CARLSBAD NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1913

NUMBER 46

LEGISLATOR GUILTY

LUCERO FOUND GUILTY—SEEKING A BRIBE.

After Eight Hours Deliberation Santa Fe Jury Convicts Member of State House of Representatives.

DEFENSE ARRAIGNS MEN WHO LAID TRAP.

Counsel for Prosecution Declares Not Guilty Verdict Would Equal Charge of Perjury Against Baca et al.

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 23.—J. P. Lucero, member of the lower house of the state legislature and a prominent figure in the Room 44 episode of the first session of that body, was early this morning found guilty of solicitation of bribery, the jury in his case returning a verdict at 1 a. m., after having been out eight hours.

Because the attorney for the defendant, E. P. Davies, was absent from Santa Fe, at the time the verdict was returned, the usual motions for a reversal of findings, new trial, etc., were not made. If necessary appeal will be taken to the state supreme court.

The charges against Lucero implicate also three other members of the house of representatives. These are Luis R. Montoya, Julian Trujillo and Manuel Cordova. They arose out of alleged events in connection with the election of one of the United States senators from New Mexico, selected at the first session.

The four men were charged with offering, for a price, to vote for a candidate to be named by the man to whom they are alleged to have made the offer, Elfege Baca. The prosecution's side of the story continues to the effect that Baca, with certain prominent Republicans, arranged a trap for these men; hid Apolonio A. Sena, then a member of the state mounted police force, in a bathroom adjoining Room 44, occupied by Baca; arranged for Baca to turn over certain sums of money to the four men, and then had all four arrested. It is claimed they were arrested with the money in their hands.

The men themselves disclaim any corrupt intention or act. They asserted that they had gone to Baca's room at his request and that they did not know why he should give them money.

The four were tried by the house and acquitted. The matter was later taken up by the grand jury for Santa Fe county and they were indicted. Lucero's trial is the first to be held. The other three will not be tried until the next term of court.

The prosecution's chief efforts centered around the testimony of A. A. Sena, Col. Venceslao Jaramillo, Elfege Baca and Col. Jose D. Sena. These men furnished the backbone of the story.

Many dramatic moments featured the trial which closed this morning. One of these came when Edward R. Wright one of the counsel for the prosecution, declared yesterday that failure to find a verdict of guilty amounted to a charge of perjury directed at the four principal witnesses named. Judge Wright said:

"The only way you gentlemen can bring in a verdict of not guilty is to believe that these four witnesses for the state, Col. Jose D. Sena, Col. Venceslao Jaramillo, Elfege Baca and Apolonio A. Sena, deliberately and in cold blood committed perjury. If you should return a verdict of not guilty that is what it would mean."

This statement promptly brought an exception from the defense, but it was overruled, Judge E. C. Abbott holding that it was not improper.

E. P. Davies, for the defense, severely scored the men responsible for the "trap", imputing to them the intention of disciplining the four men for failure to obey party mandates issued by themselves.

He said in part: "These men who had controlled the destinies of the party of the state, whose will had been law, who had the say of what was proper, and what was not, saw fit therefore to plan a trap, a damnable trap to catch these four men."

"That's why they had Elfege Baca invite them into that room No. 44. They said: 'How will that man Lucero and his colleagues dare deny the word of Venceslao Jaramillo, or of Elfege Baca, or of Col. Jose D.

Sena? We are prominent men, we are the Republican party itself. We are the people who say who shall run for the legislature, who shall run for district attorney, and who shall run for offices, so on, down the line!"

"Will these poor farmers from Rio Arriba and Taos counties dare deny our word?"

Mr. Davies spurned the idea that the trap had been planned and sprung in the interests of party purity as had been advanced by some, and declared that whatever the men had done was but the "practice of methods taught them by those who condemned them."

CURRY COUNTY HAS RECORD FOR SILO BUILDING.

It is Believed It Has More of Them Than Any Other County, or More Than Those in Entire State Combined.

Clovis, N. M., Sept. 22.—It is believed that Curry county holds the New Mexico record for silo building for the year 1913. It is also believed that Curry county has more silos at this writing than the rest of the state of New Mexico together. This last statement may not be quite accurate but it will not miss the mark far. There are in Curry county now, as the result of the activity of the Clovis chamber of commerce, which is the largest chamber of commerce in the state, having a membership of 558, twenty-two silos, most of them with a capacity of more than 100 tons, and some of them with a capacity of more than 200 tons. Twenty-one of the twenty-two in existence in this county were built this year and as a direct result of the campaign for silos—better farming, inaugurated by the Clovis chamber of commerce on "Silo Day," about six weeks ago.

The chamber of commerce raised cash bonuses and provided liberal cash offerings to the eight Curry county farmers who would first complete and report to the silo committee, a silo underground or overground, of a capacity of not less than fifty tons. With this following closely "Silo Day," and it is estimated that not less than 2,000 farmers and visitors gathered under the big chamber of commerce fair tent which was stretched in the main street of the city, to hear men of note and experience in southwestern scientific farming with the silo as a helper, lecture upon the virtue of the silo to this particular section of the southwest.

Curry county now has as a result nearly two dozen silos and others are reported building this week. One or two farmers have built two silos on the same farm to accommodate the big crops raised this year. Perhaps half of the silos in this county are underground, being of an average diameter of sixteen feet and sunk into the ground from thirty to fifty feet, while others are of the octagon style, built of two-by-fours laid flat and built from the ground upward, and then the stave kind. The underground silo is plastered with one or two coats of regular cistern cement, and it is thought that they are by far the best for this section, where no water is encountered in the digging of the pit. The cost of the underground silos is less by half, and even two-thirds in some instances, than the cost of the overground kind.

President B. D. Oldham of the chamber of commerce, as well as of a good many other philanthropic undertakings, is the big force behind the silo move. He encouraged the building of silos two years ago and there was one put in in 1912 by C. M. Steed, a dairyman, near the city. He claims that he paid for the silo, which was one of the underground variety and cost less than $120, the first winter he fed his milk cows from it. He had the facts and figures from which to make comparisons, which were overwhelmingly convincing to the most pessimistic. From then the good work began.

Mr. Oldham is not only the president of the biggest chamber of commerce in the state of New Mexico, but he is also the president of the West Texas and New Mexico Organization of Commercial clubs, which held their first annual meeting at Tucumcari last month and mapped out a big program of good road building, silo construction and real scientific farming, whether by irrigation or "dry" farming. Mr. Oldham is also president of the Curry county fair and proposes to make it one of the biggest in the state this year.

Clovis wants to hear from the rest of the state which has become interested in the silo, and to know whether there is another such record as it possesses.

WATER CO. SCANDAL

The grand jury for Santa Fe county concluded its labors for the present term of the district court for this district last Thursday afternoon. On Thursday forenoon four indictments were returned and in the afternoon four more were returned.

Of the indictments which were returned in the forenoon one was against George W. Armijo and one against Nathan Salmon for bribery in connection with a renewal of the water company's franchise. It will be remembered that, some months ago, quite a scandal was created by the announcement that it was currently reported that the water company would have to put up $20,000 in order to secure a renewal of its franchise and this was about the time that considerable complaint was made on account of the water service and the quality of the water that was furnished to city consumers. President Street of the water company, came out from New York and remained here for some time when the matter was being agitated, and it now develops that preparations were then made to bring the matter before the grand jury at this term of the district court.

Of the four indictments returned in the afternoon, one was of Frank Owen, manager of the water and light company, for bribery in connection with the same matter. The testimony before the grand jury is, of course, not public property, but it is charged that the proposition was made to secure a renewal of the company's franchise for the sum of $20,000.—Santa Fe Eagle.

CURRY'S WEDDING IS SURPRISE TO CONGRESSMEN

From the Washington Post.

