BIG HOTEL SOON TO BE ERECTED IN CARRIZOZO

Business And Professional Men of Town Meet Thursday—Show Keen Interest in Project.

Thursday afternoon a big meeting of business and professional men of Carrizozo was held at the Lutz Hall to discuss ways and means to further the project of erecting the new hotel the particulars of which we have published heretofore. Those present were deeply interested and manifested the same by subscribing to the movement to the extent of $18,000 according to the report of the secretary. This includes, of course, subscriptions that have been taken prior to the meeting of Thursday.

The new hotel will cost $70,000.00 and when 50% of this amount has been subscribed, ground will be broken and the work commenced on the structure that when completed will be one of which Carrizozo may well be proud. In conversation with some of the leading promoters of the project, the Outlook learned that it is the intention to have the building completed by the first of the coming June. From now on, the committee in charge of the subscription list will be intensely active and have assurances of the very best, that the necessary 50% will be easily raised in a short period of time. We have several good oil companies now in Carrizozo composed of men who are working to lease enough acreage of land to induce drilling companies to come in, and this movement together with the new hotel project all of which brought to successful conclusions should make the town boom in earnest—Let the good work go on.

Ambition to be Movie Cowboy Hero Cost Youth $200

Denver, Jan. 26.—George McDonald's ambition, foisted by a stranger he met at the National Western Stock show, to become a movie cowboy hero, caused his separation from $200 in money earned on the ranges near Trinidad, Colorado, and resulted in the arrest of A. T. Hill, said by the police to be the promoter of the cowboy's ambition.

McDonald had come to visit the stock show and fell in with Hill, who told him that he possessed all the qualifications for successful appearance on the screen as the hero of a drama of the plains. McDonald hadn't thought of it before, but he admitted he had the ability to tie and rope a steer and he readily fell in with Hill's plans.

There was only one hitch, and this was Hill's fear that McDonald might not appear at the Los Angeles studio to fulfill his engagement. He obtained a $200 guarantee from McDonald and closed the deal.

Aircraft to be Comfortable as the Best Autos

New York, Jan. 27.—Commercial passenger aircraft provided with virtually all the comforts found in high-priced automobiles will be featured at the second annual aeronautical exposition of the Manufacturers' Aircraft association, which will be held here from March 6 to 13. Leather padded cockpits, wicker chairs with velvet cushions, heated compartments protected from the wind by unbreakable windshields, silk curtains, mirrors, luncheon tables and telephones are found in American machines entered in the exposition.

Aerial limousines and coupes are among the most popular entrants. The first three-motored airplane to be built in the United States will be on exhibition. It carries eight passengers in comfortable wicker seats, equipped with a self-starter and capable of making 107 miles an hour. One huge transport alone carries twelve passengers, and is constructed for long distance travel at a speed of approximately two miles a minute.

Sheepmen Look For Great Prosperity

Santa Fe, N. M.—The sheep sanitary board has made a very satisfactory annual report to Governor O. A. Larrazolo showing that "the range conditions in New Mexico were never better in the history of the state," and that "the sheepmen anticipate great prosperity during the coming year." There have been over 100,000 head of sheep brought in from other states, particularly from Wyoming and Montana. The secretary reports that it was necessary to increase the pay of sheep inspectors to $100 a month plus a per diem of $2.50 per day. The average price received for wool was 48 cents, the average weight lambs, November 1 delivery, was 58 pounds as against less than 50 pounds the year before.

186 Deaths from Flu and Pneumonia in Chicago

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Health department reports for the last 24 hours showed a total of 186 deaths from pneumonia, and influenza today, an increase of thirteen deaths over the same period yesterday. Deaths from influenza numbered 87.

There were 1,542 new cases of influenza reported and 407 of pneumonia.

Five Car Shipment

Stratton, Reilly & Harris shipped five car loads of cattle today to Kansas City. Two cars were brought down from Ancho and added to three more from Carrizozo. Joe Stratton accompanied the shipment.

Robert S. Cravens Dead

(Big Springs Herald)

Robert S. Cravens, aged sixty-four years, seven months and twenty-three days died at the home of his son, Guy Cravens, in this city at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, January 22nd.

Mr. Cravens had been in ill health for some time and was brought from his home in Carrizozo, N. M. to the home of his son here that he might receive the best of medical attention and the care of loved ones.

He was a Christian gentleman beloved by all who knew him and his death brings sorrow to many hearts.

He is survived by his wife, six sons and a daughter. Guy and Roy Cravens of this city; C. S. Cravens of Wellington, Kan.; M. H. Cravens of Clovis, N. M.; H. A. Cravens of Roswell, N. M.; Elmer Cravens and Mrs. Walter Davis of Slaton, Texas, all of whom were at the bedside when the final summons came. To the sorrowing ones who mourn for a faithful husband and a kind and loving father is tendered the deep sympathy of our entire citizenship.

Mr. Cravens will be well remembered by many people as the faithful druggist at Rolland Brothers, who on account of ill health was compelled to give up his position here and take up his residence at Big Springs, with the hope that the change would be of benefit to him. Carrizozo in general will be sorry to hear of his death and will extend to the bereaved family the kindest of human sympathy.

Let Us Reason Together

We are heading this article in the manner indicated above to attract the attention of land owners who are holding back the leasing of their land, thus delaying the very thing that will bring prosperity to our section of Lincoln county, namely: drilling operations. Now that the New State Oil & Gas company has so much patented land under lease necessary of this sort for an inducement to drilling companies, why should land owners who have not leased, hold back and delay the incoming of the drillers? If they are waiting for development to work up to them, can they bring one evidence to bear where anyone has ever acquired riches by this practice? Especially in a section which is so simply "wildcat" as this is? No!

"Watchful Waiting," is not the policy to pursue in this case. Our prosperity now depends on a combined effort to push to successful conclusion, the project we so badly need. How many are ready to ask the advice of their grocers, bankers, or friends who have already drawn up leases to help make the thing a "go"? If you encounter a knocker, take his argument and form the opposite, then you will have the argument right. This proposition is not the New State Oil & Gas company's proposition; it is everybody's proposition. To be successful, it needs the support of all.

Republican Executive Committee Will Meet

Santa Fe, June 28.—The republican executive committee is expected to meet here Saturday on call of Judge George R. Craig of Albuquerque, state chairman, presumably for the purpose of discussing proposed legislation to be included in the call for the special session and possibly for calling a meeting of the state central committee to fix the date for the state convention that will nominate delegates from the state to the Chicago convention.

As the national convention will be held early in June the call for the state convention probably will be issued at an early date, in order to leave ample time for the holding of precinct primaries and county conventions which will elect the delegates to the state convention.

In view of the expected meeting of the executive committee on Saturday it was believed that Governor Larrazolo would return to Santa Fe by that date, although as far as could be learned no word has been received directly from him in the last day or two. He expected to be in South Bend, Ind., Tuesday.

Gypsy Husband Sold Cheap, Wife Says

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 29.—Here's a new and decidedly commercial angle to the "eternal triangle."

Peter Guy, a gypsy, was the husband of Mury Guy, also of the wandering tribe of Romany. He is now the "property" of the "other woman" who wanted him and had the money to buy him. The bill of sale was drawn up by a local attorney and is now a matter of record.

By the terms of the "sale" the "other woman" gave the former Mrs. Guy $5000 in gold for "Gypsy Peter," and his bargaining spouse retains the property the two jointly accumulated during their period of gypsy wedlock.

Apparently Peter has been transferred thus before, for Mrs. Guy told the attorney who drew up the papers that she "paid $5000 for him myself and I'm selling him cheap."

Activity at Duran

The Corona-Tularosa Basin Oil Association will renew the drilling operations the first of the coming week when the new boiler arrives. Heretofore, the drilling has been going on with some difficulty on account of the defective boiler, but now all hindrances will be done away with and operations will resume on a heavier scale. Good reports may be expected from Duran oil interests from now on.

MARCONI STATIONS ALARMED OVER WEIRD SIGNALS

Undeciphered Signals Continually Interrupting Wireless Stations, Cause Uneasiness.

London, Eng., Jan. 28.—Discussing the mysterious signals described yesterday by Signor Marconi as having been received in the form of interruptions of the Marconi wireless instruments, Sir Frank W. Dyson, astronomer royal, Tuesday admitted that in his opinion it was quite possible to get waves from other planets. He was not prepared to go further at the present, and left it to greater wireless experts than himself to describe the effects of such waves.

