrink in length from one to two inches during the process of drying. Of course it will also shrink in circumference, which is something that is not generally observed by farmers.

Before the selected corn is finally stored it must be dried out, so that its moisture content will fall as low as 15 per cent, if possible. Under such conditions even a very hard freeze will have little or no effect on the vitality of the seed. If the drying out process can be carried on in a room where there is stove heat, or in another room near enough to get the heat from a stove, so much the better.

One of the best and simplest methods of storing seed corn is to tie it up with binder twine, each string containing from 12 to 15 ears. These strings may be suspended from wires strung in the barn or other places where the corn is to be kept, and it is important that the individual ears should not touch each other. Corn that is to be used for seed should never be piled up.

The best place to store corn is some place where it is dry, and where there is room for the circulation of air between the ears or rows. If a room or attic in the farmhouse can be utilized for this purpose, it makes an ideal storing place. But if any out-building must be used, care should be taken that the spot where the corn is to be hung is as free from dampness at all times as possible.

The corn crop of 1918 on 104,407,000 acres amounted to 2,562,865,000 bushels, worth $3,416,240,000. The final report of the department of agriculture gives the acreage of 1919 as 102,975,000, the yield 2,917,450,000 bushels and the value $3,934,234,000.

The average for the years 1913-17 is as follows: Acreage, 107,400,000; yield, 2,749,340,000 bushels; value, $2,267,560,000.

Record Crop Value.

Value of important farm crops of the United States for 1919 as given by the final report of the department of agriculture is $14,092,740,000, compared with $12,600,526,000, the revised figures of 1918, an increase of $1,492,214,000, based on prices to producers December 1. This is the greatest value ever given the nation's grain crops.

The five grains—wheat, corn, oats, rye and barley—aggregated 5,350,344,000 bushels, an increase of 41,541,000 bushels over last year. Acreage planted to the principal crops was 359,124,173, compared with 256,407,162 last year, an increase of 2,000,000 acres.

Value of the five leading grains was $7,177,103,000, compared with $6,761,300,000, an increase of $415,803,000.

The corn crop looms up in valuation above all others, and is next to the most valuable ever known, being worth $3,934,234,000, or $415,000,000 more than last year and 7,000,000 bushels over previous estimates, with a crop of 2,917,450,000 bushels, the fourth largest on record, and 434,000,000 bushels over last year's.

Wheat yield was the second largest known, 940,987,000 bushels, a gain of 23,000,000 bushels over former returns and of 33,887,000 bushels compared with last year, and valued at $1,543,452,000, compared with $921,438,000 last year.

A fall down occurred in oats, with 1,248,310,000 bushels, or 28,000,000 bushels more than previously reported, but a loss of 290,000,000 bushels from last year and the shortest in recent years. Barley was also a disappointment with 105,719,000 bushels, a loss of 90,000,000 bushels for the year. Hay is a record crop of 108,000,000 tons, or 17,000,000 tons in excess of 1918. There is all the feed the country requires and provides a good surplus for export.

White potatoes turned out slightly above early estimates with 357,901,000 bushels, or 43,000,000 bushels short of last year.

A yield of 1,527,000,000 pounds of beet sugar was raised, compared with 1,530,126,000 pounds last year.

Almost as Good.

"The farmer's wife tells me it is profitable to keep a pig to get rid of the scraps around the house."

"I presume so. I find, however, that my husband will eat almost anything."

Give the Soldiers a Chance

Give the Soldier Boys a chance. After the Civil War the men who conquered the Southern Rebellion controlled the Government for 28 years. Grant, Hayes, Garfield and his successor, held the Government against the Southern Rebels during that awful period of reconstruction. The Homestead Bill was enforced.
 The National bank law was enlarged. Woman's Suffrage and the Temperance agitation begun and many other laws of great benefit to the country were passed and enforced.

And so it will be for the next 25 or 30 years and much longer, if the Republican party is true to its name and destiny. The Soldiers' National Legion is organized in nearly every State, its design and intention is not fully known yet but later it will flash upon the people like the rays of noonday sun.

"Uncle Sam," the soldier boys are coming three million strong and three million more in friends and neighbors to boost us right along.