Former Representative George Curry of New Mexico, former governor of Mindanao, chief of police of Manila, and captain in Roosevelt's Rough Riders, yesterday eloped to Rockville, Md., where he was married to Miss Martha Cora Gans, who gave her age as 21, and her residence as Uniontown, Pa. Mr. Curry, who served during the second session of the Sixty-second congress, gave his age as 48, and his residence as Tularosa.

That the elopement was sudden was indicated by the fact that Mr. Curry was forced to call upon a friend in Rockville to act as the best man and witness. The trip was made in an automobile engaged at a hotel here. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. Curry and his girl-bride left for Washington. It is understood that they went on their wedding journey, which will take them to New Mexico. Surprise to Congressmen.

Considerable surprise was ex-ment, but beyond that said nothing of future plans. It is understood that Miss Gans is the daughter of a wealthy merchant of Virginia, who moved to Uniontown, Pa., from Virginia seven years ago. It was impossible to get into touch with her parents last night over the long distance telephone, nor could Mr. Curry and his bride be found.

Mr. Curry is one of the most picturesque figures that ever graced the halls of congress. Born in Louisiana, he migrated to New Mexico at an early age. He fought Indians, trapped, and was a post trader for a number of years. He joined Col. Roosevelt's Rough Riders as a lieutenant and attained a captaincy. Col. Roosevelt sent him to the Philippines, and later appointed him as governor of New Mexico when that state was a territory.

No Objection to Age. Another article in the Washington Post of September 13, disposes of the statement that the bride's parents objected to George Curry's age (Curry was born April 3, 1863 according to "Representative New Mexicans" which published a picture of the former governor). The article is as follows:

"Former Representative and former Gov. George Curry, of New Mexico, and his beautiful bride, to whom he was married in Rockville on Thursday as announced in yesterday's Post will leave Washington today for a short wedding trip, which will bring them back to the National Capital next Tuesday, when Mr. Curry has some business engagements. Later they will journey to Uniontown, Pa., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gans, parents of the young bride."

"Mr. Curry was busy yesterday at his apartments in the New Varnum Hotel receiving the congratulations of his friends."

Intended to Keep it Secret. "Mr. Curry had intended to keep secret the fact of his marriage, which came rather unexpectedly, until he and his bride visited their parents next week. The announcement of the marriage in The Post, however, caused him to telegraph the news of the wedding yesterday. He first met his bride in Atlantic City, and the courtship extended over several years."

"The couple became engaged several months ago, but the wedding date was not fixed as the parents of the girl objected on the grounds that they wished her to marry a Uniontown man and not reside so far from them as New Mexico. Miss Gans, whose father is said to be a wealthy coal operator came to Washington last Wednesday to arrange a date for the wedding. After the couple had talked it over, however, they decided not to wait, and hurried to Rockville, returning here Thursday night for a Centre party and wedding supper at the New Ebbitt."

Bride a Petit Blonde.

"Miss Gans, who is a striking blonde, petite, and richly gowned in the latest fashion, was adverse to any further publicity, as, she said, she does not like her name to appear in the papers. Mr. Curry also desired nothing further said."

"We shall, of course, live in New Mexico, he stated, and as the only objection which my wife's parents had to our marriage was the fact that we would live so far from Uniontown, we are confident that when we visit them next week we will receive their forgiveness and blessing."

Roof Caves In; Children Have Close Shave.

Las Cruces, N. M., Sept. 22.—An accident which might have resulted seriously occurred here when the roof of the kitchen and store room at the Bonham residence which is now occupied by Nigel Flint and family, caved in, completely demolishing all the kitchen furnishings, consisting of a large iron range, gasoline stove, kitchen cabinet, tables, chairs, and other kitchen things.

Mr. and Mrs. Flint and children were in the kitchen just a few minutes before the cave-in occurred and had just gone to another part of the house while the children had run out to play in their play house which was in the store room. There was also in the store room a big dog house, and the children had just crawled in there to hide from their parents when the roof caved in.

Thinking their children were under the large mass of timbers and debris, Mr. and Mrs. Flint were nearly frantic until it was removed and they found both children safe without a scratch, although the dog house was covered with the broken adobes and splintered pieces of wood.

PEACE OFFICER SHOT

First Bloodshed Occurs in the Great Coal Strike Now Going on in Colorado.

MARSHAL LEE OF SEGUNDO IS VICTIM

Posse Scouring the Hills to Earn the Reward of $1,000 Offered for Arrest of Three.

Trinidad, Colo., Sept. 24.—Robert Lee, marshal at Segundo, a C. F. and I. C. camp, twelve miles west of this city, was shot and killed shortly after noon today by a foreign coal miner, name unknown, who, with two other foreigners, had been detected by Lee in the act of tearing up a small foot bridge at that camp. Lee was shot from his horse, the bullet striking him in the breast and penetrating a lung. The foreigners made their escape to the hills and are still at large. A posse has been organized and is scouring the hills.

At a late hour tonight, the chase for the murderer of Deputy Sheriff Bob Lee was abandoned until morning, the guards at the camps being doubled.

Tonight, a reward of $1,000 was offered for the arrest or for information that would lead to the arrest of the guilty. Five hundred dollars is offered by the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and $500 by Las Animas county over the signature of the sheriff.

Rumors are rife tonight as to cause of the killing and many stories are in circulation but none of them can be verified.

Lee was 38 years of age and had been marshal of Segundo for the past ten years. What effect this will have on the strike situation is not known. Frank J. Hayes stated that he deplored the killing and felt sure that miners did not commit the crime.

The body of Lee was brought to the city tonight and a coroner's inquest will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Carlsbadites in Santa Fe.

Charles Adams, a Carlsbad sheepman, is in the city for a few days.

M. S. Groves, member of the corporation commission, who has been spending two weeks at Carlsbad, returned to this city last night. His son, Francis, who was ill with typhoid fever is recovering, he says.

M. C. Stewart, sheriff of Eddy county, Roy Waller, assessor, and J. R. Holt, an Eddy county cattleman, are in the city, coming by auto from the Pecos valley.

Trespassing Means Death.

To trespass on the track of a railroad in Mexico at present is equivalent to death, according to James T. Gallatin, of Michigan City, Indiana, who reached Kansas City September 23 from Mexico City.

"Federal soldiers patrol the entire railroad right-of-way from Laredo to Mexico City," said Mr. Gallatin. "Anyone found on the tracks or near them is shot instantly. We passed at least two hundred bodies of Mexicans hanging from telegraph poles along the right-of-way. The guards would use the bodies for target practice."

Cold up North.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 24.—Colorado Wyoming, Utah and parts of New Mexico and Arizona experienced their first touch of winter last night and today. Snow or rain fell generally throughout Colorado and Wyoming with a considerable rainfall in northern New Mexico and Arizona. Freezing temperatures were reported from parts of Wyoming, Colorado, Arizona and Utah, to the district weather bureau here. There was a heavy frost in parts of Northern New Mexico. Heavy frosts or freezing weather predicted for this territory tonight.

Roswell loses the county high school. This is definite, but the exact vote will not be known until the returns from Cedar Canyon and Richland come in. These however will not effect the result in the end, as there are only some eleven to eighteen votes at Cedar Canyon and thirty at Richland—and either way they went would make no difference.

Roswell loses owing to the apathy of the city people in realizing the great benefit a county high school would mean. The outlying districts lose the advantage of having the school in the valley metropolis owing to jealousy and a feeling that taxes would be much increased.

It is said that Dexter has a petition out asking the county commissioners to call an election, making that town the seat of the high school for the county. Hagerman and Lake Arthur pressed last night in congressional circles, where Mr. Curry was well known, when it was learned that he had married. Since ending his service in congress, he had spent much time in Washington, and it is understood that Miss Gans was on a visit here to friends in the Lennox apartments on L street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets northwest. Mr. Curry was a constant visitor at the apartments, it is said. Just what caused the two to go to the Maryland town is not known, but it was said that the parents of the bride objected to the age of the bridegroom.