Interviewed today regarding the signals, Marconi said:

"They are sounds. They may be signals, we do not know. They are not what operators call atmospheric and we have nothing to guide us at present as to how they are caused.

"We do not get them unless we set up a special wave length, very much greater than the wave length ordinarily used.

"Sometimes there may be a long wait before we hear anything or we may hear these sounds in 20 minutes or half an hour. They occur when we are using a wave length of approximately 100 kilometers, which is three or four times the length used for commercial purposes."

These sounds do not interrupt commercial messages, he said, continuing:

"We have not gone out of our way to look for them because they are no good to us, but they seem very persistent. Three short raps are often received, which might be interpreted into the letter 'S' in the Morse alphabet, but there are sounds also which might stand for other letters.

Woman Found Slain In Hotel

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 28.—Investigation was being made by the police today in the death of Mrs. Scott Richards, whose body, lying across a bed, was found in her room at a downtown hotel this morning.

According to physicians, the woman had been dead for three days. The disordered condition of the room leads the police to believe that Mrs. Richards was murdered.

Broken bottles and desk and dresser drawers were strewn about the floor. Blood covered the woman's hands and night clothing and the limbs were covered with bruises. In the room were two bank books showing deposits of upward of $10,000 each and a memorandum of Liberty bond purchases.

Elden swung on his heel and paced the length of the office in quick, sharp strides. When he returned to where Miss Warden stood, wrapped about in her misery, his fists were clenched and the veins stood out on the back of his hands.

"Scoundrel!" he muttered. "Scoundrel! And I have been tied to him. I have let him blind me; I have let him set the standards. Well, now I know him." There was a menace in his last words that frightened even Gladys Warden, well though she knew the menace was not to her, but ranged in her defense.

"Here," he said, taking some bills from his pocket. "You must tell him you can't go—tell him you won't go; you must return his money. I will lend you what you need. Don't be afraid, I will go with you."

"But I can't take your money, either, Mr. Elden," she protested. "I can't stay here any longer. I will have no job and I can't pay you back. You see I can't take it, even from you. What a fool I was! For a few clothes—"

"You will continue to work—for me," he said.

She shook her head. "No, I can't. I can't. I can't work anywhere near him."

"You won't need to. The firm of Conward & Elden will be dissolved at once. I have always felt that there was something false in Conward—something that wouldn't stand test. Now I know."

There was a sound of a key in the street door, and Conward entered.

CHAPTER XI.

Conward paused as he entered the room. He had evidently not expected to find Elden there, but after a moment of hesitation he nodded cordially to his partner.

"Almost ready, Miss Warden?" he asked, cheerily. "Our train goes in—" He took his watch from his pocket and consulted it.

Dave's eyes were fixed on the girl. He wondered whether, in this testing moment, she would fight for herself or lean weakly on him as her protector. Her answer reassured him.

"It makes no difference when it goes, Mr. Conward. I'm not going on it." Her voice trembled nervously, but there was no weakness in it. The money which Dave had given her was still crumpled in her hand. She advanced to where Conward stood vaguely trying to sense the situation, and held the bills before him. "Here is your money, Mr. Conward," she said. "Why, what does this mean?"

"Here is your money. Will you take it, please?"

"No, I won't take it with you explain—"

She opened her fingers and the bills fell to the floor. "All right," she said. Conward's eyes had shifted to Dave. "You are at the bottom of this, Elden," he said. "What does it mean?"

"It means, Conward," Dave answered, "that there was steel in his voice—'It means that after all these years I have discovered what a con you are—just in time to talk you at least in this instance.'"

Conward flushed, but he maintained an attitude of composure. "You've been drinking, Dave," he said. "It meant no harm to Miss Warden."

"Don't make me call you a liar as well as a con."

The word cut through Conward's mask of composure. "Now by God I won't take that from any man!" he shouted, and with a swing of his arm threw his coat over his shoulders.

Dave made no motion, and Conward slowly brought his coat back to position.

"I was right," said Dave, calmly. "I knew you wouldn't fight. You think more of your skin than you do of your honor. Well—it's better worth protecting."

"If this girl were not here—" Conward protested. "I will not fight—"

"Oh, I will fence," said Miss Warden, with alacrity. "And I hope he scots you well," she shot back, as the door closed behind her.

But by this time Conward had assumed a superior attitude. "Dave," he said, "I won't fight over a quarrel of this kind. But remember, there are some things in which no man allows another to interfere. Least of all such a man as you. There are ways of getting back, and I'll get back."

"Why such a man as me? I know I haven't been much of a moralist in business matters—I've been in the wrong company for that—but I draw the line—"

"Oh, you're fine stuff, all right. What would your friend Miss Hardy think if I told her all I know?"

"You know nothing that could affect Miss Hardy's opinion."

"It's too bad your memory is so poor," Conward sneered. "Why were your lips off that night I passed your car? Oh, I guess you remember! What will Miss Hardy think of that?"

For a moment Dave was unable to follow Conward's thought. Then his mind reached back to that night he drove into the country with Bert Morrison, when on the brow of a hill he switched off his lights that they might better admire the majesty of the heavens. That Conward should place an evil interpretation upon that incident was a thing so monstrous, so altogether beyond argument, that Dave fell back upon the basic human method reserved for such occasions. His fist leaped forward, and Conward crumpled up before it.

Conward lay stunned for a few minutes, then, with returning consciousness, he tried to sit up. Dave helped him to a chair. Blood flowed down his face, and as he began to realize what had occurred it was joined with tears of pain, rage, humiliation.

"You got that one on me, Elden," he said, after a while. "But it was a coward's blow. You hit me when I wasn't looking. Very well. Two can play at that game. I'll hit when you're not looking . . . where you don't expect it . . . where you can't hit back. I know the stake you're playing for, and—I'm going to spoil it." He turned his swollen, bloody face to Dave's, and hatred stood up in his eyes as he uttered the threat. "I'll hit you, Dave," he repeated, "where you can't hit back."

"Thanks for the warning," said Elden. "So Irene Hardy is to be the stake. All right, I'll sit in. And I'll win."

"You'll think you've won," returned Conward, leeringly, "and then you'll find out that you didn't. I'll present her to you, Dave, like that." He lifted a burnt match from an ash-tray and held it before him.

Dave's impulse was to seize the thick, flabby throat in his hands and choke it lifeless. With a resolute effort he turned to the telephone and lifted the receiver.

"Ever Contemplate Marriage?" Said Miss Morrison, With Disconcerting Frankness.

"Send a car and a doctor to Conward & Elden's office," he said when he had got the desired number. "Mr. Conward has been hurt—fell against a desk, or something. Nothing serious, but may need a stitch or two." Then, turning to Conward: "It will depend on you whether this affair gets to the public—on you and Miss Warden. Make your own explanation. And as soon as you are able to be about our partnership will be dissolved."

Conward was ready enough to adopt Dave's suggestion that their quarrel should not come to the notice of the public, and Gladys Warden, apparently, kept her own counsel in the matter. In a time when firms were going out of business without even the formality of an assignment, and others were being absorbed by their competitors, the dissolution of the Conward & Elden establishment occasioned no more than passing notice. The explanation, "for business reasons," given to the newspapers, seemed sufficient.

Irene Hardy found herself in a position of increasing delicacy. Since the day of their conversation in the tea-room Dave had been constant in his attentions, but, true to his ultimatum, had uttered no word that could in any way be construed to be more or less than platonic. She had now no doubt that she felt for Dave that attachment without which ceremonies are without avail and with which ceremonies are but ceremonies. And yet she shrank from surrender. . . . And she knew that some day she must surrender.

The situation was complicated by conditions which involved her mother and Conward. It was apparent that Conward's friendship for Mrs. Hardy did not react to Dave's advantage. Conward was careful to drop no word in Irene's hearing that could be taken as a direct reflection upon Dave, but she was conscious of an influence, a magnetism, it almost seemed, the whole tendency of which was to pull her away from Elden.

Mrs. Hardy had invested practically all her little fortune in her house. The small sum which had been saved from that unfortunate investment had been eaten up in the cost of furnishing and maintaining the home. Doctor Hardy, in addition to his good name, had left his daughter some few thousand dollars of life insurance, and this was the capital which was now supplying their daily needs. It, too, would soon be exhausted, and Irene was confronted with the serious business of finding a means of livelihood for herself and her mother.

She discussed her problem with Bert Morrison, with whom she had formed a considerable friendship. She wondered whether she might be able to get a position on one of the newspapers.