The office seeker who is not a member of the Legion, the slack-er, the profiteer, the friend of the I. W. W., the hater of the Constitution and the Government, must all go under before this rising tide of trained and educated men. They took their lives in their hands and laid them down on their country's altar.
 Many never received it back;
 some are maimed with gas, shot and shell, and will ever remain examples of their bravery, courage and undying love for the flag, the Constitution and the law.

Gen. Leonard Wood, a brave and untiring soldier, has lately been endorsed by the State of Dakota as a candidate for President of the United States, against the strongest man in the East, under the law of that state. New Mexico, Montana, South Dakota, Washington, Nebraska, and many other states will follow. Gen.

 Wood was a great friend of Roosevelt. They worked in harmony in the Spanish-American War and Gen. Wood was a courageous advocate of Roosevelt's fight against illegal trusts and combines.

What One Sees When Sauntering Around

Dropping in at the office and sales rooms of Garrard & Corn one day this week, a newspaper man on the hunt for news
 "N Everything" experienced a surprise that at first was hardly believable. The store room was filled with the most complete stock of tires and automobile accessories he has ever seen contained in a room of that size. The firm has just received a large shipment of the famous Mc-Creary tires of all sizes from 30 to 36 x 4 1/2 and a guarantee goes with every tire for a 6000 mile service. The McCreary tires handled by Garrard & Corn, who are the exclusive agents, are in a class to themselves; the cotton fabric used is from the longest fibre in the world and consequently the strongest. Beside this, the entire structure is HAND MADE. The casings are moulded in one piece which offers the most intense resistance to violent attacks from rough roads, a trouble so common to automobile owners and one which has heretofore been so hard to overcome.

The inner tubes are made of the toughest of material and instead of being a mere film, they are about 1/4 of an inch in thickness and BUILT FOR SER-VICE. The McCreary Tires and inner tubes are newcomers in Carrizozo and in making their initial bow to the automobile public they hold aloft the 6000 mile guarantee backed by the manufacturers and Garrard & Corn the dealers—What more could we want? While the guarantee is 6000 miles, some have offered sworn affidavits to the effect that they have had twice that amount of service and are still going. The news hunter's curiosity being excited made further inquiries which Mr. Garrard responded to with his usual kindness and courtesy. Accessories innumerable were shown to the news fiend, from the smallest screw to the largest part of the automobile and a full, complete line of automobile necessities.
 "Every Little Accessory Had a Movement of Its Own." "What a wonderful automobile Santa Claus shop" mused the news guy, as he bid Mr. Garrard goodbye, thanking him for advanced favors of courtesy.

Will Not be One Day Without PE-RU-NA

This Lady TELLS Her FRIENDS

Mrs. Mary Fricke, 507 Bornman St., Belleville, Ill., is just one of the many thousands of ladies throughout the country who, after an agony of years, have at last found health, strength and vigor in PE-RU-NA.

Her own words tell of her suffering and recovery better than we can do it: "I suffered with my stomach, had awful cramps and headaches so I often could not lay on a pillow. Saw your book, tried PE-RU-NA and got good results from the first bottle. To be sure of a cure I took twelve bottles. I have recommended PE-RU-NA to my friends and all are well pleased with results. I will not be one day without PE-RU-NA. Have not had a doctor since I started with PE-RU-NA, which was about fifteen years ago. I am now sixty-three years old, hale, hearty and well. Can do as much work as my daughters. I feel strong and healthy and weigh near two hundred pounds. Before, I weighed as little as one hundred. I hope lots of people use PE-RU-NA and get the results I did." An experience like that of Mrs. Fricke is an inspiration to every sick and suffering woman.

If you have catarrh, whether it be of the nose, throat, stomach, bowels, or other organs, PE-RU-NA is the remedy. It is not new; it is not an experiment. PE-RU-NA has been tried. PE-RU-NA has been used by thousands who once were sick and are now well. To prevent coughs, colds, grip and influenza and to hasten recovery there is nothing better.