No Difficulty at Rockville. No difficulty was experienced in obtaining the license at Rockville, after which the pair hurried in their automobile to the residence of the Rev. Samuel R. White, who is a retired Baptist minister, and the pair were married. The bride and bridegroom then hurried to their waiting automobile and started again for Washington.

Since that time all positive trace of the pair have been lost, although it is said that they returned to Washington, prepared their baggage and left on their wedding trip.

Dr. Thomas Vinson, a druggist of Rockville, who has known Mr. Curry for a number of years said last night that Mr. Curry entered the drug store yesterday afternoon and asked him if he would be a witness, and the best man, at the wedding. Dr. Vinson agreed, and with the two hurried to the home of Dr. White, where the ceremony was performed. The bride, Dr. Vinson stated was a beautiful girl and seemed one of the happiest of brides.

Diggs and Caminetti Sentenced.
Maury L. Diggs, former state architect of California, was sentenced by Judge Van Fleet in the federal district court at San Francisco to serve two years in the state penitentiary at San Quentin and to pay a fine of $2,000 for violating the Mann white slave traffic act. F. Drow Caminetti was sentenced to eighteen months at the same penitentiary and to pay a fine of $1,500 for a similar offense. Sentences were imposed in the presence of an audience that filled the courtroom to its fullest capacity. Judge Van Fleet's words in sentencing the men were very impressive.

THE Melting of Molly

By MARIA THOMPSON DAVIESS

Copyright, 1912, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

SYNOPSIS

The teller of the story, Molly Carter, a young widow, awaiting the return of Al Bennett, an old flame, who is now a distinguished diplomat, tries to reduce weight. Her physician, adviser and next door neighbor is Dr. John, a widower and father of young Billy, whom Molly loves. Molly is surprised at play with Billy by Judge Wade, who is the most dignified and able man in Hillsboro. Billy comes over from next door with his father. Hillsboro receives a visit from Ruth Chester, a friend of Bennett, and Molly finds her delightful. Molly goes to the city for an outfit of clothing. Molly has trouble in reducing her weight. Billy's singing of an old love song about "Molly" under her window brings tears to her eyes. She flirts with Tom Pollard, her cousin, who is a "ladie" man. She decides to re-enter Hillsboro society by giving a dinner. The doctor catches her eating forbidden jam. Dr. John and Molly pay a visit to one of his patients, a young mother. She doesn't know whom she really wants to marry, but thinks she will accept Bennett. Tom invites Molly to a dance. Of all Molly's dances the one with Dr. John pleases her most. Preparations for the dinner are under way. Bennett is almost due in Hillsboro. Billy eats too much and becomes sick. At the dinner, which is a great success, Molly receives a telegram from Bennett asking permission to come to Hillsboro immediately. Judge Wade sends Molly a love letter, which Molly thinks is too long and formal. Billy tells Molly he and his father are going to Europe. Molly disputes the doctor's right to part her and Billy. Dr. John suggests Molly's marrying Bennett and the couple going with him and Billy to Europe. When Molly adds up to herself that she loves the doctor, when Bennett comes she flies to the doctor's office for refuge. The doctor and Molly admit their love for each other. He has been concealing his because he thought she was waiting for Bennett, whom Ruth loves.

LEAF ELEVENTH.

A Heart of Gold.

If there is a contagious thing in this world it is embarrassment. I never felt anything worse in all my life than the shame that swept over me in a great hot wave when that look came into his eyes and made me realize just exactly what I had been saying to him, about what, and how I had said it. I stood perfectly still, shook all over like a leaf and wondered if I would ever be able to raise my eyes from the ground. A dizzy, nauseated feeling for myself rose up in me against myself, and I was just about to turn on my heels and leave him, I hoped forever, when he came over and laid his hand on my shoulder. "Molly," he said in a voice that might have come down from heaven on dove wings. "You can't for a moment feel or think that I don't realize and appreciate what you have been to the motherless little chap, and for life I am yours at command, as he is. I really thought it would be a relief to you to have him taken away from you for just a little while right now, and I still think it is best, but not unless you can send. You shall have him back whenever you are ready for him, and at all times both he and I are at your service to the whole of our kingdoms. Just think the matter over, won't you, and decide what you want me to do?" Something in me died forever. I think, when he spoke to me like that, he's not like other men, and there aren't any other men on earth but him! All the rest are just bugs or bats or something worse. And I'm not anything myself. There's no excuse for my living, and I wish I wasn't so healthy and likely to go on doing it. It was all over, and there was nothing left for me to live for, and before I could stop myself I turned my face in my hands. "Billy asked me to go with him on this awful white hunt!" I sobbed out to comfort myself with the thought that somebody did care for me, regardless of just how I was further embarrassing and complimenting myself in the affairs of the two men I had thought I owned and was now finding out that I had to give up. I wish I had been looking at him, for I felt him start, but he said in his big friendly voice that is so much and never enough for me. "Well, why not you and Al come along and make it a family party. If that is what suits Bill, the boss?" If men would just buy good, sharp kitchen knives and cut out women's hearts in a businesslike way it would be so much kinder of them. Why do they prefer to use dull weapons that mash the life out slowly? Everything is at an end for me tonight, and that blow did it. It was a horrible crushing thing for him to say to me! I know now that I have been in love with John Moore for longer than my honor lets me admit and that I'll never love anybody else, and that also I have offered myself to him served up in every known enticement and have to be refused at least twice a day for a year. A widow can't say she didn't understand what she was doing, even to her self, but my humiliation is complete, and the only thing that can make me ever hold up my head is to puzzle him by—by happily marrying Alfred Bennett—and quick!

Of course he must suspect how I feel about him, for two people couldn't both be so ignorant as not to see such an enormous thing as my love for him, is, and I was the blind one. But he must never, never know that I ever realized it, for he is so good that it would distress him. I must go on in my foolish way with him until I can get away. I'll tell him I'm sorry I was so indignant tonight and say that I think it will be fine for him to take my Billy away from me with him. I must smile at the idea of having my very soul imputed, insist that it is the only thing to do and pack up the little soul in a steamer trunk with the smile. Just smile, that is all. Life demands smiles from a woman, even if she must crush their perfume from her own heart, and she generally has them ready.

Oh, Molly, Molly! Is it for this you came into the world—twice to give yourself without love? What difference does it make that your arms are strong and white if they can't clasp him to the softness and fragrance of your breast? Why are your eyes blue pools of love if they are not for his questioning, and what are your rose lips for if they quench not his thirst?

Yes, I know God is very tender with a woman, and I think he understands, so if she crept very close to him and caught at his sleeve to steady herself he would be kind to her until she could go on along her own steep way. Please, God, never let him find out, for it would hurt him to have hurt me!

Some days are like the miracle flowers that open in the garden from plants you didn't expect to bloom at all. I might have been born, lived and died without having this one come into my life, and now that I have had it, I don't know how to write it except in the crimson of blood, the blue of flame, the gold of glory, and a tinge of light green would well express the part I have played. But it is all over at last and—

Ruth Chester was the unfolding of the first hour petal, and I got a glimpse of a heart of gold that I feel dumb with worship to think of. She's God's own good woman, and he made her in one of his holy hours. I wish I could have borne her, so she me, and the tenderness of her arms was a sacrament. We two women just stood side-by-side with life's artifices and concealments and let our own hearts do the talking.

She said she had come because she felt that if she talked with me I might be better able to understand Alfred when he came and that she had seen that the judge was very determined, and she thoroughly recognized his force of character. We stopped there while I gave her the document to read. I suppose it was dishonorable, but I needed her protection from it. I'm glad she had the strength of mind to walk with a head high in the air to Judy's range and burn it up. Anything might have happened if she hadn't. And even now I feel that only my marriage vows will close up the case for the judge, even yet he may—But when Ruth had got done with Alfred she had wiped Judge Wade's appreciation of him completely off my mind and destroyed it in tender words that burned us both worse than Judy's fire burned the letter. She did me an awfully good service.