"Don't think of it," said Bert. "If you want to keep a sane, sweet outlook on humanity, don't examine it too closely. That's what we have to do in the newspaper game, and that's why we're all cynics. Keep out of it."

"But I must earn a living," Irene protested.

"Ever contemplate marriage?" said Miss Morrison, with disconcerting frankness.

The color rose in Irene's cheeks, but she knew that her friend was discussing a serious matter seriously. "Why, yes," she admitted. "I have contemplated it; in fact, I am contemplating it. That's one of the reasons I want to start earning my living. When I marry I want to marry as a matter of choice—not because it's the only way out."

"Now you're talking," said Bert. "And most of us girls who marry as a matter of choice—don't marry. I've only known one man from whom a proposal would set me thinking. And he'll never propose to me—not now. Not since Miss Hardy came West."

"Oh," said Irene, slowly, "I'm so sorry!"

"It's all right," said Bert, looking out of the window. "Just another of life's little bumps. We get used to

MISSED THAT DAY OF REST

Tim Herlihy Naturally Dissatisfied at His Loss of That Much-Prized "Vacation."

"Now, I don't think Timmy'll be staying long on this new job he's took up," said Mrs. Herlihy. "The too hard for him. Sure he gets no rest at all from Monday morning till Sunday night, and it's not what the man's used to."

"He has his Sundays to rest in," answered the mother, boldly.

"An' what's that?" said Mrs. Herlihy. "On Sunday he has to go to church, an' ink the children to their granddaddy's an' visit with his cousins an' all—'tis no rest at all."

"Twas was day out of every fortnight he had the old job, was it?" queried the mother.

"It was," said Mrs. Herlihy, "an' 'twas a grand vacation he had. I'd save every bit of the washin' an' he'd wring it out fine, an' hang it on the line for me; then he'd sew 'n' ship it would enough to last till the next vacation day, an' he'd have every cent in the house an' shine up the furniture an' the biller an' wash the windows an' there'd always be some little extra help, drivin' mules or the like, he end give me."

"An' when he'd go to his bed at night he'd never fail to say to me, 'Well, Celia, my vacation day is over, but I feel like it's made me ready to go back to work to-morrow,' he'd say."—Youth's Companion.

No Longer Funny.

As a general thing, when a woman asks her husband not to make an exhibition of himself it is a sign that she has got over the idea that he is cute.

You have a right to your own religious and political belief—and the other fellow has just as much right to his.

them—in slack. If you want a job, let me see; you draw, don't you?"

"Just for a pastime. I can't earn a living that way."

"I'm not so sure. Perhaps not with art in the abstract. You must commercialize it. If you, on the one hand, can make a picture of the Rockies, which you can't sell, and, on the other, can make a picture of a pair of shoes, which you can sell, which, as a woman of good sense, in need of the simoleons, are you going to do? You're going to draw the shoes—and the pay-check. Now I think I can get you started that way, on catalogue work and ad cuts. Try your pencil on something—anything at all—and bring down a few samples."

So Irene's little studio-room began to take on a practical purpose. It was work which called for form and proportion rather than color, and in these Irene excelled. She soon found herself with as much as she could do, in addition to the duties of the household, as models were luxuries which could no longer be afforded and her mother seemed unable to realize that they were not still living in the affluence of Doctor Hardy's income. To Irene, therefore, fell the work of the house, as well as its support.

But her success in earning a living did not seem in the slightest degree to clear the way for marriage. She could not ask Dave to assume the support of her mother; particularly in view of Mrs. Hardy's behavior toward him, she could not ask that. She sometimes wondered if Conward—for a long while she refused to complete the thought, but at length, why not? Why shouldn't Conward marry her mother? And what other purpose could he have in his continuous visits to their home? Mrs. Hardy, although no longer young, had by no means surrendered all the attractions of her sex, and Conward was slipping by the period where a young girl would be his natural mate. If they should marry— Irene was no platter, but it did seem that such a match would clear the way for all concerned. She was surprised, when she turned it over in her mind, to realize that Conward had won for himself such a place in her regard that she could contemplate such a consummation as very much to be desired. Subconsciously, rather than from specific motive, she assumed a still more friendly attitude toward him.

New Source of Energy Needed.

Years ago there was a scheme for an apparatus of gigantic mirrors to be set up in the Sahara, these to collect, in some complex fashion, the energy directed from the sun. Another method of going direct to the sun is that of Prof. F. W. Barnstall of Birmingham, who points out that alcohol is an ideal fuel, and can easily be produced from starch, which are sufficient-made from plants which are sufficiently luxuriant in growth, such as the cinchona. One thing is certain—we must find some new way of getting the energy we require. Coal is too valuable to be used wastefully; oil is very limited, and we have yet to learn how to produce electricity cheaply. What will our next method be?

A Blind Guide.

Many books have been filled with accounts of the achievements of the blind. Take for a specimen the story of James Wilson, the poor blind boy who became so familiar with the streets of Belfast that he often served as a guide to bewildered strangers. He became a traveling peddler, and was led through many perils in prosecuting his dangerous occupation. At one time a sudden cold locked him on the very brink of an open well eighty feet deep. The employed persons to send to him, and his eager memory was so retentive that he became known as "the Walking Encyclopedia." Once in a company he was asked to repeat the names of as many ships of the British navy as he could. He gave names without hesitation till 629 were written down, when he was told to stop. This poor blind boy became a well-known writer.

Meaning of "Selah."

The word Selah, which occurs so frequently in the Psalms, is usually believed to be a direction to the musicians who chanted the Psalms in the temple. Matthewson, the great musical critic, wrote a book on the subject, in which, after collecting a number of theories, he came to the conclusion that it is equivalent to the modern "da capo," and is a direction that the air or song is to be repeated from the commencement to the part where the word is placed.

Bananas.

The banana is a perennial herbaceous plant, growing from year to year from an underground root stock with a stem or stalk from 10 to 15 feet high above the ground. The plant has drooping leaves, but no branches like fruit trees of the north countries. Each stalk produces one large cluster of fruit. After fruiting, the stalk is cut down to the surface of the ground and grows up again from the root.

Why That Backache?

Why be miserable with a bad back? You can't be happy if every day brings lameness; sharp, shooting pains and a dull, nagging ache. Likely the cause is weak kidneys. You may have headaches and dizzy spells, too, with a weak, tired feeling. Don't delay! Try Doan's Kidney Pills. They have done wonders in thousands of such cases. Ask your neighbor!

A Colorado Case

Quincy A. Risch, miner, Eighth Ave., Duray, Colo., says: "I had inflammation of the bladder. The kidney secretions passed frequently were scanty and burned. My back ached all the time and was so weak and lame I could hardly straighten after bending over. I doctored but got no relief. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills and they regulated my kidneys, stopped that awful burning and made my back stronger."

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

CARRIZO HIGH SCHOOL VS.

ALL STARS

A very fast and well-played basket ball game was played Friday afternoon between the Carrizozo High School girls' team and a picked team consisting of teachers and town girls, The All Stars.

The teams were well matched and played first class ball. The rooters were there in force and supported their teams.

The first half ended with the score 9 to 8 in favor of the High School. The second half started with a rush, the All Stars making two field goals before the High School was able to score. The High School rallied and came back steadily till at the end of the game the score stood 21 to 17 in favor of the High School.

Jeanette Johnson was the star forward for the High School, throwing ten field goals out of sixteen attempts. Sallie Johnson was the star forward for the All Stars throwing seven field goals out of twelve attempts. The line up was as follows:

Mr. Keating's Successor

Mr. Albert Weinberg, who this week purchased the Keating Tailor Shop and who makes his announcement in a separate ad in this issue of the Outlook is a gentleman of vast experience in the line of business he has taken up in Carrizozo. He was in the Quartermaster's department for four years under a government contract during which time he did the cleaning, pressing, repairing and general tailoring work for the officers and soldiers at San Antonio. Mr. Weinberg comes well recommended and is worthy of the confidence of the people of Carrizozo. Mrs. Weinberg and the children are at present at El Paso, but will shortly move to this place where the family will reside for the future. It will now be a source of satisfaction to know that we will not be compelled to send work away from town as he will be fully equipped to give service on anything from the heaviest fabric to the most dainty piece of ladies' wearing apparel. Mr. Weinberg is now stationed and solicits the public confidence and trade.

Daniel R. Bentley Dies

Sunday morning at 8 o'clock occurred the death of Daniel R. Bentley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bentley. The family came to this section of the country 15 years ago, from Coriela county, Texas and settled on the Bonito, where they resided until several years ago when they took up ranch land near Chaves Springs where they have been in the ranching business moving to Carrizozo for the winter months in order to give the children schooling.