PE-RU-NA will improve the appetite and digestion, purify the blood, soothe the irritated mucous linings, eradicate the waste material and corruption from the system. It will tone up the nerves, give you health, strength, vigor and the joy of living. Do what Mrs. Mary Fricke and thousands more have done—try PE-RU-NA. You will be glad, happy, thankful.

Laundry People Evidently Have Their 'Bump of Sensitiveness Quite Well Developed.

Herbert Johnson, the humorous illustrator, said at a dinner in New York:

"Laundry people are the most sensitive folk on earth. Other classes are good natured when I cartoon them, but anything against the laundry causes the whole trade to get its back up.

"I did a comic once about the way some laundries wreck a man's shirt. Well, a laundry trade paper came out the next week with a two-column attack on me. One sentence I remember was:

"Probably this artist never wore a shirt in his life."

"And then, apropos of a thumbnail sketch about the way a laundry had wrecked a white dress tie, the paper added:

"If the artist knew anything about fashionable society he would understand that gentlemen do not tie their own ties, but buy them ready made."

Never Thought of That.

"Oh, dear, I'm bothered to death." "Over what?"

"Two men want to marry me and I can't tell which to accept."

"I'd take the one I loved the best." "Why, that is a unique idea. It never occurred to me. I'll think it over along those lines."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Never put off until tomorrow the golf you can play today.

Yes, Rafale, the right kind of experience is worth all it costs.

He Wanted Filling, Too!

"Sit down, Mr. Stylo," said the eminent publisher to the tattered genius, who had just entered his elaborate sanctum. "I have read your manuscript, and I think I shall publish it." "Ah!" cried the starving genius. "Do you mean that?"

"Yes. It seems to me a good book, and I think it will fill a long-felt want."

"I'm glad to hear you say that. And, by the way, could you advance me two dollars on account of my royalties?"

"Oh, I think so—I think so. But why do you want two dollars?"

"I want to begin filling that long-felt want you spoke of."

What Could He Say?

A good story was related by a naval officer who was with Admiral Sims in English waters. It was a heavy, foggy night. Every vessel was fog-bound. About midnight there came a wireless message to the admiral from a ship's officer reading:

"Am fog-bound. Shall I proceed to next port or return?"

Admiral Sims, being fog-bound himself, could not help smiling at the stupidity of the message. So he sent this reply:

"Yes."

In a short time came back another appeal from the officer. "Think you misunderstood my message. Am fog-bound. Shall I proceed to next port or return?"

To this the admiral replied:

"No."

Which would you call the harder job—to put common sense into a dreamer or a soul into a corporation?

When trouble looms it presages going to the carpet.

42 KILLED IN BERLIN RIOT

POLICE FIRE ON MOB THAT STORMS THE REICHSTAG IN BERLIN.

BOMBS HALT RIOTERS

CHARGE MADE AGAINST INDEPENDENT DEPUTIES FOR INCITING TROUBLE.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

London, Jan. 15.—Eyewitnesses estimate the casualties in Berlin at forty-two killed and 105 wounded, according to the Reuter correspondent. Bullets took a heavy toll, he says, and the police finally were compelled to throw bombs among the rioters, causing a panic in which scores of persons, including many women, were trampled under foot. A Berlin wireless dispatch says that Dr. Karl Heine, Prussian minister of the interior, speaking in the assembly, on disorders, assumed full responsibility for the protective measures adopted and accused the independents of having incited the masses to disorder. The speech was noisily interrupted by the independents.

Chancellor Bauer said: "I regard it my duty to express in the name of the government my thanks to the 'safety police.' They opened fire only after they had been attacked by criminal elements in the crowd and brutally maltreated and killed with their own arms.

"Signals were given to storm the reichstag building by the independents waving their kerchiefs. Had the mob succeeded in penetrating the building, a second St. Bartholomew's night would have ensued."

Berlin.—The government of President Ebert and Premier Bauer felt the pressure of the radicals as a result of the raising of the state of siege which had been hanging over Berlin since spring and in otherwise moderating the regulations calculated primarily to restrain the independent and communist agitators and otherwise defend the populace.

In addition, the government has been forced to face a heavy toll of casualties, as well as one of the most tumultuous parliamentary sessions yet witnessed in the reichstag.