"And so you see, you lovely woman you, do you not, that God has made you for him as a tribute to his great newness and it is given to you to fulfill a destiny?" She was so beautiful as she said it that I had to turn my eyes away, but I felt as I did when those awful "let not man put asunder"—from Mr. Carter—words were spoken over me by Mr. Raines, the Methodist minister. It made me wild, and before I knew it I had poured out the whole truth to her in a perfect cataract of words. The truth always acts on women as some hitherto untried drug, and you can never tell what the reaction is going to be. In this case I was stricken dumb and found it hard to see.

"Oh, dear heart," she exclaimed as she reached out and drew me into her lovely, gracious arms, "then the privilege is all the more wonderful for you, as you make some sacrifice to complete his life. Having suffered this, you will be all the greater woman to understand him. I accept my own sorrow at his hands willingly, as it gives me the larger sympathy for his work."

though he will no longer need my personal encouragement as he has for years. In the light of his love this lesser feeling for Dr. Moore will soon pass away, and the accord between you will be complete." This was more than I could stand, and, feeling less than a worm, I turned my face into her breast and wailed. Now, who would have thought that girl could dance as she did?

By this time I was in such a solution of grief that I would soon have had to be sopped up with a sponge if Pet hadn't run in bubbling over with a lovely white linen clad glass of Rhine wine and seltzer. Happiness has a habit of not even acknowledging the presence of grief, and Pet didn't seem to see our red noses, crushed draperies and generally damp atmosphere.

"Molly," she said with a deliciously young giggle, "Tom says for you to send him $10 to spend getting the brass band half drunk before 6 o'clock train, on which your Mr. Bennett comes. He has spent $5 paying the negroes to polish up their instruments and clean up the uniforms, and it cost him twenty-five to bail the cornetist out of jail for roost robbing, and it takes a whole gallon of whiskey to get any spirit into the drummer. He says tell you that as this is your shindig you ought at least to pay the piper. Hurry up, he's waiting for me, and here's the kiss he told me to put on our left ear!"

"I suppose you delivered that kiss straight from where he gave it to you, Petrie, dear?" I had the spirit to say as I went over to the desk for my pocket-book.

"Why, Molly, you know me better than that!" she exclaimed from behind a perfect rose cloud of blushes.

"I know Tom better than I do you," I answered as she fled with the ten in her hand. I looked at Ruth Chester, and we both laughed. It is true that a broader sympathy is one of the by-products of sorrow, and a week ago I might have resented Pet to a marked degree instead of giving her the $10 and a blessing.

"I'm going quick, Molly, with that laugh between us," Ruth said as she rose and took me into her arms again for just half a second, and before I could stop her she was gone.

She met Billy totting up the front step with a long piece of rusty iron gaspipe, which took off an inch of paint as it bumped against the edge of the porch. He bent down and kissed the back of his neck, which theft was almost more than I could stand and apparently more than Billy was prepared to accept.

"Go away, girl," he said in his rudest manner. "Don't you see I'm busy?"

I met him in the front hall just in time to prevent a hopeless scur on my hardwood floor. He was hot, perspiring and panting, but full of triumph.

"I found it, Molly, I found it!" he exclaimed as he let the heavy pipe drop almost on the bare pink toes. "You can get a hammer and pound the end sharp and bend it so no whole we ketch can get away for nothing. You and Doc put it in your trunk 'cause it's too long for mine, and I can carry Doc's shirts and things in mine. Git the hammer quick and I'll help you fix it!" The pain in my breast was almost more than I could bear.

"Lover," I said as I knelt down by him in the dim old hall and put my arms around him as if to shield him from some blow I couldn't help being aimed at him. "You wouldn't mind much would you, if just this time your Molly couldn't go with you? Your father is going to take good care of you and—maybe bring you back to me some day."

"Why, Molly," he said, flaring his astonished blue eyes at me, "faint me to be took care of? I ain't a-going to leave you here, for maybe a bear to come out of a crevas and out you up, with me and Doc gone. 'Sides, Doc ain't no good and maybe wouldn't help me hold the rope tight to keep the whole from getting away. He don't know how to do like I tell him like you do."

"Try him, lover, and maybe he will—will learn to— I couldn't help the tears that came to stop my words.

"Now, you see, Molly, how you'd cry with that kiss spot gone," he said, with an amused, manly, little tenderness in his voice that I had never heard before, and he cuddled his lips against mine in almost the only voluntary kiss he had given me since I had got him into his ridiculous little trousers under his blouses. "You can have most a hundred kisses every night if you don't say no more about not a-going and fix that whole hook for me quick." He coaxed against my cheek.

Oh, little lover, little lover, you didn't know what you were saying with your baby wisdom and your rust griny little paddle burned the sleep place on my breast like a terrible white heat from which I was powerless to defend myself. You are mine, you are, you are! You are soul of my soul and heart of my heart and spirit of my spirit and—and you ought to have been flesh of my flesh.

I don't know how I managed to answer Mrs. Johnson's call from my front gate, but I sometimes think that women have a torture proof clause in their constitutions.

She and Aunt Bettie had just come up the street from Aunt Bettie's house, and the Pollard cook was following them with a large basket in which were packed the things Aunt Bettie was contributing to the entertainment of the distinguished citizen. Mr. Johnson is Alfred's nearest kinsman in Hillsboro, and, of course, he is to be their guest while he is in town.

"He'll be feeding his eyes on Molly, so he'll not even know he's eating my Washington almond pudding with 'Thomas' old port in it," teased Aunt Bettie, with a laugh, as I went across the street with them.

"There's going to be a regular epidemic of love in Hillsboro, I do believe," she continued in her usual strain of sentimental speculation. "I saw Mr. Graves talking to Della Hawes in front of the store an hour ago as I came out from looking at the blue chintz to match Pet for the west wing, and they were both so absorbed they didn't even see me. That was what might have been called a conflagration dinner you gave the other night, Molly, in more ways than one. I wish a spark had set off Benton Wade and Henrietta too. Maybe it did, but it's just taking fire slowly."

I think it would be a good thing just to let Aunt Bettie blindfold every unmarried person in this town and marry them to the first person they touch hands with. It would be fun for her and then we could have peace and apparently as much happiness as we are going to have anyway. Mrs. Johnson seemed to be in somewhat the same state of mind as I found myself.

"Humph," she said as we went up the front steps, "I'll be glad when you are married and settled, Molly Carter, so the rest of this town can quiet down into peace once more, and I sincerely hope every woman under fifty in Hillsboro who is already married will stay in that state until she reaches that age. But I do believe if the law marched widows from grave number one to altar number two they would get into trouble and fuss along the road. But come on in, both of you, and help me get this marriage feast ready, if I must! The day is going by on greased wheels, and I can't let Mr. Johnson's crotchets be neglected. Al Bennett or no Al Bennett!"

And from then on for hours and hours I was strapped to a torture wheel that turned and turned, minute after minute, as it ground spice and sugar and bridal ments and me relentlessly into a great suffering pulp. Could I ever in all my life have hungered for food and been able to get it past the lump in my throat that grew larger with the seconds? And if Alfred's pudding tasted of the salt of dead sea fruit this evening it was from my surreptitious tears that dripped into it.

It was late, very late, before Mrs. Johnson realized it and shooed me home to get ready to go to the train along with the brass band and all the other wellcomers.

I hurried all I could, but for long minutes I stood in front of my mirror and questioned myself. Could this slow, pale, dead eyed, slim, drooping girl be the rollicking child of a Molly who had looked out of that mirror at me one short week ago? Where were the wings on her heels, the glint in her curls, the laugh on her mouth and the devil in her eyes?

Official Paper of Town of Carlsbad.

OFFICIAL PAPER EDDY COUNTY

THE TAX QUESTION.

The tax question in this state is the most vital question before the people and is the cause of a great deal of discussion. We do not hear so much of it in our own county, but practically every paper that comes to our exchange table has something to say on the subject. The state law is the first cause of dissatisfaction, and is really a hindrance to honest and efficient county and state officials, in imposing just and equal taxation.