Mr. Bentley had not been well for the past few weeks but on the day preceding his death, seemed to be better, but at close of the day he took a change for the worse and all efforts to improve his condition failed. Medical aid was administered through the night but failing to rally, he died at the hour stated above. The remains were interred in the cemetery at Angus with the Rev. A. C. Douglas of the Carrizozo Methodist Church conducting the services. The deceased leaves father and mother, wife and four children to mourn his loss. The Bentley family have the sympathy of the entire community.

PLAN ALLIANCE AGAINST

MAKING DEFENSE PLANS

WILL NOT ATTACK RUSSIA WITH-OUT MANDATE FROM ALLIES.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Heilsingfors, Jan. 22.—The net result of the conference of representatives of Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and Poland, which has been in progress here, is the appointment of a commission to work out a plan for a defensive alliance against soviet Russia. The question of peace with the Bolsheviks is said not even to have been discussed. Whether it will be considered later will depend upon the lead of the allies, to whom the participants of the conference, with the possible exception of Lithuania, look for guidance.

Apparently the differences between Lithuania and Poland are so irreconcilable that the former will not consent to be a party to any alliance including Poland. It is learned that Lithuania at the outset of the conference, proposed an alliance of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania against Poland. The Estonians replied that they were not empowered to consider such a proposal, while the Letts rejected it outright. After that Lithuania did not participate in the conference, except as an observer.

According to the Latvian and Polish delegates, Lithuania is on the point of linking up with Germany, as well as concluding an armistice with soviet Russia, but, as a result of the change in the political situation in France and the reported growing British influence in Poland, they completely modified their attitude.

The leader of the Polish delegation, Varski Jevski, said to the correspondent:

"Poland does not wish to attack soviet Russia without a mandate from the allies."

The Estonians, who continually have expressed pessimism regarding the outcome of the conference, are returning to Dorpat greatly heartened by the decision for the renewal of trading with Russia. As the Estonians calculated, the conference strengthened their position at Dorpat. The Bolsheviks, alive to the possibilities of the proposed defensive alliance, have announced, according to reports, their readiness to accept certain important features of Estonian peace terms.

The Finns played a passive part in the conference but declare their satisfaction with the results.

France Hopeful for New Year

Begins 1920 With Greater Confidence Than It Did the Last.

DUE TO DEFEAT OF RADICALS

Elections Stabilize Internal Conditions, Though Fall of Franc Is Still Serious Problem—Study Financial Policy.

Paris.—France began the new year with far greater confidence than the last. This is in spite of formidable handicaps, such as the balance of trade running against her at the rate of about 1,500,000,000 francs a month, about 50 per cent depreciation of the exchange value of the franc and the consequent difficulty of procuring raw materials and machines urgently needed for reconstruction.

France's renewed confidence is derived directly from the result of the recent elections. These are regarded here as having definitely stabilized internal politics, ended all danger of revolutionary agitation for some time to come and brought about a better attitude by capital and labor toward the immense effort before France.

Money is forthcoming for investments in anything that promises stability. While the investments in short-term treasury bonds are continuing at the rate of nearly 2,000,000,000 francs a month, there is plenty of money for industrial and commercial enterprises and long-term loans. The 4,000,000,000 franc loan to provide immediate resources for indemnifying victims of the invasion was oversubscribed before the official opening of the subscriptions. Important banks and industrial companies have lately increased their capital to an aggregate of nearly 500,000,000,000 francs.

Big Trade on Bourse.

Transactions on the Paris bourse, which still are confined to cash deals, have exceeded on certain days records of pre-war trading, when futures entered largely into the totals. The upward movement of all industrial which began before the signature of the treaty at Versailles, has been unchecked by successive liquidations. This is regarded by keen observers here as a sure sign of economic recovery.

Employers say the labor situation is improved and that the last strikes developed signs that the workers themselves were becoming weary of long continued disturbances of business, industry and transportation. They see a tendency against frivolous strikes and an indication that only real grievances will induce the wage earners to quit work hereafter.

1. centralization of capital and industry is seen in the establishing in Normandy of textile industries to replace those in the occupied territory destroyed by the war. This movement has been greatly extended by development of water power in the region of the Alps and the center and south of France. Industrial leaders say that no particular region of France hereafter will monopolize any industry, and declare that this scattering will prove beneficial and result in a more equitable recovery of all parts of the country.

To Transfer Industries.

Powerful financial groups are at the head of the movement to transfer important industries from the coal region to southwestern France, where water power soon will be available. Other groups are being formed to develop manufacturing centers near the coast so as to reduce the cost of transporting raw materials. Industrial leaders say that this activity on the part of capital, supported by the recovery of labor from what has been characterized as a wave of "laziness," gives a healthy tone to the situation.

Instability of the exchange value of the franc is regarded as one of the weakest points in French conditions. It is pointed out that France cannot pay twice over at present high prices for supplies she needs, and that is what the present low value of the franc means. The French government is now studying a complete renovation of the financial policy with a view to making such provisions to meet obligations as will give greatest stability, both at home and abroad. Details of the new financial policy are as yet not disclosed, but it is understood that it comprises a large interior loan to take up all short-term bonds and floating debt, and important increases in all taxes to bring the revenues up to the annual budget, estimated to require 20,000,000,000 to 25,000,000,000 francs. It is not expected that any internal financial arrangement can exert more than a moral influence on the value of the franc abroad, and this may be said to be the object of the greatest anxiety in official circles.

Meet Ethyl and Methyl Alcohol

Two Most Prominent and Interesting Members of the Family.

MANY OFFSPRINGS ARE KNOWN

Difference Between Grain and Wood Alcohol Clearly Described—Fatalities Due to Amateur Attempts to Make Grain Alcohol.

Chicago.—While there are seventeen or more alcoholic products known in chemistry, there are two of general commercial use in the country—ethyl alcohol, or ordinary alcohol, the kind we used to be able to buy "for medicinal purposes," and methylated spirit, or industrial alcohol, which is popularly called "wood alcohol," and which does contain an amount of that fluid. Ethyl or ordinary alcohol is formed by the spirituous or alcoholic fermentation of saccharine juices. The fermentation must be completed before it is distilled. It is made from grain, either corn, wheat, or barley. This is also known as grain alcohol. The formula is C_2H_5OH .

Methylated spirit, or industrial alcohol, is made of ninety parts of ordinary alcohol and ten parts of wood alcohol—methyl alcohol.

Source of Wood Alcohol. Wood alcohol is obtained by the dry distillation of wood. The common method of obtaining this is to take cordwood which has been seasoned for about two years—beech, maple, and birch are best—place it in iron or steel retorts over a slow fire. The intensity of the fire is gradually increased as the distillation progresses, until at the end of from twelve to eighteen hours nothing remains in the retort but charcoal. The distillate is passed through a condenser, and the liquid thus gathered is allowed to set in tanks until the greater part of the tarry matter it has subsided. The lighter part is then drawn off and saturated with slaked lime to fix the acetic acid. It is then distilled a second time and the distillate sent to the refineries as wood alcohol. Sawdust or any woody fiber or cellulose can be used in place of cordwood.

Wood alcohol, either in its pure form or as an ingredient of industrial alcohol, is a poison, and has a selective action upon the optic nerve, in which it often induces a condition of permanent atrophy which results in total blindness.

For some purposes "completely denatured alcohol" is made by adding to industrial alcohol a little benzene or pyridine to spoil the taste and render it offensive. Denatured alcohol may be made more cheaply than ordinary alcohol by using cheaper materials, such as any starchy vegetable substance, or a waste byproduct, as the poorest grade of molasses or the waste of a canning factory. "It is probable that a good deal of the wood alcohol that is being distributed as a beverage is the result of the attempts of amateurs to make ordinary alcohol. In their ignorance they use vegetable substances such as potato peelings, and, by using too intense a fire and making the distillation without having first allowed fermentation to take place, produce methyl or wood alcohol instead," said J. H. Nusbaum, a chemist.

TEST NEW 'MOVIE' INVENTION

New York Theater Tries Concave Screen, Giving Effect of Third Dimension.

New York.—A concave motion picture screen that may revolutionize the movies was tried out at a local theater today.

It is said to give an effect of a third dimension—an appearance of thickness or depth—that relieves the eye strain. A group of scientists witnessed the experiment.

Dr. Louis Pech, head of the faculty of medicine at the University of Montpellier, France, the inventor, supervised the exhibition.