An inflammatory proclamation contained in Die Freiheit protesting against the government's workmen's councils measure, drew large crowds to the reichstag precincts.

The people congregated about the reichstag building while the assembly was about to enter into its deliberations on the measure. The throngs so palpably premeditated mischief that general amusement was expressed in the reichstag corridors that Minister of Defense Noske should have permitted street demonstrations of such dimensions.

The past few days had given every indication that the independents and their communist and Bolshevist appendages would make a supreme effort to disconcert the government. The start was made by strikes in west and south Germany and upper Silesia, while the Berlin agitators openly flaunted the coming attacks in the face of the government, which was called on to defend the "peace legislature," to which it was pledged at the Weimar conference last summer.

Funds Not for Fighting Tobacco.

Washington.—Denying that the recently inaugurated Anti-Saloon League campaign for $25,000,000 was for the purpose of securing funds with which to wage a legislative war against tobacco, Representative Upshaw, Democrat, Georgia, a leader in the Anti-Saloon League councils, declared in a statement that the opponents of prohibition were attempting to divert attention from enforcement of prohibition laws by raising false issues.

Many Jews Killed in Ukraine.

Washington.—The number of Jews killed in pogroms in Ukraine up to Sept. 9, 1919, was estimated at 29,000 by Brigadier General Jadwin of the United States army, in a report transmitted to the Senate by President Wilson in response to a resolution by Senator Spencer, Republican, Missouri. General Jadwin said he was furnished with exact dates and names of towns for 10,712 of those killed.

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP.

A cold is probably the most common of all disorders and when neglected is apt to be most dangerous. Statistics show that more than three times as many people died from influenza last year, as were killed in the greatest war the world has ever known. For the last fifty-three years Boschee's Syrup has been used for coughs, bronchitis, colds, throat irritation and especially lung troubles. It gives the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning. Made in America and used in the homes of thousands of families all over the civilized world. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

"Yah?" Selma's face lit up with sympathetic understanding. "My brother has been there, too."

"Ach, he has got no year; da yodger just say, 'You, Axel, 60 days in Jail.'"

Stabilizing Credit

It is the general opinion that with relinquishment of federal control of railroads, nothing is more essential than stabilization of railroad credit.

In adjustment of current accounts and indebtedness due the Government for expenditures for betterments and improvements, it is essential that credit be arranged whereby the roads concerned may effect liquidation without financial hardship. This may well be effected by offsetting current accounts, and, on proper security, extending credit for the uncovered balance. Expenditures for betterments and improvements or for equipment when requested by the road concerned should on proper security be funded at a reasonable rate of interest for an appropriate period, say 10 or 15 years.

This will properly take care of immediate credit so far as the Government is concerned, but how about the broader aspects of railroad credit for the future and in general?

Something more must be done to put railroad credit and finances on a sound basis.

The past is usually a good guide, and to this end we may profit by investigation and avoidance of the causes which before the war impaired railroad credit, practically stopped construction and improvement, and brought the whole transportation system face to face with disaster.

Undoubtedly one of the chief causes for this is our incongruous plan of regulation. Notwithstanding approximately five-sixths of all traffic transported by rail is interstate and under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission we have 48 state commissions all exercising regulatory authority, all naturally selfish on local questions, all with conflicting views and interests. For example, not infrequently instances have arisen where to obey a law or order of one state meant to violate a law or order of another.

This archaic method of regulation should be abandoned and full and complete jurisdiction lodged in the Interstate Commerce Commission, for with its enlarged powers no more reason obtains for state regulation of the postal system.

Another cause is lack of indemnity of investors against strikes. Thus far Congress has passed no law effectively safeguarding railway investors or the general public from the strike menace. Railroad strikes are a public menace. When millions of people suffer hardships and privation from any serious tie-up, such strikes assume criminal proportions and are no longer tolerable. A bureau of adjustment should be established to settle controversies between the employees and management and strikes and lockouts should alike be prohibited.

There may be other phases, but if congress desires to make a good and right start in stabilizing railroad credit and insuring the public against demoralization of their transportation service, here is its opportunity.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/2 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, flow of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.