The county commissioners of Union county have solved the problem in a much more satisfactory and just manner than has been done in any other county in the state. They devoted much time and study to a proper equalization. They secured an abstract of all deeded lands in the county and assessed the land to the real owners. They investigated the stock holdings all individuals and companies, and then made it the duty of such individuals and companies to show whether they were erroneously assessed. Very few stock men know exactly how many head of stock they have, but it is preposterous to suppose they will miss it by a thousand head, although such mistakes have been made. Every man should know to the acre how much land he has and what it is worth, but in some cases they have missed it by sections. Our board of commissioners have about corrected this condition and the rate of taxation in this county is rapidly decreasing as a result. Of course as before stated the law is greatly at fault but if every county in the state had as efficient a board of commissioners and tax assessors as Union county the question would not be causing so much dissatisfaction.—Clayton News.

As will be noticed by the amended ordinance published in this issue the saloon matter for Carlsbad has taken another turn. This was brought about by an offer from Y. R. Allen to pay $1,000 license so the board concluded that it would be questionable whether or not the license could be renewed unless the license was reduced, so in order to do the best for the town it was decided to amend ordinance 109 and obtain at least $3,200 per annum instead of $1,000, the original license fee determined upon. Both Barfield and Allen have demonstrated sufficient to insure the board that they will comply with the requirement to pay the entire license for one year before opening which will be after the publication of the ordinance according to law which will be the evening of Oct. 10, that being the date of the last publication of the ordinance. Allen has leased the Osborne block, recently vacated by Mrs. Rarey and Barfield has secured the old Office Bar location. The chances are, that with the restrictions of the ordinance these places will be run in a quiet and inoffensive manner, both the proprietors being experienced saloon men and very strong prohibitionists so far as they are personally concerned, neither being addicted to drinking to excess and in the case of Allen, his tetotalism is well known.

A visitor to Roswell from the southern part of the county, in discussing the defeat of the county high school plan, said that the voters down there were not so much against the school as they were against the "old gang," and they had conceived the "old gang" to be behind this plan. In addition, they were opposed to anything that would increase taxes.—Roswell Record.

Rather strange, is it not, that the same people voted to build a $150,000 court house and never were known to turn down a proposition to increase taxes. The facts are other towns should have been given high schools as well as Roswell, then, as in Eddy County, all would be pleased.

There seems to be a plan on foot to select Huerta's smart man for president of Mexico. Gamboa is the chap who did the talking for Huerta and put both Bryan and Wilson to guessing what to do next. He did his part so well that the Mexicans are about to get together and make him president. The Church party and so called liberals seem ready to unite at least but it would be almost a miracle if peace would come out of all the plans.

A cold drizzling rain set in yesterday about noon though Thursday night a light sprinkle fell. From present indications frost can not hold off long.

OUR NEW STORY.

The following letter speaks for itself:

Mr. Publisher:—"A Person of Some Importance," our new serial by Lloyd Osbourne, is exactly the sort of story that makes the best newspaper serial. The plot forms an interesting compelling mystery woven about "A Person of Some Importance", unfolding from a slight basis of historical fact the adventures of an American man and American girl with the secret of a European Sovereign.

The mantle of Robert Louis Stevenson has fallen upon his literary pupil and step son Lloyd Osbourne, who tells in this stirring story of the South Seas, a tale of adventure, romance and mystery that interests and puzzles the reader until unfolded in the final chapter.

Advertise it as it deserves and you will be pleased with the result. Exclusive franchise given in your town. Very truly yours,

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.
This thrilling story will be published in the Current commencing October 10th. Watch for it.

MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH.

Among book plays "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" which comes to the Peoples Theatre Friday, Oct. 3rd seems to have the most superabundant vitality. From the first dramatization of Mrs. Rice's two popular stories "Mrs. Wiggs" and "Lovely Mary," met with with a degree of public favor more enthusiastic than that awarded the best selling novels of low life in mean streets. In Mrs. Wiggs, herself, Mrs. Hazy, Lovey Mary and Mr. Stubbs, the play presents four salient types, each one of which remains firmly fixed in the most pleasant recollections of the play goer.

Strong as the roles, the play has been even more richly cast. There are twenty character parts, and Cuby, the "fit horse", is prominent though a little broken in the wind. "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" comes to this city from a triumphant tour on which it was hailed as the American genre play par excellence. Mrs. Flexner the dramatist, has added some new comedy which has improved with travel since its original excellence.

The play will be presented here under the management of the United Play Co. Seats will go on sale at Star Pharmacy, Oct. 1.

On account of the fact that the Reeves, Hill and Company cannot get enough property listed to match deals in other parts of the United States and are therefore compelled to go to other portions of the Valley to get property to exchange, the company is anxious that it become generally known that there is nothing too large or too small to list. Parties having property of any kind to dispose of should see the Reeves, Hill and Co. at once. Adv.

According to the grand jury report, by reading between the lines, one finds that the grand jury had no small job to keep from indicting many innocent parties. There seems to be a few of the "I art holier than thou" class in every community, who believe it is their duty to rush before the grand jury and swear to imaginary evidence to "indict" their neighbor. We view this class as we do the school day "tattle-tale." Mary an innocent man is indicted and we believe a few were by this grand jury, therefore give no publicity to the indictments—believing every man innocent until he is convicted.—Knowles News.

She Wooed Him

By F. A. MITCHEL

IN the Ukraine, Russia, the woman does all the courting. When she falls in love with a man she goes to his house and informs him of the state of her feelings. If he reciprocates, all is well and the formal marriage is duly arranged. If, however, he is unwilling, she remains there, hoping to coax him to a better mind. The poor fellow can not treat her with the least discourtesy, nor has he the consolation of being able to turn her out, as her friends in such a case would feel bound to avenge the insult. His remedy, therefore, if determined not to marry her, is to leave his home and stay away as long as she is in it.

One day Peter Komienoff, a bachelor, living in the Ukraine with his mother, while doing some work about his little place, heard a light step, looked up, and there before him stood Anna Avienoff, blushing and with her eyes cast down to the ground.

"What brings you to our cottage, Anna Avienoff?" asked Peter, knowing very well what brought her there.

"I have come, Peter, to make you a proposition."

"I am busy today, Anna, and have no time to listen to your proposition."

"I will wait until you are at leisure," she went into the house, and, being met by Peter's mother, the old woman asked her what she wanted.

"To help you with your work. You are not so strong as you were formerly and need assistance."

"On the contrary I am in better health than for many years. I don't need any one to help me."

Anna did not appear to mind a rebuff from the woman, though when Peter had shown that he was disposed to get rid of her she shivered a little. She began to sweep. The old woman knowing the customs of the country and understanding that the girl had come to marry her son and that she must not be treated with discourtesy, permitted her to sweep on, while she herself attended to some baking for supper.

At supper time Peter came in. He spoke to Anna and at the table was careful to serve her from every dish. After supper he went to his room, where he spent some time, and when he came out he carried a leather bag.

"I am sorry, Anna, to have to leave you, but I must go away for awhile. My mother will be glad to have you with her during my absence. Goodbye, mother. Be good to Anna."

Anna colored but made no comment on this action, which she knew was intended to get rid of her. Peter put out his hand, saying goodbye; but, pretending she did not see it, she turned and went into another room. Then Peter went away.

The customs of Ukraine may be different from other places, but the female constitution is the same everywhere. Anna Avienoff did not relish the rejection of her suit, but she made no complaint. She had one strong point in her favor in having possession of the premises, and possession is said to be nine points of the law. She stayed right where she was, and the next morning when Peter's mother arose to do her chores and get the breakfast she found them all done and the breakfast ready.

The old woman was wroth with the girl for usurping her work, but dared not tell her so, fearing that Anna's brothers would hold Peter accountable. Anna did most of the work during that day, and the old woman, having little to do, sat by the fireplace and dozed. This continued every day for a month. Peter's mother gradually making into an easy life.