Dr. Pech ascribes the relief from eye strain to his belief that the eye functions normally when it sees things of three dimensions, even if the appearance of the third dimension is an illusion.

Letter Finds "Mamma."

Cincinnati, O.—A letter written by Lucille Shepherd, thirteen years of age, of Oshtemo, asking Chief of Police Copelan to institute a search for her mother, Mrs. Rose Shepherd, led detectives to find Mrs. Shepherd here the other day. The child wrote "they needed mamma to take care of her and her little brothers." The officers were in Mrs. Shepherd's apartment when a man, who said he was George Murphy, entered. He was crumpling a letter in his hands. The detectives say the letter was from the husband of the woman in which he pleaded with her to return to him and her children. In police court the cases of Mrs. Shepherd and the man were continued.

HIS UNHAPPY TIME

When Father Pays for Good Things He Has Had.

Shadows Upon Life Are Not Always Caused by Financial Affairs—Health Specialist Occasionally Gets Busy.

Speaking about the influence of money on human happiness, and the fact that the lasting pleasures of life are totally unassociated with money, father is a very good example of the latter premise, writes Glenn M. Farley in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Father's very special health specialist has forbidden him to smoke his pipe before midday, and the pleasure of life has completely vanished from all his forenoons. More than that, father has been a prodigious feeder all his life, with emphasis at the breakfast hour, and the s. h. s. has cut off the breakfast at one fell stroke, and permitted him to partake of milk only at that hour. Hence we have a sad, depressed, peevish person masquerading as father, until the stroke of high noon; then there are large eats and much scratching of matches and voluminous clouds of smoke. His mornings are h—l, and his afternoons are heaven, says father, and one can well believe him; these clouds and shadows upon life, one observes, have nothing to do with money. But doesn't it pass belief what a little thing can alter the whole color of man's life, and cast him from a condition of comparative pleasure into the slough of despond?

However, these little breaks in the regular habit of the individual seem to be hygienically necessary. A man may, of course, mistreat himself shamefully, and still contrive to be up and around; but nobody cares to barely drag out an existence. Consider how many bales of tobacco father must have absorbed in perhaps forty years of uninterrupted pipe pulling! The health sharp comes along and tells him that he has enough surplus nicotine in his system to start a tobacco factory. And besides this there are about the same number of years given over to the indulgence of a farmhand's appetite without the farmhand's exercise. Father will put away a meal that would make a f. h. jealous, and then ride down town and sit in an office chair all day! He will stand this for 30 or 40 years and then complain that he is not feeling just right, and he wonders what is the matter with him!

When we come to consider father we recognize, at once, that he ought to have a guardian. There is where the very special health specialist comes in. He steps in and takes father's breakfast and his pipe away from him, and it is stand-off if he does not also take his lunch and his dinner away from him before his rigorous course is completed. And when all is done, father is either stepping high, like a blind horse, and feeling his oats, or the boys around the office are chipping in to buy him a wreath. It's a long chance, but he has to take it. Having enjoyed his own flat-headed and entirely erroneous way for 40 years, it is high time somebody was stepping in and telling him what to do. The great mistake, with most human beings, is that their parents stop spanking them too early in life.

Tax of Idleness.

It would be thought a hard government that should tax its people one-tenth part of their time, to be employed in its service. But idleness taxes many of us much more, if we reckon all that is spent in absolute sloth, or in doing nothing; with that which is spent in idle employments or amusements that amount to nothing. Sloth, like rust, consumes faster than labor wears; while the used key is always bright, as Poor Richard says.—Franklin.

Small Brain Puzzled.

While Lewis was visiting his grandmother's his aunt also came for a visit, arriving on the train known as the milk train. After pondering it over in his little brain for some time, Lewis turned to me and said: "Mamma, how do they milk the milk train?"

The Reason.

"We have many men interested on our side against suffrage."
"That proves nothing. It is always easy to get men interested in the anti."

Much Room in British Guiana.

Of the total area of British Guiana, 57,777,280 acres, only 198,352 acres were under cultivation in 1915, an increase of 50,033 acres since 1913. The population is a little more than three to each square mile.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

MRS. CANADA LYNX.

"Aren't we good children?" asked the three little lynx kittens of their mother, Mrs. Canada Lynx.

"Yes, you're good children," said their mother, "and one of the reasons is that you do not leave your mother too soon. You stay with your mother a long, long time, and she teaches you and tells you what a nice young lynx should know."

"How long does a lynx child usually stay with its mother?" asked one of her children.

"Ah, my children, and my friends' children stay with their mothers until they're a year old. That is, until the children are a year old."

"By that time you have learned a great deal. Of course there are folks who keep their children with them for much longer than that. But that isn't necessary. I do not approve of creatures letting their children go forth before they are a year old or almost of that age. But neither do I approve of keeping children home until they're quite, quite ancient, really, really old."

"But when you're a year old, my precious kittens, you shall go forth and seek your fortunes. You may not do very well because you aren't so awfully bright. That is, you are bright enough, but you're not one of the most intelligent animals that ever lived."

"I don't believe you will try to become so very wise, either; lynx children never have."

"Mother," said one of her children, "you called us your kittens, but aren't we little lynx children?"

"I called you both, didn't I?" asked their mother. "I called you my lynx children and my kittens."

"But which are we?" they asked.

"Both," answered their mother. "How can we be?" they asked.

"It's quite possible," said their mother, "just as a little girl can be both a child and a little girl, so can you be a kitten and a lynx."

"Lynx is the family name, of course, but we're of the family of cats, and we're quite near relatives."

"We have four long legs and little bodies and tiny tails and tufted ears, though, come to think of it, our bodies aren't so little. No, not so little."

"And as I am a big cat, you see, so you are my little kittens."

"Ah, what lovely little kittens you were with your spots and hands looking like your ancestors, the ocelots and tiger cats. You were so beautifully marked, my loves. And you will have a beautiful fur coat like your mother and your feet will be furred so you will not feel the cold when you go about where there is snow.

"I Am a Big Cat."

"Before you leave me, dears, you must remember to tell anyone who says such a thing that we do not attack people. We go after hares more than anything else, and we like small foxes and mice and squirrels and birds, but not people."

"No, they needn't flatter themselves. We don't want to eat them, and we won't, so there! That is most important for you to know."

"But now, as you're not quite old enough, my kittens, you will stay with your mother and take still another hunting trip with her, for we'll get plenty of good things to eat!"

And off they started, a very beautiful but not particularly brave or wonderful family.

"Whatever else folks say of me," said Mrs. Canada Lynx, "at least I'm a good mother."

"You are," said her children, "but you haven't much trouble with us, we're good children and we take right after you and your ways!"

"That's why I keep you with me as long as I do," said Mrs. Canada Lynx, "to make sure that you keep up the family name and ways and history and habits of the Canada Lynx family."

"But now let's leap and bound, for we must be off a-hunting."

AMERICAN TROOPSHIP DEKALB ON FIRE

Germany Accused of Taking 26,000 Dogs

Paris.—The French ministry of agriculture has lodged with the commission of war damages a claim for 26,000 dogs alleged to have been stolen by the Germans during the war. The ministry specifies some of the thefts, naming specially six valuable setters taken by the German crown prince and a prize pointer taken by General Von Kluck.

Germans Grew to College.

German newspapers say 41,000 more students enrolled in the universities of Germany than in 1914. In the year of the beginning of the war there were 50,000 students enrolled, while in 1919 there are approximately 91,000. This represents an increase of nearly 2,000 each for each of the 23 national universities. In 11 technical schools more than 14,500 have enrolled.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

HEAT-PRODUCING FOODS.

Our thoughts determine our acts and therefore our lives, as well as the influence of our lives upon all about us, either by way of good or by way of hindrance, with absolute precision.—Ralph Waldo Trine.

During the winter months in the northern states pork and other fat meats are commonly served, as in cool weather the body is more active, burns up more fuel and is able to digest heavy and heartier foods.

Broiled Pork Tenderloin.—Split the tenderloin in two and broil under the gas flame or over coals. Have the heat intense at first and sear the meat on both sides to hold the juices. Reduce the heat and when the meat is puffed and nicely brown remove to a hot platter. Season with salt, pepper and bits of butter.

Stuffed Pork Tenderloin.—Select medium-sized tenderloins, wipe with a soft cloth dipped in cold water. Split the meat lengthwise, making a slight incision with a sharp knife, then pulling the muscle until it is almost split in two. Make a dressing of bread, salt, pepper, summer savory, onion juice, and moisten with water. Spread the dressing on the split side of the meat, remembering that it swells with cooking. Place a second tenderloin over the dressing. Sew the edges together with coarse thread. Place in a buttered pan with a cupful of hot water. Bake in a moderately hot oven for three-quarters of an hour, lowering the heat after the first twenty minutes. Put a few bits of butter in the pan and baste frequently. One tenderloin may be used for a small family.

Pork Tenderloin French Style.—Wipe the tenderloin carefully and with a sharp knife cut into slices about an inch thick across the tenderloin. Round the pointed ends of each and pound each piece to flatten it. Season with salt, pepper and roll in flour. Have ready smoking hot fat. Drop in the meat and turn at once in order to form a crust on both sides. Continue cooking at a lower temperature and cook for twenty minutes. Turn off the fat, except two tablespoonfuls. Add three tablespoonfuls of flour and a little salt. As soon as the flour is a golden brown, add milk and stir vigorously to keep the gravy smooth. Add milk until the gravy is a trifle thin. Season to taste and pour around the meat.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

Benjamin Franklin gave this advice to a young man: "Keep an exact account both of your expenses and your income. If you take the pains at first to mention particulars, it will have this good effect—you will discover how wonderfully small, trifling expenses mount up to large sums, and will discover what might have been and may for the future be saved without occasioning any great inconvenience."

This is the time of year when rich cakes like fruit cakes and puddings made of suet and fruit are most enjoyed. With butter and egg at such prices, most housewives will curtail the rich cake making.

Fruit Cake.—Take one pound each of butter and sugar, twelve eggs, one cupful of New Orleans molasses, one cupful of very strong coffee infusion, one pound of flour browned to a medium brown, two pounds of seeded raisins, two pounds of currants or salted raisins, one pound of candied cherries, one pound of citron, sliced very thin, two tablespoonfuls of ground cinnamon, one tablespoonful of cloves, one small nutmeg grated, and one teaspoonful of black pepper. Add one teaspoonful of soda to the molasses. Add more flour if needed and use it unbrowned. Mix and bake in a slow oven.

Delicate Cake With Fudge Frosting.—Take one-half cupful of butter, one cupful of sugar, two egg yolks, one-half cupful of milk, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, half a teaspoonful of mace, and two egg whites beaten stiff and folded in at the last. Bake in a six by ten-inch pan and cover with the following frosting:

Mild quince are improved by the addition of lemon juice and rind. Apples and pears are commonly used with the highly seasoned quince, which combination makes a fine-flavored preserve.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

God's great out-of-doors is ever calling, and if we do not heed its call it will send us in bills that will call for heavy and sometimes frightful settlements.

At this season sweetmeats are very popular. The following is wholesome and not hard to prepare:

Nut, Date and Chocolate Sweetmeat.—Heat four tablespoonfuls of honey or maple sirup to the boiling point; add half a pound of the slightly sweet dipping chocolate and let stand over hot water until the chocolate is soft; add one package of dates, cut from the seeds in small even pieces, half a cupful of blanched almonds, cut in shreds and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Mix well with a wooden spoon to blend thoroughly. Have ready some biscuit tin or a brick mold lined with parchment paper. Press the mixture into the mold and cover with paper, then lay on a weight. Let stand six hours to ripen.

Fruit Cup.—For five glasses take one orange, three bananas, half a package of dates, one cupful of white grapes, measured after they are skinned, cut in halves and seeded, 12 pistachio nuts, the juice of half a lemon and three-fourths of a cupful of cream. Remove all the peeling and membrane from the orange, separate into sections and cut each in halves crosswise. Peel the banana, scrape to remove the threads, cut in thin, even slices and squeeze over them the juice of half a lemon. Pour boiling water over the dates, drain and place on a dish to dry in a hot oven, then remove the pits and cut in sections. Mix all the fruit together, then dispose in glasses, pouring the fruit sirup over it. Whip the cream and pipe it above the fruit; serve very cold.

WHAT TO EAT.

Every child has the inalienable right to be loved; to have its individuality respected; to be trained wisely to mind, body and soul; to be protected from disease, from evil influences and evil persons and to have a fair chance in life. That state is delinquent which does not ceaselessly strive to secure these inalienable rights to its children.—Indiana's Child Creed.

If the family have good appetites, the planning of a meal is not such a problem as it is with fussy, finicky people, who have troublesome digestions. Almost anybody can digest such a dish as the following, however:

Apple Snow.—Pare and quarter tart apples, add boiling water and cook until tender. Press through a sieve. To two cupfuls of pulp add a half cupful of honey and the grated rind of half a lemon, with the juice. Heat to the boiling point, add one and one-half tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatine softened in one-third of a cupful of cold water, and stir until the gelatine is melted. Chill, and when the mixture begins to jelly, add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, and beat with a Dover egg beater until very fine. Turn into a mold, and when firm, serve unmolded with cream or boiled custard.

Compote of Bananas.—Make a sirup of sugar or honey and half a cupful of water. Peel and scrape two or three bananas, then cut in thin slices; add to the sirup and boil, shaking the pan to cook all sides evenly. Add a little lemon rind or orange rind for flavor to the sirup. Skin the bananas as they soften, to a plate. When all are cooked, hold down the sirup a little, and when cool add the bananas.

Fruit Salad.—For each service take a slice of pineapple, the flesh of one-fourth of a grapefruit, half a canned pear, three heart leaves of lettuce, two tablespoonfuls of fruit juice (canned fruit juice may be used), half a teaspoonful of lemon juice, two tablespoonfuls of olive oil and one-fourth of a teaspoonful each of salt and paprika. Arrange the fruit on the lettuce. Beat the salad dressing ingredients with a Dover egg beater, pour over the fruit, and serve at once.

To avoid monotony have a variety of breakfast foods. None of the foods named should be omitted from the daily diet. Plenty of fruit and vegetables are absolutely essential and do not stint them on wholesome fats. Plenty of butter or egg yolk with whole milk is another necessity.

CONVICTED OF TREASON BUT EXONERATED

Though only nineteen years old Lawrence Perlmutter of Brooklyn, has had enough experiences to last him a lifetime. He was the only American soldier convicted of treason during the war. He was captured by the Germans and a captain, made prisoner at the same time, swore Perlmutter had given the enemy information. Perlmutter insisted his statements to the German officers were untrue and intended to be misleading. He was convicted by a court-martial, however, and sentenced to 20 years in the military prison at Fort Leavenworth.

Representative Isaac Siegel of New York became interested in the lad's case and Secretary Baker ordered Perlmutter's release after an investigation. The photograph shows Perlmutter with his mother, on the left, and his sister, Mrs. Gustave Katz.

Spitsbergen as Health Resort.

It is announced that a British concern which has acquired an extensive concession in Spitsbergen, plans to establish a large sanatorium in that Ultima Thule of Europe. It will be especially designed for consumptives but the air is said to have a bracing quality, making it favorable for other classes of invalids. Presumably the sanatorium will be inhabited only during the summer months. A warm marine current gives to the west coast of Spitsbergen a remarkably mild climate for its latitude. At Green Harbor, where a Norwegian meteorological observatory has been in operation for some years, providing daily reports by wireless to the weather services of Europe, the average maximum summer temperature is 50 degrees Fahrenheit.—Scientific American.

A POUNDING
 One night when the clouds were floating by,
 And the sun had set in the western sky,
 There came a gentle rap upon our door
 And we looked in faces we'd seen oft before.
 And when the door was opened wide,
 A goodly crowd marched inside,
 What did they have? Well, we can hardly tell.
 For they brought in flour, sugar as well,
 Fruit, canned goods and fine ham meat,
 And most every thing that is good to eat.
 And they kept bringing in as long as able
 All things suitable for kitchen and table.
 And all of the nice things that came,
 It would take us a long, long time to name.
 Pray don't think that's all that the faithful bring.
 For they brought dollars, too, in the name of our King
 And our hearts are filled with thankfulness
 For this "great big pounding" you gave to us.
 May the Saviour who died and taught us to give
 Bless you, and keep you as long as you live.
 May God restore you ten-fold more,
 To those who gave from home or store,
 For He says in His word, which we believe,
 "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

With many, many thanks,
 Rev. L. B. SMITH and wife.

ART WORKS ON LARGE SCALE

Interesting Figures Concerning Decorations for Lincoln Memorial Building at Washington.