On the morning of the thirty-first day after Peter's departure his mother awoke and did not hear the sound of preparation to which she had grown accustomed. Neither did Anna come into her room with a basin of water for her, as usual. The house was perfectly still. The old woman got up and looked in the kitchen. No one was there. The fire had gone out. She went to Anna's room and looked in. Anna was not there.

There was nothing for it but to get her own breakfast and do the usual cleaning. Besides, it was wash day, and the laundering must be done. During the day she sent for Peter, and when he came home for supper he found his mother tired out.

The next morning Peter got up early and did the chores. He did not know how to cook, so he was obliged to let his mother cook the breakfast. During the day the old woman tried to do the work, but she had become used to dozing before the fire. Besides, she missed the hum of the little working bee. The house was permitted to get dirty, and things that the old woman had before kept in repair were wearing out. Peter found that his mother so disliked to get up in the early morning that he learned to cook the breakfast himself. But he did not like doing so and liked the breakfasts he cooked still less.

One morning, when should come up the week end Anna Peter radiantly happy, went to meet her. Leading her in, his old mother put her arms around the girl's neck.

And then and there a marriage was arranged to take place soon, but not too soon for Peter.

Fine Dairy Cow Bought at Artesia.

Artesia, N. M., Sept. 20.—William Traylor returned Tuesday from Topeka, Kansas, with twenty-two fine dairy cows which he purchased in Kansas for H. L. Larsh. Three of these are full bred Holsteins, worth from $150 to $175 each. The others range high in price and grade. A good bull is with the lot. Yesterday morning Mr. Larsh had an addition to his herd, a fine heifer calf.

Mr. Larsh will go into the dairy business in a scientific manner, weighing rations to the cows and keeping account of what each cow produces. He had several chances to sell the new calf yesterday and today, but refused to part with it, saying that a man going into the dairy business should raise his own calves.

Eighteen Sacks.

A few weeks ago one of the big catalogue houses remembered Melrose people with the annual supply of catalogues and instead of six sacks partly filled, Melrose received in those two days TWENTY-FOUR sacks, well filled. That particular house employs seven thousand people and its daily postage expense averages $7,000.

And yet we know men who think they can compete with that concern and not advertise—antiquated individuals who tell the newspaperman: "The people know I am here and where to find me."

It is well known that catalogue houses do the best in towns where the merchants think that and do not advertise.

Among the many assets of the Pecos Valley, may be mentioned the new one recently brought in by D. Jackson, the Wells-Fargo express agent at Carlsbad. It seems that at a number of places adjacent to this city, water cress is growing in abundance. Mr. Jackson has had several trial shipments made to hotels along the line, and when the returns come in, a new industry may have been discovered for the Valley.

To Drill for Oil.

A big standard oil rig will soon be at work in the oil field east of Carlsbad. The rig has been purchased and will be in place as soon as it can be moved. The Carlsbad Oil and Gas company, a New Mexico organization, headed by W. H. Andrews, evidently mean business as they have gone to work without any great noise beforehand. A well for water has already been completed and good water found. Mr. Wooten, in charge of the work located this well and the driller found the formation as Mr. Wooten expected. Many wells have been sunk in this locality, some of them several hundred feet deep, without striking water, and Mr. Wooten's ability to locate water from his knowledge of the geology of the district has impressed every one.

W. H. Andrews is expected back from the east where he has been for some weeks. As soon as he arrives the actual work in drilling for oil will begin. They are prepared to sink a deep well.

When the bowels feel uncomfortable and you miss the exhilarating feeling that always follows a copious morning operation a dose of HERBINE will set you right in a couple of hours. If taken at bedtime you get its beneficial effect after breakfast next day. Price 50c. Sold by All Druggists.

FOES OF THE ROSEBUD.

Get After the Fly and the Slug if You Want to Save Your Flowers.

To destroy the green fly, colonies of which congregates on the young growth of the rosebush and suck the juices of the plant, and other insect pests, we spray the bushes with tobacco dust after wetting them so the dust will adhere. We have also found fresh white hellebore dusted on the bushes

a very good remedy. A sifter can be made by punching the cover of a baking powder can full of small holes and using the can in the same manner as a salt or pepper shaker.

The rose slug, a light green worm that eats the leaves, may be controlled by applying white oil soap one half pound dissolved in four gallons of water. The rose bug, a hard shell beetle that eats the leaves and blows soms and greatly damages the roses, is best controlled by hand picking or knocking off on a sheet in the early morning. Rosebushes can be kept quite free of insects, however, by liberally and frequently sprinkling with tobacco dust.—Rural Life

Keep the Calves "Coming."

The calves must be kept "coming," whether they suck the cows or are hand fed. Skim milk calves grow strong and thrifty if given a chance.

Their milk has to be clean and enough of it. With it they need something to take the place of the cream that is gone. Corn is a good substitute. Oats help also. Ground flaxseed in the milk is fine, but it costs too much these days. For cheapness and results corn and oats crushed together or just plain corn coarsely ground and fed dry are hard to beat.—Down Homestead.

Hand or Power Spraying?

Hand spraying is more expensive than power spraying. The cost varies much in different cases, depending on the efficiency of labor, convenience and other essentials, and much depends on the apparatus used. The pump should have capacity to maintain high pressure, and the nozzle must throw a fine spray. The requirements are the same for every kind of spraying.—Farm Progress.

Epworth League Notes.

Last Sunday brought forth another fine meeting and things are certainly beginning to look bright for this society.

The "Installation service" following the devotional meeting was a very interesting service, as the new League officers stood before the congregation and made their vows for this coming year. Next Sunday evening Miss Williams will lead, so, a good service is assured. Miss Mudgett did nicely last week; maybe she will lead again soon. The voluntary collection idea, we believe, will be a success.

Watch for announcement of social for next month.

M. E. Chorus Choir.

The choir is one busy organization now preparing for the "Praise Service" one week from Sunday evening. Come out and hear a good program at that time.

The "Director" is not able at the present writing to announce the special for next Sunday morning, but we hope to have one.

The lunch consisted of ham-burger, pickles, bread, cheese of all kinds and plenty of Budweiser and Schlitz, (whatever that is). After lunch talks were made by the hosts and their guests and a highly congenial understanding of future relations between the proprietors and their faithful employees was discussed for if there is one thing more necessary than another to any business it is harmony and sympathy between the owners and their help.

Jars of fruit to the number of thirty were sent to the home on the corner of Fox and Halagueno streets, placed in the pantry and left there with a note. They were not discovered until the morning after Mrs. Butler's arrival. Needless to say this evidence of the ladies' thoughtfulness was highly appreciated.

SO SAYS EX-PRISON COMMISSIONER
BLN E. CABELL

FILES HARLEM HORROR REPORT

Also Calls the Attention of the Governor to Section 8 of the Rules and Regulations Which Govern the Prison System—Document Deals With the Tragedy of the Dark Cell

"I feel that if all instructions given to managers and physicians had been carried out there would have been no convicts smothered to death in the dark cell, a most unfortunate affair, and one always to be remembered in prison history."

This is an extract from a report just filed by Ben E. Cabell, former chairman of the prison commission, with Governor Colquhoun.

Continuing, Mr. Cabell says: "As I am not a person commissioner now and at that time was only waiting for my successor to assume the duties of the office, I shall refrain from making any recommendations to the commission, only leaving them a copy of this report, together with a copy of the full proceedings of the investigation."

Mr. Cabell also calls the attention of the governor to section 8 of rules and regulations which govern the prison system. "At outside camps managers alone are authorized to inflict punishment, and this authority shall not be delegated to a guard or anyone else."

This report, which is quite exhaustive, deals with the dark cell tragedy, which resulted in smothering out the lives of eight negro convicts on the Harlan farm, most of the details of which already have been given publicly.