Simply to stretch the canvas, says
Jesse Lynch Williams, describing in Scribner's Magazine how Jules Guerin painted the decorations for the Lincoln Memorial building in Washington, required eight men, which is less surprising when one realizes that each figure in the groups Mr. Guerin was about to paint is a good deal larger than the painter himself. One agrees with the writer, that although such details are not necessary to art appreciation, it is interesting to know that the two unpainted canvases cost $400 apiece, and that when the artist finished his work
the paint he had used added 150 pounds to their weight. And because the paintings will be somewhat exposed to weather, the paint was mixed with wax.
In a way which chemical analysis shows was done to weatherproof painting when the ancient kings of Egypt were erecting memorial buildings.

Too Much Publicity.

"I like the old-fashioned courtship best."

"How was that?"

"Well, the young man and his best girl sat on a horsehair sofa in a dimly lighted parlor and held hands, or paddled up and down a river in a canoe, or strolled through the wildwood, or took a spin behind old Dobbin."

"And now?"

"There's too much publicity in the motor courtship. Every dealer in gasoline and auto supplies within a radius of fifty miles knows what's going on."

MADE QUICK CHANGE OF MIND

School Principal Revised Her Opinion
as to the Necessity for Immediate Action.

For several days the little field mice had been coming from the fields into a small-town school building. The younger teachers were frightened and sent to the store for a quantity of poison.
They were mixing it with bread crumbs when the principal arrived. On her question as to when they were going to put out the paste they answered,
"Immediately."

"But you can't do that," she protested. "It would be in the way. Wait until tonight. One more day with mice around you won't make any difference in the long run."

The teachers were uneasily silent.
And then came a frightened little squeak and a mouse ran right across the room, close to the principal's feet.
She gave a decided shiver, an imitation of a dance of modern mention and then turned to the janitor, who was standing near. "John," she said, severely, "we'll put out that rat poison right away. Do you hear?"

Conflicting Accounts.

Little Helen—Mamma, the minister told me today that God gave me to you.

Mother—Well, he did, my dear.

Helen—Then somebody isn't telling the truth. I heard auntie telling Mrs.
Brown that the court gave me to you.

The Tenaja district of Colfax county, N. M., will dedicate a new $5,000 school on Lincoln's birthday. Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction John V. Conway, was advised in a letter from County School Superintendent R. C. Bonney.

R. M. Johnson, a brakeman on the

with a live wire. He was badly burned about the legs and body and was unconscious for nearly six hours after the accident.

The Bank of Springer, N. M., became the First National bank on January 1, and at the present time is regarded as one of the most solid institutions in the state. The bank was organized in the early 80's in connection with the Springer Mercantile Company and became the Bank of Springer under the territorial laws in 1905.

Almost trebling its receipts of 1918, the Arizona State Land Board took in $774,595.49 for the year 1919, according to figures submitted by Sales Agent George A. MacDonald. The land department represented an annual deficit to the state up to the year 1915, MacDonald says, and since then has been showing bigger receipts for every year.

Boys in the agricultural department of the Colfax county high school at Raton, N. M., a Smith-Hughes institution, made their experimental work pay them well. E. D. Smith, supervisor of vocational agriculture, who made a visit to Raton, found that they made an income of from $300 to $500 from their projects last summer.
One who planted wheat got an income of $450 from his crop.

An important change in the administration of leased lands of the state came into effect through the signing of an order by Samuel L. Pattee, judge of the Superior Court, making house bill number 60 a law. The law revises the state land code of Arizona and abolishes the long recognized but unsatisfactory system of "dummy tenantry," which stockmen were believed to be using in order to rent lands in the state domain in the proportions that their interests required.

Denying his right to occupy downtown offices in Phoenix at the expense of the state while regular offices are furnished him in the Capitol building, Attorney General Wiley E.
Jones of Arizona announced that he proposes to continue his use of the extra downtown offices and that he will pay the bill therefor out of his own pocket, if necessary, but that he believes there will be no occasion to do so and that he hopes the governor and the public in general will judge him
as he judges himself.

That auto tourists are being given some wrong advice about Arizona roads and are being routed from El Paso and Deming by way of Bowie, Wilcox and Benson, instead of the borderland route through Douglas, ment of J. S. Williams, contractor, who has been working for the last few months on the grading and surfacing of the highway through Wilcox dry lake.

The school budget for New Mexico
for the present school year ending June 30, 1920, amounts to $3,748,575, says the Taxpayers' Association of New Mexico. For comparison it may be stated that the expenditures for the state fiscal year ending November 30, 1918, were $2,858,706.80 and for the previous fiscal year, $2,338, 015.56. Of the total of three and three-quarter millions that will be expended during the present year, nearly $3,000,000 will accrue from the 1919 state, county and district school levies.
It may be mentioned in passing that more than one-third of the taxes levied in New Mexico are devoted to the support of the public elementary and high schools.

Hiding Behind The Skirts Of Mother Holland

To all who are familiar with the past history and attitude of the Dutch government, the recent announcement of its refusal to turn over the arch enemy of justice, Wm. Hohenzollern to the supreme court of the allies for trial will be no surprise. Holland has for centuries been a haven of refuge for dethroned kings, vanquished leaders and notwithstanding the many wrongs heaped upon the little country during the late war by the ex-Kaiser it now refuses to depart from its time honored custom of sheltering the loser in the last struggle.

Aside from this, the Dutch government takes the stand and wisely, some believe, that if he has committed crimes in Germany, the demand for his surrender should come from Germany and as we understand Holland's note she gives the hint to the allies that they should make that demand on Germany which in turn would be a request, or demand that the Dutch government turn over the fiend for trial. Holland has no more love for William than other countries; they are not unmindful of the fact that they only stayed his march of intervention by a threat of opening the big sea walls and turning the waters of the ocean in on his armies at the expense of rendering the land useless for twenty-five years to follow, should he carry out his scheme. With this and other insults and injuries, the game little Dutch government is not only willing, but anxious to be rid of the bone of contention.

The ex-Kaiser stands convicted before the eyes of the civilized world; to find a court that would give him an impartial trial would be an impossibility. Therefore, it would seem that the only thing to do in justice to him would be to fix the penalty, inasmuch as the world has already condemned him. The high courts of the allies are now in session and the law abiding, liberty loving, crime condemning ears of the world are listening and waiting for the next move. In the meantime, the once mighty Kaiser is crouching behind the skirts of Mother Holland, trembling at the sight of the lash which sooner or later will reach him.

As a token of their appreciation of his services, the inhabitants of Flume, in mass meeting assembled, adopted a resolution asking d'Annunzio to leave the city pronto.

BEST SOIL FOR GROWING TUBERS

Sandy or Gravelly Loams Are Best Adapted for Success With Potatoes.

PLANT FOOD IS IMPORTANT

Never Advisable to Turn Up More Than One Inch of Raw Subsoil at One Plowing—Land Should Be Pulverized.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The types of soil in which the potato plant thrives best are those designated as sandy or gravelly loam soils. It may be grown with a fair degree of success on any type of soil except loose sand and a heavy, sticky clay soil, provided the land is well drained and contains the necessary plant food.

Successful potato production is dependent to a large extent on the thoroughness with which the land is prepared before planting the crop. Where a horse can be used, the land should be plowed from 8 to 10 inches deep, provided the surface soil is of a sufficient depth to permit it. It is never advisable to turn up more than one inch of raw subsoil at any one plowing, so if previous plowings have not been over 6 inches the maximum depth at which it should be plowed is 7 inches.

Thoroughly Pulverized.

Whether the land is plowed or spaded, it should be thoroughly pulverized immediately afterwards. It is a bad practice to allow the freshly turned soil to bake in the sun and wind, and thereby become cloddy.

Where horse labor can be used, the land after plowing should be thoroughly disked first, then spring-toothed, and finally finished with a smoothing harrow. Where land must be prepared by hand, it is good practice to pulverize the soil as much as possible when spading it up, after which it can be put in a fine condition of mellowness with a steel garden rake. The importance of thoroughly fining the soil cannot be overemphasized.

A Good Example of Digging Potatoes in Old Way.

sized, for it increases the water-holding capacity of the soil, renders more plant food available, and reduces the number of weeds.

When to Plant Potatoes.

The date of planting necessarily must be governed by climatic conditions. In attempting to produce an early crop as possible, some risk must always be incurred of the plants being injured by late spring frosts. As a general proposition, it is best to plant potatoes as soon as there is little likelihood of killing frosts after the plants are up and the ground is in condition to work.

WAR ON WHEAT SMUT WIDENS

Sales of Formaldehyde Demonstrate Desire of Farmers to Drive Out Insidious Disease.