Mr. Cabell also attaches as a part of the report, copies of rules governing punishment of convicts by confinement in the dark cell, also copies of letters directed to all wardens, managers and sergeants, all of letters directed to all prison and camp physicians and surgeons, "that you may see the efforts made by the prison commission to prevent an occurrence such as the death of these eight convicts."

Twenty Injured in Wreck

Twenty passengers were injured when a train on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway was derailed on a curve one mile west of Manhattan, Kan. Eight coaches left the rails and one, a combined steel baggage and smoking car, rolled down a twenty-foot embankment and turned over three times, landing upside down. The smoking compartment was full of passengers, most of whom were injured, one seriously. The smoking division was inundated and the passengers saturated by a flood of steam from a locomotive in the baggage section.

Doomed Men Try to Escape

Realizing, possibly, that their walk to the gallows is only a few months off, Ed Long and Ed Christian, negroes, under death penalty for the murder of Special Officer Henry Bennett of the Texas and Pacific railway at Dallas, were prevented from breaking jail by two deputy sheriffs. Two knives they were using to saw from their cell were found. They were table knives and had been converted into saws and excellent ones for the purpose.

Without Jurisdiction

The Texas attorney general's department held that a sheriff had no suppression or authority over convicts when a county is in order of the commission. In the order of the commission, the sheriff is to keep the convicts in the county jail. The order also states that the sheriff is to keep the convicts in the county jail.

COUNTY OFFICIALS ARE INDICTED.

Grand Jury Returns Presentments
Against Torrance County Men.

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 22.—Torrance county grand jury has returned presentments against Lorenzo Zamora, Juan Cruz Sanchez and Librado Valencia, county commissioners, and Acasio Gallegos, county clerk, asking their removal on the grounds of incompetency. The officials have been given until September 27 to file answers. The cases will probably be tried at a special session in November.

Gallegos has been in office a year, having succeeded Manuel S. Sanchez, who was relieved a year ago by the same procedure. Howell Earnest, traveling auditor, recently made an examination of the books of the county and these proceedings are said to be based on his report.

Will Test Case.

W. J. Andrus of Aragon, through his attorneys, is going to make a test case out of the prohibition imposed by the Santa Fe on Nos. 3 and 4, the limited trains. He so states in a letter to the state corporation commission. According to his story, he was in Chicago and wanted to go to Albuquerque. The agent would not sell him a ticket. He then bought a ticket to Williams, Ariz., and got off at Albuquerque. When he left the train he demanded the unused portion of his ticket, which was refused him. However he had the Pullman conductors check for his ticket, and using that he made a claim to the railroad for a refund for the additional distance between Albuquerque and Williams. This was refused him. Since then he has engaged an Albuquerque firm of lawyers, and says he is going to test the case. His contention is that the railroad cannot retain the full fare from Chicago to Williams for a ride from Chicago to Albuquerque, for the ticket he purchased at Chicago was bought under protest, the railroad knowing that he was going only to Albuquerque.—New Mexican.

Stone the Women.

The head of Detroit's police force in a spurt of zeal, has fixed October 15 as the date when the 2,000 women of Detroit's underworld are to be put out of business. Asked what these outcast victims of men's lusts are to do, his sole reply is: "My duty ends when the resorts of vice are closed."

Technically, that may be true. But you can take it from us that the duty of society doesn't end there—not by a good deal.

By its long intolerance the city of Detroit is partner in guilt for this vicious situation; and the chances are it will find it can't get out of its responsibility by the mere fiat of a police official.

The churches, which have invited the applauded abrupt closure, won't be blameless either, unless, having remembered the teachings of the Master, they are ready to shelter all penitents, minister to the bruised and diseased and help them to "go and sin no more." We will observe with great interest what the churches of Detroit do on and after October 15.

The vile business in which these poor women are engaged ought of course, to be stopped. But stopping it isn't the simple thing of clapping on a police injunction. We venture the opinion that it can't be stopped until the causes beneath are stopped also. Is Detroit or any other American city really ready, in good faith, to try to reach the bottom?

We have heard of no proposals in Detroit to put the law with equal firmness on the males who made it profitable for these women to sin.

The record is silent about any concerted movement to require the payment of wages in honest industry high enough to permit men and women to live comfortably in marriage, free from the pressure of illicit competition.

The plan apparently is the ancient cruel and futile one of "stone the woman, but let the man go free."

It has never worked. And, what's more, it oughtn't ever to work; for it is pagan, brutal and unjust.—New Mexican.

An Early Fall.

This portion of New Mexico is experiencing an early fall this year. The first frost occurred on the 12th of this month, several days earlier than in the average year. It is a surprise to many that frost came so early, when it was considered that we had one of the warmest summers in the history of this country and it was presumed fall weather would commence later. Some say we are going to have a severe winter, while others say it is to be an open mild winter, but anyway it is always safer to prepare for a hard winter.—Springer Stockman.

Still After Elk Herd.

The state game warden's office yesterday wrote another letter to Congressman Ferguson reminding him of a letter written in April, applying for 50 elk from the herd of thousands which annually almost starve to death around Jackson's Hole, Wyoming. The government had promised state game departments small herds of these elk in transportation were paid to get them to their new home. For the New Mexico herd, freight would only have to be paid from Wyoming until the Santa Fe lines are reached after which they would be carried free. The shipment is expected before the worst of the winter sets in, because the government annually spends thousands of dollars keeping these animals from starving to death, after the snow gets on the ground.—New Mexican.

Apply for Fish.

A total of twelve applications have been sent out by the game warden's office in response to inquiries, for a supply of fish from the government's hatchery for New Mexico streams. These fish will come from the government fish hatchery at Leadville, and application for them must be made through the congressman. Although the time has about arrived when the fish crop starts on its rounds, nothing has been heard from it yet although it is expected within the next few weeks.—New Mexican.

The water has again been successfully pumped off in the East well, after putting in the perforating casing, and it is believed that the work has increased the output of oil from the well. The pump has not been run long enough, however, to tell just what the difference will be.

More oil has been struck in the Martin well and oil and gas both are now showing up very strong in this well. The oil sand is said to be showing up good and it is thought that in another day or two the first oil bearing formation will be well developed.

The Feemster rig, drilling for the Pecos Valley Oil and Gas company on the Terry land, has brought in a good flow of artesian water. Some indications of oil are also showing up. The drill, however, lacks about 100 feet of being to the depth at which paying oil is expected.—Dayton Informer.

ANOTHER NEW MEXICO INDUSTRY.

A Native Wild Grass, and We Have Tons, Makes a Stronger Twine Than the Markets Afford.

Charles McCurry called our attention last week to a yellow grass which grows wild in just the condition for twisting. Ten fine fibers twisted into a twine we could not break.

Another chance is the cultivation and improvement of the yucca, or bear grass.

A still better one is the development of a winter-proof spineless cactus.

That will come. When it does it will be worth more to Melrose than alfalfa ever was to any section, for the cattle produce more and better feed than alfalfa and it does not need to be harvested till winter.—Melrose Index.

CIRCUS GIRL KILLED BY TRAIN

STATUARY ARTIST FALLS FROM CAR AND FATALLY INJURED.

Pauline Tate, a statuary artist with Ringling Bros.' circus, fell from a car platform on which she was standing at Greenville, Tex., and was run over by two cars. The train at the time of the accident was being switched in the Katy depot and Miss Tate was engaged in conversation with members of the circus when she fell off. She was dragged nearly seventy-five feet before the train was stopped. She was taken to a local hospital, and soon died, but was conscious for fifteen minutes after the accident and conversed with her attendants.

Her home was at Brazil, Ind. She was twenty years old and joined the circus three months ago at Indianapolis. Miss Tate achieved quite a reputation at Chicago as a statuary artist.

AUTO BANDITS MAKE HAUL.

MOTORING PARTY HELD UP ON ROAD AND MUCH CASH SECURED.

Motoring from Toledo, O., westward Herman C. G. Layties of St. Louis and a party of five, including two women, were held up by three men in an automobile six miles east of Bryan, O., and at the point of revolvers the bandits obtained $2,000 in cash, a gold purse carried by one of the women, several diamonds and other jewelry.

The bandits drove away in the two cars, leaving the Layties party in the road. They walked to a farmhouse, were driven to Bryan and aroused Sheriff Weinland of Williams county, who traced two automobiles to a farmhouse. As he approached, Weinland was shot in the left arm and another bullet inflicted a slight wound on his head. He grappled with one man and arrested him. The prisoner gave his name as R. W. Duff, age as twenty-six years and Toledo his place of residence. Two other men were taken from a passenger train at Wauson, Ohio.

SPITBALL NOT A MENACE.

CHICAGO PHYSICIAN SO SAYS IN REPLY TO A PROTEST.

The spitball is not unsanitary and does not injure the health of the user, Dr. George B. Young, health commissioner of Chicago, so stated in reply to Principal John Stuart White of a Chicago public school against the practice of some pitchers.

In his objections the schoolmaster asserted that the spitball not only is unsanitary, but its use is unedifying and "disgusting and pernicious example to thousands of boys." He asked the health commissioner to use his influence to abolish the spitball.

"I don't believe the spitting on the ball by the pitcher has any more effect upon the health of the player than spitting on the bat for 'back' when fishing has to do with the size of the catch," replied Dr. Young. "Unquestionably there is much to be said in your behalf when the question is to be viewed from the side of aesthetics."

TYING UP A FLEECE.

Directions For the Proper Care of the Wool Grower's Crop.

First, all the tag locks must be removed, whether they be dung or grease and dirt, writes W. C. Coffey of the Illinois station, describing the proper way to tie up a fleece; second, the fleece should be carefully rolled up by hand not in wool bales, with no ends or stray locks protruding and with the flesh side out; third, the fleece should be tied with a hard glazed twine, not larger than one-eighth inch in diameter. In tying the ends of the twine especial care should be taken to make a firm, hard knot that will not slip.

Tag locks are not so common that their presence in fleeces from farm flocks is the rule rather than an exception. The total effect of leaving them on fleeces is bad. It puts our wools in bad standing with wool houses and manufacturers. Long continued, it has led to the only logical result—namely, discrimination in price against our wools.

Careful rolling, with the flesh side out and no ends or stray locks showing, adds greatly to the appearance of the fleece. It also prevents mixing the wool from different fleeces, and, by the way, each fleece should be tied to itself. In the wool warehouse it is a pretty sight to see the tops of graded wool faced with a tier of carefully rolled and tied fleeces.

BLOWS UP HOME.

AS RESULT OF ACT INSANE PERSON AND HIS CHILD KILLED.

Mac Hurst, fifty years old, a stone mason, blew up his home at Bloomington, Ind., with dynamite, killing himself and Maudie, one of his daughters, seventeen years old, and badly injuring two other daughters—Fannie, thirteen, and Elizabeth, six—and also stunning his wife.

Hurst had been separated from his wife six weeks and she had refused to take him back. It is believed that he then, in a fit of insanity, determined to kill his wife and eight children.

The dead girl met the fate intended for her mother, and the fact that they had changed beds for the night cost the daughter her life.

Hurst, after stealthily planting a stick of dynamite under one of the three beds in the house, tied two sticks to his own body and crawled into the bed which he had formerly occupied with his wife, but which contained his three daughters.

Fannie heard her father getting into bed and spoke to him. "Lie still," he said. "We will all die together."

Before the girl could move the explosion rent the house and aroused the city. Police and firemen rushed to the scene, removed the bodies of the father and the dead daughter and the two injured girls were taken to a hospital.

Four sticks of dynamite, unexploded, were found in the ruins, and the fact that only one, and that one attached to Hurst's body, had exploded, accounts for the escape of the other members of the family.

Every pane of glass within a radius of a block was broken.

Hurst had not been working for several weeks and recently had been acting queerly.

ONE A CORPSE, THREE SHOT.

LIEUTENANT OF POLICE IS DEAD AND A TRIO MORE WOUNDED.

Lieutenant of Police O. M. Puig of Brownsville, Tex., is dead. Policeman Henry Hays was wounded in the left arm and right hand, Sheriff C. T. Ryan of Cameron county wounded in the left hand and Deputy Sheriff Joseph Longoria wounded in the right hand as the result of a shooting affray at Brownsville.

Puig was shot nine times, one bullet going through the neck, and there were eight wounds in the body. He lived two hours after being shot, remaining conscious until death, and made a dying statement.

It is said that not less than forty shots were fired within a space of half a minute.

What brought about the shooting was not stated right after it happened nor names of the other parties given, the statement being made the matter would come up in court.

Special Club Meeting Held.

Members of the Carlsbad Woman's Club are looking forward to a successful year's work. At the special meeting held at the club house Tuesday afternoon, plans were perfected looking toward representation of the club at the meeting of the Federated clubs of New Mexico, which convenes in Santa Fe, October 7th. Nearly one hundred delegates will be in attendance, and the meeting this year promises to eclipse all previous efforts along the same line.

The Carlsbad club elected Mrs. C. H. Shannon as delegate and Mrs. O. V. McCollum and Mrs. Wm. Albert as alternates. The capable ladies will do much to enhance the prestige the local club already enjoys in the Federation.

A department of Chautauqua study was added to the club work for this year and already a number of club members have signified their intention of taking up the work of this department. The course is open only to members who do the full club work assigned them. The meetings of this department will be held on alternate Tuesdays so as not to interfere with the regular club work. There will be no extra dues, but the books for the course must be purchased—they costing about five dollars. In some instances two ladies have purchased the books jointly, thus reducing the cost very materially. Meetings of the department will be held at the homes of the different members.

The first meeting of the Carlsbad club for the winter, is to be held at the club house, October 7th. This meeting will be in the nature of a reception and all members are urged to be present.

At the meeting Tuesday the following ladies were present: Mesdames Cunningham, Swickard, Bell, Moore, Snow, McLennath, T. E. Williams, Thorne and Miss Effie Hart.

Daisies Meet.

The Daisy club which met at the home of the Misses Heard last Tuesday afternoon, was favored with the presence of one of the charter members, Mrs. Eva H. Brown, now of Plano, Texas. The entire affair was pleasant, three tables of girls engaging in the club game of "42". A two-course luncheon was served and the souvenir was awarded to Miss Lucas. In this case it was a Carlsbad souvenir spoon and the young lady is right proud of her prize. Those enjoying the hospitality of the afternoon were: Mesdames Brown and Smith; Misses McKneeley, Bessie Johnson, Wyman, Harkey, Lucas, Groves, Linn, Nellie and Gladys Eaken, Buna and Mona Heard.

The Norman Crosby Library Association will hold its annual meeting for the election of officers, at the Library, Wednesday, October 1st, at two o'clock. Any person may become a member of the Association on the payment of $2.00. For years the active work of the Library has been done by three or four women, and is about time to help them a little. A number of new books have been ordered and various plans made looking to the betterment of the service. Persons not familiar with the work would be surprised to find how many books are taken out and also the number of authors represented. The Current hopes in the near future to give its readers a list of the most important books catalogued.

Ike Richards returned last week from El Paso where he visited friends for a week, being too much attached to Carlsbad to remain away longer.

Spring Culture of Wheat.

Harrowing wheat in the spring is a practice that is receiving considerable attention of late years. Where the ground is compacted hard from beating rains of early spring, followed by rath or dry weather, the harrowing of wheat with a drag harrow is good practice. So far experiments have shown at the Missouri station, however, the harrowing of wheat is not always sufficiently beneficial to pay for the work, although where one harrows in clover seed at the same time the practice is usually a paying one.

Where the wheat is badly "heaved" the use of a heavy roller in the early spring is a good practice. All depends, however, upon the extent of the "heaving."