That farmers are tremendously in earnest in their desire to drive out wheat smut is shown by the big increase in the sales of formaldehyde which have been made in four states where the United States department of agriculture, in co-operation with the extension departments of the state agricultural colleges, has been carrying on campaigns of education to demonstrate the proper use of formaldehyde in treating wheat for this disease. Reports from these states show that the increase in the sales of formaldehyde for the current year varies from 150 to 325 per cent, as compared with the sales of 1917, the last year before the present campaign was inaugurated. The four states in which this record has been made are Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Montana. There is every reason to believe that practically all of this increase represents supplies used in fighting smut.

1½ to 3 inches deep, depending upon the character of the soil—the lighter the soil the greater the depth of planting. Larger sets may be planted 4 inches deep.

Spacing.

If an early variety is planted, and the work is to be done by hand, the rows may be spaced as close as 20 inches, whereas if cultivation is to be done with a horse, 30 to 34 inches usually is allowed. In order to give the gardener some idea of the number of sets required to plant a plot of ground 50 by 100 feet at different spacings, the following table is submitted.

If a late variety is planted, the spacing should be greater, say 34 to 38 inches between the rows and 12 to 13 inches between the plants in the row.

ONE-PIECE EFFECT

New Blouse Fitted Around Hips, Colors Matching Skirt.

Recently Designed Model Fills Long-Felt Need in Discriminating Woman's Wardrobe.

Overblouses are growing in favor since designers have brought out new models that have some distinction and individuality to them. The old Russian type of blouse was not very popular and the later model with straight panel down the front had the appearance of a negligee. The newer overblouses are fitted around the hips and may be obtained in colors matching the skirt of the suit, thus giving the effect of a one-piece dress.

The buyer in the blouse department of a large mid-Western store has designed a blouse of this type that is particularly attractive. It is tight-fitting through the shoulders and has a panel that is fastened straight across the chest in front and slopes off to the undergarment seams with a slight fullness at the waistline. At the hips it is finished with a narrow fringe that covers the break between the blouse and skirt.

The overblouse seemed to fill a long-felt need in the discriminating woman's wardrobe. While the regulation blouse has been a thing of beauty in the last five years, it was kept from being a joy forever simply because of the fact that when worn with a skirt it did not look like a complete costume. Therefore, the overblouse was hailed with delight, since it gave becoming lines to the wearer and preserved the appearance of a dress as well. But even the long overblouse did not retain its popularity for a long time, for it hid the top of the skirt.

The obvious solution to the problem is the short, loose overblouse that reaches only to the hip or above it. One New York manufacturer of waists is showing a number of the hip-length overblouses, designed by his wife. One of these is made of beige georgette, cut in one-piece, butterfly fashion, says Daily Garment News.

The V neck and short sleeves are piped with narrow shaded ombre ribbon that ties in a bow at the bottom buttoned buck.

The front of the blouse is decorated with a large spreading sunburst design embroidered in cut steel and jet bugle beads. Tiny loops and buttons fasten the small slits at the sides of the waist.

BLOUSE OF WHITE CHIFFON

This is a charming blouse of white chiffon with fringes and white silk braid. It is designed with a "V" neck and tight-fitting cuffs.

BROWN DUVETYN COAT DRESS

This coat dress of brown duvetyne is very unusual. The shawl collar and bands about the exceedingly short skirt are of sable squirrel.

FITTINGS IN NEW HANDBAGS

So Complete Is Equipment That Cocktail Set, Cigarette and Match Cases Are Provided.

Much importance is attached to hand bags and their fittings. So complete are some of these fittings in the new bags, a motion picture actress could carry about a complete close-up makeup within its shallow depths.

The full equipment includes mirror, powder box, lip stick, nail file, button hook, cold cream box, scent bottle, memorandum pad and pencil. One ultra smart model includes a compact cocktail set, four small bottles in a case. Others have cigarette and match cases.

An Egg Outline.

The vanguard driver will be the barrel cape wrap in duvetyne or heavy satin, which is lined throughout with squirrel, beaver or—if expense has not to be considered—mink. These wraps have the outline of an egg. They are pulled on over the head, at the sides there are slits for the hands and they are finished off with a small fur collar, which fastens tight round the neck. Or a long, straight tie of duvetyne is added and thrown over one shoulder.

All-Winter Hats.

Hats in delicate pastel colorings. It is believed by some milliners, will be worn all through the winter season to a considerable extent, but this will not lessen the popularity of the useful, generally becoming hat of black velvet.

Avoid Striped Material in Home

Proper Selection of Decorations for the Home as Important as for Gowns.

Just as the short, plump woman must avoid horizontal stripes and her slender sister eschew vertical ones, so must the walls of the narrow, high ceilinged room be forbidden striped paper and its windows vertical striped curtains. But the low-ceilinged, low-windowed room can revel in paper with stripes and with curtains that are striped-lined from casing rods to slits.

A valance of striped material, the lines running horizontally, will apparently cut down the height and broaden a too-high window, and stripes applied to the hem of a plain color or lightly figured curtain will have the same effect.

Bold stripes are trying in any but the most bizarre decorative schemes. Shadowy, indistinct stripes, self-colored, perhaps, are far more pleasing for everyday use. In general, striped materials should be avoided when much cutting and piecing must be done, for joining stripes at seams almost always leaves much to be desired.

But stripes can be used for the loose cushions of a chair whose framework is covered with plain material. A low-backed chair with arms almost as high as its back is preserved from a squatly appearance if the back cushion is perpendicularly striped.

Striped cushions with willow furniture are generally mistakes. The willow work has too many lines of its own.

Stripes of various widths, the wider stripes patterned on dainty designs, are delightful for upholstery use on chairs of French origin when the woodwork is not at all heavy and perhaps delicately carved.

Irish Lace Again.

Neckwear of Irish crochet is rapidly returning to favor. Vests, sleeveless gowns, and standing collars are all in evidence.

CARE FOR ASPARAGUS ROOTS

Excellent Plan Is to Keep Them in Bundles of Fifty and Covered With Little Soil.

Are the asparagus roots to be planted next spring properly protected? They should be kept moist and cool. An excellent plan is to tie them in bundles of 50, pack in barrels and cover the barrels with leaves or straw, with a little soil to help retain the moisture.

UNPROFITABLE METHOD

Hegging down eye is an unprofitable practice, according to tests made in pork production at the Ohio experiment station. The tests show that it is generally more profitable to harvest the grain and sell it as a cash crop, or to feed the grain to hogs after threshing, rather than to allow the hogs to harvest the grain themselves.

REQUIREMENTS OF A FARMER

Should Have Ability to Make Full and Comfortable Living and Rear Family Carefully.

The requirements of a good farmer are at least four: The ability to make a full and comfortable living from the land; to rear a family carefully and well; to be of good service to the community; to leave the farm more productive than when he took it.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW OR SHOULD KNOW

As an evidence of the fact that the people of Carrizozo appreciate high class entertainment and appreciate the present course that is being given under the auspices of the Methodist Church, Mrs. Blanche Lawrence, representing the Redpath Lyceum Bureau of Denver and other large cities of the United States, came to town January 20, and signed up with a number of local business and professional men for another series of entertainments for the coming year. Every man approached on the matter signed the guarantee that will bring to Carrizozo the best series of entertainments ever staged here, the course will cost between $800 and $900 and will consist of the Colleens, the Dunbars, Bell Ringers, Montague Light Opera, Sidney Landon, in Character Studies, and the Artists Trio.

Three of these numbers will appear in El Paso and Roswell.

In this connection it might be well to state that the present course has yet three numbers to stage: Gay Zenola Mac Laren the Woodland Singers, Illusions and Music by Laurant.

Miss MacLaren will entertain Feb. 20th. Every one should boost for the present course and see that it is a success and that the men who have guaranteed it will not lose any money. No effort is being made to stage these courses as a money making proposition; they are being put on with the idea of giving people a high class series of entertainments at the lowest possible price.

T. E. Kelley, wife and children have returned from Albuquerque where Mr. Kelley attended a meeting of the State Hardware dealers of New Mexico. Before the meeting closed, the Winchester people, who have launched forth in the general hardware business, invited the delegates to a banquet which they attended in a body, the Winchester firm of course bearing the expenses of the same.

At this banquet, the announcement was made that the firm would hereafter sell to dealers direct, thus saving the jobber's profit which in turn, will reduce the cost of hardware, guns and ammunition to the consumers. The meeting on the whole was a decided success, many new names being added to the membership.
